NOT IDENTIFIED WITH MANIFESTO

SECOND REJECTION

Admit They Are Not Blame less For Church's Impasse

London, Oct. 1.—Bishop Pollock of Norwich today declared he was not identified with the manifesto issued by the House of Bishops last Friday authorizing the use of the revised (1928) revision of the book of common prayer under certain circumstances. He has been a consistent opponent of the prayer book on the ground it was not wanted and has taken the position that the Church of England assembly which approved it was not representative of "full Anglican thought."

General comment on the Bishop's pronouncement as revealed in the lay press shows disappointment with the decision of House of Bishops which leaves to the power of the various churches decision as to whether they will use the latest revision or the old prayer book. There is, however, a home commendation for a frank admission by the bishops that they themselves are not entirely blameless for the impasse in which the church finds itself following the second rejection of a revised book by parliament.

OPERATIC STAGE NOW PROSPECT FOR LOCAL BOY

Jack Deacon Will Give Recital With Leslie Hodgson

When there are so many choice stories concerning artistic individuals, particularly among musicians, the attitude of the most famous of, candidates reason, Edward Johnson of the Metropolitan, comes like a refreshing breeze.

One typical act of his has only come to light. Some months ago he made his "first" in a very important engagement, Jo, Deacon, he decided that he had discovered the talent required for another famous Canadian tenor and without hesitation, informed him that this was the case, that he should go on with his studies as fast as he could and that he, Johnson, would be glad to assist him by bringing his voice to the attention of those who control the destines of concert stars.

Edward Johnston has been as good as his word, and, as a result, the engineer is turning to music. He leaves for New York this coming fall with the tangible hope of an engagement, the goal he hopes to reach after two years or so of further coaching.

John Deacon, who was born in Belleville and lived here till he went to Toronto to college, has, in addition to a naturally fine tenor voice, a magnetic personality and striking stage presence. He has been heard many times in Canada as he has sung only occasionally, but a few short auditions were sufficient to convince New York impresarios that a potential artist of first rank importance had just been discovered.

John Deacon, together with Leslie Hodgson, internationally known Canadian pianist, will give a joint recital in Albert College Memorial Hall, Friday, Oct. 5th, under thesupices of the Presto Musical Club.

PRESS ACCORDED CONSIDERATION

The Intelligencer takes this opportunity of thanking all those who assisted in the preparation of information during the past three months in order that baseball fans might be kept in direct touch with affairs of the local Club and the Central League. It is necessary at certain times to seek information from parties in close touch with the situation and this paper has been accorded the utmost consideration from officials in imparting this information. Naturally enough, Walter Gerow was besieged at times with queries but he always found ample time to provide the press with facts and figures which are of vital interest to the sport public.

"Bob" Scott And Harry Blakely Only Absentees At Banquet

The Rotary Club were hosts today to the Champion Belleville National baseball team, every member of the team with the exception of Harry Blakely and Bob Scott being present. And these two were absent due to the fact that they had left this morning for Queen's University and Toronto University respectively.

President Mac Robertson welcomed the team individually, and they were introduced to the whole club, each member of the team being presented by one of the Rotarians who acted as individual host. Rev. Dr. Bishop of Albert College spoke for a few minutes to the Club and expressed in a few well chosen words just what every citizen of Belleville thought of the team and its accomplishments.

There will be a Citizens' Meeting in the City Hall tonight at eight o'clock at which all those who are interested in making some kind of a presentation to the team are invited to attend, and it is expected that the hall will be packed. Tomorrow the Nationals will be guests of the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon, and Friday night at the luncheon of the T's Men's Club.

HONOR THE BOYS WHO HONORED US

"Fighting Nationals" Have Earned The Good-Will of Every Citizen

For the second time within nine years Belleville's Baseball team has defeated the best in the Province. On Saturday they conquered the Walkerville "Chicks", conceded the best amateur team to represent western Ontario in many years. The Border team were rated to be a collection of hand-picked stars, the very best that could be induced to don a Walkerville uniform. But Belleville had met and defeated such teams as the Hillcrests and Oilers and the vaunted "Chicks", despite the fact that they had won the first game were not feared. The locals had won for themselves the cognomen of the "Fighting Nationals" and rightly so.

It now remains for the people of Belleville to recognize in some tangible form the deeds of the team which has brought such honors to their native city. Practically all of the Nationals were born and educated here, "Homer-Reserve" as it is known, is one of the chief reasons why the high est honors should be bestowed upon them.

What form the recognition will take has not been announced but one fan has made the suggestion that they be given a trip to the world's series which starts this week. It is to be hoped that any fund started on their behalf will receive the support of every red-blooded fan.

N. S. ELECTORS CAST BALLOTS

Premier E. N. Rhodes Confident of Victory Over Liberals

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 1.—Following one of the shortest election campaigns in the history of the Province, the electors of Nova Scotia were casting their ballots today for the sixteenth legislature since Confederation and the thirty-seventh since the introduction of parliamentary government in Nova Scotia in 1758. Generally fine weather favored the polling. Both Premier E. N. Rhodes and Hon. William Chisholm, Liberal party leader, expressed confidence last night of the outcome. Eighty-eight candidates are contesting the nineteen constituencies and forty-three seats. In the last general election in 1925 the Conservative party was swept into power after the Liberal reign of forty-three years.

TOOK EXCEPTION TO THEIR PRANK

Young Japanese Student Resents Colleagues' Action

Minoru Akiyama, tithe Nipponese "frosh" at Victoria College, Toronto, sent the last year attending Albert College in this city, on Saturday last applied his powerful knowledge of the Japanese art of self defence to the very best of advantage when he humbled fifty second year men at the college in a free-for-all.

The fracas is alleged to have been precipitated by a good humored attempt on the part of the sophomores to have the Japanese freshman conform to the accepted custom of wearing a yellow tie, the badge of the first year men at the College. Akiyama's ignorance of the queer ways of occidental universities led him to refuse, grinning the corn-colored cravat underfoot. Saturday, at noon, on the way to the dining hall, the party of five "sophs" showed a commendable zeal, if very bad judgment, in attempting to put the tie on by force.

One of the leaders of the party is still confined to his room as the result of the Oriental science having been applied on him, but his injuries are not regarded as serious. Akiyama was one of the cleverest scholars at Albert College last year and is highly regarded by the faculty here.

PROBE FREIGHT TRAIN COLLISION

Engineer Morgan And Fireman Diamond Taken To Homes

Toronto, Oct. 1.—Inquiry has been instituted by the Canadian National Railways regarding the causes of a freight wreck at the "bottleneck" of the Danforth yards about 8.30 Saturday morning, in which 19-box cars were demolished and engine and tender and Fireman Diamond and Engineer T. Morgan, both of Belleville, received injuries necessitating their removal to a hospital. A westbound extra freight crashed into the rear of a through freight.

Injuries received by the engine crew of the extra way-freight were not serious. Engineer Morgan suffered bruises, shock and a slightly wrenched back, and Fireman Diamond a bruised arm, slight scalds and shock. That there were no further injuries is believed remarkable, as a yard engine was hooked to the rear of the through freight in order to push it clear of the wreck of the freight were within their caboose.

Mr. Lansbury appealed for unity in parties. He emphasized that in the democratic movement the majority must rule. The President declared the credit and money raised by investments in Soviet Russia could not easily be used to reorganize and reconstruct Britain's own natural resources. "There is little use in sending our best people, thousands of miles away to Russia, at the same time we leave our own splendid soil uncultivated," he said. Mr. Lansbury trowhed upon coalition with the Liberal prarty, saying any such attempt was foredoomed to failure.

All other parties were violently opposed to Labor's one aim, socialism, at the same time he turned his guns on the communists, pointing out that they had fought labor both politically and industrially.

It will be remembered that Mr. Sweezey sold out his half of the business to Mr. Dalnett a short time ago and went back to his first position as clerk in the United Cigar store here.

Mr. Gribble, who is a well-known and popular young man in Belleville entered the service of the Standard Bank in 1911, and from there he left, at the beginning of this week, he was assistant accountant of the Belleville branch.

MAYOR DUFF CALLS GENERAL MEETING AT COUNCIL CHAMBER

PLAYERS FETED

Will Present Members of Team With Tokens of Appreciation

To the accompaniment of "All Hail To Conquering Heroes Come," the Canadian National train steamed into the north depot shortly after midnight on Saturday and over three thousand frenzied fans wildly acclaimed the return home of the victorious ball team which has once again gained for Belleville, premiere honours in the sporting world and placed their name in the list of former ranks of the baseball realm for all time. No more enthusiastic reception ever greeted a triumphant team than that which was tendered to the Nationals on Saturday night. Long before the train was due, the platform was a swirling mass of jubilant fans bent on voicing their sincere appreciation of the efforts of the champions. In order to keep the crowd in good humor the Argyll band rendered a number of popular selections and when the head-light of the train bearing the team was first seen, the gathering surged toward the west end of the platform. Eager hands seized the big locomotive and Engineer Gerow were borne through the assembled citizens and the applause swelled into one grand crescendo when the trio came in full view of the dazzling crowd.

Fully three quarters of an hour elapsed before the mass of cars assumed some semblance of a procession. Lead by the band the parade proceed up to the business section, and thence to the market square where it was dispersed after a hearty hand shake from Mayor Duff. It was the greatest ovation that any local group had received for many years and the performance was only eclipsed by the tremendous Armistice Day Celebration. Messages of congratulation contined to pour in to Walter Gerow today from every corner of the Province including Belleville, the formal handing of the Nationals'triumph conveyed their greetings.

"Proud of Belleville"

Mayor Morley Duff has called a public meeting tonight in the City Hall at eight o'clock to organize a Committee to work on the project of tendering a suitable presentation to the champions. "Charlie" Hanna the livewire booster has suggested a banquet at the Quinte Hotel, which in all probabilities might attend. Mayor Duff has requested that all Clubs, organizations, Boards of Trade, etc., communicate by this gathering tonight. Committees will be appointed and it is urged that as many as possible attend the meeting. Several suggestions have been offered as to a suitable token of appreciation and one is, that the Nationals be sent to the world's series. This will be fated by the Rotary Club today, by the Kiwanis tomorrow and by the Y's Men's Club on Friday. The cost of the trip for each member on Saturday night is ample testimony to the fact that the efforts of the team are appreciated in the fullest degree.

Mayor M. P. Duff wired the following message at the conclusion of the game on Saturday, "Walter Gerow, Manager, Belleville's Baseball team. Have them return immediately." From Toronto was received, "Delete fans and congratulations to "Hook" Gibson, Walter and all the boys." From Chas. Hanna, "Congratulations, when can we meet the train?

Mayor Duff was in receipt of a message from Mayor Hocken of Guelph; "Hearty Congratulations," Beverly Robson, "Large attendance at tonight's meeting in the City Hall is anticipated.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

O sleep! It is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole.

COLERIDGE.

GET A NEW NAME

J. A. Ellis, director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs, has made a report suggesting that Windsor, Ford City, Walkerville, Sandwich and Riverside be incorporated as one city and that a new name be selected for the place.

The report seems to be reasonable. The five places, for the most part, all run together so far as geography is concerned, and they must be interested in much the same things in a municipal way. The present arrangement is confusing.

That new community needs a name too. The start was made by the Star, which grew out of the old Windsor Record, calling itself the Border Cities Star; a suggestive titular move, but one which is not good enough. Border Cities is not a very good name because it is so indefinite; it might be used to refer to any one of a dozen places along the frontier on either side of the line.

As the Border Cities Star has done so much to put the place on the map, and is so outstanding an example of a good daily newspaper they might very well call the new place "Starville."

JOHN R. ROBINSON

John R. Robinson was an original and his like is not to be looked for in Ontario again. As a printer's devil in Guelph he began a career which has been unwanted and the influence he wielded in Toronto is one of the strangest phenomena in journalism. No one could affect that influence. His constituency was loyal to him as to a prophet and with all his ability he devoted himself to them as he believed he should. His limitations were not those that called for reproof. They were natural to the man and to his training. His honesty and sincerity were beyond question. His bitter and apparently unreasoning prejudices and his vindictive memory were guided by principles to which he rendered faithful allegiance, though it was difficult for strangers to understand whence he derived them. But through it all was the most transparent honesty and a generosity of heart and soul that astonished those who did not know him and first came in contact with this hidden nobility of temperament. He had certain weaknesses which approached the point of worship. But too often the idol was discovered to have some flaw which caused it to be relegated to the limbo of reprobation. One homage he never ceased to bestow. That was to Sir Adam Beck, and if for nothing else, the people of Ontario owe John A. Robinson a great debt for his fidelity to the cause of Hydro-Electric power. So great was his fidelity that he seemed to be unable to forgive any one else, like William F. Maclean, who rivaled him in support of this great measure. But his intimates regarded him with affection and respect. No one was ever turned away from him who was in want or need of help which he could render. An unsuspected tenderness of heart redeemed him among those who knew him for any faults of temperament or policy which they may have noted. His family lose a kind and devoted parent and his friends will mourn an original character of great force and utilities and paradoxical qualities but of sterling character and virtue.

THE PORTRAIT

Artist; could you paint a picture
Of some one across the seas?
If I told you all about it,
Would you try it if you please?
Thank you, Sir! Upon the canvas
Sketch the outline of a face
Where the years have streaked the visage,
And life's frost leaves icy trace,
Paint it 'mid with winter's whiteness,
Touch it with a softer glow,
And above the brow time-fourrowed
Sprinkle silver in the snow.
Now be very careful, Artist,
With those eyes. They must be blue;
Could you place within a teardrop
And a tiny smile or two?
Make the wrinkles slightly deeper.
(I remember when they came.)
And the little crowsfeet, Painter,
Should be made the very same.
Now the nose! Oh! brush be steady,
For it is so very small,
If you falter in the making
Maybe you would spoil it all!
Sir! the task is harder growing,
For the lips are yet to view,
Still, 'tis work of art exquisite
That I feared you could not do.
Please, Sir, make them gently tremble
As they did in last, "Good-Bye."
God above! methinks they quiver
With the flutter of a sigh!
So I bend a little closer,
Something seems to be amiss,
Mister Painter! Look you did not
Put the imprint of a kiss!
Now 'tis finished! Thank you, Artist
I shall keep it through the years
On the walls of reverie's chamber,
Diamond-framed by memory's ears.

RADIO

Inspired by the occasional scent of burning leaves in the autumn air and the mellowing colors of the hills, the Selberling Singers will serenade newly-arrived Autumn next Tuesday evening, October 2nd, with a special vocal arrangement of Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

Ordinarily a tenor solo, it has been arranged for part voices by Frank Black, Orchestral Director of the Selberling Hour, and will be sung by the famous Selberling Singers quartet.

As thousands of listeners-in have noted, while singing their hearts by letter, the Selberling Hour has taken on a new character this fall. Though keeping to its policy of broadcasting the world's finest music in ways it has seldom or never been done before the Hour has become more intimate, and brought more delightful features innovations. The October 2nd program, for example, promises several treats for the eager ears of the millions who dial the Selberling Hour in anticipation of some musical revelry, among them Kreisler's "Liebesleid," which will be played by the "Singing Violins" a two-piano transcription of Rodgers' popular "The Girl Friend," played by Phil Ohman and Victor Arden and a bass solo, "The Big Bass Viol" with quartet accompaniment.

For the large audience of radio fans who dial the Selberling Hour especially to hear James Melton, Selberling's own tenor two solo treats are in store —"Were My Songs with Wings Provided", by Hahn, and Irving Berlin's new piece "Roses of Yesterday."

The program will be opened by the Selberling quartet with "Moonlight Moon," by Warne and closed by them with a medley of hits from the Broadway musical comedy favorite, "Oh Kay."

The Selberling Hour goes on the air every Tuesday evening from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time (from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Central Standard Time) through 29 stations of the National Broadcasting Company's Red Network. Between 20 and 25 million listeners are able to dial the hour it is estimated.

LETTERS TO EDITOR
BASEBALL
BELLEVILLE HISTORY

Dear Sir,—

Every citizen of Belleville desires to congratulate the "Intrinsic" Baseball Club of Belleville on winning the amateur championship of Ontario for 1928.

A few years from now this splendid feat will pass out of recollection and it will be difficult or almost impossible to produce any authoritive record of this achievement in sport. It is believed that Belleville in the past has won other championships in sports, cricket, lacrosse, yachting in day walking, horse racing. It is also known that Belleville citizens have achieved great distinction in college war, business, professional and public life, but no record is kept. How many know that citizens from what is now Belleville, assisted in the capture of Detroit by the Canadians in 1813, which placed the whole of the Michigan section of the United States in Canada's control? Who know what citizens from this section took part in the capture of Washington in that war? Who know that a Bellevillian had charge of the negotiations for Canada with Big Bear and his Indians in the Northwest Rebellion? If one desired information as to what citizens took part in wars or military engagements, where could one get it? We have been giving some attention to Belleville history for several years past, and I find great difficulty in getting reliable information. This suggests that we should adopt some method of recording achievement of our citizens. For instance, the City Council might authorize some official to keep an "Achievement Book" in which a record of the achievements of Belleville citizens and Belleville organizations might be kept. We cannot rescue from oblivion history, that is lost, but we can save some present and future history of Belleville.

This suggested recording of our Club's victory will not prevent the citizens from recognizing the merits of our Baseball Club in some present tangible form, arrangements for which I understand are now being made.

A granite conning tower, impregnable to attack, has been built at one corner of Trafalgar Square for the use of police to observe crowds who hold indignation meetings.

The Toronto Local Council is rapidly completing preparations for the appeal there, and headquarters have been established in the Hotel Ford, the use of floor space having been donated by the hotel management.

The National Council has been influential in securing a number of benefits for Canada. Among these were the establishing of the Victorian Order of Nurses; the present system of supervised playgrounds; the introduction of medical inspection, dental inspection, manual training and domestic science in schools; and the securing of the minimum wage, the mothers' allowance, co-guardianship of children and equality in divorce between man and wife.

SAVE TIRE CASH BY VULCANIZING

How are those tires of yours holding out Mr. Motorist? About this time of year in the season some of them may be beginning to weaken and cause you once weekly. It is unwise to run a number of new tires before the end of the season.

But don't forget that an expert vulcanizer can make those tires of yours last thousands of miles extra. Al Hitchon, for instance, over on Coleman Street at Moira, is one of the several vulcanizing firms in the city who have specialized in the art of making those tires last a few thousand miles further, and Al. is fully equipped to save you money by vulcanizing the tires on your car which are showing signs of needing it.

So don't throw them away; drive around and have him look them over. You won't regret it.

BUY MILK ON A QUALITY BASIS

This was the caption of an interesting paper read at the Royal Institute of Agriculture, Cirencester, England, at the recent World's Dairy Congress held in that city.

Commencing in 1922, this company began to buy on a quality basis, and in that year, started the scheme of payment for milk on a quality basis. In other words, they did not supply large high quality milk from a bacterial standpoint, including B. Coli bacteria. This scheme includes manurial contamination, or by dirty utensils. Under this scheme the butter fat content and paid a bonus for a higher percentage of fat. The speaker said:

"The results obtained from this scheme is very interesting. At first most of them regarded the movement with a cold and doubtful look, not seriously. After a time, when certain farmers began more regularly near the top of the list and received the payment, more interest was taken, and they began to study the question by agricultural method, in our own association. The results are tabulated and placed in a prominent place in order of merit, the first twelve on the list receiving a bonus of a gallon extra for their milk, and the next twenty-four a halfpenny per gallon extra. There are, however, a small number of above one hundred and forty, who receive no bonus for their milk. The list is sent to each farmer monthly showing the farmers their position in order of merit so that all know the position of their neighbours. This we regard as a very important factor, as they like to see the list being above all very keen, and we, therefore, are of the opinion that the new our of being above the average gives a greater incentive to the farmers than the mere bonus. We also send out lists to the farms, but also by sending any helpful pamphlets or books which we consider will be of use to them who are very keen and enthusiastic, and they find their time to time to consult our laboratory on any point difficulty they have."

"We find these farmers, however, who take no interest in producing clean milk, and have no desire to improve. The milk supplier would once regularly near the bottom of the monthly list, and we always terminate to our business with them at the end of the contract period, and take no fresh supplies. This results in the elimination of those supplying dirty milk, and the systematic training of others. The quality of our supply has vastly improved and reduced sour milk to a minimum."

Referring to the butter, he states:

"In 1923 we commenced to pay a bonus for the butter fat content of the milk received. The English butter fat standard is 3 per cent, but a good average milk contains about 3.5 per cent of fat. I think most people will agree that a farmer supplying milk containing 3.5 per cent of butter fat is entitled to a higher price than a farmer supplying milk containing 3 per cent. The payment made in this respect commences at 3.5 per cent. The standard price is paid for 3 gallons of milk, and 1-10th of a penny per gallon is added for every 1-10th per cent of fat over 3.5 per cent, so that a per cent milk gets 1-10 of a penny extra, and 6 per cent get one half penny per gallon extra."

"One advantage of this payment is that every farmer knows that his milk is regularly tested, and this, together with the fact that all his neighbours know his position in the monthly list makes him careful that gallon-like full cream milk is regularly sent. We sell practically all the milk to the public as a whole milk, and make no butter and very little cheese, so this extra payments for butter fat appear to show us no advantage whatever, but we believe that if the milk we sell is improved thereby, we are building up the goodwill of our customers, and shall ultimately reap the reward."

During the discussion on this paper, it was brought up that where milk purchasing firms paid a bonus for quality milk, it had a decided effect in improving the quality of the supply, the standpoint of cleanliness and butter fat content. This method as the foregoing wherever practical provides a better relationship between milk producer and milk distributor.

WASN'T NEW TO OUR FAIRBANKS

When He Was Chatting With Prince George of England

Hollywood, Calif.—Welford Beaton, who publishes the Hollywood Spectator, a paper given to frankness in regard to the movie situation, decided to drop in on Doug Fairbanks the other morning.

His found "Doug" talking with a tall young man. Beaton was greeted with the usual Fairbanks enthusiasm.

"Of course you've heard of Welford Beaton," said Doug to the tall young man, who smiled and offered hand. They went on talking.

"George," said Doug nonchalantly, and if they were to again from there.

Sins Caliper Hemmed

It is June Collyer who can give the most accurate account of Prince George. She went with him to the air meet. Quite a feat, seeing that every beauty in the colony was eager for her job.

Ladies who have balanced three whole feature on their heads and learned to kick assist court length trains didn't get a look in at the prince in Hollywood.

Society may be found everywhere. But there is only one movestand, and June found it. Beaton's impression of California wants to see a prince is right. It is a kingdom of its own. With a somewhat different court etiquette and more and stiffer formality. But the prince can join in constant terror of the high executive. —none other than the dear public.

Now Just Joan Crawford

Now that Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks have announced their engagement, they are busy denying the persistent rumor that they were married some two months ago.

Some of his insistence is due to the fact that Joan Crawford wears a large diamond on her left hand. Another, and in her home, photographs of Doug, Jr., autographed to "my dear wife," are said to be hanging in her dense.

The life of a star is continuous denial. Denial of food and denial of humor. In between attending to their two maidens there are the necessary gestures of doing eight to 19 hours before the camera; doing the daily stint with the beauty expert; getting in the daily six-dozen every star must do to keep the figure just right. Of course, autographing pictures and answering letters; a great fun.

Yet all in all, it is simply dazzled by these idle creatures.

WILL DEAL WITH OMNIBUS TRAFFIC

Dublin. (C.P.A.)—The Free State government in contemplating legislation to deal with the growing problem of motor-omnibus traffic.

At present the authorities have very little control over the road-carriage traffic being forced to depend almost entirely on the Carriage Acts passed in the middle of the last century. The growth of the omnibus traffic has been very rapid during recent months, and the time has arrived when steps must be taken to regulate it. Accidents have occurred with alarming frequency and in several cases they have been due to mechanical defects which a skilled examination of inspection might have detected.

The bill which the government hopes to pass into law before Christmas will provide for the regular inspection of motor omnibuses by the police and for the regulation of speed. All drivers will be required to pass examinations tests before obtaining licenses to omnibuses, and cars will be taken to the bill all major vehicles which are used for public transport are mechanically sound.

THERE IS NO FORTUNE HERE!

(From the Ottawa Citizen)

Fortunes have been made by people in the inside of politics, in just such transactions as the alienation of Seven Sisters Falls from the public domain. Knowledge that the Government had committed itself to this latest measure of special privilege for the benefit of private power interests. They bought stock in the Winnipeg Electric Company knowing that when the order-in-council went through to hand over the falls, it was intended to be worth 25 million dollars the value of the stock would rise.

This business of alienating valuable natural resources from the heritage of the people of Canada used to be regarded with great suspicion. Perhaps the public may still be inclined to hold the responsible parties to strict accountability.

This government will make no political fortune however, by having played the part of Pandarus to Premier John Bracken and the privileged interests. In recent years it has been shown more than once in parliament that Canada's glittering natural resources cannot be bartered away with impunity.

In the first session of this present parliament, lobby Liberals came down with a great scheme to grab off the power resources along the route of the Georgian Bay Canal. They very nearly succeeded in getting the necessary legislation through the House of Commons but in such opposition developed during the session that the scheme came under the searchlight of awakened public opinion outside. It had to be dropped. It is becoming politically suicide to put predatory schemes through parliament when the people of Canada are watching.

There would have been little prospect of getting the approval of parliament in hand over Seven Sisters Falls in Manitoba to privileged interests: hence the haste of the conspirators to put through the deal by order-in-council before the provincial legislature of the Dominion parliament could intervene.

Premier Bracken waited until the session of the Manitoba legislature had ended before allowing it to be publicly known that he had made an agreement with the right of the province to develop the power at Seven Sisters Falls. He knew the difficulty he had over Seven Sisters Falls in Manitoba to privileged interests: hence the haste of the conspirators to put through the deal by order-in-council before the provincial legislature of the Dominion parliament could intervene.

NATIONALS WIN ONTARIO CHAMPIONSHIP

THE VICTORIOUS BELLEVILLE NATIONAL BALL TEAM

NATIONALS CRASHED WALKERVILLE'S POWERFUL DEFENSIVE SYSTEM AND BATTED THEIR WAY TO SECOND PROVINCIAL CHAMPIONSHIP IN 9 YEARS

Belleville Team Played Smart Ball Behind "Hoot" Gibson—An Up-Hill Struggle — Walkerville Assumed Lead In Fourth—Mills Brothers' Hitting Featured —Two Pitchers Hit Hard By Slugging Belleville Team—Guelph Supported Belleville — "Chicks'" Hopes Blasted.

By Staff Reporter

For the first time since 1919 Belleville Nationals are the champions of Ontario.

And they showed by virtue of their win over the Walkerville "Chicks" on Saturday last in Guelph that they are worthy champions, and that every proud of the boys, and even more proud of the team's manager, Walter Gerow.

After their poor showing and the way it started they received little first page of the finals at Walkerville, when the team was defeated 15 to 4, they looked to be completely outclassed in every department of the game, and many of the Belleville fans got cold feet, completely, and gave the next game up as a lost cause. But not Walter Gerow, and the rest of his team, who knew that he had a pitcher who could know a game of ball with the best of them, in the sport, and he knew that he had any kind of support at all that he and his team stood a good chance of taking that second game. Walter never looks too far ahead. He decided that the game to make sure of winning was the one last Wednesday, and he sent Gibson in with orders to stand them on their heads, if necessary, but to win the game if at all possible. "Hoot" had one of his best days this year, and he set the surprised and highly indignant Chicks down with two real hits and one scratch hit. They did not take kindly to the trimming handed them at all, and it served to take most of their cocksureness away from them, a quality which was conspicuous by its absence at the Guelph game. Walt's job after the second Walkerville game was to get "Hoot" Gibson, his one and only good bet to take the Chicks into camp, into the best possible shape before Saturday.

No one knows how long and how many hours Walter Gerow spent with Hoot Gibson, early in the spring and then in the fall, looking after the arm and doing his best to help him become the really good pitcher of which he is capable of becoming.

Manager Walt Gerow

We do know, however, that he spends his own time day in and day out on baseball business, and seldom if ever get much of the credit that he deserves. If the ball team loses, it is usually the manager's fault but if it wins, then the manager is usually forgotten. We want to take this opportunity of showing the National's manager, Walter Gerow, that the public of Belleville and the team appreciates everything he has done for the game in this city, and in bringing the second Provincial Championship to Belleville.

When Wicky Ross grabbed the ball that landed Neff in the ninth innings and stuffed it in his pocket, after Gibson had hulsted a long fly to him for the final out, Belleville people in the stand to the number of some two hundred, and Belleville supporters numbering nearly four thousand, pour ed out their remaining strength in one long yell of triumph, for Walkerville, the unbeatables, had been defeated, defeated by a team from so-called "tall sticks", as they so persistently described Belleville.

Those Guelph people were surely good rupporters, and we'll have you know right now that Guelph is the best baseball town in the province. Show us any other city or town which would turn out, four thousand strong, for a baseball game in which Guelph had no team entered, You see all those towns on the fingers of an armless man.

Gatecliffe, he of the fiery disposition, who was so unceremoniously ejected from the game by Umpire in Chief Alec Kay, of Peterboro, last Wednesday, was back in the line-up and played a nice game in the field, although a little weak in his hitting. He and Harmie were the life of the Walkerville players to run out on the diamond and shake Hoot Gibson by the hand and offer him congratulations. Gatecliffe was as meek as a lamb on Saturday, as were the rest of the Chicks, for that matter, and they were out there to play ball and win the game. Their hopes received a big jolt right in the first innings, however, when Belleville opened by scoring one run.

How They Scored

Scott and Weir had gone out in succession, when Harry Mills hit a nice single, the ball going over second to short center. With two strikes on him, Al Feeny made a beautiful catch on one of Marchand's slants and drove it to right field along the foul line for two bases. Harry scoring. Green at bat was out to the infield leaving Feeny stranded. This one run looked like three more coming to be the star in by which the game was going to be won, but Walkerville was done for in the fifth and scored three runs, when a walk and an error were coupled with hits.

Jordan, the first man up in the fifth, doubled to right, and Schachard singled through second, Jordan scoring and tying the game up at 1-1. After Schachard had stolen second, Johnson crossed up the Belleville infield by bunting fair on his third strike, and Schachard stole third as Mills juggled a catch. Marchand singled, scoring Sghuchard, while Johnson made third and Marchand went to second on the throw in. Kenny fouled out to H. Mills, and Gatecliffe hit one right at Bob Scott, who knocked it down but could not make a recovery in time to get his man at the plate, as his throw to T. W. Mills was bad. Edwards hit to Weir who nailed Marchand at the plate, Marchand spiking W. Mills as he crossed the plate. Cardinal then went out, Blakely to Harry Mills.

Belleville then showed the thoughts and of fans the reason that they were up there in the finals, and went right out fighting for more runs. Blakely, the first man up, doubled to right, and Hagerman walked. Gibson came through with a single, and Blakely scored, while Hagerman made third. Scott lifted a high fly to Cardinal in left field, who dropped the ball, and Hagerman scored. Cardinal was promptly pulled out of the game, and Jubenville took his place, while Smith replaced Marchand in the box. Vern Weir then sacrificed Gibson to third and Scott to second and when Harry Mills was hit by the pitcher the bases were loaded again. W. Mills singled scoring Gibson, and Sonny Green came through with his first hit in three games to score Scott. Rose filled out to left field, and Blakely, who late for the second time in the game innings struck out.

Walkerville again threatened to make it even more than interesting for the Nationals in the seventh innings when they scored two more runs To start it off right, Smith struck out, but Kenny was walked. His went to second when Gibson made a balk, and immediately afterwards Gatecliffe hit a triple to deep left field, Cinnamon out when hit by a batted ball, and Gatecliffe who was right in on the plate on the play was sent back to third. Edwards hit to Harry Mills who tried to get back to the bag before he had made the pick up and he was safe, while Gatecliffe scored, putting them within one run of the Nationals. Edwards stole second and Jubenville filed out to Blakely, Jordan ended the rally by bunting and was thrown out. W. Mills to H. Mills.

Belleville had added one more in the sixth to their string when, after Hagerman had received his second walk of the afternoon, Gibson was hit by the pitcher. Bob Scott got a nice single over second, and Hagerman laurels or not is not known, but it is to be hoped that they do not, for they are a credit to the sport.

Club Roster

Harry Mills, Big Peeny's brother was a member with the Ontarios in 1919 and broke into senior company in 1920. He has been a regular, standby, and the Mills brothers have stuck fear into the heart of more than one pitcher in this league since those days. They are good hitters and usually some fireworks will be started when they come to bat with a man or two on bases.

In 1919, Walter Gerow played first base for the Champions, but retired the next year when he broke his arm while playing ball. Walter was in his time the smoothest keep of the infield sack in the province, and was a hitter of no mean ability. He always did have baseball brains and now has to use them more than ever in his capacity as manager of the Belleville native of Belleville. He came here about four years ago as a third baseman, and showed the potential qualities of a pitcher, and so Manager Gerow groomed him for that purpose. This is his best year and he should be even better next year. He is young and strong, and every bit a gentleman. The way he let some of the teams down here in the Central League race this summer was a shame, and he clearly showed his worth when he stepped the Walkerville checkers down in their tracks last Wednesday, letting them down with three hits. Saturday he allowed only nine, and in only one inning was he in great danger of defeat. Gibson was working with their only real scalp, (I mean to be remembered, for this was his first Championship series, but it might linger down just another game of baby to him as far as he showed it. He was lured out after the game Saturday, though, for he gave everything he had for his team, and finally won the uphill battle that he was confronted with.

Harry Blakely on short stop came to Belleville several years ago from Bridgeburg, and it was a good move from the start, until now he is recognized as the best short stop in the Central League. His fielding is sterling, and although he is not as consistent with the stick as some of the others he makes his hits count. Harry is mighty popular with the Belleville fans. He is attending Queen's University at the present time, and returns to Belleville every summer.

Bob Scott came from Renfrew last year, having played with that team in the Ottawa Valley League. Bob is just ninteen and a coming ball player although he handles the red light district at second base very nicely. He is the lead off man and usually manages to get on first. He is also a mighty clever baseball player and was one of the best on the Belleville Juniors last winter. Scotty will leave this week for Toronto, where he will enter the University of Toronto. He has promised to be back in Belleville next summer, however.

Stan Hagerman plays left field, and is one of the best in the league in fielding. All through the year he fielded his position nicely, not making an error, and finally slipped once in the game here with Walkerville. That was his only error of the year, which was a fine record. Stan is also utility catcher, having one of the finest arms of any member of the league. His batting is weak, but he scored two runs Saturday after drawing passes to first.

Sonny Green is from Point Anne, and is a graduate of that town's intermediate team. He has a large following, and is one of the heaviest hitters on the team. His regular position is right field, but he is a handy man to have around, as he can go in and play any position he is asked to. He is a catcher, as well as a pitcher, and can play any position in the infield. His hitting has won many a game for Belleville this year.

Alec Scott up until two years ago was with the Kingston Ponies, where he played nice ball in the outfield. He has had little chance to display his wares this year however, as there have been no injuries, and the regulars were on deck for practically every game. Scotty can sure "go get 'em" though, when they are needed.

When the Grand Trunks of 1919 were winning the Championship, they had as their best bat boy Alec Weir, whose brother Vernon was a regular. Alec this year played several games in the outfield, and pitched the last two innings of the first game in Walkerville and shut that team out. He is a comer and fans would do well to keep their eye on him next year.

"Vinny" Utronki came here from Renfrew with Bob Scott, where he had been burning them up in the Ottawa Valley League. Vinny has not had as much luck as was expected this year, but he has done enough to show the management that he has all kinds of stuff on the ball, and all he needs is to learn to control it. He has just turned past sixteen, so has plenty of time yet to come through.

And last but not least, comes young "Walt" Gerow, who has worked as hard as any of them this year chasing the balls and looking after the bats. He has certainly saved the club a lot of money by the way he keeps his eyes on foul balls, and to show their appreciation of his work the fans took up a collection on the way back from Guelph last Saturday night on the train for him. He was agreeably surprised when the present was made to him. He is another player who in the next ten years will bear watching.

And so we come to the close of a successful season, with, we hope, everyone satisfied. It has been one of the best seasons ever for baseball in Belleville yet, and the club, while not making the money out of the game as in sound financial condition. This newspaper wishes to take the opportunity of congratulating the team and the officials on the manner in which they have played the game, and conducted themselves both on and off the field, and hope that again next recently completed.

PRESIDENT "ERNIE"

who is the right man in the right place. He accepted the office of President only after considerable persuasion and has lent all the support possible since the Central League was opened last May.

Belleville's 1928 team will go down in baseball history as the team that won the Ontario Provincial Championship in 1928 and have been striving ever since then to repeat. Several times they have come close, but always just failed to make the grade, and these dapper young men would have been hard to find than these. Saturday evening, nine years ago they were just breaking into the game, and since then they have upheld the reputation of this city in a fine manner. There are no better catchers in amateur baseball than Billy Mills, and it was his heavy ability to judge batters that helped to this team to come to the fore this season. Billy is also a mighty clever Walt Gerow the credit for making him the real pitcher that he undoubtedly is. He was a late comer to the game, but behind the plate, Hoot might have been just one of the ordinary pickers.

Center field has been looked after this year by the quiet boy from Quinte Ross, who is one of the post popular young men on the circuit. Wicky may have lost some of his speed in the field, but he has made up for that in the manner in which he judges where a fly will fall. He goes right to the spot which his judgment tells him the ball will come, until he is on hand to come to him. His hitting, which was none too good last year, again broke away up this year, until he is ranked as one of the best hitters on the Belleville club. His hits seem to come when they mean runs, and that is the way to win ball games, Wicky is one of the boys.

Vernon Weir is the third member of the Champions of 1919 who is still playing ball for Belleville. Vernon is perhaps the most versatile athlete in Belleville, playing a good game of hockey and basketball, having been a real track and field man while at the Collegiate.

His best game however, is baseball, and this year has been one of the best he has ever enjoyed. Vern played short stop in 1919 but has been playing all over the place since then, until now he has developed into a fine second baseman. Very few balls get past Vernon, and he is a regular wizard at making fly balls which drop behind second look easy. Whether or not Vernon will retire on their

SAYS "CHICKS" SUPERIOR TEAM

"Dick" Gibson of Border Cities Star Comments On Series

WERE UNDER-RATED

Admits "Hoot" Gibson Is Best Pitcher To Face "Chicks"

Just now we are wondering what sort of alibi "Dick" Gibson, Sports Editor of the Border Cities Star will have to offer in his columns tonight for the defeat suffered by the Walkerville "Chicks" on Saturday. Mr. Gibson after witnessing the game here was more or less dubious of the result of the third game of the series but he still believed Walkerville was strong enough to turn the Nub beat. Mr. Gibson's fair-minded in most of his comments on various sports but in his report of the second engagement we are forced to disagree with him on several points. Naturally the defeat was a severe blow for the "Chicks", in the face of the fact that they had trampled every team in western Ontario beneath them. In his comments on Thursday he advanced a few reasons why the "Chicks" should win and for the benefit of Belleville fans we are publishing a number of excerpts from his story:

If there is any need to reassure the home fans, I still think the Walkerville Chicks will be the senior Ontario amateur baseball champions for 1928. They should win the third and decid ing game from Belleville, wherever it is played.

But don't think it won't be a battle and don't look for any more of those 15 to 4 scores. The Nationals were much under-rated, as a team, because of their bad showing here in the opener. And their pitcher on that occasion didn't rank any place alongside of "Hoot" Gibson.

"Hoot," so far as I know, is no relation, But whatever his family tree, he is just about the best flinger the Chicks have ever faced. Maybe the Chicks themselves won't admit that because it is characteristic for baseball clubs to insist that they can hit "that guy" the next time. But, to a spectator behind the bat, Gibson indeed mighty good. He offered a fair amount of speed, a fast-breaking curve ball and a wonderful hook. His hook seemed to drop and then take a second break.

"Peeny" Mills

who is in a large degree responsible for the success of the nationals this year. Mills, while he is a veteran in the point of baseball service, is still the leading amateur catcher in Ontario. Mills' experience in coaching young pitchers is one of the reasons for Gibson's sudden rise to fame.

All of that "stuff," of course, would be useless without control. But this chap's control was almost perfect, too. He had the Chicks in the hole most of the afternoon. He rarely threw two balls to a batter and thus he forced the Walkerville men to cut at pitches that were close or struck them out on called strikes. Not until the ninth inning, when the game was won, did he walk one batter And then it was only one—the wily, waiting "Tabers" Girard.

Four Umpiring

The Chicks are bad losers, but they are not bad losers, if you know what I mean. They fight all the way and they hate to lose. But they don't sulk nor try to discredit the other fellows. Belleville fans may have other ideas because the players insisted on a few of the umpires' decisions. But that all happened in the heat of the game and there was at least some reason for it. The Peterboro arbiters, who officiated in the league when Belleville won, were not good. They may flave been trying to be fair but they were not good umpires. After the game the Chicks admitted that they couldn't have won—at least not in nine innings. They gave Belleville credit and they didn't blame the umpires for their defeat. They don't want a fair break in the final and they won't complain whatever the verdict may be.

But I still call Walkerville because they have a better all-round aggregation. Normally the Chicks have more than a little edge on the Nationals as hitters, though the Belleville line-up is by no means a cinch for any pitcher. The Chicks didn't hit their stride, offensively, at Belleville but Gibson is not likely to hold them to three scattered hits again If he does he is even a better hurler than I give him credit for being.

In other departments, too, the Chicks must be placed ahead of their rivals They made two errors to Belleville's one yesterday, but they looked like smarter fielders. The Nationals made a few plays that were brilliant; others that the same men don't figure to duplicate again.

On the base the Chicks should have a still bigger advantage. They ran wild on the veteran Belleville catcher, "Peeney" Mills, in the first game here. They couldn't take such chances at Belleville and they didn't get enough men on the bases anyway. But, even so, they stole two sacks and they should outspeed the Nationals on the paths in the third affair.

POPULAR MANAGER

who succeeded for the first time on Saturday in leading the locals to a Provincial championship. Walter played on the champion team of 1919 and piloted them to the finals in 1922 when they were beaten out by Galt. He is deservedly popular with players and fans alike.

CROP REPORT

Corn Harvesting has commenced and the crop is above normal, R. E. Whale, Representative in Kent states, "The prospects for crop are much better than in the last three years, with a larger acreage than last year." Regarding the Corn Borer, W. P. Morcomsid of Lampton says, "The Corn Borer Infestation is much less than in 1926 and 1927. We have three small areas where injury is just as severe, but on the whole the percentage of infestation is much less. Canning factories are not making reductions for borer on farmers' loads this year."

The weather has been satisfactory except in Northern Districts where rain has delayed hoeing and grain harvest. Occasional rain in other sections has supplied moisture for fall wheat which is doing well. The acreage is about normal except in some heavy clay areas where the ground was too hard. Fall plowing is progressing, particularly in Central Ontario where moisture conditions are favorable and where special cash crops do not require as much time as in the southern counties.

Pastures are productive and all classes of live stock are doing well. The milk flow has kept up well this season, a keen interest in sheep is becoming more manifested as the breeding season approaches. Campbell Lamot of Orangeville, reports that several inquiries have been received from the west for pure-bred rams."

Mr. Whale reports that corn is completely covered. A considerable acreage of stubble plowing has been done. Buckwheat crop is very promising and good hay crop is set. Some farmers are leaving it standing in the field, not thinking it worth cutting.

PETERBORO—Grass cattle from the fifth tier of the county are beginning to move to market and some of the people are beginning to bring in their cattle from ranches. The buckwheat harvest is very difficult. Much power is required cutting with the mower or attempting to cut one way with the binder. The buckwheat crop is very heavy.

PRINCE EDWARD—Canners and farmers report that the tomato crop will be about 75 per cent. of last year's. Last ten days. Fields are practically free from frost and are working night and day to take care of the crop. In spite of this there will be a big waste of this crop.

TEMISKAMING—The harvesting of cereals and clover seed has been very much delayed because of wet weather. Fields are so wet that it is very difficult to get the binder through successfully. Some threshing has been done and with dry weather work will proceed much faster than during the past few weeks.

"THE HERO"

who has been watted on a sudden rise to glory. Gibson's pitching has carried the National through to another championship and it is rumored that professional scouts are already on his trail. He has expressed a desire to remain in Belleville.

ANDREW BRODER WAS GREAT MAN

Men of the stamp of Andrew Broder are the Montreal Gazette in referring to a monument to the late mentor for Dundalk, erected at Martleburg, do not confine their friendships to men of one party. Stalwart Conservative as he was, he enjoyed the respect and confidence of Liberals in very large numbers. It was peculiarly fitting that at the unveiling of the monument an old paltty associate and an old political opponent should unite in paying tribute to his memory. The memorial of Stanstead granite, simple in design, exemplifies those qualities of strength and modesty which were Andrew Broder's outstanding characteristics. He had earned calmer preferment, but when on the very threshold he had to make way for another he did it philosophically and went, as he said, back to his furrow. Those who knew him know that he served himself, and in that knowledge the state he helped to found has been served. It is the sort of reward that he would have chosen.

THE VANQUISHED WALKERVILLE "CHICKS"

Above are shown six of the infielders with the Walkerville "Chicks" who were beaten in the finals on Saturday by the Belleville Nationals. The "Chicks" after defeating the Niagara Falls, Guelph and Strathroy teams, were hailed as Provincial champions but they did not seriously figure the Belleville Nationals. Their over-confidence proved their downfall and "Hoot" Gibson's masterful pitching was too much for them. Three Walkerville pitchers were batted hard by the Nationals in the series and none of them were able to stop the Belleville team with any effectiveness. Reading from left to right they are: "Whitey" Whiteside, "Horse" Atkins, "Bill" Jordan, "Al" Edwards, Charlie Gatecliffe, "Spear" Carnegie And Clarence Kenny.

DESIRE TO DRESS UP IS AS OLD AS TIME

By DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

Self-adornment is as old as time.

As far back as the records of civilization go evidence has been found that the human being dressed up in beads shining bits of stone and trinkets.

Savage tribes everywhere show the same tendencies—and modern woman today has to do the same thing.

Ancient peoples must have felt that hanging bright-colored objects about the neck or fashioning bracelets for the wrist and ankles, or garlands of leaves or flowers for the hair somehow enhanced their own personal charm.

With some of the customs also, there often was some mystic or religious significance.

Many people nowadays carry a rabbit's foot or a coin as a sort of charm.

Then, often unconsciously we more or less subscribe to ancient ideas rites and ceremonies.

Modern woman has, of course made self-adornment a necessary art. Clothes and jewels have been a sort of passion with the female sex for centuries.

Nor has it been modern woman only.

Man is not exempt from self-adornment although he is more conservative, changing less often and does not become blinded with jewels as much as do his sisters.

Savage men, however are just as prone to succumb to self-adornment as savage females.

The purpose of this article is not, however, to decry self-adornment.

Only should it be denounced if it becomes an overpowering passion for which more worthwhile things are sacrificed.

Women who will lose their self-respect in order to get clothes and jewels do not make the best society or the best wives and mothers. That goes without saying.

Such women simply are overwhelmed by a savage instinct that possibly they would deny hotly were it pointed out to them.

Yet, many of our actions and desires are motivated by hidden mental mechanisms. The reasons for many of our reactions are not apparent on the surface.

There is keen rivalry between women and self-adornment is an easy method of gaining attention.

Like everything else, self-adornment can be overdone.

When it is not or when a degree of artistry and refinement goes with it, it can be made a forceful asset.

Women would do well however, if they sindied themselves better in reference to what they wear, and how they wear it. They are rather careless after all and jump to quick decisions.

It doesn't follow that if a certain style of dress is fashionable it will look well on all women.

Every woman ought to work out her own particular fashions and personal adornment herself, adopting only that which becomes her.

Pockets And Plaits Please The Junior

Loose plaits will keep the result, desirable in this one-piece frock for sophomore misses with the middy blue Peter collar. Red cuffs add the final touch to front that gives the effect of a tie. A black patent leather belt buttons and a narrow black patent leather tie at the back is the right weight with cotton materials.—(Copyright, 1923, by Bellman Co.)

WILL CONVERT GRAND CHARTREUSE CHURCH

Paris (By The Canadian Press)—Details are published here of a project to convert into an international century, hall of the famous Grande Chartreuse monastery, at Which, until 1903, monks manufactured the liquer of that name.

It is explained that the monks' cells and other monastic parts of the building are to be disturbed, and the "lay" part being appropriated for the object mentioned.

Various modern universities supporting the project have already despatched students, theologians, ministers, artists, poets and musicians for a term of residence at a spot which from the standpoint of beauty and solitude and quietedness is almost unrivalled in Europe.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Paris notes that the occasional wraps and accessories for evening incide spangled and beaded coats, which are exceedingly beautiful, while jackets of gold paillettes are like dazzling coats of mail and will be worn even more than they were last season for dinner in restaurants and the theatre.

The new short coat of summer remains the favorite for the coat with leather trimming for the country, the coat of natural brown broadtail collared in natural fitch that may be worn for almost any smart occasion, airy three notable fur fashions sponsored by MME Arvanes's smartest fur house.

Navy blue gloves are one of the choice for daytime wear, along with tan, beige and grey, and they usually have some form of embellishment, while the cuffs are smartly shaped and finished with buttons in some cases, and buttons and loops, bow-knots and applique work are used in modern detail.

The peplum frock is being revived.

A New York editor remarks: "The Earl of John Lindsay, fired the other day in New York, leaves $1 to his wife and a fortune of $100,000 or more to his secretary. John is past all earthly trouble, but just how much he is making for other New York his employers are secretaries."

Dame Helen Gwynne Vaughan wants to know: Why should clever women be talked about and singled out as if they were performing dogs?"

The lace gown holds its own in the realm of fashion despite the popularity of velvet and lace of the heavier kind, often embroidered and enriched with incrustations, is being used for autumn evening models with success, and is quite the feminine vogue of the moment.

Pelts for the autumn show an interesting originality in line and trimming and every point more baffling to the average woman than the severe cloche of other days and whether the brim turns up or down it is distinctly decorative and the suit point of feather and soft flat feather quill arranged low across give a distinctly feminine note.

When ice cream sours don't throw it out. Just beat up an egg and dissolve it among the cups, then pour the cream over it and the family will drink the "delicious coffee" with a relish.

Wilful Wives By Mildred Barbour

"Be nice to me for a change, Irma," he said, "just this once, please. I'm going to keep my appointment. Here, let me help you with your coat."

CHAPTER 9

Same for the Goose

Irma's hysteria.....After Steve's statement that nothing she could do would make him give up his friends and manner of living.....was heard throughout the apartment-building.

It reached the Reynold's apartment, and Marguerite lifted her head to listen.

"I'm sure that's Irma. Something terrible must have happened. Im going up. She sprang to her feet.

Hal reached out a hand and clutched her arm. "Stay here. It's not your business. Irma and Steve are always having rows.....I've got to talk to you.....What do you mean by saying that you're disappointed in me? I intended just because our respective fathers had a row.....

She shook him off impatiently. "Time for that later. I'm going to Irma."

Hal landing he left into Steve Brockton. They stopped and stared at each other.

"What's wrong....." began Hal "I say, is Irma ill? We.....er.....Marguerite.....

Steve made a weary gesture. "Another scene.....and the last, I hope, of this kind. I made a very grimace! "Oh, what a mess!"

"Come in, do leave her when she's.....er.....in this state?"

Steve said stubbornly and defiantly: "I'll not, but he added, a bit sheepishly: "I was walking down, because I thought it would be better for me to see, after the infernal noise she made. Suffering cats, they must have heard her in Hackett.....

"But what did you do to her.....I say, let her.....you make her sick like that!.....Beg pardon, it's none of my business, but.....

"Oh, you might as well know. She'll tell Marguerite, and, since I'm getting tired of being made a very grimace! out from under, you'll probably know it. Steve gave a shrug of it." Steve pretended wryly. "I merely told Irma that I proposed to live in the manner that pleased me and that she could stop me.....

"Where!" Hal whistled softly. "That was pretty raw, wasn't it?" Suddenly he began to laugh. "I have it! We're in the same boat, old man. Marguerite has just informed me that my presence would be a bore if I'm tired."

Steve started. Then he said: "Let's go out and forget troubles. What 'ya you say?"

Hal laughed. "You're on. Come over to my flat."

Steve hesitated. "I was thinking about a little place in the village. Lyn's crowd will be there."

"Not Lydia, if you don't mind," Hal said, trying to her trouble."

Three minutes later the two young husbands were on their way to Hal's club, while, upstairs in the Brockton apartment the two young wives prepared to talk to each other what they thought of these same husbands.

Irma's hysteria had passed. She lay across her bed, languid and spent with emotion, while Marguerite sat beside her.

"Steve was beastly, beastly!" moaned Irma. "I would never have thought him capable of such a thing. Fancy saying such a thing just because we disagree about the way I spend money. I lost his head over that Lydia Conway's parties.

"Of coufse, he didn't mean it, dear," Marguerite soothed her. "It was angry and he didn't stop to think what he was saying."

"Oh yes, he did mean it," declared Irma with a sob. "Steve never gets so angry that he doesn't weigh his words now. I'll admit have to make good my threat to go home or put up with any thing he chooses to do."

She sighed. "Oh well, I suppose Ihr you to accept the situation. It's a bitter pill for a woman with pride to swallow."

"You're not to think about it at all tonight," Marguerite said. "By the way, where is Steve?"

"He went out, I guess," said Irma bitterly.

Marguerite rang for a maid. "Ask Mr. Reynolds to come in, please." To Irma, she said: "Do you know what we're going to do? We're going to cook some place, you and Hal and I. It's not too late for the second act of a revue and we'll have our supper and dance. You're not to lie here alone. You're going to get up and dress and look your prettiest."

"You won't when you've bathed your face, Now hurry, there's a dear."

But the maid came back to say that Mr. Reynold was not in the apartment. He had gone out with Mr. Brockton.

Marguerite sat on the edge of the bed and laughed until the tears came

"I don't see what's so funny," remarked Irma, regarding her tear-ravaged face in a mirror.

"Don't you?" gasped Marguerite. Well, that's because you don't know as he interview that was taking place a our apartment while you and Steve were rowing. Oh, those poor dear husbands. What babies!.....Well, if they can go out, their wives can too, I fancy."

She took down the telephone receiver and called Hartia's club. Two minutes later she was saying sweetly, "Irma and I want to go somewhere to-night and your respective spouses have deserted us.....will you take us on? Splendid! Then you are.....in half an hour, I think.....Yes, I'll be in the Brocton apartment.....Au revoir."

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I had about five dates with a certain boy I met this summer. On the last one he told me that I was different from any other girl he knew and that he could not help loving me. He asked me to kiss him, so I did. I had never kissed him before. Since then he phoned me twice but I wasn't at home. Now he does not phone any more to ask me for a date. How can I win his affection again because, I have seen him a lot of times on the street and he just barely speaks. Please advise me.

DARE NOT KNOW.

Ans: All me if I was young I'd know him. Many thanks.....

BLONDY.

Blondy: Perhaps the young man thinks that you are purposely evading him blondy. When next you see him, be shy not stop and chat for awhile and you could show him that you still feel as friendly as ever. Or, you might invite a few friends to your home some evening and include him. As to the kiss, of course you know that I don't approve of a too indiscriminate caress. It is always best to keep your self under control.—ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventy-one years of age and am deeply in love with a man forty years my senior. I go with him off and on. Sometimes one a month and sometimes every week. But I think a lot of him.

The other evening he told me "Shoni his dream girl, and oh Annie Laurie just my opposite. What shall I do now?" Give him up, I can't. But I don't see how I can be with him without thinking about it, and I'm a girl. Please advise me.

CAMILLE.

CAMILLE: As long as you have only a "dream girl" to worry about, you're pretty safe my dear. Just forget all about her and keep right on being your own sweet self. Perhaps some day you will find that you would act. It rather seems so to me, for you say the girl he described is your opposite. Don't get fussed and try little a few friends to your home

PETES REJOICE WITH BELLEVILLE

Examiner Likens Walkerville Team To Spurless Game Cock

Peterboro ball fans rejoice with Belleville in the winning of the Ontario championship by the local Nationals. Messages of congratulation continue to pour in today to the locals' headquarters from all parts of the Province. The downfall of the Walkerville team from one of the greatest upsets in amateur ball for many years and upset thats all over the Province are commenting on the splendid demonstration by the fighting heroes of the Ontario Nationals. The following is taken from the Peterboro Examiner:

Belleville's unusual assistance, at least down in this end of the Province, at the capture of the Ontario senior baseball championship by the Belleville Nationals.

One explanation of this is, of course, geographic; Eastern Ontario is glad to be known as the home of the provincial championships.

But more potent than that reason is the fact that the Walkerville team were so flabbergasted, nobody about their superiority that there was a general hope that these swaggerers would be taught a lesson.

An American humorist once said that he admired Texas because of two things—the way he crowed and the spurs he had to back up that crow.

Evidently the Walkerville Clarks had the crow but lacked the spurs and it should be possible for youthful athletes who contract all the nasal crow that emanated from the border country recently with the performance of the team responsible for such boasting to obtain a useful lesson.

The real sportsman knows how to win gracefully and to accept defeat without complaint.

The other type are lucky to have any friends even when they win, and are sure to find the world against them when they are defeated.

Thus the toppling of the proud Walkerville team is causing chuckles wherever baseball-fans meet throughout Ontario.

Liberals Now Have Twenty Seats In Nova Scotia House

PREMIER RETURNED

Rhodes Blames Over-Confidence For Loss of Four-teen Seats

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 2—Hon. E. N. Rhodes, premier of Nova Scotia, is the first Conservative to be invested with the authority of the premiership for a second term. The Conservative Government back in 1925 succeeded the Liberal regime of 43 years and yesterday it received a vindication of the polls, but the majority of 37 enjoyed by the party in the last legislature was cut in three as the Liberal opposition lists registers a net gain of seventeen seats. At the time of the dissolution 37 Conservatives and three Liberals sat in the House, three Conservative seats being vacant, the new assembly will be made up of twenty-three Conservatives and twenty Liberals.

Premier Rhodes was returned in Hants County with speaker Hon. Albert Parsons, K.C., elected after the executive council and three ministers without portfolios were defeated.

Hon. William Chisholm, leader of the Liberal Opposition was returned in Antigonish.

Halifax, Oct. 2.—The Conservative Government of Premier E. N. Rhodes was maintained in power by a majority of three seats in the provincial elections yesterday. The Government won 23 of the 43 seats contested, and lost 20 to the Liberal opposition, headed by Hon. William Chisholm.

At the time of dissolution, the standing of the parties was: Conservatives 37, Liberals 3, with two seats returning Conservatives in the election of 125 vacant. Four members of the Government were defeated in the administration's loss of 17 seats. Hon. J. A. Walker, minister of Natural Resources was defeated in Halifax, Captain the Hon. J. F. Cahan, minister of Highways, was beaten in Yarmouth, Dr. W. N. Rehfuss, Minister without portfolio, lost in Lunenburg, and Dr. R. L. Corbin suffered defeat in Richmond.

The Liberals, on the other hand, elected five former members of the Armstrong Government, which went down in overwhelming defeat in the general election of 1925. Hon. A. S. MacMillan, a former Minister of Highways was also elected in Pictou.

D. A. Cameron, a former provincial secretary, was elected in Victoria. J. Leander Lovett, J. Willie Comeau, two former members of the Armstrong Government, were defeated in Yarmouth, but the last named, elected prospectively in Lunenburg and Digby, and Hon. William Chisholm was elected in Antigonish.

The Government had appealed to the electorate, two years before the completion of its term of office, as a result of the abolition of the Legislative Council, which the opposition had charged throughout the campaign leading up to the election, that the Government was breaking its pledges of non-partisanship, economy, and reform. As a result of legislation passed by the Government, it will not be necessary for the Ministers to return to their constituencies for re-election.

Following was the vote:

The Labor party, most potent factor in the public play in the Province, gave Government from 1920 to 1925, failed to threaten either party's candidates in the one constituency where the third party entered candidates. James B. McLachlan, and Norman Waye, former M. P. P., each trailed their Conservative opponents, Hon. Col. O. B. Harrington and J. Macdonald, by about three thousand votes, in Cape Breton, and were far behind the Liberal candidates as well.

PANTS BURGLAR MAKES GETAWAY

Ernest Redner Victimized of $50—Culprit Ransacked Home

Harold Ward and Ernest Redner, of Redneriville have the distinction of being the first men in this district to have been hosts to the redoubtable "pants burglar" who has created so much excitement in western Ontario the past few months.

On Friday evening last an entrance was made, to the two above-mentioned homes in Redneriville, the burglars gaining entrance to Ward's home by cutting the screen from a cellar window but were unable to find their way into the upper rooms because the cellar door had been locked. After Ward arrived, Mr. Ward decided that nothing had been stolen from his home.

Ernest Redner was not nearly so lucky, however, as the party or parties had unhooked the rear door at his home and gained an entrance through the kitchen. They ransacked every room downstairs and several bedrooms upstairs, taking fifty dollars from the pants pocket of Ernest Redner while he slept, and one dollar from Bernard Redner, who slept in another room. Provincial Police and Detective Trunkich are working on the case.

William Lusk, Well-Known Business Man, Succumbs To Heart Attack

William Lusk, aged 70 years and a lifelong resident of Picton was found dead in his bed at the Miller Canning Factory last Friday morning by Mrs. M. Bailey, who works at the factory. Coming to the house at seven o'clock in the morning for some office supplies, Mrs. Bailey found no sign of Mr. Lusk, so went into the house which adjoins the office. She called but received no answer so looked in the door and saw Mr. Lusk lying in bed, dead.

Mrs. Bailey immediately informed Provincial Constable Price Morris and Dr. Whitmore, the coroner, who decided that an inquest was unnecessary, as the aged man had apparently died from heart failure. The last time Mr. Lusk was seen alive was when he left the theatre in Picton about ten o'clock on Thursday evening. He was well known in the community and highly respected, and took an active interest in business up until the time of his death.

ONTARIO'S CLAIM IS SUPPORTED

W.N. Tilley Contends Canal History Data Should Be Struck Out

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Led by the Province of Ontario, representatives of Quebec and British Columbia supported the objection raised by Hon. W. N. Tilley, K.C., today to an appendix of, over 200 pages being filed on behalf of the Dominion when the waterpower case opened before the supreme court today. Mr. Tilley, Ontario's counsel, contended that the data giving the history of canal development should be struck out, that the province having been given no chance to offer a rebuttal to the appendix which was compiled by the Dominion without notice. For the Dominion Hon. Ernest Lapointe, K.C., said the Dominion was merely anxious to establish all possible information.

NOT PLANNING A VISIT TO CANADA

London, Oct. 2. (C.P. Cable)—The Canadian Press was reliably informed today that there is no reason to believe that the Duke and Duchess of York contemplate an early visit to Canada, as rumored at Ottawa. The same authority stated that there is no foundation for the belief that Premier Mackenzie King proposes to form any invite their Royal Highnesses to Canada when he is in London next week.

YAKOB LAZARUK, POLISH WORKER, HURLED 50 FEET TO HIS DEATH

Strange Fatality At Canada Cement Company's Quarry Today

OTHERS INJURED

Edward Little And Nick Gurniak In Hospital With Injuries

Yakob Lazaruk, Polish worker at the Canada Cement Company, died in the Belleville General Hospital today at 1.30 from injuries received shortly after 11 o'clock this morning when a dynamite cap exploded at the Canada Cement plant hurling him over a 50 foot precipice onto the rocks below. Lazaruk did not regain consciousness from the time he was picked up and brought to the hospital. It is understood that the unfortunate man along with Nick Gurniak, Point Anne, and Ed. Little, Belleville, had just had a dynamite charge placed in a certain hole and although there was no cap attached it exploded throwing small bits of rock in all directions. Lazaruk was hurled over the edge of the quarry where the fall killed him instead injuries. His condition was such that recovery was practically impossible from the beginning. Immediate attention was immediately summoned he failed to rally. Lazaruk has been employed by the Canada Cement Company for fifteen years and during that time he has been engaged in blasting work.

He came to Canada from Poland and resided on the Second Concession of Thurlow where he owned a small farm. He was regarded as a careful worker and Mr. J. H. Legate, Superintendent of the plant, is inclined to account for the nature of the fatality this morning. It is the first accident that has ever occurred at the plant.

Nick Gurniak, Point Anne, and Edward Little, Belleville, will be confined to the hospital for a few days although neither of them are seriously hurt. They are suffering from shock and minor lacerations. Lazaruk leaves a wife and four children, all still under the age of fifteen years. The quarry where the accident occurred is situated north of the plant and the "shot" was placed fifty-seven feet below the surface. Had Lazaruk not been thrown over the precipice he would have recovered as it was the fall of the Dominion when the waterpower case opened before the supreme court today. Mr. Tilley, Ontario's counsel, contended that the data giving the history of canal development should be struck out, that the province having been given no chance to offer a rebuttal to the appendix which was compiled by the Dominion without notice. For the Dominion Hon. Ernest Lapointe, K.C., said the Dominion was merely anxious to establish all possible information.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Basing its claim upon the contention that the Canadian iron and Steel producers are faced with the exceptional handicap in meeting foreign competition, representatives of Algoma Steel Corporation today filed with the Tariff Advisory Board the refused brief urging increase and protection for the industry in that sub. The leading interests which would be directly affected by the high tariff opposed the brief, as well as J. R. Deadman of the Consumers Iron and Steel Co. and the Canadian Council of Agriculture. The brief sought relief to offset the importation of pig iron, scrap and sale steel, alloy and structural steel and urged that certain drawbacks be abolished.

C. D. S. L. SHOW LATEST STYLES

Autumn Modes Displayed By Seven Graceful Mannequins

That for the prevailing mode one must be slim was one of the outstand ing declarations of Miss Leslie Fairund of Noy York City who, assisted by seven graceful mannequins, is conducting a Fashion Show at the Canadian Department Stores. As the models requires inches of slimness, flowing and wraps, forerunners of the Autumn mode, Miss Fairund gave some interesting advice to those short little dears of falls which contribute so much to be mine charm and style. The prevailing silhouette calls for slimness as does series and general femininity are returning to popular favor. In the realm of color, black is very good with deep rich browns and beiges holding an important place in the clothing line, according to Miss Farrand, are distinctly popular. Beige is the favored shade in hosiery for street or afternoon wear but flesh is the accepted shade for the evening.

The stouter ladies assembled received encouragement when they were told that there is absolutely no excuse for being fat. Diet—this is the eternal scourge of avoirdupus, and it is a never failing remedy.

The length of the skirt is of never failing interest. For sports wear the short skirt is in general use with just a little shorter length shown in afternoon dresses but for evening or a drifting back to grandmother's day when there are modifications, for if the skirt is almost trailing the ground at the back, it is much shorter in the front and the uneven hemline is the won general favor.

Many beautiful creations were modelled by the mannequins all of whom are from Toronto. This style show which was shown yesterday was repeated twice today, in the morning and afternoon, and Belleville women learned much which should aid them in promoting the general chic of their costumes.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The devil is very near to those who, like monarchs, are accountable to none but God for their actions.
GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS

TRIBUNE WON

Big Bill Thompson, Mayor of Chicago, is back on the job. He has abandoned the old slogan of "America First." He has adopted a new one. It is "Build the town—prosperity."

He is indignant with newspapers that have "injured the name of Chicago." It is the old cry of crooked politicians caught with the goods.

The Tribune is Thompson's pet aversion. The Tribune is the paper that has done so much to "injure Chicago." Thompson wants the newspapers to "boost."

If they had been boosting instead of ferreting out the crookedness of Chicago politics, there would not have been a general cleanup in the last election. The Thompson machine would be sailing smoothly instead of being smashed.

The Tribune started its fight on crooked politics in Chicago ten years ago. Cunning brains were building a mighty engine of misgovernment.

The Tribune through 10 years of dis appointment and setback in, constantly effort continued to fight the vicious situation.

Last spring the citizens of Chicago smashed the machine with one of the greatest avalanches of votes ever registered in that city.

That was one way the Tribune was hurting Chicago. The Tribune was not content merely to hurt Chicago by smashing the machine. It went into court as a taxpayer and demanded the restoration of misused moneys, including interest, amounting to $2,245,000.52. The Tribune won its suit. It won a victory for honesty and decent government.

The public is not so easily beguiled as it once was in believing that exposures of crooked politics is injurious to the welfare and progress of the community.

LIABILITY INSURANCE

Several months ago, announcement was made that the provincial government had under advisement a suggestion that the carrying of liability insurance by owners of motor cars be made compulsory. Superficial consideration revealed the plan to have many merits, but Mr. Leighton Foster, provincial superintendent of insurance, who has given the matter intensive study, has submitted an adverse report to, the attorney-general. Liability insurance has been compulsory in the state of Massachusetts since January, 1927, a period sufficient for a fair trial. Mr. Foster, seeking first-hand information, went to Massachusetts and his inquiries there convinced him that it was not a plan from which Ontario should pattern. Police records revealed that compulsory liability insurance made motorists careless and increased the number of accidents. As the number of accidents increased and the state refused to permit companies writing mandatory insurance to increase their rates, the companies became dissatisfied and one has withdrawn from the field. Here is the outlook. If the Ontario government insurances compulsory insurance, which is now unlikely. Either the premiums will be so high that large numbers of people will be prohibited from driving motor cars, or, if maximum rates are fixed, as is the case in Massachusetts, the insurance companies will squeal for relief. And yet it would seem that something will have to be done—that, if the Massachusetts system is unsatisfactory, something else will have to be evolved. There are hundreds of men, driving automobiles on Ontario's streets and highways, who, if they caused death or property damage, would be unable to liquidate their liability. The fellow with a shaky car, protected by liability insurance, whose machine is wrecked by the carelessness of a driver of "an old crock", on which no liability is carried, has no redress, as things are at present. Accidents are increasing all over the continent and as premiums are lifted in proportion, more and more motorists are reducing or abandoning their insurance covering. The government, disappointed by the report of its investigator, will have to continue to cast about for a solution. It would seem that some plan better than the hit-and-miss arrangement of the present could be worked out.

C. P. R. HOTELS

An excellent suggestion has been made in connection with the building by Canadian Pacific Railway of two up-to-date hotels in Europe next year—one in London and the other in Antwerp. The company may be depended upon to make these buildings the last word in appearance and comfort and a credit to the Dominion to the progressive spirit of which they will be a fine advertisement. It is characteristic of C.P.R. hotels, wherever they may be found, to possess a Canadian atmosphere. Attractive canvases or familiar beauty-spots bring a memory of home to the Canadian abroad, and recall to the traveler the picturesque and impressive grandeur of the Dominion. They serve, also, as a magnet to the tourist and as an education in the natural advantages of our country. It has been suggested that the C.P.R. has a further opportunity on this occasion of serving the national interests, and by so doing its own interests as well, by equipping the hotels as far as may be practical with Canadian products.

An impression still, unfortunately, prevails abroad—though the truth is becoming more generally known, by reason of tourist visits and the educational propaganda of recent years—that Canada is more or less of a summer show place, and that winter activities are confined largely to outdoor sports. The great Winnipeg exhibition is known to be undecisive, the British public in this respect but it would be a good thing to keep up the good work there began by establishing a permanent exhibition, in the west London head, of the superiority of Canadian manufacturers. It would be even more advantageous to have such an object-lesson in Belgium of the great industrial developments of the Dominion. The C.P.R. has done more, perhaps, than any other organization to make Canada better known to foreign tourists and to cater to the requirements of Canadians abroad. Whatever policy it may adopt in regard to the furnishings of the new European hotels it is about to add to its system will undoubtedly be dictated by the desire to serve patrons to the best advantage and to promote the interests of Canada. For that reason the suggestion, regarding the equipment of the buildings with fittings and furniture made in Canada, is one which is likely to receive sympathetic consideration by the management.

LUCK

A queer little fellow came up to my side
As I sat all alone on the shore,
One half of him glistened in raiment of pride,
Rags and tatters the other half wore.
He both laughed and frowned as he walked up to me,
And I said unto him: "Pray now, who can you be?
"Oh, I am the fellow called 'Luck,'" answered he.
"Well I'd never have known you," I ventured to say,
"You are one, yet you look just like two,
I'd never have known you rigged up in that way,"
And he said: "Very few people do.

I'm a fellow that's frequently misunderstood,
Some would know but the fine half of me if they could
But I make them all swallow the bad with the good.
"You're a queer little fellow," I said with a grin,
"And I'm glad I've met you today,
I thank you for times that you've helped me to win,"
And he laughed in his jolliest way.
And he said: "Of my frowning you've seen quite a lot,
But now that the sting of the loss is forgot,
Can you look back and say if 'twas bad luck or got?"
So half with a smile, and half with a frown
I wander about among men,
And some I raise high and some I pull down
And set them to working again.
In broadcloths and tatters I go about clad,
And sometimes men laugh when they they ought to be sad,
But it's fearfully hard to tell Good Luck from bad.

SCIENCE FINDS THE WHITE OF AN EGG

Chicago, Ill— While the general public has known for a long time that it is the yolk of an egg that is rich inwardly—it hits and then runscience has just found out what the white is all about.

The fifth separate and distinct protein making up the white of eggs has been determined by Dr. Arthur O. Cole, of the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois located here it was announced today. Doctor Cole had previously determined the four others. These five proteins constitute the total protein content of egg white

"The countless proteins found in nature are so uniform in composition that it is impossible to use the ordinary chemical methods for their identification," Doctor Cole explained. "For this purpose we made use of the extremely delicate biological, or immunological, reactions which are so sensitive that it is possible to detect a specific protein in solutions containing as little as one part in ten thousand of that particular protein.

"The white of the hen's egg contains about five per cent protein, the remainder being mostly water. We have been able to show that this egg white is composed of five proteins known as ovomucin, ovoglobulin, ovalbumin, conalbumin and ovomucid.

MARKET SMALL.

This morning's market was small, decidedly small, but those who did not attend missed some lovely Golden Bantam corn, practically the last of the season. This corn was only picked to-day. Other vegetables were waiting for the prices that have prevailed all summer, while eggs were still expensive, at 60, 62 and 65 cents the dozen.

WILL ATTEND GAME

Many of the alumni of Queen's University here are planning on seeing the Varsity-Queen's game in Kingston Saturday afternoon. Although Queen's were defeated by Hamilton last Saturday to an exhibition game, Varsity have not won as yet, so a good battle should result in the opener of the Intercollegiate Rugby Union. The game is scheduled to commence at two-thirty.

PICTON FAIR TO-DAY

Picton Fair opens today and from all indications a large crowd was on hand to take in the horse races and the exhibits. This fair is ordinarily held much earlier in the year but the directors felt that owing to the fact that many farmers were too busy to take part in it in September, that they would try it for a year in October. As practically all the harvesting is finished in Prince Edward the Fair should be an unqualified success.

FOOTBALL TEAM TO KINGSTON

A special train, carrying the city of Belleville, will go to Kingston on Thursday to play a picked eleven from the Limestone City. The local team has had phenomenal success this year and should have little trouble in the Kingston soccer enthusiasts. The Kingston club issued a challenge to any team from Belleville, Trenton or Tweed.

THE MELANCHOLY DAYS

And now the Autumn days have come,
The saddest of the year.

Perhaps the saddest, and yet, what kids—bedad! person does not feel, fit as a fiddle when first cold morning's kid locks over the beauties of nature with a clearer eye. In another three weeks the trees will be one mass of color, and this beautiful city will be in her best. Belleville's city of trees has something to be proud of in her wide shaded avenues . and in the beauty which they reveal . . .

ROBERT J. REID

There passed into the Great Beyond one of the oldest residents of the Jct. on occasion of Tyendinaga in the person of Mr. Robert J. Reid, who died on Sunday, September 23rd. He was born in Milltown in the year 1836 and married Miss Loderna Strader in 1861. Nine children blessed this union of whom all are living. EASTERN STAR BEDDIE

Last evening at the home of Mrs. Ella Brecken was held one of the most successful, in every way, brides and euchre parties of the year. The bridge was under the auspices of the Eastern Star, and for the benefit of that club. About forty attended the party, which did not break up until early in the morning.

The prize winners were as follows:

Euchre—1st Ladies' Mrs. Temple; 2nd, Mrs. Calder; 1st Mens, Harold Bateman; 2nd, Bruce Bolton. Consolation, Mrs. Benson.

Euchre—1st Lady, Mrs. Ingram; 1st Men's, Mr. Frank Rainbird. Consolation, Mrs. H. H. Hedfern.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Shipping and sailing a world with laughter while beneath the merry air face is a breaking heart, is the part as played by Lon Chaney in his latest production, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," which made its first showing at the local Capitol Theatre last evening. The picture is perhaps one of the best seen in Belleville in some time. It has outstanding dramatic power and through it runs a charming love story. The scenes are laid in the Italian food hills amid care-free Italian people. Lon Chaney plays the part of a circus clown beloved by all, and how a little child comes into his life, and growing into womanhood, the idol of an ever powering and hopeless love is the theme of the story. Loretta Young plays the leading role and she is the most appealing heroine and the cute brunette ingenue and actor "par excellence", News and a comedy complete a programme which no one can afford to miss.

Mr. Ketcheson thought it would suggest a presentation in the armouries where there or four sectional meets might occur. It would be advisable to hold the banquet on a separate occasion." MAJOR SEAGRAVE AFTER RECORD

Plans Are Being Kept Secret of New Machine At London

London, (C.P.)—Much car, is being taken to prevent leakage of details of the car and motor boat in which Major H. O. D. Seagrave, is planning to set up new world speed records in American next March.

Details of construction would, of course, be extremely useful to a foreign rival, and in order to maintain secrecy the car is being made in parts in 28 different British works, and not one knows what the other is doing. When the parts are ready the car will be assembled in another secret factory.

"Without disclosing any secret which would be detrimental to British prestige, I can say that my original estimate of a speed of 250 miles per hour can now be said to be guaranteed," says the automobile editor of the Daily News.

"There is every chance, in fact, that any new records between now and March will look insignificant when Major Seagrave lets his new car out on the Daytona sands next year."

"Its designer, Captain J., living one of the best known engineers in Britain, who was mostly responsible for the building of the 1,000 h.p. car in which Segrave got his latest 200 m.P.h. has created a machine which, as far as humanly possible, will be free from risk. The car's company is confident of producing a tire with a satisfactory margin stress safety.

"The keel of the 1,000 h.p. hydroplane, hull and boat is down in a secret building yard on the South Coast this week. Co-operating with Major Segrave in the actual designing work is J. Dutch, a clever autocrafted engineer. Between them they have timed a 500 h.p. boat to travel over 75 m. p.m., and when the special 1,000 h.p. boat is ready for the test Segrave will be experienced enought to handle her."

INDIANS' ANNUAL POW-WOW STARTS

Ojibways Gather To Continue Ancient Custom of Worship

Rama, Ont. (C.P.)—Ojibway Indians from the Rama and adjoining reserves recently held their annual "powwow," and hundreds of members were situated in all parts of the province gathered on Chemito observe the ancient customs of their race.

Although the modern administration of the Indian Department is to a great extent done away with many of the historic ceremonies of the "powwow, so that the spirit of the ancient a marked resemblance to the fall fairs held in rural centres, nevertheless there were many distinctive Indian features to it.

The picturesque costumes of the leaders of the tribe were seen around the reserve grounds, and a great parade was held each day, when the most available costume was worn. The various bands of the Ojibways were donned beads, buckles and feathers and paraded before the admiring throngs assembled as were their primal ancestors.

The effects of one party attending the pow-wow was a transgression of the reserve in an ancient covered wagon, which was accompanied, strangely enough by a modern car. The contrast pleased the Indians immensely and the cowboy and Indian were always the subject of much curiosity from the younger members of the tribe, who had heard of them only in the tales of their grandparents.

The pow-wow was made the occasion of the opening of the new Orangehall by hall, just completed, for the use of the Ojibways on the Rama reserve. The opening ceremonies were conducted by Chief Alder York and Dr. Peter McGibbon, federal M.P. for the riding.

appoint an Executive Committee and every member whose name has appeared above is requested to attend to attend in order that subscription lists may be opened. A tentative date, Friday, October 12, was set for the presentation. The Walkerville and Bell Telephone bands will be asked to send representatives to this gathering.

Geo. Griffin, Secretary of the McDonald, moved that a vote of thanks be tendered the Guelph Club for the splendid treatment accorded the local team last Saturday.

Mr. Rowsome announced that a general meeting to discuss next year's ball next year would be held within the next two weeks.

FIND VAN DYCK WORTH PLENTY

Bought By Furniture Dealer For Paltry Twenty-Five Dollars

London, (C.P.—A shabby old picture, badly gashed, and very dirty which James O'Grady, a furniture dealer, of Hampstead, bought for $25 a few months ago has been examined by an expert who believes it to be the work of Sir Anthony Van Dyck.

The expert represents the Earl of Arundel with his eldest grandson, afterwards the fifth Duke of Norfolk. The date of the picture is 1620 and the boy is wearing a pink tunic.

"Only months ago," said Mr. O'Grady, who is an exponent of the Royal Field Artillery, "I bought the picture in an old furniture shop near St. Albans, and hung it in my room covered with an old army blanket.

"I was much puzzled as to what to put side "the blanket, and, after a hurried glance at the picture said he wanted to buy it.

"But he seemed so eager that I refused him. Then I showed it to a well-known dealer. There were several big gushes in the picture, and my friend suggested that the varnish seemed to rub off easily.

"Subsequently I decided to have it restored and repaired and it has been me about $100."

His offer was also made of $20,000 by a well- known American art collector for another version. I believe that the Earl Arundel is an heirloom. This being the case, the value of Mr. O'Grady's picture is materially increased.

LUXURIOUS PLANE FOR OCEAN SERVICE

Washington, D.C. — A luxurious liner of the air is to carry passengers next summer from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N.J., when the great Zeppelin Graf Zeppelin is launched for the first trip of a regular transAtlantic service.

A description of the airship has been brought to this country by Lieut Comm. Garland Fulton, chief of the lighter-than-aircraft division of the navy.

With Lieut. Comm. C. E. Rosendahl skipper of the navy's Los Angeles.Commander Fulton spent considerable time at Friedrichshafen studying the new German craft. Commander Rosendahl will be aboard on test flights and is also to skipper the Graf Zeppelin.

In addition to quarters for a crew of thirty officers and men, Commander Fulton says, there are accommodations for thirty passengers on the zeppelin, including a spacious salon to be used as dining and lounging room. The stateroom resemble those on a sea-going passenger liner, except that there is a minimum of furniture all of light weight. There are two bunks in each stateroom, the upper being swung from the ceiling. The walls are papered in an artistic uniform design.

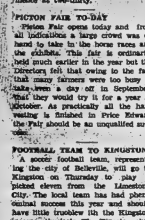

BLESSED AND CURSED ARE SOME CHILDREN

Glasgow, Scotland. (C.P.)—Eldest and youngest children in the family constellation tend to be both blessed and cursed, declares Dr. R. D. Oliver, of London, at the psychology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

The eldest and youngest children are prone to be brought with special possibilities. People of genius tended to come from one or the other he said.

Among the eldest children the ratio of chances of genius was three to one compared with intermediate members of the family, and among the youngest children two to one. But in comparatively few cases eldest children tended more to become idiots and criminals, particularly the latter.

Wilful Wives

CHAPTER 60

Anxious Husbands

It was two o'clock in the morning when Hal and Steve returned home. They stopped off at Hal's apartment. Hal could see Steve's reluctance to return to his own home and face again Irma's hysteria or recriminations, so he suggested:

"Drop in for a minute and have a nightcap."

Steve assented, with alacrity. Hal was astonished to find Marguerite absent; then he remembered that they had had a dinner engagement that had completely slipped his mind, after all that transpired that evening. He assumed that Marguerite had kept the appointment and made some excuse for his absence, but it was queer that she wasn't at home now. They boasts were conservative people, and no night-club parties ever followed their dinners.

"Maybe she's with Irma," suggested Steve. "Care to come up with me and get her?"

They went up stairs together. Blank silence greeted them in the Brockton apartment. It was dismally empty. They stared at each other.

"Irma said she'd leave, if I went out tonight," said Steve. "Do you suppose she's skipped?"

"Do you suppose they've both skipped?" asked Hal grimly.

"You never can tell what women will do," Steve went to the door of Irma's dressing-room and opened it. "Nothing seems to be missing. She'd not have gone without taking clothes" ..... "Oh, she would, if she wanted to go badly enough. She'll simply buy others..... and charge them to you. Women are resourceful these days, old man."

"Too resourceful," muttered Steve. He looked at Hal helplessly. "Well, what shall we do?"

"Darned if I know. Just sit and wait, I guess..... But I can't figure out why Marguerite should have gone too."

"Probably Irma worked her up to it. I fancy that, when two women who have grudges against their husbands get together, one can easily influence the other."

Hal shrugged. "Well, I'm off to bed." Steve hesitated, "I suppose I ought to, too ..... But, you know, there might have been an accident ..... Marguerite might have gone to that dinner and ....."

Hal was already at the 'phone. "It's beastly to wake people up at this hour, but I'll take a chance on getting Only Parson's butler."

Hal put down the telephone receiver and waved his brow. Steve noticed his hand was shaking.

"You've got a head on you," said Hal, with a laugh that was not what by a success. "Thank you said accident ..... All right, the servants it is, but I'd certainly hate to be told by that smirking maid of Marguerite's that she's gone away without saying a word."

Steve confessed frankly: "I don't dare ring for our maid. After that scene tonight they'll know too darn much."

Hal lit a cigarette and began to pace the floor. Each one of the doors of a chair and started idly at the wall.

After ten minutes, Hal said abruptly: "There's no use skirking this. I've got to know."

He started for the door, just as it was opened by Irma, radiant in an evening gown, laughing, gay, showing no trace of her agitation of the early evening. Marguerite, in a blue velvet coat made her look something out of a Watteau portrait, followed her. And bringing up the rear, was the smiling Harris.

Irma stopped dead on the threshold and surveyed the two men coolly. "Oh, so you're back, you two? Did you have a nice evening?"

They were too amazed to answer her, at first, and Marguerite put in, laughingly: "Of course, they did, dear."

"Where have you been?" demanded Steve, trying to look dignified and feeling incredibly sheepish.

"To the latest revue and a new night club, with Marguerite and Mr. Harris," Irma told him pleasantly. "But Mr. Harris thought the food there was impossible, so I'm going to make one of my justly famous rarebits for him."

Hal greeted Harris with a nod and drew Marguerite aside.

"Did you happen to remember that we had a dinner engagement tonight ..... a very important engagement?"

"Yes ..... Did you remember?"

"Never mind. I phoned and made cur excuses in my best manner. And

H. Reynolds of Queen's University, Kingston, and George V. Blakely and Bonnycastle were the best for the Collegiate and Blakely's brilliant run, when the Collegiate were backed to their twenty yard line, was the feature of the game. The Collegiate players also seemed to be lacking in experience and were decidedly outclassed by Purchase, the clever quarter on the Albert team.

It didn't matter anyway, because our hostess has the fla and the party was being scrapped.

She turned back to Harris and allowed him to retiere her of her wrap. The gesture made Hal furious, because his own hands were outstretched to perform that selfsame duty. Marguerite's actions seemed to reveal her total indifference toward him.

A sleepy maid brought Irma the things for her rarebit, and she went to work. Marguerite started the phonograph, and she and Harris danced. Hal and Steve might just as well have been elsewhere, for all the interest their presence occasioned.

When the rarebit was ready to be served, Irma brought out bottles of near beer and filled the glasses. "It's the only thing to drink we have in the house. Sorry."

She lifted her glass with the rest. Her eyes were very bright, too bright. There was laughter in her voice as she said: "To freedom!" No one could have guessed that her heart was breaking.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

Alcorf College won the opening game of the Bay of Quinte Rugby League from B. C. I. and V. S. on Saturday afternoon. The score was 7 to 3 and represents the play. The B. C. I. and V. S. team were leading by 4 points with only ten minutes of the last quarter left to play and Purchase the star quarter of the Albert team, made a run around the left end for a touchdown. This put Albert one point in the lead and they retained their lead till the end of the game.

Last night only a light practice was indulged in by the boys as they were rather stiff from the game on Saturday. Coach Shiels has not seen much of his players yet. He expects them to win the next game by twenty points and they probably will. Albert College always manages to beat the Collegiate team the first game. It has been so for the last three years. The games that follow have always been won by B. C. I. and this year will be no exception to the rule.

A Simple Cotton Frock That Spells Chic For Its Wearer

OCCASIONALLY one has the good fortune to meet a person who seems to be born with that certain air of poise and well-bearing which makes her appear smart in the simplest attire. The young girl above is one of those people who "simply knows how to wear her clothes," as the chic printed dress that she is wearing bears proof. The scalloped outline of the bat-pleated skirt gives exceedingly good lines and provides for ample softness in a most charming way. The neckline, consisting of a collar that forms a jabot at the left side, is another new and unique detail of the design. The short kimono sleeves, collar and scalloped outline of pleats are bound with plain fabric to match the figure of the dress material. For informal occasions and sports wear during the fall season, this model made in poupre, linen, shirting silk or rayon, proves cool as well as smart. (Copyright, 1928, by Bell-syn.)

WOODLEY'S FURRIERS

ENFORCEMENT OF CORN BORER ACT

Department Issues Instructions To Prevent Spread of Pest

The Corn Borer Act has come into force in the County of Hastings, it has been announced by J. M. Carl, Stirling, Inspector for this district. This means that all corn must either be cut level with the ground and all remnants gathered and burned, or, if cut higher, the stubble must be ploughed under completely, either this fall or next spring, and that any stubble or pieces of stalks dragged up again must be gathered and burned.

The best way to deal with them is to leave them until spring and then pull the stalks up by the roots and all coarse weeds, and burn them, then plough and spade the ground.

The Department has issued the following instructions for lessening the amount of hand-picking and burning:

1. Cut the corn low. Low cutting attachments for binders are now available, costing about $20.00. On small plots, cut the corn with a hoe, not a sickle.

2. If the stubble is more than two inches high, crush it thoroughly before ploughing by running a heavy roller or planker over it twice, lengthwise the rows; or disc it twice; or lift it out with a plough and level it with the harrow. Crushing the stubble kills many borers.

3. Use a wide-furrow plough, never a narrow. Tractor ploughs should have a roller coulter and shimmer; walking ploughs a skimmer and a fin or high share for a knife coulter. Sometimes a chain or long wire is also necessary.

4. Never plough crosswise, but always lengthwise of the rows.

5. Plough 6 inches deep, if possible, and run the last furrow before the stubble row as close to it as possible, so that on the next round the stubble will all fall flat into the furrow and be buried completely.

6. Never plough when the ground is too dry to do a good job.

7. Spring ploughing usually results in less picking, but fall ploughing, especially after crushing the stubble, saves time for other spring work.

8. When cultivating in spring, use a disc, and in sowing a disc drill. Toothed implements drag up the stubble.

9. Rolling in spring before cultivating often helps to lessen the amount of stubble dragged up.

LIFE PRISONER WORKED FOR S. A.

Re-claimed By Salvation Army; De Rose a Model Worker

Toronto, Ont., (C.P.)— The type of work carried on by the Salvation Army in reclaiming prisoners, and which was recently advocated by Chief Constable Draper of Toronto, is exemplified in the life story of Peter De Rose, who has just died here in his 82nd. year.

Twenty-two years ago Brigadier Fraser of the Salvation Army, who visited Portsmouth penitentiary on a mission of interviewing the prisoners discovered De Rose imprisoned for life on the charge of murder. He had already served 28 years. He was without relatives or friends interested in the case, the Army made application for the release of De Rose, appealing to the Minister of Justice on his behalf. Eventually a parole for forty years was granted on condition that employment was found for the prisoner and that the Army would assume entire responsibility for fourteen years. De Rose had resided in Toronto under the care of the Salvation Army. About eight years ago, recounting the exemplary conduct of De Rose, application was made, for his complete pardon, which was granted by the Governor-General of Canada.

Although a free man, De Rose chose to remain with the Army and continued to reside at the Augusta Avenue Hostel, under the direction of Major White. When in good health he was industrious, but for several years he had been incapacitated through feebleness. A French-Canadian by birth, he was born in Three-Rivers. It was while in the West he became entangled in a brawl in which one of his companions was killed. Two others, with De Rose were sentenced to be hanged and were imprisoned in the Westminster Penitentiary. One of his companions escaped and was recaptured while the other was executed. De Rose's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

The Gigantic Salada Success Started With a Revolutionary Idea

WHEN P. C. Larkin, 36 years ago, conceived the idea of packing a high-grade tea in metal packages, little did he dream of the great business that was to be built on that MAIN idea.

Revolutionized the Tea Business of this Continent

The story of SALADA is one of the romances of the business world. It is one of the outstanding advertising examples of the power of a MAIN IDEA, for P. C. Larkin with his metal package idea revolutionized the tea business of Canada and the United States.

China and Japan Teas Controlled the Market

Forty years ago the Canadian market was controlled by China and Japan teas, the largest sale being of China teas of poor quality.

P. C. Larkin, who was in the wholesale tea business at that time, thought it deplorable that Canadians should be consuming these cheap teas, whereas in England, the most particular tea-drinking country in the world, the finer grade Ceylon and Indian teas had practically driven the cheap China teas off the market.

Ceylon Teas Little Known

Mr. Larkin tried to interest Canadian grocers in fine Ceylon teas, feeling sure that Canada would follow England's example if given the opportunity, but grocers bought very sparingly, generally using the Ceylons to mix with the Chinas to improve the flavor of the cheap teas.

The public had no real chance to learn about these finer Ceylon teas and there seemed no way to get these superior teas into the homes. Tea was sold in bulk from open chests in the stores. If a person asked for Ceylon tea, there was no assurance she would get it. Teas looked much alike to the unskilled eye and China teas could be readily sold for Ceylons.

Mr. Larkin Finds His Idea

The idea of putting fine-grade Ceylon teas in metal packages for resale to the consumer occurred to Mr. Larkin. The more he thought about it, the more enthusiastic he grew. Here was a way to put Ceylon tea on the market so that consumers would be certain of getting the genuine article. The metal package would also protect the tea from dust, moisture and grocery store odors, for tea readily absorbs odors of soap, oranges, onions, matches, spices or anything near by.

P. C. Larkin's package idea may not seem such a big one now but there was hardly an item sold in packages at that time. Mr. Larkin's idea was a revolutionary one—a forerunner of the great demand enjoyed to-day for package foods and other package goods.

The New Tea was Called Golden Tea Pot Blend

P. C. Larkin had so much confidence in his package tea idea that he started a new enterprise in 1892 and called it the Salada Tea Company. The name SALADA was chosen because of its Oriental origin and its distinctiveness. It was originally the name of a far Eastern tea garden. The tea in the packages, strange to say, was called Golden Tea Pot Blend.

Many Grocers Didn't Co-operate

Many grocers did not take to P. C. Larkin's new fangled package tea idea. They were content to sell poor quality China teas in bulk as long as consumers were satisfied. They didn't think it was up to them to tell the public about the advantages of using the Golden Tea Pot Blend of fine Ceylon teas. They were passive—neutral—disinterested.

Mr. Larkin Decides to Advertise

Mr. Larkin decided there was only one thing to do. That was to tell the public himself about these fine-flavor, better-quality teas in the Golden Tea Pot Blend package, so he became a pioneer newspaper advertiser of a grocery article sold in a sealed package.

Package Idea Meets Obstacles

Even a well-advertised article takes time to win a market, and the very newness of the package idea was at first a handicap. People were accustomed to buying tea and almost every other grocery article in bulk. They would not change their habits over night. The business grew slowly at first, but Mr. Larkin had faith in his idea and fought on, shouldering the burden of Manager, Salesman, Bookkeeper and everything else.

Strange to relate SALADA was first called Golden Tea Pot Blend. The name of the company was the Salada Tea Company. When people commenced to ask for the tea by the name SALADA, Mr. Larkin promptly changed the name of his brand to SALADA as shown below:—

One of the earliest advertisements of Salada showing how the MAIN idea was advertised by this pioneer advertiser of packaged goods

Just 15,000 packages were sold in 1896. A pitifully small amount compared with the 40,000,000 packets sold in 1927. But Mr. Larkin never lost heart. He kept on working and advertising.

Name Changed to Salada

Business gradually began to pick up. People who tried the fine Ceylon tea in the metal packages liked it and continued to buy it. Mr. Larkin found that a great proportion were asking for it by the name SALADA, which was the name of the Company, instead of the name Golden Tea Pot Blend. Thereupon, Mr. Larkin abandoned the name, Golden Tea Pot, and had SALADA placed in large letters on the packages and featured it boldly in his advertisements.

Expansion Begun

Mr. Larkin had made so much progress with his package tea idea by 1895 that a branch was opened in Montreal. Then the American market was invaded in 1897 and a branch opened in Buffalo, where his Canadian success was repeated in the States. From that time on SALADA swept along to greater and greater heights.

To-day the great SALADA building in Toronto, with its luxurious furnishings, its marvelous automatic mixing, weighing and packing machinery, its own staff club rooms and bowling green, is merely one evidence of SALADA'S success. There is a new plant in Montreal, and the plant in Boston, which was doubled last year, is the largest in the world devoted exclusively to the packeting and merchandising of tea. There are SALADA branch offices in Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland, San Francisco, Pittsburg, Chicago, Los Angeles, Seattle, Detroit, Philadelphia, Washington and Omaha in the States. In England at London. In Ceylon at Colombo.

Newspapers and Metal Signs

No premiums have ever been given to induce people to buy SALADA. No tea has been sold to grocers on consignment. No fantastic selling stunts have been practised. But the quality, the saleability and the margin of profit have been guaranteed to the grocer regardless of market conditions. Many forms of advertising have been tried off and on, but the bulk of the appropriation has been concentrated in newspapers and enameled signs year after year. Mr. Larkin has invested millions in newspaper space and made millions of dollars. To-day he is the Hon. P. C. Larkin and Canada's High Commissioner in England, while SALADA marches successfully on under the guidance of his son, Gerald Larkin.

Many Have Missed the MAIN Idea

Many have marvelled at the success of SALADA. Many have sought to win success, too, by patterning their advertising after SALADA. They have thought Mr. Larkin's success was due to the size of SALADA advertisements, or to the style of the bold SALADA lettering, or to the brevity of the copy.

They have overlooked the simple fact that the foundation of SALADA'S success was a fundamentally sound MAIN idea. Mr. Larkin did not take the China teas the public were then consuming and pack them in packets. He introduced to the public a better tea—a fine Ceylon tea of far more delicious flavor, more delightful aroma and more satisfying quality than the China teas the public were consuming at that time. He gave them this tea in a sealed dust-proof, moisture-proof metal package—an innovation at that time. He gave them a uniform blend of tea that they could identify and buy by name. Then he had the faith and the courage to advertise this better tea in a metal package persistently, month after month, good times or bad times, and to sell it fearlessly to the trade.

A shrewd, fearless, business man plus a sound MAIN idea were the combination that won success for Salada.

Ideas Yet to be Found

It is still possible to uncover real-basic advertising and selling ideas for many different lines of businesses, possibly not revolutionary ideas such as was SALADA'S package idea, thirty-six years ago, but ideas of definite selling power. The James Fisher organization have helped others find such ideas and possibly could assist you, too. Many a manufacturing industry could be made much more successful then it is today if a Main Idea for it were developed.

Our booklet, "The Main Idea," shows numerous examples of successful advertising and selling ideas used by prominent advertisers. A copy will be gladly mailed to you on request.

Individual Necklines Are Featured In The Summer Mode

THE search for new and unique necklines for summer frocks has reached great heights among designers both in America and Paris. An original one of different type appears in—seemingly in a three thread jersey with fringe for their finish. The frock above features a decidedly new treatment of a pointed bodice from a V neck in front to the back where the pointed line is in a horizontal line. Another new and unusual feature is the long tight sleeves developed in the same jersey fabric. A clever, two-piece dress offering for early autumn wear is the model in satin in all-over lace, posey print or plain crepe.

WORLD'S SERIES BATTLE RENEWED

World's Series Contenders of 1926 Will Fight It Out Again

With the two major leagues contending their 1928 championship campaigns, New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals were nominated as the American and National representatives in the coming world series.

Now, with the winners being only decreed during the final two days of play, The Yankees and Cards will on Thursday, at the New York Yankee stadium, renew their world series argument of 1926.

Both squads will enter the fall classic weary of an exhilirating race for the pennant. The Yanks, with the help of Fermont and Moore,to say nothing of Gehringin the outfield, will put up a shaky front to offset the vicious attack of the Missourians.

Alexander Again

Two years ago one bleak afternoon at the Yankee Stadium it was the clever pitching of "Big Alex" Alexander who denied the Yanks their chance to clinch the title. The same Alex, still going strong, is expected to get the call into the opening game Thursday next, with Walter Hoyt, one Yankee who has fought successfully throughout a torrid campaign, as the starting hope for Gotham.

While the Yanks, with Ruth, Lazeri and Dugan hinging around, are not given much of a chance against the Cards, the series is looked upon by the experts as being a battle to the end. The Cards have clinched a pennant, Sherdel and Frankhouse will back their slim hope on pitching. Bottomley, Frisch, Haines and Wilson are expected to supply a batting punch that will set the terrific pace of Messrs. Ruth, Gehrig and company.

Expect Record Crowd

Needless to say, New York fandom is enthused, with no less than 32,000 reserved seats already sold and 60,000 more were put on sale yesterday. The series will start Thursday in New York, with the second game on Friday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of the following week will see the opening into St., Louis. If the two other games Edmonton tomorrow.

BASEBALL MYTHS OF OLDEN DAYS

To most of the present generation of fans who never knew him but the ancient lore of the game, such players as Kid Gleitz, Pop Anson, and Hoss Radbourne are myths—figures now as dim as Hercules and Mercury. Even Honus Wagner and Larry Lajoie are little more than shadows to most of the present-day crowds.

How Cobb, Speaker and Johnson are on their way into the same shadowy country, where most of their glory will be under the dust of the box score records.

It will be some time before they can rig out another record equal to Cobb's. And when the Babe is through it will be some time before they dig up another Human Howitzer who can grind out as many home runs. Coon is a hit maker, run maker, base stealer, and Ruth as a home run collector, will have something to shoot at for more than one generation of fans.

Figures are necessary to decide the argument they will be played Thursday and Friday back in New York.

GOSLIN WINS BY A SINGLE POINT

Beats Out Manush By Narrow Margin For American League Crown

By the margin of a single point, "Goose" Goslin, Washington outfielder beat out Heinie Manush, of St. Louis, for the batting championship of the 1928 American League season, unofficial averages show: Goslin's average was .379, while Manush's was .378.

Unofficial statistics show "The Goose" batted 486 times and got 172 hits, scoring 108 runs. Manush batted 628 times, bagging 241 hits and scoring 104 times.

Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees was piped in third place by the unofficial tabulation with a .373 average.

The race for the championship was the closest in the American League's history, the lead alternating between Manush and Goslin during the past two weeks.

Manush was far from the top most of the season, but in the closing weeks of play batted around the .400 mark to push Goslin.

KITCHENER STILL PLAYING HOCKEY

'Flying Dutchmen' To Operate There And 'Million-aires' In Toronto

London, Oct. 2.—Kitchener will be in the Canadian Hockey league this season. A definite statement regarding the Kitchener and Toronto hockey situation has been made by F. O. "Teddy" Oke. The Kitchener team will be known as the "Flying Dutchmen," and will be operated by Aid. Camp. The directors of the club are to be Kitchener men.

The Toronto team will be known as the Millionaires, and will be controlled by P. O. Oke who has been granted territorial rights in minor professional hockey in Toronto.

Port Erie was interested in purchasing a franchise, but a readjustment of hockey team, but a deal was not accepted and arrangements were completed whereby a syndicate took over the Kitchener club. The new company has a nine-year lease on the Kitchener arena.

The following players are available for the Toronto team: Harry Holmes, "Bud" Fisher, goals; Jack Cameron, defence; Rice, Doraty, A. Clark, G. Clark, Dunning, Martin, Human, forwards.

The following players are likely to line up with the Kitchener team: Moore, goal; Gorman McFarlane, Ramage, defence; defence; Ancaster, Miller Randle, Cowan, forwards.

There will be several new players on the London team this season. Manager Bert Corbeau will arrive in London next week and will announce his plans for the year. It is understood that Corcau has arranged some player deals which will bring new talent to London.

TRICK KNEES GET MUCH ATTENTION

One of the Camp Borden football stars sent all the way to Vancouver for a hinge-like contrivance to protect a gimpy knee, which provides for this player continuing in the game without running the risk of further injury. "Huck Welch is using a support of similar design and many others in football will follow suit and add protection to knees already on the weak side.

Elvien newons of Carlyle, Scotland, have sadly hurt by a motor car in the heat, but she was finally shot.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer"

Now that the baseball season is over (except for the cheering and the awards), we might as well start in to cheer up the Collegiate Rugby team for it's long and hard gripe) toward another league championship.

They were defeated in their opener last Saturday by the score of seven to six, by their ancient rivals from the Trent Highway, Albert College. From all accounts the College boys deserved their win and really prove some stumbling block in the path of the other teams in the circuit.

Rugby is a game which has never proved very popular with the crowd, in this city. At one time Belleville was represented by a smart team in Intermediate Interscholastic but since then the game has gradually died out until it is kept alive in this city only by the two junior intercollegiate teams, Belleville Collegiate and Albert College.

To those people who don't know the game rugby seems to be nothing but a jumbled up mess of men running around the field after an egg shaped ball, and everyone seems to be glad of getting the chance to pile on someone else to be friend or foe.

But let that person be taken to a game by some fan who understands what it is all about and is able and willing to explain the various plays, and we have no doubt that before many games have passed he will have the fever and will be another convert to the ancient and honourable game of rugby.

Toronto University has been the gainer and Belleville the loser by the transfer of Bob Scott, third baseman of the Nationals to the above named place. Bob left yesterday for Toronto where he will take up reforestation work during the winter months, for there is no place to play as the present time. Car. Arnott operated the club at a loss last year, and it is doubtful if he will open up again this year.

That is some record to shoot at. To be a regular member of the team which won the Provincial Championship at the age of nineteen. And Bob deserved his place on the team, as he is a hitter of no mean ability, and his fielding while none too steady at times, has been O.K. in the pinches.

And what are we going to do for a hockey team this winter? It appears as though we will be doing without for the first time in years, for there is no place to play at the present time. Car. Arnott operated the club at a loss last year, and it is doubtful if he will open up again this year.

"Bouncer" Holway, of Kingston, is in Belleville at the present time and reports that Kingston will be back in the Intermediate O. H. A. this year stronger than ever, which is more than we can say for Belleville.

There is no use holding a postmortem on Bell Telephone's downfall before Belleville Nationals. The pattern Ontario team have a smart club—smarter than Peterborough last year—and "Hoot" Gibson, their stock right-hander, looks like the best pitching prospect in Ontario. With pitchers returned, The Star Trophy champions would have gone a long ways, and the fact that the Toronto heavy-hitters around local parts, were able to get only two safe blows off Gibson last Wednesday at Belleville, is ample testimony.—Toronto Star Weekly.

TUNNEY WEDS AT HOUSE OF TASSO

Rome—Oct. 2—A despatch to Il Messagerro, from Sorrento says that the civil marriage of Gene Tunney and Mary Josephine Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., will take place in Sorrento at the Hotel Excelsior—"House of Tasso" where the famous poet who wrote "Jerusalem" was born.

The correspondent pointed out that zoning had not been developed, so he time of Tasso, but that the poet did chronicle some fights between Saracens and Christians, and a duel between Agrenta and Tancred which was considered good enough as fighting.

The religious ceremony is likely to be held in the Sacristy of the Chapel of Corpus Domini, one of the most picturesque in Sorrento. This is situated within the walls of the Hotel Tramontano, a sanctuary often visited by the late Queen Margherita of Italy and present Duchess of Genoa, and Ludwig, the mad king of Bavaria. It is understood that the Podesta of Sorrento, Duke Giovanni Maresca di Serracapriola Della Salandra, has been approached to perform the civil ceremony. Sorrento has never seen a Royal wedding or a Royal visit but was the favorite haunt of Byron and Gorky and other intellectuals.

MODERN STEER AS MEAT SUPPLY

Manufacture and distribution of meat has been, and still is, the principal service performed for the community by the packing industry.

It is therefore not an unnatural conception that when the packer buys a steer he is buying beer. In the light of modern developments in the science of meat packing, this conception is not strictly correct. The steer supply of meat; he is a bundle of goods done up in skin, which the packer proceeds to unwrap and sort out into a variety of products.

The diversity of products which the packer gained by the findings of industrial and meicia research, is said to recover from those parts of the animal which were formerly considered as waste, is amazing. These products, many of which are essential materials for important industries, have taken an important part in developing the modern packing plant to its present high degree of efficiency. In the days of the small local slaughterhouse the materials from which these valuable by-products are recovered were dumped through a hole in the floor to the ground underneath and destroyed. The economic salvage of these products has been of benefit to humanity; they have become such staple articles of commerce that nearly everyone comes in contact with them every day, as the accompanying chart demonstrates.

Apart from the utilization of these otherwise waste products in the service of the community, there is another aspect to this end, of the packing industry which is of vital importance to both the producer of live stock and the consumer of meat. The recovery of these by-products enables the packer to pay a higher price for the live animal than he receives for the meat which the carcas furnishes. An average 1000-pound steer, live weight, will dress into 600 pounds of meat. During the month of August, 1928, the wholesale price of Grade beef at Toronto averaged 18 1-3 cents per pound. The dressed meat from the 1000-pound steer at this price would bring a return to the packer of $110. During the same period, the Toronto price for live steers of this weight averaged 11.43 cents per pound the packer paid an average price of $114.30 for a live steer. The value of the by-products has helped the packer to maintain a satisfactory price for cattle, and at the same time provide beef to the retailer at a cost lowerbecome a practical possibility.

The window area should be at least one square foot for every five square feet of floor space. High ceilings near the school may obstruct the entrance of sunlight.

Seats should be arranged so that light falls from behind and the left. This will prevent light from being unevenly distributed on the child's face or directly reflected into the face. The light coming from the left also prevents any shadow that may be cast by the hand or arm on the writing paper for right-handed children.

The walls of the schoolroom should not be a glaring white, but are best painted a light buff color. Blackboards nowadays are made with a dull black finish so that light is not reflected from the blackboard into the eyes.

The school books nowadays are prep ared planned with large type and with proper spacing so that eyestrain is not likely to come from the use of modern textbooks. Glazed paper is not used.

It is, of course, of the greatest importance that the eyes of the child be examined by a competent oculist at fairly frequent intervals. If the child is near-sighted the teacher may believe that it is stupid. Innumerable instances are recorded in which children began to learn well promptly following examination of the eyes and the prescribing of proper glasses.

It is unnecessary in the care of the eyes to provide anything in the way of drops or special washes. The normal eye is a self-regulating mechanism which is injured only by disease or by its anatomical defects.

YOUNG TRAIN ROBBER MAY BE INSANE

Cardinals are Favored to Capture World's Series Over Yankees

POLICE HOLD THEORY THAT BOLD THUG MAY BE ESCAPED LUNATIC

FINAL WARNING AS TO PARKING BY-LAW

Several cars were moved from a local hotel this morning about four o'clock when the owners disregarded the all-night parking by-law. The owners were not fined today, but the police are giving fair warning that henceforth every car left on the street between the hours of three and six o'clock in the morning will be taken, and the owner will pay a heavy fine to get his car back. Those who own street sweeper must have the street cleared in order to do its work, and this opportunity is the only manner in which it can be done.

KIWANIS FETED BASEBALL BOYS

P. C. MacLaurin Gave Splendid Talk At Gathering Last Night

Members of the champion Belleville Baseball team were all made honorary members of the Kiwanis Club at a banquet in the Queen's Hotel last night. They will possess all the privileges of a Kiwanian, and the name of the Club's activities as well as attend the regular weekly luncheons. Last night's affair was a banquet and entertainment and all of the boys spent a most enjoyable time. The Kiwanis Club made a presentation in the form of a pen and pencil and these will be suitably engraved with the players' names. Four players were unavoidably absent, "Vinny" Dimmel being at his home in Bentley, Harry Blakely at Queen's, while Harry Mills and "Wicky" Rose were prevented from attending owing to their work. Each of the boys present made a suitable reply to the presentation and all stated that "they would try to be just as good Kiwanians as ball players." Harry Greenleaf, President of the Club, was in the chair, "Ernie" Sprague acted as pianist, and Gordon Bimnett as accompanist. Joe Shortt, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., spoke briefly. Geo. Gibbs, Secretary of Kiwanis, brought greetings from Andy Gaul, District Governor, who wired his congratulations to the ball team through Mr. Griffin. President of Rotary Mackenzie Robertson thanked the Rotarians for the invitation to attend and he brought greetings from the Rotarians. Fred Mills was presented with a miniature model of the Louisville slugger bat and he made a short reply.

Geo. Cole introduced Dr. Malott, the speaker, who is a member of the Kiwanis Club. The latter recently returned from Winnipeg and he brought greetings from that Club. He reviewed the progress of the Province of Manitoba and particularly the City of Winnipeg within the past century and went on to show the tremendous advances made in every sphere. "For trading was, of course, the chief industry, but gradually agriculture and manufacturing gained prominence. Early settlers endured many tragedies and obstacles and soon the world began to attend to Winnipeg because of its vast possibilities," Dr. Malott said.

He pointed out that the small settlement which was known as Fort Garry had now become the fourth largest city in the Dominion with early indications that it will soon pass Vancouver in population. One railway alone has over one hundred miles of side-track in the city. "It is a great educational centre," he said, "and the interior decorations of the Manitoba Parliament buildings are said to be unequalled." He noted the growth of the Religious life and mentioned the fact that there are no less than one hundred and fifty-three churches which rank among the finest in the country. "Winnipeg is living on new life and the city has completely recovered following the strike of several years ago." We must remember that Manitoba like the other Provinces is making rapid strides in the line of Agriculture and manufacturing."

Players Introduced

Walter Gerow, manager of the ball team, introduced each one of the ball players, beside himself. He noted the

COLORFUL STORY

One of Most Daring Hold-Ups In Annals of Western Ontario

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 3.—John Gibbs, the confessed robber of the C.N.R. Windsor-bound mail on Monday evening, left Windsor for Chatham just before noon today in the custody of Inspector Joseph Wood of the local Provincial Police Force and Inspector Hammond, of the Criminal Investigation Department. The bandit was taken to Chatham by motor car and will be arraigned there before Magistrate Smith this afternoon.

Gibbs is either an escaped lunatic who has had considerable experience to escape punishment for the hold-up in the opinion of the officers who examined him here today. He told a colorful story of his wanderings which did not exactly "jibe." He travelled all over the United States and had never had any previous clashes with the law. The only record he ever knew, he said, had iron bars over the windows and the teachers were men with revolvers strapped around them. He had been put in after being struck from behind while he was shaking along the docks.

Windsor, Oct. 3.—Whatever may be doubt of his sanity there is no doubt of his nerve. The robbery was one of the most daring in this part of the country, especially Gibbs' action in riding the rods on the train while the country side was being scoured.

Assistant Passenger Agt. C. Kelly announced not one cent was lost although no check can be made yet of the real value of the mail. He discovered on Gibbs, under the regulations.

The officers plan to delve into Gibbs' past life got little information except as to the last few months. His home was originally in Los Angeles he said, but he claimed to have no recollection of parents or relatives.

Detroit Mich., Oct. —William Gibbs, 20 of Los Angeles who robbed the Canadian National Railway mail car of amounts estimated from $20,000 to $75,000, was being held in Wind sor today after jumping the authorities with a criminal narrative without parallel in his section. His story from the train at Chatham and gained access to the mail car, holding up three messengers with a pistol which he took to the registered bags. Just as the train reached Ford for the stop at the Prairie Siding, Gibbs dropped from the mail car but reboarded the rear coach of the train.

Searching for Aliens

While the alarm were raised and a search party of fifty men headed by Gibbs was riding into Windsor while the authorities questioned the prisoner but Gibbs sitting on the rods beneath the car was not discovered.

At the Windsor station the train was released and the Gibbs car was driven to Ford Street. Here, where the young bandit came to grief for the immigration officers were on the look. for aliens, every train that was being docked and Gibbs was discovered when he came down to answer a charge of intoxication.

The shabbily clad youngster was searched and $6500 in bank notes was found stuffed in his shirt while he carried two sealed packages of $10,000 and $2500 respectively. He was turned over to the local police to whom he admitted the robbery and described the crime. He waived extradition and was returned to Windsor less than three hours from the time the train was held up.

The Canadian railway officials believe the many found on Gibbs was all that had been taken.

Gibbs described himself as a bobsleigh and he came to Windsor three weeks ago. He bewailed he "one little break" that cornered him. His answer "Why the fellow that arrested me didn't know the train had been stuck up," he said.

CISTERN FULL OF BLACK DIAMONDS

East Hill Resident Uncovers Three Tons of Hidden Coal

Belleville people are frantically hauling up the floors of their coal bins today as this result of a rich discovery yesterday afternoon at an East Hill home. Shaking ready for winter, repairs were being made to the floor of the coal bin, which was situated in a shed attached to the rear of the house.

On tearing away the floor, an old and forgotten cistern was brought to light, but instead of being filled with water, it was filled to the top with good hard coal. Apparently the cistern with the passing of years, had kept dropping down until completely out of lucky partirs. At least three tons will be the haul as the cistern is seven feet deep and about four to five feet square.

MRS. E. KELLEHER SERIOUSLY HURT

Car Driven By "Ernie" Finkle Turned Turtle Near Trenton

DRIVER UNINJURED

Suffered Two Broken Ribs; Is Resting Easier Today

Mrs. Ellen Kelleher, Dundas Street, was quite seriously injured last night about five thirty in a peculiar motor accident a few hundred yards east of the Overhead Bridge on Provincial Highway No. 2, west of Trenton. The car, a Hupmobile Sedan, was driven by Mrs. Kelleher's son-in-law, "Ernie" Finkle, well-known electrical contractor of this city. Mrs. Kelleher being in the front seat beside the driver.

Coming down the hill from the bridge, Mr. Finkle noticed a car standing in the road, but owing to the fog had not distinguished it in time to avoid a collision. Swerving the car to the right, Mr. Finkle grazed the new and fine car left the shoulder of the road, plunged into an eight-foot ditch and turned over in its career.

Mrs. Kelleher suffered two broken ribs and was bruised on the body as well as numerous other cuts and bruises which were not serious. She was taken to the Belleville Hospital where she is resting comfortably today, although the doctors are still waiting for complications. Mr. Finkle escaped without any serious injury whatever, although he became a patient as the car turned over twice after going into the ditch.

WEST SOLID FOR HERBERT HOOVER

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holton Return From Motor Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holton recently completed a most interesting motor trip to western Canada and the United States, and in the course of a few remarks to his fellow-citizens at the Intelligencer the former stated that they experienced a most delightful time. Mr. Holton is a representative of the Bay of Quinte Conference to the General Assembly of the United Church which was held in Winnipeg some weeks ago. Following the Conference they spent two months touring many of the north-western States visiting cities of Minneapolis and Seattle, Portland and Spokane. Mr. Holton stated that all indications pointed to the election of Herbert Hoover as President of the United States as the western States were almost solid for the Republican party. He was very much amazed with the exhibition of the "Talkies", the latter innovation in the theatrical world which he witnessed in Chicago. Many of the large theatres in the Metropolitan centres have already adopted this new feature which has made an instant hit with the public. The cost of the "Talkies" may be modulated to suit the particular auditorium. He further states that western farmers expect annual a successful year with the crops far above the average. He is surprised at the progressiveness shown by the people of Winnipeg who have in its opinion "One of the prettiest cities in Canada". The wide thoroughfares and beautiful boulevards are a constant reproval and if Winnipeg advances as rapidly in the next half century as it has in the past it will be numbered with the leading centres on the Continent.

ALBERT BOYS GO ON THE WARPATH

Police Uniforms Stained By Paint-Smeared Students

Albert College "frosh" and "Sophs" are in for a little more than they bargained for, after last night's escapade through the main streets of Belleville. Besides the possibility of being summoned for disturbing the peace, they will be made to pay for two new uniforms for two of Belleville's City Police Force, who unfortunately came into contact with the paint-smeared bodies of the newly-initiated freshmen of Old Albert.

Streaming down Front Street, yelling and singing in the middle of the city, created some amusement to strolling Bellevillians about nineforty last night. When the police tried to keep some semblance of order on the streets, the plan failed, and the whole mob was marched off to the Police Station to be looked over. Whether there will be any charges laid or not is not known yet.

Tokyo (CP)—According to central weather bureau reports, Japan has been shaken by 27,007 earthquakes, or 15 a day, in the five years since the great earthquake disaster of September 1, 1923. By far the greater number of these shocks were not felt except by seismological instruments and only seven caused significant damage.

CUMMINGS—IBEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Tabernacle Parsonage on Monday October 1st, at 11.30 when Gladys Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ibey, 26 Strachan Street, became the bride of Murdock Calvin Cummings, also of this city. The Rev. C. E. McCutcheon performed the ceremony.

the mascot. Kiwanians tendered each of them a hand-clasp. Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, said the Club was proud to have as guests such a fine bunch of boys. "We haven't been able to say enough of our appreciation toward them and I sometimes wonder if we realize we have the best ball players in Ontario in our midst. Perhaps we haven't wakened up to the fact that we as citizens must do something more than hand them many kind words since they have given liberally of their time and spent a great deal of effort in order that the honors might be brought to Belleville."

Mr. MacLaurin remarked on his associations with the boys while they were in High School and now that they had grown in manhood and had captured the highest baseball laurels he said he was more proud of them than ever. "I know of nothing that could appropriately express our opinion but, are we as citizens going to settle down and say we have no further interest in sport? "No, this is the time to begin when the interest is keen and I believe it is the time to start the movement for a new skating and hockey rink." Continuing, he said, "We cannot be content at this time to do nothing. Belleville has been brought to the fore but, let us retain that place in every branch of sport. Let us make every member of this ball team an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club and let us make them feel that they are as one of us. They have brought all the honor to us and we should honor them, there is a glow in a man's heart when he feels at home." In closing he urged the Kiwanis Club to support all that is clean in sport.

George Griffin, Business Manager of the ball team, replied, and said the boys had upheld the reputation of gentlemen both on and off the field.

BELLEVILLE CLUB SMOKER

Indeed popular last year, the first of a series of winter smokers commenced this evening at the Belleville City Club. These smokers were splendidly attended during the past season and the club officers are enthusiastic over prospects for the coming winter.

Today one of the largest fairs in the County of Hastings opened at Madoc. This year, with the fine, warm weather, the directors think that previous records for attendance will be broken. A feature of this year's exhibition is the $500 in purses offered for the trotting races. It is understood that some of the finest horses in the county have been entered for the events.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Jack Dennett, popular organist at the Belle Theatre was removed hurriedly to the Belleville Hospital last night and operated on for appendicitis. Mr. Denmark who is very well known to theatre-goers of Belleville, has not been in the best of health for some time, but did not think he was suffering from the above malady. He was to have played at the Kiwanis Club luncheon last night, but owing to the sudden attack was not able to attend.

EUCHRE TONIGHT

The fall dance and euchre season of the Moose opens this evening when that organization holds the first event in the auditorium. These parties were always well attended in past seasons and the officers of the Moose expect a record attendance this year.

FORM RUGBY TEAM

TRUCK DAMAGED

Both men were brought to their homes here and are recuperating from their injuries. Their wife in the sudden attack was not able to attend.

BASKET-BALL LEAGUE

An movement is on foot to organize an "Industrial Basket-ball League" at the Y. M. C. A. during the Autumn and winter months.

Several firms have already expressed intentions of entering teams and a great revival of the game is proposed this year. There are many players of ability in the city and a fast team group could no doubt be rounded out. Those desiring to place entries in the circuit are urged to get in touch with Ralph Morden at the Y.M.C.A.

TRANSFERRED TO TORONTO

Mr. Earl Evoy who has been connected with the United Cigar Stores in this city for the past year has been transferred to Toronto and has already taken his position there. Mr. Evoy has made himself deservedly popular since coming to Belleville from Hamilton. He has taken a prominent part in athletics and was part lularly well-known as a softball pitcher, having played in the City League. He was a member of Belleville basketball team, in the Eastern Ontario group. Mr. Evoy will be missed by a wide circle of friends here. His successor has already been appointed.

GREAT INTEREST IN CONCERT

Great interest is being taken in the concert of Leslie Hodgson, great Canadian pianist who has scored sensation ful successes in Europe and all parts of the United States and who is to be assisted here by John Deacon, the brilliant young tenor for whom Edward Johnston predicts a remarkable musical career, continues to be very Leavy.

The date of the recital is Friday evening next at Albert College Hall under the direction of Presto Club. The situation offers interesting scope for discussion among those who are accustomed to assert that an unprofessional foreign name, and a past career with which the Dominion is in no way connected, are essential—or at least desirable—for success in Canadian concert stages.

TO BREED BASS BY ARTIFICIAL MEANS

Toronto, Ont. (C. P.)— The question of artificial propagation of black bass —a problem which, until the year, has baffled the Ontario Department of Game had the Ontario Department of Game taken the special Fish Inquiry Committee, headed by Hon. Finlay Macdiarmid, to several states of the union to further their investigations.

Ontario has had little luck raising bass artificially and as late as last fall resorted to closing a number of the northern lakes in the hope that bass would breed there under natural conditions in sufficient numbers to permit replenishing of many fished-out waters in other parts of Ontario.

Special study is now being made by the special committee of Fish-culturists in New Jersey and Missouri, where it is claimed, no difficulty has been experienced in propagating bass artificially.

BASEBALL LIST

The list for the baseball fund was opened today and the early response was most encouraging. Canvassers who reported this morning announced the participation from the following: Alemite Company, S. R. Burrows, Harry Greenleaf, R. B. Hamilton, H. Simpson and H. L. Gardiner.

CHAPTER 61.

THE MODERN MANNER

Irma appeared at breakfast the following morning, looking very well. One would not have thought that she had spent a sleepless night. Her manner toward Steve was pleasant—quite as though nothing had happened.

Steve, on the other hand, was feeling wretched. His head ached and he was glad that Irma offered no reproaches.

When he left for business, she said pleasantly: "I hope you won't make any engagements for this evening, Steve."

He left the apartment, more than ever astounded at the ways of women. He had thought, from her manner at breakfast, that she had chosen to ignore their quarrel.

"Poisonous," was the earnest reply. Hal laughed. "I'm not any too bright and gay myself this morning."

Steve said resentfully, when they were in the street: "Irma seems fresh as a daisy. She gave me my coffee without a cross word."

"She must have decided to take a line from Marguerite's book.....No I haven't seen my wife this morning. Since that infernal African trip, she sleeps till ten o'clock and has breakfast in bed, I understand."

But Marguerite wasn't sleeping that morning. She rose as soon as Hal had departed and went to see her family. She found her mother being massaged. Mrs. Glover peered at her daughter through layers of clay and hot towels.

"What brought you out so early?... I suppose you've heard the news?"

"Hal told me last night," shrugged Marguerite, perching on the end of her mother's chaise longue.

"We'll talk about it later," said Mrs. Glover, making a gesture toward the masseuse. When the latter had gone, Marguerite demanded:

"Is it true? Has Dad really cut loose from the firm?"

"Yes, it's true," answered her mother grimly. "I think he's making a mistake. I'd rather stand in with the Reynoldses. They're prominent."

"And let me go on being the human sacrifice?" asked Marguerite, with a wry smile.

Her mother said indignantly: "It's all your fault, the whole thing. I declare, Marguerite, I don't know what's got into you. You used to be so sweet and—and—"

"Docile," supplied Marguerite, with a smile. "Well, the worm will turn, and, believe me, I've done a thorough circle .....From now on, I'm going to do as I please.'

Her mother stared at her. 'And to think that I believed I knew my own daughter.....Whatever will the Reynoldses say?"

Marguerite shrugged.

Her mother asked. 'What about this Harris man, was he paying you so much attention?"

Marguerite burst into laughter. "Well, what about him? As far as I'm concerned, he's a friend, nothing more.'

She rose. 'I must run along now. I've got to see Irma Brockton. The Brockton menage, by the way, is in turmoil, too.'

Her mother wailed suddenly: 'Oh, I wish we were back home in our nice little town, where people were sensible.'

She found Irma with red-rimmed eyes, but quite calm.

'I've thought it all out, Marguerite. I'll go home until Steve comes to his senses. I can't do anything else and keep a shred of pride.

She sighed and stared out of the window, where a winter gale was tossing the trees in the tiny park below.

'At first, I thought I couldn't bear it,' she went on. 'But I see now that it is the only thing to do.'

'When will you go?' asked Marguerite practically.

'Oh, at once. I'm already starting to pack. I'll discuss details with Steve tonight.....that Marguerite, I'll be so horribly sad and lonely. And all I'll have to think about is the fact that I've lost Steve. I don't know where or when or how I lost him, but he's gone.'

Marguerite said slowly: 'You really do love him, don't you?'

'Yes,' sobbed Irma. 'But don't you tell him so, or let him find out that it's breaking my heart to do this. I've got to save my pride,' she added fiercely. 'It's all I've left now.'

Marguerite gave her promise and added soothingly: 'See here, Irma, let me go with you. Since Dad and Mr. Reynolds have ended their partnership Hal and I can do as we please. And I rather want to get away, for some reason.'

Irma hugged her. 'You darling. If you're with me, it won't be so awful.'

When Marguerite descended to her own apartment, Irma was more cheerful, she was informed that Mrs. Reynolds was awaiting her in the drawing-room.

CHAPTER 62

Broken Heartedness.

Mrs. Reynolds, sitting in the drawing-room of her son's apartment, eyed Marguerite with more curiosity than resentment. She was thinking of the first time she had come to call on Hal's bride, a gentle, shy young creature who had given her tea with such obvious eagerness to please.

Could this cool, assured, chic young person be that same girl? This lovely bit of femininity who made excuses for having kept her guest waiting, but who subtly created the impression that to reality, she didn't give a damn?

Mrs. Reynolds came to the point of her call without preliminaries.

"My husband called me up from the office this morning," she began, and talked with Hal. What is this, Marguerite, about your telling Hal that Brenderick has an uncommunity leaning toward you, and that you are going to live your own life?"

Marguerite replied calmly: "It's quite true that I did say that. Why shouldn't I. Hal and I never pretended to care for each other. Our marriage has been quite—different—from the usual manner."

"But what does Hal say?"

Marguerite laughed lightly. "Oh, Hal is only too happy to see as little of me as possible."

Her mother-in-law surveyed her speculatively: "I can't for the life of me understand, even yet, why you and Hal didn't fall in love with each other.'

Marguerite's only answer was a shrug.

"I wonder if it's because you're too proud—" Marguerite lifted her eyes quickly—"Yes, I think that is too proud! I have an idea that you're two stubborn and ridiculously blind young people.'

With that she rose to go, saying: "I suppose it's no use to argue or explain. You and Hal are not children; you must work out your own problems.'

When Hal came home, that evening Marguerite told him that she had decided to accompany Irma on her trip home. "You won't miss me," she said, and Irma will be so delightfully lonesome. Steve's attitude makes her so unhappy."

Hal's back was turned to Marguerite. He was staring at the fireplace, evidently he became terribly angry. The desire to hurt her seized him.

"But what about your friend, Charlie Harris? He won't be miss you?"

She laughed. "You're about the fifteenth person who has asked me that

"Amazing—so many women must learn this from others"

—writes a Toronto hostess

The embarrassment of this grave social offense is finally ended. This scientific sanitary pad is now treated by patented process to end all offense.

WHERE smart women gather socially—or in business—even the most attractive are guilty of offending others at certain times. Yet they, themselves, seldom realize it. When told, they become miserably self-conscious. They try in vain to overcome the difficulty by makeshift methods. Now science offers safe and certain relief from this fear.

Kotex now scientifically deodorizes

Millions of women have learned to depend on Kotex within the last ten years. It has brought them better health, greater peace-of-mind under trying conditions. Now comes an added advantage. Kotex chemists have discovered (and patented) a process that absolutely ends all odors. After several years of research, the same remaking problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

No more bulky softness

That awful feeling of being conspicuous because of the bulkiness of old-fashioned methods is gone, too. Kotex pads are rounded and tapered so there is no evidence of sanitary protection when worn. You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—being all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Deodorizes . . . and 3 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; gentle filler absorbs so no other absorbent can!

2—Corners are rounded and tapered, no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;

3—Deodorizer—safe, dependable, by a new and exclusive patented process;

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Miss Amy Fitzgerald, of St. Louis is just an old-fashioned girl who still believed in hairpins, and consequently suffered a scalp wound from one of them during an automobile collision recently.

One of the smartest of the new ensembles is the flowed suit with the finger-length coat with a roll tuxedo collar of mid caracul fur and a kasha-silk jersey jumper.

In one Fifth-Avenue shop there is now being featured an extensive assortment of gaited playing cards to match rooms, and there is a place for your monogram, which is having the monogram on the playing cards is a new idea in the smart set.

Transparent black velvet of a soft blackness is now the favorite choice of the Paris couturier for the formal afternoon gown, for its responds with distinction to every demand made upon it, whether for a stroll at the tea hour at a fashionably crowded salon or for merely a bridge for the chosen few.

WOMEN SKILLED IN INDUSTRY SOME DAY

Oxford, Eng. (By The Canadian Press).—The prophecy that women will play an increasing part in skilled industry in future was made by Miss C. Haslett, director of the Electrical Association for Women, in her speech to the annual conference of the Industrial Welfare Society at Balliol College.

Fathers, she said, were beginning to take their daughters into the family business. Time was when only the son had such an opportunity, or, if there were no sons, the daughters were only given a chance through marriage to a welcome partner who found favor with paternal standards.

Recently, she related, a group or women engineers realized that the great problem of post-war reconstruction offered possibilities for the employment and training of women. Already a small number of villages had been wired, the necessary plants and mains had been installed and chemists and small factories had been provided with electric power.

A significant more here was that these companies had taken on a number of apprentices. This meant almost the first chance for a girl with an engineering bent to become properly apprenticed in the same way as her brother.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Now blessings light on him that first invented sleep! It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak; it is meat for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold, and cold for the hot.

CERVANTES.

ALCOHOLISM LEAGUE

The League of Nations assembly, meeting in Geneva, has decided to hold an investigation into the abuse of alcohol as a beverage, and laying special stress on the poor qualities of liquor which are being consumed in various parts of the world, largely through the channels of illegal vendors. Thus the question of the control of the distribution of liquor has been placed into the hands of a great international body, which will use its world-wide organization to get to the root of the alcohol evils.

It is significant to note the wording of the despatches concerning the discussion of this matter by the League assembly. There is nothing said regarding an investigation of the use of alcohol as a beverage. The only question to be investigated is its abuse. That is as far as the League assembly intends to go. That the abuse of alcohol is a dangerous thing, will be admitted by all people. In fact, abuses of any kind are evils which have to be counteracted. But there are those people who would not stop at merely condemning the abuse of alcohol, but would condemn, with equal vigor, even its use.

This is the point on which there has long been a strong difference of opinion. The prohibitionists would stop the use of alcohol by force of law. The true temperance advocates do not go so far. They would use entirely only the use of alcohol by a prohibitory measure, but would rather take steps to prevent its abuse by methods of control, and by educational steps. This is the view, apparently, which has been taken by the delegates of the nations comprising the League of Nations assembly, and it is the logical view of those who are prepared to take a commonsense attitude on the question.

PACE THAT KILLS

The manager of a prominent Canadian healing supply house in Toronto is suffering from a serious breakdown. The president of another well-known manufacturing firm in this industry recently had a similar experience. Others of our prominent executives have been skating on thin ice from a health standpoint for many months and sometimes years. To get at the top they have worked inordinately hard. Whether they paid too dear a price for their success is now a question debated by their friends. This summer saw a complete nervous prostration of the vice-president and sales manager of one of the leading brass manufacturing firms in Canada. The chief executive of one of our soil-pipe manufacturers recently averted a breakdown in health by a narrow margin. The poor health of the president of our largest fleet of manufacturers' agents has caused anxiety to his friends for over two years. Early last spring the chief executive of the Guild cracked at a crucial moment because he had fever learned to relax. There has doubtless never been a time when so many of our leading executives were so pitifully broken in health. In some instances the men played hard as well as worked hard, but in the majority of cases they are men who were abject slaves to their responsibilities—men who could not find time for a rational amount of recreation.

The battle to climb to the top of the modern industrial organization has become so terrifically strenuous that only men of exceptional physical and mental stamina, who have mastered the art of functioning smoothly, can stand the strain. There are many who have mastered the art of functioning smoothly and can stand the strain, but many prematurely wear themselves out because they have failed, on account of inherited temperament or other causes, to cultivate this perquisite of calm, smooth living in the midst of hectic environment.

The pace that kills is not the pace that pays in the end.—Sanitary Age.

" WEST'S EXPANSION

The record harvest yields of Western Canada are directing the attention of the world to that favored area. Eastern Canada rejoices, with good reason, in the prosperity of the West, for that prosperity bespeaks the well-being of the whole Dominion. Grain is the wonder-worker, but there is danger in taking too one-sided a view of developments. The wheat fields of the West are its greatest asset, but they are not its only asset. Eastern Canada is being warned that the day of intensive industrial development in the prairie provinces is at hand, and it is the part of the blind to let its own interests ill will take earnest note of the warning. "The West is not always going to send to Toronto and Montreal when it wants a factory producted," a Montreal correspondent of the Globe discussing the question. The chief point for Canadian business men to consider is, how will this peculiar industrial activity be promoted? Is it to be by Canadian assistance or through the far-sighted enterprise of capitalists of the United States?

In every prairie province are to be found large areas of raw materials capable of being turned into the finish ed product, not to consider the immense mineral resources. The people of western provinces are turning their attention to these potentialities as never before and looking for help in their exploitation. The situation presents a splendid opportunity to those who are in a position to respond to the demands. There is no reason why all the benefits should go abroad. Capitalists and business men of Eastern Canada should wake up to the situation and prepare themselves to participate in the expansion. In meeting their own industrial centres, also the West will open out new markets to be served by others. One would like to know that in the industrial development which is about to take place British capital and British enterprise are going to play a leading part.

NIL DESPERANDUM

What matters it-if in the undertaking
No earthly praise eulogize the toil?
The wrap and woof, while silken fabric making,
Is oft skein-knotted by a scorn's despoil.

While roses in their varied shades of splendor
Reflect in petaled frames their Maker's face,
Doth not the lowly violet humbly render
The fragrant breath of God's creative grace?

The heaven-born song may be a dribbled measure,
From feeble lips unbraided to music's best;
The quivering string is His peculiar treasure
And chords ignored to Him are woe drous sweet.

Despised was He to whom toil's dust was clinging,
Despised He trod the Galilean hill.
Despised He set the cradle of the world a-swinging,
And who shall say that 'tis not swing ing still."

Though lowly esast holds the painted vision
And calloused hand the gate of art unbars,
God's hand may some day hang upon the stars.

Presentations Will Take Place At Armouries Friday, Oct. 12

Friday, October 12, promises to be a big night in Belleville's history. On that night at the Armouries, the Belleville Ball Team will be presented with a Trophy, emblematic of the Ontario Championship, Eastern medals as well as the Central Ontario League Cup and individual gifts from the citizens of this city. Formal plans were drawn up last night at a well-attended meeting of the Committee left in charge of the proceedings. The campaign to raise funds to purchase suitable presents was launched and for the next five days Belleville folk will be canvassed for money for this purpose. Over twenty men have pledged their allegiance to conduct a thorough canvass of every baseball fan in the city and no matter how small your contribution may be, it will be gratefully acknowledged. No objective has been set but it was planned to raise over a thousand dollars for the purpose. What form the gift will take has not been named and this has been left in the hands of the Committee. It is earnestly hoped that every fan in the city give unstintingly for the fund on behalf of the boys who have advertised the city in every corner of not only this province but the Dominion of Canada. It is desired that the lists should be completed this week and those in charge of the canvass will report the result each day in order that General Chairman, Chas. Hanna, may get some idea of the progress. The lists will be published in the press with the names of the donors only appearing. The Belleville Ball Team have given loyally of their time and it is only fair that they should be repaid. When you are approached do not turn the canvasser away without some contribution. Kiwanis, Y's Men and practically every club and organization are lending their support.

Choice Program

Chas. Hanna is General Chairman, Preston Thompson Secretary, and Walter Scott of the Dominion Bank, Treasurer, and all cheques will be made payable to the last-named. Chas. Hanna instilled the idea that the campaign must be rushed to a finish and the workers started out with a will. The City Council have promised to make a worth-while contribution but the citizens must do their share. Messrs P. C. McLaurin, Hope McCutcheon, Geo. Gallagher and Richard Snell have been added to the Committee which was appointed at the General meeting on Monday night. Officials of the Central League, representatives of the Bell Telephone and Walkerville teams and officers of the Ontario Baseball Association will be invited. It is planned to hold the annual meeting of the Central League on Friday, October 12, in order that all the officials may attend the function. Another meeting has been called for next Tuesday but in the meantime the canvassers have been advised to make their daily report to Mr. Hanna.

The matter of a program has been left in the hands of Al. Sullman, Leo Riggs, J. D. McMillan and Jas. Bamlet. The Argyle Four will assist and the Argyll Band have offered their services. Vocal artists will co-operate and a dance will follow the presentation. There will be no admission charged and no fee will be levied for the dance. All of those on the program will likely give their services free and the event is being looked forward to with interest. In the meantime supporters of the ball team are urged to get in touch with any of the following men representing the various organizations and Clubs who are conducting the canvass:

Kiwanis—Harry Greenleaf and Geo. Griffin.

Y's Men's, Club—N. Thompson and Albert Armstrong.

NEW PLAN FOR PHONE ACCOUNTS

J. L. Cokers Announces New Method of Rendering Bills

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada is introducing in this district a new plan of rendering subscribers accounts, it was announced today by Mr. Cokers, local telephone manager. This new plan, known as "Rotation billing", will become effective in this part of the system during the month of October.

Under the new plan the Company's thousands of accounts, instead of being sent out in one batch at the end of each month, will be prepared and mailed in six equal groups. The groups will be dated the first, second, twenty-fifteenth, twenty-first and twenty-sixth of each month, and accounts in each group will be rendered on five business days of their date.

Telephone subscribers served from the local exchange will receive accounts under the new plan dated the twenty-sixth of each month.

Mr. Cokers pointed out, several decided advantages of the new plan. Each account will show exactly up to date. For example the October 1st account will be rendered as the bill under the old plan, showing only the basic charges up to the 30th September. Under the new plan, all charges will be right up to the date of the bill.

Another innovation, the advantages of which were clearly apparent on a question and answer card which Mr. Cokers displayed, is the mailing of bills on special machines. Each figure is clearly typewritten and not split or blade up mechanically. The account itself is on white paper, setting the subscriber's name, class and address in statement.

During the installation period between the old and new systems, it will be necessary to include charges for different periods in the same billing length. However, when the change has been completed, accounts will cover but one regular period, that is, the month preceding the date on the account for long distance and directory advertising charges. The only change service charges for one month following.

Each subscriber, Mr. Cokers stated, will receive a notice with his October bill account, and also with the following one. These notices explain the new system and indicate the period to be covered by future accounts. Members of Mr. Cokers' business office staff are well acquainted with the features of the plan and will be pleased to furnish any additional information.

Yankees Despite Injuries Assume Care-Free Attitude

New York, October 3.— New York and St. Louis baseball players yesterday showed a lot of bees in the hive will need consideration after Thursday afternoon, if the world series contenders engage in preliminary practice, confined themselves entirely to batting.

The Yankees took no infield work-out and had only regular Cardinal infielders Hornsby and Rabbit Maranville, the two veterans insisted that they should work.

Wild Bill Hallahan kept the Yankees from actual hostilities there is a marked coldness in the demeanor of the Yankees toward The Yankees, who every reason to feel blue over an extended hospital list, spoke only in whispers yesterday. They didn't want to talk about their abbreviated outfield, they said, for fear whistling the wind might discourage Lou. There was general excitement and much cheering among the players when Dr. Charles Lee Dorucher drove a ball into the stands.

The Cardinals, on the other hand, impatient for the serious play to begin, drank each other and the world to a frazzel.

One bench is over here," a star yell ed to his equally famous player as he stopped to speak to a former National Leaguer over with his business. The stagestruck evidently was a hint against fraternizing.

There was also a bit of general wrangling, regarded as a healthy sign in ball players and fighters.

Manager Bill McKechnie continues to insist that he has not decided on the opening game pitcher, but all the players think Bill is as certain to name Jesse, Willie Sherdel as the silent Hughie is to draw the first ball. Walter Hoyt's use of his old brown hat.

UMPIRES WHO WILL ACT IN BIG SERIES

New York, Oct. 3.—Forty thousand seats to each world series game played at Yankee stadium will be available to fans at 10 o'clock on the morning of the game, Ed. Barrow, secretary of the American league baseball club announced today.

All of the 35,000 reserved seats will be filled when the season ticket holders have been asked.

John Heydler, president of the National league, announced today that Charles Rigler and Charles Pfirman had been selected to officiate as the national league umpires for the world series.

They will work in all games with Bick Owen and W. A. McGowan the American league umpires.

JOIE RAY MAY TURN TO PROFESSIONALISM

New York, Oct. 3.—Joie Ray, one of the greatest and most colorful of American distance runners, will receive a definite offer today from Tex Rickard to turn professional and compete against El Quaif, Olympic marathon champion, at Madison Square Garden, November 21.

Ray, who is in Chicago playing golf and keeping in condition, finished fifth in the marathon race at Amsterdam, which El Quaif won. The Algerian is at present in Tulsa, Oklahoma, preparing to race Andy Payne "bunion derby" winner, next Sunday.

BERT CORBEAU BUSY MANAGER

Stratford Club Will Not Operate In Canadian Pro. League

Four new players signed, and several deals pending, has Bert Corbeau manager of the London Canpro entry up to his ears in work. It is practically decided that London will be a farm for the Toronto Maple Leafs, of the N. H. L. and this may lighten Corbeau's task somewhat. Also the fact that Stratford will not start means that there will be players available from this end. London is building up a strong club in the meantime, and when the team is announced, it is figured there will be a distinct surprise for the fans. Stratford heads have announced that it is too difficult for a town the size of Stratford to carry on and compete with the larger cities in the circuit. Norfork, Saratoto's star goalie Prow, Lest and Mike Neville will go to Percy LeGeare at Fort Erie. It is said. Toohey will go to Ottawa, Horne to the Maple Leafs, Dolson to Detroit, Hicks to the Montreal and Rimiker to the New York Americans. The rest of the squad will go to the Montreal Maroons to be said.

THE MIGHTY DO FALL, AT TIMES

Bill Klein, who gates ball players by the down when they call him "Fish," admits that he is the world's champion umpire.

In fact, he told a number of ball players down south several years ago that he had never missed one and that as long as he remained in the business he never would call one wrong.

But he fell down in a recent game between the Giants and Pirates, and his self-claimed record was spoiled by Dolly Stark, a freshman umpire of the circuit.

Klein was calling balls and strikes and Stark was on first base. The batter bunted and Klein waved to him. At the same time Stark wagged it a foul ball.

The two umpires went into a huddle and Klein reversed himself.

By "The Observer"

The Nationals were entertained again last night, this time at the Kiwanis Club. And not only that but each and every one of them were made honorary life members of the Club.

Sam Player, the manager, Walt Gerow and the Pitcher, Wall Gerow Jr., were also presented with a pen and pencil set, with the players name inscribed and with "Ontario Champions, 1928" also on the band.

All present were called upon to make a speech which they did with rare abandon. Wall. Gerow scores a sing. Cry Bill when he declares that he wished that the Kl-i League which was sponsored this spring by the Kiwanis and Y. M.C.A. Men's Clubs had been organized for baseball instead of soft ball. Where are our future hard ball players coming from if not from the sandlots of the city?

The presentation of the Ontario Championship Trophy, the Johnston Cup, emblematic of the winning of the Central League, and the Spalding individual medals will be made at the Belleville Armouries Friday evening, October the 12th. A programme is being arranged, and there will be a free community dance on the main floor after the meeting is over. It looks like a big night for the ball team and the fans.

Bob Scott, who was reported as having left for Toronto University in yesterday's issue, is back in Belleville and intends to remain here for the winter and next summer. Bob apparently figures that he will feel more at home at Varsity than in Toronto, and so our Junior O.H.A. team looks better than ever.

We have the team, now how about some kind of a rink? Every year, this city could do would be to build a new rink even though it did not have artificial ice. It could be left so that in a few year if circumstances warranted it, the artificial ice machine could be got in, but in the mean time we would have some place to be fairly comfortable while watching the games.

Belleville has certainly come to the fore this year in baseball, not let us all endeavour to bring fresh honour to the name of Belleville by having at least a junior team which will carry the name of the city afar in the winter months.

The junior lads showed last winter that they had the makings of one of the best junior teams in the province and with last year's team intact, as is the case, they should go a long ways.

But first and foremost, comes the problem of a new rink, be it ever so humble. Cor. Arnott has certainly made the grade in baseball in the past with the old arena, but no one can blame him for not operating a business at a loss and he will probably not open it this year.

Albert College students last night held their annual initiation, and the luckless freshies were paraded up and down Front Street in scant attire and with their torsos covered with paint. It all ended up in the police being called to quell the disturbance and some thirty or more were given the opportunity of seeing the inside of the Belleville Police Station for a short time.

Lou Marsh, in his "Pick 'n Shoot" column in the Toronto Star, says:

Wallaceville Chicks did a lot of chicken consuming on the heels of their first 15-4 victory over Belleville Nationals in the first game of the provincial senior amateur baseball championship. They even stopped on the field at Belleville, for the second game, to devour a basket labelled "Canadian Champions," and had carried quotations for an international series with the U. S. champions, a Cincinnati team.

And they met the usual fate of those who lay to take a census of unhatched pot pie material.

Belleville took them 3-0 in Belleville and then completed the beanspilling by handing them a 7-2 defeat in the rubber game at Guelph.

Congratulations are due Wallace Grove for the way he brought the Belleville Nationals through to the O.B.A.A. championship. Grove deserves all the credit in the world for the manner in which he stuck and made a wonderful pitcher out of the erstwhile erratic, "Hook" Gibson. You'd never want to meet a more pleasant fellow than Wall, and you'll go a long way to find as capable a manager.

And all the same time there is one boy on the Nationals who did much to help take the honors. Bob Scott plugged up a gaping hole at third and developed into a timely hitter; another victory marked up to Wall Gerow's managerial ability.

Now that they took baseball honors, Belleville, with their new rink —but why bring that up!—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Well wishers throughout Central Ontario are offering the Belleville Nationals congratulations as to their victory in winning the senior baseball championship on Saturday. The victory is a fitting climax to the success of the newly organized Central Ontario Baseball League—Peterboro Examiner.

And there may be no amateur baseball world series after all. Just because the Belleville Nationals upset the well-laid plans of the Walkerville Chicks this big event may have to be cancelled. The Border crew had the Ontario title all laid away in nooh balls and were making plans for the series with the Cincinnati Reds when the Belleville Nationals spoiled the second game in Belleville. But worst of all, to add insult to injury they went right back and licked the Chicks in Guelph—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

QUEEN'S AT IT HOT AND HEAVY

Preparing For Opener With Varsity At Kingston On Saturday

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 3—Somewhat riddled by injuries, Queen's senior team were whipped through their hardest workout of the year by Coach Orin Caron this afternoon, the team leaving for Toronto ... early time than they displayed in the previous workouts.

"Irish" Monahan, middle wing, "Pudge" Britton, captain and flying wing "Ike" Sutton, quarterback. "Bud" Gorman, middle wing and stunt middle wing were all nursing injuries and were not in uniform today. Monahan was the most seriously injured, his foot being crushed in the game at Hamilton, and it was thought that a bone was broken, but examination showed that it is merely badly bruised. He should be all right for Saturday's opening Intercollegiate game with Varsity. Britton received a kick on the knee at Hamilton, and was hobbling about today though he will be right for Saturday. Sutton's shoulder was slightly injured, while Sisley has hurt his back muscles.

"Da" Mungovan handled all the work in today's practice and did it well, while "Red" Gilmore stepped up as a coming star. The senior team was lined up against the best of the remaining squad, and they went at it hammer and tongs for well over an hour. Coach Caron had the senior squad handling the ball, and the intermediates blocked them all through. The line plungers did not seem to be able to get much weight behind their crashes, but Monro and Gilmore were showing up wonderfully well in end runs.

Harry Bastoon was on the field looking after the work of the backfield while "Hank" Brown star inside wing who is injured in the foot-ever-while, and "Chick" Maddell were helping out in the line work. Dr. "Bill" Campbell, the captain of the team was also assisting Carson today.

The intercollegiate Rugby game today and are out to avenge that defeat of Saturday. They plunged and tore with a vengeance while the booting of Carter, Gilmore and Warren was never better.

Coach Caron is driving the players hard all week, ordering a strict training rule which will have every player report to the hotel when they are quartered at 10 in the evening.

The seat sale has been unusually heavy, and indications are that a capacity crowd will be on hand for the opening game of the college series.

Berlin, Oct. 3.— Franz Dilaked, East Prussian marathon runner on the staff of President Von Hindenburg's eighty-first birthday, started today on a long distance run which, with the president's sanction, will be known as the "Hindenburg Run Round The World."

At 10.32 o'clock this morning Dilaked left the historic Brandenburg Gate where numerous friends had assembled and headed for Potsdam. His itinerary includes Munich, Vienna, Budapest, Constantinople, Cairo, Jerusalem, Teheran, and Afghanistan where he will take a ship for Australia. Crossing Australia he intends to catch boat at Sydney for San Francisco and then run to New York and Holland. From Amsterdam he intends to run back to Berlin hoping to reach the German capital on the president's eighty-second birthday.

Last year Dilaked ran from East Prussia to Berlin carrying a message from the inhabitants of this province to the president.

Jack Deacon, Local Boy, Makes His Farewell Appearance

To-morrow evening when Leslie Hodgson, famous pianist assisted by the young tenor, John Deacon, make their joint appearance in Albert College Hall under the direction of the Presto Club, a local musical event with an unusual event in Belleville's musical history.

Leslie Hodgson, went from the Dominion after he had received his preliminary education and his teachers were confident that one of the world's great pianists had been discovered, he makes his first appearance after an artistic exile of twelve years from his own country. Since his departure he had been famous wherever the greatest concert stars are well known. Hodgson will go to Europe and then again.

For John Deacon, it is farewell. He is leaving in a few weeks, on the suggestion of that other great Canadian musician, Edward Johnson, to take up further studies which, in turn, musical authorities predict, will lead to a great operatic career.

INJURED WHEN TRAIN IS SIDESWEPT

Rev. Dr. McGregor In Hamilton Hospital Critically Ill

LIMES BLOCKED

Twelve Slightly Injured In Railway Crash At Aldershot

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 4.—Five persons were seriously hurt and twelve slightly injured when a Canadian National passenger train from Hamilton and London was sideswept by a Canadian Pacific freight near Aldershot today. Some of injured were brought here and the remainder taken to Toronto. Rev. Dr. McGregor, of London, was critically hurt and his recovery is doubtful. Also in the hospital here badly injured are William Ward and his wife of Winona, and Harry Conductor of Toronto. The five year old daughter of Ward's escaped serious injuries.

Rev. Dr. McGregor was taken to the operating room in an effort to save his life.

Eight cars of the freight were derailed when the journal broke and one of the cars crashed into the side of the passenger train passing at the moment. The passengers hurt were in the coach next to the mail car. Those in the other cars escaping serious hurts. Both the Canadian National train lines were blocked. Conductor Hunt and Engineer Wright were in charge of the passenger train and Conductor Curtis and Engineer Deacon in charge of the freight.

The passenger train was the International Limited going east. The Canadian Pacific freight was going west to Hamilton when it left the rails three-quarters of a mile east of Aldershot. The Canadian National train was hit some time but not proceeded. The scene of the accident was enveloped in heavy fog.

Hamilton, Oct., Oct. 4.—Four persons, badly injured, were rushed to St. Joseph's hospital after a Canadian Pacific freight jumped the tracks at Aldershot and collided with a Canadian National passenger train today. The exact amount of the damage and injuries was not ascertained immediately. Doctors were rushed from Hamilton.

TO USE MONEY ON AIR FORCE

Australia To Devote Bulk of Money On Air Defense

Sydney, N.S.W. (CP)—The bulk of the funds to be devoted to Australia's defence in the next five years will probably be spent on the development of the Royal Australian Air Service.

The new policy was announced by Air-Marshal Sir John Salmond in Australia and by the Minister for Defence, Sir William Glasgow, in London.

Of the special sums set apart for defence, totalling £8,670,000, no less than £7,400,000 are devoted to building ships. The balance was divided among the three services, of which, however, the lion's share will go to the Royal Navy of the Barrier Reef, leaving only £500,000 for all other purposes. Consequently, the Air Force is in special need of the bulk of any funds which are to be made available during the next five years.

GOLF FIELD DAY AT LOCAL CLUB

Belleville Golf Club yesterday staged one of the most successful Field Days ever to be held on that course. The weather was perfect, and the course in splendid condition. Mr. L. Parker captured the best net score in the 18 hole competition, with the spiker did score of 72. Mr. Murray Ault was first honours in the best gross score events, with a score of 85.

In Medalists and the highest gross, while Mr. A. Ketcheson captured the sealed-hole competition. The best putting score was turned in by Mr. Clifford Walker and the lowest net score (of players with handicaps of eighteen) spokes or more resulted in a tie between J. McIntosh and T. Orr.

FOG DANGEROUS TO MOTORISTS

Forced To Crawl Along Highways At Snail's Pace

These ward days and rather chilly nights are giving motorists of this district who are forced to use the roads a fright of a test and a thrill. Coming from Picton last night in some of the hollows such a bank of fog was encountered that drivers were forced to crawl along and then in many cases danger of plunging into the ditch. The same conditions applied to the Trenton highway although at spots along the road it was clear as could be desired. In some of the low places however, driving was even more dangerous than across the lake as the traffic was heavier.

Mechanics tell the motoring public to place a handkerchief over the headlights in the fog area and the lights will shine clearly through the fog back for some twenty or twenty-five feet. The only safe way to drive these nights, however, seems to be to crawl along at ten or fifteen miles an hour.

S. S. KRESGE CO. TO LOCATE HERE

Large Chain Store Concern To Operate In Canadian Cities

It has now been definitely learned that the purchase of the Anglo-Amerian building is the S. S. Kresge Company.

This company, an American organization, is an immense but well financed and operating a chain of stores throughout the length of the United States. S. S. Kresge Company, it is understood, operates two classes of stores, one of the well known "Five and Ten" variety and the other selling merchandise of every description from five cents to five dollars. They are known as the 'red' and 'green' stores respectively.

The Company evidently plans to enter the Canadian field in a large way, as properties have recently been acquired in several Ontario cities, including Peterboro, Brantford and Kingston.

It is purely a matter of conjecture as to how soon the owners of the Anglo American building will open their store locally.

TEACHERS ARE CONVENING HERE

Mayor Opens Gathering With An Address of Welcome

NEW FEATURES

Report of Delegate To Ontario Educational Association In Heard

Fully one hundred and fifty teachers of the Public and Separate Schools of South Hastings, Belleville and Trenton met in Queen Mary School this morning to attend the annual convention of the Teachers' Institute, a two day meeting. The convention last year was held in the same school and was most successful.

The convention was opened by the Rev. Robert Hall, B.A., B.D., and an address of welcome by Mayor M. F. Duff followed. The Mayor's remarks were brief and to the point. He believes that the vocation of a teacher is one of the greatest in the country," he said. "I don't think that we, as a public give them all the sympathy that they deserve. We are proud of our educational facilities in Belleville, which are the best of any city its size in Ontario or Canada. I think, we extend a most hearty welcome to the teachers and hope that their convention is successful, which it undoubtedly will be."

Colonel Barragar, ex-principal of Queen's Park, extended a chairman. This morning there were two addresses, full of interest to the delegates. The first was the report of the delegate to the Ontario Educational Association Convention, Miss Oliver, and the other was a talk on "Nature Study," by Mr. A. Patterson, M.A., B.Paed., of Toronto Normal School. In the afternoon Inspector Clarke, B.A., gave an address, to be followed by group meetings.

The convention ends tomorrow noon with two inspiring addresses in the morning. Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, B.A., principal of the local Collegiate, will speak and Miss Beatrice Hales, illustrated by lantern slides, will be Mr. Patterson's second theme.

PESTIFEROUS BEE CAUSE OF CRASH

Car Driven By Ald. Chas. Hyde Left Road Near Foxboro

While luckily turned out to be, only a slight accident, occurred yesterday afternoon a few hundred yards south of Foxboro on the Provincial Highway when an Essex Sedan driven by Alderman Charles L. Hyde, prominent business man of this city, left the road and turned turtle in the ditch.

In some manner a bee entered the car and in endeavouring to oust it, Mr. Hyde lost control of the car, with the result that it left the road and hit the ditch. Fortunately Mr. Hyde had placed his feet upon the brakes when the bee entered the car and when the car somewhat before it left the road. The damage done to the car is badly bent axle and a bent fender. No other accidents were reported yesterday although the fog made travel ling dangerous.

CHATHAM YOUTH NOW IN CUSTODY

Provincial Police Believe Gibbs Played a Lone Hand

Windsor, Oct. 4.—When John Gibbs, Los Angeles youth, was arrested by Canadian National mail car near Chatham and took from it, about twenty thousand dollars, he acted alone. This was the general opinion of the police officials today who arrested the twenty year old youth connected with the hold-ups Provincial Police have said today that no further search will be made by him for the persons who might be involved in the mail car looting. He is satisfied Gibbs was solely responsible.

If Gibbs had had accomplices he probably would have been in such a hurry to get across the river," said Provincial Police Chief Dennis, "he would not have had all that money oh him when captured. That would have been necessary if he intended to run away."

Windsor, Oct. 4.—The possible source of the rumor gang was connected with the hold up was the Windsor, Essex & Chatham of Toronto who is held as a material witness. Lusby has a criminal record but the police say he is not the man seen by witnessed Gibbs at the station in Chatham.

BABE RUTH'S TERRIFIC HITTING FEATURED IN YANKEES' FIRST WIN

Bob Meusel Rises To Occasion And Drives Out Home-Run

SCORE 4-1

Miller Huggins' Team Played Smart Ball Behind Waite Hoyt

New York, Oct. 4.—For once in baseball life New York became the home team today as the established Yankees plugged crevices in their Harlem River clads against the repeated onslaughts by the St. Louis Cardinals. Father Knickerbocker was in the first stage of his fifteenth modern World's Series but it might have been mistaken for the first with seventy-five thousand fans marching upon the Rupert stadium.

The promise of an Indian summer sunshine fired the baseball spirit so it had not been fired for years in this precinct. The ominous shadow of Wee Willie Sherdel, he of the left-handed magic, remained across back of the Yankees, but New York fans were willing to string along with Waite Hoyt and the Yankee Clipper with which Sir Huggins pulled themselves along to the league pennant.

The Yankees still were favored to take the series but the Yankee supporters were more hopeful than before. Fart Combs is definitely out of the flight with Paschal and Hurst definitely in the running for the other. If the other Yankee cripples were up and about, and Babe Ruth was almost play ing.

The line up:

St. Louis—Douthit cf; High 3b; Frisch, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; Hafey, lf; Harper, rf; Wilson, c; Maranville, ss; Sherdel, p.

Second Innings

St. Louis—Bottomley was given base on balls, the fourth pitch being low and inside. Harper fanned, taking a third called strike. The Cardinals were working the hit and run play, but Maranville fanned, Sherdel was filed out to Paschal. Hoyt tossed out, Wilson at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Innings

St. Louis—Douthit took Maranville's fly. Schurdel fouled out to Dugan. Bengough took Douthits pop fly over near the St. Louis dugout, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Innings

St. Louis—High fanned, swinging for a third strike. Bottomley popped to Bengough who raced to the screen to make the catch. Bottomley grounded out to Gehrig unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

New York—Ruth got double into centre field, hooking one of Shyerdel's slow balls. Sherdel tossed out to Gehrig at first. Gehrig was purposely passed. Ruth and Meusel scored on Meusel's home-run into the right field bleachers. Lazzeri popped to Wilson back of the plate. Maranville went back to take Dugan's bunt. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Innings

St. Louis—Hafey struck out for the second time, swinging for the third strike. Harper singled into left field

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

True, love's the gift which God has given
To man alone beneath the heaven.

AIR MAIL

The inauguration yesterday of an international air service between New York and Montreal is an event which merits more than passing notice, for it marks the beginning of a new era in methods of communication between the two metropolitan cities. In connection with this international service, there is a new Toronto-Montreal air postal service, forming a link in the circuit which will make it possible to send letters, at a cheap rate, between points in the United States and Canada and receive answers within the space of twenty-four hours. For all ordinary business purposes this is as quick a could be desired. There can be no question that large expenditures will be saved and business process greatly expedited through the use of these air routes.

The governments and the private interests which have made these services available to the public are to be congratulated on their enterprise. This international air mail route is but the forerunner of many more which will join up the great centres of population in the speedy convenient and cheap postal service, effecting a revolution in existing mail delivery methods. The public will not be slow to recognize the advantage of the innovation and to demand extensions of the system. These are likely to follow in quick order. The Canadian authorities are to be congratulated on the manner in which they are cooperating in this progressive movement.

VIEW IS ALTERED

Nature appears to be working with the Mississippi Valley people who are associated for the purpose of developing the channel of their great river and of its tributaries, and the standardization of the upper channels to nine feet. Standard guage locks to measure 100x600x11 feet over the sills, and regulation of bridge heights to assure open channel navigation are other aims of the association. Both the presidential candidates are committed to more or less of the program. The diversion of water from Lake Michigan has been one of the disputed and much debated points for a few years past. Two years ago we were threatened with a water famine and the fear that the lakes were going dry appeared to be so certain that some citizens were almost ready to go to war with Chicago. Now the scene is changed, and it was forecasted that war was not declared against the Windy City on this issue. The average of the August level on the lakes was higher on every lake than the average for the past ten years. Lake Ontario was nearly six inches higher (0.47 feet.) than the August average for ten years; and Lake Superior was almost ten inches higher. The variations are attributed by the engineers, besides a 5 1-3-inch variation due to the obstruction of water to variable climatic conditions, especially precipitation and evaporation. The constant differential spoken of as the result of the abstraction of water through the Chicago Drainage Scheme, it is proposed to remedy by the building of compensatory works in the outlets of Lake Huron and Lake Erie. The tenth annual convention of the association will be held at St. Louis on November 26-27. This will be after the presidential election and no doubt the successful candidate will have something to say on a subject which is really one of the most important economic projects before the American people.

NOISE CAMPAIGN

One of the most striking movements of the present age, and one which is spreading to all parts of the world, is the campaign to save the people itself the ill effects of the terrific noise of modern traffic and inventions. In the European countries, in Great Britain, and in cities and towns in the United States and Canada, it is being found that the endless noise is causing a terrific strain upon human health and mentality, and is causing a serious economic loss in that way. Professor Henry John Spooner, a noted British scientist and engineer, estimates that the economic loss to the world by unnecessary noises amounts to $200,000 a year, and that apart from this loss there is another and incalculable loss in ill-health and premature death. He goes on to say:

"I am convinced that excessive unpeding noise of all kinds is growing in any way we could reduce the noise which harasses our ears by anything from 60 to 80 per cent. What a revolution that would be!"

Common sense sooner is right. It would indeed be a revolution if some means could be devised of checking the noises which make the air, and especially the night air, hideous and cause nervousness and irritation almost beyond endurance. Some cities have tried the method of legislating against it, with some measure of success, but even more valuable would be an active campaign of education against noise-making. Motor horns and sirens are about the worst offenders against this universal desire of mankind to have noise-making reduced to a minimum, and it might be possible, by education, to achieve some results with this type of offenders.

FIRE PREVENTION

Next week has been set apart by proclamation of the Governor-General as Fire Prevention Week in Canada in an annual effort to rouse the people of this country out of their lethargy in regard to this very vital question.

Our fire losses in this country, when contrasted with those of other nations are enough to have us indicted before the bar of world opinion as a people lacking altogether in common sense.

That the vast majority of fires could be prevented makes our position all the worse.

Various methods of stirring up interest in the problem will be followed next week, but after all the responsibility is an individual one.

Everybody can do something in the way of fire prevention, and just at this time of the year when furnaces and stoves are in active use again the householder is in a position to eliminate one very serious hazard by making sure that his chimneys and stove-pipes are clean.

The fact that a fire originating because of defective flues or chimneys carries a $50 fine for the party responsible should help to concentrate attention on this important task, which should be often to at once.

AFTER DISAPPOINTMENT

The thing is lost which I had hoped to gain,
The pleasure I had plannèd for cannot be,
Misfortune now has settled that for me,
But all my sighs and all my frowns are vain;
How oft when men want sunshine comes the rain!
How oft the fog hides all they wish to see!
Life unto no one gives a guarantee
That what he seeks he surely shall attain.
Some disappointment every man must face,
Who whimpers, lightens not his load of care
Into the past no mortal may retrace
His footsteps to make better what is there;
Who hopes for happier days must look ahead
And waste no time bewailing chances fled.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Two Englishmen had rented a boat to go fishing in the lake. They had wondered why the fishing that day never having caught so many before. The first Englishman suggested that they ought to mark the place, in order to find it the next time.

The second man he took a piece of chalk from his pocket and marked the side of the boat with a cross. When they returned the first Englishman asked the second if he had marked the place. The other said he had, placing the cross on the side of the boat.

The first Englishman said, "Why you silly donkey, how do you know we will get the same boat the next time?"

"I'm going to get three more tramps," was the reply.

THURLOW COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR SILVER WEDDINGBIRTHDAY TEA

A happy event took place Saturday evening, Sept. 22nd when Mr. and Mrs. R. Blake McKenzie, 37 Cunningham Ave., Thurlow, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary; Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie were married twenty-five years ago by the Rev. W. D. P. Wilson in the Third Line of Thurlow Methodist Church. For the first ten years of their married life were spent at Plainfield, while the remaining fifteen years were spent at Winnipeg. SURREY BEAR GOES TO CHURCH DAILY

New Westminster B.C. (CP)—The town of Surrey, near here, has a church-going bear. More than once the animal has been seen leaving the vestry of Christ Church. Surrey Police and members of the board are considering the advisability of locking all dogs up in the kennels to prevent further instruction.

Simon Cunningham, secretary of the Surrey school board, was the last to see the bear. He was walking along the street at the time and noticed what he at first thought to be an old woman with a hunched back leaving the church. The watcher was somewhat peculiar, however, and he stopped to find the object he had taken for a woman was, in reality, a bear. Cunningham attempted to chase the bear away, but the creature quietly strolled contemptuously and the school board officer decided to continue on his way.

Pat times in the forest and wild places are apparently over for another year, for bears have been plentiful in the district this fall and have abandoned their customary feeding grounds, bee hives and outdoor larders being raided by bruin.

REGENT

A high speed romantic love story full of thrills and he-man characters—yes, a picture for everybody!

Good news for the "outdoor fans" for you lovers of real good old time Western action.....Fred Humes is here! again!.....Accompanying Fred Humes, in "One Glorious Scrap,"..... Dandy fights.....horsemanship, and "Glory be to God" top is all!

BELLE THEATRE

"A hit" was the prediction of previewers who saw Paramount's all-star production, "Forgotten Faces." "A hit" has been the consistent description of reviewers who have witnessed the picture since its release. It is one of the first all-star productions on Paramount's new "Whole Show Program."

"Forgotten Faces" is a hit because it has all the elements of "a hit:" Swift, powerful, dramatic story; an all-star cast; a good director; production value; great camera work.

A splendid story, the build-up of a gambling house in the first two hundred feet. An element of mystery introduced at the Monte Carlo gaming establishment with an attempted prison break that will give any audience a lift. Then a gripping, unusual climactic twist. A paroled convict drives his degraded wife to the verge of madness with the meaningful scent of Hyktotrope to keep her away from his daughter. A startling denouement.

THE EMPTY HEART

Harris sat at Laura's apartment for tea. They had heard the news of the recent developments in the establishments of the Reynoldses and Brocktons. They discussed the situations gravely over tea, English muffins, and jam. Laura was of little assistance to Harris's quest for opinions as to what he called the "inside story."

"I suppose Steve and Irma eye on each other's nerves once too often," she said. "Irma served an ultimatum on Steve, he became defiant, and Marguerite, having nothing to hold her here, decided to go, with Irma, who says she will visit her parents until Steve comes to his senses."

Laura knew that Harris was wondering whether his attention to Marguerite had made trouble between the Reynoldses. She waited to cry: "Not No!" But her pride kept her silent. She felt that. If she spoke, Harris might misconstrue her motive, and she cared so deeply for him that she could not bear to say or do anything that might cause a misunderstanding. She was in terror, lest he should guess her secret.

She said gravely: "I think that after all, Marguerite isn't happy. I've often wondered how much of her gaiety was feigned."

To her astonishment, he asked abruptly: "Laura, why have you never married?" A flush crimsoned her face. For an instant she knew utter confusion. Then her poise returned. She laughed.

"Perhaps I was too wise..... Perhaps no one ever asked me."

"I don't believe the latter."

She laughed again. "Your greatest fault, Charlie, is in the fact that you will make gallant speeches to all women. It's going to get you into serious difficulties some day."

He said gloomily: "I'm not sure that it hasn't already done so."

"Some one has taken you seriously —when you were just being chivalrous!" she bantered.

"No; not exactly that..... Oh, I say, I sound like a cad, talking like this! Suddenly she decided to speak out. She squeezed:

"That's all. I think I understand. Let's put cards on the table and be frank. I think our friendship—our stand that strain. I know what you're thinking..... You're thinking that your being seen so much with Marguerite has caused talk, and that the talk has made trouble between the Reynoldses.....I'll be candid with you, Charlie. There has been talk. But, for the rest, I can't—and I won't—say."

Laura's ideally deft hands fumbled a bit with the tea-service as she spoke. Harris sat staring into space. Finally he said:

"She's absolutely lovely, isn't she? Marguerite, I mean?"

"Very lovely and very lovable," agreed Laura quietly, "and with more possibilities than even you can dream of. The right man could have done wonders for her."

"Well, I tried to help her find herself," he said. "But I could hardly get her point of view—there was such a difference in our ages. I often felt that she thought me old and stupid."

She laughed and shook her head.

"But you never make me feel that way, Laura."

She found herself wondering how much more of this she could stand, without revealing her secret. She took refuge in an inanity.

"Charlie, don't try to flirt with me, I know your method too well."

"But we do get along famously, don't we? I'm never as happy as when I'm having tea with you here in this apartment. It expresses you so fully."

"You mean you're never so comfortable," she protested. "It's because I give you my best chair and a good tea and the fire burns brightly."

He looked at her for a long time, speculatively. "I wonder?..... No, I don't believe it. But.....

He sat for awhile in silence. Then he rose abruptly.

She went to the door with him and offered a shy smile in adieu. Then she returned to the empty tea-table.

What did life hold for her?

Dressing for.....Dressing for.....solitude.....and an aching heart.

MENTAL POWERS AIDED BY MUSIC

So Are Spiritual Powers Says Dean Perrier of McGill

Montreal, Que. (CP)—Spiritual and mental powers should be developed by the help of music, which alone object is not to entertain and amuse, said Dean H. Perrin of the faculty of music, McGill University, in opening the Conservatorium for the year.

In his highest and best forms music, like any other art, is not to be viewed merely as a relaxation any more than it is to be viewed as a "must to astonish by digital or vocal dexterity," Dean Perrin explained. "Music should be a strong factor in the development of mental and above all, spiritual powers or attributes, for the mind or intellect only acts as a helper in creating a more powerful response in the soul or character.

"Music must not be viewed from the mechanical or routine standpoint, alone necessary as a certain amount of this mechanical or routine work is to everyone, whether one is an elementary student struggling with the technical difficulties of the simplest tunes, or whether one has attained a considerable degree of technic facility," the dean continued. "The spirit and not the letter must be always the guiding maxim.

"Although it is not necessary to dissect or pull to pieces any work of art, it certainly helps one to more fully appreciate its inner meaning, its full spiritual appeal. It has developed this power of analysis and gained a knowledge of the principles of design or form. The pupil may as well as the listener needs this mental training as help to a more thorough spiritual grasp of what a composer really intends to convey, for the notation which a composer has to use is only the mere letter, the spirit has to be sought underneath and only reveals itself to those who are in a fit state to recognize it. The study of the form or design of a piece may be most interesting procedure or it may be a deadly dull procedure; it all depends upon the way in which the subject is treated.

"One way in which the mind can assist in a more complete grasp of a composer's work is by considering him from the historical point of view. In Perrin continued, although he spoke of the weakness following the histories of music arising from the fact that the writers do not connect the lives of the composers about whom they write with the historical development of the nations which have given them birth, or among whom they worked. They do not show how they were influenced by environment or how they in turn influenced the people.

This Bridesmaid's 'Frock Is Smartly Graceful

As this charming bridesmaid slowly marches down the aisle, attired in her chiffon dress of pale rose and her wide picture hat, one is sure to hear "Oh's" and "Ah's" of admiration. Tall and slim, she can carry to decided advantage the full, scalloped skirt that droops almost to the floor in the back. A wide girdle brought magic about the hips ties in a soft bow in front. A simple cowl neck, tiny-sleeves and ribby shoulder, and long tight sleeves pointed on the wrist are the simple details of the blouse. A frock like this can be worn at formal evening occasions without sleeves and with a scarf collar. It may be fashioned of fine all-over lace, georgette, chiffon or silk voile. TO HONOUR THE FOUNDER OF S.A.

William Booth of Salvation Army Will Have Memory Honored

Winnipeg, Man. (C. P.)— In recognition of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of the Rev. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, Commissioner Charles Rich of the Salvation Army has announced a programme of intense evangelism throughout the world. Officers and soldiers of the organization founded by General Booth will do honor to the occasion by renewed efforts for the extension of the Kingdom of God. General Booth was born at Nottingham, England, on April 10, 1829.

In Western Canada each month of the year will be marked by special efforts in the Army Corps and other institutions. In October and November there will be conquests of officers and soldiers, and various special rallies. There will be a congress of officers in Winnipeg, September 13 to 16, and a congress in Vancouver, October 19 to 2 There will be conducted by Co. Mary Booth, who is in charge of the work of the Army in Germany. There will also be a congress in Edmonton, and on October 29, they will take place the graduation services of Grace Hospital of Winnipeg.

In December the guiding word in the consecration and evangelistic services of the Army will be "reconciliation" and in January the message of the Army will be "new beginning." The months of February and March will be marked by the winter crusade of holiness and salvation, followed in April as the birth month of the founder, will be appropriately devoted to the work among young people. The month of May is the occasion of annual self-denial among all Salvationists and their friends, an increase of 20 per cent in the annual gifts of this event will be asked.

In the month of June there will be a great territorial congress of officers here, the largest ever held in western Canada. It is anticipated that some most distinguished officer of the army will be sent to the city for this occasion. In view of the holding of this special June Congress, the usual assembly in October will be omitted.

2 eggs; 1 cup Borden's St. Charles Milk; 1 cups flour; ½ small tspn. salt; 1 tsp water.

Beat the eggs ten minutes and then add the milk. Gradually add the flour, sifted, and the salt, beating constantly smooth. Turn into hot, well-oiled gem pans and bake quickly.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE

¾ cup Borden's St. Charles Milk; ¾ cup hot water; 1½ cups sugar; 4½ tbsps. corn starch; 1 tspn. butter; 2 eggs; juice 3 lemons; grated rind 1 lemon; few grains salt; 1 cooked pastry shell.

Combine the milk and water in a double boiler top, add the sugar and cornstarch, thoroughly mixed together, and cook fifteen minutes, stirring occasionally. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks light, combine them with a little of the hot milk, stir into the thickened mixture and cook five minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Then add the salt and when somewhat cooled stir in the lemon juice and rind, pour into baked pastry shell, heap with a meringue made of two egg whites, and a third cup of powdered sugar, and cook in a moderate oven for ten minutes until the meringue is firm and delicately browned.

CREAM OF ASPARAGUS SOUP

1 bunch or can asparagus; 2 cups cold water; 3 slices onion; 1 sprig parsley; 2 cloves; 1 bayleaf; 1 tspn. celery salt; 1 tspn. salt; 1-8 tspn. pepper; 3 cups Borden's St. Charles Milk; 1 egg yolk; dash of paprika.

If fresh asparagus used, remove tips and cook them in a little boiling salted water until tender; if canned, cut off tips and lay aside. Cut up stalks. Cover with cold water. Add onion, sugar, and mace. Cook until very tender. Strain through sieve, pressing asparagus well to extract flavor. Melt butter in saucepan and stir in flour. Add salt, pepper, and asparagus purees. Combine milk and stirring until thickened. Add one-and-a-half cups St. Charles Milk and the asparagus of a delicate green color. Remove from fire, add remaining milk and season to taste. CARDINALS IN FINE CONDITION

'Not a Bruise In The Bunch' Boast of St. Louis Trainer

(By Brain Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Oct. 3.—Fifteen worked out all over the field and batting practice on the grounds of the Yankee Stadium today, but the gesture did not mean anything. The Yankees and Cardinals were idle today for the world series, opening Thursday.

The National Leaguers are set. There is no worry in the St. Louis camp. "Not a bruise in the bunch," was the proud boast of the trainer, and the actions of the Redbirds backed him up.

The reverse is true of the Yankees. In spite of optimistic reports as to Combs, the player himself and Manager Huggins, the fact remains unsure by no means certain that he can take his place in centerfield in the first test.

Combs was at the stadium for treatment of his injured wrist, instead of practice. Various electrical contrivances were used on it for hours, and he will spend other hours tomorrow baking it before he tries to use it for baseball purposes. Wednesday he will see the results, and not until then, Manager Huggins indicated, will the Yanks know if their regular centerfielder and lead-off man is to start.

If Combs cannot play, Ben Paschal will take care of centerfield and lead-off against left-handed pitchers with Cedric Durst performing the same functions against orthodox righthanders.

The rest of the Yankee team as a whole is in better shape than during the final drive of the season. Dugout and Ruth have shown distinct improvement and Lazzeri's bad arm is not worse.

The Cardinals will go into the series with the veteran, Jesse Haines, at third base against all kinds of pitching and the even more ancient Rabbit Maranville playing short throughout, if he escapes injury. Tom Zachary, who is the only southpaw in Huggins in Cardinal color, but Roscoe Holm, who was photographed in a group with the outfielders today, can play the infield or even catch if Jim Hoy Wilson and Earl Smith are cut down.

Manager Bill McKechnie said he planned to make only one shift depending on the style of pitching offered by the opposition. He will use Harper, Holm and Orsatti for pinch-hitting duty.

At batting practice today Bill sher ded, Jess Haines and Clarence Mitchell all took a turn on the mound. It was conceded that one of the first two would be called on to pitch the opening game although the Cardinal manager was reticent.

RANGERS ACQUIRE STAR DEFENCE MAN

New York, Oct. 3.—Myles Lane, of Melrose, Mass., who gained fame as a football, baseball and hockey player at Dartmouth College, today signed a contract to play with the New York Rangers, world's professional hockey champions. Lane, a 1927 graduate, is one of the greatest college ice stars developed in years, is a defence player.

N. H. L. PLAY-OFF RULE ANNOUNCED

Some Points Not Previously Made Clear Brought To Light

There was no decision yesterday as was expected, regarding the managerial berth of the Canadien Hockey Club. However, it is stated, that Manager Cecil Hart will confer with the owners of the club today when he will give his final answer to the request that he reconsider his decision to resign. Hart is the active management of the team owing to the pressure of private business.

George Hainsworth, Canadien goalkeeper, who is now in Montreal yesterday from his home in Kitchener will signed for the season. New York Rangers, it was stated, were keen to trade Chabot for Hainsworth, but apparently the deal is to go with Cacilens.

With Hainsworth signed, Joliat is the only player of the club who has not signed for the season. But that is no holdout. Each year Joliat comes around the time training starts and announces he is ready for another season.

According to present plans, there will be no Forum by October 25, over three weeks before the season is scheduled to open with Canadiens meeting Maroons on November 15. Next week the subscription list for the new hockey will be opened at the Forum and it looks as if there will be another heavy advance sale, probably equal to, if not greater than last winter, when the Forum practically sold out for both clubs.

Perusal of the new play-off system adopted by the National Hockey League brings to light a number of points not thoroughly understood previously. The first place in the two teams finishing in first place in each of the two sections will play off in a best three out of five series, which will be the great Stanley Cup battle.

While they are playing off, the two second teams will meet in a home and home series and the two third teams will battle in a home and home series, total goals to count. The winners between the seconds and thirds will then battle in a series best two out of three, for the right to challenge the Stanley Cup winners. This challenge series between the winners of the two first teams and the victors in the other eliminations will be a two

The Leafs are already on the track of "Hoot" Gibson, the pitching ace of the Belleville Champions. Two weeks ago in Toronto, Bill O'Hara and "Shotty" Lee were anxiously seeing Informer Ken Hood the captain of the Cobourg lad—and their interest has been more than doubled since their big day "outstanding" performances of Gibson in winning from Walkerville—Port Hope Terms.

For the next week or so, World Series baseball will occupy the limelight as far as the sports pages are concerned, and to-day's game will no doubt be dwelt upon at some length by the newswriters. And we will follow suit.

While there are possibilities of 15 games, the entire affair may be decided in 5 games or even 4 games, the series will be concluded in a shorter space of time than baseball, for no waiting games being played at the same time. Besides assuring one of the first teams a place in the final challenge round, the new arrangement also gives the first team the advantage of home ice and, while leaving opportunities for second or third place clubs to eventually win out, by and large presents a distinct advantage in establishing the top rung where before a team was just as well off finishing the scheduled season in second or third place, and in some cases they were better off. Under the new plan second and third place teams may win out, but if they do they will have to overcome obstacles which will leave no doubt that, if they win, they were distinctly the better team. But the big advantage seems to be that the new plans provide a distinct incentive for a club to finish on the top rung in the scheduled season.

VANCE TO SEE WORLD'S SERIES

New York, Oct. 3—Although in the major leagues for seven seasons, gaining in that time the distinction of being one of the game's greatest pitchers, Dazzy Vance not only has never been part in a world's series, but has never even seen one. However, the famed speedball hurler of the Robins does not intend to miss this one, and has delayed his departure for his home in Orchard, Va., until after the Yanks and Cards have settled their argument.

"After I broke my toe, I vowed that back in 1924," said the Dazzier yesterday, "I never'd let myself attend a world series until I could pitch in one. But curiously seems to have got the better of me, so I'm just going to remain around a while to see what the big series is like."

Captain of last year's Stratford team, and was one to the most popular players on the circuit. He is expected to report to Montreal Maroons in a few weeks, although most of his teammates have been sold "down the river" within the last few days.

From present indications there seems to be little chance of an intermediate O.H.A. team in Belleville this year. "Dan" Whalen may or may not come out of retirement. Vern Weir doesn't want to play any more O. H. A., and Stan Hagerman says he won't.

Soup Oyer might be enlisted to don the skates again, but who would be out there on defence with him? Benny Bowen is a sure fire net minder, but even he may have been taken from us by the lure of the movies of Trenton. So perhaps we should concentrate on the Juniors for a few winters.

"Silly" Gover will soon be getting ready to shake the dust of Belleville from his feet and get that educated stick of his out of the mothballs again for another belly dance on the ice. Silly found him self with a vengeance in the last month of play last year, and should have the best season he ever enjoyed this year.

George has moved to Oshawa and expects to be connected with the Oshawa Juniors under Stan Burgoyne this winter. At first, there have been lots worse players than George who have made names for themselves in foreign fields.

Now that Stratford has definitely decided that there will be no hockey team there in the Canpro League this year, where will "Toots" Holway be sent? He was Ontario Championship.

That Rugby meeting at the Y last night was none too well attended. There should be another city team in this grand Autumn game, and there are plenty of players here who would gladly don their rugby clothes again if they had a chance. But as usual there seems no one to take a little responsibility and start the ball rolling.

It looks more and more as though Belleville would be represented by the same Junior O.H.A. team that we had last year with the exception of "Bud" Galway, who is now attending Queen's University. "Derby" Jeffery is still located in Belleville, while Elmer and Al Young are also still here. The Canning boys and Bob Scott finish out a mighty nice front line, although the services of George Slang son will also be missed.

Canadian Pacific Directors & Eastern Financiers Inspect the West

One of the most outstanding groups of eastern financiers met that ever visited western Canada together accompanied Mr. E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific on his recent annual tour over the company's western lines. The party which was representative of the financial and industrial activities of all Canada left Montreal at the end of August and spent a full month travelling about the country between Montreal and the Pacific coast.

The purpose of the tour was to become more conversant with western conditions and problems—and more particularly to visit the Peace River country, most of the party never having been there before.

The party returned east with optimistic views regarding the entire country.

"I have never seen the country looking better at harvest time," said Mr. Beatty on his return, "and in all my experience I have not previously found so general a feeling of optimism and confidence in this country and its possibilities as was observed in the cities and districts where we made stops and had an opportunity of talking things over with their representative citizens. More than ever am I impressed with the potentialities of Canada's north land. I think it almost not too much to say that Canada's future lies to the north and that the opportunities already discernible there are a challenge to the oncoming youth of the older parts of the country.

"We had an excellent opportunity of learning this," said Mr. Beatty, "during our visit to the Peace River country which none of us had ever seen before and as a result of that visit we have arranged to take over and operate the E. D. & B.C. Railway, which arrangement, I believe, will prove very greatly to the advantage of that country and the people who live there.

"It is a beautiful as well as a fertile country," continued Mr. Beatty. "I can perhaps liken it best of all to some parts of old Ontario. It is a rolling country in some places quite heavily wooded and much broken by lakes and rivers. The soil is generally a rich, black loam and highly productive, and although there is a steady movement of settlers into the area there is no doubt increase in volume as it becomes better known, its interest is such that it must be developed before the available land is all taken up. Our party took every advantage of the opportunity offered to see the country. We motored over three hundred and fifty miles of its excellent roads, visited towns where we found fine farms or newly broken homesteads and in some cases well settled communities having every appearance of prosperity. In town and country alike we met with a cordial welcome and I think our visit was taken as a friendly gesture of interest on the part of the East towards the new, far Northwest. We motored over the British Columbia border line as far as Hulla and as far north as Dawson Creek, Colorado, and still feel we did but touch the edge of Canada's great north.

"It is hardly possible to say what the next few years will bring to this country, but we must recognize the fact that there is a new Canada being opened up well beyond what we have previously considered to be the northerly limit of habitation and production. We hope that we shall very shortly be able to link up the east of putting the E.D. & B.C. Railway into a condition to serve the country properly, but much money will have to be spent in order to bring it up to standard and it will also take some time.

INCREASE FOR WHEAT OUTPUT

550,482,000 Bushels In 1928; 100,971 Bushels In Quebec In 1688

1928—Quebec or New F.	Bushels	100,971
1758—Quebec or New F.		733,932
1828—Canada		21,531,000
1858—Canada		51,724,000
1928—Canada		550,482,000

This, briefly, gives an idea of the rate of increase in the production of wheat in this country. Today Canada is, harvesting approximately 500,000,000,000 grains of wheat, enough to make 122,299,323 barrels of flour, against the 23,628 barrels of flour from the wheat crop in Quebec of New France in 1688.

Wheat is rightly called the king of cereals; it is today the principal food of man.

Charles Smith in his "Tracts on Corn" in 1764 says "bread made from wheat is become more generally the food of the common people since 1688 than it was before that with disease resulting properties according to Sinclair's corn tracts, that in England the bread supply was 62.5 wheat, 14.6 per cent. rye, 12.3 per cent. barley, and 10.2 per cent. oats. These figures varied according to locality; for instance, in the north the percentage of wheat was only 32, and only 13.9 in Wales, while in the midlands it was 97.5 and 89.2 on the southwest including London.

The greatest advances in wheat production in Canada have been made during the last half century. Fortunate in the vision and ability of her scientific investigators, particularly her cerealists in the federal department of agriculture, Canada has experienced no difficulty in keeping pace with her wheat production problems. Ruby, Marquis, Garnet and Reward wheats, originated and developed by experimental farm scientists, are tangible proof of this statement. Vegaries of climate have proved no obstacle, and the task of producing varieties with disease resisting properties seems to be near accomplishment. Canada's mammoth crop of 550,482,000 bushels can perhaps be better visualized by the layman in terms of bread. In round figures if Canada's wheat crop was all made into bread, there would be sufficient to provide ten one-pound loaves for a whole year for every inhabitant in Canada.

LONDON CONSTANTLY GROWING, CHANGING

London, Eng. (CP)—An incident of how London is constantly changing and growing is given by the necessity of providing three efficient new bridges on the western ends. Traffic on the great new roads, which the motor age have made necessary is too heavy for the present bridge, and about a million pounds is to be spent in the next three years in replacing the Hampton Court Bridge and provide new bridges at Richmond and Chiswick.

Every Londoner, treasuring memories of happy holidays at Hampton Court, will feel a twinge of regret at the old Bridge's doom. Built 62 years ago, it sufficed in a sedate age of carriage and pair, but since 1923, it has been necessary to forbid heavy locomotives to cross it, and the speed of motor-car and lorry has been restricted.

The ornamental bridgework is by Sir Edwin Lutyens and is designed to harmonize with the more modern parts of Hampton Court Palace. Three ferroconcrete arches will carry a face of red brick and Portland stone with small pavilions at each end.

Sir Herbert Baker designed the bridge to join Chiswick and Barnes and Mr. Maxwell-Ayrton has designed the Richard's Bridge.

Miss Aileen Derret, of St. Paul was awarded $1 in her breach of promise suit.

In a fish netted in the North Sea was found a coin circulated in Prince in 1790.

APPLICATION OF LIME EXPLAINED

May Be Applied Either In Spring Or Fall of Year

The more commonly used forms of lime for application to the soil are ground limestone, marl quicklime and slaked lime.

These materials may be applied in either spring or fall; probably the best time is in the fall, making the distribution to the plowed land and incorporating with the surface soil by harrowing. They should not be plowed under, since the tendency is for all lime compounds to be washed down through the soil by the rain.

The methods of application of lime bearing materials should be such as to ensure as even a distribution as possible. The best method is by the use of a lime spreader. A satisfactory type of machine is one designed to fit on the end of a wagon box, the mechanism being driven from a drive sprocket attached to the hub of the wagon wheel. Fairly satisfactory distribution may also be made with a shovel from a wagon box.

Ground limestone and marl are the materials most widely used in supplying lime to the soil, and may readily be applied by the above methods. The usual rate of application is about two tons per acre, but as low as one-half ton per acre will often prove of benefit even on fairly acid soils. Marl should be well air-slided and broken down before being applied.

Quicklime should be either slaked or ground to facilitate uniform distribution. One method is to place the lime in small heaps of about a bushel each at regular distances on the field. Add a little water, about one-third the weight of the lime, and cover the heap with an inch or two of moist soil and when it breaks down into a slimy works, mix the slaked lime with a little silt and spread with a shovel, choosing preferably a windy day for the work. An average rate of application of quicklime is about 200 lbs. per acre.

Slaked lime is somewhat unpleasant to handle and may be most conveniently applied by the use of a lime spreader. If applied from a wagon box, the caustic action of the lime on the hands and clothes may be reduced by mixing it with a little fine soil.

PROTECTION OF BEES NECESSARY

Apiary Yard Must Be Shielded From Strong, Gusty Winds

Protection from strong winds is necessary about the bee-yard.

Not only is protection all-important in winter time to shield the colonies from the cold piercing winds which so quickly exhaust animal heat and cause losses, but also in all other seasons in order to encourage the flights of the bees and to facilitate the work in the yard.

All experienced bee keepers are agreed on the point that the import ance of a good windbreak can hardly be overestimated. Some even consider it of more importance than paid in and prefer a windbreak without packing to packing without a windbreak.

Though well packed, colonies frequently die of dysentery; therefore, in thinking about your preparations for winter, about the construction of your winter cases and the amount of packing required do not forget that all-important thing—the windbreak.

If, in a short time, a cold wind chills you who are well clothed, what will it do during a winter to your unprotected bees?

There are various kinds of windbreaks, some natural, others artificial. The natural ones are preferable and consist in protection from the north and west winds by thick woods, groves of trees, or dense shrubbery. Artificial windbreaks, on the other hand, must be used where natural ones are not available or while they are being established.

Though a good impromptu windbreak may be made by standing corn fodder or other such material against a fence on the windward side of the bee-yard, the artificial windbreak in most common use is that which is made of wood and which is similar to the snow fences used by the railroads.

The fence is made in panels twelve to fourteen feet long by sixty seven feet high, the boards of which are put two to three inches apart and nailed in two by four inches. In erecting this sort of windbreak, stakes should be driven into the ground and nailed to the fence to prevent the fences being overturned by strong winds.

BANDITS LOOT CHINESE TOMBS

Peking (CP)—Although police and military authorities still are keeping a strict watch on the nine shops of evil repute in Peking and Tientsin, they have little hope of recovering the most valuable of the treasures stolen from Imperial Manchu tombs in the Eastern hills 60 miles from Peking.

Desecration of the tombs by former Chinese soldiery troops has dazed the Manchus and Chinese alike. Because of the general practice of ancestor worship in China, the act is considered even more reprehensible by the Chinese than it would be in the West.

Sacrificial vessels of carved jade, massive vases and incense burners of gold and silver and figures carved in rare metals and stones are among the plunder of the vandals.

It is reported that a band of about 2,000 soldiers led by a subordinate general raided the tombs. The thieves will have great difficulty in disposing of the objects and their immediate value. Most of the treasures will probably be broken up so that the jade, gold and silver and precious stones may be recovered and sold in bulk.

Manchu treasures of great value have been disappearing almost constantly from the palaces and museums in Peking for the past seventeen years. The former servants of the Empress-Dowager and Boy Emperor are known to have taken many of these. Chinese curio dealers here insist that a large theft occurred in 1924 when Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang compelled Pu Yi, the boy emperor, to leave the Forbidden City. At that time, they say, an entire caravan of treasure was taken into the Northwest. If this story is true, the objects have not still concealed somewhere, as they have never appeared on the market, in China or abroad.

MADOC FAIR IS BEST IN YEARS

Two Accidents Marred Yesterday's Horse Racing Program

Yesterday brought to a close the most successful fair ever held in Madoc, for without doubt never before were such crowds attended the exhibition, never before have the entries been so great or of such high class material. Yesterday, the last day of the fair it is estimated that over five thousand were in attendance, and the grounds were packed so tightly that one could not move, all the way along the line before yesterday, there was not one "dull moment" in the two days. Horse racing, the parade, judging of exhibits, school parades, singing, fancy dressing, in fact, as one elderly Madoc woman put it, "Our show rank second to only one fair in the province, the Canadian National exhibition at Toronto."

Yesterday, of course, was the big day. Early in the morning the crowds started jamming in the gates and by early afternoon automobiles could not get inside the fair grounds. This afternoon saw all the feature events staged, including the horse racing, which in turn was offered for three races, and the entries were the best that could be found in this part of the province. There were two accidents that marred the afternoon's sport, but lucky they were not serious. Somebody unthinkingly left the gate open during the 2.35 class and Marguerite Mack and Dorothy H. two smart steppers, crashed into an automobile that was driven on to the track. Fortunately neither horse was hurt, but the sulkies did not benefit by the accident. The other accident occurred when a horse slipped and fell on the rather slippery track, but was not injured in any way.

Special interest was centered on the exhibits in the buildings, particularly in the women's department. Such clever exhibitors as Alice Armstrong Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Curry, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Caskey, Jennie Conder, W. W. Hill, Mrs. Lovelace, Mrs. Wickham, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Will Miller, Mrs. Milligan, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. Wm. Stewart, Mrs. J. Sherman, Mrs. Sutton, Mrs. McColl, Mrs. Lockwood, Miss Lester, Miss Sagar, Mrs. A. Connor, Mrs. Wardner and Mrs. Terrell displayed examples of their handicraft in the domestic science department and ladies' work department.

And on a stage erected outside, the pupils of Madoc's public schools and high school marched, sang and recited. Another big event was the masterful playing of the Madoc town band, a truly fine musical organization.

The Biggest Family

To Thomas Ash goes the honour of having the largest family on the grounds. Mr. Ash beat all competitors easily by displaying a large family of ten. He lives north of Madoc. There was to have been a baby show, but as no babies were entered, this was not held off.

And to the following officers go the honour and credit for the best and biggest fair that Madoc has ever staged:

A Smart Frock That Breaks Into Print

Dancette her short boyish bob, this is utterly feminine and, from all appearances, a woman of fashion and good taste. And one must admit that the femininity supplied to her printed dress by the soft bow, flares, and drapes are very becoming. Withal the subtle contrast between the charming frock achieved's also attempts by its smart use of a small striping cloth which this is a large box of the skirt. The whole is cleverly arranged so that it becomes a style with falls over one shoulder in front. The long sleeves are pointed at the wrists, while the short ones on the side in form an uneven hemline. Print of cotton, washable, smart silken beach frock for warm summer days. Without sleeves and fashioned of fine all-wool lace, the model would be equally chic for the most formal evening affair. (Copyright, 1928, by Int. Service).

PEKING SLOWLY DISINTEGRATES

Under The Rule of The Nationalist Chinese Government

Peking (CP)—Under the rule of the Nationals Peking is becoming a mere shadow of its former self, Nanking and Chinese capital of the great city, capital of China for centuries, are mournfully watching its slow but definite disintegration now in progress.

The blame is not placed upon the Nationalists but upon circumstances, for the transfer of the capital from Peking to Nanking was not purely a political move but a practical one. Nevertheless, Peking was never a commercial centre and depended on politics for its greatness. Now that the seat of government has been moved elsewhere the slow destruction of Peking is regarded as inevitable.

The decline of Peking began before the fall of the Manchus, and has continued steadily ever since. The merchants, the curio dealers, the restaurant and hotel keepers, and the landlords depended formerly upon the Manchu court for patronage. After the founding of the republic there was not a great change, because Peking remained the centre of government, thousands of officials who lived there kept things going.

Many Peking Chinese welcomed the arrival of the Nationalists hoping they would revive things. They did not take seriously Nanking's Govern ment's assertions that the capital would be moved, and did not seem possible to them that the city which had served as the Chinese capital for centuries would lose its importance in that role.

But it soon became apparent that the Nationalists meant what they said. Government offices were rapidly dismantled, the patronage of restaurants, hotels and shops began to fall off, wealthy men abandoned their homes for the safety of foreign concessions. A month after the arrival of the Nationalists, floating merchants began to feel the pinch and conditions have grown steadily worse. The northern Chinese feel that the Southern Government was deliberately maltreating toward Peking, one native said to a correspondent: "What use do Southern Chinese have for the North?"

To the impartial observer, however, the view appears very short-sighted. Nanking has good political reasons for removing the capital. The fact remains, however, that Peking's prospects are being slowly ruined. The few industries of the capital are of a standstill; retail trade has dropped so heavily that hundreds of merchants face ruin at the first settlement day. Business was bad under Chang Tso-Lin, and is much worse now.

VANCOUVER HAS BEEN ENLARGED

New City Will Take In Point Grey And Other Parts

Vancouver, B. C. (CP.)— This city is now in the midst of a municipal campaign proceeding the election of mayor and municipal and other civic officials who will for the first time represent Greater Vancouver, t'under the city corporation as it has been constituted for many years, the municipality of South Vancouver and the municipality of Point Grey both of which latter areas have had separate governments in the past.

Under its new form of organization the city of Vancouver will rank as the third city in Canada with a population of considerably more than 300,000. Amalgamation was decided upon at a recent plebiscite when the plan was adopted by a large vote.

Although the first mayor and council of the Greater Vancouver city will be elected on October 17, they will not take office until January 2, 1929. In the interim they will attend the deliberations of the present council in order to gain a thorough knowledge of civic administration before taking over the reigns of office. The term of the mayor, aldermen, school trustees and park commissioners will be for two years. Twelve aldermen will be elected to represent the greater city, which has been divided into twelve wards. There will be nine members of the school board, seven park commissioners and four police commissioners the latter being appointed by the city council, with the mayor acting as chairman.

There are two candidates for the mayoralty—Mayor L. D. Taylor, who has been chief magistrate of Vancouver for several years, and W. H. Malkin, prominent shipping and pioneer wholesale merchant. Early indications point to at least three-cornered fights in almost all of the twelve wards for aldermanic honors, while in three the contests "contests" seems assured.

RUNAWAY LADS TOTING A GUN

Two youngsters last night arrived at the Police Station and asked for a night's lodging, claiming that their lives were fortuned, and that they had run away from their homes in Hamilton last Saturday. They request was granted, but before they were sent to bed for the night they were searched and an old Colt 31 revolver, one of the first models turned out, was taken from the lads. The gun is one of the lads.

This morning a wire was received from Minico stating that a car had been stolen from that place yesterday and the authorities have asked the Belleville Police to be on the watch for it. It was thought at first that these two lads may have been the guilty parties, but when word was received from their parents in Hamilton they were absolved from the blame. They will be sent back to the Ambitious City in the near future.

BABY SHOW

Belleville Collegiate Rugby Team Trounced By Picton Boys

Too much praise cannot be given to the committee and officials who have to care for Pictons fair so that it could believe that it was such a size and such a huge success. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, three big days of perhaps the most successful exhibition ever held in the Prince Edward county capital. Yesterday, the last day, well over two thousand attended and this was a general average for the three days.

And Picton believes in having novelties at its fair. Exhibitions such novelties as horseshoe pitching contests, horse races with women jockies up in the saddle, baseball and rugby games, and a baby show which was literally crowded with entries.

But perhaps the biggest drawing card yesterday afternoon was the two trotting events which were rewarded $250 for each race. There were five horses entered in each contest, and very interesting they were.

Directum Murphy	5	1	1
Alfred Ek	1	2	4
Eleanor May	2	4	2
T. J. D.	4	3	3
Peg O' My Heart	3	5	5

Time: 2.12 1-2; 2.12 1-2; 2.20 1-2.

This Directum Murphy carried off first money in this event.

Della J.	1	1	2
Penalty Polister	2	2	3
Mr. Penalty	5	5	4
Adolph the Great	3	4	1
Allie Sloth	4	3	5

The times were 2.18 1-2; 2.17 3-4; 2.19 3-4; and 2.18 1-2.

In this race Mr. Eddie Jones, of Peterboro, kept driving too close and crowding the judge suddenly called out that if this driver faulted again he would be fined $100, and would not be able to mount a carriage again until he had paid it. Adolph the Great was the easy winner of this race.

Good Baby Show

A good baby show was held on the first night. Tuesday, in Picton. There were many beautiful children entered but the following were picked as being the best in their respective classes. The best all round baby was judged to be little Donald Rand. The best baby boy, from one month to 6 was won by Master Sweezey, with Douglas Kleinstecker taking second place. The best baby girl 6 months to a year was won by Donald Rand, with George Piper second. The best baby girl 1 to 2 years was adjudged Jean Leavitt, Irene Waiters second. In the best girl 2 to 3 years eighteen months was Rose Hicks, with Lillian Russel second.

Horse racing, of course, was the day of days. A unique feature and there were many of these, was the horseback competition between Miss and Athol, for the Amesite cup. Honors in this event were carried off by Athol, presented by Mr. Dodds and A. M. Platt. A beautiful cup was their trophy.

Lady Jockeys Up

Another event that captured the interest and imagination of the crowd was the horse race with lady jockeys

LABOR OUTLOOK HERE EXCELLENT

Employment Situation In Belleville Most Encouraging For Months

According to Superintendent L. P. Green of the Government Employment Service in this city, conditions are the best at this present time that they have been for some months. Every indication points to a busy winter season, as building is going on to some extent and many will be kept busy for some time.

There is a continued demand for general labourers, as well as skilled mechanics. Bricklayers especially are wanted, while electricians and woodworkers are also in great demand. At the present time there are more vacancies than applicants in the Belleville office which shows that there should be few idle men in Belleville at present. Farmers are settling down for silo filling and apple picking, with few workers offering themselves.

Manufacturing industries generally are running steadily, and the opening of the new Belleville Cannister Company has taken practically all the female help in the city. On the whole, labour in Belleville is in good shape, and those who are not working at the present time should get in touch with the Government Employment Bureau.

THANKS PUBLIC FOR ASSISTANCE

Editor, Intelligencer:

If I could, I would like to personally thank every citizen of Belleville—every member of Rotary—every member of Kiwanis, for the splendid support and assistance they gave after our Baseball Team through the past season.

It is impossible for me to do this individually, I am, therefore, through the courtesy of the Intelligencer of daily papers, trying to express my sincere thanks to all friends of baseball in Belleville and the vicinity for the magnificent and unswerving support they have given to the team.

There is no necessity for me to enlarge on the wonderful achievement of our Baseball Team in Championship but I want to say, in all sincerity, that it is that team's spirit, its courageament and backing the boys received from everyone of their loyal supporters, I feel inspired to believe that the championship would have never been attained, between you and Athol, for the Amesite cup. Honors in this event were carried off by Athol, represented by Mr. Dodds and A. M. Platt. A beautiful cup was their trophy.

Very truly yours,
W. E. ROWSOME,
Belleville Amateur Baseball Association

LAZARIUK FUNERAL

The funeral of the late Yakob Lazar took place from his home on the Second of Thurlow to the Shannonville church on Thursday afternoon. A great many friends of the deceased were in attendance at the funeral, and the profusion of floral tributes bore mute testimony to the esteem in which the late Mr. Lazariuk was held. The services at the home, the church and the graveside were conducted by the Rev. Wm. Gregory. The bearers were Wilfiuing Schuegraya, Peter Pocliuyke Jr., Joe Kacharowski, Wm. H. Grey, Horace Wright and Fred Barker.

CO-WORKER HAD WARNED VICTIM

Placing of Electric Bulb In Hole May Have Been Cause

WAS CONSCIOUS

Premature Explosion of Dynamite Direct Cause of Man's Death

The Jury empanelled to inquire into the death of Yacob Lazariuk, found that he died in the Belleville General Hospital at 1.30 p.m., October 2nd, from injuries received, while he was employed at the Canada Cement Company quarries in the Township of Thurlow and he was loading a hole with dynamite which exploded prematurely. The inquest was conducted before Coroner Dr. Tennant at the Police Court last night. No blame was attached to anyone for the accident. Bryson C. Donnan represented the Crown while Mr. T. S. Sutherland, Chief Inspector of the Department of Mines was present. Silas Allen, Curator, was the only other victim of the explosion, appeared in court with their faces swathed in bandages, Both of these men were able to be brought for treatment after the hearing. The Jury were out but a few minutes while a verdict was being prepared.

Dr. Claude Pinoyart, physician, was the first witness called. He testified that he was called to attend the late Yacob Lazariuk at the Belleville General Hospital. From a description of the injuries sustained by the unfortunate man which included several lacerations about the body as well as numerous fractures of the arms and legs. Aneasthetics were administered at 11:45 in the hope that he would revive, but Lazariuk passed away at 1.30 on the afternoon of October 2nd.

L. Dafoe was employed by Canada Cement Company on a steam shovel. He said he had known Lazariuk for the past eight years. He was working at the bottom of the quarry and noticed Lazariuk up when he fell.

He did not observe the explosion when it took place?

"Yes, we are always warned previously."

Mr. Dafoe said he took cover when the explosion occurred. He was informed that a man had been buried over the cliff and after investigating he found Lazariuk lying directly beneath the scene of the explosion. The witness said he had nothing to do with the laying of the powder or the blasting operations. Lazariuk was conscious when found.

Stewart Lang, a foreman of the quarry was called. He had been employed in the quarry since 1914 and no previous accidents of this kind had occurred.

Lazariuk would be under supervision and was known as a painstaking and efficient worker.

He had been employed as a driller and placed the powder in the holes.

Did you see the holes after the accident?"

"Yes, on that morning he was loading holes which are fifty-seven and fifty-eight deep."

The charges were prepared and the loose stones removed two or thre days previous.

How many of the drillers were loading the holes?"

"Only one."

Mr. Lang said he was but twenty-five or thirty feet from the actual hole in which he was loading by the name of Gurniak and Little were assisting in the work.

"What quantity of powder was in this hole in question?"

"About half a box was placed in the holes and we encountered some troubles as stones had slid in at the bottom of the hole. A loading stick was inserted, the electric bulb placed in the hole and the powder was forced past the stone.

"Were you operating the tamping rod?"

"Yes, a full box of powder was placed in the hole."

Mr. Lang said he went to supervise the loading of another hole when the explosion occurred. The witness said the holes were well cleared on.

"Is there any danger of an explosion occurring when powder is forced into a deep hole?"

EXPLANATION OF CREDIT BUREAU

Works To Advantage of All Merchants Says Ottawa Man

Belleville Retail Merchants' Association held their monthly meeting and banquet at the Queen's Hotel last evening and the members were given a fine address on Credit Bureaus by Mr. Burkholder, prominent merchant of Ottawa. Mr. Burkholder explained the working of Credit Bureaus in that city and hoped that the Belleville Merchants would see their way clear to establish a Credit Bureau in this city.

The bureau works to the advantage of all the merchants in the city as it is clearly an information exchange. Information is obtained regarding every doubtful customer a good turn. Information is obtainable at the end of each month so that they will know just what they will have coming in in short, at each month in advance. There are over a thousand Credit Bureaus in the United States and Canada, telling of how each individual man who uses credit pays his bills.

The speaker declared that according to statistics more money is lost through bad bills each year than through the total fire loss of the whole country over a similar period. The Ottawa exchange was started in a small way, only seven being in at the start. Today there are seventy members in twenty-five different lines of business. The bureau has developed rapidly, being since they started last December and have given reports on nearly 2000 calls sent in from stores where a new customer wanted credit.

The bureau sends out "watch notices" or notices telling the merchant to be on the watch for certain people who make a habit of not paying their bills, and are also on the look out for people who leave town and leave their debts behind them. The delinquent letter service is another of the Bureau's activities, as well as the finding out if any man has a Dividend Coupon record. They record the deaths and marriages, as women customers when they change their names often forget all about their accounts.

Credit As indispensable to the merchant, and yet he must have protection, and the only way he is able to get that protection is by way either a credit bureau or its equivalent.

The greatest of your assets, business or personal, is your credit, yet you cannot lock it in a vault nor insure it against loss. It is a part of what you created it and you may destroy it.

Your credit is sometimes worth more than your assets in money. Your property statement does not create credit, it is only a basis for the creation of "how much."

Honour and truthfulness are two cornerstones of credit. They mark you as a reliable man; one who may safely be trusted with what is another's and That is the essence of credit.

Individual capacity is an important factor in deciding your credit. Many honest, reliable men lack capacity. The Credit Bureau grasps opportunities, informs ahead.

Here, then, is your credit. Your honour your work, your capacity—these three make it. Your holding of this world's goods surely measures it.

You can destroy it. One obligation wantonly disregarded; one unfulfilled promise false, and the basic crumbles. Built in a lifetime, it may vanish in a day. The most valuable of your assets, it is yours only so long as you carefully conserve it.

Charles Hanna was chairman of the meeting, and deplored the fact that the new members were present to hear the address. It is expected that a small Credit Bureau will be formed in this city in the near future.

New York—Durst got single over Fischer's head. Fritch almost got ball by raising catch but ball bounced off his glove. Meusel struck out to Hafey, Ruth got base on balls, fourth pitch being outside. Gehrig struck out. Gehrig's terrific homer drive into right field stands, Durst never runs; two hits; no errors.

Second Inning

St. Louis—Harper got a base on balls, the fourth pitched being on the outside. Harper scored on Wilson's double into right centre. On Maranville's single to centre, Wilson went to third. Alexander's grounder and throw to Koenig forced Maranville out, Koenig's assist making a double play. Koenig to Lazzeri to Gehrig. High popped to Robertson. Three runs; two hits; one error.

New York—Bottomley took Robertson's high hopper and raced to the base of the stand. Yankee third baseman Bengough walked. Pipgras sacrificed Wilson to Bottomley. Alexander fanned on Durst's shaking his into centre. Koenig sent up a high fly which Fisch smothered. One run; one hit; no errors.

Third Inning

St. Louis—Fritch got a single off Gehrig's hand. Fritch stole second. Douthit flied to Koenig. Koenig threw out Hafey at first, Fritch going to third. Harper struck out on three pitched balls. It was a sweeping curve he got by. No runs; one hit; no errors.

Yankees—Koenig got a single over the middle bag. Gehrig got a base on balls, the fourth pitched being outside. Ruth on Meusel's double to left, drove in Koenig and Gehrig, High threw and Meusel to Bottomley. Koenig third. Robertson walked. Gehrig scored on Bengough's single to right field. Pipgras forced Robertson at second. Alexander was taken from the box at this point, Grimes taking a third called ball twice in captivity went into the box for the Cards. Meusel struck out, Grimes to Bottomley on a pitched ball.

Robertson moved to second on Pascual's single to right but Bengough was thrown out at the plate Fritch to Wilson. Pipgras was safe at second on Pascual's error, Gelig popped to Bottomley. Four runs, four hits, no errors.

MOTORS CRASHED AT INTERSECTION

Early this afternoon an accident that might have had more, McLoughlin consequences occurred at the corner of Queen and George street when a car driven by Jim Grotto of this city, crashed into another car driven by Miss Kathleen Pratt, Albert Street, and owned by Mrs. Norman Maker. Miss Pratt was travelling west on Queen and was just past the intersection when the accident occurred. The Grotto taxi after hitting the Maker car, careened up over the curb stone, just missed a tree and a telegraph pole and run up on a lawn. Fortunately no body was hurt, but Mrs. Maker's car was badly damaged, with the left fenders and side suffering the worse delay the airship's departure.

IMMIGRANTS SHOW LITTLE INTEREST IN ATHLETIC MEET

JACK MARSHALL WINS

Jack Marshall, well known local boy, for the past three years captured the Dents' track meet held in the University of Toronto stadium yesterday afternoon. He created the splendid record of carrying off first honors in the hurdles, pole vault, shot put, high jump and getting second place in the running broad jump and quarter mile. Marshall is one of the most promising athletes ever turned out of Belleville.

TEACHERS HEAR COLLEGIATE HEAD

Lieut.-Col. David Barragar Named Hon. Pres. of Convention

One of the most successful teachers' conventions ever to be held in the city was brought to a close early this after noon, and approximately two hundred and fifty instructors of the County of Hastings will start school on Monday morning with renewed vim and vitality, the outcome of this convention. Starting yesterday morning, a great deal of ground was covered in the two days, and undoubtedly the high spot of the meeting was the speech this morning of Mr. P. C. McLarty, principal of the new collegiate and vocational school. Mr. McLarty, a brilliant speaker, one of best in the city, held spellbound by his able, well-disputed educational ability, his address held the attention of all.

Officers for next year's convention, which, by the way, will in all probability be held in the auditorium of the new high school, were elected this morning. It was unanimously decided that Lieut.-Col. David Barragar, principal of Quarry Park School, be elected honorary president, while Mr. Hurst was chosen president for 1928. Mr. Matthew R. Morrison, pop ular young grammar school teacher, elected vice-president and H. J. Clarke librarian. Mr. W. F. Young, of the Ont. Dept. of Education, Toronto Educational Association meeting next year. Mr. Sherbert and Mr. Hurst addressed the meeting briefly.

The executive for 1928 will be—
Belleville—Cundell.
Trenton—Mrs. Sherbert.
Deseronto—Mr. Ostrander.
Sidney—Miss Bird.
Thurlow—Miss Ketcher.
Tyendinaga—Miss Mae Kerr.
Separate School—Sister Rodigues.
Prankford—Mr. Bell.

Mr. Hurst Speaks

There was no other speaker, perhaps, whose address was more interesting than that of Mr. Hurst, who was of Ogilvie's education, and Mr. McLaurin showed how she at last realized that she was being fitted to her. She was permitted to hear the world's best singers, pianists, violinist, and was taught how to live. After a few short weeks it was cast away and forgotten. But when she heard a great singer, pianist, violinist, she had found the one things that she could express herself in the best, the very best.

Thus it is why Belleville needed a collegiate, how boys and girls were not getting a fair chance at the old place, they did not have a chance to prepare themselves into whatever line to which they were best fitted. The fact that there are students now politely lacking in the old high school.

SLEEPING CHURCHMEN

Why do people go to sleep in churches?

The problem probably is as old as Christianity itself. In colonial days it was solved by the willing deacon prodding to and down the aisles with long, knobbed sticks, with which they tapped, sharply, the heads of all who dozed.

Dr. Edmund Jacobson, of the University of Chicago, has studied the question and thinks he knows the answer. Complete muscular relaxation, he says, leads with 11 minutes of dozing to sleep. The man who slumps down in his seat, inert and motionless as possible, cannot keep his senses alert. Consequently he fails to concentrate on the sermon, and goes to sleep.

We don't know just what the remedy should be. Apparently, however, the moral is that the body, as well as the mind, must be kept alert and responsive while in church. Otherwise some of the pastor's gems of wisdom are apt to go unheard.

HOLE-IN-ONE

It is with conflicting emotions and not a little misgiving one reads the story of George Kirby, the Southampton professional, who holed out his drive on a 340-yard hole.

There have been other celebrated holes-in-one in history, but perhaps none so celebrated as that of Mr. Kirby, which is by many yards the longest "drive."

Only a year ago a Japanese golfer made two holes-in-one in a single round of golf, thereby creating the severest test of Nipponese stoicism since the passing of harakiri. It is reported that when the second ball rolled into the cup, he forgot tradition and chanted praises to his ancestors.

Equally remarkable was the feat of the golfer on the public course at Newark who holed out from the tee green for a distance of 183 yards on his first round of golf, early last month. There was an event to gladden the heart of any golfer, though the possible consequences must be viewed with trepidation. Early success in golf as in business is hazardous and it is likely that the Newark man will spend the rest of his life in a vain endeavor to sink another.

The fear in Mr. Kirby's case is that the shot aroused none of the emotions that from time immemorial have been considered appropriate to such an occasion, or at least, that if they were aroused, Mr. Kirby failed to manifest them. Instead of yielding to the impulse of the moment, it is safe to foreordain that Mr. Kirby followed the example of that other British golfer who holed out a 250-yard shot.

"A good shot," said the caddy.

"A fair shot," said the golfer, "but what have about it like a poet?"

UNEMPLOYMENT PAY

The workers of Britain greatly resent—and properly, too—the use of the term "dole" in describing the unemployment insurance scheme. It is not regarded, except perhaps by a few unworthies who are to be found in every country, as a gift, but as a legitimate and necessary form of assistance to meet emergencies, out of funds to which the workers themselves have contributed a fair proportion of their earnings. There is much misunderstanding of the matter, especially on the part of those in other countries who undertake to criticize the system. The government has frequently acknowledged the benefit derived by the nation from the existence of unemployment insurance measures. But for them it would have been almost impossible to have survived the industrial crises which have occurred in the Mother Country. Moreover, the figures regarding unemployment insurance payments, are capable of a much more favorable interpretation than that sometimes put upon them.

The British Ministry of Labor Gazette in a recent issue, showed that out of eleven and a half million people insured under the Unemployment Insurance Acts, during the period October, 1921, to April, 1926 nearly eight million drew no unemployment benefit at all. Of the three and a half million who did receive such benefit, only one million drew unemployment insurance pay for a period exceeding one hundred days. The figures are not available, for more recent times, but it is altogether likely that a similar condition of things would be revealed. Commenting on the present situation, the current monthly review published by Barclay's bank says: "Broadly speaking, the adverse movement is largely confined to a few industrial localities, in several of which there has, for some time past, been a considerable volume of redundant labor with little prospect of eventful absorption by those particular industries themselves. Following the publication of the report of the industrial transference board, the prime minister has recently issued an appeal to employers and others generally, to assist in the solution of the problem of finding work in other walks of life for those who are unlikely to obtain employment in their former industries, and to intimated that, in suitable cases financial assistance in moving men and their families to new areas will be afforded from official sources, Serious as the unemployment problem undoubtedly is, it should be remembered that a large number of the persons included in the weekly returns are only out of work for a comparatively short time."

A REASONING FAITH

If I could make a sky of matchless blue;
And make a rainbow fit across its done,
If I could make the clouds that shade its face;
Behind it all build a celestial home.

If I could bridge an earth from out its space;
If I could make the stars that hang in space;
Could steer a comet through the "Milky Way."
If I could make a moon to watch the night;
Or fashion out a sun to guide the day.

If I could bring an earth from out the void;
Inhabit it with beings great and small,
And give them sense and feeling, life and limb;
The gift of procreation to them all.

If I could make the blades of grass that grow;
To carpet the rough places for the feet,
Or with a touch could make the flowers bloom;
Perfume the atmosphere with fragrance sweet.

If I could do the several things I name,
Lacking material or aiding rod,
Then surely would I have the super mind,
And then could I proclaim, "There is no God."
But I am helpless, limited in mind,
Subject to unseen forces that abound,
His majesty displayed by all around.

So should I reverence a Mind Divine,
The best that I can live's but fair,
My greatest consolation simply this,
That what I cannot make, I yet can share.

ERNEST HEBERTH.

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago.)

There was a heavy frost last night.

The majority in favor of prohibition in Prince Edward County is larger than at the last temperance vote. The figures are 1884-104; 1898-1319.

While Mr. C. F. Smith, Charles St., was at church last evening, his house was entered and a small sum of money and sil overcoat were taken.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Where are you going, Constable?"
"Oh," exclaimed the constable, "the three tramps I just locked up want to play bridge, and I'm out hunting for a fourth."

"Why don't you advertise?"
"It's no use. It ruins my business."
"Ruins your business? How?"
"I tried it last year and the people nearly bought everything I had."

"Mamma, I want a drink."
"You must keep still and go to sleep, Lucy. You had a drink before you went to bed."

Ensued a silence of three minutes, then—"Mamma, I want a drink."

"Lucy, if you don't keep still and go to sleep, I will come there and spank you."

Silence for four minutes. "Mamma, when you come to spank me, please bring me a drink."

Willie had been naughty and was being sent to bed by his mother with out supper. He was naturally aggrieved at the punishment, and mumbled between the sheets without a word.

IT TAKES ALL-BRAN TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

More and more people are eating bran for health's sake these days. And it's a fine thing. But not everybody realizes what a difference there is in so-called "bran." Doctors say it takes 100% bran to supply enough roughage to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only be partly effective.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. It does a work of which bran products cannot hope to equal. Two tablespoonfuls daily—drink or cereal, with your meals—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN often. With milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Be sure you get genuine Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—the red-and-green package. Use it in cooking, too, in delicious muffins. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Coe Hill, Ont., Oct. 2, 1928.

The Editor,
Daily Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.
Dear Sir:
May I not noticed in your issue of September 27th an article referring to a Coe Hill man being in your town named Arnold Wright. While we do not uphold any action that is brought about by the use of intoxicating liquor, we do not claim that Coe Hill is free from immorals we do feel that your paper has always allowed his ideas to magnify considerably in his report.

We believe a paper is meant to convey news and accounts as they actually occur, but we do feel your reporter in his account was trying to cast reflection upon a man and also on the place from which he came. Your reporter said that when he came from Coe Hill, true he did come from Coe Hill and he might have added that he came from Coe Hill when he went overseas and tried to assist in protecting our land, and returned to it free, and this same young man as we have reasons to believe came back a wreck although he was discharged as A1.

We feel your self named moral leaders would have been doing much more for his country-hand he taken Arnold to a doctor or hospital to which place he rightly belongs. As said before we do not uphold the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, but perhaps if all the people of Belleville had been of that opinion, then Arnold would not have secured that which you claim made him practice the lower habits of a man.

We have known this young man for a number of years, in fact we were well acquainted with his father and mother before he was born and we have never known of him to be in any bits-up of this kind before. When you proceed to give him and the place from which he comes so much free advertisement we feel justified as a citizen of Coe Hill to resent your paragraph.

If you are in doubt of anything we have said we would ask you to take your test glycodent or glodentite to examine this young man and if anything we have said is untrue we will pay all the expenses of the examination.

We do not wish to complain but we feel your paper owes us a little apology.

Thanking you for this space, I am
Yours truly,
A. OILROY,
Coe Hill, Ont.

Editor's Note—The reporter in writing the story referred to, meant to convey no erroneous impression nor is cast any general reflections on the village of Coe Hill. There was no feeling of animosity intended and The Intelligencer realizes that Mr. Wright comes of an estimable family and regrets to learn that his war service may have left its ill-effects. It was written as a news story only and the writer repeats that there was no feeling of malice toward Mr. Wright.

TO the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Sir—As Editor, cannot I in the cause of sport for my weak at least, and if you will publish the following in your esteemed paper I am sure that those who take baseball seriously in our fair city will appreciate it very much.

"Belleville Citizens are proud of their baseball team and rightly so for their achievements this season, and in the past few years have been some thing to crow about. Although only two Ontario Championships have been annexed, nevertheless Belleville is known to Golfers as a real amateur baseball centre. Each year the activities of the Club have been closely watched by lovers of the great game all over Ontario.

Can Belleville retain her enviable position in future years' performances on the Diamond? Possibly for a year or two—but will the players who now make up the personnel of our team be able to carry on indefinitely. The only answer as conditions exist at present is "No" and why—because Junior baseball in baseball in Belleville is not being fostered as it should. During the past season those who sponsored the Public and Separate School League which in other years played hardball, permitted Softball to be played for the Championship, while other leagues, sponsored by Kiwanis and Y. M. Softball competition for the boys, gave some fine amusement and furnished nice ball and should flourish another year. It was a step in the right direction but these teams as well as our senior club will also have a spot to be filled in the future. The product of Softball Leagues will not suffice for these clubs and the boys will not be ready to step up.

Those who sponsored the Softball game did so with the very best intentions and furnished healthful recreation for the youth during the summer, but with these organizations mentioned in addition to the Rotary and Kinsmen, not fewer hard ball but next season? It can be done and now that it has been called to their attention, it will be watched with interest as to what move will be taken to remedy the situation is given.

—An Interested One.

The writer also has requested that his name be not published not that he is ashamed to stand by his convictions but he has no desire to court publicity. His name is on hand in our office and he is quite willing to do his share should anything be start-

PROHIBITION LIVE ISSUE IN JAPAN

Tokyo (CP)—Prohibition has become a live issue in Japan and 6,000 advocates of a national dry law recently paraded through the streets of Tokyo carrying paper lanterns, flags and streamers, bedecked with slogans favoring their cause and chanting the song of social reform called "Who Forgets The National Peril!" It was one of the largest demonstrations of its kind that the nation's capital has ever witnessed.

A dozen well-known Japanese Labor and Social leaders led the demonstration, among them Tokuhito Kaw Kagawa, who had just returned from Karuizawa where he helped lead a conference on applied Christianity.

The parade was among the first in a national campaign in many of the larger cities of Japan to induce citizens to adopt a "sankless day," to vote for prohibition for persons under 25 years of age, and other gradual reforms in the direction of total prohibition.

TRY TO ELIMINATE PASSPORT TROUBLE

Toronto, Ont. (C. P.)— A campaign for the abolition of the requirements of the British Government that British-born travelers going from and part of the British Empire to another should possess passports, will be conducted by the Canadian Steamship and Tourist Agents' Association, the association decided recently. Members of the association are confident that, in this move, they have the sympathy of the travelling public, who have to abide by unnecessary trouble.' They will endeavour to bring to bear upon the British Government — through the Department of External Affairs — sufficiently strong evidence to have this class of passport eliminated.

CHAPTER 64.

THE GALLANT ACT.

Marguerite was superintending her packing preparatory to accompanying Irma to her parents' home, when Harris called. There were trunks in a rear hallway, visible through the drawing-room doors.

"Surely you' are not going away?" he asked, when she came in to him looking surprised and shortly young in a girlish frock.

"Yes. Didn't you know?"

He looked dismayed. "I—I hope that you and your husband——." He stopped and looked helplessly at her.

She shrugged. "Oh, I'm merely going to accompany Irma. The poor dear would be so lonely."

She flushed and lowered her gaze. "I—I scarcely thought you'd care."

Afterward, she never could explain what had possessed her to utter that inane remark. Certainly Harris had given every evidence, throughout the previous summer and the winter that followed, that he was intensely interested in everything concerning her.

To Harris those words had a subtle appeal. Marguerite looked so lovely and so young; she could be so reckless, and yet he knew her to be rather helpless in her inexperience. He thought of what life might do to her. She had to one, to whom she could turn, except himself. Hal didn't love her, and she had grown away from her parents completely.

He took both her hands.

"Marguerite, no matter what happens, will you always look upon me as your best friend?"

He couldn't understand the startled look she flashed at him.

She wondered what he was leading up to.

"Really, Charlie, haven't we always been good friends? You've been so kind and helpful——"

"You must know that your happiness means everything to me," he murmured.

She was so young, so sweet. Married to her, he could be the happiest man in the world. Harris was telling himself that he knew no lovelier woman, and then he thought of Laura, with her understanding eyes.

Suddenly Marguerite turned away and walked to the window, where she stood staring out at a sleety March storm. Harris asked tentatively:

"You……You won't forget what I've said?"

"No. I won't forget." Her voice was very low. After a moment, she turned to face him and flung out her arms in a gesture that was almost one of supplication. "What is the matter with life? It's all so bewildering…… I'm so unhappy. You know that I never loved Hal, and that there is nothing between us, except a perpetual sort of antagonism. Each hurting the other, wilfully or not……With you it's different. I'm happy when I'm with you, not nervous and upset."

"Why don't you and Hal try just to be friends?" he asked. "Friendship is sometimes the best basis for marriage."

She shuddered suddenly, and he asked: "What is it?……Are you cold?"

"I don't know,…I guess I was thinking of all the things my family and Hal's told me would make a good basis for marriage, in the place of love."

After a minute, she asked: "Will you come to dinner some night soon, Charlie? Irma and I are not leaving until the fifteenth."

"My dear child, I'll be delighted to come whenever you ask me. You must know that I consider it a privilege to be with you."

"Dear Charlie, you have been wonderful. It is quite the most perfect friendship."

After he had gone, Marguerite went up stairs to Irma. The latter was in a swirl of gowns and hats and trunks.

"Only four more days now, Marguerite," she said disconsolately, and sank down on the floor with a chiffon evening gown crushed limply in her arms.

"You're rutting that frock," Marguerite reminded her.

"What do I care?" wailed Irma. "I'm sick of frocks. I'm sick of life. Nothing worth while any more. How I envy you. You don't care about your husband. You aren't broken-hearted."

"Charlie's just been here," said Marguerite, to change the subject.

"He's a marvelous fellow," said Irma. "I think he is in love with you. I'm sure Hal thinks so."

Marguerite was staring into space. "I dare say every one thinks that. But Hal should know better."

WHAT'S NEW (From a Woman's Standpoint)

Smart Paris women are wearing light tunics over a dark foundation.

Among the season's brown shoes are those of suede, kidskin, velvet, moire watermark satin, lizard, alligator and ponyskin of all—dyed.

A little variegated bead cluster with green leaves is one of the newest posies for wear with the tweed ensemble, and the leather gardenia in two-tone effect is another smart mode.

The satin weaves are inexpressively smart, and since there are many designs in fresh that cannot be executed by any other fabrics as successfully as the clinging texture of satin, it may be said to hold second place to velvets.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Pour a little vinegar into the frying pan in which fish or onions have been cooked and bring it to a boil. It will take away all odors.

A few drops of your favorite perfume on a blotter in your box of stationery will give that romantic, delicate scent to your note paper.

A steel chain for buckles that have become dull and dusty looking should be put in a box almost full of fine emery dust. Close the box and shake vigorously for several minutes. Brush off the dust when it has done its work.

To prevent olive oil from becoming rancid, add two medium lumps of sugar to each quart of the oil as soon as it is opened.

Nine-year-old Angus Ferguson of Glenarm rescued his two-year-old brother from path of on-rushing auto mobile.

Fashion Throws Its Shadow Over The Yokiful Mode

This little girl looks as though she might be playing with her shadow as it falls on the garden wall. In such bright sun, however, she would see the leaping rabbits that wag their ears and swans that move their long necks by just the simplest arrangement of her hands and fingers. Grotesque silhouettes are easily made and fascinating to watch out of the corner of one's eye. Here's seen a clear-cut profile, a stiffly starched frock that is straight from the collar down and very short, while her legs seem to stretch for miles. The shadow, however, does not reach the broadly pleated material and the fine quality cotton find with a bow. There is also a little square pocket, at the left, that is beautifully bordering with valuable possessions. French designers that match the touch complete a practical and smart play costume for the little girl. Lawn, dimity, percale and cotton crepe are all excellently laundered materials for summer wear. up. Three charming misses, appropriately dressed in the most formal of riding costumes dashed half a mile around the race track to a close finish. Miss Zimmerman, of Wapous, was first and she completed the race in markably fast time.

Picton band played, and it was a remarkably good band too. Just before the races finished, a parade of all prize livestock was held, led by the

A baseball game was in progress during the grandstand attractions between the Orientals and the Mohawks, which game was easily won by Mohawks, in fact the difference in scores was so great it could not be counted.

Belleville Team Poor

The event that would appeal to those who attended the Fair yesterday from Belleville the most would be the exhibition rugby game between the Belleville Collegiate team and a squad from the Picton High School. Belleville last year had one of the smartest intercollegiate teams in the province and went right through to the finals to be beaten out by Oakwood Collegiate, but any who saw last year's team play, and then had witnessed the sad affair yesterday would have broken down and wept. It wasn't that the local boy didn't try, they tried to the utmost of their ability, but with the loss of their star backfield of last year, a crippled quarter back and one of their star linesmen absent, they were mighty poor—in fact rotten. Picton Collegiate waded easily through the game to come out with a 11-0 score, a complete whitewash! Lucky for the locals that it was only an exhibition game for if they don't improve before their next game with Albert College, they won't have much of a show in this year's rugby finals.

The Picton backs could get through the Belleville line nine times out of ten, and their end runs were working famously. Whenever the locals would try an end run, or try to buck their way through the line, something would go wrong and the ball carrier would be dragged down almost in his tracks. Never once during the entire game was the Picton goal threatened.

The only ones on the Belleville team that could be commended for their playing perhaps, were Tommy Byrnes and Twiddle and even they made one or two foolish plays. As remarked before, the home town lads tried hard, but inexperience combined with poor playing and a substitute quarterback who couldn't seem to get the ball into action fast enough may be said to have beaten them. 17-0 is a bad score and the Belleville boys did not look proud of themselves when the game was over, for last year Picton was defeated easily, and by a large score.

The line-ups were as follows:

Picton—Snap, Parks; Inside, Castagley and Hunter; Middles, Knight and Reid; Outsides, Herrington and Shaver; Quarter, Cameron; Halves, McHenry and VanDeusen; Flying Wing, K. Knight.

Belleville—Snap, F. Faulkner; Insides, Smith and Bonnycastle; Middles, Twiddle and Gibbs; Outsides, Blakely and Mott; Quarter Cainer; Halves, Byrnes, Chalmsplain and Mott and Bill Davis, Flying Wing.

Splendid Exhibits

The exhibits in the various buildings at the fair were splendid. A booth that attracted considerable interest was that sponsored by the Ontario Department of Health, while Gilbert & Sons, of Picton, had another magnificent array of goods.

To-day's activities were brought to a close with a dance in the Picton Armouries and a huge crowd attended this event.

All to the following officers and directors is the majority of the credit due for the phenomenal success of this year's exhibition.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Patrons of the Capitol Theatre are offered for the first half of the week a movie feature packed full of thrills, romance and laughs. It is "Three Ring Marriage," an excellent First National picture with Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, and the large opening night crowd which viewed it yesterday voted this feature one of genuine merit.

"Three Ring Marriage" is a circus story and a good one with all the thrills and features of a big circus world in. The two stars drift into the circus life and the complications that arise before all the many difficulties are straightened out make the story one of genuine merit.

Another episode of the thrilling serial "The Masked Menace" finishes with the hero and heroine blissfully unconscious of the fact that an immense mill wheel has been released above them and is dropping down on them from a good height, and the serial is packed with such gripping episodes.

INDIANS WIN BY 12-5 YESTERDAY

Capture Third From Rochester; Hoke "Promil Pitches" For 18 Hits

Indianapolis, Oct. 5—Indianapolis of the American Association jumped within two victories of the class A.A. championship here yesterday by defeating the Rochester Red Wings, 12-5 in the opening game at this park.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the game. Leverett relieved Hoke in the first inning and checked the Red Wings who had scored four times. McCrackin and Irvin were easy for the Indians who obtained 18 hits in the fracas. Hoke obtained five hits in five trips and Spencer had three safe blows in four trips.

The Red Wings were away to a flying start, scoring four times in the first inning on two hits, three bases on balls, a wild pitch and an error.

Brown opened by working Dahlgren for four-ball. Thevenow pushed Jos around to home with a resounding triple to right and scored shortly after on Charlie Gelbert's double to left. Felix walked, but the attack was momentarily halted as Spencer's high throw caught Gehert off second. Kaufmann walked to first on a wild pitch. Monahan's double to right scored both runners to end the Indians' scoring as far as Rochester was concerned.

"Red" Russell's home run drive over the rightfield fence with Connolly on third and two out gave Bruno Betsel's warriors two of the runs back in the last of the first, while five safe blows in the second scored four runs enough to overcome the lead compiled for Jimmy McCracken by the Reds.

had entered the game after Monahan's first frame double, rolled out to Brown, Hoke advancing. Fire Matthews in an attempt to work a squeeze, bunted straight at Monahan. But Fetz, hurrying to catch runner, threw badly to Morrow, Hoke counting and Matthews gaining second. Singles by Connolly and Haney scored Matthews. These blows also erased McCracken in favor of Young "Left" Irvin.

SPEED-MERCHANT IS HEAVIER

Frank "King" Clancy, young defence star of the Ottawa Senators' N.H.L. team has piled on considerable weight since last season and he plans to start the 1928-29 campaign at 156 pounds.

That fifteen pounds extra may detract somewhat from the young fellow's terrific speed, but it will color in handy in helping him shake off the numerous stiff checks he receives in a season's play.

TRAINING CAMPS NOW THE CRAZE

Leafs At Port Elgin To Get-In Shape For Campaign

There was a time in professional hockey when the old familiar rink of the home town was good enough for a brief training period, consisting of about ten days, for the moneyed blade artists to limber up for the season's campaign but the owners of the French-Canadian clubs really started something when they shipped their whole club to Grimsby, Ont., three seasons ago and successful three weeks' training grind.

Now in professional hockey we have training camps if you please. Wood chopping is now the favorite fall pastime of the hockey stars who would start off the season in perfect playing condition.

Leafs at Port Elgin

The Toronto Maple Leaf club of the National Hockey League announced their training camp at Port Elgin will receive all callers on and after the 22nd of October. Two weeks only is the open with physical "jerks" and long hikes, to say nothing of the lumber that will be cut and sawed, should find the Leafs ready for the wars when they open their season's home on November 6th against Chicago Black Hawks as guests.

The name Black Hawks, who last season trained right in Winnipeg, will this fall sport their training camp in Kansas City, Mo. The Gotham Gladiators will train at Springfield, Mass., and the American at New Haven, Conn., and Montreal Canadiens likely use their home ice for the early training up process.

Rangers Sign Lane

In baseball the game is largely played by professional players, and the pro. hockey organization has to date, with the exception of the old Montreal Wanderers, up for the most part with Canadian-born players. But the New York Rangers have taken a step in giving American players a chance to make good in the signing of Myles Lane, well-known football, baseball and hockey star of Dartmouth College. Lane, as captain of the college team, was one of the point scorers of his division and is considered the cream of college talent.

Though it is not expected Lane will make the grade as a regular team member of the fast-stepping Rangers right off the bat, he will likely spend the coming season with Springfield, the Rangers' farm.

Off-Blade

"Babe" Donnelly, a member of the Montreal Maroons, is suffering a broken thigh bone as a result of a motor accident outside of Sault Ste. Marie, his home. Donnelly played as an amateur with the local team before signing up with the Maroons. Last season the Montreal club farmed him out to the American Association.

Canadian Professional Hockey League will officially get under way when the eight clubs convene at the special league meeting in Buffalo Saturday, October 20.

Bobby Hewitson, popular referee, who acted as chief of staff in the Canadian Pro. League last season, will likely be re-appointed to that position.

Conny Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs reports that everything is going along fine and few hold-outs are expected in the way of returned contracts unsigned.

BROADWAY MUSICAL SHOW IS TABOOED

New York, N.Y., Oct. 4.—Mike Wesley play "Possum Man" which was raided on its opening here Monday and again at yesterday's matinee suffered still another setback last night when the owners of the theatre announced they would permit no further performances. The announcement came shortly after the cast had been released on bail on charges of participating in indecent performances.

ARGOS WORKING ON NEW ATTACK

Interference Will Make Big Difference To Plays of Double Blue

Argonaut seniors were introduced to a new system of interference by Coach Dr. Frank Knight at practice day's practice, say, the Mail and Empire. The Double Blue mentor fully appreciates the power of the Hamilton Tiger defense and has evolved this new style of getting the Jungle Kings out of the way of the plays by the expectation that it will allow Wilson, Nichols, Brown and silver plugging threats to pierce the enemy bulwark with more success than they did against Varsity.

Last night the regulars tore gaping holes in the second's wing line and before the drill was halted well after 6 o'clock the interference was working as smoothly as well-oiled machinery. Knight will concentrate upon this branch of play for the balance of the week and will try out the new system in their practice game against Varsity this afternoon at the stadium. The Scullers will take on the Blue Intercollegiate squad of one-half and the "Orphans" in the other.

NINTH TIME FOR BABE

New York, Oct. 5—Babe Ruth's victory in the race for intersleague home run honors throughout the season just closed marked the ninth time in the eleven seasons that the big Yankee slugger had finished either in a tie, or in full possession, of first position.

SHOT BY UNIDENTIFIED MAN

New York, Oct. 4.—Bernard Gurin, 23, a Bronx motorcycle cop, was shot and killed early today at the wheel of his automobile by an unidentified man in another machine.

DEMPSEY STEPS OUT AS BIG TURF MAN

New York, Oct. 5—Jack Dempsey, the Manassa Mauler of former days, is going to spread but as a big turf man. Down at Aqueduct Monday he purchased Zest and three yearlings from Sam Hildreth, and is negotiating for Mowlee.

He will race these under his old colors, the Canyon Stable, and when the season ends ship the whole string to Tijuana.

STEWART HOLDS OUT

Montreal, Oct. 5—Well-founded reports say that Sy Reta Stewart, forward of the Montreal Maroons, is holding out for $10,000 per season, and a five-year contract. He is one of the few players of the club not signed. Stewart and Ernie Shore, Boston defence star, are the leading holdouts of hockey.

Mackinnon weighing 30 pounds was caught by T. C. Nelson in the St. Lawrence near his home in Brockville.

MONTREAL SEEK DAVE TROTTIER

Montreal, Oct. 5—Dave Trottier's case hops back into the professional hockey limelight again. Latest reports have it that the Toronto Maple Leafs who have first claim on the services of the Canadian Olympic amateur star if he decides to turn to pro ranks, may turn over those rights to the Montreal Maroons.

The Trottier case has been bubbling ever since the Canadian Olympic Champions returned from Chamonix last winter. Trottier was out to do the best possible for himself in the way of a pro hockey contract. He found himself on the Maple Leafs' reserve list. Marconi, who Montreal, were reported to have bid high for his services indirectly, but owing to the so-called "gentleman's agreement" in the N.H.L. child not transact business with Trottier because the player was on Toronto's list.

CO-WORKER

"It has occurred but I have never had it happen at the Point Anne quarry."

"Have you any idea how this explosion occurred?"

"No, sir."

Friction Only Cause

Mr. Sutherland of the Department of Mines, then questioned the witness.

"Were you affected by it?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Lang said that one or two tons of stones at the bottom of the hole was thrown out.

"The three men working at the hole were the only ones to be injured. The two other men Dumlak and Little were working about the face. The effect of the quarry was eighteen feet from the hole and Lazaruk was blown directly into it."

"The witness said a new tamping stick was used."

"There was no possibility of a detonator being placed in the hole?"

"No, sir."

"Any of the men smoking?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know if these men had holidayed boots on?"

"I don't know but I don't think so."

"Then everything is eliminated with the possibility of a friction?"

"Yes."

Mick Gurniak, one of the victims who was working with Lazaruk, was next.

"How many holes had you loaded on Tuesday morning?"

"Four holes, the leading stick was used and a half a box of powder was dropped in."

He then told of striking some obstruction about fifteen feet from the bottom. Mr. Lang was called and he advised the men to get the extension and attach a detonating explosion which revealed the stone blocking half the hole.

"Lazaruk tried to push the stone to the bottom with the stick."

Gurniak at this point did not tamp the powder down hard. An opening was made, some loose powder dropped and the detonator placed in the hole and it had reached the bottom. Gurniak warned him about an explosion which Lazaruk said: "It will be all right."

Gurniak was holding the extension and Lazaruk struck the explosion with a hammer.

"You were hurt in the explosion?"

"Yes, slightly."

Mr. Lang was recalled to the stand by Mr. Sutherland.

"You say the extension was found broken on top of the ground after the accident?"

"Yes."

"Did the insulation looked frayed?"

"That I cannot say."

"Did you seek a cause for the explosion?"

"No, sir, but the only thing I could figure as the cause was friction."

Joseph Hill, electrician foreman, was called.

"Is it your job to look after the explosions used in the quarry?"

"Yes."

He said the wire had been examined that morning and placed in use for the drillers. The cord is replaced each month. There was no good conductor. Lon before the explosion, according to the witness.

"Were the ends of the cord frayed?"

"Yes, to some extent."

Do you think the cable was in the hole at the time of the explosion?"

"I could not say that."

Edward Little, another victim was called. He received severe facial injuries.

"Did you hear Gurniak warn Lazaruk about the use of the light?"

"No."

Little said he was on one knee near the edge of the hole hammering sticks of dynamite to Lazaruk, who was stopping. He does not remember Lazaruk placing the light in the hole.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

KATHARINE SMITH CLARKE

Universal sorrow was expressed throughout the city this morning when it became known that Mrs. C. E. Clarke, wife of the rector of Christ Church, had passed away. Mrs. Clarke had been in ill-health for some time past although her death came unexpectedly as she had been confined to the Belleville General Hospital for some days and despite the fact that everything known to medical science was done for her, she passed away last night.

Mrs. Clarke was prominently identified with every branch of the Church work and her stay in Belleville had made many friends. She taught the Ladies' Bible Class at Christ Church and was active in the work of the Girls' Guild as well as the Women's Auxiliary. She will be greatly missed in Church circles as well as by the city at large.

The late Mrs. Clarke was born in the Province of Quebec forty-four years ago, the daughter of John M. Smith, who now resides at Stornoway, Quebec. Mrs. Clarke came to Belleville from Campbellford in 1923 when her husband assumed the Christ Church charge. Besides her husband, three sons all at-home are left to mourn the loss, namely, John, James and Charles.

The remains will be taken to Christ Church on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock where a service will be conducted at three. They will lie in state until midnight when they will be shipped to Quebec for interment.

FUND SWELLED FOR BALL TEAM

Subscription Lists Will Be Open Until Wednesday Next Week.

In the neighborhood of one thousand dollars has been subscribed for the baseball fund by the citizens of Belleville and from reports received by Charles Hanna, General Chairman of the Committee, today, it was gratifying that the fund will be considerably augmented by tonight. Those who have not already subscribed are urged to send in their contributions to one of the canvassers or leave it at the Walker Hardware with Mr. Hanna. The lists will remain open until Wednesday of next week and since it is desired to make the girls real worthwhile, more money is needed. Several artists will assist on the program and the Argyll Light Infantry band will furnish music. A dance will follow the presentation. DR. M'GREGOR IS IMPROVED TODAY

Winnipeg Woman Seriously Injured In Hamilton Train Wreck

Hamilton, Oct. 6—Some slight improvement was shown today in the condition of Rev. Dr. McGregor, of London, who is in the hospital here with other victims of the train wreck at Aldershot. Hopes are now held for his recovery. Mrs. Kathleen Ward, of Winnipeg, remains in a serious condition and seems the most gravely injured of all the victims. Her husband, William Ward and Miss Hazel Thompson, of Toronto are progressing favorably.

Jane McDonald Lying In Belleville General Hospital Today

UNAVOIDABLE?

Youngster Ran Directly In Path of Car Driven By F. Long

Miraculously escaping death when she was struck by an automobile last night, little four-year-old Jane McDonald, daughter of Ed. J. McDonald, Hardware merchant of Trenton, Ont., today lies in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from internal injuries, although hopes are confidently intended for her recovery.

Jane, and her twelve-year-old brother, James, were walking to a grocery store on Dundas street in Trenton about 8.30 last night, and when they had made their purchase, started hurriedly for home on the north side and was struck by the rear end of a car driven by Francis Long, of Front Street, Trenton. Long brought his car to a sudden halt, and when he discovered that the little girl was lying unconscious in the front wheels of his automobile. Mr. Long rushed the victim to Dr. Reid's office, who pronounced Dr. Bailey, jr.

After a short consultation the girl was removed to the Belleville General Hospital, and today the hospital authorities state that she passed a fairly good night.

Dr. Reid, speaking to a representative of the Intelligencer today, said that in all probability the little girl would recover. "We feared at first", he stated, "that she was suffering from serious injuries, but now think that she will get better." Chief Bain, of Trenton, is of the opinion that Long was travelling at a low rate of speed when the accident occurred. The victim was hit about two blocks west of the Canadian National railway tracks, in Trenton.

ST. THOMAS STARTLED

St. Thomas, Oct. 6.—The high winds which prevailed early this morning caused quite a panic in the Kains and Horton Street, lighting circuits of the St. Thomas Hydro Commission when 2,300-volt wires were tangled together and blown down, causing a number of explosions and vivid flashes of fire.

FYGINEER DEAD

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—Edward V. Johnson, formerly Inspecting Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals, died at his local residence today in his eighty-fourth year. As one of Canada's outstanding engineers, he was known throughout the Dominion.

POLICE IDENTIFY SLAYER SUSPECT

Edward Harllon, Ottawa Prisoner, Wanted At London

Ottawa, Oct. 6.—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have identified a man held in the Ottawa jail as George E. Harllon, of London, Ont., wanted for the murder of John Waddell, county constable of Middlesex, Ont. While held on this charge after the shooting of the county constable on September 12, 1925, Harllon escaped and had not been heard of since.

The man arrested here on August 21 last under the name of George Henderson along with a companion and is serving a four months' sentence on the charge of obstructing traffic on the C.P.R. and Hydro Electric Railways. It was brought out in the trial that they had placed tires and heavy planks across the railway tracks at the Ottawa end of the interprovincial bridge here. Identification was made by examination of the finger prints by the experts of the Mounted Police.

Harllon, with four others, escaped from the jail in London, Ont., on September 17, 1927. Three of the five were arrested while sleeping in a stable just outside London, but Harllon and Frank Martin escaped capture.

DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS OPENS

Thomas R. Jordan, International Worker, Will Assist Campaign

The Y. M. C. A. annual membership drive starts Monday, and the teams which are to participate are in readiness to break all records which have heretofore been set. Each member is expected to bring in at least one new member, and if this happens the membership will be larger than it has ever been in the history of the local Y.

More than ever are the citizens becoming aware of the fact that the local Y. M. C. A. is doing a fine work in this city, and the increased list of many who had not been the advantage of the gym work and the swimming instructions before, will become advertised to the less next week. Thomas Jordan, of New York city, who is an International Y. M. C. A. secretary is in the city to help out with the membership campaign, and it is expected that he will be a great help.

Regular classes started last week, and many members have already taken advantage of them. Last Thursday, which was Ladies' night, over sixty girls and young women enjoyed the privileges both on the gym floor and in the swimming pool, and the business men's and senior classes, which are usually late in starting, have shown a fine attendance.

WAYWARD BOYS ENROUTE HOME

Two Youngsters Who Stopped Here, In Charge of Parents

A wire was received last night from the mothers of the two young lads who were detained at the Police station yesterday, stating that they would be in Belleville this afternoon to take their sons back home with them to Hamilton.

These are the two youngsters who stopped in at the Police Station and asked for a night's lodging as they had not got any of money. On being questioned by the sergeant in charge they declared that they had run away from their homes in Hamilton last Saturday afternoon, and had been on the road ever since.

One of the lads was carrying an old fashioned fowling revolver which was immediately confiscated, although in his present state of disrepair it would be a poor weapon. No doubt the boys will be willing to remain at home after their experience of the cold world in the week in which they were away.

VARSITY PLAYING QUEEN'S TODAY

Are they snappy? Just ask some of the Bellevillians who saw the Varsity Rugby team practising on the Armouries lawn here this morning! The Toronto lads were on their way to King ston to open up the inter-collegiate football season by playing Queen's University this afternoon. The husky sons of the Blue and White were away a few minutes while waiting for their baggage to be little signal practice kicking practice, and all kinds of practice.

Several small boys were distinctly awed and impressed when the great Murray Smiley, quarter-back of the Varsity crowd and Bill Darling husky backfield plunger, were pointed out to them. The Torontos are a husky looking bunch and should give the Queen's lads a hard tussle.

LOVE TRIANGLE CAUSED CRIME

Young Peterboro Collegiate Student Shot Married Woman

THE OLD STORY

Father And Husband Had No Suspicions of Love Between Two

Peterboro, Ont., Oct. 6.—While the details are still lacking, the circumstances under which Mrs. Lottie Pacey, 23, and Sergeant Frederick Knox, 19-year-old student, boarder, came to their deaths, they are not yet sure whether it was a case of double suicide or murder and suicide. The preliminary inquest was held last night but beyond viewing the bodies nothing was done and the enquiry was adjourned until the police have checked up on a few available clues.

One thing that seems certain is that it was a case of the old story of passionate youthful love which finding obstacles impossible to overcome, ended only alternative. Knox left a note for his father in which he declared he loved Mrs. Pacey himself from the moment he met her and could not leave her to "Tom" her husband.

Thomas Pacey, the latter, works in the same department of the Canadian General Electric as the father of Knox, Rupert Knox. Neither of the men ever suspected the attachment between the youthful handsome High School student and the matronly wife of Tom Pacey's interest in the boy was taken to be that of a mother for a son.

Peterboro, Oct. 6.—When Thomas Pacey, 585 Aylmer street, returned to his home for lunch yesterday he found his wife, Mrs. Lottie Pacey, aged 45, and George Frederick Knox, 19, a boarder, dead, lying side by side across the bed in one of the upstairs bedrooms. The motive for the double shooting is said to have arisen out of a love triangle, confirmation being found in a note left by the youth.

Thomas Pacey, employed in the engineering department of the Canadian General Electric Company, arrived at the house at 12.15, and was unable to enter the front door because it was locked.

On entering the house his attention was first drawn by a letter on the sideboard, in an unsealed envelope, addressed "Dad". He passed on up the stairs and there, on the floor of the room on the right of the head of the stairs, he was shocked at the sight of his wife and Knox, lying on their backs, side by side, both shot through the head. Pacey rushed over lying at Knox's left hand, and he was on the left side of Mrs. Pacey. His coat was off and Mrs. Pacey was fully clothed, having apparently just returned from her morning's housework.

It was plain to the distracted husband that both were dead so he immediately left the house for the police station. The alarm was there taken by Inspector James Reid at exactly 12.30. Knox, the father of the youth, was communicated with, and he hurried to the little Aylmer street home.

The letter found on the sideboard by Pacey was addressed to "Lottie" and it was signed his son George, and thanked forgiveness for the deed he was about to do. It also expressed the hope that his father would find some one in his life whom he could love and give a fatherly love such as he had given him. The boy declared he was intensely in love with Mrs. Pacey and had been ever since he met her. He "could not bear to let Tom have her."

TWO ACCIDENTS ON MAIN STREET

Gladstone Purtell Crashed Truck Driven By Toronto Man

When Gladstone Purtell, R R No. 4 Belleville, driving a brand new car west on Dundas street, Trenton, yesterday, was struck by another car driven by Harry L. Cullen, 24 Glendale Road, Toronto, the former's machine was badly damaged, although he and his people were accompanied by him, were not hurt. It appears that Cullen swung his car over the curb to the left of Gladstone and side-swiped Purtell's car in doing so.

Another accident occurred this morning in Trenton, when a head-on collision resulted between R. T. Minaker, of Murray Township, driving a truck and Claude Riley, representative of the Bromo Seltzer Company, at the corner of Division and Dundas streets. Both cars were badly damaged, although neither driver was held.

APPLES WERE IN GREAT DEMAND

Eggs Remain High At Forty-Five Cents a Dozen

It was possible to buy McIntosh reds on the market this morning, but they did not last long. Thirty-five cents the peck was the price asked, and before noon not all sold. Other apples were offered, too, but the demand for them was not so great.

Eggs, however, were forty-five cents the dozen. The price of them always seems to go up on Saturday, as one can buy them at forty cents the dozen during the week. Butter, too, is more expensive, selling for ninety-five cents the two pound roll.

Chickens are not cheap by any means at this time of the year, as the pair for either scrawny-looking birds was asked. Meats are fast disappearing but could be purchased from five cents apiece up. Vegetables maintain their stable price.

Brockville, October 6.—An option on property close to the waterfront west of Brockville has been taken by the Thousand Islands Flying Club, acting in association with the Chamber of Commerce, for the purpose of establishing an airport here. It was announced today by Albert Richards, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who's has been devoting attention to the subject for some weeks. The property is said to be admirably adapted for conversion into an aviation field and it is believed that an air service on the St. Lawrence may be established by T. Cowley, acting controller of civil aviation at Ottawa, will come here next week for the purpose of inspecting the property.

BODY OF RUM-RUNNER IS WASHED UP ON LAKE SHORE NEAR PICTON

John Copping Left For Oswego With Cargo of Ale Last Week

WRECKAGE FOUND

Provincial Constable Price Morris Is Making Investigation

Lost in Lake Ontario for the past week with search parties scouring every inch of shore-line, the body of John Copping, 28, of Rochester, New York, was picked up at Long Point a few miles from Picton yesterday afternoon. Copping left Picton with Ralph Arrowsmith, Oswego last Thursday in "The Wasp" a Hydroplane type speed boat bound for Oswego. The boat carried fifty bags of ale and the whole cargo was lost. It is reported that the body of John Arrowsmith was washed up on shore near the same place but no verification for this story has been received here. The men had been engaged in the rum-running trade for some time and it is said that heavy weather was encountered on the lake last week-end and after remaining in a sheltered harbor for some hours they decided to attempt the treacherous crossing. The boat, unable to withstand the waves was swamped and it is reported that the wreckage was found eight miles off the United States Coast at Oswego.

Copping was well-known in Belleville and spent some weeks here in the summer and made a number of friends. He was a member of several fraternal organizations, was unmarried and lived most of his life around Rochester, New York. Arrowsay was also known here. Both were comparatively young men in their early thirties. Speaking with Provincial Attorney M. R. Allaton at Picton this morning, the Intelligencer was informed that Constable Price Morris left for Long Point this morning to make an investigation. The County Attorney stated that an inquest would likely be ordered. Long Point is but a few miles of what are known as the "False Ducks" Mr. Allaton said that both men appeared in Picton Police Court a few weeks ago and were convicted of driving liquor in an illegal place. The bodies will be shipped to their homes today.

YOUNG MAYOR TO SERVE HIS TERM

Must Pay Fines Totalling $545 For Violating By-Laws

Salem, Mass., Oct. 6.—The career of Andrew Jackson "Boss" Gillis, the mayor of Newburyport, had taken a somber turn today as the mayor donned prison clothes and prepared to conduct the executive duties of his office from the Essex county jail. Gillis, "Boss" was sentenced to serve two months in jail and to pay fines totalling $545 for violating the Massachusetts gasoline filling station without a permit.

The mayor has been convicted on numerous charges growing out of the establishment of the gasoline station. He appealed, but later pleaded guilty. He accepted the sentence without a murmur and started for jail immediately.

"Boss", once defiant and somewhat today, in his fight to maintain his gasoline station, listened in silence yester day while District-Attorney William G. Clark, moving for sentence, called him "a wilful, empty-headed youth who has never grown up.

"His election, which may be called an accident, has gone to his head, and what he needs is a hot application of the law to take down that cranial swelling," the District-Attorney said.

HELD UP IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Calif., Oct. 6.—Murray Land, New York diamond merchant, reported to the police that he was kidnapped on a busy down-town corner here today, robbed of $200,000 in diamonds, and left bound to a tree on the Harding golf course by two hold-up men.

CANADIAN LEGION CARD PARTY SUCCESS

The first of a series of card parties under the auspices of the Canadian Legion was held in the Canadian Legion Hall last evening and was a decided success, with a large number in attendance. These parties are to be held every Friday night during the coming season and should prove popular with the public. During the early part of the evening euchre was played and the prizes were the winners: Ladies' 1st, Miss Marjory Hill; 2nd, Mrs. Shapiro; Consolation, Mrs. Hinton. Men's 1st, Mr. H. Smith; 2nd, Mr. I. Irvine; Consolation, Mr. Wm. Thomas. Following the serving of refreshments, dancing was commenced and continued till an early hour, the Legion Orchestra furnishing excellent music.

JACK DEACON IS WELCOMED HOME

Joint Recital At Albert College Last Night Was Musical Treat

Belleville music lovers were accorded a treat last night in serving in welcoming back to his native city Jack Deacon, protege of the famed Edward Johnson and possessing a tenor voice which, it is confidently predicted will ultimately lead him to an operatic career.

The Presic Musical Club presented in the Memorial Hall of Albert College a combined recital in which Belleville's own tenor, Jack Deacon, together with Mr. Leslie Hodgson, internationally famed pianist rendered a delightful, unique and diversified programme—one of the most outstand musical events ever handed out in this city.

Jack Deacon has made rapid strides in his musical career, and his every rendition was enthusiastically rehearsed by the audience which last night was a magnificent tenor voice of genuine charm and quality, splendid vocalization and displays a thorough understanding of the poem which is often lacking among concert singers. Belleville may well be proud of this talented son, who, under the guidance of that clever pianist, Deacon Leslie, Edward Johnson seems headed for a brilliant career. Mr. Deacon will likely go to New York for further study.

To attain international fame in vocalistic art is the achievement of the few nowadays, and after hearing Leslie Hodgson, his claims to distinction to musical art seem to be fully justified.

In a programme which embraced the classical, romantic and modern schools, technical problems took second place to the artistic and intellectual interpretation, the majesty of Beethoven, the virility of Schubert-Liszt, and the delicacy of Chopin were each exemplified in renderings of transcendent beauty.

In a programme of such merit, it is perhaps unnecessary to enumerate

NATURE STUDY ON THE SCREEN

A. Patterson Addressed Teachers On Beauties of Nature

One of the most interesting of the meetings of the Teachers' Convention which closed yesterday, was given by Mr. A. Patterson, of Toronto, Normal School, who addressed the gathering on "The Beauties of Nature", illustrated by nature's slides. The slides were beautifully coloured and showed various nature scenes. A second set of slides showed a journey through Jasper National Park, a most interesting tour.

To enliven this morning's proceedings there were two events of more than passing interest. Miss Helen Luscombe, a former pupil of Queen Mary, rendered two beautiful, soulful and little Miss Eva Adams, Alfred's in a scottish costume charmingly performed the Sword dance.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Some hearts are hidden, some have not a heart.

CRABBE.

EMPLOYER CAN HELP

Calling attention to the fact that three members of the Walkerville base ball club have lost their positions because their firms objected to their absence from work, the Border Cities Star pays a tribute to other employers who have given their men leave of absence in order that they might participate in league games.

This is a situation that obtains every where in sport.

One of the greatest obstacles encountered in organizing a team of any kind is the difficulty of getting players away from their work to take part in out-of-town games.

There are employers who believe that sport and work or business do not mix and while that contention is to a considerable extent justified, there is, however, another angle to the situation.

Successful teams are a splendid advertising medium giving their home city a vast amount of publicity that is useful and valuable.

The employer therefore who co-operates in the development of winning athletic organizations by taking good athletes into his service and enabling them to get away for the games in which they are needed is making an important contribution to the community and in the final analysis is the gainer from his generosity and spirit of helpfulness.

ATHLETICS AND SCHOOL

Now that the schools and universities have recommenced work the old question of how far athletics interfere with the work of the pupils and students has cropped up again. We thought that this had been settled long ago. No end of inquiries have been made into it with the result that the preponderance of opinion is that athletics are an assistance rather than the reverse. In fact athletics are looked upon as a necessary part of education. The latest report which we have seen upon the matter is that of the medical officer of the Grammar School in Manchester, England. He examined some 7,000 boys as regards sport and their work in the school. The result was he found that the boys who were the Oxford and Cambridge scholarships were in far better physical condition than the average boy; but not only that; the greater mental ability shown as also was the greater success in sport. This latter point is supported by the careers of the men who have distinguished themselves in later life who took foremost places in the sports of Oxford and Cambridge, especially in the celebrated rowing matches.

REPUBLICAN ESTIMATE

The Republican party has issued another survey report of the election situation, in which it gives Hoover 187 sure votes, Smith 102, and leaves 139 doubtful. The candidates must have 266 votes in the electoral colleges to be elected. This report would not give Governor Smith a chance, even if he got all the doubtful ones, while Hoover would only have to turn 79 votes to win. As all who have participated in elections know, it is morally impossible to get an impartial report from the agents of any party. They unconsciously take a rosy view of their own chances and a gloomy view of their opponents. This Republican report viewed from this point of view is one of the most favorable for Smith that has been issued. It suggests that his chances must be fairly good with Hoover's.

POLICE CENSORSHIP

The action of the New York police in closing up an obnoxious play and arresting those concerned, in its censorship and production is a sufficient answer to the clamor for censorship which some people raise when they think they have discovered an objectionable drama or book. The police should be and usually are all that is needed to put an end to this undesirable promotion of filth. The plea for the existence of the present play under ban is probably a quasi-scientific one. Since Sigmund Freud unloosed his morbid and uncleanly theories on the world a lot of people have seized upon them as a pretext to follow the example of that surgeon in one of Smollett's novels and strip up the fascial odors that appeal to their disordered imaginations. A modern critic has made a necessary distinction between clean dirt and filthy dirt, and no healthy minded person has any difficulty in recognizing the difference. Those who prefer the filth cannot expect to be allowed to air their preferences and much less to spread abroad their unpleasant wares. The censor's have rarely been effective. The personal prejudices have again and again hindered true artistic development, while they have at the same time permitted some of the foulest productions to receive public sentiment in our lands is healthy enough to know when it is outraged, and the police force is quite equal to such occasions. There is little or no difference of opinion regarding the action taken on the present New York production where the subject belongs to the hospital for the insane and the surgery.

THE FARMER

The king may rule on land and sea,
The lord may live right royally,
The soldiers ride in pomp and pride,
The sailor roam o'er ocean wide,
But this or that, whate'er befall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The writer thinks, the poet sings,
The craftsman follows wondrous things.
The doctor heals, the lawyer pleads,
The miner follows the precious leads,
But this or that, whate'er befall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The merchant he may buy or sell,
The teacher do his duty well,
But men may toil through busy days
Or men may stroll through pleasant ways.
From King to beggar, what e'er befall,
The farmer, he must feed them all.

The farmer's trade is one of worth,
He's partner with the sky and earth
He's partner with the sun and rain,
And no man loses for his gain.
And men may rise and men may fall,
But the farmer, he must feed them all.

God bless the man who sows the wheat,
Who finds in milk and fruit and meat.
May his purse be heavy, his heart light
His cattle and corn and all go right,
God bless the seed his hands let fall
For the farmer he must feed us all.

Dear Sir,—

Any Woman Can Look Stylish
By MAE MARTIN

Most stylish looking women know simple ways to make their figure things conform to the mode—this summer's styles. Thousands of them have learned how easily they can trim a dress or blouse, or coat, by the magic of home tinting or dyeing. With true, fadeless Diamond Dyes, any one can do this successfully. The "know-how" is in the dyes. Diamond Dyes don't streak or spot like inferior dyes. New, fashionable tints appear like magic over the out-of-style or faded colors. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is easy as dusting, and dyeing takes just a little more time. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. They have been perfected by over 50 years' experience. Insist on them and save disappointment.

SOUTH AGAIN IS A BATTLEGROUND

Atlanta, Ga.—For the first time in years the south as a whole has become a battleground in the presidential campaign.

The most vigorous effort since reconstruction days is being made by democratic leaders to induce voters to go to the polls in November in support of Governor Alfred E. Smith for president and Senator Joseph T. Robinson for vice-president.

Equal endeavour has been put forth by those favoring the republican nominees. States which usually witness little or no campaign for the republican ticket, this year see Hoover and Curtis clubs organized along state and county lines.

In some states, self-styled "anti-Smith democrats," many of whom are opposed to Smith's stand on prohibition, have withdrawn their support from the national ticket and announced their intention to seek the election of a "dry" candidate for president, irrespective of party lines. Some among this group openly have aligned themselves with republican forces in the national campaign. Others, however, have emphasized that while they are working for the election of Hoover, they will vote for dry democratic congressional and state candidates.

It is from the ranks of these that republican leaders hope to increase materially their strength in the south over that of former presidential years.

This November will mark a departure, if present indications prove true, from the sectional trend along which has made presidential elections heretofore largely a formality in the traditionally "solid" south.

Information has now come to hand from Sir Eustace Pitcmes, Governor of the Leeward Islands, stating that very serious damage has also been done to Dominica, Nevis, Antigua and St. Kitts. Press dispatches have given details of heavy loss of life and damage to property.

In order to organize relief, a committee has been formed of representatives of the Canadian West Indian League and the Montreal Board of Trade, and this Committee has decided to make a public appeal for subscriptions in aid of the sufferers. The government has received a widespread endorsement, and the Governor-General has graciously consented to act as Patron. We give in the margin list of honorary members of this Committee who are co-operating to make this movement a success.

The French Government recognized the seriousness of the situation so far as the French West Indies are concerned by voting relief to the extent of Frs 100,000,000, and the American Red Cross are conducting a nation-wide appeal to raise a fund of $5,000,000 for Porto Rico alone, and a similar appeal is being made for the Florida keys.

We feel that our appeal for the British West Indies will meet with prompt and generous response from the Canadian public. The need is urgent and quick relief essential.

Subscriptions should be sent to Mr. S. R. Noble, Assistant General Manager, The Royal Bank of Canada, soon as Honorary Treasurer.

Yours truly,

T. B. MACAULAY,
President.
The Canadian-West Indian League.

B BOARD

The police station garage which had to be enlarged in order to accommodate the new Belleville Ambulance is rapidly nearing completion. The cement floor will be finished today, and then all that remains to be done will be the finishing touches on the walls. The heating plant has been repaired and a noticeable change in the temperature of the Police Station is the result.

BASEBALL TEAM MADE MEMBERS

The Belleville Nationals were entertained last night at the weekly dinner of the Y's Men's Club, held in the Club Rooms at the "Y". Practically every member was present, as well as Manager Walter Grow and President "Ernie" Rowsome, who presented, and one of the best meetings held this year was the result.

Each player and officer of the club was presented with a year's membership into the privileges of the Y. M. C. A. on behalf of the Club, the presentation being made by Albert Ann Stirrup, chairman of the membership committee. Joe Sheehy, genial secretary of the Y spoke a few words and told of the advantages of the Club, to which all the ball players declared they would be delighted to do.

During the meal, community singing led by Jack Andrews with "Art" Gross at the piano, was enjoyed. The Howard Brothers, Harold and Fred, also gave a musical number which was well received. In addition to this, Joe Gorge and Basil Doolittle put on an amusing comedy skit which drew rounds of applause. The Dancing Coon act by Mr. Doolittle was exceptionally good and both men excelled in their roles, last night.

Chairman Albert Thompson called on Ernie Rowsome and Walter Grow to say a few words. Both responded and both the members of the team were introduced to the members of the Club.

Announcement was made that a membership campaign will be inaugurated with the different classes at the "Y" engaged in a "World's Series." Valuable prizes will be given those who secure the greatest number of new members as well as renewals. The Y's men will be divided into two groups and the losers will be hosts to the winners at one of the luncheons when the campaign is completed. A score board in the lobby will indicate the daily progress of the "St. Louis Cardinals" and the "New York Yankees."

Picton Collegiate Institute rugby team were successful in defeating Belleville Collegiate Institute rugby team in an extremely one-sided fixture at the Picton Fair Grounds, Wednesday afternoon. The Picton team are superior in every department to the Belleville team that played there on Wednesday. Blaker, Cousins and Barr, our three local umpires, who did not play on Wednesday and had they played it might have ended a little different than 22 to 0 for Picton.

If our team doesn't soon win a game their losing streak is liable to continue right through the league and we certainly do not want that to happen. We play Albert a week from this Saturday and our team is just about due to win a game. Coach Shiels is naturally quite depressed with the game on Wednesday, but a week from Saturday there will be a different tale to tell.

Collegiate Clothing at popular prices is supplied by Clark Dickens, local agent for Tip-Top Tailors.

The teachers attending the Teachers Convention were shown around the new school yesterday afternoon. They visited the various classes of the school and "listened in" on how a collegiate institute teacher conducts a class.

Miss Prowick is teaching in Owen Sound. Mr. Strahm of last year's staff is now teaching in Port Whitby. Two hundred and seven miles an hour.

The fastest time ever made on wheels Made on Firestone gum-dipped tires. Supplied by local dealer George Deline.

Mrs. R. Rickard, nee Miss Helen Clarke of the B.H.S. staff is residing in Pickering.

For prompt service on gas and oil try Lloyd and Evans, corner Dundas and Front Streets, Coleman and Bridge.

Although basketball has not been started in the gym periods as yet, many girls have started practising at the gym hour and others at home. A game, somewhat similar to basketball, although there is no shooting at the basket, is being played in the gym period called Captain's Ball.

Try Arthur McGee for the very latest made-to-measure suits and overcoats.

For snappy suits that satisfy try the antiseptic barber shop. Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M. Spiker.

The pupils are getting quite used to the rotary system now and quietness again prevails in the halls. The first day no one knew where to go or what to do and as a result there was a great deal of confusion. Now everyone knows where to go and when their classes are.

The Albert College students held their initiation with rather disastrous results. They paraded up Front street as far as the Belle Theatre where they did some damage. The police evidently thought they were making too much of a disturbance so took them all to the police station. They stayed there until Dr. Bishop arrived and took them back in the College. It is hoped that the st. C. students have better luck in their initiation.

Say girls just while we are chatting Woodley's and Murdoch's, the students Shoe Store have some very smart styles of low heeled oxfords in now. The prices corresponding to the heels.

The keys of the lockers are going to be given to the students in a short time. All books, coats, hats, etc., are to be kept in the lockers and there will be no desks or personal articles being stolen from the desks.

WEDDINGS

CHURCH—LOVE

The United Church Parsonage at Milford was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday, September 29, when Miss Blanche Love and Mr. Arnold Church were united in marriage, Rev. F. Horton officiating. The bride wore small black hat. They were attended by a pretty gown of navy silk crepe and by Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, and after the ceremony motored to Belleville.

GERALDI—RYAN

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's church, Belleville, on Tuesday morning by Rev. Fr. O'Riordan, when Miss Mary Helen Ryan, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ryan, was married to Mr. Robert Maxwell Geraldi, son of Mrs. O. Geraldi, of Renfrew.

The bride, who was dressed in a Tuscan beige crepe ensemble, made her initial appearance as bridesmaid to Miss Betty Akey, who wore a Hudson seal coat and Hudson seal hat, both with gold necklace. The groom was attended by Mr. Fred Rashotte.

The young couple left on a motor trip to Renfrew.

LAMBERT—O'BRIEN

One of the prettiest of Autumn weddings took place in St. Mary's Cathedral on Tuesday morning, September 25th, when Rev. Father Dyer, Monsignor Nicholson united in marriage Mary Helen, youngest daughter of John O'Brien and the late Mrs. O'Brien, and Joseph Ovila, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lambert of Belleville. The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Joseph Foltz of Belleville, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Prof. Nourry, and looked charming in a frock of beige satinsheed crepe, with hat, shoes and hose to match, she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Bernice Foltz of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was gowned in Sea Foam green georgette crepe, to match and carried a bouquet of mauve and white roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Leo Lambert. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, to the immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

The numerous and handsome gifts testified to the high esteem in which the young couple are held by their many friends. The young couple left by motor for Rochester, N.Y., where they will in future reside.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Foltz, Mr. and Mrs. V. Hoffman, Miss Marie Hoffman, Mrs. Ellen Hoffman of Belleville, Mr. J. J. O'Brien of Edmonton, and Mrs. E. Lambert, Auxiliville, and Miss Bernice Foltz of Belleville.—Picton Times

Lost Days

Marguerite was still awake when Hal returned. She heard him go to his room and close the door, and she wondered where he had been. She snapped on the light above her bed and looked at the little clock there.

Five o'clock, and the storm still raging.....He must have gone to a night club. She lay awake a long time, musing on the vagaries of human nature.

In the morning, when she was bathed and dressed, she was astonished to find Hal in the library, reading the morning papers and smoking a cigarette.

"Why, whatever....." she began.

"Rotten cold," he croaked, as he rose and offered her a chair. "And there's little use going to the office now, while the respective partners are rowing with their lawyers."

"Perhaps you shouldn't have gone out in the storm last night," she ventured.

"Perhaps I shouldn't have frathered about Central Park in the wet and cold," he sneered dryly.

She looked astonished. "Whatever were you doing there? Couldn't you find a taxi?"

He turned to his newspaper without a word. She went to the desk and sealed herself.

"I'm sorry you have a cold, but I'm glad you're at home. I have a lot of things to go over with you.....You're quite sure you don't want to give up the apartment? It isn't too late for me to speak to the superintendent, and there is still time to put the nicest things in storage."

"Good Heavens, how many times must I tell you that I don't want to give it up until the expiration of the lease?" Hal answered irritably. "I don't have strange people using my furnishings."

"But everything could go into storage and the apartment could be rented unfurnished," she reminded him mildly.

"We've gone into this thing twenty times." He threw down his newspaper in exasperation. "It's too late to start it all over again at the eleventh hour."

"But I do think it will be a frightful waste of money for you to keep it," she murmured.

"Well, that's something that won't concern you.....I want to keep the apartment, if you must know it, as I'll have a place to retire to when the club gets on my nerves." Then he picked up the paper and retired behind it.

"I didn't think that ever happened." He made no reply. She scribbled on a sheet of note-paper.

"I suppose you know that Steve is keeping his apartment? He's awfully proud of his heirlooms, and he won't bear to having them put in storage. I understand that they are to be sent back to New England when his lease expires."

"Umm!" was the response. Indicating complete indifference to the subject.

"Poor Hal. You do feel rotten with that cold, don't you?" she murmured. She lowered the paper and looked at her. As if suspecting her of irony. But she actually looked concerned, it seemed to him. For some reason that angered him.

"What earthly difference does it make to you?" he demanded hotly. "You don't care about the state of my health—unless you're afraid you'll catch this cold and won't be able to leave."

She laughed softly. "Oh, what a bear it is this morning!.....I think it would be better to leave at once."

She rose from the desk and trailed to the door. Hal's words followed her.

"I assure you that, the sooner you go, the better I shall be pleased." And then, in a flash, "I beg your pardon. That was very rude of me."

She laughed over her shoulder. "Never mind, old dear. We've reached the stage when we don't have to be polite to each other any more. Heaven, how boring it used to be!"

The door closed behind her. He had an idea that she was still laughing.

The last days before the departure of Marguerite and Irma were very difficult. However, Irma kept herself in hand and was very sweet to Steve. He had a tactful, delicate bearing that was ended. The situation was similar to that in a household where an unwanted and uninvited guest prepares to terminate a visit and suddenly assumes, out of virtue in the eyes of his hosts.

The night before Irma departed, Steve looked at her across the dining table with an odd expression in his eyes. She had dressed carefully for the occasion. He should remember her at her best, she vowed to herself.

For an instant hope flamed in her heart. Was he about to give in? Was he going to say something that would snatch her back from the depths of her despair?

But he didn't. After that, she caught him several times regarding her covertly, as if he sought to solve a puzzle that was of his own creation.

Down stairs, Hal was suggesting to Marguerite.....he had recovered his temper and lost his cold; "shall we go somewhere to celebrate this last occasion?" And she replied blithely: "Oh, let's."

RHEUMATIC MISERY

Relief Can Only Come Through Better Blood—Limberjaw of No Use

In no other disease does the blood become thin so rapidly as in rheumatism. Not only does it become thin but it is loaded with impurities—then comes poisons. Although the proper treatment these poisons increase, the inflamed joints and soft tissues becomes a cripple. Most treatments simply a'm to keep down the pain. Never with every unfavorable condition a renewed attack follows.

To cast out rheumatism the blood must be enriched and the rheumatic poisons driven out with the natural secretions of the body. This can best be done through a course of Dr. Williams Pink Pills, which have a special action on the blood, giving it new richness and redness. Thousands have tried this treatment with beneficial results. That every sufferer from rheumatism who does not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is rejecting the most hopeful means of recovery is shown by the statement of Mr. David Carroll, Box 65, Mill St., who says: "For years I was troubled with rheumatism. The pains were not continuous, but they always returned, and kept getting worse. I tried so-called 'sector belt and medicines, but did not get more than temporary relief. Only those who have suffered from the torture of rheumatism what I suffered at times.' I had begun to despair of getting better when a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a short time I could feel the medicine helping me so I gladly continued taking the pills and soon found that every trace of the trouble had disappeared and there was a great improvement in my general health. It is now two years since I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have not had the least twinge of the trouble in that time. That is why I confidently recommend the pills to other sufferers."

You can get these Pink Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Colette Francis, of 255 East 20th St., Brooklyn; one of the dancers now in the Broadway hit, "Sho Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden color and fluffy in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I had never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Dandrine on my brush each time I use it. This keeps my hair silky and lustrous, makes it so easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My hair was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly, and Dandrine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Dandrine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are but 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

A PROBLEM FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

Stomach troubles cause most of the distress of babyhood and childhood, and are the greatest problem that a young mother has to solve. The treatment for these digestive disturbances that make baby cry continually and disturb his sleep must be quick and effective, and, above all, perfectly safe.

The absolutely safe treatment for disturbances of the stomach and bowels is found in Baby's Own Tablets. Thousands of mothers have had their problems solved through them. They are guaranteed to be free from all injurious drugs and cannot possibly do harm to even the youngest baby—they always do good.

Baby's Own Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote that health-giving sleep that is so necessary to the welfare of the baby or growing child. The Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

News Of Movie REGENT

Viola Dana in "That Certain Thing" with Ralph Graves, Arthur Housman and Herring. Spontaneous comedy bubbling over in a riot of fun; set against a background of amusing antics, mansons and restaurants—strong love interest.—Don't Miss it! Monday at the Regent.

BELLE THEATRE

Laughter and tears are side by side in "The Last Laugh," the remarkable German-made picture directed by F. W. Murnau, and starring Emil Jannings, to be exhibited at the Belle theatre Monday. Universal is releasing this film in this country.

This photoplay, with scarcely a subtitle, played in New York, on Broadway, to capacity audiences, during which engagements it was pronounced by the daily papers to be the one perfect motion picture of the season.

Jannings' graphic characterization of the joys and sorrows, the tragedy and humanity—of an old porter in a Berlin hotel is a human document as true, as vital and as profound that it really succeeded. Attempts in this direction in the past have proven ill advised.

No other portrayal in Jannings's brilliant career equals that which he gives in "The Last Laugh"—not his Louis XV in "Passion," his Henry VIII in "Deception," nor his Egyptian King in "The Loves of Pharaoh," nor his Mongol Prince in "Quo Vadis," splendid as he was in each of these roles. This old porter is an everyday man of our own time, one whom all people can sympathize with, laugh with and understand.

Photographically, the picture is also heralded to be as remarkable as it is dramatic and heart interest. Wholly necessary to heighten his effects, Director Murnau resorted to the impressionistic methods so successfully used in "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari." Don't miss it.

HART TO CONTINUE AS HOCKEY PILOT

This is the culmination of a series of meetings between Hart and the directors which has been going on since Wednesday last.

Let Me Tell You

To peel tomatoes easily place them in boiling water for a few minutes.

A good pinch of salt added to a vase of flowers will make them last longer.

When you get wet paint on your coat or frock, try rubbing the stain with another part of the material.

Potatoes and raisins are very good with milk puddings, etc., if stewed first in a syrup made with water, lemon juice and ginger.

A polishing mop can be made like this: If it is thoroughly tied in soap water to which has been added two tablespoonfuls of paraffin oil.

Cheese will not become mouldy if a sponge of hot sugar is kept in the bowl when it is not in use. Another way is to wrap cheese in cloth wrung out in vinegar.

Cut Flowers.—To keep cut flowers fresh give them plenty of water. The water must be as cold as possible, and poured into bowl or vase from a height, so that it is as fully aerated as may be. Unless fresh cut, the ends of the stalks must be snipped off, and all greenery coming below the surface of the water should be stripped, as those who were evidently about to enjoy themselves, and his regret that he was not one of the party.

"Oh," said Hook, "as to that, you shall be one of them later on. Call here for me at ten o'clock."

Abruptly leaving his friend, the humourist joined the stream of visitors and found his way to the dressing-room. Here, however, he was accosted by the host, who, after some difficult manoeuvring, cornered him and declared his ignorance of the stranger's name.

"Why," said Hook. "I was invited to dine here this evening. This is Mr. ——'s house, is it not?"

"It is not," politely replied the host. "Then I've lost my dinner!" exclaimed Hook. "I was to be at Mr.——'s half-an-hour ago, but I was unavoidably detained."

"In that case," scarcely said the host, "I pray you not to be inconvenienced. Stay and dine with us."

With many gushing effusions of gratitude, Hook naturally accepted the invitation and joined the dinner-party. In the course of the repast, he, to use the old saying, "kept the table in a roar," while during the subsequent proceedings his witty sallies won the admiration of his listeners, who were all wondering as to his identity. At ten o'clock the actor-friend called and managed to gain access to the drawing-room, whereupon the versatile joker strolled to the piano, sat down, and rattled off this impromptu—

"I'm very much pleased with your fare
Yoih, rather a prime as your cook is!
My friend's Mr. Terry, the player,
And I'm Mr. Theodore Hook!"

Poems Old And New

HERE IS THE SPOT
(Done for a lover, and a season)
By Dorothy Dow

Blue with violets, fresh with laughter,
And softly shaded and sweetly scented,
Hidden away from roof and rafter,
Here is the spot our love frequented
Here is the spot where we met and parted,
Kissed, turned casual. What comes after?

Nothing can now remain, I think,
Of the secret meetings, the hidden wonder;
Only the wild rose still is pink
And the old oak, riven apart with thunder.

Mov-ce in the self-same way its limbs
And gathers its mois in crack and chink.

And here, in summer, when buds are turned
Deep and fragrant, and when the varnished

Fruit of the thorn apple tree has burned
Red, blood-red, like a dream long banished.

Pitiful, wistful, two ghosts come seeking
Love that faded and joy that vanish ed.

TST—TST!

A portly dog with settled views,
A stranger to the wild surmise,
Who, told the happenings in the News
Will smooth her raiment, rake her eyes,

And very gently show surprise
By murmuring,
Tst-tst!

We eulogize the five-point group,
Discuss all aspects of the play,
And argue till our hearers droop
About the morals of today.
Does she listen in with what we say?
She only breathes,
Tst-tst!

We moan when odds-on chances fail
Or when an egg is too-well laid,
My party cries raise a wail—
Get peeved when rain mars plans well-made,
All such a thing is she dismayed!
Oh, yes! She heaves,
Tst-tst!

And when at last she goes below,
Her self-control with a thraldom grim
And shown that awful place of woe
Ere she is prodded to get in,
She's sure to turn to Mr. S'n
And mildly gasp,
Tst-tst!

AN OLD-TIME "GATE-CRASHER"

The comments which have been aroused by uninvited guests being discovered at social gatherings, and which have given to our language a new and not very elegant phrase, recall a story of Theodore Hook, the celebrated practical joker of many years ago. It is recorded that Hook and an actor-friend named Terry were passing, early one evening, a West-End residence, at the door of which numerous guests were alighting from their carriages. The actor turned to Hook, and expressed his envy of that only clear, clean stems rest in it. If a little piece of charcoal, or salt, is placed in the water its life-giving qualities will be preserved.

For a Greasy Skin.—Try putting a slice of lemon in the water in which you wash your face, squeezing out the juice. Dust the face afterwards with fine oatmeal powder and then rub this well off.

To Clean Jewellery.—Gold and silver jewellery should be covered with a cream made from sifted jeweller's rouge and methylated spirit, and afterted to dry. Then brush off with a soft cloth and polish with a chamois.

After Frying Fish or onions fill your frying pan with water, placing a good spoonful of soda in it. Boil it well, then rinse, boil again with clean water and a good deal of salt, finally the latter as a scourer. Rinse well, and dry in the open air.

Toe Nails should be cut straight across, not down at each side like the corners of the nail. If the latter is the way to develop grown-in nails. It inclined nails make a little notch in the middle of the edge of the nail, this will help it to grow away from the side.

What a Joy Is Good Health

Mother and baby are healthy and happy. But they were not always so. There were many months of run-down health, of sleepless nights, enfeebled nerves, worry and discouragement. Baby reflected mother's weakness and was cross and fretful.

But a friend recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the regular use of this great restorative treatment the richness of the blood was restored, nervous vigor was increased, sleep came naturally, digestion improved, and mother was herself again. This is just what is happening in many thousands of homes.

It is a fine idea to keep baby's bath soap so that it can be used after the bath to relieve chafing and skin irritations.

JUST IN PASSING

"If we could push as de the gates of life,
And stand within, and all God's workings see,
We could interpret all this doubt and strife,
And for each mystery could find a key.

But not today. Then be content, poor heart!
His plans, like lilies pure and white, unfold;
We must not tear the close-cut leaves apart—
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold."

England is a garden. Under an ash colored sky, the fields have been combed and rolled till they appear to have been finished with a pencil instead of a plough. Emerson.

THIS IS BEVERLY NICHOLS!!

The following from one of this clever English writer's books may be of interest to you and will fit the cap fits puts it on!

"It seems incredible that in 1923 there should be hundreds of thousands of half-wits wandering around England and America honestly believing that they are better than their neighbors because they have faith and their neighbors have not. Faith is now said to be praised nor blamed than a have lip. It either happens or it doesn't."

"CHOCK"

"Women are now eating fewer chocolates and sweets compared with the days before it became fashionable to eat them. It is not that they do not like them just as much, but they have an idea it will make them fat." This alarming statement was made by one of the exhibitors at a recent Chocolate and Confectionery Exhibition in London. The subject is one that must be of absorbing interest to young men and maidens, touching as it does on life endearments which are incidental to courtship. Will they now perform refrain from present ing his inamorata with gaily adorned boxes of chocolates, lest by reason of the consumption such delicacies she will become inelegantly obese. And will Angeline herself, for similar reasons, relegate those sweet-meats to limbo?

The prospect is both serious and puzzling inasmuch as a substitute for these toothsome offerings must be discovered. Confectionery has now however become one of the fine arts, and some eminent expert will, no doubt, evolve a method of dealing with this dire dilemma. Nevertheless, the exhibitor whose remarks are quoted above was merely one of the alarmist order; and our Quebec friends may with confidence peacefully continue the product on of what has been for such a long period a most delectable confection free from the slightest apprehension of harmfulness.

HUGE DIRIGIBLE READY FOR HOP

Friedrich, Shafen, Germany, Oct. 5.—The flight of the German dirigible Graf zeppelin to the United States has now been set for some time next week and the route depends on the wind and weather according to Dr. Hugo Eckener. The northern route by way of Newfoundland is preferred but the longer southern route would offer less trouble if bad conditions prevailed, he believed. He estimated the actual ocean crossing would take 45 to 50 hours.

Those in charge deserve credit for carrying the affair through successfully. The tables were certainly very suitably and artistically decorated.

The thanks of the ladies are due Mrs. Osborne for so generously opening her spacious home for the occasion.

MELROSE WOMEN HELD DELIGHTFUL BIRTHDAY TEA

The home of Mrs. Wm. Osborne was the scene of a very pleasant gathering Thursday, September 27th, when the ladies of the Melrose Women's Institute met on their regular meeting day to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their branch.

Forty-seven members and eleven visitors came to enjoy a splendid programme and tea. Mrs. Walter Morgan and Mrs. Hitt, the Charter members at the door.

The meeting opened in the usual way, the president, Mrs. R. Gilroy, in the chair. After the opening exercises all joined in singing "The Maple Leaf Forever, followed by the minutes read by the Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Claude Cornish. Next came the business part, arranging for a sewing bee next month. Miss Lila McAlister sang in The Banks of Allan Water. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Earl Whitmore. Mrs. J. Badgley and Miss H. Belcanquel now favored with an instrumental duet followed by the Topic Talk on Institute Work by Mrs. F. Pringle. Mrs. F. Morden sang, I'll Take You Back Again Kathleen. Miss Lila McAlister gave a reading, Cookery by Radio. All joined in communicating after which the roll was called and answered by birthday verses. Mrs. Robert McKechan, one of our oldest members, told us a few interesting facts about the beginning of our branch and gave the names of the first members. The last part of the meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Twelve tables were waiting, prettily decorated to suit each month. The ladies were invited to choose their table, the September table being the table of honor where conspicuous in the centre was the birthday cake beautifully iced and trimmed with twenty-five pink candles. A very dainty and delicious lunch was then served. Mrs. F. Barlow and Mrs. F. Dentator pouring tea. Little Ruth Morden passed birthday bags and in this way $17.00 was realized for our W. I.

JOLTING MAY BE REAL CAUSE OF BATTERY RUIN

Sometime ago, one manufacturer of automobiles is said to have instituted an extremely hazardous test while determining upon the kind of battery to be installed in that particular car.

A number of cars with various brands of batteries were driven five miles down the middle of a railroad track. In every instance it was found that the hold-downs which clamp the battery rigidly into the cradle had become loose and most of the batteries had been literally pounded to pieces.

"The fact that the Willard Battery was selected as a result of this test is somewhat aside from the point," says Mr. Chris Lewis, of the local Willard station. "The point is that when hold-downs are not kept tight, a battery's life may be shortened from one-quarter to a half of its normal useful life. The constant jolting and jarring of the battery caused from loose hold-downs soon wear the insulation through, causing short circuits between the plates, or the plates may themselves be broken.

"Keeping hold-downs tight is one of the features of Willard Five-Point Service, which is free on all makes of batteries," says Mr. Lewis.

NEW BOILER AT HOUSTON PLANT

The Houston Company, Limited, well-known lumber firm which recently transferred its main office from Tweed to Belleville, is at the present time engaged in the task of installing a new boiler destined to supply heat for the factory and the large storehouses of kin dried lumber. The plant being installed of sixty horse power, and its operation throughout the winter season will ensure all lumber being kept in the very best condition.

Next spring the dry kiln plant will be added and the boiler will be then used also in this connection.

Mr. Fred Houston of this company reports a very satisfactory increase in business during the past few months; he is well satisfied with business conditions in this city since es-

WISE MOTORIST FINDS A CHEAP BATTERY COSTLY

The almost universal habit of car owners in forgetting about their batteries until something happens results in one of the worst evils that reputable battery dealers have to combat.

When the battery goes dead, a man is willing to take the first way out that is offered. In many cases this means he is at the mercy of any small shop or garage dealer who offers a cheap, under-capacity battery at an over-capacity price. Of course as time goes on, more and more of these small dealers are learning that lesson.

It pays to handle only reputable batteries.

The wise motorist, no matter what happens, will accept nothing but a battery of a well-known make, even though it means towing his car in.

However, most of the big battery dealers have an emergency car which will rush a rental battery to the stalled motorist with a minimum loss of time.

It pays to put in only a battery you can bank on. Try an Exide next time; they don't make them any better.

R. E. Smith, of City Service is local dealer.

AN AUTOMATIC HEAT CONTROL OF MOTOR BEST

Many motorists do not realize that the radiator of their car is a heat waster and that if efficient it will throw away 35 to 40 per cent of the heat in the fuel. At 60 degrees Fahrenheit, there is no heat to waste, yet heat waste continues through the radiator. That is why motor temperatures must be controlled at the radiator, where the heat waste occurs.

Many manufacturers of fine cars who pride themselves in giving the very best in motor invention have decided to control the heat wasting function of the radiator automatically. Thus they are equipping their cars with automatic motor protection. It is too grave a matter to leave to the discretion of the driver.

Science has placed the blame for 65 to 75 per cent of all premature motor wear on cold, the greatest destroyer of motor life and efficiency. At 60 degrees Fahrenheit, the motor is actually undercheated. This is when cold gets in its first damaging effect.

A warning signal of this damage is given in coughing, spitting noises and delayed starting. The motorist reaches for the "choke" and instantly a flood of raw gasoline hits ice-cold metal. Excess gasoline is unexploded and slides down the cylinder walls washing away the oil film of protection. Metal grinds against metal, at a terrific speed, producing friction no motor can stand. The oil in the crankcase is diluted to ineffectiveness, spark plugs are fouled, excessive carbon, corrosion and rapid cylinder wear are the results.

Automatic motor protection breaks the car owner of the costly and dangerous "choke" habit because it eliminates the need for it.

Thus, through the use of Pines Automatic Winterfront, the only automatic radiator shutter on the market, vital

FISH RECIPES WORTH SAVING

Good fish, well cooked, is one of your most nourishing foods. Eat more of it. Below are some recipes which should be of use to you.

FRESH FILLET RECIPES

Spencer Hot Oven Method

Cut each pound fillet into three servings. Prepare a bowl of heavily salted milk (or canned milk diluted), one tablespoon salt to each cup of milk. Dip each serving of fish into the salted milk, and toss into a pan of finely sifted dry bread crumbs—then into and oiled oven pan. When pan is filled, sprinkle each piece with a little oil or melted fat shaken off a pastry brush. Bake in a very hot oven, 500 to 600 degrees Fahrenheit, for ten minutes. When properly cooked at high temperature, the pan underneath the fillets will be dry, the fish browned on both sides, and the juices of the fillets intact inside. Serve with Sauce Tartare.

Manila Oil is highly recommended by Mrs. Spencer for frying fish and greasing pans because is evaporates at a high temperature and thus eliminates all odor.

Sauce Tartare—Spencer Style

1 cup salad oil, 1 egg yolk, Juice half lemon, 1 tablespoon finely minced dill pickle, salt and paprika, 1 tablespoon onion, finely minced, 1 tablespoon parsley, finely minced, 1 tablespoon minced capers.

Put the egg yolk in a bowl and pour in oil a drop at a time, beating it in well, until mixture begins to thicken; then add a little lemon juice and return to the oil again, putting it in more rapidly, two teaspoon at a time; well beaten till amount is used up. Add the chopped ingredients and set away in cool place or on ice.

Steaming Fillets in Parchmeant Paper

Use a steamer with vegetable parchmeant paper. Place the fillets in it one layer deep. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper, then squeeze over the juice of half a lemon and some dots of butter, Cover steamer with a tight lid and place on top of pot of boiling water. Steam for fifteen minutes Lift out by the twined end. The fish is now swimming in its own juices which have hitherto always been lost in the cooking. The juice may be

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drug store.

CYRUS EATON A NOVA SCOTIAN

Is Now Multi-Millionaire In Eastern United States

The following editorial was syndicated throughout the United States and published in many newspapers: Up on the Nova Scotia coast is a quiet little town that rejoices in the name of Pugwash. From Pugwash, some years ago, a young man named Cyrus came to the United States to seek his fortune. He found it, in the steel business, and is now a multi-millionaire, with his home in Ohio.

Not long ago Eaton went back to Pugwash for a visit. He found the old town just about where it was when he was a boy—which means somewhat down at the heels. So he meditated, conferred with some of the town's leading citizens, and then wrote out a rather large check.

Now Pugwash is going to have a number of improvements. Main street will be paved and straightened. A little park will be established. A modern hotel will be built. Pugwash is going to be made over into an up-to-date community of the sort that will attract tourists. And Eaton is going to foot the bill.

This sort of thing isn't exactly uncommon among wealthy men. Who would not like to be able to go back to the old home town and take a few kinks out of it? No matter how far a man moves from the scenes of his boyhood, there always remains a tie that he cannot sever; a tie, not so much of affection as of relationship, woven into a man's being by old associations and bygone experiences.

No one ever quite outgrows his boy blood. If he was born and grew up in a rugged country of hills, rocky soil and barren farmlands, he will have traces of those things in his soul to the end of his days. The man from Texas can never be quite like the man from Vermont. The Dakotas and the Carolinas will always breed different types.

It is hardly to be wondered at, then, that a man who goes far afield and gains a fortune should want to return and "do something" for his home town. He may be moved to pave the main street, give the high school a gymnasium, erect a memorial statue in the public square or build a pretty little theatre; it really does not matter.

What he actually is doing is testifying that the scenes of his boyhood still grip him. He is proving, once again, the old truth that no man ever gets very far away from home, after all.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for it

BABY has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is a vegetable product. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the cruder pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea which must be checked without delay. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

. . . The Secret of this Car's Amazing Popularity

—Plymouth's Greater Dollar Value looms up when compared with the few other cars in the lowest-priced field . . .

The important difference which people at once recognize when comparing the new Plymouth with the few other cars of its price-class is its greater dollar-for-dollar value.

To place any of these cars beside the Plymouth is to become conscious immediately of contrasts which merely begin with its full-size and style.

Riding in the Plymouth, you sense at once the Plymouth's fundamental strength and durability, as well as the abundant power and speed of its new "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine; and the safety of its internal hydraulic 4-wheel brakes.

We are confident you will declare it as unapproachable in performance as it is unapproached in dollar-for-dollar value-giving.

TERRIBLE BURNS FATAL TO GIRL

Jean Hutton Heroically Saves Baby Sister From Flames

Little Jean Hutton, eleven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hutton, of Wellington, passed away late Thursday morning the terrible burns she received the day before at her father's home. The child had evidently attempted to make a wood fire, which had been smouldering, burn more quickly by using kerosene, and the flames had leaped out the open door, catching on her clothes and enveloping her.

As the time of the accident, Jean was carrying in her arms her little baby sister, whose clothes also caught fire from the burning mass of wood. Rushing to the kitchen, the little girl managed to put out the fire in the baby's clothes, but was not successful in doing the same for herself. When found by her parents, she was still conscious and from the first her life was despaired of.

Mrs. Thompson and Dr. Scott, both of Wellington, were called and did everything possible to relieve the child's suffering, but so terribly was she burned that she passed away the next day. Jean was one of the brightest pupil at the Wellington School and her untimely passing has cast a pall of gloom over the whole village. Many extend their sympathy to the bereaved parents.

FOURTH GAME OF SERIES IS OFF

Rain Necessitates Postponement of Yankee-Cardinal Battle Today

PLAY TOMORROW

St. Louis Team Will Attempt To Halt New York's Streak

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Judge Landis today postponed the fourth game of the world's series between New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals to tomorrow afternoon on account of rain.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Riding high on the crest of a winning pave brought over from the last world series, the New York Yankees came to the fourth game of the 1928 affair today needing but one victory to make their baseball immortals. If the Yankees can stop the Cardinals once again they will carve a new record in the archives of the game. The Yankees won from Pittsburgh in four straight games last year, but this feat had been performed by Boston in 1914. No team, however, has ever won four straight times like that.

The Cardinals have been forced back to their last line of defence. They realize they are down and if they lose this afternoon they will be out. Starting the series odds-on favorites, the Cardinals in four days have seen the situation change until there are no odds on the outcome of the series. They have a chance to win the series by taking four straight games and if they do this, it will be the first time in baseball history. All the more honor would come to them for, not in twenty-three years of the world series under modern rules has a team won four games after losing three.

Probable line-up.

CARRYING LIGHT

Vehicle Driven By William Snider Smashed By-Speeding Cycle

Two young men from Hamilton riding a motorcycle four miles east of Napanee Saturday evening, about six o'clock, had a narrow escape from death when they crashed into a light buggy driven by William Snider, a farmer in that vicinity, who was on his way to Napanee.

The lads on the motorcycle claimed that they had not noticed the light on the buggy, which was travelling west, and as it had been raining and the road was wet they were not able to turn out when they suddenly came upon the vehicle. Mrs. Snider was carrying a lantern which had a shield attached and it is presumed that the shield was so placed that those behind could not see the light.

The cycle was badly smashed, as was the buggy, and the two lads were taken to Napanee, one having his head badly gashed, while the other suffered severe bruises to his body. Mr. and Mrs. Snider received several small cuts and lacerations while Mrs. Snider suffered from shock. Dr. C. O. Byles, of Napanee, investigated the accident.

Court Action May Follow

About eight o'clock on Saturday evening a car owned by a man believed to belong to George Stone of Bonar Law, struck a buggy owned and driven by Mr. Sidney Johnston, Junction Road. The buggy was slightly damaged, and the harness was broken. Stone failed to stop, and switching off his lights, sped away.

The license number was obtained by Roy Clarke, Station Street, and it is very likely that Police Court action will be the result.

IMPROPER USES NATIONAL FLAG

Union Jack Brought Into Disrespect On "Hot Dog" Stands

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is strongly convinced that the national flag should not be used to drape "hot dog" counters. In exception to the ban which has been put into effect which will be considered by the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce at their annual meeting at North Bay on Tuesday, Belleville Chamber of the Canadian flag does not stand alone in this as the Belleville members feel that the Union Jack as well as the Canadian does not serve any inspiring or patriotic purpose when it is in close proximity to a "hot dog."

Nor, in Belleville's opinion, does the flag serve any purpose in its trampling of the dignity of the national banners. Several other improper uses of the flag are cited in the memorial which the Belleville Chamber of Commerce will present to the Associated Boards. They include the gasoline service station, tourist lodging houses, "and other businesses or features of a similar character." In making its protest, the Belleville Chamber outlends that the decorative flag effect on such establishments are not dictated with any thought of patriotism, but that they are merely a lure to business. It also cordially calls for a educational campaign to discourage "such employment of our national emblems as is likely to create disrespect or bring it into contempt."

PRISON CONVICTS PERISH IN FIRE

Panic Seized Terrified Inmates And 17 Died In Flames

WILD DISORDER

Penitentiary Dormitory Is Easy Prey To Blaze—Several Escape

Junction City, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Seventeen convicts employed in the State-owned brick plant here are believed to have perished in a fire which swept the dormitory in which 375 prisoners were quartered today. Eight prisoners are in the penitentiary hospital seriously burned. Panic seized the terrified convicts as they were awakened and there was a wild rush to escape when the two of three exits were found locked. Officials believe that three of the convicts managed to complete the escape in the confusion.

Defective wiring was thought the probable cause of the fire. The door of the kitchen commissary was opened by a suspicious convict who found the room filled with flame and smoke. The alarm was given and a terrible scene of confusion followed as close to 1,000 inmates fought and struggled to escape through the only exit which at least 17 failed to reach in their way to safety. The prisoners were confined to the penitentiary in Columbus.

Gruesome Scene

Junction City, Oct. 8.— Chief Welch serving a sentence for forgery, summed charge of the situation until the arrival of State Fire Marshal and Rescue workers found a gruesome scene. The dormitory was of frame construction set on a wooden frame, erected on a brick foundation about six to eight feet high. The brick foundation and frame had fallen into the shallow cellar made by the foundation walls and the searchers gave a hasty look of steel cots, sheet iron, charred timbers and charred masses of charred bodies here and there.

One prisoner after several vain attempts to carry a cripped friend to safety was forced to flee for his own life. Another man who escaped from the flames rushed back to the scene of his buddy trapped and both lost their lives, so far as was learned.

Some of the prisoners asserted the guards refused to let the convicts through the locked doors when they discovered until ordered to do so by Captain Howell, Superintendent.

(By Stanley Raymore)

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 8.—Toronto police authorities are to be asked to invite Dr. Hans Langsner to Toronto. TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

His heart was in his work, and the heart
Giveth grace unto every Art.
LONGFELLOW.

HARD-HEARTED PRESS

Recently a school teacher in an Illinois town was brutally murdered. The circumstances of the crime were complicated, but the newspaper of the town had no publish the story, because knowledge of the crime was general. But for the mother of the slain teacher—a woman nearing eighty—the paper printed a single special copy, changing the story to state that her daughter had been killed in an automobile accident, and thus sparing the mother the details it would do her no good to learn.

This little incident is but one example of the humanitarianism of newspapers in the handling of news stories which might have a tragic effect on the minds of old people and of the near relatives of those who are involved in tragedies. Every newspaper has, in its own records, similar cases in which special effort has been taken to avoid hurting the feelings of people whose minds have already been harrowed by tragedy. There are times when it is not possible to suppress news of tragic occurrences, because of the fact that these events quickly become known around the communities in which they occur. But the above case is just a typical instance of how the newspaper's show that they are not so hard-hearted as many people believe them

TOLD THE TRUTH

A United States senator, being in Winnipeg on business in connection with international boundaries, discussed the elections pending in his own land.

He did not talk of the issues that are being discussed by Hoover or Smith, but rather pointed out something of which Canadians should be aware by this time.

His point was that, no matter which side was victorious in the election in November, it did not make one bit of difference to Canada in regard to trade relations, because there would be no lowering of the tariff barrier against shipments from this country.

He intimated that there might be an increase in the tariff on Canadian cattle going into United States.

The senator was not telling any Canadian people anything they did not know, although he might have been reminding them of something they are very apt to forget.

The often we are carried away with the idea that here is a great market, one of the finest in the world, right to the south of us; it is easy to approach and although no one be sent there in record time.

United States makes its own tariff to suit its own needs and the desires of its own people, and it does those things without any consideration of what this country wants or does not want.

There is small use of Canada expecting anything in the way of easy access to United States markets. It will be much better for us to go about our business as though that market were many more miles away.

FALLING IN LINE

Another conquest for the Roman Hitler must be scored up. Turkey has abandoned her ornamental characters in favor of Roman type and script; China is substituting them for the ancient ideographs, and now a famous German newspaper, the Berliner Tageblatt, appears in Roman type instead of the Gothic characters. It seems Germany is anxious to increase the circulation of her newspapers abroad; she also believes that if the Roman characters are generally adopted in Germany it will lead to a greater interest on the part of foreigners in the study of the German language. For many years the change from Gothic to Roman type has been gradually taking place in German literature. Many books and pamphlets, especially circulating abroad, have been printed in what is technically known in Germany as "Antiquaschrift," or Roman type. The example now set by the Berlin newspaper will, it is believed, be widely followed by the German press in general. It is admitted that the Gothic letter is much more trying for the eyesight than the clear "Antiqua" letter. The change which, it thinks, will commend itself as much to the progressive element in the German nation as to the outside world. It looks for Gothic letters to quickly disappear from German newspapers and books, adding that "a very practical obstacle, though a slight one, will thus be removed from the path which leads to international understanding."

REVEILLE

Wake: the silver dusk returning
Up the beach of darkness brims,
And the ship of sunrise burning
Stands upon the eastern rims.

Wake: the vaulted shadow shatters,
Trampled to the floor is spanned,
And the tent of night in tatters
Surges, the sky-pavilioned land.

Up, lad, up, 'tis late for lying,
Hear the drums of morning play;
Hark the empty highways crying
"Who'll beyond the hills away?"

Towns and countries, woo together,
Forehand beacon, belfries call,
Never lad that trod on leather
Lived to feast his heart with all.

Up, lad, thews that lies and cumber
Sunhill palters never thrive,
Morns abed and daylight slumber
Were not meant for man alive.

Clay lies still, but blood's a rover;
Breath's a fire that will not keep.
Up, lad, when the journey's over
There'll be time to sleep.

LOVAT SCHEME OF SETTLEMENT

20,000 British Families Will Settle On Canadian Soil

Ottawa, October 6.—As a result of the recent Canadian tour of Lord Lovat, chairman of the Overseas Settlement Board, the British Government has made a proposal to the Dominion Government, under which 20,000 British families would be settled upon Canadian farms in the next six years. The details of the scheme were worked out by Lord Lovat and sets in Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Colonization. It is understood the British Government has agreed to become a party to the project.

The scheme provides that 20,000 Britishers, mostly heads of families, be settled upon Canadian farms within ten years. These men will not necessarily be drawn from the agricultural class in Britain, but will have had at least special training in schools provided for that purpose.

About 5,000 cottages are to be occupied in Canada, the new settlers to live in them a sufficient time—from three to four years—to accumulate savings of at least $500, together will farm experience, when they will be given farms. Each settler will be helped to the extent of $2,500, to be used either for payment on property or purchase of equipment. The cottages will cost about $4,000,000, or near $1,000 each. The settler will pay for his farm in 25 years, and the interest rate on the mortgage will be six percent.

Brandon's first broadcasting station has gone into daily use, and a studio located there will give news and stock reports each day, and once a week, in the evening, will broadcast local concert programmes.

A training school for the encouragement of home industries is being talked of in Winnipeg, following the Folksong Festival held in that city recently under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Montreal may be noted, has had for some years classes to teach their native handicrafts to children of foreign-born settlers, who would otherwise be likely not to acquire the skill they would have developed in their own country.

W. N. Beach, a hunter and photographer of wild life who had the unique distinction of finding two different sets of locked antlers during his career, was a recent visitor to the General Tourist Department of the C. P. R. at Montreal. Locked antlers are very rarely found and one of the two pairs discovered by him are so firmly interlocked that they cannot be pulled apart by any normal men, and to be separated would have to be cut.

"In all my experience I have not previously found so general a feeling of complete confidence in the country and its possibilities as was observed by me during the districts where we made stops and had an opportunity of talking things over with their representative citizens. It was the statement made by E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, with his just returned party of 25 Canadian and thousand mile tour over the company's western line, accompanied by a party of directors and Montreal financiers.

Billing and cooing and showing no signs of having their affectionate disposition cramped by the straits of travel, two cages of Japanese Love Birds passed through the Windsor Station at Montreal recently on their way from Alaska to Scotland. Travelling from Kobe to the Japanese Islands and across the Atlantic on the Duchess of Atholl, the shipment of twelve birds called Budgerigars, as they are also called, are under the protective wing of the Canadian Pacific Express throughout. They were of a brilliant blue shade, long tailed and beaked much like a parrot's.

Not only is Canada sufficiently interested in the League of Nations to have its first representative sent to Geneva in person to participate in this year's assembly, but also a thousands of active supporters of the movement are now organized throughout the country. According to information given out by the General Secretary of the League of Nations Society in Canada at Ottawa the membership of that organization has grown in three years from less than a thousand to almost fifteen thousand. It is further strongly supported by women's organizations of all sorts and conditions, its character is by no means feminine as over half the members are business men, and to British Columbia $3 per cent. are men.

DISAGREES WITH GENERAL DRAPER

Bookie Doesn't Think His Profession Deserves Lash At All

Toronto (CP)—Although Chief Constable D. C. Draper advocates the lash for bookmakers, who he regards as a menace to society because they use their wits to prey on weak-minded men," Curly Crowell, a former member of the bookmaking profession, retorts that "the bookie is a gentleman compared to the parimutuel."

Crowell, who has paid in Windsor Police Court more than $1,200 for running a book, and who has purchased a hash house and is running it instead, said "You've got to trust a bookie. Nowadays, especially, he doesn't dare to give the better a slip. He has to be honest and a gentleman.

"The way it is now at the tracks, the people who go to the races have not a chance to win—not a chance. I know all about it. I've done everything that there is to be done at ovals. I've worked at them since a boy. I've worked from the bookies. I've worked for pari-mutuels, and I've run a book of my own.

"Why the pari-mutuels' take about 15 per cent out of a better's dollar each race. Figure that out," said Curly grinned. "Seven races a day, and 15 per cent gone with each of them. They take $80,000 out to the track each day to make change for the people, and not one penny goes for them to win. When I was an old dare, with bookies, the bettor would get odds of 150 to 200 to one those are cut down to nothing. How can you beat a racket like that? How can you beat iron men who haul 15 cents off your dollar every race? The bookies used to make money. But by Jimmy they used to lose it, too. I've seen a bookie go out with $10,000 and walk home broke." Curly looked around the hash house. "If all the jack which the pari-mutuels have stolen from the public was in $10,000 bills this dog cart of mine wouldn't be big enough to hold it."

Curly fairly gnashed his teeth. "Then this feller Draper suggests that a thing like that be run for running a book. I ask you. Is that justice? For the government to be able to run a book and for the citizen not to be able to?"

"Put up your hands," he ordered, "and be quiet or I'll shoot." Shapiro obeyed, and was then told to sit down on a nearby chair. Still covering the shop-keeper with his revolver the intruder opened the cash drawer and took out the money. He then ordered Shapiro to stand up and attempted to remove from his finger, a diamond ring and his to pin.

In so doing the chair, Shapiro noticed that his revolver, which was on the counter within reach, had been overlooked by the robber, and he seized it. The robber struck Shapiro on the forehead with the butt end of his revolver and there was a scuffle for the possession of Shapiro's weapon. Shapiro managed to loosen his hand and he fired two or six assailant and both bullets hit their mark. The robber then dropped his own weapon and ran out of the door.

NEW POWER SUPPLY FOR NEW YORK CITY

New York, N.Y. (CP)—An electric distributing station that will ultimately be able to supply power sufficient to light the homes of approximately 300,000 families and which will be operated without a human being inside its walls will be put into service this month in New York City by the New York Edison Company.

The manless station, one of the largest in the world to be operated with out a single attendant, will be controlled within a nearby station more than three miles away. The distant operator can close or open any switch placing in service the various transformers and circuits in the new station, simply by pressing keys which send over wires electric impulses of the dot and dash system used in telegraphy. Also he will receive automatic signals from the station, which will inform him whether the equipment is functioning properly.

It will be necessary for human being to visit the station only once a week to inspect the apparatus.

INTENDED VICTIM WOUNDS BANDIT

Jeweller's Quick Action Turned Tables On Young Gunman

Montreal, Oct. 7.—In the scuffle between a bandit and his victim in the Allen Jewellery Shop, 5056 Sherbrooke Street west, Notre Dame de Grace, shortly after 8.30 o'clock this evening John M. Steward was removed to the Western Hospital, and his condition is reported as serious. He is charged with robbery with violence, and is under guard of city constables. SCIENCE TAKES DISEASES AWAY

Fear of Sickness Lessens As Medicine Gains Headway

Regarded since the dawn of history as a living death, leprosy apparently is being brought within the list of curable maladies, and the leper, to be shut away from his fellows, is no "Unclean" the cry of fear, horror and loathing which has come down the centuries. The fear has always been exaggerated to a greater or less degree, but science has now taken it out in the minds of victims and those about them.

Within the last few weeks, eight patients have been released on probation from the National Quarantine here, sent back to their homes no longer a menace to the public health. Similar releases have been announced by the United States public health service hospitals which have long had released, and only one has suffered a relapse. Those released recently had been under treatment for from five to ten years, and about 400 others remain.

Many of the bacteriological, chemical, pathological and clinical studies which have contributed to the advances made in treatment of the disease have been carried on by research workers from chaulmoogra oil, obtained from an Indian tree, which have increased its effectiveness in the treatment of the leprosy germ. The treatment was rather painful, however, until the specialists here developed a method of administering the injections with a local anaesthetic.

The scientific studies also have established the disease is not spread casually only by direct and usually prolonged contact with a victim. Casual contact, the experts have found, is not so dangerous as it has been "regarded, and they suspect that nasal secretions probably have most to do with transmission of the germs.

Statistical studies conducted in connection with the scientific work indicate that the number of cases of leprosy in the United States exceeds 3,000. The disease, it has been learned, is most likely to appear in Spanish climates, although a number of cases have been recorded in Norway.

DOG INFLICTED A NASTY WOUND

Twenty-six stitches were required to close the wound in the face of Miss Daisy Upton, of Wellington, after she had been bitten by a dog last Friday afternoon. The child came to the hospital and gone to the country to visit relatives, and while in the back yard, the child purposed to make friends, and placed her arms about his neck.

Apparently the dog resented the advance and before anyone could intervene the beast had bitten her severely. Dr. Scott, of Wellington attended the injured girl, and reports that she is getting on as well as could be expected although she is suffering from shock as well as the bite.

FLORIDA KNOWN AS "AIRMINDED"

Rapidly Takes To Aviation In Many Branches In Last Year

Sarasota, Fla. (CP)—Florida is rapidly becoming known as an "airminded" state, in the opinion of the state's aeronautical aviation experts. Practically every town of any size and many smaller ones now have municipal airports.

The latest manifestation of interest in aeronautics is found in the formation of a state-wide organization, headed by Frank Redd, an attorney, to encourage aviation and to urge legislation to safeguard flying in the state and "to accomplish by correspondence a good road associations have done for the automobile."

The new organization of airways Mr. Redd declares, "is as important to day as the movement for good roads was 20 years ago," and he is confident here. Its value as a means of transportation has been established. Lines stretch from coast to coast, taking up the larger cities into a huge network. "In the east, air transport lines link New York, Boston, Chicago, Richmond Va. Atlanta and New Orleans. It has been given a charter to extend its service to Porto Rico and the Canal Zone. A mail route between Atlanta and Miami will be in operation soon, and Miami and Key West. Passenger and mail lines will operate from the east and mid-west through Florida to Havana, the West Indies and to South America."

ROUND FOR THE WEST

Marguerite stood in the hallway of the apartment and watched her trunks and bags being carried out. There was such a curious expression on her face that the maid, who was holding open the door, stole a quick glance at her.

Hal had bade her an elaborately casual good-by, some minutes before, and had beforehand himself down-town. Irma had telephoned that she had to rush to the bank at the last minute and would meet Marguerite at the train. Laura was coming to the station; Marguerite's mother was recovering from an attack of flu and, with the weather so bad, didn't dare come out. So Marguerite was quite alone.

When she was ready to go, accompanied by a maid, she paused for a moment on the threshold and said:

"I have a feeling that I'm never coming back." She spoke more to herself than to the maid, with a little breathless catch in her voice. Then she went down to the waiting cab.

She thought, during the drive to the station through the gray streets of New York, of the first months of her married life. Should she have managed differently? Should she have played the game another way? Had there ever been a real chance for happiness with Hal, and had she, somehow, bungled it?

Laura, the dependable, was at the train with gifts. Irma was not there, but he had filled the compartment with magnificent flowers and orchids, and there were sweets and magazines and the latest novels. Marguerite didn't see how there was room to be room for Irma and herself and their luggage.

Harris had also sent a note, wishing her a pleasant trip and urging her to let him know if, at any time, he could be of service to her.

Laura eyed the girls as she stood in the doorway of the compartment.

"You're a lucky girl, Marguerite," she said abruptly. "To have a friend like Harris Wells. And you, Irma——"

Marguerite raised her brows. "I don't see any particular reason why any one should envy me my friends," she said.

"But, now that you're going as you please, you ought to be happy," Laura reminded her.

"Happy!" Marguerite stared out of the window. Suddenly her lips quivered.

There was a poignancy in Laura's voice that did not escape Marguerite. Laura, the eternally lonely and romance speaking as a woman, with the barrier of her pride lowered.

Marguerite opened her lips to reply, but, at that moment, Irma rushed in breathlessly, followed by several friends, who had come to say good-by.

"I was positive I wouldn't make the train," she gasped. "My taxi skidded at Thirty-Ninth and Fifth and slammed into a bus, and there was the most frightful muddle. I was terrified, for fear I'd be held as a witness, but I managed to duck through the crowd the minute a policeman had taken my name and address. If they want to find me, they'll have a sweet time now," she added triumphantly.

Her color was high, her eyes too bright. Marguerite knew that she was putting on a gay front for these friends of hers.

"My word, how I wish I was going with you," one of them breathed fervently.

Irma stood in the corridor and waved good-by as the train slid out of the station. Marguerite caught a last glimpse of Laura, standing a little apart from that gay, expensively dressed crowd of assured young women. And the memory of Laura's eyes troubled her, for a long time, long to think about it, for Irma, returning in a strangely competent, dropped her mask of frivolity like a cloak. She flung herself, face downward, on the couch.

"Oh, dear Heaven, dear Heaven, how am I ever going to stand it?" she moaned, and beat futilely at the cushions with her clenched hands.

VOLCANO ACTIVE AT ONE TIME?

In Canada; Scientists Are Inclined To Think So

Vancouver, B.C., (By C.P.) — Less than 200 years ago Canada possessed an active volcano, in the opinion of explorers who have been studying the mountains north of Alice Arm, in the northeastern section of British Columbia.

The volcano, according to authorities, is now definitely dead and there is now no danger of future eruptions. There were apparently two pronounced eruptions which have left their trace and which were separated by a period long enough to allow the lava to cool. The first explosion blew out a crater on the station. Marguerite caught a last glimpse of Laura, standing a little apart from that gay, expensively-dressed crowd of assured young women. And the memory of Laura's eyes troubled her, for a long time, long to think about it, for Irma, returning in a strangely competent, dropped her mask of frivolity like a cloak. 1 cup sugar.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt, dilute with cold water. Add to scalded milk and hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens, afterwards occasionally; cook fifteen minutes. Add orange juice and slightly beaten eggs that have previously been mixed; mix thoroughly and lastly add the lemon juice and orange rind. Cool and serve.

Caramel Custard (Serves 6)

6 eggs.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ cup sugar.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Gradually add sugar into a hot skillet, shaking the skillet vigorously all the time to prevent burning. The sugar should melt about as fast as it is sifted into the pan. When it turns to an amber color (a light red in color) set on back of stove and add milk, being careful that milk does not bubble over, as is liable on account of the high temperature of sugar. As soon as the sugar is melted in the milk, add mixture gradually to eggs, slightly beaten. Add the salt and flavoring to egg and milk mixture. Bake in custard cups in a moderate oven.

"The Pencil-Line" Afternoon Coat

For all the variety of coats that French couturiers have offered, the pencil line coat continues in vogue—undoubtedly because it is the slimmest and most becoming of styles.

The slender wrap-around model sketched above is of tan broadcloth and has a new flared collar of mink that stands high around the back, and tilts at points in the front. Interest centers also in a strap trimming at the center back.

NOW DEVISING RESCUE DEVICE

Navy Stirred By Many Under Sea Disasters In Last Year

Baltimore, Md. (CP)—Stirred by undersea craft disasters that have taken the lives of scores of American officers and men, the navy is making strenuous efforts to eliminate the hazards eg submarines by devising and perfecting rescue apparatus.

Many experiment are being made and plans carried out for exhaustive tests to learn what happens when a submarine is stricken below surface. Two ships have received a submarine so eldent wherein the craft was totally disabled and flooded while under way to, and none has been able to tell just what occurs under those conditions.

In addition to the various experiments the bulk of the submarine S-4 which took 40 men to their deaths after she was rammed by the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding off Provincetown, Mass., December 17, 1927, will be used in rigorous tests, off Cape Charles, Va., in October. These tests are to be conducted by Lieut. C. B. Momsen, submarine expert and diver. Attempts will be made to learn conditions that exist during the wrecking of undersea craft and devise methods of counteracting and preventing them. Naval divers will be placed be hatches and come to the surface by side the hull, which will be sunk and flooded. They will then escape through using the navy's new breathing device "the lung" and other rescue apparatus developed during the last few months.

"The lung" invented by Lieutenant Momsen, Chief Gunner C. L. Tibbald the navy's foremost diving authority, and F. M. Hobson, an engineer in the bureau of construction and repair, has been tested in deep sea diving and worked satisfactorily. In both depth and duration tests the simple device, resembling a gas mask and consisting of a rubber oxygen container a mouth-piece for breathing and nose pinchers, proved itself capable of bringing a man from a depth of nearly 160 feet. It has a capacity that will permit a man to stay under water 11 minutes.

Lieutenant Momsen plans to descend 225 feet in the S-4 hulk off the Atlantic coast in a coming sea trial over the most unfavorable conditions and use the device in managing an ascent.

If "the lung" continues its success in the tests, the navy proposes to adopt it as standard equipment on all of its submarines.

All the American submarines have three escape hatches, most of which are fitted with trunks which project into the interior, so that when they have flooded the compartments become similar to diving bells. When a submarine is down and unable to rise the entrapped men will take their "lungs" from lockers near the hatches and release the hatch and another will fill them with oxygen. One man will open a gas connection to flood the chamber. When enough water has entered to equalize the pressure on the inside with the sea pressure, the hatch will be opened automatically by the air pocketed in it.

A small boat being capable of sustaining a man, will be released to carry a knotted line to the surface. The men standing in "water" up to their shoulders and breathing air from the locker in the overhead will place the "lungs" to their mouths and one after another, duck into the trunk, breathe deeply and slowly to avoid the "bends" make their way to the surface. They will be able to determine whether they are getting too fast by the swelling or the oxygen bags.

Naval authorities consider "the lung" the most practical device ever invented for submarine rescue work. They plan to continue to study other proposals however, and Lieutenant Momsen has been ordered to conduct experiments with a number of devices.

MANY INDIANS TO VOTE FOR HOOVER

Washington, D.C.—Indians of the West are going to hear politics preach and this campaign by one of their kinsmen. Senator Curtis, the Republican vice-presidential nominee whose grandmother was a Kaw Princess, is going to call on at least four tribes on his forthcoming tour of the Northwest.

Indians have votes this year in the presidential election. Many tribes already have sent word to the Senator of their support. The visits to the Indian reservations were made partly at his request. He likes to go among the Indians with whom he lived for a while as a youth in Kansas.

LEARN WHAT CHIROPRACTIC IS!

CHIROPRACTIC is a drugless health science of the cause of so-called disease and the art of adjusting the human spine where its segments are out of natural alignment, so that mental impuls can transmit naturally through the nerves to provide normal health function to every organ and part of the body.

It is a system that includes the use of nothing but the bare hands to locate a subluxated vertebra (small bones of the spine) and effects the correction by the power by way of the spine to different parts of the body, liver, kidneys, and other organs the body to produce life. The stomach, the motors which are run by power delivered through the nerves.

If the power is severed, or interfered with, the motor quits running. Connect up the power and the motor starts running. Same is the case with our bodies. We are simply a complicated piece of machinery and each part must work in harmony to make HEALTH, which is LIFE. The Chiropractor connects up the power that has been interfered with by relaxing the pressure and allowing the power (Vital Force) to flow unobstructedly to the various organs, which then function normally. If there was no good in Chiropractic it would have died of its own accord years ago but it still lives and is progressing very rapidly.

AMERICA BIDS AIR SUPREMACY

Ambitious Designs of New York Professor For Planes

New York, N.Y.— America's first bid for commercial supremacy in the transportation air lanes above the Atlantic Ocean appears to be made by a teacher of English in a New York City high school. His ambitious plans call for construction of three huge seaplanes of a new type capable of carrying 60 to 100 passengers and several tons of mail from New York to Queenstown in 20 hours.

John F. O'Connor, for twelve years a member of the English department of the DeWitt Clinton high school and an aviation enthusiast, has received government patents on his plans. Lieut. John W. Iseman, commandant of the navy's air station at Pier Nine, away, will serve as chief pilot and consulting engineer for the company backing the project. Airports on the coast of Ireland, O'Connor's native heath, are under survey.

Laboratory and wind tunnel tests are said to have established the air and seaworthy qualities of models of the first O'Connor plane, which, although smallest of three to be built, will have a wingspread of some 180 feet, fully 30 feet more than the big German "Dornier" now being prepared for trans-Atlantic service. Eight 525 horsepower air-cooled motors will be used four being held in reserve. The planes will be of all-metal construction.

The first crafts will have a passenger cabin 70 feet long. The lower floor will contain sleeping apartments, while an upper level will afford space for dining salon and kitchen, reading and lounging rooms and other facilities for making an air voyage comfortable.

The O'Connor plane is unique in appearance, due to the great size and peculiar shape of the cabins, but the model is said to have demonstrated inherent stability, constant centre of gravity and an engine thrust directly in line with that centre, a feature European builders of giant planes seem unable to attain.

Dr. C. A. Harkness, eye expert of Chicago, declares that he never found a color-blind woman in 30 years of practice.

DEATH TO BIRDS IN HURRICANE

Recent Storm Believed To Have Dealt Blow To Bird Life

Washington, D.C. (CP)—In addition to the terrific blow delivered at human life and property, the West Indian hurricane is believed by naturalyers to have dealt harshly with bird and plant life in the western world.

Chief of the concerns of the American Nature Association is that the hurricane may have wiped out the last colony of flamingoes, the "flame bird" which once spread its gorgeous plumage over the West Indies and southern United States.

These birds, the Association says, were almost exterminated by the advance of two years ago and it fears that the few remaining on Andros Island, one of the Bahamas group, could not have survived last week's terrific blow.

Andros was declared a flamingo sanctuary by the British government after bird lovers of the United States and England became aroused at the wanton killing of the birds by hunters. Elgin W. Forsyth was appointed to stand between the last of these birds and extermination by meat hunters natives.

The Andros negroes, cruising for two or three months ata time in their sponging schooners off the western coast, long for fresh meat to supplement their diet of flour, rice, fish and tinned beef. Whenever the spongers landed and discovered a flamingo rookery, they used to run across the flock with a lately stretched rope. The rope broke the fragile, stilt-like legs and slender necks of all the young flamingoes who could not fly. As the birds lay but one egg a year, it is easily seen that the whole increase of the rookery would be slaughtered at one time.

WASP WARS ON FARMERS' FOES

Cane Borer Attacked By Little Insect In Southern States

Baton Rouge, La.—Groomed to fight the sugar cane borer in Louisiana, a tiny parasite wasp called Trichogramma, has become so proficient that more than 25 per cent. of the borer eggs in an experimental field—here were destroyed by the insect during the last week in July.

The wasp attacks and destroys more than 150 species of crop pests by parasiting the eggs of the insects with its own. Louisiana entomologists invoked the aid of the Trichogramma in 1927, when ravages of the cane borer menaced the sugar industry of the state. Left to its own resources in the field, the wasp was slow in developing. Laboratories for propagation were set up and were so successful that 94,000 wasps were liberated between June 7 and 23, this year.

W. E. Hinds, state university entomologist, says the practicability of large scale laboratory production of the Trichogramma has been demonstrated fully.

"It has been shown," he explains, "that sheets of parasitized eggs may be mailed to any part of the United States or Canada with a fair prospect of their arriving in good condition. The method of distribution on sheets of paper is to cover the paper with unparasitized moth eggs and then allow the wasp to deposit its eggs in the moth eggs. The Trichogramma hatch first, and the larva uses the moth eggs for food. It easily possible to handle from 40,000 to 80,000 host eggs on one sheet of paper and to obtain 20,000 to 30,000 parasites therefrom."

While he is pleased with the success in combating the cane borer, Dr. Hinds says it will require some time to determine the plan's value on an extensive commercial basis.

Vigorous athletes tend to regard golf solely as solace for the late middle-age, when the capacity to move fast has disappeared, but it is a mistake to imagine that physical fitness is not an essential of the game. The nerve strain is obviously very great, and the physical strain is not negligible. There is a difference between going for a stroll of three miles and playing a round of 36 of scoring golf which would astonish the man who has not tried it.—London Daily Telegraph.

MAJORITY FOR SETTLEMENT

New Bedford, Mass., October 8.—A majority of the New Bedford craft unions Saturday morning voted to end the 25-week strike by accepting a compromise of five per cent. wage cut and 44 hour week, subject to 30-day notice before a general wage cut.

GREAT STEP IN NIGHT AVIATION

New Night Map of U. S. Needs New Signal Glasses

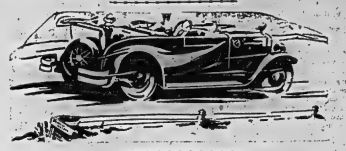

Corning, N.Y.—Aviation's new night map of the United States, the network of lights, projected or existing, marking airports and airways, is developing some new needs in signaling and new forms for signal glasses.

Makers of glass have been asked to find special shades of color and to light familiar places in surprising ways. Viewed from above at night, such places not only are distorted in darkness, but the speed of the aviator requires lights which slow-earth-bound modes of transportation have not needed.

In one instance the laboratories of the Corning glass works have been asked to work on the lighting of radio antenna poles 60 to 80 feet tall. Lights can be placed on top of these aerial obstacles, but not without risk of interference with the antenna functions. Flood lights below are not altogether satisfactory, for they do not define the tops with sufficient brightness. One suggestion for a solution is the familiar three bails of the pawn shop, placed on top of the poles, gilded and shaped to give a sufficient warning by reflected light.

Another development is the zenith light, an arrangement of beams intended to penetrate to an aviator several miles away, and guide him to the landing field. It was found that merely a powerful beam was insufficient. The original beacon was a 24-inch mirror beam which the aviators recognized at several miles, but they passed out of the main beam as they neared the light and reported difficulty in finding it again. The latest zenith light is a beam projected vertically by cylindrical bulls eyes, with a beam spread of 180 degrees. This beacon states as that its effect is to show the aviator successively a fan-shaped light, then a change to a vertical line of light and again the fan.

BROOM CORN IS STILL POPULAR

Despite The Fact of All Modern Electrical Appliances

Oklahoma City Okla., (CP)—Broomcorn producers, watching with increasing alarm the use of modern housecleaning equipment, may not have as much cause for apprehension as the complexion of current market conditions indicates, federal investigators believe.

In answer to queries from Oklahoma, where 50 per cent of the American broomcorn is produced, O. A. Coller, of the government market news service, says that in relation to average consumption there is scarcely more than a month's supply of broomcorn carried over from 1927 and that pessimism is caused largely by the fact that dealers have a quantity of high priced stock on hand.

The weather last year, he says, caused a decline in production and manufacturers bought brush at a relatively high price. There was no corresponding rise in price of brooms, and as a result the manufacturers' stocks are the heaviest since 1926. The carryover of brush, however is the smallest since June of 1924 and about 1500 tons smaller than last year. Seventy-two per cent of the carryover is in the manufacturers' hands with only about 1000 tons held by farmers as shown by the June 1928 report. As the manufacturers took 18,744 tons, leaving but 7,144 tons with dealers and farmers from which to draw until 1928 crop came to market.

Now that this season's crop of broomcorn has started to move, observers are no indication of dangerous overproduction. The government outlook places production at about 45,-300 tons. Domestic consumption for the last six years has been averaging approximately 47,470 tons; 2,000, more than the indicated 1928 production, and in addition about 5,000 tons a year are shipped to Canada.

CHINATOWN IS BIT OF ORIENT

San Francisco's Quarter More Eastern Than Ever These Days

San Francisco, Cal. (CP)—For revenue only, San Francisco's Chinatown has become more Oriental now than in the days of its colonization.

Chinese architecture—the tapering pagoda, the veranda roof, curved cornice and the dragon head at the corner—are not on tops—pedestals in this district, but this seeming reversion is purely external, a matter of merchandising. The 'Chinaman' recognizes he must display the qualities of salesman ship that his wide-awake rivals, American as well as Japanese, have made a part of modern business. So he hoists his wares in the manner of a showman, and the visitor to the district may see a more authentic bit of old Canton or Shanghai than in olden times when unrestricted immigration was in full swing and Chinatown teemed with population.

Inwardly, however, the westernization process has eaten into the sprit of the famous district until now it is neither the ancient cast nor the progressive west, but a curious, confusing blending of old and new.

Even here where the modernization of China was plotted by the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Hawaiian born Chinese, and his associates, the change has not come without a struggle. Among the older Chinese many cling to old ways and customs.

Except as to exterior architecture, the conversation of Old China is everywhere challenged throughout the district; Electric elevators are supplanting dark hallways; automobiles the wheelbarrow.

TRICOLOR LOST TO VARSITY 10-7

Neither Team Uncovered Anything of Sensational Variety On Saturday

(By Staff Reporter)

In a game that did not assimilate with the sparkling days as provided by "Red" Baldwin and Percy Leader the Queen's lads erstwhile champions of Old Intermediate, met defeat at the hands of York's big blue machine at Richardson stadium on Saturday afternoon. The Varsity team looked only ordinary in victory and Queen's team appreciated anything but that in defeat. Queen's had the 2nd quarter pitching which studded the games in which the intermediate title was the great. Leadley took part were a million quantity.

Carter matched with Murray Snyder and Bill Darling in a punting duel which was about even, with all three failing to take any advances. The Varsity team pointed the touches a neck lead in the first quarter and then settled away and played hang-up football. The Varsity line held like the old Gibraltar and had a chance to stop against the Queen's first line of defense all's as wide open as a gate and gate as the Queen's line. It was the only way to get through. There was little to get anything about and it was only a few times that the spectators were given any chance to cheer. It was a conservative game and was filled with hole- teams resorting only to the ordinary plays rather than try some clever football which would be surprising. Bill Darling former R.M.C. player was erratic in his catching but his punting was good. Bill Snyder had his hand when he dropped several per cent. of the punts that were in his surrounding him. The game d'd, however reveal one or two points and one of the was that Queen's developed a smart player when "Red" Gilmour late of Oelawa College, Toronto, and Kingston Institution of the Deaf and Dumb, made his appearance carried him through. Queen's would look much better with Moore, Leadley and Gilmour in the backfield. It was the first time since 1923 that Queen's had been beaten by a team of Collegiate and one, thousand supporters of the blue saw the battle Saturday, 6 of which Queen's scored a touch, and spectators were disappointed at the exhibition.

RUGBY, SEEN BY "CHICK" MEEHAN

New York (CP)—Football, as far as it is played anywhere, is the game where you "teach the boys to run and kick and pass.... and then teach them to stop other fellows doing the same thing."

That's football as John P. (Chick) Meehan sees it, and Chick is head coach of a bunch of young giants who run and pass and kick daily for hour, at a time on the grounds of the State Agricultural College at Farmingdale.

"Those are the fundamentals of the game," the diminutive leader of the Violet grid forces announced vehemently after practice, "and they haven't changed a bit since the game was laid. They won't change, either, no matter what the rules committee or committee changes the fundamental code."

Just at the moment Meehan, who starred in that role as fleet quarterback at Syracuse University, had his attention drawn to the change the way they are shifted and changed. One of the chief penalties of an offside play, the Violet mentor explained, clearly, and with every hand and long line, slashed on his face.

"Me and into action with steamroller effect. Under present rules, this penalty is, a foot and only a foot, but a full step before the ball is passed. You can't step in that huddle and use it if they make me count sixteen before the ball is passed. That huddle is just a skirt around the ball so the team can get every signal amid the

GEHRIG BLASTS OUT 2 HOMERS AS YANKS WIN

Hugmen Make New Record By Capturing 7th Straight Game

St. Louis, October 8.—The Yankee steamroller is still going downhill, unchecked, and its flat wake the Federal hopes of the Cardinals are flatter than ever.

With their clouting first baseman, Lou Gehrig, at the throttle engine-tiring the drive with two home runs, the American League champions swept over the recumbent Cardinals for their third straight world series victory and their seventh successive triumph, a new record, in two years over National League opposition.

The final score was 7 to 3 and Yankees with Waite Hoyt ready to pitch again, are favored to make it four straight today.

This was a sad and disconsolate home coming for the Redbirds and the record crowd of St. Louis rooters that found its way into Sportsman's Park.

The throng that numbered 39,602 in paid admissions also contributing to a record gate of $186,735 for the local field, came out to cheer Jesse Joseph Haines and the Cardinals in a desperate effort to stop the Yankee onslaught from Gotham.

Every available second-grandstand was there for the Redbirds, the home field and the pitcher who had beaten the Yankees twice in 1926 but it was not enough to revive the spirits of a club that has played tragedy from start to more no today than before, and that has every appearance of being as the mighty Yankees' as were the Pirates last October. After a brief stand in the early innings, when Gehrig connected in the Yankee defense than their own efforts, the Cardinals loosed the game away with a wild and woozy exhibition in the sixth.

After a stormy innings, big Jesse Haines, the ages of Philippsburg, Ohio, gave it up as a bad job and retired along the broken path that Grimsley and Alexander had taken before him.

Zachary In Great Form

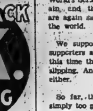

The Yankees' cheerful triumphant behind the theatrical pitching of the veteran southpaw, Tom Zachary, and became the big figure is still in his bale of Sate Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Those two set before Cardinal them to win in spite of one of the worst defens ive exhibitions a world's championship club had ever given, a slip-shod brand of support that helped the Cardinals gain an early lead and remain in the running until the sixth inning. The Yankee defense was bad enough but the Cardinal fielding was worse in the fatal sixth, when one of the most unusual of series' accidents was made to order by the usually dependable catcher, Jimmy Wilson, contributed to the decisive three-run rally of the invaders.

Where that other old-timer Alexander had failed to save anything like his past world series' form, Zachary came back with flying colors to win the third championship game of his 14-year-old career. The veteran portsider has been cast adrift by the past few years, joining the Yankees only last August, twirled as craftily and as brilliantly as he did four years ago to twice baffling the Giants for Washington.

The Cardinals silenced nine hits off Zachary, but at least five of these were scratchy and after the first inning when the Redbirds got off to a two run lead on Bottomley's triple, did Tom had complete command of the situation. There would have been no fooling in the first had the Yankee infield functioned more smoothly or had Durocher jumped Judged Bottomley's drive. Over the remaining eight innings Zachary scattered the remaining six hits he allowed. He struck out seven Cardinals and yielded only one run, walked by Douthit in the fifth on Judy High's double to right. Tom was tight as a bear-drum in the pinches.

By "The Observer"

Well, it looks as though the World's Series is almost history ag ain, and the "crippled" Yankees are again safely perched on top of the world.

We suppose most of the Cardi nal supporters are willing to admit by this time that they feel something slipping. And it isn't the cripples, either.

So far, the Yankees have been simply too good for the Cards, and it hasn't been a case of the "breaks" either. The Yanks won the first game on good pitching and timely hits count, while the Cards had their only good pitching in the series, and could not make their hits count.

The betting in New York before the start of the series was ten to one on the series being taken in four straight. What a day!

Apparently the change of scenery means nothing to the Yankees who seem to be able to bust 'em in any park.

After seeing Varsity and Queen's in the annual Big Four intercollegiate Rugby series, we call Mc-Gill to take the honours.

Neither of these famous teams measure up in our opinion to the teams of former years, the backfield especially being weak. Although O'Connor, the ex-high school boy was good as far as catching the ball was concerned, he seemed to be glued in his tracks and hesitated too long before trying to start down the field.

Little broken field running was tried all day, but was always kopped to two bucks and a kick, which is O. K. in its way but mighty poor for the spectators.

Although McGill was defeated by Balmy Beach 7-6, they were by no means disgraced, and any team which can hold the Champions to that score should be dangerous to the extreme to the other two Intercollegiate teams.

Kitchener celebrated their entry into the Senior O.R.F.U. by having a win from the Varsity seconds, 5 to 4. This segmentet justifies their taking the jump from the Intermediate series this year.

Dave Harding and his Airmen took an 18 to 8 win from the Hamilton O.R.F.U. team while the Tigers, Big Four entry was winning from Argos, 9 to 0.

And to make it a perfect day, Ottawa won from Montreal ten to eight. It was a day of upsets, as Queen's were favorites to win from Varsity, and Kitchener was supposed to lose to Varsity's "Orphans."

LEDUC TO STAY WITH CANADIENS

Has Signed For Another Three Years At Increased Salary

Albert Leduc has renewed his contract with the Canadiens, champion club of the National Hockey League, sturdy, colorful defence player, it is understood, has signed for another three years at an increased salary, though the amount has not been divulged.

With Leduc, delightly on the defence, the club of Canadiens' manager Querieu has been placed on rumors that were prevalent at the close of last which have been revived off and on since then, that Leduc was to be sold or traded, perhaps to the Ottawa Senators. Manager Cecil Hart will have four defence players this season, Leduc, Sylvio Mantha, of last year's team; Martin Burke, recalled from Pittsburg, and Gerald Carson, of the famous hockey family, who was in the Canadian-American League last winter.

Bill O'Brien will again train the Montreal Maroons, which proven to has been associated since the club was organized in 1924, Bill looked after the Montreal Forum for the old national Baseball League this summer, He would be his baseball duties yesterday, and also received instructions from President James Strachan, of the club, relative to next hockey preparations next Monday. That will give O'Brien a week to prepare equipment before the players report on October 17. Bill is irksome for the hockey to get underway The expert in handling athletes has learned a few tricks in the past few months, one he always uses over which is an efficient means of giving aid to injured shoulders—and Bill wants to demonstrate on the hockey players.

OSHAWA TAKES O. A. L. A. FINAL

Oshawa won their first Senior O.A.L.A. Championship on Saturday last in Brampton, when, although they fesied in the last game 4 to 3, they held their lead which they had established a week ago in Oshawa, when they had won by a 4 to 0 score. Some thirty-five hundred fans were on hand to see this final lacrosse classic of the year, and they received their money's worth.

The game was remarkably clean, very few penalties being handed out and these were for minor offences. Brampton had made slight changes in their line-up which apparently strengthened their defence. In the Senior O.A.L.A. final, Toronto won from Weston 8 to 1, and in the Junior Finals Maitlands defeated Preston by a 4 to 2 score.

MONTREAL LOST TO OTTAWA 10-8

Rough Riders Took Advantage of Weak Spots In Defence

Ottawa, October 8.—Overcoming a 10-0 lead, Ottawa Rough Riders defeated Montreal Winged Victory, 10-8, in the opening of the Interprovincial Union season at Lansdowne Park here yesterday. Appearing only as an echo to spoil a perfect Dominion record, the Ottawa team ended its 8,000 supporters, the Montreal team, though they outplayed the Ottawa squad and finished the only real foot ball thrills of the struggle, were beaten, 10-8.

Ottawa's triumph came as the result of fighting spirit in the end zone and the ability of the Senators to turn to good account advantage that was presented to them. And opportunities were presented in fair abundance as the three-year 1928 Montreal squad, needing the test of a league match to enable the players to find themselves and to get that keenness of its own power which is essential to championship aspirations, played loosely with spots. And it was these spots, very lapses by an over-anxious, lot of Montreal players that gave more seasoned Ottawa crew seized upon smartly and turned into scoring points.

JONES RETIRES IN TWO YEARS

Bobby Jones, according to his intimate friend, O. B. Keller, may retire from public competition after two more campaigns.

Writing after Jones had made a fine show of it by tying for the national amateur championship, Keller said the rating young barrister was making plans for a future that would carry his public career through the 1930 season.

He wants to go to England with the Walker cup team in 1926 and play in the British amateur and open championships.

And if he should cop the two British titles in succession he will be content to quit, Keller said.

It is possible, however, that a busy young lawyer could find two weeks of the year at his disposal for golf and he might even find a few weeks for golf and amateur championship tournaments.

If he went into any of the big classics without any kind of practice it might serve as a self-imposed handicap and the golf boys do say that other players are in the same kind of a class with Weston E. and in the July 30 and has begun to learn something about the game.

HERO OR GOAT—WHICH IS IT?

Present Series Offers Many Possibilities For Crown of Laurel

New York, Oct. 8.—No world series is complete without its hero—or its goat. The wreath of wild razzberries is bestowed, a glance over baseball's main chapter reveals, as impartially as the crown of laurel.

Each has a world's series offered its much opportunity for heroic stuff, so much chance for the lowly ambitious aging veteran or ambitious youngster, to jump into the spotlight as they the current team between the Yankees and Cardinals.

Babe Ruth can testify as to how it feels to have been the goat, or a hero. The bambino was a "hero" in 1923, when his batting mark fell into mammoth .416, but four years later, in St. Louis, the big fellow was acclaimed as he seldom has been before or since. He faced out three home runs in one afternoon in the enemy stronghold.

Old Pete Alexander, 41 year old pitcher, probably wouldn't make a Greek statue model, but in the series was a hero in heroic mould in the great Cardinal victory two years ago. He did it all over the country "money pitchers" of the mill, and may still have the Indian sign on the Yankees.

Much younger in years but a veteran of five world's series, while Urban, the Yankee twirling ace, has known the glamor of being proclaimed a world's hero. The Babe participated in, and he is ready to shoulder the main burden again for the house of Huggins.

While these few erstwhile inmates of the hall of fame will be knocking at the door again, others will be striving to climb upon the pedestal. There's many a slip 'gn the way up as John Mills found out last year, by tossing a wild pitch and, inside the final game, but when it looks as though he would complete a heroic pitching stint.

Then the Cardinal can there will be the picturesque little Rabbit Maranville, the same two world series's ago, after he helped the Braves upset the Athletics. Then there's Frankie Frisch, capable of supporting around second base, or Jim Bottomley and Chick Hafey, the big guns at bat. There will be a chance, too, for the Yankees, for Cedric Durst or Ben Paschal to add their caliber as regular members for the injured. Earle Combs in centre, or for old Tom Zachary and Irving Jeffries on hand to demonstrate their pitching stuff, should Hoyt or Pipgras, the mainstays fail.

BARENSCHEE TO LEAVE CANADA

Due to unforseen circumstances, Erich Barenschee, manager of Ernest Brandenburg, world's long distance swimmer, has been forced to sever his connections in Toronto and will leave for Germany next week, he will sail for Cologne, Germany the last of the month. He will make his first try to secure a club in Montreal and failing this will leave for home. The swimmer is trained for entry in the High Schools. He has two particular youngsters, whom he will have ready for next year, but has fears as to whether he will be able to find the former star. The other two swimmers he has in mind are as good as Vierkoetter, he says. He was almost heart broken at being forced to leave the city and was unable to make his adieus to all his friends.

Add if by the end of this month Toronto officials can find the position he is after he too will leave Toronto for Montreal, then for the southern states where he will offer to swim against all comers, and if this fails he will sail for home.

"I like Canada, I will never swim again in my life," Ernst told the writer, "I would love to stay here and I want to stay. I am trying to find work here but so far have been unsuccessful."

Barenschee is of a diferent opinion He is going to try to obtain a year's leave from his duties and come back again with his new, swimmers. He says he will startle everybody should he be able to return.

The first company formed to promote swimming meets on the continent, now defunct was formed by Barenschee in Germany, went bankrupt within a month.

ROCHESTER NOW OUT OF SERIES

Indians Are Little World's Series Champions After Win

Indianapolis, October 8.—Bill Burwell stared at a throwing error in the ninth inning rally here yesterday to enable the Indianapolis Indians, of the American Association, to win their fifth game of the junior world series, and by so doing take the championship of the big minors. The score was 7 to 5, with two of the International League team's runs coming in the last frame.

Burwell had pitched a fine game of ball until that frame, but did not equal the performance of Herman Bell, Rochester flinging ace. The Red Wings touched Burwell for ten safe hits, while the best Indianapolis could get off Bell was seven.

Three errors in the first two innings aided the Indians materially in scoring the runs that gave them victory. Oelbert made all three misplays.

In winning the championship of the A. A. leagues the Indians brought this title to this territory for the second successive year. Toledo won last year.

The crowd again was disappointingly small, only about 3,500 fans turning out to see their team cop the title. The day was ideal for baseball.

As usual Indianapolis scored in the first inning. A hit and an error on two bases on balls one of them intentional, brought home one counter. Herman Bell, after walking Blackburn with the bags loaded, forced Riddle to pop to Monahan and Wasztor to tag to the box to get himself out of a bad hole.

Again in the second frame, the heavy bats of the Indians connected solidly with the ball for another counter. Three hits and two errors by Charlie Oelbert produced the scores. Walter Holke, when he should have been one of the main reasons for the run showing of the Indians in this series, led off with a single to left. The big break of the inning came to Matthews' bat as he drove one past Burwell's easy grounder with a double play in sight. Wid Matthews, after missing two chances to bunt, singled very sharply to centre, Holke reaching third. Burwell taking second.

Bud Connolly sacrificed the men along and Haney responded with a single to right for two more runs, after which the third attempt was stopped at first. Russell was safe on Oelbert's error, but Harry Layne prevented further damage by ably taking Bing Miron's hard drive after a lengthy gallop.

Pete Monahan's lusty triple to deep centrefield with one out in the sixth was responsible for Rochester's only run. After swatting the three-bagger, Pete came home while Nick Cullop was being retired at first by Ralph Wurstler.

A single by Monahan started the ninth frame Rochester rally, and single by Hank Gowdy and Pinch Hitter Billy Southworth completed it. The tying run was scored by Layne after Burwell had failed to field in time.

BALMIES DEFEAT BIG RED MACHINE

Old McGill Looked Good Even In Defeat—Will Offer Opposition

Montreal, Oct. 8.—McGill football team lost around a half dozen of last year's regulars had their first test of the season in an exhibition game against Balmy Beach, Dominion champions, at the Molson Stadium ——— day afternoon and although they were defeated, 7-6 the brand of football they displayed was ample guarantee that McGill this year is certain to be a stumbling block in the paths of Queen's and Varsity in their quest for intercollegiate football laurels.

It was a red team that warred with the visitors and with every man doing his part from start to finish and—wherever he was called upon, that faced the never completed Beachers. In the first half, backed by a smooth-working back-field combination—Freeman, Doherty and Smyth—the red team had an indisputable edge, both offensively and defensively, but in the second half however, the Beachers came back with everything they had in an effort to overcome the six-point lead McGill had taken on two place kicks. Two periods of the McGill first time and again, going through for yards with an attack that McGill could not stop.

DUNN TO RETIRE IF TOOLE STAYS

Baltimore Manager Won't Carry On Under Him Another Year

Baltimore, Oct. 6—The Orioles will have a new manager if J. A. Conway Toole is president of the International League next year.

Jack Dunn, boss of the Birds, announced at New York today that he will never attempt another season while Toole is in the chair, and that he will never allow the play of the Orioles on the field until Toole has been fired. And "Dunnie" usually means what he says when he says that.

Thwarted in his efforts in Rochester to get Toole out of the saddle, Dunn is loading his guns for the annual meeting in New York. He has four votes and needs only one more in order to get rid of Toole. Five organizations pledged to vote against Toole in Rochester, and one changed his mind.

From Rochester yesterday came a story quoting Jack as saying that he would sell his club if he failed to get rid of Toole.

It is true that he was misquoted, his remark, in that city having to do with the management of baseball at the Maryland city on the field.

Feeling confident that Toole will be out of office before Christmas, local magnate hasn't given any thought as to his successor.

But Jack says Toole's work as president has been so bad that he couldn't stand another season as manager under him.

Dunn was so upset over Toole's decision in upholding the forfeited game in Buffalo that he couldn't sleep for four days. He declared that he would have preferred being all over the head with a club.

YOUNG CULPRIT WAS ARRESTED

Girl Took Advantage of Children In Selling Operations

Belleville City police last night arrested a young girl, aged thirteen years, on West Bridge Street, who had been selling cleaning cloths from house to house. She usually made her calls early in the evening and often found no one home but the younger members of the family.

When this was the case, she would tell them that their mother had instructed her to leave the cloths, and they should collect all the money from the children, which in some cases amounted to, three and four dollars. Complaints have been received about this practice for the past six months but it was only last night that the guilty party was located.

No charge has been laid against the girl owing to her extreme youth, but she received a severe lecture and "talking," being told that if she appeared before the Court again she would be sent away.

McColl Brothers Blocked By Council In Laying Drive-way

BASEBALL GRANT

Last Night's Session Marked By Heated Discussion

Last night's meeting of the City Council was marked by several warm outbursts on the part of the members, and at times the sacred precincts of the Council Chamber presented an animated scene with sporadic thrusts by some of the Aldermen toward their colleagues. There was really little actual business transacted but several vital points were brought up for discussion which evoked warm words. The Gas Station which has been a bone of contention among the members of the City Council was resurrected after a shortage of two months.

City Engineer Campbell refused to grant McColl Brothers a right to lay a drive-way on the corner of Front Street as the four corners onto Front Street without consulting the Council. A letter from the Chief of Police regarding the granting of the move until a later report from the City Engineer was received. Finally after a lengthy discussion it was left in the hands of the City Engineer to act as he thought fit in the City Engineer. They will make a report at an early date.

In reporting Aid. Weyden's motion; Aid. Collins said: "I was on the Committee two years ago on the same matter and we recommended against granting permission to build a driveway on either side of Front Street. There would be a great risk occasioned by the use of the corner as a driveway. I understood the Gas Company would divert both the incoming and outgoing traffic to the station by way of Bridge Street".

Aid. Collins declared the pedestrian traffic on Bell Telephone corner is already exceedingly heavy and the hazard with the increased traffic would be greater than ever. One citizen was injured and is still confined to his home following an accident which occurred despite the fact that signal light governs traffic there. "I want to see Industries flourish here", said the Alderman, but I was distinctly under the impression that those who used the station would approach from the north side, and leave by the East exit on Bridge Street. I feel keenly on this matter of life and limb and I cannot conscientiously vote for a hazard of this kind with regard to the danger zone and may result in a recurrence of ser ious accidents".

Aid. Reid: "I seconded the motion for the common interest of the people of Belleville and the Gas Company who are ubged to use this corner". One of the McColl Brothers represent ed that on either side, our property lines we are up against the same pro blem. There has been no accidents on any of the corners on which drives were situated. As regards a Bond Liability, same is not a factor.

WIFE BURNED

Daughters Noted Flames On Approaching Home At Midnight

It appears that Mr. Robertson proceeded to the outhouse which was located at the rear of his home on Dominion Street, just after 12 o'clock. Chief of Police Bain talked to a representative of the Intelligencer th s morning that Mr. Robertson always carried a candle, not so much for the light, but for the fact that when he felt faint he could inhale the vapors.

Misses Beatrice and Jane Robertson, daughters of the deceased, were driving home in the home of the elder lady and saw the flames when they approached the house. Their brother, Percy son, who was sleeping on a couch downstairs at the time, was awakened and in which attempted to extricate the body from the inferno was burned about the head and hands. OCEAN OF LIFE

Professor Frederick G. Donnan, of London, is reported to have told the British Association for the Advancement of Science that "the day was nearer, when a physiologist will be able to create life." Sir William Bragg had told the Association that the day was nearer when the physicist would be able to create electricity he would have been laughed at. Some of the scientists then said he was mad as when Professor Donnan made his statement. Life is everywhere. It creeps out of the everywhere into here, as George MacDonald suggested. It manifests itself where it has the slightest excuse for animate organisms. Professor Donnan might perhaps assist the development of organic vitalities of life, but that is the best he could do. And consciousness, a still greater mystery, is hardly aware of itself, but talks of creating its beds. All this comes of specialization. Our scientific men need a little synthetic

RESPECT FOR THE FLAG

The Ontario Associated Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce in their annual session will no doubt send a blessing ear to the proposal by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce that the practice of decorating "Hot Dog" stands with the Union Jack be prohibited. It is something that probably does not attract any individual notice but certainly it does not inspire patriotism in the human breast. The Belleville Chamber of Commerce has stated that this practice will submit to the Associated Boards of Trade and not alone is this considered an improper use of the flag but dropping gas stations, and tourist homes, is considered out of keeping with fundamental principles for which the Flag stands. Undoubtedly the Flag is brought into disrespect when used by vendors as a lure to business and an educational campaign along this line would no doubt be a stimulant to greater patriotism. The Flag is in reality something to be respected, and the attitude of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce in this session calls for immediate commendation.

THE NEW RINK

Within the past score of years four imposing new public schools have been erected in Belleville, a new Collegiate has risen from the spot where for half a century a drab red brick building stood, a spacious new Agricultural Ground which has been the pride of the directors for the past ten years has been realized, yet the city is without a modern and up-to-date skating rink. A movement was started early last spring but after a splendid meeting, interest gradually died with the advent of the warm weather and now Belleville folk are facing the prospect of a winter devoid of the great Canadian sport—Hockey. Belleville has been the home of some great and glorious teams which, in their time, were numbered among the finest in the district. Only last winter Belleville's game little Junior squad were only eliminated after a struggle with St. Michael's College. Now the burning question is—where will these youngsters have the opportunity of exercising their talent during the approaching season? The owners of the antiquated structure on Turnbull Street will not likely open its doors this winter and the Belleville team will be homeless and, should the city not be represented by a team in 1929, the natural tendency is to let the sport die. It is time for action and while several local enthusiasts spent considerable time and energy on the proposed artificial rink they were not afforded any support by the citizens. Within a month the wail will go forth—what about hockey? The citizens of Belleville have no one but themselves to blame for the present state of affairs and undoubtedly the project would be given more support at this time than it was last spring. Not only will hockey suffer, but those who are fond of skating will not have the privilege of enjoying this one form of sport which the cold weather affords.

FIRE PREVENTION

In connection with Fire Prevention Week, which is being observed throughout Canada this week provincial authorities have issued orders to all cities urging citizens generally to carry out the following recommendations, which are repeated here because of their importance:

1. Clean out cellars, their surroundings be carefully inspected by their occupants, and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fires removed.

2. All public buildings, stores, warehouse and factories be inspected and cleaned of rubbish in order to reduce fire hazards and maintain health and safety.

3. All hotels, theatres, asylums, hospitals and other institutional buildings be inspected and provision made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants from danger in the event of fire.

4. Fire drills be held for the children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions and for the employees in all large stores and factories in order that a greater degree of safety may be ensured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

5. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officials in the schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

6. Boy Scout leaders give instruction to the troops under their control as to the best means of co-operating with municipal fire departments in the prevention and extinguishment of fires and especially as to the desirability of qualifying for the fireman's badge.

7. All legislation and regulations enacted or issued by Dominion, provincial or municipal authorities dealing with fire prevention be given publicity by the municipal officials and that by public meetings or otherwise endeavour to impress upon his citizens the importance of fire as a hindrance and an educational campaign along this line would no doubt be a stimulant to greater patriotism. The Flag is in reality something to be respected, and the attitude of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce in this session calls for immediate commendation.

TROOPING THE COLORS

I like to fancy battered field and meadow
As weary soldiers in a sodden land.
The old, grey stalks, the withered clumps, of bracken,
As wistful warriors—then I see them stand
Before the glory of the crimson maples
With glowing banners—courage lifted high—
And then, how strange! I see them all reviving,
Reflecting beauty as the stream the sky.
Soft breezes sing and rhythm fills the meadow,
The boats go marching down the autumn-way.
Not grimly now, but led by martial music,
In splendor wrapt and waving ban ners gay.

WHEAT OUTLOOK MOST UNCERTAIN

Review Says Large Crops Threaten Overproduction of The World

Montreal, Que. (CP)—A review of the world wheat situation issued by the Royal Bank of Canada states that the present outlook is uncertain, principally to this year's large crops which seem to threaten overproduction in the immediate future, but concludes with the belief that the world's growing population is bound to absorb steadily increasing supplies. "Among the chief causes of demand for and supply of wheat," the review says, "it is possible to secure statistics and construct a story quite favorable to the possibility of such a steady world wheat requirements as is absorb all probably production. On the other hand, it is possible to study the potential increase in supply from Canada, Argentine, Australia, Russia and Manchuria, and to come to the conclusion that the world is on the verge of a period of immense overproduction.

SUKKERTOPPEN A NORTH VENICE?

By Lowell Thomas

Washington, D.C. (CP)—Greenland is a land of many surprises. It is the largest island in the world. It is the land from which the Rockford Swedes derive their name. Rockford is in some other island the center of Greenland.

Rocky Island cut by fiords and inlets, reminds the observer of Norway, only more so. Also, the waterways do not wind, meander, nor wander. They are straight, and the narrower canals are spanned by picturesque bridges, but for the crazy terrain, and the sub-Alpine architecture the National Geographic Society find the Venetian is not far-fetched.

Life in industry as well as in climate is Greenland is far different from Italy's Venice. The white whale industry gives employment to Alik, the native settlement, and the odors of blubber and oil and drying fish are ever in the air during the season. In the past eleven years Sukkertoppen whalers have caught more than 13,000 white whales.

The little town, with its few hundred inhabitants is seldom visited by outsiders. But as Greenland settlements go it is an important community. Frame houses supplement the blubber and structures. In one of the former, lives the local Danish governor. Sukkertoppen's "business district" included a carpenter's, a cooper's, and a blacksmith's shop, a general store and a commodious combined factory and warehouse for rendering and storing whale oil. The cooper's nearby all is a big, unpainted hospital.

PREMIER SPEAKS ON DEVELOPMENT

London, Oct. 3.—Premier MacKenzie King will speak on development matters in the Canadian Guild tomorrow night while the next evening Premier Baldwin is expected to deliver himself on empire matters, at large in speech at Sheffield. It will be interesting to observe if the one speech is intended as a complementary to the other. The Morning Post approves the choice of Premier King's subject expressing the belief that the Canadian government has given the impression of wishing to wait a fire and abundant flow of British immigration.

NEEDS STUDYING OF CHILD LIFE

For Training of Children And Solution of Numerous Difficulties

Montreal, Que. (CP)— Dr. Morley Blanton, Professor of Child Study at Vassar College, recently addressed a gathering of members of the Local Council of Women and of the Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene; he has first completed a month's lectures tour through the Dominion under the auspices of the latter society.

The solution of the numerous difficulties of the children which confront those interested in the training of children said Dr. Blanton lies in close and careful study into the environment of the child, the atmosphere of the home, the attitude of those in the house, and the relationships between the mother and the child "Don't expect too much of the child, don't forever nag at him for his baby mannerisms and such other things. Put your self in the child's place," he said. "What the child thinks is to be quite proper, the parents probably think quite wrong. For all the child's actions there is a cause, and when the cause is found, so will the trouble be eradicated.

"Mother says her ten-year old son is naughty and lazy," said the speaker "but why is he lazy, or why should he be naughty? The actions of human beings are caused by something but what is it?"

The child, which, the speaker insisted, does not do his work when told is a aptitude which pleases his mother but not the mother, the doctor added showed the child the value of getting the lesson done, has she made him do the whole lesson, line before line, the heights to which he can attain if he will settle down to his work with a desire "People," said the speaker will go through much drugery if they believe they are going to achieve something worth while."

WHY SHOULD SHE GIVE UP "FAGS"?

New York, N.Y. (CP.)—Miss Maude Royden, writing in the Forum on "American Women and Religion," deals fully with the great cigarette controversy in which she was involved during her visit to the United States as lecturer and preacher. One religious journal publicly addressed to him a kindly courteous appeal to "let a good example" in the way of abandoning a habit which could be no great sacrifice.

"I explained," writes Miss Royden, "that I did not believe that religion was a matter of such trifles as the smoking of six cigarettes a week, and added that I did not smoke at all to Lent. I did not mean that it was necessary to explain that I did this in my examples merely as matters of self-control—it seemed sufficiently obvious

"The editor, however, returned to the attack in his next issue by asking if I supposed the sacrifice of thirty-six cigarettes would improve my interest God. On this I abandoned the controversy. The idea that, by giving up cigarettes, I should impress young (female) Americans with the excellence of my examples seemed to me ridiculous and pretentious enough. When it came to a case of impressing the Deity, I gave up."

BIG SHOWING OF FRUIT AT ROYAL

Expected Ottawa Fair Will See Many Entries In Section

In spite of a smaller than average apple crop, and weather conditions which have made the cultivation of fruit difficult in Eastern Canada, Ontario growers are living up a strong claim to fair the annual competition from British Columbia at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

F. C. Hodgetts, director of the Ontario fruit branch and chairman of the Royal fruit and vegetable committee states that indications point to an exceptionally fine showing of fruit at the 1928 Royal. British Columbia, with a very heavy crop of high quality, will undoubtedly provide a striking exhibit, and competition is bound to be very keen.

Apple classes this year include box, and single box sweepstake—an award which always attracts general interest going in 1926 to British Columbia on a box of Delicious and in 1927 to Ontario on a box of McIntosh; five and ten-box classes for standard winter varieties; half boxes; 20 and 50 box lots; closed slave bushel baskets half barrels; specimen apples, plates of five and ten specimens. The Canadian Horticultural Council diploma is again offered for the best county display of apples. Apples in packages will be placed by Professor C. W. Peck of the New York State Agricultural college, and H. W. Ramsay also of New York state, who have made the awards with general satisfaction for the past six years. Single specimens, plates and fancy baskets will be placed by Professor W. T. Macoun, of the Central Experimental farm at Ottawa.

Added competition is also looked for in the vegetable classes. The classes include all commonly grown commercial vegetables, and collections of potatoes, onions and cauliflowers. The large collection, to cover 100 square feet, will again be a feature of this part of the Royal, and here interprovincial rivalry will be keen. The potato classes should also bring out a strong entry from Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The Ontario Vegetable Growers' challenge trophy is a new and attractive feature this year; this silver trophy is open to members of the association in good standing prior to September 1, 1928, and is offered to the exhibitor obtaining the highest number of points in all sections for vegetables. A miniature of the trophy will be given to the winner each year. Vegetables will be judged by James McKee, of the Ontario Experimental farm at Ottawa.

The honey classes which were inaugurated in 1927, are continued this year and with the steady expansion in beekeeping throughout the Dominion some very attractive exhibits are expected from the west as well as from Ontario. A division has been added this year for maple products, for maple syrup in clear glass, not less than five pounds in 1-lb. jars and a class for maple sugar not less than five pounds in 1-lb. cakes. It is particularly fitting that this native Canadian product should be given special recognition as an all-Canadian show like the Royal.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

A recipe calling for juice of one lemon really means three tablespoons of the juice.

When dry, the article can be washed in hot water, and the enamel will not mell.

If you find the bottom of the metal vase or lamp is scratching the table on which it stands, paste blotting paper or felt on the bottom.

Save the screw-top bottles that come into the house and use them to store tacks, nails, staples, screws, etc.; each kind by itself. These are time-savers because you can readily see what you want. Of course, you will keep them together on the shelf where they will be handy.

Mark the lines to be hemstitched with a contrasting cotton or silk to the material to be hemstitched. Then they will be noticed easily and the garment will not be returned with just enough of the stitching overlooked to prevent you from wearing it when you wish.

When mending a rip in the glove, buttonhole both edges with a fine needle and fine thread (not silk), then catch these threads together in a buttonhole stitch and you will have a neat and lasting mend.

BRITISH TRIED TO SAVE PRINCE

France Apologizes For Dramatist's Aspersion On Queen Victoria

Toronto, Ont.—(By The Canadian Press)—A tribute to the queen Victoria of plotting the death of the late Imperial Prince of France, Eugene Louis Jean Joseph Napoleon, recently written by a French dramatist, Rostand, Jr., has prompted Capt. Warwick West, 70-year-old veteran who is ending his days at the Belmont Home for the Aged, to tell the whole story.

The play caused a special conference at which Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, apologized to Premier Stanley Baldwin of Great Britain for the aspersion cast on British honor by the imaginative Frenchmen.

West was sergeant of the escort which fought to save the Prince Imperial from the Zulus. He was serving in Africa with the 10th Hussars in the "rough tough times" after the British disaster at Isandhlwana and near much of the imperious Eugene, who had come for experience in war with the fond hope that some day he would lead a triumphant army into France to restore the monarchy.

Far from seeking to lose the prince the command took every precaution to protect him, West said. Unfortunately Eugene was a daredevil who wanted to go everywhere.

The tragedy occurred June 1, 1879, when the prince went out with troops under Lieutenant Carey to look for water, for lack of which the men were suffering and the horses dying.

"There were about a hundred of us all together," recounted West, "but that was not half enough for the savage devils would come up out of nowhere and surround us in thousands."

In the evening the prince, Carey, and a few men—conspicuous in their full dress tunics—were ambushed by Zulus. Eugene tried to mount his spirited horse to "escape, but the girth broke and almost instantly a poisoned assegai pierced him.

Even then the remainder tried to save him, said West. Several men and horses went under before the rest retired. Later they rode back and rescued his body, since enemy cannibalism was one of the horrors of the Campaign.

Lieutenant Carey was sent back to England and severely reprimanded. "It was a shame the way he was treated," protested West, who thinks that Carey fought hard and did everything humanly possible which became an officer and a gentleman.

With no regiments and his medals lost, after serving the Queen from Kabul to Cape Town, Sergeant Warwick West is contented.

"My four brothers all became well-to-do," he said, "but I have seen the world. I've had just the life I wished." If he had it do over the old soldier would go back to the army again.

Born 70 years ago, the fifth son of an English farmer, he was early enchanted by the tales he heard from missionaries in Sunday School. When he was 19 he ran away to London and enlisted.

Certain Triumph Will Accompany This Sports Frock

Whether one's vacation is spent at the beach, the mountains or in the country, summer sports demand a new and individual look. A bad game of tennis or golf is easily forgiven and forgotten if the player is so charmingly dressed as the young lady pictured here. And if a young polo player is cheered on by such a fashionably clad onlooker on the side lines, it surely means victory for him. For both active and spectator sports, this smart model bids for triumph. It is one of the three flattering chemise frocks which has a two-piece effect, sleeveless and with a deep V neck it invites a healthy smart coat of tan. The wide bandings at the armholes and neck may be faggoted as a further distinction. The flushed pockets and a wide knotted belt add the finishing touches to the blouse, while two groups of pleats on the skirt provide freedom for active sports. Silk crepe, raw silk and pongee are the popular materials for sports wear. In all-white the design becomes a practical and smart tennis frock. (Copyright, 1928, by Bell-Syndicate.)

les operating on corner lots in Belleville have assumed the responsibility for accidents and I don't see why we should".

Ald. Wotten—"We don't care about Toronto, Whitby or any other city, that's our only four corners in the city and the people of Belleville must be protected in this matter."

McCoil representative: "When we came here there was no law prohibiting a gas stat on and it is too late to pass one now."

Ald. Donahue was of the opinion that the matter should be referred back to Committee or to the City Solicitor. "It's a busy corner and we do not want to suffer any damage." He said he would compel the McColl Brothers to insure and assume any re sponsibilities. It was here that the Committee was instructed to look into the matter.

Assistance for Ball Team

The Council last night granted $500 to the fund for the Belleville Baseball Team. Ald. Donahue speaking on this move said "We are giving away public money to a business that is run solely for profit, we should use more judgment in matters of this k'nd". A vote was taken and Ald. Donahue was the only member of the Council opposed.

By-laws were passed authorizing t'e laying of sidewalks on Henry Street from Murney to Cedar, on Dufferin Ave. from Bridge to Dufferin and Foster Avenue from Queen to Bridge.

Mr. J. Black, Clerk of Audit, was appointed Assistant Treasurer to Mr. F. P. Frederick, who is ill. The City Treasurer asked for leave of absence which was granted.

Under the head of inquiries Ald. Reid asked why there was a delay in oiling the east end of Queen Street from George St. to Foster Ave? In reply Ald. Donahue, Chairman of Public Works, said that other streets had not been oiled as yet and owing to the fact that sufficient oil was not on hand to treat them all at once. "We wanted to get the machine and do the work all together."

Ald. Reid—"But why did the Engineer oil Quhei Street between John and Gore Street only?"

Ald. Donahue Cut

Ald. Donahue — "We encountered some wet weather, so did the best we could and it was only a few days ago that we were through macadamizing several streets" "Not a dollar was wasted and we had to oil the streets in the Autumn to protect them from the dust in the Spring". He said the appropriation for public works was cut so low that he was utterly impossible to go ahead with the work as desired.

Ald. Reid—"What I want to know is, why one block of this whole street was oiled, probably I haven't as much brains as the rest of them, but I do know that some streets in the city require only one house situated thereon, were oiled." The Committee appointed to deal with this matter but the City Engineer directly overruled them."

Mayor Duh.ed took the matter in hand and threw oil on the troubled waters. "We cannot enter into any argument here let us proceed with our business" said His Worship.

A letter was received from Messrs. Adams and Edie, Queen St. Generative to making Queen Street a "Stop Street". They contended that the street had been raised and the traffic was much heavier and it was confusing to motorists as to who has the right of way when Bridge and Victoria Ave on opposite sides were "Stop Streets". The matter will come due consideration.

Mr. B. R. Quincy, Bread Inspector, made his report to the Council in which he stated that there had been but a slight variation and the Bakers were endeavouring to keep their product up to the standard. The weights of each Inspectorate were submitted.

Campaign Is Endorsed

It was moved by Ald. Collins, seconded by Ald. Reid that the campaign of the Provincial Legislature acting in conjunction with the Dominion Railway Board to eliminate the many dangerous level highway railway crossings be heartily endorsed. The attention of these bodies will be directed to the two very dangerous level crossings upon the Provincial highway, one west of the city limits at the cemetery and the other at the east side known as "Gibson's" crossing. The city council respectfully advocates that such action be taken as "will ensure the public against a recurrence of the tragedies for which these crossings have been responsible.

It was moved by Ald. Wotten and seconded by Ald. Reid that the city Engineer be instructed to refuse the request of the McColl Bros. to rebuild and ramp the sidewalk facing Front Street to serve the gasoline depot on the corner of Front and Bridge Streets awaiting a further report on the matter from the City Engineer.

It was recommended that Messrs. Gore, Nasmith and Storie, Consulting Engineers of Toronto be employed to make a report to the Council on the cost of a filter plant and to advise this Council in what manner the water rates will have to be increased in the construction and operation of such a plant, the report to include the possibility of additional meters, and services and all other facts which pertain to such filtration plant, the service of such engineer to be paid for on the basis and terms set forth on their letter of September 28th, 1928, to the Chairman of Water Works.

Construct Sidewalk

It was recommended, that the sidewalk between John St. and Church St. on the south side of Bridge St. be constructed on a basis of 60 per cent payable to the city and 40 per cent payable by the school board and that the Engineer be instructed to obtain prices to construct same at once the portion of new walk in front of west face of Collegiate and connection along north side of property to Church St, and extension of driveway an north east corner of Collegiate to John St. be constructed, in same contract and that all necessary grading be done by the Board of Education.

A committee composed of Ald French, Woodley, Donohue and Dee have power to act on the housing of the new Ambulance.

A light will be placed on a pole one hundred feet south of Bridge St. on Ann St. opposite the entrance to St. Agnes Manor.

The tenders for concrete walks at the High School south side from Church St. to John and the west side of Dufferin Ave. between Queen and Bridge St. was awarded to Walter Kellar as per tender, the Mayor and Clerk were authorized to sign the contract.

USE MULCH TO PRODUCE CROPS

Will Minimize Need of Cultivation To Keep Down Weeds

Plant City, Fla. (CP)—The first practical use of paper mulch as an aid to crop production is to be undertaken in this country on a significant scale, is planned by Florida truck and berry farmers this year.

For four years the federal department of agriculture has been experimenting with paper mulch. Results show that it stimulates plant growth and cuts cultivation costs for almost every crop except peanuts. The idea originated in the pineapple fields of Hawaii, where producers used 600 worth of mulch last year and raised 50 per cent more pineapples. While government tests leave it still a debatable question whether mulch can be used economically on the larger field crops, they have shown that the paper may be applied profitably to vegetables and fruits.

In that light the Florida farmers are to use mulch on truck and berry crops. The paper, for which they already are placing orders, is manufactured in rolls 300 to 400 yards long and 18 to 36 yards wide. It is black

SECOND HURDLE FOR PEACE PACT

Secretary Kellogg's Return From Europe Brings This Matter Up

Washington, D.C.—Secretary Kellogg's return from his European peace pilgrimage brings sharply to the fore the question of the next hurdle the war renunciation pact has to take in the senate of the United States.

If Mr. Kellogg has a notion that senate ratification of the pact will be just a matter of form, more or less, he is completely unaware of the sort of talk that has been afloat recently in important senate circles.

There is already an idea circulating in democratic senatorial minds that the pact and related diplomatic exchanges should be exhaustively examined by the foreign relations committee. Some senators are inclined to feel that the communications from some governments, notably London, announcing readiness to sign in the light of observations made in those notes actually amounted to reservations. The suggestion is made privately that it might be just as well for the senate to do a little interpreting itself on the meaning and limitations of the pact in its ratifying resolution. That would remove the whole question in other capitals.

Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee has stated that he does not regard his part as conflicting with the Monroe Doctrine or see any necessity of an amendment or reservation to insure that the American pronouncement continues in full force unimpaired by the war renunciation pledge. Whether the democrats concur in the British view it is too early to tell. It seems possible they might not make up their minds about it. Should they capture the senate in the battle of ballots, it might well be democratic strategy to see that the question of ratification was deferred to be acted upon under democratic auspices.

But aside from the Monroe Doctrine angle, there are other aspects of the peace treaty ratification matter filled with possible trouble for the Washington administration. There is the question of Russian adherence, for instance. Senator Borah and both the Hoover and Coolidge administrations have not seen eye to eye on the Russian recognition discussion and it is already clear that Russia's adherence to the peace treaty, when formally received from France for deposit in Washington, will raise that issue again. The state department holds Russia's adherence is a mere routine job of depositing, so far as it is concerned. Some foreign relations committee senators are convinced that an adherence of non-signatory powers is provided for in the treaty, adherences become a part of the treaty and subject to the senate's ratification jurisdiction. They profess to see a definite step toward Russian recognition involved.

By way of answer to this, it is pointed out that Russia has already addressed to treaties to which the United States is a party and no question of recognition of Russia has been raised thereby.

NATIONAL HOTEL IS DEMOLISHED

Ghosts of Past Stalk Through Corridors of Old House.

Washington, D.C. (CP)—With ghosts of the past stalking through the halls in which they once held sway, relics of the former glory, the old National Hotel, once famed as the stopping place of presidents, is being torn down.

The National clung to its prestige 75 years, but must now make way for progress, it is on the fringe of the business district which is the city's outstretch from the national Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial. A new hotel will be built on its site.

Teeming life of modern Washington, with its throngs of tourists, tribute peddlers, its thousands of lobbying citizens and foreigners, jostles rudely against the old building. Some are still clinging to the oddidal pillars, now painted green, but the hotel is like a deserted, gaunt aristocrat.

The round scholged by Henry Clay in many years and another by Daniel Webster is now rented nightly to indifferent travellers. Only occasionally do the ghosts of the past exhibit their interest in progressive Belgy with some [illegible] but Belgy spirit of the past is gone.

HOLDAY LEADS FIELD IN YORK MARATHON

Toronto, Oct. 6—(CP)—Holday, the Ottawa Harrier, was the first distance running champion, conquering the Centenary Road Race Marathon, which was decided last popular victory in the first annual York Township 10-mile road race, run off on the Yonge Street Toronto Northern Athletic Club, Saturday afternoon, beating Billy Hamilton, of Hall, another of the Canadian Olympic Marathon team, who was favored by many to win, by about a quarter of a mile. A few hundred yards behind Reynolds came Dick Wilson, of the Ottawa Harriers, and Reeves and Percy Wyer, both of the Monarch Club, finishing bunched in the next fourth and fifth positions respectively. Walter Hornby, of Hamilton, once again distanced the field in the 5-mile miler by winning the event quite handily from Old old rivals, Chuck Hazell, of Oakwood, and Jack Mitchell and Will McClusky, of Monarchs, who finished in that order behind him. These runners were the favorites from the start and ran to form. Stan Poyner, of Brighton, and Jim Bowen, of Monarchs (Guelph), ran well to place up with the leaders in the field of forty-two starters.

CANADA'S POLO TEAM DEFEATED

Scored 7 To 1 Victory Over Calgary Team At Narragansett

N.Y., N.Y., Oct. 5—A fast, accurate United States team scored a 7-1 victory over the Calgary team from the Province of Alberta, Canada, in the women's international polo match on the Westchester Biltmore Field here this afternoon. Today's victory settled the series in favor of the American women who had previously defeated the Canadians in the first match on September 26. The United States team scored a total of 12 goals to 3 for the visitors.

Today the United States quartet in the lead, a terrific attack in the last two periods which put the game out of the interclub column. Miss Polly Lawler was especially active for the United States, scoring four goals. She and Miss Peggy Gilbert were the only members of the team to score.

The United States dominated the play, forcing the Canadians on the defensive, from the start. Miss Polly Lawler, with her well-directed shots, scored first, and put the United States ahead. During a melee near the end of the first period, Miss Gilbert drove a long shot between the opposing goal posts.

There was an evident straightening on the defense of the Canadian team in the second period, in which the visitors held the United States to one goal. The visitors' lone score in the period resulted in a score by Miss Violet May Nor. 2 for the visitors.

During the fourth period after the second period ended, the United States on Peggy Gilbert's brilliant work which broke up the opposition of the Canadians. Two minutes after play started in the third period Miss Gilbert Leary got free 65 score a goal from a scrimmage near the goal mouth, bringing to put the United States ahead. Some excellent defensive work by Miss Rosalind Gilbert and Miss Lucy Lee in this period went for naught, and Miss Polly Lawler scored from a well-placed shot to increase the United States lead.

SCRIBES WANTED "CONNIE" TO WIN

Baseball writers from many cities say frankly they would have preferred to see the Athletics win the world's championship. Once and all admit they have no hatred for the Yankees, but they do like the Connie Mack style of playing to drive his young men home with a score card tucked under his arm.

"I'll never forget the scene at Comiskey park in Chicago," said a World City sidelitter, "when the Yankees had clinched the flag. It was really pathetic to see Miller Huggins' tragic mien as the score board flashed little clusters of Yankee runs.

"The Venerable Connie Mack wiped his furrowed brow. Eddie Collins walked up and down the coaching lines nervously and then sat down. At one end of the dugout, Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach, hero of baseball heroes, viewing for the last time the spectacle in which he played so vital a part, sat silently and alone. Over in the Ty Cobb, watching his chances of playing in a world series going forever.

"The wrangling score card of the lucky Yankees and the lack of Mack was strangely still. Most Yankee runs were passed, and received the applause with dignity. 'It's all over,' he said.

"Then, to top the climax, it was announced that Babe Ruth had collected his 53rd home run. It was the blow that broke the Athletics' backbone.

News Of Movies

REGENT

The audience at the Regent Theatre yesterday had to chuckle as soon as "That Certain Thing" was flashed upon the screen. Any picture that can juggle as the film unveiled and before many feet had been ground off their reels a continuous round of hearty laughter throughout the house.

"That Certain Thing" is a comedy of congested districts, mansions and lunch rooms with uses America's appetite for nations to provide for their enthusiasts. They are all there, Italian, Irish, Jewish, Negro, Swedish and German with their droll humor and spontaneous wit.

BELLE THEATRE

None other than Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld managing director of the celebrated Broadway motion picture playhouses, the Rivoli and Rialto is responsible for the music cue on "The Last Laugh," the music accompanying U.F.A. production which Universal is releasing and which is at the Belle theatre starting Sunday.

Dr. Riesenfeld, one of the best known showmen in the country, himself a musician and orchestra conductor of note, booked the production immediately after he saw the first showing in Universal's projection room. It got unanimous approval from the music, the critic stated.

The interest evinced by the public when "The Last Laugh" was shown at the Belle theatre had played a vital part in his famous New York City house, Dr. Riesenfeld declared last week at which time his house interest still continued, however, and it was then taken over by the Capitol theatre, another of the Riesenfeld chain.

Having in mind the smaller screen areas, Dr. Riesenfeld as cued "The Last Laugh" that it may be adapted for the smallest of houses.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Lovers of good screen comedies will do well to visit the Capitol theatre on the first half of this week, for William Haines is there in "The Smart Set," and it is a good 6 reeler and by the all-round picture as has been seen locally in a long time. "The Smart Set," in a nutshell, is the story of a man who could always laugh—and make others laugh with him—and who finally gathered a girl who could laugh along with him at the girl, Marjorie Day, and that old favorite, Jack Holt, this time in Captain of the pole team.

The picture as well as being a laughing success is a thrilling horse romance, gives many interesting views of polo games and their settings, and has a love story that is different. See the "Smart Set" and you'll forget your troubles for awhile.

On the same bill, but is outstanding with Haines and Holt, is a high-class vaudeville act full of the big features of the show.

CALL YANKEES IN FOUR GAMES

Odds Switched From 7 To 5 On Cards To 2 To 1 On Yanks

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—Events of the third World's Series game suggest that it may not be in the cards for the Cardinals to win a baseball series this year. The New York Yankees won the National Leaguers off to a flying start with two runs in the first inning, practically presenting the Bronx team with low counters, placing them ahead for the first time in the series, and then the Red Birds hand the Yanks Pitcher Paul Lapalo—two more runs.

The Cardinals got a big break and they also came before the game was ten minutes old. High wind Friday evening, credited with aiding Hits in the first inning—but decisions by the umpires—and with a little more agility on the part of the New York infielders, one or both might have been repulsed. Following Hits' error, a line drive into centerfield. Cedric Durst could have caught the ball by standing still or moving back a few paces. Instead, he decided that it would be a good thing to run in, and when he cleared the impulse the ball sailed over his head for a triple. Tom Zachary might have been justified in demand ing a pronunciation on these two runs.

There wasn't anything to be done about the Yankees' first run, for Lou Gehrig drove a ball to Grand Boulevard by way of the right bleachers, but the second circuit clout was not also better understanded. Taylor Douthit should have had an inside-the-park.

Jess Haines was guilty of two passes to the stick and gave two hits besides, approach, but he had no hand in some spotty fielding in which "Jim Jay" Wilson assisted with two errors and a double steal was inducted with profitable results to the Yankees.

With Haines "Gallant Defeat" the Cardinals Chick Hafey made a two-base hit in the seventh, leading to a run, but one more, or less recent nothing at this stage of the game.

A double after a bit batsman, accounted for the last Cardinal run and made only one for the Saint Louis had to assume sole responsibility.

The game was by now the fielding standard expected from championship aggregations. Early in the game it was seen that the defensive equipment of both teams needed blowout patches or other repair supplies.

OSHAWA COLLEGIATE LOSES TO PETERBORO

Peterboro, Oct. 9.—Taking advantage of two fumbles, the Peterboro Collegiate intermediate football team defeated Oshawa 8 to 0 in a Central Ontario Intermediate game here Saturday afternoon. The two teams were closely matched with the exception from the Motor City having the boro were hard tacklers, and took full advantage of the errors of the visitors to collect their five points.

SportOgramS

Huggins fans believe he will have up a new World Series record for failure learns to shoot at seven straight wins.

Baseball fans are losing interest in this series due no doubt to the fact that the Yanks have made everything the Cards have offered look easy. The Cards are certainly the big surprise disappointment of the baseball year.

We wonder what the alibis will be from those experts who picked the Cards to win in a walk. Ours is made up already.

Trenton Collegiate has dropped out of the Bay of Quinte League, in this group now contains Picton Collegiate, Albert College and Belleville Collegiate. The B.C.I. gridsters have lost both their starts, one to Albert College and one to Picton, but mean to make up for them when they play Albert College this Saturday afternoon at the old Fair Grounds.

The team has been practising faithfully since the last game, and they feel that they can take the measure of the lads from the seat of learning on the Trent Road.

Picton Collegiate pulled a big surprise when they defeated Belleville in Picton 22 to 0. In past years Picton has been the doormat for the rest of the schools, but apparently the worm has turned this year.

They always did have husky teams across the Bay, but up until this year they lacked the science of the game. From all accounts this deficiency has been made up in profitable results to the Yankees.

With Belleville Collegiate defeat the Canadian Chick Hafey made a two-base hit in the seventh, leading to a run, but one more, or less recent nothing at this stage of the game.

A double after a bit batsman, accounted for the last Cardinal run and made only one for the Saint Louis had to assume sole responsibility.

The game was by now the fielding standard expected from championship aggregations. Early in the game it was seen that the defensive equipment of both teams needed blowout patches or other repair supplies.

By "The Observer"

Which is to start in the near future. It is proposed to make it a four team league with four of the most prominent industrial firms in the city being represented.

This is a mighty good idea, for this winter we must have something to become enthused over. And if we are not to have any hockey next to Hockey, Basketball is the greatest winner sport.

YANKEES HAPPY, CARDS SILENT

Huggins Not Taking Any Chances In Today's Game However

St. Louis, Oct. 9.— The Hugmen are convinced that they have the jump on St. Louis all but knocked out of the Cardinals today, they believe, with Hafey's job.

Victorious in three straight games of the World's Series, the Yankees have made whoopee as they reached their dressing-room after Sherdel's triumph —all of them with the exception of Miller Huggins, their mite-manager, who is pessimistic in the extreme, as grouchy in victory as he is in defeat.

Cocky over their third successive victory, the Yankees were hilariously whooping it up when Huggins appeared in the doorway.

His immediately demanded order, and chased all visitors out of the room. When he said to the players remains secret with them, but it is a good guess that he was not at all well pleased with the enthusiasm of his players that the series would end tomorrow or with the Yankees victorious in four straight games. He has the jump on the Cardinals, but that doesn't mean slowing over with spirit and light.

"I'm satisfied with four straight victories," Huggins said, "but the game today speaks for itself."

When the players swarmed into the dressing-room, they immediately surrounded Tom Zachary, and slapped him on the back in praise of his triumph. Then the hard slapping and cheering "whoopees" were extended to Lou Gehrig for his achievement in connection with a brace of homers. Meanwhile "Babe" Ruth sat on a bench and sat, crapshed beatbeats.

Tony Lazzeri the Yanks' already dishaled second baseman, was nursing a damaged middle finger on right hand. The finger, puffed and bruised, was injured in the second inning when he attempted to stab a hard hit ball from Doubly's bat. But no injury of this kind is going to keep him out of tomorrow's game.

"I'll be disgusted if they looked like a pennant-winning team to me," Lazzeri said. "I don't understand how the Cardinals managed to win the National. They must have played better ball than they showed us. Didn't they look terrible today? We'll beat them tomorrow and then go home."

Anyone holding the opinion that the Cardinals are going to give up their championship ghost without a desperate struggle is herewith warned to take another guess.

The Cardinals, their jaws tightly set were fighting mad when they reached their dressing rooms. Instead, they pledged themselves to turn the tide tomorrow. There was no hilarity, no back slapping. Those willing to talk were making excuses for defeat. The place resembled a morgue with the mourners talking things over.

"They didn't beat us. We beat ourselves," said the thin-lipped McKenzie, manager of the Cards.

"They got the breaks of the game that's all. But if they can win three games in a row, we can do the same thing. I expect to start either Sherdel or Alexander tomorrow, I am not naming anybody, but some of our players have played better ball than they showed today."

BUFFALO GETS TITLE CROWD ENDS GAME

Wallaceburg, Ont., Oct. 9.—Fighting grimly to the last, Wallaceburg intermediate lacrosse team failed to wipe out the two goal lead of Buffalo in the deciding game for the O.A.L.A. championship played at the Stentboll Park on Saturday afternoon before one of the largest crowds to ever see a game at the local park, with less than two minutes to go in the last period, with the score three all, McLean, the sturdy Sure Pride man, was ordered to the penalty bench for an alleged infringement. The crowd swarmed on the field to intercede for their player, but Referee Courtney refused to alter his decision. All efforts by the body of Provincial Police proved futile in clearing the field of play, with the result that the game was called.

DIEGEL WINNER OF PRO. CROWN

Defeats Espinosa, The Medallist, In P.G.A. Final Match

Five Farms Course, Baltimore, Md. Oct. 7.—Leo Diegel is the new king of the nation's professional golfers, beating Al Espinosa, of Chicago, 8 up and 6 to play in the final round of the championship tournament Saturday. The wiry professional of the Pennmore Country Club, White Plains, N.Y., succeeded the throne made vacant when he defeated Walter Hagen in the quarter finals.

Diegel played golf that would not be denied. He shots were best-breaking that were out his opponent, even as they had done on the previous two days, when this great match player downed Hagen and Gene Sarazen in successive battles. Probably never did a man fight his way to a title in fashion more impressive or more worthy of a champion.

In addition to being the first national championship ever won by Diegel, it was the first to be decided over this new course, a long and tricky layout which won the hearts of the pros. The new champion said he had fallen in love with it, so he has yet to lose a match.

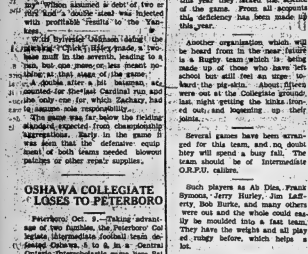

Maryland. Diegel already holds the Canadian open championship, won earlier in the season, but the biggest he had come to winning the P. G. A. title was in 1926, when he was runner-up to Hagen.

Famine And Civil War Threaten Lives Of 5 Million Chinese People

FAMINE STALKS IN THE WAKE OF CIVIL WAR IN WESTERN CHINA

CHAOS REIGNS

Report States Five Million May Die Failing Relief Operations

Shanghai, Oct. 10.—Following the Mohamedan uprising in Kansu Province, which is stated to have claimed more than 200,000 lives, civil warfare was continuing today in Western China Province, it was believed. In addition to the ravages of war, the area was said to be suffering from an intense famine. This was aggravated by fighting add drivers were, that half the population of the province, total ling five million people was liable to die during the coming winter unless drastic relief measures were adopted. Serious conflicts between the Kansu Mohammedans and the troops of General Feng Yu Hsiang who also has the overlordship of province, caused chaotic conditions. A letter from the China Inland Mission headquarters said acute famine started as far back as last spring when armed Mohammedan bands began raiding the villages, robbing and slaying the inhabitants who were unable to offer resistance. This caused General Feng to dispatch army troops from Hsian-fu, also armed to repel the Mohammedans but these forces were defeated and more soldiers sent, which also met with disfavor, which is believed to be continuing although there have been no late reports.

IRATE FARMER FIRED ON BOYS

Geo. Vanderwater, Marysville, Pays Fine In Deseronto Police Court

Magistrate Bedford of Deseronto yesterday fined George E. Vanderwater of Marysville, twenty dollars and costs in Police Court on a charge of wounding a lad by the name of John Fitzgerald, with a shot gun. It appears that four young lads, Edward Fitzgerald, Harold Fitzgerald and George Osborne, along with another youngster under sixteen years of age, had been engaged in what they call "good intentions of stealing watermelons, but the farmer had been in wait for just some such enterprise and had fired at the fleeing figures with a shot gun, loaded with bird shot.

Some of the shot struck young Fitzgerald on the forearm, wrist and hand, and Dr. Cronk of this city removed several, of the B.B.'s from the wounds at the Belleville Hospital. Vanderwater pleaded guilty, and the four youngsters who were charged with theft were remanded for one week. At the present time, young Fitzgerald has quite recovered and apparently is suffering no ill-effect from the gun-shot wounds.

RIVERS BELONG TO PROVINCES

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 10.—Waterpowers in the rivers remain vested in the Provincial Governments in the Canadian Constitution. This was the main submission of Ontario when the waterpowers case resumed before the Supreme Court today. W. N. Tilley, K.C., for Ontario, claimed that since rivers undoubtedly belonged to the Provinces before the passing of the British North America Act and since that Act expressly enactment in the act transferring the waterpowers to the Dominion. The Dominion might use Provincial property for the purposes of navigation over the work and for operating the canal, but subject to that, they have not the right to use any other Provincial property, he declaimed. The Dominion right should be limited to the Provincial rights necessary for navigation only.

(Enroute to New York with Yankees' Special)

Enjoying poor health to the extent never aggravated by any other Club the New York Yankees, speeding home today stood at the head of the baseball class and more. They were polished as the first team to win two world series in eight games, disposing of the St. Louis Cardinals of 1928 as they disposed of Pittsburgh last year in four straight games.

To make a sensational, performance extraordinary the American League champions went into the Autumn classic, carrying an tiremendous sympathy of friends on account of poor physical condition.

The supreme test again demonstrated there are baseball players and Babe Ruth. Hoyt, Gehrig, Meusel, Lazzeri and like the great showman he is, he brought the performance to a climax with a scintillating one hundred mile clip. Coming to the fourth game without a home run, but with a batting average of over .600, he crashed three balls out of the ball park. The Cardinals were pitted against him in the hope they could prevent home run hits ringing from the Yankee bats. Bluegid was started for four, old Alexander for three, and Jesse Haines for two.

Contrasted with Ruth's triumph in the last game was tragedy for Shocker who went out after 2-3 of the innings and thus again failed to win a world series game. Comedy was furnished by the Yankee fans both tenant and the individual clouting of the Babe Ruth Hoyt, their pitcher, bewildered himself with Chief Bender as the leading world series pitcher now having six victories.

ADDITIONS TO ALEMITE PLANT

Decided Increase In Business Demands Larger Floor Space

Mr. Walter Patterson, successful city contractor, announced to The Intelligencer this morning that work is in fashion to the main building of the Alemite plant is to be constructed, and that he had secured the contract for the building. As it is was learned by Alemite Company late last year by reason its increased business and now necessitated enlarged premises.

Mr. Patterson stated that the extension would comprise an area of about 60 feet by 60 feet. In addition to this there will be constructed a seat to with brick veneer 30 by 40 feet. Work he stated, would be commenced simultaneously and would, in all probability be finished this fall.

The Alemite Company, with Mr. W. H. Bowerman as General manager, has a building that is practically fire-proof in its steel and concrete construction and one of the finest factories in the city. Before it was purchased by the present owners, the plant of the company was located in the building.

Wanted To Go To War In China But Was Sent To Jail Instead

Receiving a complaint this morning from Corbyville to the effect that a man was standing in the middle of the road at that place flourishing a gun and threatening people, Provincial Police in the persons of Inspector Loughead and Sergeant Clarke hastened to the scene.

On their arrival, they found the man to be Edwin Lorne Mitchell, late of Moncton, New Brunswick, who had, as his only weapon, a large sized toy revolver with which he was intimidating the citizens of the village. When questioned regarding his actions, Mitchell was very talkative about his abilities as a detective, and there is little doubt but that he is weak-minded. He was charged with vagrancy, and will very likely be confined to some institution soon where he will be looked after.

HORACE.

PREPARE FOR PEACE

Recently a new agreement on naval limitation was reached by Great Britain and France and the intimation was forthcoming that another international reflection conference will be proposed in the near future. This seems to have revived in the United States the game of comparing the American and British navies, and one large middle western paper that had the Washington correspondent do this found that the United States navy, in actual fighting strength, was far below that of Britain. The exhaustive report prompted the following editorial comment in another United States newspaper: "This ought to be a correct summary. It would take a naval expert to say. But we wonder if there isn't something that we can do that is even more important than bringing our navy up to parity with England's. Suppose that we should get into war with England. Suppose that we were excellently prepared for it, so that after a long and costly struggle we should win. What then? Would we have improved our position? The point made was that Great Britain beat Germany in the last war—and lost billions of dollars' worth of foreign markets while she was doing it. It was just as reasonable to suppose that if Britain and the United States engaged in war, neutral nations would fall all over themselves taking foreign trade away from the combatants, it was pointed out. There is food for thought there. Britain, emerging victorious from a war with her greatest commercial rival, fell into an industrial slump from which she has not yet fully extricated herself. The important thing for Britain and the United States to do is not to prepare for war, but to make sure that war between the two countries does not come. With wise forethought all differences that may arise between the two nations can be settled peacefully and now is the time to start thinking about it. Keeping navies up to snuff is vital, of course, but even more vital is wise statesmanship that will avoid war altogether.

BRITISHERS WELCOME

Both the Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration, and the Hon. Peter Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, England, have found it necessary to flatly contradict and deny statements made by Bishop Lloyd of Saskatchewan, to the effect that they were opposed to the immigration of British people to Canada, and that there was a strong feeling in this country against British settlers. The people of Canada did not need these denials to re-assure them that these officials were sympathetic to British officials, for the average person in this country, without fear, has the impression that officially Canada is doing her utmost to induce settlers of the right type to come from Great Britain. When Bishop Lloyd absorbed the idea that there was opposition to British settlers is hard to understand, for no government officials could have been more sympathetic towards British immigration as were those of the federal and provincial governments of Canada while Lord Lovat was here recently conferring on immigration problems.

It is unfortunate, however, that statements like those of Bishop Lloyd should be made, and that it should be necessary to deny them, really do little harm in Canada, but they can do a great deal of harm in Great Britain, for they must be very discouraging to those who have been considering migration to this country as a means of improving their own status in life. Canada has a real welcome for Britishers, even although it may not be an effusive one, and the immigration officials are just as anxious as is Bishop Lloyd to bring in as many people from Great Britain as the country will assimilate.

WISE DECISION

Premier Ferguson was prompted by sound judgment and wisdom when he ordered the withdrawal of the permit which had been given to the Honorable Artillery Company of Regina, Sask., to use port wine in drinking toasts at their banquet in Toronto. This permission had been accorded by the Liquor Control Board after hearing the arguments presented by the visitors, but after a conference with the Premier of Ontario, it was withdrawn by the same body and the Honorable Artillery Company had to follow the example of all other banqueting societies in this province, and had to drink the health of King George and President Coolidge in either ginger ale or pure, sparkling water.

The decision of Premier Ferguson was a wise one, not that any serious harm would have been done had port wine been used for the purposes mentioned, but because of the situation which would have been created. There are thousands of organizations in Ontario which periodically hold banquets, at which the usual drink is the toast of "The King." Many of these would be glad to have the privilege of drinking that toast in something stronger than water or cold tea or coffee, and had the precedent of allowing the use of port wine been established, there is no telling where it would end. Any other organization would have had exactly the same right to secure a permit for the use of port wine as this visiting body from the United States, and it would have been unfair to grant to one body rights which have consistently been refused to others. It has been found that liquor or wine is not essential as a banquet any more and it is just as well, now that the question of using other wines has been well established, to retain it.

THE EILDONS

Three hills green hills
Set in a row,
Watching my footsteps
Wherever I go;
Often a-calling
Over the lea,
Hills of my loving,
Hills that love me.

Fair heather crowns them,
Purple and sweet;
Larks come a-nesting
Down at their feet;
Up from the valley,
And over the mead,
Young breezes carry
The song of his Tweed.

Dreams of Life's youth time
Sleep with the three;
Dreams that for ever
Come following me;
Joys of the fighting,
Hopes of the day,
Three hills and green hills,
Far far away.

50TH JUBILEE OF UNIVERSITY

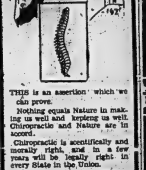

Will Be Marked By Bestowal of Four Honorary Degrees

The fiftieth jubilee of the founding of the University of Western Ontario, which is to be marked by a special convocation this month, will witness the bestowal of four honorary degrees It is fitting that all four degrees are to be given to men who have been intimately connected with the growth and the development of the institution and particularly the medical faculty. The men to be honored are: Dr. Hadley Williams, of London; Ray Palmer Baker, of the Remsalleer Polytechnic Institution, Troy, N.Y.; Dr. R. B. Fraser, Stratford, and Dr. Paul S. McKibben now of the University of Michigan, and former dean of the medical school.

Honorary degrees should be sparingly bestowed. If they are not to be cheapened, but in this case all four degrees have been worthily won. Dr. Hadley Williams has had a distinguish ed career as a surgeon and for many years has been head of the surgical department at Western. No man has taken a deeper interest in the development of the medical faculty. Ray Palmer Baker is one of the early graduates in arts and has won a name for himself as a teacher of English, as an authority on Canadian literature and as an author of note.

Dr. Fraser, of Stratford, is one of the pioneer members of the faculty of the medical staff. As long ago as 1886 he joined the staff as the first professor of pathology. He was one of the men who laid so well the foundation of the institutions.

Dr. McKibben was for years dean of the medical faculty, resigning only a few ago to engage in research at the University of Michigan. As an executive of outstanding ability and as a brilliant scientist he brought the Medical School to its present high standing.

U. S. ELECTIONS

New York, Oct. 5—Hoover receives more than 60 per cent. and Smith slightly less than 31 per cent of the total returns published today in The Literary Digest's nation-wide Presidential poll.

Of the 753,810 "straw" ballots tabulated Hoover has 514,297 while Smith polls 231061 and the three minor candidates split the remainder of 8,352 votes.

Hoover is leading in all of the twenty States that are included in the first third week's figures of the national "postcard" election with his energies in Arkansas, which shows a plurality for Smith. None of the other Southern States is included yet in the returns except Maryland, and this state shows Hoover ahead by a small lead.

An analysis of "how the same voters voted in 1924" evidences that of the 22,731 who signify that they voted the Republican ticket four years ago 76 per cent. are now voting for Hoover while nearly 21 per cent have switched their party allegiance and are voting for Smith.

Over 60 per cent. of the 140,850 voters in this "straw" poll who state that they supported the Democratic candidate in the last national election are now voting for Smith and almost 40 per cent. of the same group signify that they are leaving the Democratic fold this year and are voting for Hoover.

Smith gains over 50,000 votes numerically to date by this shifting of party ballots but the Literary Digest can see that this new faith has been heard from to make accurate deductions yet.

In Smith's native State of New York, Hoover has 83,472 votes while the Democratic nominee has only 33,245. These returns are from the up-State districts, it is stated, however

Touches that Add Style to Dresses
By MADAME MARTIN

It is amazing to see how easily outof-style dresses are transformed by a few hours little braid and the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing.

Your tinting or dyeing will always delight you, if you are careful to use only true fadeless Diamond Dyes. Tinting with them is easy as dyeing and dyeing takes but a little more time. New colors appear like magic right over the old colors. They give all the fashionable tints and shades, with never a hint of that redyed look which comes from inferior dyes. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

EARLY FLOWERS IN THE SPRING

These Come From Bulbs And Should Be Grown In Garden

The earliest spring flowers are bulbs and should be grown in numbers for this reason as well as for their beauty. Sturdy, well-drained soil suits them best, but they will grow on bleached soils. The ground should be well and deeply dug and rotted manure mixed with it. If this is not available, fibrivetted sheep manure or bone meal can be mixed in the soil or used as a top dressing. The bulbs should be planted by late September or October, from four to six inches deep for tazettas and tulips. A mulch or rotted manure should be put on the beds after the ground is frozen, particularly in districts where the snowfall is light and thaws frequent.

There are many kinds of spring flowering bulbs. A few of the best are mentioned here:

Is one of the earliest flowers to bloom. The flowers are blue with white streaks towards the throat. The bulbs should be planted two or three inches apart and three inches deep.

The narcissus family is one of the most welcome signs of spring and includes besides the yellow trumpet varieties commonly called daffodils, many kinds of flowers in various shades of yellow and white. Some of the best varieties are: Emperor, Mme. Plemp, Sir Watkin, Conspicus, Seagull, Pheasant Eye, Klondyke, Van Sion.

Scilla, known as squills, are hardy bulbs which grow well under trees and in grass-land as all the bees know. Of these S. Sibirica, the Siberian squill is the earliest to bloom and grows about six inches high and has bell-like flowers of rich blue. They spread rapidly by division of the bulbs and also by seeds which are freely produced.

S. Campanulata, the Spanish squill and S. nutans the Bluebell or Wild Hyacinth, of English woodlands bloom later.

Tulips are the most popular of spring flowering bulbs. There are a number of varieties which bloom at different seasons and have also a large color range. Early flowering varieties of tulips are: Keizerkroon, Couleur de Cardinal, Vermillion Brilliant, Cottage Maid, Goldfinch, Lady Boreel.

DEAN UPHOLDS THE USES OF LIQUOR

London, (by C. P.)— The Dean of Windsor, Dr. A. Baillie, who visited Canada when the Choir of St. George's Windsor, made a tour there, opened recently a refreshment room and bar for the sale of intoxicating drinks a the Royal Albert Institute, Windsor.

After he had made his opening speech the Dean called for a glass of sherry.

The Dean said that some people had stated that he was encouraging drinking. He ventured to say that this was nonsense. "If people wanted to drink they would round the corner and they had always 'gone around the corner'. Drink was not encouraged because it was possible for the young members of the institute to get anything else they wanted there.

He believed that instead of increasing the amount of drinking it would decrease it among a great many people, and would certainly be a natural way of people having refreshment together. It would help to get a better conception of temperance among the young and would certainly lead to a greater [illegible] and sobriety.

CANADA'S PART IN GREAT WAR

Glorious Efforts of Dominion's Soldiers In Last War of World.

In the course of an article, "Canada in the Great War," which appears in the October 1st issue of Maclean's Magazine, Major Gregory P. Drew, whose "Truth About the War," which appeared in the same magazine recently caused a mild sensation set forth some facts regarding Canada's participation in the great conflict which are calculated to stagger all but close students of the history of the times.

He tells us, for example that within two months of the declaration of war thirty-two thousand men—largest fleet of transports ever gathered together in the history of the world up to that time sailed from Canada carrying 33,000 Canadian soldiers—more than Wellington had under his command at the battle of Waterloo. That the first Canadian division to reach the front went into action six months and one week after the declaration of the war. The extent of this achievement may be gauged by the fact that the first American division to reach the front went into action more than one year after the United States declared war.

That the United States with a population of 100,000,000 people sent 2,000,000 overseas. Canada with only 7,000,000 people, sent 450,000. Canada sent approximately one-seventeenth of her population; the United States one-fiftieth. In addition to population, Canada's contribution in men was three times that of the United States. That at Amiens, in August 1918, Canadians advanced 14,000 yards the greatest advance made in one day throughout the entire course of the war.

That on August 4, 1914, Canada had 3,000 men under arms. On August 8, 1920, Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the fighting force of about 100,000 Canadians—almost exactly the total of the two armies under the command of Wellington and Napoleon at the battle of Waterloo.

Major Drew concludes his article, which is the first of two on the subject of Canada's share in the war, by an interesting comparison of the number of soldiers captured from the period entered by July 18 to the end of the war.

"There is no better evidence of fighting efficiency than in the number of prisoners captured. During the period of the Allied offensive from the eighteenth of July to the end of the war the prisoners captured by the Allies on the Western front were as follows:

By the British Armies	200,000
By the French Armies	135,726
By the American Armies	43,300
By the Belgian Armies	14,500

"In the first place it is seen that the British took considerably the largest number, and it must not be forgotten that the British troops in Italy captured another 30,000 and those in Turkey, 25,000 more. Sixty-two British divisions were engaged on the western front of which four were Canadian, three Scot, one Canadian division during the period covered by these figures captured 31,527 prisoners. Thus it will be seen that the Canadians who comprised one-fifteenth of the total British divisions, captured more than one-seventh of the British total in prisoners. To carry out the comparison further, in the period twenty-five American divisions captured 43,000 prisoners while four Canadian division captured 31,527. Or in other words, in proportion to the number of divisions engaged the Canadians captured approximately five times as many as the Americans.

"The Allied victory was not the work of one nation, but of many. Nor was it the work of days or months but of more than four years continuous fighting. Not only in the more trying years which had gone before but in the decisive climax of the Allies' efforts, Canada and the whole of the British Empire have reason to be proud of their part. Nothing indicates more clearly where the burden lay than the last months of the war than these comparisons of prisoners captured during the victorious offensive. In this Canada paid a heavy price in men, no heavier, it is true than the other parts of the British Empire, but nevertheless a very heavy loss which affected directly or indirectly nearly every Canadian home. The battle casualties during the war were 61,674 killed and died of wounds, and 149,732 wounded. A comparison with the American losses shows how great ours were in proportion to our population. The battle casualties of the United States were 50,280 killed and died of wounds, and 205,690 wounded. Thus from our population of 8,000,000 as compared with their population of 100,000,000 we had more than twice times as many killed and nine times as many wounded.

"The explanation of the response of the men in Canada and the Dominion to the call of duty can be summed up in a paragraph: Loyalty to British principles put nearly half of the male population of Canada of military age in uniform. Discipline made it possible to train these men with little or no previous experience to a state of military efficiency second to none. Endurance of the highest order saved the day at Ypres, carried weary men through the pitiless mud of Passchendaele to victory and produced that tenacity in attack which resulted in captures by the Canadian Corps out of proportion to their number. And to these Initiative born of life in a country of abundant opportunity and we have the whole story of Canada's great effort."

Asbestos Mines, Quebec.—"After the birth of my second child, I was always feeling tired, nervous and weak and had headaches, backaches and terrible pains every month. I suffered two years before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got four bottles at first and it did me a world of good. "I warn every woman I employ"

Says the woman Personnel Manager in a large office

Realization of this unconscious offense, distresses many women. Now such offense is unnecessary. This remarkable sanitary pad deodorizes completely.

In the world of business, in society, I-would-rather-be-dead wives are harassed at certain times. Sometimes they offend without knowing why. When they learn, miserable self-consciousness follows. Make-shift efforts to counteract the difficulty seldom succeed. Now a discovery made in Kotex Laboratories ends all these fears and worries. Science has discovered a way to counteract a serious offense.

Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease-of-mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely deodorizes. Stored in Kotex, the destructive liquid gives complete protection against embarrassment. Each pad is sealed in a moisture-proof pouch. Kotex is the only sanitary pad with this deodorizing process.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features!

1—Softer gauze ends clothing; prevents irritation and chafing. Kotex absorbs 5 times as much as ordinary cotton pads.

INDIAN FILM IS NEARLY COMPLETED

Toronto, Ont. (CP) — Canadians who have been operating around Lake Timagami for the last two months filming an Indian picture for the American Museum of Natural History, New York, have nearly completed their work.

In the taking of the picture the photographers have had the close cooperation of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, and of the fire rangers working under that department. Fifteen Indian families and a number of moose, deer and bear, also figured in the picture, and it is supposed to depict the North American redman in his unsophisticated state, and which will be kept for record purposes by the museum.

F. W. Arnott, who has a summer home near Lake Timiskaming, arranged with the Lands and Forests Department Intitable location for the "shooting" of the film.

Dr. J. Marty, after practicing in New Hamburg for 43 years has retired owing to illness.

On Sunday, Sept. 30, the Plum Hollow Baptist Church will celebrate its 100th anniversary.

At the Christening of the Duchess of York

A charming photograph of H. R. H. the Duchess of York taken upon her arrival at the Clyde with the Duke of York to christen the vessel of the Canadian Pacific Duchess liners. The Duke, speaking after the ceremony, said that the occasion was the first time a member of the Royal Family had sponsored a merchant vessel. The progress of Their Royal Highnesses through the yards was hoodlined in Britain as a "tour of cheers." The Duchess insisted on seeing everything connected with the vessel herself, crawling under the keel and making a very thorough inspection. At luncheon after the launching, Sir George McLaren Brown, European general manager of the Canadian Pacific, presented her with a souvenir copy of a booklet showing pictures of the launches of the four Duchess steamships, including on the front page a photograph of the launch by Her Royal Highness of the vessel which carries her name.

PEACHES CANNED IN NEW WAY SUCCESS

Hammonton, N.J. (CP)—Scientists and horticulturists, watched with baited breath while peaches, which had been canned raw with nitrogen injected in the can to replace oxygen, were opened under the auspices of the Hammonton Chamber of Commerce in an informal test of the new method of canning.

The can did not pop and the peaches resembled other canned peaches. Worms had crawled out of them and died, but two hungry soldiers volunteered to eat the fruit and reported it excellent.

TIMEPIECES TWO CENTURIES OLD

Toronto Watchmaker Collects Antique Clocks; All Keep Time

Toronto, Ont. (C.P.)—A Toronto resident is the possessor of a collection of ancient watches, several of which are said to be at least 200 years old, and all keeping excellent time. Antiques that were used as timepieces, perhaps by men of historical prominence, in bygone years have a special significance to James Ellis, a watchmaker by vocation.

In Mr. Ellis' possession is a watch which had its origin in Manchester England, and which, from the evidence of particular interest is a watch with a gold case and Chinese, floriate movement, with a rural scene engraved on the face of the dial, and bearing the name of Tolas—the first watchmaker known in Liverpool, England. This watch, which is still "going strong" is supposed to be 228 years of age. Another watch, which bears evidence of the years that have passed since it was first carried, and which, probably, is more than 200 years old, shows a faded, yellow-tinted dial.

A John Forest watch contained in the collection is believed to be 190 years of age. A timepiece prized by Mr. Ellis is a diamond-jewelled watch in a silver case which was one of the forty manufactured by Reed, a watchmaker of Dublin, Ireland, and whose firm went out of existence 180 years ago. It is reported as a good timekeeper today. Another timekeeper that can be relied upon is a Tobias watch which was made some 75 years ago. A John Purest watch, which has to its credit 70 years, is of special interest because of its heavy silver case, weighing nine ounces.

Other antiques and curios neighbor with the old timepieces collected by Ellis. A walking-stick of ebony with a knob of ivory, made in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1721, contains inside a pipe chanter, with a full set drone. Mr. Ellis blowing the pipes by the bellows and a tube, the original manufacture bags being missing is able to play several good old Scottish airs.

An interesting old violin—a Strad, copy—which originated in Germany, and is richly embellished with trimmings of black ebony and white maple, came into existence in 1723. A Jacob Stainer viol is in the possession of Mr. Ellis is about 107 years old.

One of the most cherished curios in the collection is a solid ex's belt of buckskin, which has been handed down far 200 years as an heirloom in the family of the collector. The all over buckle carried an engraving of the Scottish crown and the words, "In God We Trust", in Gaelic.

STAG DINNER IS CAUSE OF STIR

Tradition of Three Centuries Unbroken At Cutlers' Feast In London

London (CP)—Miss Violet Markham, Mayor of Chesterfield, Derbyshire, has made inroads of a kind in the social and semi-diplomatic world by her activities towards the inclusion of which has been extended to her in connection with the historic gathering known as the Cutlers' Feast held in Sheffield. The feast will be held on October 11 and Premier Baldwin will be the chief guest. Held always in the Autumn, when Parliament is usually in recess, the Cutlers' Feast has always been considered as a conclusive function from which some prominent member of the government can deliver himself to the country and the world at large. In this reason it ranks almost as important as the Lord Mayor's of London's Banquet on November 9.

This year is the 300th anniversary of the Feast. In the three centuries the Feast has been entirely a men's gathering although the Mistress Cutler has for years invited a large number of ladies to dine with her at the same time, and to hear the speeches later at the music proper from a gallery. "The Mayor of Chesterfield has, through the courtesy of successive Master Cutlers, always been included as a guest at the Cutlers' Feast," writes Miss Markham to the Mistress Cutler-elect.

"You will readily understand, therefore, that since my fellow citizens have thought fit this year to make me their Chief Magistrate I am anxious not only with due regard to the prestige of my town, accept any lesser position at the Cutlers' Feast than that normally accorded to the Mayor of Chesterfield. "I know that women have not up to the present been included at the Cutlers' Feast, and I understand that on the 300th anniversary of the Feast the ceremony it is felt that no departure can be made from the custom. I cannot, however, refrain from pointing out that many established customs have undergone changes in the course of 300 years, notably the position of women."

The Feast is the personal entertainment of the Master Cutler for the year, and of course it is quite open to him to select his guests on any basis he chooses. The Master Cutler-Elect is T. C. Sorby, who, like Miss Markham is honorably connected as any with the staple trade of Sheffield.

Miss Violet Markham, who for public purposes retains her maiden name though she is really Mrs. James Carruthers, became the first woman councillor of Chesterfield in 1919.

A member of the well-known Chesterfield family, Miss Markham is widely known for her public work. She was a member of the Executive Committee of the National Relief Fund in 1914 and Deputy Director of the Women's Section National Service Department, 1917. She was the first woman to receive the decoration of Companion of Honor in 1917.

Miss Markham founded the Mansfield Division as an independent Liberal in the 1918 election. She is a member of the Lord Chancellor's Advisory Committee fre Women Justices, 1919-20, and a member of the Industrial Court since 1920. Among her publications are "South Africa, Past and Present" and "A Woman's Watch on the Rhine."

CHEAPER BERTH FOR BRITISHERS

Third Class Sleeping Coaches Provided On Some English Trains

London (CP)—Third-class sleeping berths are to be provided this month on some of the expresses travelling from London to Scotland. The new carriages are constructed on the same pattern of the French couchettes. Each compartment has four berths, the two lower being the ordinary seats.

For a generation or more reformers have been agitating for third-class sleepers on English railways. The companies have hitherto held they could not afford to build such carriages and haul so much weight at third-class fare. Up to now the third-class long distance traveller has had to make himself as comfortable as he could by hiring a pillow from the company for 12 cents and thinking himself fortunate if he secured a corner seat.

No doubt the comparatively short character of any railway journey in these islands has militated against the railway companies being more enterprising and considerate in regard to their lower-priced traffic. There is no continuous railway journey which involves more than one night upon the train. On the other hand it is probable that the lack of good accommodation has made night travelling generally unpopular in this country. People who are able to enjoy only short vacations will waste a couple of days going and returning by day rather than in travelling by night.

England and Scotland, in fact, have never really awakened yet to making their railway service what might be called a natural part of everyday life. It is not so many years ago that most carriages, even for long-distance traffic, were lighted by oil lamps inserted in a hole in the carriage roof. Wagonloads of these lamps, ready lighted were wheeled upon the platform a short time before the train was due to start, and one porter would throw them to another porter on the roof, the pair of porters showing a remarkable degree of strength and dexterity in doing the job. The light so afforded did little more than show up the darkness around. Very often the lamps went out. Much of the suburban train traffic even today is carried out with gas and illuminant.

Fifty-five years ago sleeping carriages for first-class passengers were provided on the East Coast route to Scotland. This seems to be the first effort of the railway companies to provide travelers with a night's rest. As long ago as 1840 one of those men of ideas who are always disturbing railway directors argued that since the postal clerks in the mail vans were provided with hammocks something of the nature of a bed might be offered to passengers who were ready to pay for it. By 1873 this idea had come to put into practice. The first sleeping compartments were not very popular. They contained four berths, and the historian records that "some imaginative passengers could not sleep in them owing to their suggestiveness of coffins."

EQUINES FIND FABLED SPRING

Hamilton Fire-Horses Answer Old Call To Action As Fire Starts

Hamilton—Somewhere on the mountain above this city must lie the fabled spring for which Ponce de Leon once sought and it has evidently been discovered by two old fire horses.

Sam and Major are two elderly pensioners of the Hamilton fire department. Years ago before the department was motorized, they used to come sporting down the street, the fire engines straining behind them, and a proud sight they were, with their powerful, glistening muscles and their sleek glossy black hides. Sam and Major were used to the adulation of the multitude.

Then they were pensioned off to spend the remainder of their lives in pastoral fields, dreaming of the glory that was theirs. They were given to the mountain sanatorium and, as the years rolled by, they were to be seen daily sedately marching over the lawns, dragging behind them the grass roller.

It was a peaceful scene at the sanitorium yesterday afternoon. Many sick and their relatives and friends basked on the broad verandahs in the warm October sunshine. Far down the lawns, Sam and Major kept up their steady pacing.

Suddenly, from the city far below, there arose the clang of bells split the air. The ears of Sam and Major twitched. Again and again, heading straight for the side of the foot of the mountain, the sirens could be heard, screaming their warning.

The sound proved too much for the two old fire-horses. A flood of memories evidently swept both for, simultaneously, their ears went back, and their bodies straightened out, to the rythmic gallop with which they had once annihilated the dusty miles of the streets of Hamilton.

Behind them bounded not the heavy roller, but a shiny red wagon, and to them, the shouts of the patients and their friends were not shouts of approbation, but the cheers of an admiring crowd.

Then, however, came a fence, and the fence-busting days of Sam and Major had long since passed. They stopped their mad career and then the light of sanity returned to their eyes.

This was the story told by Fire Chief Wallace James to the fire and jail committee, as he sought permission to have Sam and Major removed to some safer habitat. The hospital authorities felt that as long as Sam and Major behaved with a dignity befitting their years, they could have a home, but their coltish antics caused too much excitement for the patients and repetitions were to be feared.

It was announced, however, that a home had been secured for the sturdy old pair on a farm far from the city, and they were taken there to spend the rest of their lives in peace, far from the screech of the siren and near naught else but the soothing tinkle of the cow-bell.

STOCK EXPERTS MET IN TORONTO

A second meeting of the Eastern Committee on the Efficient Handling of Live Stock was recently held in Toronto and was attended by a large number of the members.

Previous to the meeting observations had been made at Toronto and Montreal stockyards by members of the committee as to the actual methods of live stock on arrival at these two markets, and a report was presented showing the number of cars observed, their contents, method and efficiency of partitions used, if any, number of injured animals, damage done to cars through erection and removal of temporary partitions. This report likewise rendered the representations previously made on behalf of improved facilities for separating the various classes of stock in mixed cars, and the committee decided to ask the railways, through their representative on the committee, to fit up a few cars with moveable partitions to determine their efficiency and practicability under actual tests.

It was decided to increase the number of members on the committee by the addition of two more members and Mr. J. M. Wilson, of the E.P.C.A., Toronto, and Mr. W. H. Maher of the stockyards, Montreal, were elected to fill the positions.

EARTH'S REST CLOSE AT HAND

Autumn Has Arrived and Soon Frost Will Ravish Foliage

The harvest has been garnered, the corn we may expect the frosts that will soon dim autumn's flowers, leaving the growing season to a close. It is perhaps fitting that the season should end with the blaze of colors seen in the bush and on the mountain sides, the conspicuous provided by that sand frost for the cutting down of the garden bloom, and the forcing back to the rest the lifeless vine.

Lonsin, a French-Canadian poet, wrote a pastoral little poem entitled "Tred Earth is Sleeping." A few lines will be sufficient to indicate that the poet had a true understanding and appreciation:

"Tred earth is sleeping. Ah! was tongue can tell

The marvel infinite, the magic spell, That of unseen arts free life's golden ing stream.

Tred earth sleeps, but ceases not her toil;

This brings home the fact that the period of rest is close at hand, and at best be but a brief interval. The earth is wrapped in a mantle of bright gleaming snow.

Why tender plants die after they have ripened seeds and reproduce themselves the next spring through the germination of seeds, while the annuals—there is nothing to do in the fall but to pull up the dead stalks of plants and either burn them or put them on the compost heap. The more perennial plants, such as the phlox, daisy, coreflower, cosmos, and calendula still continue growing in the Autumn from replanted seed.

This method of reproduction is also practiced by the annuals, but the seeds if they have not been pulled and destroyed by the frost, will germinate at once. Weeds that have already gone to seed, should be handled carefully to avoid scattering the seeds all over the garden.

Some plants are not reproduced from seed, and many of these—pentstalks—once established will come up year after year. Division of roots is also much is advocated, and a much of the perennials, such as the iris, phlox and bleeding hearts, as well as herbaceous plants.

If you have any fruit trees it is well to give them a paper wrapper, or tie them up with burlap before the first sets in to prevent girdling by mice. A trampling of the snow around the trees will also help to prevent this. Mice make work close to the ground and they will be attracted by mulching, the time when the snow is trampled.

The rose is increasing in popularity each year, and rightly so. The past season was good for roses, and the bush fruits still growing. Hybrid Perpetual, Hybrid Tea, and Tea roses need winter protection. Questions differ as to how this should be done.

The Department of Agriculture recommends the use of simplest methods of protecting it to earth up the roses 6 or 8 inches or more in the autumn and to place some protection to the lower and stronger parts of the plant. This can be done by placing back of the upper parts of the stems will not affect the plant. Rustic blooms will be produced during the following season's stems then, from these thinner stems should be left and an allowed to be spiner killed.

A complete covering of earth is an efficient protection, but the shoots may be bent down to the earth and every part of the plant covered.

Straw, strawy manure, or leaves held in position by boards or boughs that will prevent the wind from blowing, prevents sudden freezing and thawing. The canes or climbing roses should be taken down, tied together, covered with straw and pieces of board put over the leaves in such a way to shed the water to drain off. Large Autumn leaves filled with leaves and held over the canes is a good protection. The garden operations are simple, but necessary and they should be attended to in time. The ground is none hard with frost.

PREMIER IS NOT PAID TOO MUCH

The appreciation and gratitude public of Ontario pay their prime minister, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, for the splendid manner Mr. Ferguson's services as a business administrator would be snapped up by a private corporation for twice or thrice this figure if he were willing to serve it, was shown in the letters, business or career, Mr. Ferguson is giving up the best years of his life. The less that should be more sensitive to the immensely important task of giving the province of Ontario a business-like administration out of its public business. For this, the people is paying him less than for instance, the Dominion government pays its auditor general.

The same could be said of Mr. Tweedsmuir of Quebec. Or of many other prominent ministers in the provincial or Dominion capitals.

Most business executives in recent years have had increases in their salaries as their jobs have grown. Perhaps it is time that some of our civil administrators of the public business received attention. A man with a passion for public service should not be imposed upon; advantage should not be taken of his zeal to serve him worthily for his fellow men.

VALUE OF ART IN INDUSTRIES

For Brumanian of Relief Craftsmanship; Reduction of Labor Duties

Toronto, Oct. 16.—The value of art in industry is one that is now generally important as the industrial life of a country, but only in recent years, at least, has it been recognized directly for the realization of its practical aspect, declared Mr. G. Howard Ferguson, K.C., minister of the industrial art, University of Toronto, in a recent address at the Provincial Fair.

During the latter part of the nineteenth century England was dependent on the importation of one thing after the new has monopolized to industrial centres, owing to the duties may take pattern from that perfection of the past in the various industrial arts.

"It is a peculiar thing," he stated, "every article of art, whether ornamental or manufactured, is standardized, reaches a point where no further development seems possible and then some new impetus is given to it. Such is the case with the Renaissance. Needless to say, what a wonderful thing it is, industry begins to languish, or it becomes a matter of fashion. Industries today, is there is no top. The Renaissance is a peculiar thing, it is a top to climb up. The decline in painting out there was an impetus to the industrial arts, which in turn enriched architecture and sculpture, and

Huggins' Team Breaks All Records By Taking Eight Straight

St. Louis Mo., October 10.—The Yankees said it with home runs yesterday and brought the 1928 world's series to a crashing record-busting close with their fourth straight triumph over the Cardinals.

Five crackling circuit clouts three of them by the one and only Babe Ruth, four of them in two successive innings and all of them decisive—stunning blows for the Redbirds, enabled the Yankees to win by the decisive count of 7 to 3 and record a new world's series achievement by making their second successive clean sweep over National League champions.

The central and dominating figure in the most smashing triumph of world's series history was the mighty Ruth. The Babe's first two home runs, twice in the game, his second started the downfall of Willie Sherdel, game little southpaw of the Cardinals and his third equalled the record for long range clouting that he set himself in the same park two years ago.

The drama of the whole game pivoted upon Ruth in the seventh inning in remarkable fashion at a time when the Yankee punch was conspicuous by its absence and when the Cardinals were holding tenaciously to a one-run lead. Behind the clever pitching of Sherdel, courageously seeking to break the Yankee jinx, the Cardinals had repulsed their lineup in this last desperate fight and they seemed in a fair way to succeed until the Bambino hammered into the picture in the seventh.

Ruth had driven one ball out of the park, a drive that cleared the roof of the rightfield stands in the fourth, and Sherdel was pitching cautiously. One strike was called, then a second on a floater that the Babe let go by. Ruth shifted his stance, looked up at the score board, and as he did so Sherdel whipped another ball that cut the heart of the plate. It was a smart play, but Umpire Pfirman, behind the plate, had raised his palms to indicate suspension of play for the moment as Ruth, though at the bat, was obviously not in fighting position.

Sherdel, threatened to high pitch, flashed in to protest, followed by Captain Frisch and the rest of the Cardinals, arguing that Ruth, by remaining in the box, had cast fanned. It was an angry debate, cheered on by Ruth fans' handicapping, but also to the accompaniment of wild boos and jeers from the crowd as Sherdel went back lingly to the box. The southpaw, mad and nervous, threw two balls and then tossed one the Babe caught and lifted over the entire rightfield barrier.

Sherdel, unable to settle down, was hit for another home run by Lou Gehrig, putting the Yankees into the lead. Then Sherdel walked objectedly from the box when Bob Meusel laced a single to left.

GOLF CHAMPION IS ANTIQUE DEALER

London (By C. P.)— Miss Cecil Leitch, the celebrated golf champion, has become a director of a famous firm of dealers in antiques in Bond Street. Miss Leitch admitedly makes no claim to the possession of a special knowledge of picture or old furniture.

Discussing this lady's latest enterprise the Yorkshire Post remarks:—"We have long become accustomed to tennis champions and film favorites wielding the pen that reduces by right to the journalist, and an heroines of causes celebres treading the boards of music hall or dancing athletically from the screen. If business decides to make a businesslike use of these methods, it is not, for the men in the street to complain; the firm personality may often help him to decide in which direction to pay his money, and to take his choice. He will only, if his pocket is likely to be involved, display perhaps some slight anxiety to discover exactly what position the new celebrity holds. Is he or she to be director, sales secretary, salesman, or merely a dignified equivalent of the office boy?"

QUEEN VICTORIA DEFEATED QUEEN ALEXANDRA BOYS

Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra School teams met on the Ann St. grounds for the final game for the Harvey Cup last night. The home goals were won the visitors kicked off. Morgan passed to Morris and Pine Street School pressed. Harry Kirsch fisted into a hard shot. Victorias forced a corner but Jeffery cleared. Play was very even first one side and then the other attacking. Two minutes from half time Carley scored for Queen Victoria. No second half no goals were scored. Queen Victoria showed better combination and kept the home team on the defense, but no further score was added. The result was 1-0 for Queen Victoria. Morgan, Morris, Higby and Carley starred for the winners while Mack, Urhart, Heidi Hoop, and Semmo play'd well for the losers. Mr. Robinson of the O.N.R. team was referee. The teams were as follows:

Added by the Yankees, after play ing in slip-shod fashion behind Hoyt for the first six innings, got their famous attack functioning once more. Old Pete Alexander tried to check the tide, but it was too late. The Yankees, with Earle Combs figuring in the attack as a pinch-hitter for the first time and driving in a run, ran up four runs altogether in the seventh, then capped the climax with two more home runs, one by Cedric Durst and the other by

HAUNTED ROOM IN VICARAGE?

Shin Bone Believed Human Found In Ch'en Century House

South Minms, Eng., (By C.P.)—The discovery of what appears to be a human bone under one of the bedrooms at the vicarage here has given color to the reputation which the bedroom has had, for many years, of being haunted.

The seventeenth century house, in new being rebuilt, and the man working on it found the upper part of what had all the appearance of being an old human shin-bone in the ground immediately under the room where the vicar's wife, according to the local tradition, was murdered in Cromwell's day.

The vicar, the Rev. Allen Hay, who interested in the discovery because he had been convinced for some years that the room was haunted. He handed the bone to Mr. Gower, a medical student of the village, who took it up to a London hospital. He said that the general impression is that the bone is human, but this is not yet definitely established.

At any rate, the vicar is quite sure that when he slept in the room he was conscious of a "presence" for which he was unable to account. "It was a queer experience" he said as he looked at the dismantled room. "Each time I slept there I was awakened punctually at three in the morning and felt that I was not alone. I didn't actually see a ghost, but I was conscious of some mysterious presence. Other people who have slept in the room have had the same experience."

The tradition is that a vicar of Cromwell's time had a wife with an unpleasant temper, who drove him into so desperate a state of mind that he attacked her one night in the bedroom with a poker and battered her head in. There is no suggestion as far as I know," said the vicar, "that the murder was committed at three o'clock. I am quite unable to account for my sleeplessness in the room."

Other people in the village declare that they have seen apparitions, though no one claims to have seen the ghost of the woman murdered at the vicarage.

Miss Long, who lives near the church said: "Once I saw the figure of a priest kneeling at the altar rails. He had a dark face with a sad expression. I saw him distinctly and then went up to the chancel later to see if he was still there, but he had disappeared. Afterwards I was told that the former vicar had died on the day I saw the figure. I am not a spiritualist and have no psychic powers."

There are villagers who claim to have seen the ghostly figure of an old grey-bearded man at the cross-roads in the centre of the village.

Whether the vicarage ghost will survive the drastic rebuilding remains to be seen. The haunted bedroom is now exposed to the air and nothing will be left of it when the work is completed.

PEDDLERS TO NEED EXPENSIVE LICENSE

Montreal, Que. (C.P.)— Special license fees amounting to $100 a year, which have been refused by the city since May last, may be available again shortly if the executive committee carries out a project for reinstating this permit.

The license at $100 are required by those who go from door to door selling merchandise, such as cloth, domestic utensils, etc. They were suspended by the executive in the spring, following complaints from a number of commercial associations the members of which alleged that the operations, particularly of peddlars who represented honest selling firms, so the customer knew, embarassing them in their business and they considered that no one should be allowed to go from door to door trade was not bearing taxation in proportion to that assumed by any one selling up a store and paying the various taxes in which regular merchants are liable.

It seems to be the case, after investigation that the city merchant in the last analysis, suffers little from [illegible] selling.

W. N. Tilley Contends No Public Right of Navigation

QUEBEC'S SIDE

Says Dominion Has No Right To Use Bed of Inland Waters

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 11.—Ontario closed its case before the Supreme Court of Canada today on the issue of the federal and provincial control over the waterpowers and navigation. In briefly summing up the contentions of Ontario Hon. W. N. Tilley K.C., passed the point that the questions raised before the court were "made acute to enable satisfactory answers to be given to the whole question of the division of legislative control over and the proprietory in waterpower.

Hon. Mr. Tilley contended there was no public right of navigation over the inland non-tidal river unless same had been acquired by immemorial usage or by an act of the provincial legislature. The principle on dominion had was to regulate navigation where navigation existed in fact. He also claimed that Dominion did not possess any right to use part of the bed of a provincial river or to divert the flow without the consent of province and without compensation.

Ontario's case was closed in case in support of Ontario through Eugene Lafleur, K.C. Variance with Dominion was noted, however, in the submission by Quebec that the public right of navigation existed over the rivers in Quebec.

MASONIC LODGE HAS FINE RECORD

One Hundredth Anniversary of Dedication of Temple

CHOICE PROGRAM

Temple Was Originally Part of Public School—Visit By D.D.G.M.

Prince Edward Lodge, A.F. and A.M., Picton, is today celebrating the One Hundredth Anniversary of the dedication of their Masonic Temple in Picton. This Temple is the oldest Masonic Temple in Canada today which has been used continuously for that purpose since its inception. The present lodge will be invested this evening which will tell of the history of the Temple, when it was built, who the prominent members were at that time, and other points of interest.

The ceremony will be in charge of W. Bro. Brother Bell, R.W. of Trenton, who is a Deputy Grand Master. The temple was built just one hundred years ago and was erected in conjunction with the Picton Public School, the Masons having the under story of the building for their meeting place. It is in a good state of repair today and stands in practically the same condition that it did just one hundred years ago.

The Prince Edward Lodge is one of the oldest Masonic Lodges in Ontario, having been instituted in Picton in 1811, one hundred and seventeen years ago. It had a membership of some twenty-one persons at that time, while today there are well over two hundred members. The Lodge has always maintained a high standard of Masonic efficiency, and is one of the most prosperous lodges in Ontario.

District Deputy Grand Master J. O. Hertly will also pay his official visit to the Prince Edward Lodge this afternoon, the meeting being scheduled to commence at 2.30 p.m. At six-thirty o'clock Grand Banquet will be held in the Parish Hall of the Anglican Church, at which His Worshipful Brother is Gardner and other prominent speakers in the Masonic craft will give addresses. Visitors from this city and from Picton will assist in the program, and many from this city will probably attend the meeting.

ISAAC BARNHART WAS ACQUITTED

Dr. Sargent, Physician, Says Accused Was Not Intoxicated

Isaac Barnhardt who resides near Shannonville was acquitted by Magistrate Mikel yesterday afternoon on a charge of being drunk at the wheel of an automobile. The evidence in this case was based some days ago that the Cadi did not deliver h's judgment until yesterday afternoon. Bryson C. Deenan appeared for the crown and Barnhart was represented by R. Ohard Armst ng of the firm of Payne, Payne and Armstr. ng. In his judgment Mr. Mikel based his finding on the fact that Barnhart could be up stood intoxicated person in charge of a car. Dr. Sargent asserted that "in his honest opinion he was not drunk." In d'charging Barnhart the Magistrate said:

"In the case of this sworn statement from an expert and disinterested witness as we have unquestionably had after the collision and before the police and crowds had gathered to excite and accuse or interfere with observation of him. it would not be safe to convict accused. Dr. Sargent made his state ments clearly himself without any suggestion or leading. The accused is apparently an Indian and a laborer, and Dr. Sargent does not appear to have any interest in accused, so'al ways to change a come-back as Saturday when they meet Albert College. The college players were victors in the last encounter, winning their game 7-5, but the Collegiate boys expect to turn the tables on Saturday

Dirigible's Crew Undaunted By Report of Heavy Atlantic Storms

HEAD FOR AZORES

Expect To Reach Lakehurst, N.J., Early Sunday Morning

Paris, Oct. 11—Graf Zeppelin left France and headed out over the Mediterranean sea this afternoon and presently will be signalled next over Barcelona, Dr. Eckener commander followed the river Rhone valley. His wisdom in picking the southern route to cross the Atlantic to the States was shown in the weather reports from Atlantic coast of France. Tempests were raging on the shores of Brittany and Vendee.

Lyon, France, Oct. 11.—The Graf Zeppelin, the German dirigible on route to New York, passed over Lyon 250 miles from its starting point at 12.58 p.m. Greenwich time today or five hours after the starting. It was her 32nd south.

Friedrich Shafen, Germany, Oct., 11.—Germany's huge new dirigible Graf Zeppelin, began its maiden voyage this morning when it completed flew westward today at an average speed of 62 miles an hour with 60 passengers and mail for America. Sixty persons were aboard, a crew of forty and twenty passengers among them Lady Grace Drummond Hay, of England. Dr. Hugo Eckener, builder and commander, hoped to bring the airship down at Lakehurst, N. J., some 3,500 miles away Sunday morning.

The airship took off from the hangar here this morning and headed toward the Atlantic where heavy gales storms were reported and because of this it was likely to follow the route by way of Azores.

Despite the feverish excitement which prevailed around the hangars in the last few days the dirigible got away with clock-like precision and with less fuss at the start than it takes to get a Transatlantic liner away from berth. The crew took their posts quietly and the passengers embarked at seven a.m. and the big engines of the ship started up and hummed slowly out of the hangar. Then minutes later the stalwart ship was let go and it rose to a height of 150 feet. The nose was pointed up, the speed and the rudder used as it circled the city. Finally it headed west ward and disappeared from view, on its way was hoped to be the first East to West flight across Atlantic. Dr. Eckener had before leaving Berlin expected in view of the storms to stick to the southern course while Captain Lehmann the navigator advised a direct course across the Atlantic.

Paris, Oct. 11.—Graf Zeppelin majestically over Southern France on her voyage from Germany to the United States, the Graf Zeppelin passed over German dirigible to cross the Atlantic from frontier since the armistice ten years ago, was heading for the Atlantic coast this afternoon. The giant air ship steered southward over the south of France and nowhere did there appear any signs of an'mosity over the "raid" but the weather conditions were favorable but better conditions prevailed as it was. The big zepp'n travelled pretty well on schedule.

CHANCE TO COME BACK

CHEQUE ARTIST PLYING TRADE

House-To-House Canvasser At Work In This District

Householders and Bank clerks are cautioned to watch for a man who is going from house to house taking orders for men's suits and for another who has passed several worthless cheques, at Grafton. These two men may be one and the same, but it is known that the cheques are signed by Trenton and Brighton yesterday.

The man who works the victims by the house-to-house canvas informs them that he is the representative of the Deacon Shirt Company, and will take an order from them, getting probably a third of the price of the suit as a deposit. He then leaves, and the clothes never appear. This man is tall and well built and drives an Essex car.

It is understood that the man passed cheques similar to those certifying stamp, so Bank tellers are advised to be doubly careful with all cheques which they accept.

DOMINION WANTS NEW SETTLERS

London Papers Support King's Refutation of Allegations

London, Oct. 11. (C.P. Cable).—The fact that Premier King's speech finished late last night at the Canada Club probably is largely responsible for the reports in the British morning cons'derably condensed today and also for the absence of general editorial comment. Most papers, however, report his refutation of the allegation that Canada does not require British immigrants. The times today discusses the migration problem generally rather than Canadian affairs and says no one on this side of the Atlantic has ever been misled by the disappointment as to slow progress as to cast doubts upon the sincerity of the governments of Dominion. "Every means should be taken to show them we fully share their own disappointment at the fact that the building of a great state is the progress not to be hurried or delayed."

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The only cure for grief is action.
LEWES.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN

The Y.M.C.A. membership campaign deserves to be a complete success, not only because of the enthusiasm and energy displayed by the canvassing teams, but because of the obvious benefits that are to be gained through membership in the association.

The Y.M.C.A. offers much to the boys and men of Belleville, an opportunity for a three-sided development that should be welcome to many who have not yet allied themselves with the institution.

The facilities of the Y.M.C.A. should be used to a greater degree by men and boys in the city.

They afford a chance for wholesome recreation, physical training, social contacts, education and other advantages that are much more than half value for the cost of the annual membership fee.

Business men could do much worse than take advantage of the special gymnasium classes arranged for the purpose of keeping them fit physically for the everyday grind.

And fathers should welcome the chance to have their boys benefit through the many advantages offered by the Y.M.C.A.

RESIDENT DECISION

The decision of the Supreme Court of the United States that border residents of Canada do not require a visa in order to go to work in the United States while continuing their residence in Canada, is creditable to the judgment and to the understanding attributes of the great body that corresponds to our own judicial committees of the Privy Council. The situation is one such as frequently arises through the mischievous tendencies of bureaucrats to increase their authority and consequently the duties on which they rely for their existence. After a long contrary of pains and goodwill between the two nations, it would seem to them to cultivate even closer and more cordial relations, rather than to endeavor to block communication between them. The Supreme Court has taken not only the legal course, but that which embodies the larger humanitarian spirit, and we trust the administration and the people of the United States will bridle the shorting warhorses of the bureaus and refuse the legislation which they have declared they will seek to enforce the decision which the Supreme Court refuses to sanction.

WANT THE TRUTH

An interesting conference of six thousand representatives of United States publications assembled in New York a few days ago, for the one purpose of preventing the exploitation by certain or dishonest means of their readers. The purpose of this meeting was to seek standard rules in completion of a work started some time ago, voluntarily and independently by the publishers, to eliminate from the field of publicity all advertisements of a false and misleading nature.

This action, taken of their own volition by the publishers, appears the strenuous efforts that the making, not only in the United States, but in Canada as well, to protect the interests of those who read their newspapers and magazines. Conservation of the advertising columns by a newspaper is nothing new, for it is practised by every self-respecting newspaper in this country. No publisher will accept advertising which he has reason to suspect is false, misleading or undesirable, because he knows that it will inevitably react against the good name of his publication. It is an old game against the law, of course, for any person to insert a false advertisement in any publication, and in a case of that kind in Ottawa a few months ago, a conviction was registered and the advertiser punished. Yet there are those who may try to have advertisements placed before the public which will be just within the law and yet, in themselves, be misleading and undesirable. The newspaper-reading public, however, can have the assurance that it is only very rarely, and then as an oversight, that advertisements of that type are allowed to appear in print by reputable publishers. The aim of the publisher is to be just as careful, or even more so, of what appears in his advertising columns as he is regarding what appears in the news columns. In that way, the public is protected from fraudulent schemes and catch-penny ventures of unprincipled men, and there are many of them, who would, if they could, use the newspapers to further their nefarious ends.

HEARST AGAIN

Mr. William Randolph Hearst again occupies the spotlight, through the detention in Paris of the correspondent of the New York American for examination by the prefecture. A copy of the secret naval agreement between France and Great Britain, publication of the terms of which has been prohibited by the governments of both countries, somehow or other got into possession of Mr. Hearst, who ordered the correspondent to cable it to the United States. What the French authorities would like to know is how he did it. Secret naval document? They evidently suspect a traitor, and are anxious to bring the culprit to justice. If this document was sold to the American publication, who sold it and how did he come by it? These are important questions for the French government to get answered, it will be readily recognized. As for the exploit of Mr. Hearst, it is probably regarded as an enterprising stroke of journalism it is not the first time that important secret documents have been openly printed in the press. The great journals of London, England, have many such "scoops" to their account. What was disclosed at the examination is not revealed, but it is said the correspondence in question has been ordered to leave France.

What makes the episode remarkable is the attitude of Mr. Hearst. Not content with the wide publicity which his newspapers have received, he must take the opportunity of adding insult to injury. The authorities are making a "ridiculous fuss," he says, and suggests "there must be something in the agreement which they are ashamed of and do not want the people of the United States to know." He then goes on to accuse the French of imperialistic intention of shaping its policy "in opposition to the welfare and prosperity" of the United States. His observations wind up with a query: "I think it might be wise for France to realize that if her machinations and her secret diplomacy should involve the world in another Great War as they are likely to do, she could not count on the assistance of the United States to rescue her from disaster." A more gratuitous or irresponsible utterance could scarcely be imagined. No one but Mr. Hearst would be capable of such a breach of decorum as this. The autocratic manner in which he speaks for the future policies of the United States government is typical of the man.

WITHIN THE SHRINE

The gloom is soft and sweet the air
In this vast room.
As though the ceaseless breath of prayer
Must spring from bloom.
From some white bloom transcending those
Of all man's flowers,
More than violet or rose
In earthly bowers.
And yonder glows within the shrine
A golden spark
That speaks of Love whose glories shine
Across the dark.
How meaningless the real would be,
A futile dream
Of incense, chanting, melody,
Without that gleam!
In life's great room we find it so,
Our Hope and mine
Must still keep Love's white spark
Within the shrine.

S SUMMER BACK

From the look one could well imagine that summer was back again. The mercury rose to sixty eight degrees yesterday, and fifty eight on yesterday. STRONG TEAM AT QUEEN'S Reports from Kingston state that Queen's will have a fine hockey team this year with several new players on deck. The Tricolor have most of last years players with the following additions: "Frenchy" Day, Charlie Prentice, Atchison of Guelph, and "Spud Murphy of Iroquois Falls. Now that the basketball season is over, talk has naturally drifted to hockey but with poor prospects for a team here this winter, this has been most regretting Belleville's chagrin. The Maroons fan the possibility of lack of accommodations with the announcement last spring that the Tuurth Street rink would not again be opened.

JENNIE T. WILSON

The services were conducted by the Rev. J. Lyons assisted by Rev. Smith. Interment was made in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery at Roslin. The large number of sorrowing friends in attendance and the many beautiful floral tributes of sympathy testified to the high esteem in which deceased was held. The bearers were Messrs. W. H. White, J. Johnson, W. Gilleple, C. Reid, W. Weir and D. Leslie.

WEDDINGS

TAYLOR—TAYLOR

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Miss Hazel A. Taylor, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, of Belleville, and Mr. Daniel Crane Taylor, of Chicago, were married on Monday in Sherbourne Street United Church, Rev. Dr. Roberts officiating. The bride wore a pleated gown of white satin with Austrian lace veil, and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. The ushers were Mr. Brook, Mr. Daniel McManus and Mr. George Leiachman, Mr. G. D. Atkinson played the wedding music and Mrs. Vivian Parry, of Whitby, sang. After a dinner at the King Edward Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for Montreal to sail for France and Switzerland, where they will spend their honeymoon.

REDDICK—FEE

Lindsay, Oct. 11.—The residence of Mr. W. J. Fee, 35 Albert Street South, was the scene of a quiet, but very pretty October wedding Tuesday, the 9th, when his charming young daughter, Miss Madeline Dorothy, became the bride of Mr. Charles Reginald Reddick, of Kingston, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reddick, of Belleville. The pleasing ceremony was performed by Canon H. Marsh of St. Paul's Church, in the presence of a number of invited guests. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Fee, a sister of the bride, and the bride was given in marriage by Edward Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for Montreal to sail for France and Switzerland, where they will spend their honeymoon.

REDDICK—FEE

Lindsay, Oct. 11.—The residence of Mr. W. J. Fee, 35 Albert Street South, was the scene of a quiet, but very pretty October wedding Tuesday, the 9th, when his charming young daughter, Miss Madeline Dorothy, became the bride of Mr. Charles Reginald Reddick, of Kingston, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reddick, of Belleville. The pleasing ceremony was performed by Canon H. Marsh of St. Paul's Church, in the presence of a number of invited guests. The wedding march was played by Miss Ruth Fee, a sister of the bride, and the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bridal costume was a beautiful, dainty powdered blue georgette and in place of the veil was a rich rhinestone band, and a rhinestone necklace to match. The bride's bouquet was of Ophelia roses, caught with streamers of satin ribbon and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Kenneth Richmond of Carrington, a sister of the bride, who wore a becoming dress of peach georgette and carried a large cluster of yellow mums. Mr. Richmond acted as groomsman. Little Miss Lorraine Fee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Fee, of Lindsay, made a sweet and dainty flower girl. She was dressed in pink tafetta, carried a small basket of flowers and wore the groom's gift of a small gold ring. The wedding decorations consisted of tall palms and ferns, gladioli, asters and other out flowers. During the signing of the register an appropriate vocal selection was offered by Mr. Ford W. Moynes.

Catering for the occasion was in the hands of Mr. Fred Coatsworth, of Coatsworth Inn, and following the buffet lunch the young couple left on a motor trip to Belleville and other points. The bride's going away costume was a beautiful beige coat with brown opposum fur, a beige crepe dress with brown velvet hat, shoes and bag to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Reddick will reside in Kingston where the groom has a good position with the Ontario Natural System of Baking. For a time a valuable member of the Bell Telephone Staff in Lindsay,

WANT 100 TICKETS ON BABE RUTH SIDE

That Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, outstanding stars of the world's series, will be greeted by one of the largest crowds ever attending a ball game in Montreal seems already assured, judging from the early advance sale of grandstand tickets for the appearance of these two celebrities of the diamond in the Stadium, next Sunday afternoon.

Ruth and Gehrig—did their full share to make history, as well as to enhance their baseball reputations during the recent world's series and start ing out with Sunday's appearance in Montreal they will enter upon an exhibition tour that will carry them to the Pacific Coast. They intend remaining in New York until Saturday night when they will come direct to Montreal.

Yesterday, at the offices of the Stadium, there was one order for 100 grandstand tickets on the "Babe Ruth side" received from Three Rivers which is sending a big delegation to the game. The fact that the usual prices are being charged, in spite of the fact that two players are receiving a $3,500 guarantee, seems to have made quite a hit with the fans.

PARISIAN CARS NOW BEAUTIFUL

Interior Decoration And Exterior — Many New Models Shown

Paris—To the appointments of auto mobile France has begun to apply seriously much the same care, taste and good workmanship that have made Paris the foremost dressmaking city of the world. There are few possibilities for further development by the engineer, and in consequence all possible ingenuity is being directed to the improvement of fittings.

This is the dominant impression given by a first visit to the automobile show, which opened here this morning. There has never before been exhibited such a collection of elegant vehicles. Uniformity has gone forever If any one is ambitious to have a distinguished looking car he can no longer afford to get an ordinary model and have it tinkered up. Make and power seem likely to take second place. Reliability is taken for granted, and elegance now seems to come first in importance.

As a start in the development of appearance, every car must have a top of entirely different color from the body. It must have its head dress In one case that head dress was of leopard skin. In another it was skyblue tapestry, mounted on a mauve body Gray on a body of deep orange attracted attention.

It seemed as if all the artists of Paris had been given free rein to invent color combinations, with the result that one seemed to be looking at a costume parade in a high-class music hall rather than at a collection of automobiles. And, as always in France, there was nothing garish or vulgar in this use of contrasting colors. These artists have set a standard which may be copied elsewhere, but it will be difficult to improve on.

With the improvement in appearance and decoration, cars have been given a new line. Anything with a running board now looks old-fashioned beside those into which one steps directly from the sidewalk. This low line serves a double purpose. It loses the centre of gravity so that it works for greater security on the road and it enables one to step in without taking bumping one's head. It gives to an appearance of speed and comfort which a car with a running board never can have. . .

Apparently it is on the elegance of her cars that the French are counting to oppose any foreign invasion, and to spread their own sales abroad. And they have certainly stolen a march on all other countries this time. For their home market, however, they are producing a cheap, small car with power and reliability enough to go any where in France, and a new six-cylinder Citroen to-day attracted the largest crowd of any single make.

LARGE PART OF EXPORT PRICES

Go To Cheese Patrons—Exported At Very Low Cost

Canadian cheese, according to Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick, is marketed and exported at a very low cost, compared with that of most other countries, and it is doubtful whether in any other exporting country the producer gets a larger share of the export price than here in Canada.

Cheese is sold in various way in this country, but the basis of the system is the cheese board.

Weekly markets or boards are held at central points in the cheesemaking districts where representatives of exporters meet the salesmen from the factories. The offerings of the different factories are recorded on a blackboard in plain view of all present. With the opening of the sale the auctioneer calls for bids, which are made on the basis of No. 1 quality, with a fixed differential for other grades. The buyer making the highest bid is allowed to make selections from the cheese offered. The salesmen have the option of accepting or refusing any or all bids.

Basis of Sale

The cheese actually sold at these boards is only a percentage of the total output, but the prices paid are recognized as the basis of sale for cheese disposed of in other ways. Many factories ship their cheese regularly every week to dealers in Montreal under an agreement which calls for payment at the ruling price for the week. Others ship their cheese weekly to one of the Montreal warehouses, where on certain days they meet the buyers and dispose of the cheese by private sale.

JOS. WILSON,

Considerable quantities of Ontario and Quebec cheese are sold on a cooperative method. Co-operative organizations assemble the cheese in warehouses, which they control, making a fixed charge to cover the cost of handling.

CANARIES

The bird cage should be cleaned daily and fresh sand, water and seed put in the cage. Be sure the cage is the right size for your bird. A cage which is too small will irritate the tail-feathers and destroy the health of the bird. Protect your canaries from all draughts. Give your canary plenty of sunlight without sunstroke. A canary should be bathed at least three times a week. If your canary is ailing do not meddle. Take him to an authorized pet dealer. Do you keep your canary in a wooden cage. Use wire or pyralin, for vermin get in the wooden bars. Do not worry about a canary not singing at first. They have to become accustomed to their surroundings before they will sing. Never teaze or frighten a canary as they are very nervous and can easily be frightened to death. Cover your canary's cage every night. It will insure protection from any sudden change in temperature.

LADY KENNEDY IS PLEASED WITH TINTS

Canada's autumn display of tinted leaves is an irresistible attraction to people of the Old Country, declared Lady Charles Kennedy, wife of Lord Charles Kennedy, well-known British yachtsman who has won trophies in America. Lady Charles Kennedy arrived in Montreal yesterday, aboard the Cunard liner Ausonia to spend a few days in Montreal before proceeding to visit friends in Ontario, after which she will return to her home in Devonshire in time for Christmas.

She expressed great delight upon revisiting Canada, and although expressing no opinion of Canada's social, residential and agricultural development, spoke delightedly of the advantages in Canada from the scenic point of view. She said that of all countries Canada offers something unique and almost indefinable in the way of beauty.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

Rugby players at the Collegiate can hardly wait till this Saturday when they are going to get revenge from the Albert team. The Bay of Quinte Interscholastic O.R.F.U. Rugby League has been divided into two groups with Picton, Napanee and Deseronto to form one group and Albert College and the Collegiate the other. We play four league games with Albert and the winner of these games plays the winner of the other group. Albert won the first game by one point but the game on Saturday will in all probability be won by the Collegiate.

Indianapolis 500 mile race. Decoration Day, May 30, 1928 for the 9th consecutive time. Firestone gum-dipped, tires won the famous Indianapolis Sweepstakes. George Delino, local distributor.

This Saturday will certainly see a real rugby game. The Collegiate now have R. LaMarre, L. Blaker, Cy Williams, T. Byrnes and other players who can be counted on to be there when they are needed. If this team does not win the game on Saturday, Coach Shiels should line them up and severely chastize them. Our team is heavier than the Albert team. Our players have had more experience and no alibis will be accepted by Coach Shiels for a loss on Saturday.

Quite a bit of trouble has been caused by students spilling ink on the new floors of our collegiate. A rule is now in force that anyone spilling ink must clean it up.

The form doors are locked at noon hour and after four now. If Mr. Mac Laurin were mayor of Chicago for a year it would rank with Hamilton in cleanliness and lack of crime.

"Honest, Chief, I ain't no crook. We boys was just playin' let's go in and out the winder an' I was 'it'."

The Encalators which were put obit by the Literary Society twice a month last years have not been put out yet this fall. The paper is missed very much by the students.

If you require an overcoat, call at Arthur McGirr's, 208 Front Street. We are clearing a line of ready to wear coats. Prices reduced 40 and 50 per cent.

Did you see the Rogers' Batteryless Radios at Hibberds New Radio and Electric Shop, 285 Coleman Street. The table model is only $165.00.

Nicol Thompson Jr., and Nicol Thompson, Sr., played golf at the Country Club yesterday and the students who are interested in golf are disappointed that the exhibition was not held on a Saturday.

The first of the form parties is to be held this week. One of the fourth forms is having a weiner roast at Jone's Creek.

Mr. Weller is certainly to be complimented on the very fine vaudeville that played on Monday and Tuesday nights of this week. It is the best vaudeville act ever seen in this part of the country. Rose Marie is the screen feature tonight.

TWEED TUXIS BOYS ENTERTAINED AT "Y"

Over thirty Tweed boys belonging to two Tuxis Boys groups lead by Lawren ton Newton and Mr. Winston Gordon paid a visit to the Y last night. The boys were given an hour on the Gym floor for group games supervised by the physical director, following which they all took advantage of the showers and swimming pool.

Both Mr. Sherit, General Secretary, who welcomed the boys to the association and physical director Morden were able to renew acquaintances with many of the same boys whom they were associated with in camp during the past summer. Last night's group is only one of the many out of town groups which the Association is able to render a service to from time to time.

HORSE BREEDING POPULAR AGAIN

Interest Aroused In It Again After Some Years Quiet

Gradually horse breeding seems to be coming back in the province, but during the readjustment which took place between 1915 and 1924 there has been a big change in the standing of the various breeds. The 1928 report of the Stallion Enrolment Board, which has just been released, gives the total number of stallions in Ontario this year as 1,282 compared with 1,260 year ago, and 1,217 in 1924, which was the year of the greatest decline. That gain, of course, has not amounted to a very great deal, but for three years to be definitely upward.

PEAK IN 1911.

Horse breeding, according to the figures in the report seemed to reach a peak in 1914, when 2,201 stallions were recorded in the Province. From this year until 1924 the number steadily declined, dropping to almost a third of the high figure recorded. Then as a result of the high price and scarcity of good horses, interest returned and the number of stallions was increased.

PERCHERONS TO DISPLACE CLYDES

This increase, however, has not been uniform with all breeds. In 1914 about half the total stallions were Clydesdales, and this proportion actually increased with well over half the total stallion population of this breed in 1920. Percherons were a poor second, with Standard Breds close behind. But, despite the increase in proportion, the number of Clydes steadily declined since 1915, although not as fast as the Shires or Hackneys. Percherons and Belgians, on the other hand have steadily increased, and if the present trend continues three or four years from the Percheron will actually displace the Clyde, as the leading breed in Ontario. This breed has been gaining at the rate of 10 to 20 animals each year, while the Clyde has been declining at an even more rapid rate. Three years ago the figures were: Clydesdale, 617; Percheron, 379; Belgian, 43. Last year they were 585, 383 and 40, while those just issued for the present season give the Clyde a lead of only 191 over the Percheron, compared with over a thousand back in 1915. Leading breeds for the recent year are as follows: Clydesdale, 561; Percheron, 410; Belgian 62; Standard Bred, 161, and Hackney, 33.

BELLE THEATRE

Southern California hills and canyons, by the vicinity of Hollywood, were used to advantage in the filming of the new Wallace Beery-Raymond Hackett comic comedy, "The Big Killing," and became, unwittingly, a backstage section of mountain country, where with "moonshine" distilling primitive log- cabins and pretty romance.

In selecting the outdoor settings, care was taken to choose scenery similar to that of the mountain locales required but the natural beauty of the locality was a factor in choosing it and beautiful vistas of the California hill country are recorded in the pictures.

"The Big Killing," which will be the attraction at the Belle Theatre today is the second of the Beery-Hackett comedy-dramatic comedies. The first of this distinctly new type picture under taken by this team of "Hollywood Players in Crime", was exceptionally well received by audiences throughout the country and seemed to strike an advanced note in moving picture comedy. Don't miss it.

DO NOT EXPECT ANY BIG RUSH

Of Commuters In Between Canada And The United States

Washington—The United States Immigration Department does not anticipate an immediate rush of British born Canadians, resident in border cities, to find work on the United States side by taking advantage of the abrogation of the border crossing ruling, which required non-native Canadians to conform to quota immigration laws. The order was notified when the Supreme Court of the United States declined to review the judgment of Buffalo court that Canadian residents could not cross and recross the border to transact business without getting quota visas.

Commissioner General of Immigration, Harry Hull, expressed the opinion to The Canadian Press that the Labor solution had been brought to a satisfactory condition, and that most of the commuters who desired to work on the United States side had got themselves regularized under the immigration laws. Reports of immigration officers on the border and particularly at Detroit, indicated that there had been little difficulty of late with border crossing regulations. Unless there is a new movement of Canadian residents seeking work on Detroit side abrogation of order will not affect very many people, Mr. Hull thinks.

In the meantime the attitude of the Immigration Department is that the Supreme Court has nullified the order and there is nothing they can do about it.

Legislation will be sought at earliest possible date to confirm by law the principle contained in the order, which the Labor commissioners were properly immigrants and must be treated as such. This immigration officials believe to be the spirit of immigration law, though apparently it has not proved to be the letter of the law. Amendment to the 1924 Act will be sought, but it is by no means certain that Congress will get down to immigration matters this coming session which is "short" session and ends automatically on March 4. Pro hibitionists of unfinished legislation left over from last year is very formidable and reopening of immigration question would bring down a flood of bills now in for order paper and let Congress in for very long debates on immigration.

ONTARIO RACING CROWDS SMALLER

Toronto, Oct. 11.— Horse racing in Ontario this season showed 1,000,000 fewer cross dish fewer wagers than in 1927, according to the annual report of the provincial treasurer on racing made public yesterday. Total wagers placed in the machines at all Ontario tracks in 1928 amounted to $25,500,000 as compared with $30,37,872 in 1927, a falling off of $3,472,902. From 916,- 264 in 1927 the attendance dropped to 867,621, a decrease of 48,823.

The Ontario Government suffers from the decline as well as the race track owner. The Government's five per cent. impost on betting tickets brought in only $1,233,363.15, or $197,- 698.45 less than in 1927. License fees for the operation of tracks also brought in less owing to the fact that Stamford Park did not hold a meet this year, and that Devonshire had only one week of year as compared with $700,000 in racing. Fines totalled $36,000, this 1927.

MUST BE LIFE AFTER DECEASE

So Argues Dr. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, England

London—The Right Rev. Dr. E. W. Barnes, Bishop of Birmingham, who leans to Modernism in the Anglican Church, insisted at the Church Congress at Cheltenham that there must be life after death because the spirit of man was too valuable to be lost. Dr. Barnes, who is a former lecturer in higher mathematics admitted there were many problems science could not answer completely, but he used Einstein's theory of relativity as the bulwark for his case for a future life.

"The mind and body of man cannot be separated," he said, "for, they are two aspects of a single unity. Now, then, can we continue to believe in the persistence of human personality after bodily death? I would answer that this belief is bound up with our knowledge of the nature of God. If we accept Christ's view of God we cannot believe His will allows anything of value in the universe to be destroyed. We can confidently claim that in regard to spirit, that man is of such value as to be worthy of preservation. How man's spirit or personality will be preserved we can not say. Shall we not be content with St. Paul's confident hope that God will give it a body?

"In this matter our difficulties are no greater than those difficulties with regard to the whole of future life which the most relativity doctrine has brought in to clear relief. A generation ago it was customary to say Heaven was a state and not a place the implication being that life after death was temporal.

"Einstein, however, demonstrated that space and time form a single complex which we arbitrarily break up in one thought. We have no right to postulate that in the world to come part of this complex will be destroyed while the other part remains intact. In fact, with regard to space and time in the Kingdom of Heaven, very much the same difficulties arise as with regard to the body and personality. In neither case can natural science give effective guidance."

Dean Inge of St. Paul's, the "Gloomy Dean," followed Bishop Barnes with a characteristically doleful lugubrious that the devil evolves as well as all of the universe.

We must not defy the idea of evolution," he said. "There is such a thing as progress in the direction of evil, as when disease is said to be progressing. The German war psychosis was as much the product of evolution as the Church Congress. To those who think a more lapse of time must eventually bring about the golden age the devil replies: 'You forget I am evolving, too.'"

"I believe the evolution God has granted to this generation has been through the natural sciences. If we shut our eyes to it, or denounce it, we do so at our peril—peril of grave

BIG AIR SHIPS CARRY TROOPS

Capable of Seating Fifty Soldiers—Old Ones Hold 25

London — Fifty-seater troop-carrying aircraft now are being designed by British aeronautical experts to replace the 25-seater machines that have been doing excellent work for a year or more in Iraq.

The keel of the first of the 50-seaters is to be laid shortly, and from the data gained from the performance of the new machines, plans will be laid for the construction of a whole fleet of these new giants of the air.

Although the design of the new machines is naturally an Air Ministry secret, it is understood that they will be of all-metal construction, have ten final engine rooms like those of an ocean-going liner, and the motors will be so disposed that in the event of one of them going wrong in the air, this will not seriously affect the flying powers of the airplane. In the case of minor breakdowns it should be possible to effect repairs while the machine is still in flight. The seats are to be all of the "tip-up" variety so that the airplanes can, if necessary, be used for the transport of munitions, food, or other materials of war to enable troops already landed to hold their position indefinitely.

As in the present 25-seaters, the new machines will be equipped with elaborate devices for radio-telephonic communication with headquarters, including, of course, the hanging aerials for communicating while in flight, and telescope masts that can be raised while the machine is on the ground, and through them summon aid in case of a forced-landing, or to call attention to reinforcements are needed to support troops already landed.

Thus instead of trudging weary miles on foot, or being piled on trucks over rough roads, British soldiers engaged in frontier Great Britain's frontier battles will in the future ride to the battle fronts at 100 miles an hour as comfortably as if they were travelling in a London bus.

The value of these troop-carriers in quelling minor native disturbances at one point; far distant from large British garrisons, has also been repeatedly demonstrated in the past few months in Arabia and on Britain's mandated territory in Mesopotamia.

JAP FREIGHTERS REACH PORT

Tokio, October, 11.—Three Japanese freighters, the Oyama Maru, the Fuller Maru and Ube Hakiyama Maru which had been caught in a typhoon off the east coast of Japan, reached port safely yesterday.

COLLECTORS TO FIGHT FOR BUYS

Government of Russia Is Selling Masterpieces of Catherine II.

Paris — European and especially French art salesrooms are to be besieged during the next few months by dealers from all parts of the world, all intent upon obtaining one or more of the paintings which formed a part of Catherine II's purchases for the Russian government.

It is now confirmed that the soviet government has been sending these masterpieces to the "galleries of Vienna, Berlin and Paris in large numbers during the present year. The orders of Moscow are that they are to be sold, even if at a depreciation from their catalogued value, and naturally the buyers are anxious to keep the prices as low as possible and are not spreading the news of their finds in the more obscure galleries.

In addition to the paintings, a large quantity of French furniture dating back from the beginning of 18th century, has been despatched from Moscow. Included in this set of artistic bargains are to be found many pieces signed by Riesener. There are also numerous tapestries from the Beauvais looms, prepared from the original designs of Boucheyr, to say nothing of more than a hundred magnificent Gobelins.

One collection of snuff boxes while not particularly useful in this age, when daughter to grandmother are likely to be using cigarettes, or "roll their own," is said to be worth more than a million dollars because of his associations. There are 775 of these boxes and all of them are gems-

"I started using Eagle Brand for my five months old baby two months ago. Now she wakes up laughing and cooing and is more than satisfied. No more getting up nights, as she gets only one bottle, going to bed, and no more till 7 a.m. She won a third prize at a recent baby show and I know Eagle Brand helped her to win." She weighed 6 lbs. at birth but is now over 13 lbs. If any mother would like me to tell her about Eagle Brand I would be pleased to do so. I only wish I had known about it sooner as it cannot be too highly recommended."

DIVORCE INCREASE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa. (CP)—Marriages decreased in Pennsylvania last year while the tendency toward divorce was increasing.

Compared with the preceding year Federal Department of Commerce figures show there were 1962 fewer trips to the alter or a percentage decrease of 9.5. The precise number of marriages was 71,130 as compared with 72,222 in 1962. A record age, in 1916, 1,053 couples were wedded for "better or worse."

Divorces increased in 1927 by 402 over the year previous. A total of 8,6 divorces were granted as compared with 7706 in 1926. This represents an increase of 5.2 per cent. The number of annulment for last year exceeds by one the previous year, 35 marriages being annulled by the courts in 1927 and 34—in 1926.

In 1916 4980 couples gave up the name as lost and resorted to an undertaking court for their freedom.

The estimated population of Pennsylvania on July 1, 1927, was 8,720,000 and on July 1 1928 was 9,814,000. On the basis of these estimates, the number of marriages per 1,000 of the population was 7.31 in 1927, as against 7.31 in 1926; and the number of divorces per 1,000 of the population was 0.83 in 1927, as against 0.80 in 1926.

LAWS CRAMPING MEDIUMS' STYLE

British Spiritualists Assert Rights For Modern Laws For Profession

London (CP)—Spiritualists are determined to assert what they consider to be their rights and their claims for fair treatment when appealed to by candidates of any party at the general election. In the Rusholme division of Manchester it is understood that the candidature of Sir Frank Boyd Merriman, the Solicitor general, will encounter strong opposition unless there is a change of attitude on the part of the government towards the spiritualists' demand for an alteration in the law.

The nature of the alteration asked is the amendment of the Vagrancy Act of 1824 and the Witchcraft Act of 1736 to ensure that "no criminal proceedings shall be instituted or carried on against any person acting, or purporting to act, as a spiritualist medium in the absence on the part of such person of a deliberate intention to deceive or defraud." The spiritualists it is stated, seek to introduce a bill to effect this amendment.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle sets forth more fully a particular hardship under which it is asserted spiritualists suffer "Both for our scientific researches and for our religious work we need mediums," says Sir Arthur, "But these people, whom we find are persecuted by police and magistrates under laws which were made before modern spiritualism was ever heard of. Under the vagrancy Act respectable householders, and even in a recent case the secretary of a large society, are brought into police courts and threatened with fine or imprisonment. Apart from the actual cases, which are numerous enough, the fear of the police hangs heavy over the young medium and hinders his or her development. With an experience which extends over forty-one years I can say with conviction that many of these citizens so persecuted are among the most valuable people in the community and that I know many mediums who have brought consolation and a conviction of immortality where the clergy have failed."

SOUTHERN TALE OF HERO FOUND

Two Women Trace Genealogy of Davy Crockett Through 700 Years

Chattanooga, Tenn. (CP)—Through records of the past 700 years two Tennessee women have traced the genealogy of Davy Crockett, hero of Tennessee and Texas pioneering days.

The genealogy, recently published here by Miss Zella Armstrong and Mrs. J. Stewart Pruneh, goes back to the earliest mention of the Crockett family in Normandy in 1180 and traces the line down to young years. Mrs. Prench is a descendent of the Crockett family, and Miss Armstrong took up the work as a hobby. They found Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) among the descendents of the same ancestry.

Crockett believed in being right. On his rifle now in the state museum at Little Rock, Ark., is his famous motto: "Remember this when I am dead, be sure you're right, then go ahead." The genealogy shows one of the coats of-arms of a Scottish branch of the Crocketts bore the motto: "Tak' Tent" —"Take Care."

Crockett once declined an invitation to visit Harvard University, saying "I can take no classes on an L.L.D." At the time he was being mentioned for the presidency, and, while it was not established that the university had decided to confer a degree upon him, he said the mountaineers in Tennessee might think "L.L.D." meant "Lazy, Longeing Dunce."

The genealogists acknowledge aid in their work to numerous descendant families in Virginia, and other states as well as Scotland.

NOT GET RICH QUICK SCHEME

The profits derived from the business will be generous and a safe investment for anyone who enjoys the work of caring for the animals. There is plenty of work and they must have constant care or the profits will be correspondingly small.

Regular feeding periods and close attention to details are very necessary in conducting an enterprise of this kind. The party who succeeds in this must have an interest in this kind of livestock or the work will become very irksome before he has gone very far. There is no hard work in connection with rabbits, but they must be attended to, and at the proper time. No class of stock depreciates so quickly when neglected, and none can respond as rapidly when properly cared for. The profits will vary accordingly.

The popular method of advertising employed by some concerns is rather misleading. The profits which they claim, while possible, are improbable, and few can hope to attain them for several years after they commence raising rabbits. It's alright to boost the industry, and is probably good salesmanship, but has been detrimental to the best interests of the business.

The beginner buys a buck and ten does and begins to figure his profits. He stocks his plant and then counts the money which he has to pay out in expenses. It is certain that soon this stock will be for sale at a sacrifice. Result, the conclusion is reached: the rabbit business doesn't pay; there is no market for them; they have no commercial value. Wouldn't it be better policy to make a real industry of this business and advise prospects accordingly? They would then begin operations with a determination to succeed, and not expect to 'pick up easy money.' Wouldn't it be better salesmanship to look forward to the return customers, those who will boost the industry

HORSESHOES IN AIR AT ROYAL!

Contest Pitching At Ottawa Winter Exhibition To Be Novelty

Horseshoes are in the air—speaking literally as well as metaphorically. Last year the interest game was brought into the limelight and gained recognition as one of the national sports through the Canadian Championship Contest ing up for the second Canadian Contest which was held at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. The cup, emblematic of the Dominion title, and gold medals, went to sixteen-year-old Bill Stobbens of Sarnia, the youngest among spectacular pitching was the feature of the meet, and his partner, Walter Kane. The sport was given the final stamp of official approval when Premier Howard Ferguson and The Hon. Lieut.-Governor Roe stepped out, dress suits and all, and distinguished themselves by their sniffmanism, if not by their ability to ring the pegs.

This year horseshoe pitching clubs have been organized in hundreds of Ontario towns and villages and a lot as one of the keenest contests of the year will be staged at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, August 24th to September 3rd, and at the Ontario Provincial Winter Fair, Ottawa, November 27 to 30, during the second week of the show. The contest is again be sponsored by the Ontario Athletic Commission, which has given approval to the rules which governed the last Canadian Contest and which are generally accepted throughout Canada and the United States.

A great many local contests are being held this fall at the Ontario fall fairs. For the winners of these local fair contests, a special contest has been arranged at the Royal. The winners and runners-up of this special contest will, in addition, be permitted to enter the semi-finals of the open contest for the dominion championship.

Considering the remarkable way in which the game has gained in popularity, it is altogether likely that competition will be much keener at the Canadian championship Contest this year. Many of the contestants in the 1927 match had been pitching for only a few weeks, and the few expert teams had comparatively easy sailing. This year, the games will undoubtedly be hard-fought throughout.

Entries should be in by November 1, and entry forms may be had by writing to the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Where fall fairs have arranged a trip to the Royal Contest to the local winners, these winners should be provided with a certificate of their eligibility by the fall fair secretary.

POOR CHINAMAN STILL IN JAIL

Can't Pay His Brother $200 He Owes To Him

For years that are dark and tricky the Chinese compared to Wong Suey Ching of the Dominion of Canada. But Wong months Wong has been in a jail cell because he owed his brother $200 and he is so wound around with the red tape of the law that nobody can undo him.

Another started proceedings when he sued Wong for the debt. No payment coming, a writ of capias was issued and Wong went to jail. After he had been there several months, he learned that others got freedom by assigning their assets to their creditors. He did that. But he stayed in jail. Recently a lawyer has Wong brought to court from the jail and presented a writ of habeas corpus. It was denied. Wong has assigned under the Bankruptcy Act, when he should have proceeded under the civil code so Wong went back to jail.

Then the lawyer made another trip to court, and application for bail was made. It was set at $500, the price Wong could not raise the money. Wong went back to jail.

A second writ of habeas corpus was tried. And for a third time Wong went from jail to court. That writ was denied. Again Wong went back to jail. Yesterday, the lawyer went to Toronto to the Court of Appeals and presented his habeas corpus writ. Wong was there. The writ was denied. The court holding the lower court judgment should have been appealed. And that no writ should have gone directly to theappeal tribunal.

So Wong went back to jail last night, and now his counsel asks the registrar in bankruptcy for a stay of execution.

SHEEP LOSS IS EASILY STOPPED

Science now offers a means of eliminating many of the losses which worry sheepmen. Such a loss is the goitre or thereof, hairlessness in pigs and lambs still-born colts, for instance, can be prevented as a result of recent research. These three things, which exact a heavy toll in Canada each year, never visit the farm where the stockowner feeds a little iodine, according to Lionel Stevenson, newly appointed Provincial Zoologist in Ontario.

Iodine, Mr. Stevenson points out, costs less for ten years than the loss from scarcity of a single lamb. "There is no substitute," he says, "iodine must be present in the food. What you lose on one child, you will in turn lamb year, pay for all the iodine required by your flock for ten years. Why take a chance with goitre when it costs little to insure your flock against such losses."

The best way to use of iodine prevent goitre is sheep, but it also tones up the general health of the animal, according to Dr. Stevenson. There are larger lamb crops, great gains in wool and meat, when iodine is added to sheep with the food ration.

The Ontario co-operative Wool Growers recommend feeding iodine in the form of potassium iodide. Only one part of iodine to every one year is required but this amount while small is absolutely essential. "Buy medicated salt containing potassium iodide," they say, "or preferably, prepare it yourself by dissolving four ounces of potassium iodide, in a pint of water. Sprinkle this over 100 pounds of salt, and mix well. Let the sheep and lambs help themselves every day. Don't let the sheep get salt hungry."

WIFE OF NEWSPAPER MAN WAS INJURED

London, (By C.P.) — The many friends in Canada or Mrs. T. B. Clougher, wife of the well-known business representative in London of several Canadian daily newspapers, will be sorry to hear of a serious accident which befell her while passing along Oxford Street.

A large boarding was temporarily erected around a portion of a well-known store in this shopping area. The boarding fell suddenly and Mrs. Clougher was one of several ladies who were struck. Mrs. Clougher was more seriously hurt than most of those who were involved in the accident. Her left leg was broken, she received grave injuries to the face and the whole of her left side was severely bruised. She was taken to Middlesex Hospital and was detained. Mrs. Clougher is stated to be progressing favourably, but complete recovery will obviously be a matter of some time.

For many years, Mrs. Clougher was a resident of Toronto and of other Canadian cities.

Wallaceburg Fair was held for the 97th time.

University work at Alma College, St. Thomas, began this week.

YANKS RECEIVE BIGGER MONEY

Perhaps This Is Reason For Winning Eight World Series Games

St. Louis, Oct. 11.—If you accept the reasonably sound theory that the more money you pay ball players, the better ball players you get, and therefore the more games you win, then it is easy to explain the decisive edge the Cardinals in the 1928 world series.

New York Yankees mad over the Colonel Ruppert's payroll for his hired hands is said to average around a quarter of a million dollars a year. The total paid this year to the Carnival performers will not be, half that sum, and probably not much more than one-third.

The Yankee prima donna, Babe Ruth, is on a three-year contract paying him $70,000 a year. Top man on the Cardinal club is Captain Frank Frisch, who probably receives little more than $15,000 annually.

...Lou Gehrig is playing under a three-year contract which awarded him $50,000 in the year just ended, will pay him $25,000 next year and $20,000 the third year. Waite Hoyt is said to receive around $17,500, and this year received an extra bonus of $5,000 for pitching 21 games. Herb Pennock probably gets better than $15,000; Bob Meusel may be credited with almost that amount, and Tony Lazzeri rates around $10,000.

Rich Second Highest

After Frisch, Grover Cleveland Alexander is the highest paid employee in the Card line-up, and it is doubtful if his income exceeds $12,000. Thus there are at least five Yankees who receive larger pay envelopes than the second highest paid man among the National league leaders. Holdouts and fines, who receive about $10,000 each rank next to Alexander.

The explanation of the difference for the first time. Seventy per cent. of that goes to the pennant winners in each league, and smaller percentages are awarded to the players on the team finishing second, third and fourth. Of the 70 per cent. paid to the world series competitors, 60 per cent. goes to the winners and 40 per cent. to the losers.

Thus the Yankees, assuming they will win, stand to enlarge their regular income by nearly $7,000 each, and the Cards each will receive between $4,000 and $5,000.

CALLS STUDENTS' ACTS DISGRACE

Hilarity In Kingston Streets Carried On Into The Night

The following letter relative to the hilarious disturbance which followed the football game in Kingston last Saturday appeared in the Whig-Stand ard on Monday:

To Editor of The Whig-Standard.

Sir,—Disgraceful indeed was the hilarity Sunday morning after the game was over." The game which brought so many young people to our city to join with friends in Kingston and disturb the peaceful slumber of many of cents and tourists as well, was disgraceful to the University of Kingston. It is surprising that under the name of "Queen's Rugby" such hoodlumism could exist.

Parents send their sons and daughters to Queen's University, and expect that morality and fair play is inculcated in the curriculum. Be it nevertheless there are students gambling, betting, spending money illegally, after hours in restaurants. Not young men alone, but young women as well. The boys are spending the hard earned money of the "Old Man," commonly called by such class. The girls also enjoying untold hours which the mothers made possible for them by their poor, old, worn fingers and the sweat of their brows.

Wake up, Mr. Mayor, is your duties as the representative of the citizens of Kingston. The citizens placed you where you are and expect you to have this city patroled by efficient policemen to keep law and order.

In the small hours of Sunday morning, no sound should resound, and, therefore, I will not believe that the smashing of a window pane and the breaking of bottles on the hard pavement was ushered to the "walking protectors" of night, especially when such rowdyism existed in the vicinity of the police station. If sport cannot be clean, honest and upright, it necessarily must be condemned. Good citizens do not want such disturbances caused by sport, nor their sons battered and bone-broken, just for amusement of the public, nor their daughters riding in cars with intoxicated young men at "three o'clock in the morning."

Women of organizations you are called upon to do your duty. You have citizenship as a national endeavor. Get busy and protect the souls and bodies of our sons and daughters.

Become active and see to it that laws already made are enforced or laws amended for better protection for the young.

A DISTURBED CITIZEN.

FOUR TEAMS IN INDUSTRIAL LOOP

Big Boom In Basket-Ball Is Promised Here This Season

At the Y Parlors, last night the organization of an Industrial basketball league took place with four teams composing the circuit. These are the Alerite, captained by Johnny Kerr, American Optical captained by Albert Armstrong, the Supreme-Addison captained by Elmer Walters and the Canadian National, captained by Vernon Weir. All the available players about town were picked by the respective captains so that the teams will be ready to go into action in the schedule is drawn up. It was decided to play double headers every Wednesday night and it is quite likely that the first game will take place on the 24th of the month. Those interested in the league are advised to watch the papers for the schedule, which will appear in the course of a few days.

League officers elected were as follows; Honorary Presidents, A. F. Duff, O.N.E.; Ed. Wells, American Optical; W. E. Rowsome, Alcuite; G. A. Freeman, Stephenson Adamson. President, Vernon Weir; Secretary-treasurer, E. Walters. These officers with the other captains of the teams will compose the executive of the league.

Ray signed a contract with Tex Rickard yesterday and today is working out with the New York Athletic Club cross country team. Ray said that he was determined to meet Ed Ouaid, and if it was impossible to race the French-Algerian as an amateur he would do so as a professional.

ARTHUR DUNCAN SIGNS CONTRACT

Stellar Defense Man of Toronto Leafs Ready For Season

Manager Conny Smythe has every reason to smile this morning. Among the first three players' contracts returned to the office of the Maple Leaf hockey club as signed was the "John Henry" of Arthur Duncan.

It can be remembered that Duncan and Smythe staged quite a tussle before the 1927 season over contract matters, but the "Big Train" often explained when he did report, that it was entirely a matter of misunderstanding.

Duncan's playing last season was sensational at all times. He gave his best every minute of the game and the fans will recall his game attempt in playing against the Canadiens on that rainy night when the Leafs were swamped 8-1. Duncan was ill, but covered the game with a high fever and did his best, despite the hopelessness of the situation.

Duncan's contract for the season of 1928-29 is much larger in remuneration than last year's so everybody is satisfied. With "Happy" Day also available the double threat of Duncan and Day will again be a strong protective unit in front of the sensational Lion Ross Roach.

Arthur Smith and Joe Primeau, two local lads who give promise of stepping high in the "big tent" this winter, have also turned in their contracts. The others are expected before the week is out, so everything will be set for the two weeks of hard training at Port Elgin, starting on October 22nd.

HARRIS MAY GO TO DETROIT NEXT YEAR

There is a persistent rumor spreading to the effect that "Bucky" Harris, who was recently let out as manager of the Washington Nationals, will take over the leadership of the Detroit club. Harris was in Detroit yesterday, but no enterprising horsepasters succeeded in finding out the nature of his business there, although his presence in Detroit strengthened the rumor. Harris, should he take the Tigers, would be up against a difficult proposition if he desired to play himself, for Gehringer, former London Minchost star, appears to be a fixture at second base, and is good for many years yet.

HAINES WAS NOT TAKEN FROM BOX

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—Jess Haines was not taken out of the box in the third world series game between the Yankees and Cardinals but "quit in disgust," Harry T. Hustings, St. Louis Star staff reporter, said in signed article today.

Hustings, posted in a Card's uniform, sat throughout the game in the St. Louis dugout, and had this to say of Haines' departure from the game:

"The terrible sixth inning was at last brought to a close, 'Jess Haines iron man,' was walking from the mound, kicking up dust with every step. He walked to the dugout, threw his glove to a far corner, picked up his jacket, and without walking order marched on toward the locker-room. He had quit cold, and not a man on the bench blamed him."

OLDEST ACTIVE LOCAL PRINTER

William Leonard Celebrates 59th Birthday At The "Case"

To be the oldest active printer in Belleville, is the proud distinction of William Leonard, an employee of The Intelligencer Job Department, who was born fifty-nine years ago today. Mr. Leonard has been connected with The Intelligencer almost continuously since he first started printing in 1886. When but a young lad he chose the printing profession as his life work, learned his trade in The Intelligencer office which was situated on Meadow Street and with the exception of three years' spent in Flanders he has been steadily at the "Case".

He is known as a printer of the old school, a man who has witnessed many changes in newspaper life, the advent of the rotary press and the new and improved Linotype machine which has been a great boon in the newspaper world. Mr. Leonard went overseas with a draft of the 226th Battalion from here and was presented from entering the trenches due to wounds received in an air-raid in France.

Mr. George Warham, former foreman of The Intelligencer Job Department is in reality the oldest printer in Belleville, but for some months he has been confined to his home through illness. Mr. Leonard was the recipient of the congratulations of his colleagues today on having attained another milestone.

PEACE AND QUIET IN THE ORIENT

Moy Tom Returns To Belleville After a Trip To China

Moy Tom, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Tom Toronto Street, has returned to Belleville yesterday after having spent the past eighteen months visiting in China. Mr. J. S. Tom, his father owned the first cafe in Belleville and conducted the Royal and Newfoundland restaurants, disposing of his interests here last year to Wong brothers who came from London.

Moy returned by way of Vancouver on the "Empress of Asia" and has been spending the past few days in Toronto where a great celebration to mark the unification of the National Government has been held. This celebration will continue this week until Sunday when a monster meeting in one of the Toronto Theatres will bring the conclave to a close. This young celebrity made his first visit to China, as he was born in Belleville where he received his elementary education at Queen Alexandra School. His father and mother remained in China and Tom feels very much at home after a bus ness in his native city, Canton. "Everything is peace and quiet in the Orient" said Moy Tom, "I guess with new Government the people are resigned to a peaceful era". He was renewing acquaintances with the other Chinamen in the city today, all of whom bombarded him with questions of their native land. He will go to Kingston where he will be employed in one of the cafes.

LIBERALS WILL REMAIN SOLID

Lloyd George Predicts Overthrow of Present Government

CLASS PARTIES

Frowns On Suggested Amalgamation With Socialist Party

Great Yarmouth, Eng. (CP Cable)—Addressing the Liberal federation conference today former premier Lloyd George made three predictions in connection with the general election next year. There would be an overwhelming majority of votes in condemnation of the present government, there would be an enormous accession of strength to the Liberal fold and what ever party received the majority it would not be the socialistic. Lloyd George then dealt with the possibility of a deadlock in the next parliament saying the socialists had made it clear that under no condition would they be associated with Liberals unless they adopted Socialism. "We are neither Socialists nor Tories, but Liberals and as such, we are equally opposed to both and have no particular predilection for either. Under the Conservatives and Socialists were essentially class parties" he said. "That is their weakness and their strength. In parliament we must expect no quarter from either party and we do not ask for it. We are there to make our general position clear. We shall fight the next general election as an independent party."

Lloyd George making one of the most important speeches in the history of the Liberal party, received an enthusiastic welcome. He said at the next election might be one of the most momentous in history. The group system of government had become an integral part of the machinery of Britain at any rate for a long time to come, he insisted. The statesmen on the left will probably always have a separate organization and there will always be a body of the same opinion in the middle that will have to decide whether they are going to renew their trust in the people who let the country down so badly who have done nothing to pull it through the great trade emergency and have a thoroughly muddled case of peace disarmament, he declared.

TEAMS CHOSEN FOR "Y" DRIVE

Association Is Asking Belleville Citizens For $14,500 This Year

For the first time in ten years the Y.M.C.A. is to ask for more than its budget fund. Other years it has been able to find it proposed to clean up this and also provide for some very needed building repairs, as well as annual maintenance requirements. These three amounts merge in this one campaign, amounting to $14,500.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman has been elected General Chairman. The campaign organization is made up of five divisions—four of men and one of women.

The leaders of the four men's divisions are, F. B. Smith, Chas. Hanna, C. T. Dolan and R. Wolters.

The following men will be Captains: Harold Holton, S. Licence, Geo. Smith, Newt. Thompson, W. V. Armstrong, R. L. Brown, J. B. Pinder, Jay, Geo. H. Griffin, Bayard Bowerman, Jr. Imlah, Rev. Fred Maloff, Jack McIntosh, H. J. Clarke, Geo. F. Cole, A. B. Collins, Harry Bonisteel.

Each Captain will have a team of seven lieutenants.

The women's division will be made up of teams from the various women's organizations of the city, and will be announced later.

The first meeting of all of the campaign workers, 100 in number, will be held in the Y.M.C.A. building next Wednesday, October 17th, at 6.30 o'clock, dinner being served. This will be a Workers' Conference in which the workers will be given instruction, will select their cards of prospects and receive their workers' kits.

MORE DRUNKEN DRIVERS FREED

Magistrate, After Denouncing Them, Again Suspended Sentence

Some weeks ago after the now famous "Jesse Case", Magistrate W. C. Mikel solemnly announced in court that a new order would be instituted and drunken drivers need expect no leniency. This morning Mr. F. W. Gilbert of the Carthage Machine Company and James Stewart, a commercial traveller hailing from Peterboro both of whom pleaded guilty to the above offense, were given suspended sentences and earlier this week Mr. E. Hirsch, a local dealer, received the same kind treatment. Stewart's case was only held over until November 1st, when he is supposed to appear again.

In odd feature of this morning's judgment was that a companion of Mr. Gilbert, who was not driving the car, was fined $107 for having liquor in an illegal place. Mr. Gilbert, however, was not so harshly treated as Mr. Mikel considered that he was only mildly intoxicated. He was assessed the costs of the action and his driving permit was suspended.

Mr. Stewart was discovered by the Provincial police peacefully asleep in the back seat of the car and according to the officers' statement, he arrest was the second which "drunk" that he had seen in his experience as a policeman, 95% of guilty was entered and on a second charge of being drunk in a public place he paid a fine of $10 and costs, the fine in the former driver case was enlarged until the 30th of November for sentence.

Just before Mr. Mikel suspended sentence on Mr. Gilbert, he delivered a short address on the perils to which a drunken driver puts the public at large, and made mention of the fact that a man who will drive a car while intoxicated has been called by some authorities a "potential murderer". He then stated that he thought he would be forced to raise the jail term for drunken drivers from seven to ten days. And almost immediately after words he gave out another suspended sentence.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 12.—The Government tug George Yates arrived at Port Nelson safely from the department of Marine was advised by wireless. The tug had been overdue and fears for the safety of the thirty-three men on board were growing. It is as stated that the tug encountered gale winds and fog which delayed her. Among the men on the tug was D. W. McLachlan chief engineer of the department of Railways and Canals in charge of the government work on Hudson Bay.

OFFERS PRIZE FOR FIRST TWINS BORN

Ottawa, Pa.—Father Whalen of the Holy Name Church, Ottawa, Pa., has made a unique offer to the members of his flock. The birth rate is lowering, he declared in the Blue Ridge, and twins are nothing unusual among the parishioners. But Reverend Whalley has not had twins in over a year and the dirth seems to have disturbed the pastor. Recently an aged woman died and left Father Whalen a small legacy. He offered the full amount in gold to the first member of his congregation who would bring him twins to the baptismal font.

"Why did I do it?" answered the priest. Oh possibly to increase production. And, anyhow, two babies can't live as cheaply as one."

GRAF ZEPPELIN BEHIND SCHEDULE

Strong Head-Winds Delay, Airship On Ocean Journey

EXPECTED MONDAY

Dirigible Passes Over Madeira At Speed of 50 Miles An Hour

Far out over the Atlantic the dirigible Graf Zeppelin was west of the island of Madeira this afternoon and headed for the United States on a southerly course that might carry her past Bermuda. Thirty and a half hours out of Friedrichshafen, the huge air liner passed over Madeira with a good three thousand miles to travel before hitting the American coast. From messages picked up by wireless the passengers were exceedingly air sick, the ship having been forced out of the planned course to avoid severe storms.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 12.—Dodging far to the south to avoid strong head winds, the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin today was headed south of the Azores, planning to reach the United States by way of Bermuda.

Advised after leaving Gibraltar yesterday morning that the Azores, that strong head-winds would make the flight over those islands impossible, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, decided to change his course and pass over the island of Madeira off the northwest African coast and thence fly for the United States. The news of his decision was wirelessed here. From Madeira there is a water jump of some 1,200 miles.

In view of the slow progress made by the zeppelin in ducking the headwinds, experts estimated the dirigible would require a hundred hours for the trip, which would mean the ship would reach Lakehurst, N.J., early Monday.

The ship during the early hours of today was in touch with various steamers on the route including the Nelsona and the Lapland and was sighted by others including the Versilia, the Gloucester Castle and the Cameronia. Shortly after a ship passed over the Madeira islands at 8.55 a.m.

Fifty Miles an Hour

The passengers had their first experience of thrashing in the air today, unless they were too airsick to eat. Twenty passengers and the crew viewed from the air the Azores islands on the Spanish Mediterranean coast as the airship passed over them during the night at a speed of about fifty miles an hour. They slept in the ten cabins which fill the passenger deck of the ship. The ship also carries a crew of forty.

After the start yesterday, finding unfavorable weather, the ship was swung southward over France. It reached the Mediterranean at Barcelona and then crossed it, and swung down the Mediterranean to the north coast of Africa and headed slowly after 5 a. m. when it passed the Straits of Gibraltar. From there it headed over the Spanish coast and then set forth on the long over-water journey to the States by way of Bermuda.

Reception Awaits Them

New York, Oct. 12.—New York City today eagerly awaited the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin and meanwhile made elaborate preparations for the crew and passengers. Hugh Allen, of Akron, Ohio, a personal representative of Dr. Eckener, with Hugo Eckener, said if the ship arrived Saturday night, the would circle over New York, Philadelphia and along the coast during the night. If, however, she does not arrive until after midnight, it is believed she will probably go directly to Lakehurst. Five military planes from Mitchel Field and other commercial ships are to act as an escort for the dirigible along with two navy blimps.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

"He's better that our griefs should not spread far."

GEORGE ELLIOTT.

COMPLAINT CARDS

Announcement has been made that the complaint cards are now in the hands of the automobile license distributors for the use of motorists. However the Department of Highways has not made any announcement as to the extent with which the public is making use of the forms. From all reports there is no local demand at H. P. Ketcheson's office. However, the public will, as in other cases, become educated to the use of them and there undoubtedly appears to be a wealth of opportunities. The fact remains that the general public hesitates to act in the role of an informer, no matter what justification there may be. The roads are infested with careless motorists and undoubtedly the highways might be made safe for some drivers if a little work along this line was done. The Government naturally expected that careful motorists would co-operate to eliminate those who convert the highways into a speed-way, but there is an apparent reluctance to turn in the cards.

TONIGHT'S DOINGS

Belleville Folk will tonight, be afforded the privilege of paying homage to those heroes of the diamond who have corralled the highest honors of the amateur baseball realm. The gathering at the Armouries will be graced, by the presence of the Hon. W. D. Robb, Vice-President of the Canadian National Railways, an old Belleville boy. Presentations will be made by several local organizations including the Kiwanis, the T's Men's Club, and the citizens who have contributed to the fund on their behalf may personally feel that they have a share in the gift. The Committee left in charge of the affair have acted wisely in the matter of selecting presents which will be of most value and which will be most appreciated by the boys. Local talent will assist on the program which is of a particularly appropriate nature. It is nine years since such an event has occurred in Belleville and it warrants a fine attendance.

JOURNALISTIC HONOR

A representative of the Hearst newspapers has been ordered out of Paris by the authorities for his part in the publication of the Anglo-French Naval Accord. This certainly does not call for sympathy on the part of Canadian Editors and Publishers. Vile and corrupt practices in securing news is discouraged in Canada and the methods adopted by this young journalist are not in accord with the ideas of the average newspaperman. Reporters, if they have adopted journalism as a profession, are always seeking news but, if they are of the right type and stamp, they do not choose to secure their information through subterranean sources. The newspaper profession has been graced by such characters before, but invariably they're an uncertain end in the field of journalism.

To bribe officials or "to steal news" is something that is not permitted by decent newspaper publishers who hold honor above the glory of "scoops." Certain American publishers who follow this practice disgrace, rather than dignify the profession and we in Canada pride ourselves on the fact that information secured through underhanded channels is not to the taste of the readers.

INJUSTICE

"You can't beat this for pure crust" says The Detroit News, in referring to a new fare against commercialism in connection with the World's Series. It proceeds: "Although many newspapers not equipped with radio stations have been paying dearly for the privilege of broadcasting the World Series baseball games, radio hustlers will not hear that fact over the air. The baseball magnates are so opposed to commercialism in connection with the "sport" they sponsor that they will not permit such an announcement to be made.

Of course there can be nothing commercial about baseball. It is a mere coincidence that one pennant or the other, frequently both, is won by a team in the chief center of population; that when one of these fortunate teams seems in danger of failing to bring home the bacon, it can buy the star players of a team in some smaller town where the attendance is not so good. In the old days a newspaper could arrange with any telegraph or telephone company for a wire to the baseball park. Of course, it was in no sense a commercial arrangement that the proprietors of major league baseball found it more convenient to bar from the parks all wires except those of a single company!

May baseball never become commercialized! May it never be organized along the lines of a big private business! May the generous gentlemen who control it keep its free-handed betting the dollars roll where they will, so long as they and up in the proper cashbox!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

With the closing of the Golf Clubs for the season, families are again preparing for the annual Re-union on fathers' evenings. Indoor practice will now begin with the parlor carpet the scene of hostilities. Incidentally father has added a few new words to his vocabulary since last Spring.

Tonight is "Diamond Night" and a big time is promised for those who attend Charlie Hanna's Jamboree at the armouries. The baseball team will be feted and feasted and citizens in general who have the interest or Belleville's sport future at heart will attend.

Fire Prevention Week has been a most successful one insofar as Belleville is concerned. The Fire-fighters under the direction of Chief Bowen, made one trip, and that, for the express purpose of reminding the citizens of Prevention Week. Belleville's fire losses in the past few years have been decidedly small and this is due, in the main, to the efficient service rendered by the local department.

"The Captains and the Kings" of Baseball have departed for the far northern woods in search of the elusive quail and the Bi' Rabbit, following a strenuous season on the diamond.

Norwood's Fair was the last of the Fall Exhibitions and the frost is on the pumpkin, all of which reminds us that the pool his is empty and old man winter is just around the corner.

The Atlantic holds little fear for these intrepid explorers of the air. The growing list of tragedies which have steadily mounted as one after another have tried and failed to conquer the broad expanse did not daunt the crew and passengers of the Ocean Voyager.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

CHEESE REPORT

Average Price per lb. 6¢.

Price for 3.5 per cent milk $1.66. We notice from the above report, that although the price of cheese has averaged over 1 cent per pound more June prices, yet the returns to the farmers are about the same; and the reason for this is that less cheese was produced for market from 100 lbs. milk than from June milk.

This 1 cent has again about 5 per cent of the total income for cheese or .05—.01—of the patrons's milk cheque.

Two reasons are responsible for this loss.

1. Milk not properly cared for. Milk should be delivered clean and cooled.

2. Curing rooms not properly cooled. The cheesemaker should be able to keep the temperature of his room A cool room prevents loss in weight, mould, and deterioration of quality.

Now because the farmers of Prince Edward County own both milk and factory, it is only reasonable to place the entire blame for this loss on their shoulders.

Figure it up yourself, Mr. Farmer—6 per cent of your income wasted through lack of care of your milk and cheese. The factories with cool curing rooms have not suffered as great a loss as this but all have lost through the negligence of some of the patrons in not caring for their milk.

We have heard a lot about larger production and this is all right too. Perhaps there are too many boarders for profitable business, but the care of milk and cheese deserves every farmers' earnest attention for 1923.

This is a matter that should be discussed at every annual meeting this fall and the patrons who are looking after their product should compel the other fellow to do the same.

Publicity man of the Cheesemakers' Association, Prince Edward County.

PAY TIME CLUBS TO BE FOUGHT

Scotland Yard Will Act Against Open Gambling Places

London. —Urged on by incessant newspaper campaigns "it is learned that Scotland Yard, Britain's famed crime-detection headquarters, will shortly start war on the daytime London gambling clubs, the growing evil of which is alarming the authorities.

According to newspaper investigators, fifteen of these clubs flourish in the heart of the city and West End districts of London, while dozens of smaller clubs operate in the suburbs.

Do Big Business

Big business, it is stated, is being done in the clubs. The risks of detection are great, but the profits are so enormous that new clubs spring up almost daily, closing down in a couple of weeks to open up in a new street. In raided city many are said to have lost as much as $75,000 in one afternoon, and the more important of the clubs. Roulette and rouge-et-noire are the favor'te games, and big sums change hands every afternoon.

A stringent system of secret pass words and signs is used by most of the clubs to guard against the admittance of any unknown person, and in this way the proprietors are practically secure against police raids. Attempts on the part of th police to gain entry usually have failed, and for this reason it is widely rumored that the proprietors are being warned in advance of premeditated raids.

Secret Methods

The methods to be used by Scotland Yard in its attempt to clean up these nefarious places have not been revealed, although it is believed the tactics recently used to raid important anti-night clubs will form part of the plan of campaign.

In the raids on the night clubs the police gained admittance by having several of their number frequent the places as guests for several evenings preceding the raid.

In th's way the policemen who posed as young men about town plenty of money and pretty companions, gained the confidence of the door keepers, and were able to let the raid en in at a pre-arranged signal.

BERLIN SELDOM IS SHOWN IN MOVIES

Berlin—Berlin boasts of having the best indoor and outdoor film studios on the continent, but Herr Hans Baldenhofer, just beyond the city limits, but the German capital is almost never displayed in German films, Lee Hirsch, film critic of the "Berliner Tageblatt," writes this interesting item.

"In American movies one often gets glimpses of New York or 'Frisco,' he observes. "Russian films show actual scenes in Leningrad, Moscow or Odessa. In a recent English film the first act is nothing but a representation of the Parisian amusement quarter. It s no true to life and beautiful, however, that you feel you really know this section of Paris.

Sadly missed by brothers and sister, Nedly, Phyllis and Stanley.

Two little hands crossed over the breast
Two little feet laid down to rest
Two little eyes in slumber closed
How our hearts bleed none but God knows.

One little voice that prattled in love
Sweet song is now making in heaven above.
And an angel is watching and waiting for me
Till I shall cross the dark, rolling sea.
Sadly missed by Mother and Father.

WEDDINGS

TRIPP—SHARPE

A pleasant and pretty home wedding took place on Wed. Oct. 10th, at the residence of the bride's parents, 227 West Moira St., Belleville, when their second daughter, Barbara Maude Sharpe became the life partner of Harry Clifford Tripp, of Flint, Mich. At the hour of eleven a.m. the bridal couple attended by Miss Hazel Sharpe as bridesmaid and Mr. Wm. Thompson as best man, took their place within a floral arch and the ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rev. L. M. Sharpe, in the presence of a number of the nearest relatives.

Following the usual congratulations and the signing of the register the company partook of a bountiful luncheon after which the happy couple left by motor for Daly, future home in the city of Flint, where the groom has a good position with the Fisher Body Co.

The bride was gowned in pink georgette trimmed with lace and pearls and carried a spray of pink roses and assorted ferns and her going away costume was a navy tricotine suit, hat to match. The bridesmaid was dainily dressed in blue taffeta with floral trimming.

A HALLOWE'EN FROLIC

This is the signal for every one to change partners, and it gives the person dancing with the broom a chance to discard his undesirable partner. The broom is dropped to the floor as soon as the music stops —where it stays until picked up by the person left with no real partner. The dance continues to the next stop.

A black cat dance is fun. Each man is given labels in duplicate, one for himself, and one for his partner. These labels may be outlined on white paper or simply cut out of crepe paper—the decorative stripe so popular for Hallowe'en will furnish plenty of cuts, sizes, and stripes, all of which are appropriate. They should be pinned on to the dancers backs before the music starts.

When the dance has got under way, the official leader should order all the cats off the floor. After another interval the hats should be sent to their owners, and so on until only the black cats are left (and there should be but one couple labelled as cats). They not only have a chance to dance the honors out, but they should receive a prize in addition—something silly, like two lollipops, or, for the girl, a beautiful necklace made of multi-colored gumdrops presented in a box on a bed of tissue paper and the man a boutonniere of gum drops fastened on wires and backed with a bit of paper doily.

The refreshments for a Hallowe'en party can be as elaborate or as simple as desired. The choice depends somewhat on the size of the party. For a very large group pass the doughnuts and cider. Doughnuts and cider may be served, and if they are good enough doughnuts, such as are made from recipe given here, there will be no complaint from the guests on the lack of variety. A more elaborated menu for a smaller group might consist of jack'o'lantern sandwiches, pineapple salad garnished with orange pumpkins, with individual pumpkin or apple pie for dessert. The jack'o'lantern sandwiches may be of the open faced variety, and spread generously with butter, cream cheese or some other soft filling. Jack's lantern faces are easily formed by adding pimento and spread, use a light bread for the eyes and nose, and the features out of the dark filling to show through. To make the pumpkins, mold any soft yellow cheese into balls, flatten slightly top and bottom, with a paddle make grooves to represent the sections of a pumpkin, place a bit of parsley stem in the top and you have a very realistic imitation of the popular autumn vegetable.

If pumpkin pies are the choice of guests, use this recipe. They will be voted perfect whether served hot or cold, with or without whipped cream.

Individual Pumpkin Pies
1¼ cups pumpkin (canned)
¾ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
2 eggs
1 tbs. butter, melt and spices. Beat with eggs until light. Stir in pumpkin and milk mixed together. Use recipe below for shells. Build up the pastry around the edges so that it will be thicker than the rest of the shell. Fill almost to top with mixture. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375° F.) until the filling is set and has great brownness.

Doughnuts
For Crust Use
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup Crisco
water
Sift flour and salt. Work in Crisco with finger tips until finely divided. Add water just enough water to hold the dry ingredients together. Divide dough into two parts. Place on a slightly floured board and roll lightly with a floured rolling pin to a thin sheet large enough to fit a pie plate.

Mashed Potato Doughnuts
2 eggs
2 tablespoons Crisco
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk
2 cup mashed potatoes, hot
1 teaspoon salt
flour to roll

Cream sugar and Crisco. Add mashed potatoes hot. Beat until thoroughly mixed. Beat eggs light and add. Sift together salt, baking powder and flour. Add alternately with milk. Salt, melt; then add enough flour to roll. Fry in deep fat, heated to 370-375° F.

A cook book will be sent free to readers of this newspaper, upon receipt of a two-cent stamp to cover postage. Address the National Housekeeping Service, 565 Fifth Ave., New York City.

HOSTESS OUSTED AS WAS BIGOTED

Said "She Would Not Trust Catholic In Public Offices"

New York—Stuart O. Gibboney, president of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, has ordered the resignation of the hostess who greets tourists at the home of Thomas Jefferson, Monticello, Va., following her admission that she publicly announced her preference for Hoover for President "because you can't trust a Catholic in politics."

The name of the hostess was not disclosed.

Mr. Gibboney, who was associated with William G. McAdoo as an official of the treasury department in the Wilson administration, issued the following statement yesterday:

"My statement issued this morning to the following statement which appeared in an article by Tom Hutten, political correspondent of the Houston Post Dispatch, published in the Baltimore Sun on Thursday, September 20:

"This morning the hostess who greets tourists at Monticello, which Mr. Jefferson built up on the mountain, announced her preference for Mr. Hoover, because you can't trust a Catholic in politics.

"I immediately caused a thorough investigation to be made at Monticello and have just received the report that the hostess admits that she made such a statement to Mr. Hutten. Thereupon, with the approval of members of the Board of Governors with whom I was able to confer, I directed the superintendent at Monticello to ask for her immediate resignation.

"The officers and the Board of Governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation are not in the least interested in the politics of their employes, but will not countenance for a moment that position connected with the foundation expressing such an un-American sentiment, particularly, at the home of Thomas Jefferson, the father of religious freedom in America.

"The foundation is a patriotic association given wholly to the preservation and maintenance of Monticello and the inculcation into the minds of the American people of the principles for which Thomas Jefferson stood."

"The governing body is wholly nonpartisan and among its members are President Colidge, John W. Davis, Bishop Ernest R. Stires, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Rabbi Nathan Krass, Cardinal Hayes, Felix M. Warburg, Dr. George J. Ryan and other outstanding American citizens.

"Under the direction of this board the work of the Foundation has at all times been conducted on an educational basis, so that Monticello will be not only a memorial to Thomas Jefferson, but also a dynamic force in helping to inculcate a better understanding of and deeper devotion to the fundamental principles of our country, civil liberty, religious freedom and universal education of which Thomas Jefferson is president.

Y's Men Heard Splendid Talk From Thomas Jordan

Y's Men met in the Y.M.C.A. for their weekly luncheon last night and despite a number of counter-attractions a good attendance featured the meeting. President George Pauley was in the chair, "Mel" Blanchard was song-leader and "Pud" Staines acted as Sergt-at-arms. The entertainment Committee provided a fine program that night which included a violin solo by "Jerry" Collins, and a solo by Richard Arnott, "Art" Gross acted as pianist. "Army" Armstrong, General Chairman of the Membership Campaign in the Y's Mens Club made a short report and announced that every employee of the Alemite Company had affiliated themselves with the Association. Mr. W. E. Bowsome, General Manager stated that the Company would pay one-half of the membership fee providing the individuals would pay the other half and as a result every member of the Alemite staff both in the mechanical and business departments was signed up. Now that the Alemite have taken this step it is believed that other concerns will make a similar move, to have the employees become affiliated with the "Y". "Army" gave the Y's men a short talk on the methods of approaching prospective members.

A World-Wide Movement

Mr. Thomas Jordan, International Y.M.C.A. worker addressed the Club on the advantages of the Association particularly along the line of leadership and in this regard, he pointed to the fact that the leader of Boy Scout movement in America was chosen from the Y.M.C.A., the Rotary International Secretary was a Y. M. C. A. worker, and in other instances when a man was needed to take care of a big problem the Association was invariably able to supply that man. He spoke of the tremendous advances made by the Association in Mexico City where a building costing in the neighborhood of $750,000 was recently erected. In Detroit Henry Ford and his son Edsel were both keenly interested in the work and had supplied two new buildings.

Mr. Jordan also in connection with the "Y" financial drive which starts next week. Belleville workers have pledged themselves to raise $14,500 in the drive which starts on Wednesday of next week. The teams are being lined up, the city divided into districts and with the enthusiasm at the highest pitch the success of the campaign is almost assured.

The various groups are now engaged in a "World's Series" membership drive and reports coming in are most encouraging. Prizes have been donated for those to secure the most new members or renewals. The physical classes are in full swing with Ralph Morden in charge and with an extensive program lined up by Secretary "Doc" Roberts the "Y" will be a hive of activity during the winter months. The results of the membership drive are being watched with interest.

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To relieve good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive troubles and pain.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and brumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

CROP OF ALSIKE WILL BE POOR

Dry When Rain Was Needed And Vice Versa As Well

First reports concerning the Ontario alsike seed crop would indicate a somewhat shorter yield than a year ago, and much poorer quality, according to prominent Ontario seedmen interviewed on this subject. The unfavorable weather during the growing season, of course, is to blame for this condition.

Too Wet

"During the early spring, when rains would have been welcome to promote growth, the weather was dry, and later on when the seed started to ripen and a dry spell was needed almost continuous showers fell," states M. H. Winters, Agricultural Representative of Victoria County, in which the well-known alsike district is located. "The excessive moisture late in the season, according to Mr. Hunter, started a second growth, with the result that there was a big proportion of green, immature seed in the crop threshed. The yield per acre cut by the early dry weather and the quality was reduced by the late rains. And the same wet weather which favored the growth of second-crop seed while the first was ripening also favored the weeds, the crop being unusually dirty in this respect.

Must Export Bulk

To find a market for much of the present crop it will be necessary to export it in competition with Scandinavian-grown seed, which is similar in quality this year. There will be a fair demand for it across the Atlantic, but high prices need not be expected, according to exporters as there has been a big crop of red clover, white clover and alfalfa seed in Europe, and this will be bought in preference to alsike if prices are out of line. A good deal of the Ontario crop this year is not high enough in purity for seed purposes to allow marketing in Canada or the United States.

Want Clean Seed Only

This year most seedmen are quoting only on clean seed, as it is felt that there is too much uncertainty in estimating the waste in buying seed in the rough direct from the thresher, as has been the case in the past. Prices being offered by local dealers range from $10 per bushel for No. 1, which is 97 per cent, pure alsike, to $6 for No. 4, or 90 per cent. pure.

KINGSTON TEAM HERE TOMORROW

Tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock will see the kick-off at the Pine St. School when the Kingston Royal Canadian Horse Artillery will hook up with a Belleville team in a return soccer game. Belleville defeated the soldiers at Kingston two to one, and will rely on the same team again to turn the trick. Kingston will be strengthened by the addition of two or three new players, among whom will be Sergeant Graham, Regimental sprint and Boxing Champion.

Belleville's line-up will include some well known players who could have many a good game in their systems, and this game, should be one of the best this year. Soccer is one of the fine old British games and deserves far more support in this city than it had been getting. All who make their way to the Pine St. School tomorrow afternoon will find their time well spent in seeing this game.

AUTOMOBILE VERSUS DANGEROUS BEASTS

The land of India as we all know, is really fraught and unrivalled. Last year, for instance, 24,000 people there were killed by wild beasts and reptiles, there took 1,623 more; wolves 468; leopards 218 and crocodiles 146.

Deplorable isn't it?

Fortunately we in the United States don't face those dangers. We are far too advanced and civilized for anything like that.

To be sure, there were more than 24,000 people killed in the United States last year by automobiles. But, in the words of the immortal Mr. Mack, "What's the idea in bringing that up?"

WAS READY FOR RECENT STORMS

Western Union Company Knew of Hurricane Far In Advance

When the West Indian hurricane roared up through the Caribbean Sea and hit the east coast of Florida it didn't surprise the maintenance department of the Western Union. Officials of this department had received weather reports from ships at sea and barometer readings from cities and towns on the storm's path.

They knew that one of Florida's most pressing needs after the storm struck would be the establishment of telegraphic communication with the outside world. Hardly had the hurricane departed than interrupted telegraph lines were back in working order. Despite fallen poles, debris-covered wires, high waters and strong gales, plus damaged equipment and power units, the maintenance department was successful in repairing damages to its lines in remarkably short time.

The story of how such a disaster is handled is not without interest. The maintenance department of a telegraph company, which is charged with the duty of keeping in trim all telegraph lines are kept in working order, is composed of a large staff of trained men. In its organization this department resembles an army in more ways than one. First, its efficiency is dependent in great part upon organization. Second, it must move with the same cohesion, army moves and, third, its operative heads must be continually informed of the progress of the various units of the organization. Maps, messages, telegrams and courier keep reporting to the superintendents the progress of the restoration work in much the same manner that these same forces report the progress of his troops to the general of an army in action.

While Porto Rico was feeling the force of the storm the Western Union was warning its various officials in the South to prepare for the storm they were required to have men and materials in readiness at strategic points to repair any damage the storm might do. At the same time warehouses all over the country were required to check over their stocks to assure an adequate supply of tools, equipment and materials for the work ahead.

From Washington to Jacksonville ranges there was non-stop work done to be despatched to Florida as soon as it appeared imminent that they would be needed. These men were the Alleged repairmen, accustomed to bad weather, washouts, high water and wreck of gale force. They were rapid workers, too, and trained to the minute in their appointed tasks.

Most of the operations for the Florida district were directed from Atlanta, Ga. Jacksonville, Florida's most important railroad terminal, was the concentration camp for men and repairmen.

When the hurricane hit Florida on September 16th there were fifteen gangs of men ready to spring into action at once. Material and equipment were ready. As soon as telegraph breaks were reported inspectors hustled out on the lines. Trouble were located. Repairmen were shifted from point to point. It was not easy going either. Wash-outs hindered transportation. Roads were flooded. Fallen trees blocked highways. The ground was saturated in many places and high winds were still blowing. Yet these dangers and discomforts only spurred the men on.

Local telegraph officers kept the open wires busy with requests for aid for the homeless and the sick. True of the best traditions of their craft, these men worked under great stress and did all in their power to facilitate the transmission of messages to the outside world. But the work didn't stop here. While every effort was being made to restore the interrupted lines of communication in Florida nothing was left undone to prepare for emergencies in the states to the north Supervisors were arranging for the shipment of men and material to those parts of Georgia and Carolina which might be affected by the storm, which was then sweeping northward with diminished intensity. Every possible contingency was anticipated. Consequently when the storm struck Georgia and parts of the Carolinas, repairmen, materials and equipment were on hand the damage was repaired in short order, with telegraphic communication suffering but slight interruption.

The task of the telegraphic repairmen in Florida was a severe one. Yet the public prints carried not a single line extolling their work. These men work silently.

PROSPEROUS YEARS WESTERN LIVESTOCK

A cycle of prosperous years faces the live stock industry of Western Canada, in the opinion of ranchers. Cattle are fetching almost double what they were turned off for three years ago, and hogs are going higher. Lambs and mutton are selling at a fairly-steady price, and good, heavy, well-broken horses are in active demand. A survey of the agricultural situation in the United States indicates a marked shortage of beef cattle, making for strength in the Chicago market, so much so that Canadian producers find it profitable to ship there despite the duty of two cents per pound imposed on fat cattle. Stocker and feeder cattle from the Canadian Prairies are also wanted in the Middle West.

LIVELY CELLS FOUND IN ROCK

Oakland, Calif.—Discovery of a new type of life that flourishes in the rich heart of granite since the d'n dawn of the earth, is announced by Charles Lipman, professor of plant physiology and dean of the graduate division of the University of California.

Signaling all present, theories of the length of time life organisms have existed on earth, Dean Lipman's astonishing discovery has pushed back the time that life first appeared to a point 1,000,000 years ago.

The organisms found in rocks of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, are alive and today are living in a laboratory on the campus of the University of California, it is declared.

Dean Lipman began his experiments with rocks from the Grand Canyon and the Colorado Rockies, whose age geologists assert dates back 2,000,000,000 years.

Dean Lipman used the most drastic sterilization methods known to science to establish the presence of life in the heart of the rocks existed living micro-organisms.

After the sterilization, the rocks were opened by mechanical means in atmosphere entirely free from contamination, precluding the possibility that any organisms entered the rock since after it was formed or during the breaking process.

MALE VICTIM'S OF WOMANKIND

Vienna—A world conference of oppressed husbands, innocent fathers and divorced victims of women's wiles will take place in Vienna early in 1929, according to announcement by Herr Hirsch, president of the Vienna League of Men's Rights.

The World Conference, it was said, would be attended by delegates from all the civilized countries of the world, including the United States where divorce is more common than anywhere else.

Herr Hesberth explained that the purpose of the conference is to "initiate a world wide movement against tyranny of women.

"Throw off the shackles," will be the war cry of the oppressed males. Women's rights and divorce laws are unequal racks," declared Herr Hesberth. "They protect women but punish men. Alimony is the evil spirit of our age. Alimony tempts girls to marriage for money. Modern girls marry with the sole purpose of obtaining a divorce and alimony. None of them become mothers only to be able to keep a hold on some rich alimony payer. Divorce laws are immoral. Men must obtain equal rights and protection."

The World Conference will submit the question of men's rights to the League of Nations and to all leading bodies of the world in order to bring about the "emancipation of a suffering male world."

"Wolf's Trail," a thrilling story of the West, in which Universal is starring "Dynamite," famous police dog, was written by Frederick Jackson Turner. Universal Western is now being screened at the Regent Theatre, supporting players are Edmund Cobb, Dixie Lamont, Erwin Terry, Joe Bennett and others. The picture was directed by Lambert Ford.

BELLE THEATRE

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have handled plenty of "hot merchandise" in "The Big Killing," their Paramount team comedy, which opens at last night at the Belle Theatre. As "Powder-Horn Pete" and "Deadly-Eye Dan," these two kings of mirth are at their very best.

The picture deals with the adventures Beery and Hatton, two confirmed skinflinchers, encounter when they become involved in a Kentucky moonshining wistful quality to both beauty in this role which could scarcely go with more sophisticated part.

YOUNG PLAYERS LOST CHANCES

Before Subs Came Were Confident of Getting In Game

The gate to baseball's hall of fame was wide open for the New-Yorkian Yankee players before the series started. But once the series got under way Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig have blocked the passage with their powerful bats.

Should the only place to find the names of Cedric Durst, Ben Paschal, Benny Bengough, Oeie Robertson and Leo Durocher these days is in the box score.

Henry Johnson, the Yankees young right-handed pitcher, who had visions of pitching a game against the Cardinals or at least getting into the series as a relief pitcher, has seen the world series thus far from the bull pen. Johnson's last chance to get another series actually slipped away when Tom Zachary pitched the last game to victory in the third game. It was Zachary's great pitching against the Philadelphia Athletics that enabled the Yankees to win the American league pennant and he had hoped to share a similar fate in the world series.

Hank, telegraphing in center-field with Paschal in place of the injured Earle Combs, has had a little taste of acclaim and criticism. Facing Alexander in the second game Durst singled twice and boasted a 1.000 percent batting average when he was relieved by Paschal after Mitchell, a pinch-hitter, replaced Alexander in the third game. Durst charged Bottomley's pipe drive to center and permitted the Cardinals to get away to a two-run lead when the ball rolled to the center-field wall for a triple. Durst was really not to blame, however, for glaring him caused him to lose sight of the ball but if the Yankees had had Durst undoubtedly would have been the goat of the game.

Paschal has had little chance to stand out, but delivered a timely hit in the second game with the bases filled. Paschal has handled five chances without an error, none of them hard.

Praise for Benny Bengough, who has turned in three perfect games behind the bat for the Yankees, has been confined mostly to the three Yankee pitchers, Hoyt, Pipgras and Zachary, who have benefited from his smart work. Bengough has been digging wild pitches out of the dirt, handling Pipgras and Zachary when they were in danger, directing defensive plays, and generally making himself one of the most useful players in the series, if one of the least conspicuous.

Harry Redfern and Frank Pelliwell were two more of the Grads who were out last night. With a few more practices like that of last night and they will be ready to

DIRIGIBLE MAKING UP FOR LOST TIME

Baseball Boys Recipients Of Citizens' Gifts -- Two Hurt In Crash

OWNER OF AUTO IS RESPONSIBLE

George Stone and Horace Yateman Appear in Court

TRIED TO ESCAPE

Driver Must Be In Possession of License Says Cadi

When one-man hires out a car to another man, or even loans him his car, he is liable for any damage for which the driver may be responsible or any breach of the Traffic Act which he may make. The man who hires the car must be in possession at an operator's or chauffeur's license, otherwise the man who rented him the car is liable to a fine.

Such was the conclusion drawn this morning in Police Court when Horace Yateman appeared charged with renting a car to a man without a license, and George Stone appeared for a theft in the scene of an accident.

Yateman had rented the car to John Marskell several times, and Marskell had informed him when signing the voucher that he had a license. That was where Yateman made his mistake Marskell was fined several times for driving without a permit, but the charge against Yateman was dismissed as he proved that he had acted in good faith, as he believed Marskell did have a permit.

George Stone pleaded guilty to the charge of failing to return to the scene of an accident, although he had not been near the accident. He had loaned his car to Jr. Vesterfelt for that evening who promptly struck a buggy on the Cannifton Road. This accident occured last Saturday night. Immediately after the accident Vesterfelt extinguished the light and stepped on the gas. Had it not been for a bystander who took the number he would probably have escaped.

Magistrate Mikel declared that according to law the owner was as much responsible as the driver, even though the owner was not in the car at the time. Consequently he fined Stone $25 and costs and ordered them both to pay half.

This form of athletics has grat tually become more and more popular and now the club's membership is usually filled by the time the season opens.

Work is being commenced on Monday on the extension to the Alemite plant. Th's work will be finished, it is expected, by mid-fall. The Belleville Storage Forwarding Company's building on Dundas street, is nearly completed and will soon be open for service.

DR. J. J. ROBERTSON MADE FELLOW OF AMERICAN COLLEGE SURGEONS

High Medical Award Bestowed Upon Local Physician

Dr. J. J. Robertson, of this city, received last night at Boston, the very high honor of being made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons. The leading members of the medical fraternity of the continent are meeting at Boston this week, and they have seen fit to bestow on Dr. Robertson the highest award within it is possible to give in North America.

The degree will be presented by the president of the American College of Surgeons and Dr. Robertson will no doubt be the recipient of many hearty congratulations on his return home. He was accompanied as far as Montreal by Mrs. Robertson, and then proceeded by train to Boston.

Dr. Robertson received his early education at Tweed, in the public and high schools, as well as at the Alma College in this city. He then entered Queen's University, from which place he graduated in Medicine. Later he took a post graduate course in New York. Since that time he has been practising in this city and has now built up a large patronage. Dr. George Stobie is the only other medical man in this city who is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

FIRE BROKE OUT ON BRITISH FREIGHTER

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—A wireless message to the Associated Press from The Pulver of Spamer Markli' today reported that the British freighter Trojanstar was struggling through heavy seas toward Vancouver after re ceiving a bad fire which broke out in the hold last night while off Cape Mendocino northern California.

One fireman aboard Trojanstar named Tennyson lost his life, nearly all the crew were gassed and several be ters were badly injured.

TWO INJURED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Joseph Flannigan And Harry Bryant Have Narrow Escape

Joseph Flannigan and Harry Bryant both of Kingston, suffered severe cuts about the face, hands and legs last night about eight o'clock, in an automobile accident just east of Marysville when their Ford car collided with a truck owned and driven by Robert Liddle, of Bloomfield.

Flannigan, the driver of the Ford, is said to have been in the centre of the road and struck the Liddle car in the front left wheel, the only damage to the truck being a bent axle. The Ford, however, was almost completely demolished, and it is a miracle both men were not killed.

After striking the truck, the Flannigan car careened down the road about seventy feet and then swerved into the ditch on the left side of the road, turning over twice as it rolled into the deep ditch. Every window in the car was broken, as well as other parts. Both men were taken to Desoronto where they received medical attention and then were able to proceed on to their homes in Kingston. Traffic on Hery Byrne, of Napanee, investigated the accident.

GOLF SEASON IS NEARING CLOSE

Activities at the Belleville Golf Club are rapidly drawing to a close and several important tournaments, both in the men's and ladies' sections are in progress. In the men's handicap Mr. J. A. Whalen was defeated by Mr. Joe Calver, while in the singles for the Club championship members are still in the running. These include Jack Lowery, Lorne McConnell, A. Ketcheson and J. A. Whalen. On the week-end the semi-finals will be decided when Mr. Whalen and Mr. Cummings meet and Messrs. McConnell and Calver will play.

The ladies are in the midst of various tournaments, but expect to finish the year some time in June. If the weather continues fine. This afternoon a team from the Quinte Golf Club met a picked team of ladies from the Belleville Club on the latter's grounds.

"TOOTS" HOLWAY WITH MONTREAL

Lawrence "Gilly" Goyer Will Return To Philadelphia Team

Mr. Albert "Toots" Holway is spending a few days in the city with his father pending the opening of the National Hockey League. "Toots" was captain of the Stratford Canadian League team in 1926-27, and since that team has been disbanded, Mr. Holway has ordered back the contract Maroons. Holway is the property of the Montreal club. He will report for the opening game in Montreal season on October 22nd. "Toots" expects to remain in Montreal during the winter. Lawrence "Gilly" Goyer who starred with the Philadelphia Arrows last year will likely return to the Club within the course of a few weeks. The Arrows play in the same league with Quebec Bulldogs and the New Haven team. Goyer stuck his real stride toward the close of last season, and will probably be retained by the Arrows. DIRIGIBLE NOW IN MID - ATLANTIC

PASSAGE EASIER

Flying Conditions Enable Crew To Make Up Time Lost

Washington, Oct. 13.—The Navy Department received a radiogram from the Graf Zeppelin saying she was damaged on the port horizontal and repairs were being effected but requested a surface vessel to be stationed at Bermuda to cover. It was proceeding at an air speed of 35 knots.

Friedrich Shafen, Oct. 13.—The position of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin today was about 1,000 miles beyond Madeira on the long hop to Bermuda being about mid-Atlantic.

New York Oct. 13.—With her five horsepower motors droning a steady song of power and speed the Graf Zeppelin raced over the Atlantic today at between 75 and 85 miles an hour head ed for Lakehurst, N. J., by way of Bermuda. Advices of unfavorable weather in the latter island led the United States naval air station at noon tomorrow with the cargo of ferry gasoline and mail from Germany demonstrating the ensuing dirigible is no longer an adventure but a commercial undertaking.

Good weather aided the airship in making up for the time lost in buffeting the headwinds over the Mediterranean after leaving Germany early on Thursday. Op swinging south to Madeira the dirigible entered the region of the more variable winds which made passage easier.

The Airship will have received 20 hours for a full rest when it reaches Lakehurst noon Sunday. The distance will have been about 5,000 miles four thousand over the Atlantic. After the craft passed the Madeira Islands yesterday nearly three thousand miles of open water lay ahead of her until Bermuda was reached and then another eight hundred to the States. The passengers were exceedingly airsick during the first day. Thursday May, the only woman passenger wire legged her mother she found the journey very interesting.

CONSTABLE KILLED

Officer In Attempting To Rescue Girl Met His Death

Whitby, Ont., Oct. 13.—While attempting to rescue a girl pinned beneath a motor car, County Constable Samuel Vanstone was electrocuted today on coming in contact with a high tension wire. The motor car had crashed into a hydro pole, broke it off and dragged down a number of live wires.

RADIO FOUR ADD TO HIGH HONORS

Belleville Quartette Now Heard On Apex Records

To a quartette in Belleville, the "Radio Four", goes the honour of being the first Canadian quartette ever to have been heard on phonograph records, a high honour indeed. An official in Montreal stated that this was absolutely the first time that any Canadian quartette had been recorded. Messrs. J. Arnold Thompson, Harry Sherman, Hatter and "Al" Stillman are no strangers to Belleville music lovers as they have many times rendered selections over the radio. But now, their efforts are kept for all time, as they have been recorded on Apex records and will be heard on "The Gates of Glory", "The Beautiful Land", "John Peel" and "Swinging Along", a popular song of the day.

Both Ostrom's and Bleeker's drug stores stock these records and have them on display at present. Recording is only another triumph added to an already long list of honours that the Radio Four have achieved through out Canada. Several times they have "been on the air" over such radio stations as CNRO, Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal and other radio broadcasting centres.

NOTED ENGLISH LEADER COMING

Rev. Henry Carter Will Preach In Bridge Street Church

Belleville is one of a few cities in Canada to be favored with a visit from Rev. Henry Carter of London, England. Mr. Carter is the leader in a great movement in England among young people along Temperance lines. He has also been pastor of Bridge land and has with him 100,000 of them pledged to abstinence from drink and from all against traffic. He is now challenging the youth of Canada to a similar stand.

Mr. Carter will speak in Bridge Street Church on the evening of Tuesday, October 16th at 8 p. m. It is expected that many will be present from outside towns and communities, as Tuesday is the day of the annual rally of the Young People of the Belleville Presbytery.

The evening meeting is thrown open to the public and no one should miss this opportunity to hear Rev. Mr. Carter who is one of the outstanding temperance speakers in the world today.

WON HONORS IN TRACK EVENTS

Another Belleville boy has been collecting honours in the athletic realm in the person of Alan Dempsey well-known in Belleville and popular ex-High School student. While in the city Alan was prominent in High School sport and it has been announced that at a track meet held at Toronto Agricultural College, Guelph, he won all the marathon events. Alan has been attending the O.A.C. for two years. He was the only Belleville boy to win honours in the track meet at the College.

BASEBALL CHAMPIONS PRESENTED WITH TOKENS OF APPRECIATION

Nationals Were Honored By Citizens And Service Clubs

GIVEN BAGS

Officials of Central League And B.A.A. Join In Celebration

Belleville Nationals, baseball champions of the Province of Ontario for 1928, were royally received by fifteen hundred enthusiastic citizens and supporters in the Armouries last night. Belleville's champion team beg enjoyed a most successful season winning the Central Ontario League and advancing to the Ontario finals when they defeated the Walkerville "Orioles" Following their splendid victory in Guelph it was felt that their exploits should be recognized in some tangible form and last night saw the fruits of the labours of the Committee bestow. While the turn-out of citizens was not as large as anticipated, nevertheless it was sufficient to assure the boys that the city is proud of their record sustained on the diamond. Enthusiasm was manifested to the fullest degree and as the champions marched to the platform to the strains of "Alouette" a one grand crescendo which fairly shook the rafters of the Armouries. It was a tumultuous welcome and the members of the Club certainly appreciated it. Chas. Hanna as General Chairman of the Reception Committee got things in order, that the affair should be a success and his efforts were not in vain. There was not a dull moment from the time the Argyll Light Infantry band under the direction of Professor Zealey rendered the first number until the Bon-Ton orchestra sounded the final note at midnight. The Armouries presented an animated and colorful scene and the program itself was most interesting. The boys were eulogized to the skies and best wishes for future success and victories were voiced by every speaker. The Nationals while not called upon to make public appearances for the many presentations, promised to do their utmost to retain the laurels already won.

Following the rendition by the band the team lead by Walter Grover ascended the platform in single file and took their allotted positions on the stand. Chas. Hanna in his opening remarks thanked the citizens for the support given in the financial campaign on behalf of the boys as well as the City Council who made a substantial grant. He also heartily thanked the Committee for their efforts. "We are all proud of the ball team and I am sure that all the citizens who have helped to make this night."

The Nationals' Roster

Every member of the team was present and answered to the name plate in the following order: Walter Gerow, Sr., W. J. Mills, Alex Scott, Harry Mills, Wilfred Wells, Wm. Weir, Percy (Hoot) Gibson, Wilfred Ross, Stanley Hagerman, Earl Green, Vernon Welch, Lorne Robb, Robt. Scott, Walter Grow, Jr., and Geo. Griffin, Secretary.

Harry Greenleaf, President of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, presented each of the players with a fountain pen and pencil and spoke of the team spirit, which had undoubtedly been the one of the prime factors in their success. Newton Thompson then introduced the honored guests of the evening and the following were called to the platform: W. E. Tummon, M.P.; Maydor Duff, Controller Griffin, Secretary of the ball club; Barry Greenleaf, President Kiwanis Club, Joe Shatil, General Secretary Y.M.C.A., Edward Roy, Mayor Nugent, Tom Powers, Parks Board; John Hempstead, Secretary Exec Club; A. McNally, Deloro; W. Regan, Deloro; H. T. McFaiden, Free Press Sports Editor; Leonard Weir, D. Robb, Vice-President Canadian National Railways; Harold Luke, Secretary Oshawa Club, H. A. Elliott, Eastern Ontario representative, C.B.-A.A.U. Keith Bowman, Chilwell Dell Canton, Bell Telephone team, Toronto.

Joe Shatil, Secretary of the Y.M.-C.A. said the honors which were bestowed upon the Nationals were well-merited. "Griffin, Belleville is the best amateur ball players in Ontario."

ROSES SENT TO MRS. W. J. MILLS

Wife of Nationals' Catcher Remembered By Baseball Committees

Mrs. W. J. Mills, wife of the catcher on Belleville's Senior baseball team, was agreeably surprised last night when two dozen roses were despatched from the armouries to the hospital where she is a patient. When the presentation had been completed General Chairman Charles Hanna read the following letter and announced that just at that moment the roses were being delivered to Mrs. Mills. The letter accompanying the gift was as follows:

Belleville, Oct. 13, 1928.

Mrs. W. J. Mills,
Belleville General Hospital,
City.

Dear Mrs. Mills:—

Congratulations and best wishes to you and your daughter. We sincerely regret that you are unable to celebrate with us tonight the wonderful achievement of our ball team. We have celebrated in other years but this is the greatest yet. We feel that a great deal of the success of the ball team this year was due to the wonderful baseball ability of your husband, and therefore we are sorry indeed that you are not able to join with us in showing our appreciation. We present you with these roses as your part in the evening's program.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,
Citizens' Baseball Committee,
Charles Hanna,
Chairman.

EGGS STILL ON UPWARD TREND

Splendid Attendance At Market Despite Rainy Weather

Even with the rain ill was a fine market this morning. And the price of eggs was f ne too—from a farmer's standpoint! The scarcity which is a resigned and martyred air had to take them. Butter always rises on the first day of the week, not to be outdone and it was selling for fifty cents the pound. In fact, everything seemed to rather expensive today. Lovely McIntosh Reds were selling at $2.50 the bushel, while potatoes were $1.00 the bushel. Celery was offered for fifteen cents the bunch and was eager ly snapped up. There were many purchases of Canadian Baldwins, as fifty cents the peck, while melons sold rapidly at any price ranging form five cents each up.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Some grief shows much of love;
But much of grief shows still some want of wit.

SHAKESPEARE.

HIGH AVERAGE

W. J. Taylor, publisher of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, has won his appeal against a conviction of having parked his car in front of a hydrant.

In the appeal case Mr. Taylor had a lawyer, but in the primary case he conducted the proceedings on his own behalf.

This is the second occasion in recent months where the Woodstock publisher has romped off with appeal verdicts leaning in his direction, giving him the rather unique average of 100 per cent.

CRIMINALS

It was a most unfortunate fire which claimed the lives of some seventeen convicts in the Ohio State prison. It was a fire which none of them deserved, and while their deaths are a matter for sincere regret, there may be a compensating feature to the occurrence if it leads the jail authorities in other parts of the country to make more complete arrangements for guarding against a similar catastrophe in the future.

Several interesting and illuminating incidents occurred during the fire. It is stated that one prisoner made several vain attempts to carry a crippled friend to safety, and was finally beaten to the fire for his pains. Another convict who escaped from the flames rushed back where he saw his buddy trapped, and both met their fate.

One does not always look for such conduct in a convicted criminal. The public has grown to regard all inmates of prisons as hard-hearted evil-doers, and the "underworld code" of respectable human associations, but this fire in the Ohio State prison proves that there is "something good in the worst of us," and because a man is convicted of a crime, it does not necessarily prove that he is past redemption—nor should he be so regarded.

The same thought was in the mind of General Draper, Toronto's new Chief of Police when he started a movement to give convicted men a chance to go straight after they have paid the penalty for their crimes. There is no doubt that many a man continues in a life of waywardness, simply because organized society, through its attitude of aloofness and condemnation, refuses to let him do anything else.

There is something good in every man and woman—something which can be brought out if they are given the proper treatment, and provided with the opportunity to display their better selves.

Here we have two convicts who are reported to have performed deeds of valor and heroism, while actually serving sentences for crime—deeds which stamp them as men whose inherent qualities (even though misguided in their past) are unselfish, brave, and even sacrificial. It took a fire, and a situation of extreme peril to bring out their better nature —a situation which sometimes stands them outside of prisons to cringe and whimper and to surrender to the base elements in their make-up.

It behooves us to pause, before we pass judgment upon human infirmities, considering them to perpetual shame for the deeds they commit, probably in a moment of weakness. If them two convicts had been surrounded by different circumstances in their lives, and had been encouraged to develop their moral traits, they might never have been convicts.

It is right, that men who do evil should be punished, and the punishments should be commensurate with their misdeeds, but when they re-enter civilian life the world, which probably has in a measure been responsible for making them criminals, should at least give them the opportunity to reform, and go straight.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Canon Donaldson of Westminster Abbey, has raised the question of capital punishment once more in a vigorous appeal at a meeting in Shoreditch in support of a movement for the abolition of the capital sentence. He regards the penalty as the last supreme remnants of barbarism in modern life. Two insurmountable objections he recognized were the creation of the office of hangman, degrading and horrible to the man condemned to exercise it; and the irrevocability of the sentence. When a man is hanged, guilty or innocent, no reparation can be made. The penalty imposed on the innocent children and relatives is another consideration rarely taken into account. But to many the real objection, taken from a social, moral, a Christian point of view, arises from the answer to one poignant question—Does hanging do the man who is hanged any good? We are supposed to be a benevolently disposed social organization. Do we benefit the man we hang by the process? The argument is that we protect ourselves. That, of course, is not a Christian standpoint, and we either are or are not Christians. Judging the Christian point of view the arguments in favor of capital punishment are not tenable. Some say that by hanging a man we hand him over to divine justice. This is really begging the question, for we are supposed to be dispensing justice ourselves. Let George do it, is but a cute way of shunting out of a duty imposed upon us by our profession, our ideals, and our plain duty. We are pledged to a policy of reformation and it has yet to be shown that hanging reforms anybody. At the same time we must admit that the great body of public opinion is in favor of capital punishment and that the question is open to debate. We have given the views put forward by a great Christian preacher. Other great Christian preachers are equally strong on the other side, and we feel that as long as society is as it is, we must continue to support, as we always have done, the ancient practice of the land. As the French philosopher said when it was suggested to him that it would be humane to cease killing criminals—"Let the assassins cease first."

PAPERS FROM HOME

When I packed my portmanteau I said
I am sick of the everyday grind;
Of dissension and scandal and blame;
And I'm going to leave them behind,
For a month I'll forget there is aught
Save harmony under God's dome;
But I find that I can't eat or sleep
If I don't get toe paper from home.

The best minds have commended, I said
All the books I am taking to read;
There's biography, fiction and verse;
With a pipe they'll be all that I need.
But I sit without turning a page
Till the mailbag arrives from home.
And there's no joy at all in a smoke
If I don't get the paper from home.

Though the sky may be cloudless, the surf
In all the ways is best for a swim;
Though a new friend I've found makes me feel
That I mean something real to him;
And another new friend snuggles close,
On the beach in the gathering gloam
Thus as truth, by the day is a dud
When I don't get the paper from home.

—Edward W. Barnard in New York Times.

Miss Ramsay, of Kingston is the guest of Mrs. Stewart.

An unconfirmed rumor says that Lord and Lady Aberdeen intend coming to Belleville when they visit Kingston next week.

Prisoner: John Gunn.

Magistrate: Well, Gunn, I'll discharge you this time, but you mustn't get loaded again.—Eastern Morning News.

Robert (proudly): Yes, sir, I sure did earn my wife's back-seat driving.

Father: Yes, if you will agree to start in at the bottom and wake up.

The villagers were listening to a band and they seemed to understand every instrument with the exception of the trombone. They decided to fetch the oldest villager, and ask him his opinion about it. The old man stood watching the player for a while and then exclaimed, "Take no notice o' him. There's a trick in it; he hain't really swallowing it!"

Hicks: "Not married yet?" Mitchel: "No." But I thought you had serious intentions in a certain direction?" "I did have, but the evening I went to propose to her, before I got a chance she told me she loved Greenway and Kipling and Shelley. Now, what chance did I have with a girl who was in love with three other men?"

BATSTONE MAY COACH NAPANEE

Napanee, Oct. 13.—The Collegiate team met its 2nd second defeat of the season when Deseronto won the game here last Wednesday afternoon, by the score of 11-4. This was a game full of thrills, and the supporters who attended certainly received full value for their money. The local team led right up until the last quarter by a score of 11-0.

This week the local team have a Saturday off while Picton goes to Deseronto. The Picton team was defeated by Belleville Collegiate in an exhibition game by the score of 52-0. An effort will be made by Napanee to have an exhibition game with either Albert College or Belleville C. I., both of which are in the other group of the O. R. F. U. for the Bay of Quinte District. Practices will be continued every day th's week, and on Wednesday afternoon the boys are looking for a visit from Harry Batstone, of Queen's University to give them a few pointers on improving their game.

GRADUATES TO ENTER COLONIAL SERVICE

Australian university graduates are seeking an opportunity to enter the British Colonial service, and this is being furthered by the present visit of Major R. J. Wilson, private secretary at the Colonial Office ,who is here attending the Empire Forestry Conference.

In 1922, Major Furse visited Canada, and made certain arrangements for selected graduates of Canadian univer sities.

The work for Australian graduates will be chiefly in West and East Africa. Each year there may be 100 vacancies in administrative work, graduates in any faculty being accepted for this branch.

The organization adopted in Canada and proposed here, is to have a small local committee as each university, with a member of the staff as secretary or liaison officer. Th com mittee would make suitable selection and report on candidates.

BASEBALL

and remarked on the fine example they had shown on the field of play in the matter of fair and clean sportmanship even when facing defeat. "They are a credit to the city and we have just reason to be proud of them. I've been presented Manager Jimmy Gerow with tickets entitling each one of the boys full privilege at the Exhibition. He stated that he hoped they would enjoy the fellowship of their Association with the "Y".

"Another organization that has gained prominence in the Radio world is the Radio Quartette of Belleville," said Chairman Hanna in introducing the singers. "They have been on the air, are now engaged in making records and we are proud of them."

Could Not Attend

He read a telegram from Mr. J. A. Thompson, one of the members expressing his regret at his inability to attend, but announced that Leo Riggs would fill his place on the program. Their rendition was highly applauded by the listeners.

The Ontario championship cup was presented by Mr. R. A. Elliott, of Delcro, in the absence of Mr. Martin, President of the Ontario League. He called attention to the fact that four members of the championship team of 1918 were still with the club—namely Walter Gerow, Vernon Weir, Winfred Rose and W. J. "Penny" Millis.

"W. E. Tummon could not come here tonight to make a speech but asked me to associate with you in doing honor to the champions." He congratulated the team on their splendid achievements and congratulated the city of Belleville in being the home of such a body. "There was almost as much interest manifested in the village of Trenton as in Belleville in the games," said the presentation speaker, "because we knew one of our own boys, Harry Blakely, a product of Trenton was out there in the diamond doing his very best as every other member was doing." He referred to the conduct of each player on and off the diamond.

Chairman Hanna read a letter from the Deseron Shirt Company, stating that the pennant promised was not yet completed and this will be presented at a later date. It will fly from the mast of the pole at the Belleville ball park next year.

W. D. Robb, a former Belleville boy and now Vice President of the great Canadian National Railways came to Belleville on this occasion only as considerable sacrifice on his part per sonal in a brief speech he expressed the hope that the winning of the championship might become a perpetual affair in Belleville. In his own inimitable style he told one or two tales which won instant approval with the crowd. He presented the medals won by the boys.

H. T. McFadden, of Peterboro in presenting the Central League Trophy said that a finer bunch of boys could not be found anywhere in Ontario and declared they were worthy champions. Mr. McFadden spoke of the true calibre of sportsmanship which marked their play during the season. Mayor Duff introduced each one of the boys beginning the position played, gave a brief biography and each was received with general applause. When the Club bags were presented to the players they were turned toward the audience and cards and the back spelled "Ont. Champs, 1928."

Centre Thomas Thanks

George Griffin, Secretary of the Club spoke briefly and thanked the citizens on behalf of the Club that now the splendid support rendered during the year. Messrs. J. C. Hamilton, retired Superintendent of the local division of the Canadian National Railways and Tom Powers gave short addresses.

It was a great night and no stone was left unturned by the Committee in charge to make it a success. Brevity was the soul of the whole arrangement and there was no delay from the starting time. Unfortunately Mr. W. K. Rowcome who has acted as President of the Club was unavoidably absent through illness. Mr. Rowsome was tendered the reigns only after considerable persuasion last spring and in his first year in the role, he has more than made good.

Chas. Hanna is to be congratulated for the efforts he put forth as it was on his shoulders that the whole burden fell, and although the busiest man in town he found time to receive the reports and despatch daily letters to the secretary on the progress.

The Nationals are a fine body of men, a credit to the city and to Ontario, and they will enter the contest next year with the same gin thusiasm which they have left it.

CENTRAL LEAGUE OFFICIALS MET

Points To Be Presented At O.B.A.A. Meeting Were Discussed

Central League officials met yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. and a fair discussion was received, although Peterborough and Kingston were not represented. It is understood at present, however, that Peterborough intends to be in the Central League next year, and they will probably have delegates at the annual meeting, which was settled on as being held in Deloro on November 17th.

Representatives present were President McFadden, of Peterborough, H. E. McNally, of Deloro, Harold Luke, of Oshawa, Walter Cerow, Belleville, F. Donovan of Deloro, C. Hannah of Deloro, and Wenet, Thurogood, secretary of Belleville. Discussion of the rosterence rule took place and some point which will be brought up at the annual meeting and then will be brought before the O. A. B. A. meeting next April.

The League executive dined later at the Hotel Quite as the guests of the Belleville Baseball Club. Mr. R. A. Talbot of Deloro, was also present, as he is the League representative to the O. A. B. A.

Dugald McDougall of St. Paul refused to stop writing Miss Janet Corwin even after her marriage to another, so she had him sent to jail.

NAVY SPEAKER WILL BE HEARD

First Meeting of Canadian Club At Armouries Monday Night

The announcement of the first meeting of the Women's Canadian Club after their adjournment for the summer months will be greeted with interest by the citizens of Belleville. In accordance with their usual custom the first meeting of the season has been declared an open one, not restricted to members of the Club, but the general public is cordially invited. This organization has been the means of bringing to the city many able speakers and a special treat is in store for Monday night when Lieut.-Col. C. O. Williams of Toronto, Manager of the Navy League of Canada, will address the gathering. It will be remembered that Lieut.-Col. Williams was in Belleville before during the stirring days of the Great War when he was connected with a movement to raise money for the interest of the Navy. His subject will concern the Navy League and will deal with many points of interest before the public at the present time.

Mr. Sam Hardy, Dominion President of the League, in a recent issue of the "Sailor," a Canadian periodical, deals with this question of the Canadian Navy at length. He discusses the unenviable position in which Canada found herself during the Great War, with her miles and miles of undefended coast line and how when she had to rely solely on ever watchful eye of the Mother Coun try's great fleet, upon which she was and still is dependent for protection. "The best guarantee of peace is to be always prepared for war," is an old adage equally true now as in olden times and according to Mr. Harris a navy is not so much an instrument of war as an assurance of peace. This question should prove of great interest to the people of Belleville and a large crowd should greet Col. Williams when he ascends the platform at the Armouries Monday night.

Hamilton sang short readings, and Miss F. Barber gave a solo. Rev. Malcolm Malcolm delighted her listeners with a piano solo. Dr. Malcolm, pastor, acted as Chairman.

Payne, President of the Men's Club, stated today that several prominent speakers have promised to address the gatherings under the auspices of the Men's Club. Last year the rooms were filled to capacity for these events and with the success that attended them, it is purposed to repeat them this winter

VISITORS SEEK SWEET REVENGE

Kingston, Oct. 13.—While no definite word as arranged for has yet been received from Belleville regarding the return soccer match between that city and from that City and Royal Canadian Artillery, it is expected that the local artillerymen will go to Belleville for this game on Saturday of this week.

This was the tentative agreement arrived at when the Belleville team was in Kingston a week ago and word is expected any moment in reply to the arrangement.

The artillery lost in their previous game, the final score being 2-1 but hope to do better when they are in Belleville.

A delightfully arranged party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bennett, 26 Charlotte Street, Wednesday evening in honor of the birthday of their daughter Minnie. Over twenty-five guests were in attendance and the evening was pleasantly spent in many different games and music. About midnight a dainty supper was served, a large birthday cake with its lighted candles, occupying the centre of the table, and gifts and favors were features of the evening. The merry party broke up at a late hour.

DUMBELLS ARE COMING TO THE CAPITOL THEATRE

Captain Plunkett made no mistake when he decided to bring the dumbell girls to his tenth annual Dumbells' revue, which opens next week at the Capitol Theatre for Monday and Tuesday, October 22nd and 23rd.

The remarkable showmanship that has kept the Dumbells at the top for nine years is still in evidence in this latest production, for while the chorus of dainty misses add materially to the beauty and charm of the presentation, it is the "old reliables" like Al. Plunkett, Harry Binns, Morley Plunkett, Carson Geddes and Charlie Jeaves, that carry on the traditions that have made this organization the most successful combination in the theatrical world today.

Jessie Butt and Aileen Parker, prima donna and soubrette respectively, are two notable additions to the scoring and singing and dancing strength of the company. Cameron Geddes, another old favorite, is credited with the biggest song hit of the present season, a negro melody that will live for generations.

The musical act brings out the finest display of real music. Howard Fogg with his violin, Louis Gerzo and Fred Binney in piano duets, the Dumbell Quartette, Plunkett Brothers Trio, Cameron Geddes and Harry Binns in solos, Fred Binney and Al. Plunkett in piano playing, and the special male chorus singing "The Flag", are highlights of the musical revue half-hour ever dropped into the middle of a girl and music revue.

"Why Worry" opened in Toronto, as usual, running concurrently with the National Exhibition, and this year will follow the usual trail blazed by The Dumbells many years ago and followed each successive season.

THE STATEMENT OF BIBLE HOLDS

70 Years Old Still Applicable, Doctor Tells Insurance Company

New York.—The biblical limitation of three-score years and ten applies as much today as it ever did, Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, told physicians who have gathered from all parts of the country to attend the "Graduate Fortnight" of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Devoted to Age

Dr. Dublin's topic, "Old Age and What It Means to the Community," was typical of the subjects which will form the basis for all the lectures and clinical demonstrations during the two weeks of the session, as the entire conference will be devoted to the problem of aging and old age.

While it is true that more people are living to an old age, Dr. Dublin said, this has simply been due to the fact that we are saving more lives at young or ages. The life span itself has hard been affected by better hygienic and economic conditions. A man has practically no more expectation of living beyond 70 now than he had in 1840, he said. At that time a person who was 50 years old had an even chance of living to be only 71.

The reason the life span has remained stationary, according to Dr. Dublin, is that the diseases which predominate in old age have not come under control. These are particularly cancer, which is on the increase,

Lucky?

When she comes to the footlights to acknowledge Broadway's applause of her marvelous dancing in "Rosalie," of New York," theatre-goers sit forward to admire her youthful charms, the fresh crispness of her rose-petal skin and her gleaming black hair. She's Virginia Clark, of 142 Twenty-third St., Jackson Heights, New York City.

"When friends say I'm lucky to have such clear skin and soft, shining hair," she says Mum does it!" I have to tell them it isn't luck at all. In my case, it's the result of care. For my hair, I use the simple creme Shaks all the rage among New York girls now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. This makes my scalp feel just grand and keeps away all dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so healthy that there is shampoo nearly as often as I did. It makes my hair so soft and easy to dress; holds it in place; and gives it more lustre than brilliantine!"

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. Dandruff disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, set with it, last in longer. It isn't oily and doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 25c bottle. Over five million used a year!

and Bright's disease and heart diseases, which have only slightly declined.

Must Fight Disease

Dr. Dublin did not feel there was any great possibility of increasing the life span, but that the solution to the problem, if any, lies in conquering disease and in taking the greatest toll of old age, in preventive measures upon the part of old people, in periodical physical examinations and community hygiene.

At the evening session Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, spoke on "The Doctor—Trainer of Athletes." He put forward the suggestion that doctors must become trainers to keep old people fit, rather than physic healers, "dealing with their palpable ills."

The tendency of doctors has always been, he said, to concentrate their efforts on taking care of old people after they become ill, instead of taking care of them before they become ill and keeping them well. The aged must look to doctors for counsel, as well as medical treatment. That would require a change of attitude, Dr. Vincent said, both on the part of the doctors and of old people, and would involve attention to diet, exercise, personal hygiene and medical examinations.

Two other talks were by Professor Vittorio Putti of the Institute Ortopedico Rizzoli, of Bologna, Italy on "The Treatment of Arthritis Deformans of the Hip", and the other by Dr. Alfred S. Warthin, professor of pathology, University of Michigan, on "The Pathology of the Aging Process."

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise; often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms of which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overweight constipation, shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are overweight do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

TOKYO POLICE ARE GIVEN REVOLVERS

Tokyo, (By C. P.)— Time was when Tokyo policemen thought they were armed when they swaggered about the streets of the city relying solely on their small swords. But that time has ended. "Swords are all right with which the criminals are armed only with knives or sticks, but what can they do when they have guns?" asked members of the metropolitan force, and in reply they were told, in effect, that for many long years the police of Tokyo have got along very nicely with swords. What was good for your forefathers is good enough for you.

And then came the murder of a Japonlan who was shot through the head by a man he had placed under arrest and was taking to the police station. The gunman escaped.

In future the policemen of Tokyo will be given guns and revolver practice will become one of their daily activities.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

Thursday afternoon Mr. Howard had a lengthy discussion with the officers and section commanders of the B. C. I. and V. S. cadet corps. It was decided that this year's group of officers from public school will be privates this year and promoted next year.

Did you see Rogers' Batteryless Radios at Ribbards New Radio and Electric Shop, 305 Coliman Street?

Collegiate Clothing at popular prices is supplied by Clarke Dickens, local agent for Tip Top Tailors.

Mr. Howard emphasized the necessity of the officers and N. C. O's being snappy on parade and around the school. If the officers are not snappy it is hard to expect the men in the ranks to be. Mr. Howard spoke of the number of cadets there were this year and he expects to have a bigger and better cadet corps than ever.

For prompt service on gas and oil try Lloyd and Evans corner of Dundas and Front Streets, Coleman and Bridge.

Try Quick and Robertson for the latest in Collegiate clothes.

The rugby team have practiced faithfully all this week and should come out the victor of their game with Albert College today.

Try Arthur McGee for the latest made-to-measure suits and overcoats.

"No, not generous and gay. She was dismissed and the officers will have a room to themselves where they may gather together in conference.

For snappy cuts that satisfy try the Antiseptic Barber Shop, Hotel Quinte managed by S. M. Spiker.

Lionel Blaker, the signal man in the Bay of Quinte League will be play ing middle on the B. C. I. line today against Albert. He is a good tackler and will give a very good account of himself in the game. Purchase and Jenkins are the stars of the Albert team and they will certainly cause the Collegiate boys a lot to worry about.

Recreation is the spice of life. Try Hall and Symons Billiard Academy, 44 Bridge St.—E. Indianapolis 500 mile road race won by Firestone gum-dipped tires. George Delline local distributor.

Some of the old boys are practising every night on the B. C. I. and V. S. campus. They should certainly be able to get a very good team from all the material around the city. They practise against the Collegiate team and last night held the collegiate team to a standstill. R. St. Denis will be the quarter-back for today's game. Jack Cousins, the regular quarter-back broke a toe.

See Joan Crawford starring in "Dress Marie" now showing at the Capitol.

Twiddy, Bdmyeatile, LeBarre and Cy. Williams will be working on the Collegiate line today. These play ers are excellent linemen and should help greatly in defending Albert. The Collegiate payers know that they must win to keep their jobs so are going to give their best to do it.

"If caught by traffic in the middle of a street Williams will have to do, is to stand still," says an expert.

"THE STRANGE CASE OF CAPT. RAMPER"

Captain Ramper is a daring aviator who starts out to find the North Pole. He is forced down somewhere north of the Arctic Circle; his plane smashed beyond repair and with no means for aid.

In connection with this great picture at the Capitol next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the artist has drawn the above puzzle. The plane at the right holds exactly 150 gallons of gasoline. It was to fly to the North Pole and back again. There are several roads to choose. Each dot represents one gallon of gas. Can you pick the road that will take Captain Ramper through with his 150 gallons? Start from the star and follow through on the lines. Count each dot you pass as one gallon of gasoline used. Where the fuel's fork, go either way in the direction of the arrows. Try to pick the right one. The first 12 correct answers returned to the Puzzle Editor of The Intelligencer will each receive a Free Pass for the picture "The Strange Case of Captain Ramper," at the Capitol, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Do it now!

News Of Movies

REGENT

Rural England is the background of "Doomsday," which will be on the screen at the Regent on Monday. Paramount made "Doomsday" from the book of the same name by Warwick Deeping. "Doomsday" is a new one for the movies pictures. Pictures have been laid in almost every country and clime in the world but rarely have they the farmlands of England as the locale.

Florence Vidor, who appeared recently in "Honeymoon Hate" and "One Woman to Another," has the starring role in "Doomsday". Gary Cooper, who has been coming to the fore of late in such hits as "Wings", "Children of Divorce" and "The Legion of the Condemned," plays opposite her.

Confronted by the problem of marrying for money and luxury or for love, Miss Vidor gives a wonderful characterization. She chooses the luxury and realizing her mistake goes back to the man she loves but he refuses to have her. The way in which she modestly makes a very interesting photodrama.

BELLE THEATRE

The Movie Engineers marvelled at the massive and spectacular mob scene, in which 1,000 extras participated before a battery of 13 cameras.

The mob action took up more than one hundred feet unsurpassed in the history of movie-making, according to movie engineers. A specially-portable radio-sending station was utilized by Director Lewis Milestone and more than 100 high-powered searchlights and other lighting equipment provided illumination along the movie thoroughfare.

"The Racket" is the famous melodrama of metropolitan gangland adapted from the sensational stage-hit by Bartlett Cormack. Louis Wolheim, as Nick Scarsa, the berserk, big Tom Meighan's chief support in the production undertaken by Lewis Milestone and Marie Prevost is the leading lady. The Meighan melodrama was produced by the Caddo Company for Paramount release.

QUEEN'S STARS READY FOR FRAY

Kingston, Oct. 13.—The big double header at the Richardson Stadium on Saturday is attracting more and more interest, and there has been a spirited rush for tickets at the Athletic Board office, but there are plenty of good pasteboards still available and a great crowd is sure to be on hand to watch Queen's U. play R. M. C. and the seniors take on the Old Boys in their annual match.

Yesterday afternoon the seniors were out for their first practice since the Varsity game, and they took things rather easy, though today the heavy work starts. With the exception of Britton, Monahan and Sutton the players are all in great shape, and should the old boys travel at a fast pace to win.

TOTEMISM APPLIED IN AUSTRALIA ALSO

Sydney, N. S. W. (C. P.)—Indians of British Columbia are not the only people who erect totem poles and honor them as their family's most precious possession. In some of the more remote sections of Australia totem ism is extraordinarily specialized according to Professor Donald Thompson, noted Australian anthropologist.

Among these natives, says Prof. Thompson, "the totem may be regarded as an animal, plant, or other object which is held in special regard by a man, or group of men, and between which a peculiar relation exists. Often a native calls his totem 'elder brother', or perhaps even 'Father', believing that he is descended from it. On the extraordinary totemism of the Arunta, tribe in Central Australia, studied in detail by Spencer and Gillen, the French sociologists, Emile Durkheim has based a new theory as to the origin of religious beliefs of mankind.

Australia, however, is being made to make a complete survey of Australia's remaining natives. In the state of Victoria, where the population was once exceedingly dense, particularly along the rivers and estuaries, after only a few generations of white settlement, there remain only about sixty natives. Of their ancestral beliefs and of their organization, little enough is known—and the rest is gone forever. We are too late."

Let Me Tell You

Should a sick mattress turn rusty, a coat of aluminum paint will improve the appearance and keep it in perfect condition.

Baths which show signs of wear and tear look also considerably improved by this quick-drying paint.

Calcoplumed oil can be made very easily at home. Grate three pennyworth of camphor into three pennyworth of sweet oil. Cork bottle loosely and stand it in a basin of hot water until the camphor is thoroughly dissolved. An occasional shaking helps the process.

Meat cooked in a gas oven will never get dried up if a pan-jar half filled with cold water is placed in the bottom of the oven.

The steam rises and keeps the meat tender and juicy.

Flies will quickly disperse from any room when a hot poker is laid on a plate of camphor. They cannot stand the fumes.

JUST IN PASSING

I THINK I KNOW NO FINER THINGS THAN DOGS

BY HALLIE CARRINGTON BRENT

Though prejudice perhaps my mind bridge,
I think I know no finer things than dogs:
The young ones, they of gay and bounding heart,
Who run in their games to take a part,
Who with mock tragedy their antics cloak
And, from their wild eyes tail, admit the joke,
The old ones, with their wistful, faded eyes,
They who desire no further paradise
Than the warm comfort of our smile and hand,
Who tune their moods to ours, and understand
Each word and gesture; they who lie at our feet,
To welcome us—with no rebuke if late
Sublime the love they bear; but ask for love
Close to our feet, unrecompensed to give.
Beside which many men seem very dogs—
I think I know no finer things than dogs.

ELDERBERRY LORE

There is a good deal of lore connected with the elder-tree, which is so common in this district. There is said to be healing in the flower, the fruit, the leaves, and the bark—if one can take the word of country folk and gipsies in such a matter. Elizabethan ladies used to make a special concoction for the complexion from elder-flowers.

Gipsies weave all sorts of legends round the elder-tree. Some say that it is betrayed Christ when He hid himself under its branches, others that Judas hanged himself from this tree, and that Natural chamois gloves are apt to lose their color when washed in soapy water. To avoid this, boil some orange peel in the soap flakes, before using; strain and allow to cool to right temperature.

Hot water shrinks and hardens chamois leather. After washing rinse in very soapy water, and a few drops of olive oil added will make the gloves dry soft and pliable.

In Denmark it is said that Mother Elder inhabits the tree, and that one will haunt the footsteps of the forester who cuts it down. If he only cuts a small branch for firewood he must pray for pardon.

No cradle may be made from the wood or branches of an elder-tree, lest Mother Elder claim the child's life while to cane a child with an elder stick is to stunt its growth and possibly endanger its reason.

Heat well with a fork and chill while preparing the rest of salad. Pare and core apples. Cut lengthwise apple is at hand, use it without paring, cutting in neat slice. Combine fruit, ginger, celery and nuts with enough cooked dressing to make moist. Arrange the cabbage in a border on salad plates and fill centre with fruit.

COOKING FOR INVALIDS

Always prepare food for the sick in the most careful and attractive manner. Even the simplest dishes are unusually anne and far more appetizing to the annoyance of careless preparing and serving are removed in nurses.

When cooking for invalids it is wise if possible, to carry out the following rules:

Always obey the doctor's orders most carefully.

Never give stale food to invalids.

Never make large quantities of anything and do not leave any food out to sick-room.

See that all food is very punctually served: many patients require a little nourishment every two hours.

As a rule, highly seasoned or spiced dishes, but aim at preparing simple food, well cooked, and daintily served.

Never taste any dishes in the patient's presence.

In making broth or soups always use fresh meat and not stock from the stock-pot. Be careful to remove all traces of fat before serving.

When fish is allowed, choose white fish, delicate in flavour, such as whiting, sole, plaice, lemon sole, fresh haddock. Steam bake, or make the fish up into soufflés, timbales or creams. Thick sauces are bad for invalids' stomachs.

Chicken is the most digestible meat; pigeons, pheasants, partridge, grouse are not high make a change. Tripe, sweetbread, mutton, and beef come next in order of digestibility. Freshly cooked mutton is preferable to warmed-up dishes.

Serving foods attractively may make a stronger appeal to the appetite than choosing them judiciously or preparing them skilfully. Remember that, as foods must be carried from the kitchen to the sick room, they must not be placed on deep dishes, especially liquids.

If the patient has a contagious disease, a paper napkin should be used and immediately destroyed. Any remaining bits of food should also be burned, and the dishes should be sterilized by pouring them over with water which should be gradually brought to a hard boil, if the illness is too delicate for that, two or three should be used, and after each serving all the dishes should be scalded and set in the sun.

"In the locomotive department, my boy?" was the reply.

"No, sir," was the question is," said his lordship, "that this young man courted the plaintiff's daughter considerable time and then discarded her for another whom he married?"

"Yes, my lord," said the barrister, "that is the case I intend to prove."

"Ah," remarked Mr. Justice Hawkins, "he's in the locomotive department. A case of shunting, I suppose!"

MORE HAWKINSANA

Recent reference in this page to the late Mr. Justice Hawkins has brought from a correspondent some personal reminiscences of this versatile judge of which are interesting, as illustrating his sense of humor.

In a case of chicken stealing, the accused alleged that the stolen fowls were given to him by a friend, a butcher named Shamrock. The defective officer who had charge of the case was asked by the judge if he had found this man, Shamrock. The reply was in the negative, the officer adding that if such men were a hawker the police would have traced him by the number of his license. When summing up to the jury his lordship referred to the police-officer's evidence, and said:—

"Gentlemen, I suggest to you that this Shamrock is a 'plant'."

Upon another occasion, Mr. Justice Hawkins had before him a case of breach of promise of marriage, in which the defendant was not represented by counsel. The barrister for the plaintiff was proceeding with his opening speech, when he was interrupted by the judge, who asked what was the nature of the defendant's occupation. The barrister looked surprised, knowing full well that his lordship had that information before him in the document relating to the case, and old stagers in court guessed that a joke was afoot.

"The defendant is in the employment of the Midland Railway Company, my lord," the barrister replied.

"In which department?" asked the judge.

Poems Old And New

OLD FRIENDS
BY A. MUIR

O! sure am I, when I come to die,
And through Death's portals go,
Those cats, and dogs, and little white mice
Will be waiting for me below.

And birds, I used to know,
Shall all come rushing to welcome me,
Their friend of the long ago.

And the cats will purr, "We've missed you, sir,
And we know you missed us too."
And the dogs will bark, "Good morning friend,
We've missed long for you."
And the little white mice shall squeak with joy,
And the birds will chirp, and coo.

And happen what may, on the Judgment day,
I shall not affrighted be,
If the cats, and dogs, and all weak, dumb things
That on earth were d.ir to see,
Should receive from God the gift of speech,
For I know they'll plead for me.

TO ONE COMPLAINING OF TIMES' ADVANCES
BY HARRY KEMP

Time has taken naught from me surely
Of many things most glorious to my heart;
He took youth first; I sickened when I heard it—
My dear shut by him—his swift feet depart!

Once you were young; why, then, not hold your tongue—
Say, is it nothing, once to have been young?
You'd have no need to pine in age's school
If you had seized him by the forelock bold!

Time chevres continually my going
And coming; always while my days extol
On every citadel his spearheads show.
Did we beware my long antagonist!

Did we beware the swift, innumerous sally
At gates the moment open for a
Continual assault of powerful armies
As ineluctable and sure as death.

Yet, Time must not defeat but come upon you—
A greater foeman put you still to rout—
When one by one, the marching stars beginning,
Captain Eternity draws up, without

Answers To Correspondents

"MOTHER" — I think the little prayer you want is rainer Tabo's "A Child's Prayer," viz:—

Make me, dear Lord, polite and kind
To everyone, I pray,
And may I ask you how you find Yourself dear Lord, today?

"DISTRESSED" — It is something you must decide for yourself, but you must remember that no question is ever settled until it is settled right. Also that a good can come out of wrong. If you are hurting someone else by your actions you can never have a lasting happiness. These may sound like bromides but they so as true as that death comes to all.

"A. W." —It was Napoleon who wrote: "when I want any good headwork done I always choose a man. If otherwise suitable, with a long nose." I have discovered that noses may be divided into five classes, Roman, Grecian, Cogitative, Jewish and Snub. And next week I am going to publish a description of each of these types with its character tendencies.

WATERING GAS CHEAPENING OIL

The reports of the Ontario Motor League concerning watering and other doctoring of gasoline sold by dealers indicates that the proprietors of some filling stations are also trying to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs.

The proprietor of a Windsor garage has publicly declared that one service station near the border cities sold oil of such poor quality to a tourist that the car's bearings burned out shortly afterwards and at a meeting held to consider this charge, another responsible gentleman said that he had in his office a sample of gasoline sold to a tourist in a gas station on provincial highway-No. 2 which was almost seventy-four per cent water.

The practice of palming off poor and adulterated gasoline and oil on tourists has actually become so general, it is stated, that some visitors are commencing to bring their own supplies with them when they enter the province.

WHEN YOUR BABY CATCHES A COLD

In spite of all precautions little ones will take colds—especially during the changeable days of our fall weather. SINICAL SADIE SEES

THE SPIRIT OF THE PRESS CIDER!

It must have been a very precocious youngster who gave his degrees of cold as cold, cough, boffin!

One of the hardest things for the human mind to comprehend is how much money Rockefeller has. Fond of a man or woman whom we thoroughly dislike.

A SCREW LOOSE

Extract from a letter written by a fond mother to teacher:—

"He is continually under the doctor because he suffers from his head. He has had it on and off since he was about two years old."

Here's one I heard this week in Toronto:

The motorist pulled up immediately at the signal, but his front wheels were just over the white line. The policeman was quite cross about it. Annoyed at being reproved, the motorist started to argue. Anxious to avoid a scene, his wife, who was sitting beside him, joined in. "Please don't take any notice of him, officer," she whispered, in the sweetest voice. "He's been drinking rather a lot this evening."

A SQUARE PEGS

A critic insulted Mr. Asquith.
Whose strictures earned nothing or less.
By diverting to trade
All the spill he displayed
As a butcher and baker and cadess.

But a butcher located at Waltham,
When poverty made him feel solemn,
Very wisely began
To have lucrative plan
Of selling his tripe by the column.

TOO DEAR

I told my Esmeralda I would buy the best of hosiery for her,
I told her she should have the moon, if only seemed to bear her,
But when she mentioned hosiery at thirty bob a pair
And lifted shoes at four pounds ten—
I vanished down the stair,
Crying, "Farewell, Esmeralda, for I cannot marry you
With your thirty shilling stocking in the one and only shoe,
I really can't afford you, but thirty may be found
With a hefty balance at the bank and never mind the mash."

AN UNEASY SEAT

At a football match played between Ireland and Scotland in Belfast one of the host's supporters kept shouting during the great excitement, "Hit 'em, Ireland!" An old Scotsman in the crowd was at length driven to make a retort. "You might be able to sit on the bed, mon, an' make on the rose, but, I tell ye," said he, "ye canna sit on the thustle!"

All this is not only deliberate, fraudulent doling a serious disservice to the efforts being made to increase the tourist traffic. It may be difficult

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So also are the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitation, the Tablets will be stamped with Your "Bayer Cross" trademark.

YOUR friends will soon tell you how much better you are looking when you begin the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This is the best proof that it is no imagination on your part and that this restorative treatment does positively restore health and vigor to the nervous system.

Women's nerves seem to be act at a very high temperature. They are kept up by excitement but when the reaction comes there is liable to be a collapse of the nerves.

Then there comes weeks of struggle to regain health and vigor and to get free from headaches, sleeplessness and feelings of discouragement and fatigue.

But happily the old system of deadening the nerves with narcotics has given way to the rebuilding of the depleted nervous system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The results accomplished by this popular restorative are truly wonderful and swiftly the word is passed from one to another so that many thousands of women now know just what to use when feeling tired and nervous.

VICTORY SIX HAS MOTOR BEAUTY

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages.

The wide Victory chassis frame finish with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers. And provides a quality of pickup, flexibility and fast floating action that we urge you most earnestly to investigate.

WOMEN DRIVERS MORE CAREFUL THAN ARE MALES

Anyway They Are Much More Battery Conscious

"Whether men or women are the better drivers is a debatable question, but there is no doubt that women are the more careful drivers," states Mr. Chris. Lewis, local Willard battery dealer.

"How do I know? Because most of the car owners who bring their cars in for regular battery inspection are women," claims Mr. Lewis.

According to this battery dealer, women are more "battery-conscious" than men, and, having more time, they usually are the ones nowadays who see that their battery gets its Willard Five-Point Inspection.

The Willard Five-Point Service is a policy of regular inspection which all Willard stations call in to car owners having any make of battery in their car, free of charge. It consists of testing each cell, replacing evaporation, cleaning terminals, cleaning the top of the battery and fastening hold downs.

Mr. Lewis claims it is a very popular service feature and saves lots of time and money for the car owners who take advantage of it.

STUDEBAKER A T BIG AIR RACES

Two champions, of speed met September 8-9 at the dedication ceremonies of the new Walker Airport in the Border Cities, Ontario. One claimed the sky as his domain—the other the earth. The aerial speedsters, were airplanes that were taking off from the new airport for Los Angeles, Cal., on The International Air Race, one of the longest ever started in the Dominion. The other was Studebaker's President Eight Roadster, which in the longest ever completed the longest and fastest run ever made by any automobile—30,000 miles in 28, 328 minutes. The Studebaker was serving in the capacity as official car for the opening of the new airport.

Captain R. H. Soundy, chief pilot instructor for the Border Cities Aero Club, which owns the Walker airport, selected the President Eight Roadster to be used by Ray Cloniz, who not only supervised the start of the international flight, but conducted the first official Canadian air race the Essex County Air Derby.

More than fifty planes participated in the two-day event, which was the largest meet of its kind ever held in the Dominion. The selection of the Studebaker to act as official car was not only a tribute to the manufacturers of this automobile, but also was a public expression of the high esteem in which the Studebaker Corporation of Canada, limited, is held in the Dominion.

GOOD REFRIGERATOR AT WONG'S CAFE

One of those days when you're having one of Wong's special fifty-cent full course dinners or suppers, have them show you the new electric Frigidaire refrigerator, recently installed in their kitchens at a cost of approximately one thousand dollars— and cash at that—something unusual in these days of monthly payments.

Wong's have installed this modern method of refrigeration because they rest to give customers the best, not only the choicest foods in most reasonable prices, but foods that are kept in a perfectly fresh state as only electric refrigeration can keep them.

So in adopting the Frigidaire system, Wong's are keeping well abreast of the times, and a little ahead of most small city restaurants. Other features as-this help to make Wongs the kind of a place in which one likes to eat. Wong's is next the Intelligencer Office.

MODERN MOTOR REPAIR SHOP

Just a tip or two for the motorist who has occasion to have his car repaired and then—and who hasn't.

Dropped into W. S. Gerow's Motor Repair Shop the other day and found it a hive of industry. Cars and trucks of every make and size were to be found there having repair of various kinds made on them. This one was being treated to a valvegrinding; that one having a set of brakes relined—and still another being greased and oiled. And so it went with a first-class staff of mechanics rapidly accomplishing the work called for and turning out one job after another quickly.

So it seems that new car production necessarily means more work for the repair shops; but when you have occasion to have it done by one who know their business and who have a reputation for knowing their stuff, Gerow's Garage and Repair Shop are well equipped to handle fine motor repair work of all kinds. Every mechanism of your motor should not be entrusted to any but a firm upon whom you can absolutely rely, and Gerow will do the job for you right.

They're located at 152 Dundas Street. Just around the corner from Front and the phone number is 1484. You'll find their service prompts as well as efficient.

11TH ANNIVERSARY OF MOORES IS STORY OF STEADY PROGRESS

Modern Business Means Adopted—Spell Success

To have a record of eleven years successful business in the same building—and eleven years in which one's business has been growing yearly by leaps and bounds—has been the experience of one Belleville retail business—Mooney' Candy Store, now celebrating its 11th birthday here.

On 2nd October 1917 Peter Moores opened his present store in the Anglo-American Building, and soon established a reputation as a maker of high quality homemade candies and ice cream—a reputation which has been maintained through those eleven years.

And the result? Today Moores policy of making and selling better homemade candies for less money, and the best obtainable grades of bonzi chocolates has been justified, for it is a fact that Moores business is today one of the largest if not THE largest of its kind in the city. The store has been improved and modernized—profits have been turned back into the business to improve it; a modern candy-making kitchen, electrical refrigeration, and while others were satisfied to "carry on" in the same old way, with methods of twenty years ago applying, Moores has well demonstrated what can be accomplished through the combination of the desire to give the public the utmost value for its money and the adoption of modern business methods and improvements.

In the matter of publicity, Moores candy business is a regular user of daily newspaper space and attributes its success in no small way to the power of the daily press in making known the feature values to the public from week to week.

During the past summer the proprietor Mr. Peter Moores, has opened another store, this time in the town of Trenton, and the new business is flourishing.

So altogether, Moores on their 11th birthday, look forward to the future prepared to keep a few jumps ahead in the way of value giving and

CHICAGO TAXIS WELL GUARDED

Yellow And Checker Companies Wage War In Windy City

Chicago—Sixty garages, cab stands and offices of the Yellow and Checker Cab companies are under police guard as part of elaborate precautions against further violence in what police term a war between employees of the two companies.

An energy for 15 suspects also was ordered responsible for the fire which destroyed the stables of John Hertz and 11 thoroughbred horses Monday night.

Hertz, chairman of the board of directors of the Yellow Cab Company refused to connect the fire with recent bombings of two Checker Cab garages. Police, however, attributed the stable fire to Cary, Ill., to enemies of the company.

Harry "Prince, Dutch" Brown was one of the men sought. He was accused some time ago of the murder of Joseph Weiss, former president of the Checker Cab Company.

Attorneys of the Checker Company declared blame for the Cary fire should be laid to turf enemies of Hertz. Col. F. Barrett, counsel for the Yellow interests, called the fire "a plain attempt to intimidate Mr. Hertz."

Checker Cab attorneys issued the statement:

"The Checker Company is in no wise concerned in any so-called trial war nor is it to be blamed for the violent incitement, boulevarders and the crooked political element of the county."

Then they demanded that the city council investigate reputed favoritism to Yellow Cab in the matter of so-called "loop parking places."

WHO SAYS THAT ROMANCE DIED?

Here Is An Example of True 20th Century Romance

There are people who say Romance is dead. Of course it isn't. There never was a more romantic age. The people really to be pitied are the professional storytellers. They are always "up against" the facts, which are much stranger than fiction and have a way of surprising or satisfying their most ingenious efforts.

Here is one example. There is, at Tatnuck, a girl of nineteen living in a quiet little house at Malden and working for a modest salary in the local branch of the great multiple provision store. There is also a young man, one of the owners of the firm, the grandson of the founder who began life a penniless Irish immigrant and died a few months ago leaving a trifle of eleven hundred thousand pounds. The young man was at the firm's annual outing and met the girl. The rest—well, the rest is the old, old tale that everybody knows. "King Cophetua loved his beggar maid." The damsel in this case was by no means a beggar; but her station in life was so different from that of her admirer that her father at one time had misgivings. The prospective father-in-law had none, and gave the young couple his blessing. "So they were married and lived happily ever after." At least we hope they will.

Old Time Torture No Worse Than

Mr. McArthur's experience with inflamed kidneys.

Gin Pills brought relief.

As he himself puts it, "I suffered for 6 months with kidney trouble. Doctors said I would have to go to a hospital before I could go back to my heavy work in the machine shop. Fortunately, at this critical time, a druggist suggested Gin Pills. What a boon! After taking 2 boxes," Mr. McArthur concludes gratefully, "I had no more trouble."

Gin Pills have relieved countless cases of acute kidney condition similar to this. Before serious trouble can develop, take the relief that has proved the first sign of bad backache, stubborn headaches, being dull in urine, nervous joints, dizziness, a burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination. FAIRY TALES ON SILVER SCREEN

"Little Grey Doors" In Course of Production At Trenton

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 13.—Two years ago an American publisher brought out a book of wonderful fairy tales by a Toronto woman, Alexandrina Woods. Beautifully written in few right kind to the hearts of the small children who read it and cherished it.

Now the Ontario government has secured the picture rights and the films are being taken this week in Trenton. The author wrote under her maiden name, but the people of St. Luke's parish know her as the wife of their pastor, Rev. G. F. B. Doherty. When she is not attending church meetings or getting dinner ready for her busy husband and their three children, she is snatching a few moments to pen a new story.

She regrets the little time left in the work-a-day world for this expression of her creative talent. "But those who say that children between thirteen and sixteen are any less difficult to manage than babies don't know what they are talking about," she says.

The new film will be added to the Ontario government library and sent out to schools and churches all over the province, according to Hon. J. D. Monteith, who administers the motion picture bureau.

Entitled, "Little Grey Doors", the picture begins with a child's dream. Through the little grey doors in the Land of Punishment he sees himself tortured in the actions of naughty children.

Then to this land he travels down, down into the earth through the trunk of a tree, just the sort of adventure which delights the heart of a child. The only grown-ups in the production appear in the room of "tired mothers." The cast includes fascinating elves and children in all stages of naughtiness.

Mrs. Doherty has resided in Toronto for fifteen years, coming here from St. Paul's church, London, Ont., with which Mr. Doherty was formerly connected.

ARE YOU AFRAID OF YOUR MEALS

Proof That the Stomach is Weak and Needs Toning Up

Are you one of the many sufferers who dread meal time? Hungry, and yet afraid to eat, because of the pains and discomforts that follow. When the stomach is out of order the whole system suffers, and as the blood becomes thin and watery it becomes increasingly difficult to correct the digestive disorder. There is no tonic for the stomach that is not a tonic for the whole body; thus a blood-building tonic such as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, not only relieves indigestion, but adds to the general strength. Mr. D. J. Shaw, Selkirk Road, P.E.I., has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a severe case of indigestion and relates his experience for the benefit of other sufferers. He says: "I suffered from indigestion for a number of years. My case was so bad that the doctor described it as dyspepsia was gone, constipation was prevent, and my nerves were all on edge. I could not sleep well at night, and the world was a dark spot for me. I tried a number of remedies, but without any benefit. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended, but without much faith, having tried so many failures, I decided to try them. After taking three boxes I noticed a change for the better. Then I got five boxes more and found I had a genuine remedy. I continued using them until I took moderate exercise, could take plain food without suffering as former ly, and proved that my stomach was good blood, and that this good blood will restore the stomach and nerves. Anyone suffering from stomach or nerve troubles will make no mistake in giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Write today for a free copy of their booklet "What to Eat and How to Eat."

OF all the remarkable automotive inventions, and all the mechanical progress which has been made to date, the contribution of one man stands out head and shoulders above all others.

This man, Charles Y. Knight, realized that so long as carbon troubles and valve grinding were necessary, motorists could not hope to enjoy constant, carefree performance; nor an endless and even flow of power.

The World's Simplest Engine

His invention—the patented, high-compression sleeve-valve engine—is acknowledged by engineering experts to be the simplest and most efficient of all automotive power plants. It has automatically added scores of thousands of extra miles to the life and usefulness of a motor car—and at the same time has saved its owners their share of the $420,000,000 tax which motorists on this continent paid last year for the correction of damage done by carbon troubles and valve grinding.

The sleeve-valve engine is simplicity itself.

In each cylinder, two metal sleeves, one within the other, move silently and smoothly up and down in a precise film of oil. There is no complicated valve mechanism with springs, tappets and cams. The sleeves combine with the spherical cylinder head to form a perfectly sealed combustion chamber. As a result, the Willys-Knight engine gives high, uniform responsiveness—maximum power without smoothness—at all times, at all speeds, and with any gas.

Fewer Parts.

The Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine has from 118 to 158 less parts than any other type. You never have carbon troubles. There are no valves to grind. Thus you need never be disturbed about the weaknesses common to all other cars—the tendency to become noisy, less powerful, less efficient, after a few thousand miles.

In addition to its exclusive sleeve-valve engine, it has 7-bearing crankshaft, oil rectifier, 4-wheel brakes and every modern feature. Willys-Knight Sixes range in price from $1,395 upwards. F.o.b. factory, easy terms.

STOCK DEALERS AND PROTECTION

Livestock Men Claim Parts of Act Not Carried Out

Ottawa — Livestock dealers admit that certain provisions of the Live-stock Products Act providing safeguards for breeders are not being carried out. Dr. J. H. Grisdale pointed out, however, that the provisions are not really workable and indicated that the department was considering amendments for next session.

The act at present requires commission agents to deposit money in a trust fis cover the price of cattle received from the growers before delivery is made to packing houses or other purchasers. Dr. Grisdale said that the commission agents contend that they would be compelled to tie up large sums of money and that delay in receiving payment from the purchasers would leave them in a very difficult position. A conference between representatives of the cattle exchanges and officials of the department will be held at the end of October in an effort to straighten out the difficulty. Dr. Grisdale announced. Several dealers have already waited on the department and presented their case.

The present provision of the act requiring that posting of a bond or $10,000 to insure growers against bus ness failures of dealers will be continued. Some amendment might be made, however, to provide for bonds of from $5,000 to $50,000 depending on the business of the individual dealer. Dr. Grisdale stated that in his opinion this should provide sufficient safeguard for the livestock breeder.

Mr. Harmsworth was first elected for the Isle of Thanet in 1918, the late Lord Northcliffe and other members of the family for a long time had residences in this area of Kent, resort.

STUDENT DIED IN INITIATION

Austin—Nolle McElroy, 19-year-old University student and athlete of Houston, Tex., is dead, the victim of a mock Delta Kappa Epsilon from a bit of student horseplay to tragedy.

McElroy died last night a few minutes after being shocked by light wires, connected by a chestnut to two sets of bed springs through which he crawled as part of the traditional fraternity ritual for neophytes.

Two physicians who examined the body declined to say whether fright or the electricity itself caused death. Strength of the electrical charge which entered his body was not determined.

The fraternity issued a statement saying the youth fainted during the stunt, through which, it was asserted five other students had preceded him and to which 184 other students had been subjected during the local fraternity's history.

The youth who was a member of the university football team, was a sophomore. His father, W. A. McElroy is president of the McElroy Bond & Mortgage Corporation of Houston. An elder brother was graduated from the university recently.

MAYOR IS ASKED FOR APOLOGIES

Insulted Jews It Is Claimed Concerning "Yom Kippur" Season

New York—The mayor of Mesena, N.Y., is called on by Louis Marshall, president of the American Jewish committee, either to resign or apologize publicly for what he terms an "unwarranted outburst" against the Jewish race.

Marshall, through the Jewish Telegraph Agency, made public a letter to Mayor W. Wilbert Hawes in which he charged that on September 23, two days before Yom Kippur, the mayor "arraigned" for the interruption of a raid in Mesena by a state trooper after the disappearance of 4-year-old Barbara Griffith, "on the intolerable assumption that the Jews required the blood of Christian children for their holy days."

The child was later found unharmed, in a woods near her home where she explained she had strayed.

The letter demanded that Hawes make an immediate and public written apology to the Jewish people "for this wanton attack upon their religion and upon their honor and for the abuse of your official of this unspeakable character."

The letter demanded that this apology be in such terms "as will meet with my approval so that the world may know that the remorse which you have expressed is genuine." It demanded also that as further evidence of regret he should resign from office. Unless one or the other of these two courses are pursued Marshall said he would institute proceedings for Mayor Hawes' removal from office on the ground of official misconduct.

RUSSIA FIRST TO BAKE BOSTON BEANS

Atlantic City—Baked beans were not originally a Boston or even an American dish, but were cooked in Russian cafe in a Russian monastery a hundred years before the first Pilgrim landed at Plymouth Rock, it was said by Mrs. C. B. King of Philadelphia in an address before the fiftieth annual convention of the National Restaurant Association.

Tracing the origin of nationally famous dishes, Mrs. King said, "Succotash is the most historic dish of New England, not the pale combination of corn and lima beans which the rest of the world knows as succotash, but a luscious, nourishing meal which grows better after each re-heating."

Corn pone, or Johnny cake, she stated, was originally known as "journey cake," and its manufacture was taught to early settlers by the Indians, while boiled dinners were brought to the new land by Irish immigrants.

Pepper pot, and the "sticky cinnamon bun" are Philadelphia products, said Mrs. King, while chocolate pie originated in Washington, D.C., shoofly pie in Pennsylvania and sweet potato pie in Virginia.

CHURCH, STATE BATTLE AGAIN

Perennial Question of Separation Causes Bitter Debate

Paris.—The perennial quietness with which the question of separation of Church and State persists in France was evidenced today by a bitter debate precipitated in the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee during consideration of two apparently innocuous items in the budget of 1929.

Article 71 provides that property, personal and real, confiscated by the State under the Secularization law of 1905, when it has not been otherwise disposed of by the State, can be returned to church congregations in certain circumstances. Another article, 72, provides that the Government is authorized to turn over to missionaries the hospitals, old age homes and other properties to serve the headquarters for missions.

Violent objections were raised at once to measures being considered under the provisions, and in a heated

New York—America is being "air marked."

Aerovanes, "signposts for flyers," are going up at cities all over the country enabling the aviator to determine at a glance exactly where he is and in which direction he is going. The aerovane is one of the latest inventions in the field of aviation and, according to all men this is long needed want.

"The air traveler needs guide posts as much. If not more so than does the motorist," said Forbes Fairburn, former captain of the British Air Force and now an official of the Aerovane Company of New York.

"We're just beginning to mark the country for the aviator. It should have been done long ago. And within the next two years I predict that the country will be completely air marked for pilots with the aerovane. "It is almost a daily occurrence for fliers to get lost over densely populated sections of the country because there are no signs with which to identify the places they fly over.

"Take the trip of Colonel Lindbergh to Mexico City. He was lost for 13 1-2 hours over the Mexican mountains, wilderness and uninhabited country. He couldn't find anything to indicate to him where he was.

"Disaster might easily happen to a flier by becoming lost in the air. It already has happened. Fliers have long recognized the need of markings such as the aerovane and they are delighted to know that the air marking of the country is actually under way.

FANCIES ABOUT "MAN IN MOON"

Curious Legends Concerning The Moon In Different Parts of World

There exist in various parts of the world curious ideas regarding the dark spots in the moon's disc. In the eastern part of Asia the spots are believed to be a rabbit or a hare. The Chinese, in particular, regard them as a hare slicing up and pounding rice in a mortar. Siamese take the same view. Others see in the moon a man and a woman working in a field.

Curiously, the North American Indians have almost the same superstition as the Chinese. On old monuments in Central America the moon appears as a jug or vessel, out of which an animal like a rabbit is jumping. South American Indians on the other hand, believe that a girl, who had fallen in love with the moon, sprang toward it, was caught and kept by it, and that it is her figure which is seen on the moon's face.

Samoa islanders regard the spots as representing a woman carrying a child. Other southern people have similar beliefs, the woman and child sometimes being altered into an old woman bearing a burden on her back.

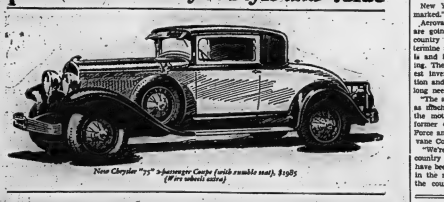

The Zuluhus have an original superstition. They say that one day Anigo, the moon, chased his sister, the sun, in his wrath. Just as he was about to catch her, she suddenly turns round and threw a great handful of soot in his face, and escaped his and of the soot he bears the traces this day. The inhabitants of Northwestern India, who account for the moon's monthly disappearance by declaring that she is burnt up regularly and replaced by a fresh moon, explain this dark/ marks by saying that they are the ashes of the former moon.

Dakota Indians have it that the moon is eaten by mice. The Pobjaz an superstition is that the souls of the dead fool on her. According to Hindoo belief the moon suffers from headache, and when it gets very bad a hides her head with her hand a covers her face from the gaze of world.

CHRYSLER genius

produces a wizardry of Style and Value

New Chrysler "75" 5-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1585 (Five wheels extra)

IT IS PERFECTLY apparent that the new Chrysler "75" and "65," in the richness of their dress and the marvelous efficiency of their performance, reach upward and outdo cars far, far beyond them in price.

They are readily singled out by a host of distinctive features of the style that re-styles all motor cars—new slender-profile chromium-plated radiator, "arched-window" silhouette, unusual grace in the sweep of the "sit-ving" fenders.

The new Chryslers also have the "Silver-Dome" high-compression engine using any fuel—counterweighted 7-bearing crankshaft—unusual safety and ease of internal-expanding hydraulic 4-wheel brakes, efficient in any weather, and shock absorbers.

There is no wizardry in such additions of genuine value—they have their source and explanation in the solid, substantial manufacturing policy of Standardized Quality, originated by and peculiar to Chrysler, which passes on to its cars of lesser price the quality features of it cars of highest price.

If there is the shadow of a doubt in your mind of the working-efficiency of this unique principle—closely compare the "75" and "65" with the best cars you can find selling for hundreds of dollars more.

New Chrysler "75" Prices—Royal Sedan, $1585; 5-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1585; Roadster (with rumble seat), $1515; Town Sedan, $1545; Crown Sedan, $1545; Convertible Coupe, $1505; 5-passenger Standard Phaeton, $1515; 7-passenger Standard Phaeton, $1515; Convertible Sedan, $1550.

TRIO SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH ON PICTON ROAD

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Knight, Wicklow, In General Hospital

CARS SIDESWIPED

Joseph Branscombe, Mail-Carrier, Attempted To Pass Car On Hill

Mr. and Mrs W. H. Knight, of Wicklow, Ont., are lying in the Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton, as the result of an automobile accident last night at Fearnall's Bridge on the Picton Highway, near Mountain View at six o'clock. The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Knight escaped without even a scratch, although their Essex Sedan was completely demolished.

The accident is alleged to have been the result of an attempt by Joseph Branscombe, of Bloomfield, mail carrier, to pass another car proceeding in the same direction just as he reached the brow of a hill. Knight was coming in the opposite direction, and as there was not room to pass each other, the two cars sideswiped. The front end of the Ford was taken off while the Essex car in the ditch was partially turned over and was towed to a local garage, almost a complete wreck.

Passersby carried Mr. and Mrs. Knight into a nearby residence where they were left until the arrival of an ambulance to take them to Picton. Dr. Redell of Bloomfield was soon on the scene, as well as Chief of Police Ridout of Picton. Branscombe received a bad cut under the chin and on the legs, while Knight, who was not hurt as seriously as Mrs. Knight, received bad gashes around the head, hands and body. Mrs. Knight is believed to be suffering from internal injuries, although what they are has not yet been ascertained. Highway Traffic Officer Ponton is also investigated.

In conversation with nurses in charge at the Picton Hospital, today, the Intelligencer was told that all were seriously injured although they would recover. Medical attention was rendered at the scene and the patients were made as comfortable as possible at the Hospital and although they spent a restless night are much better. They are suffering from shock. In view of the damage to the car, Mr. and Mrs. Knight are considered to have had a miraculous escape. The report received in Belleville was much exaggerated as it was stated that two had been killed and five critically injured.

Goulandris.

KEEN INTEREST IN BADMINTON

St. Lawrence League Officers Will Be Chosen On Friday

This evening a full turn-out is expected at the Armouries of members of the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club. Captain Hubert Jones, secretary of the local organization, stated this morning that it was hoped that the badminton season would get under way in the Armouries within the week. Mr. Jones, Mr. Clifford C. Walker, league secretary. Eighty members is the full quota for the Belleville club and little trouble is experienced in securing this number.

FAULTY WIRING CAUSE OF BLAZE

Peter McGowan, Trenton, Loses Barn In Morning Fire

Fire broke out in Trenton at 5.30 yesterday morning and completely destroyed a valuable barn owned by Mr. Peter McGowan of that town. Luckily Mr. McGowan's automobile was not in the building at the time of the blaze and as nothing else was stored there, his loss will be light. It is stated that Mr. McGowan had no lights installed on the building, but not enough to cause the fire.

A curious feature of the fire is that it took place almost immediately after the roof from the disastrous blaze that destroyed an outhouse belonging to Mr. Roberson, who recently suffered heavy failure and was caught in the burning building. It is believed that a short circuit in an electric light wire is responsible for the conflagration yesterday.

Hoboes Hold Utmost Respect For Local Railway "Sherlocks"

There's no special reason, but tramps, hoboes, and hitch-hikers are apparently avoiding Belleville this fall. Chief of Canadian National Railway Detectives Changnon, stated to the Intelligencer today that there are no "hot-shots" whatsoever, unshaven seedy stealing rides on trains this autumn. "Of Course, they are coming through from the west and heading south", he said, "but they must have a healthy respect for Belleville, because it's only once in a long, long time that we have to put them off the trains."

Two or three tourists, interviewed by a representative of this newspaper today said that around Belleville there are no "hot-shots" whatsoever. "We have not been bothered by people asking for rides since we left Toronto, and nothing, one hears, on the other side of the line they are let ride."

FATHER AND SON ARRAIGNED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Elezear Williams of Big Island Offers Resistance To Police

SETTLED DAMAGES

Accused Suffered Broken Jaw In Saturday Night Collision

When Belleville police in the persons of Constables Evans and Izzard answered a call to Station street last Saturday night about ten o'clock they found that Elezear Williams and his son, Wilfred, of Big Island, had crashed into a car owned and driven by Aylmer Sharpe, 227 West Moira street and that both the cars were badly damaged.

Placing the two men in the car, the police were proceeding to the police station, when at the corner of Pinnacle and Station streets, the pair jumped out of the car and dashed in opposite directions. Constable Evans succeeded in catching Elezear at the Upper Bridge, while Constable Izzard pursued the son, Wilfred, who had crossed into a car owned and driven by Aylmer Sharpe, 227 West Moira street and that both the cars were badly damaged.

Following the unveiling, headed by the Belleville Citizens' Band, a move marched to the Mountain View church where a short service was held. The band rendered several selections and Mr. Lorne Burr gave a solo at the church. Never before has such a crowd attended a service in the church.

A Fitting Tribute

This cairn is the first that has ever been built in Prince Edward County and is a fitting memorial to these pioneers that made Burr district what it is today, one of the most flourishing and beautiful districts in Prince Edward county. Six hundred dollars were expended upon the building of the cairn alone and it took two men with an attendant working almost eleven days to complete the structure. The number of stones that were used during the building of the monument can only be imagined.

Chiselled upon marble are the names of those who were the pastors and elders of the Church of God. A more fitting memorial could not be conceived. It is imagined. Towering over the graves of those who sleep peacefully around it will be a silent but concrete reminder of their early efforts. Robert Cromarty, for the erection of the monument, has in a moment become a place to be more than revered, by the residents of Prince Edward County. It shall now be pointed out proudly as one cemetery where those who lie within did such splendid work when they lived, that their memory will be perpetuated through all the ages.

HOUSE IS EASY PREY TO FLAMES

Willard Ainsworth, Wellington, Suffers Heavy Loss By Fire

A disastrous fire totally destroyed a fine home belonging to Willard S. Ainsworth, Christian Street, Wellington, on Sunday morning about 6 o'clock. A faulty chimney is alleged to have been the cause of the blaze. Although part of the contents of the home were saved, the house, with most of the furniture, was burned to the ground.

Mr. Ainsworth had his residence and contents only partly insured and the loss will be a heavy one for him. The house itself was a two-storey structure of frame construction.

Since there is no fire department in Wellington little could be done to fight the fire which spread through the house rapidly. A bucket brigade was organized but efforts were of little avail to save the house.

NOT PLANNING 18 HOLE COURSE

H. J. E. Graham, President of the Bay of Quinte County Club, is speaking to a representative of the Intelligencer, stated definitely that there had been no thought of enlarging the present nine-hole course at the Belleville Golf and Country Club. "We have not made any plans whatever in that direction", he stated, "we are quite satisfied with the course, so that if we ever did enlarge it, we would be able to do so."

It will be remembered that Rev. Wood Thompson professional at a Rhannonville golf club, came to Belleville and wanted some valuable ideas to the club officers for the betterment of their course.

AFTER STORMY PASSAGE ACROSS ATLANTIC OCEAN GRAF ZEPPELIN NEARING LAKEHURST AIRDROME

WORK RECOGNIZED

Escort Piloted Big Air-Ship To New Jersey Air-Port

OVERDUE

Crew Ran Into Strong Winds In Bermuda Area

The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, bringing first trans Atlantic air passengers to the United States today was showing them some of the chief sights of the mid Atlantic seaboard and at the same time satisfying the throngs who had awaited her coming from Friedrichshafen.

The biggest airship of the day first passed over American Ground after her long ocean voyage at about ten o'clock th's morning, near Cape Charles the northern sentinel of Chesapeake Bay.

A radio message from here said that the dirigible would reach Lakehurst, over which she passed at 12.31 Baltimore and Philadelphia and would reach the waiting hangar at Lakehurst at about four p.m.

To supplement the radio there came frequent reports of the Graf's course from Virginia and Maryland towns as she passed up Chesapeake Bay toward Washington.

All is arranged for her arrival and berthing there, the dirigible Los Angeles and fast aeroplanes were on the mark to give her escort on the last two miles of the journey.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin which for four days has battled through stormy weather over the Atlantic enroute from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., today arrived over Washington at 12.31 p.m., which would bring her into the harbor at Lakehurst approximately at three o'clock this afternoon.

Bread Conference Keynoted

At the service this morning the ship had been in the air 96 hours with likelihood that the entire trip would take her about 100 hours.

All through the early hours of Saturday night and the greater part of Sunday the ship hovered in the region of the Bermudas, fighting winds and seeking to find a more favorable course. For a time she even flew in a southerly direction in order to gain better conditions.

Only most meagre information was coming from her and it was not until noon yesterday that the ship was definitely located about eighty miles southeast of Bermuda.

At 2.35 p.m. yesterday she was sighted by the steamer Bermuma sixty-two miles east of Bermuda and at six p.m. she passed over Hamilton, seven miles on the starboard side, steady and at four a.m. this morning she was sighted about 430 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, four hours later she was reported 380 miles southeast of the air station.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Never morning wore
To evening, but some heart did break.

RELIGION

President Calvin Coolidge of the United States cannot be accused of talking too much, but it is noticeable that when he does break silence he usually says something of moment.

From his speech at the general convention of the Episcopal Church, in which he proclaimed religion to be necessary for the continuation of the American government, will attract widespread attention.

"We cannot remedy ourselves too often," the chief executive said, "that our right to be free, the support of our principles of justice, our obligations to each other in our domestic affairs, and our duty to humanity abroad, the confidence in each other necessary to support our social and economic relations, and, finally, the fabric of our government itself, all rest on religion."

It is refreshing to read such speech as and encouraging to have men in high positions thus remind the world of the fact that without religion civilization would fail.

In these days when so many people appear to pay little or no attention to religion, speeches of this nature from those high in authority serve a very excellent purpose.

FUNCTION OF PRESS

A reader of the Star, in a letter to the editor, contends that the publication, by a newspaper, of articles and pictures dealing with the unhappy side of life, place the stamp of the paper's approval on the incident or condition described. Objection is taken, for instance, to a picture of film actress whose several marriages have caused no little discussion. By printing such a picture, this reader suggests, the Star puts the stamp of its approval on wholesale divorce.

With all respects to the opinions of the reader in question, the Star must contend that the criticism is unreasonable. It is the function of a newspaper to chronicle and illustrate events. It would be an ideal state of affairs, of course, if all marriages were pleasant, but such unfortunately is not the case. Divorce is a fact, and we, the newspapers do not create news; they record it. To say that a paper endorses the idea of an actress having five living husbands, because it prints the fact, and a picture of the person in question, is equivalent to saying that the paper endorses train wrecks or murders or a hundred and one other things with which it deals, by word and illustration, each week.

As we have said, the newspapers are not responsible for events, but it is their work to keep the public in fair, intelligent and wholesome manner. This every good newspaper tries to do.—Border Cities Star.

THE LAKE GAMBLE

The people of Ontario can readily recall the heavy toll of life which was taken on the great lakes last year when the steamers were making their desperate race against time in their effort to land one more cargo" before navigation was finally closed by the grip of the ice. The cost in life as many bushels of grain as possible rushed to the markets or the last possible ton of ore shipped to the mills has been responsible for countless disasters on the great lakes, in which millions of money and the lives of many brave men have been lost.

Yet, when everything is considered, these last day trips are nothing short of a reckless gamble. The persons who are responsible for sending away these last cargoes are gambling with the lives of men, as well as with property. Sometimes lake, for ask the season of the year just before navigation closes, the lake waters and winds are treacherous, and within a few hours a smiling calm may be transformed into a raging torrent of waters against which the strongest ships afloat on the lakes are like mere egg-shells.

It would seem imagine that the lessons of the past would be sufficient warning against these reckless final trips that rather than risk the lives of the brave sailors and their ships and cargoes, the owners would close down the season before disasters occur. Of course they can never tell when the lake is going to take its toll, but there should be no running of needless risks. There should be no more staking their ships and the lives of their men against the fury of the elements which only a year ago claim ed its vessels as victims and sent twenty-four men and two women to a watery grave.

BALDWIN'S PRAISE

Premier Baldwin, speaking at the Conservative festival at Sheffield recently paid a sincere compliment to the trade unionists of Britain. By their action during the recent general strike, they had shown that they were determined to purge from their ranks seditious elements, and had given proof to the world of the sincerity of their rejection of the theory of industrial warfare in favor of that of co-operation. Turning to the employers, he declared that those who neglected the interests of the people working for them were guilty of a crime against the community, because they are fostering distrust which must lead to industrial unrest." Apparently, the premier favors a system more like that prevailing in the United States, where production is on a vast scale and the financial operations run into immense figures. The day of small organizations and small employers has numbered, no doubt. In the stress of domestic and international competition the old methods may have to be abandoned; but it will not be without regret that the relationships between master and men prevailing in many of these establishments will have to be changed for the less intimate arrangements of huge industrial plants, where efficiency necessarily is of more importance than sentiment.

Apart from this attempt on the part of the British premier to conciliate to communists from their ranks, the endorsation which the congress gave to Lord Melchett's industrial peace proposals could not have been more emphatic. The London Times sees in the progressive action of British labor leaders a departure "pregnant with momentous consequences, economic political and social, to British trade unionism, and, indirectly, it may be to all the peoples of the "civilized world." It will be recalled that congress voted in favor of industrial co-operation by more than five to one. British labor has certainly done its part as Premier Baldwin says, and it is to be hoped that nothing of this friendlier policy between employer and employee, a policy of mutual helpfulness ....

A BOY AND HIS DOG

Edgar A. Guest in "When Day Is Done."

A boy and his dog make a glorious pair;
No better friendship is found anywhere,
For they talk and they walk and they run and they play,
And they have their deep secrets for many a day;
And that boy has a comrade who thinks and who feels,
Who walks down the road with a dog at his heels.
He may go where he will and his dog must care,
Faithful he'll stay for the slightest command
And bark with delight at the touch of his hand;
Oh, he owns a treasure which nobody steals,
Who walks down the road with a dog at his heels.
No other can lure him away from his side;
He's loyal against riches and station and pride;
Fine dress does not charm him, and flattery's breath
Is lost on the dog, for he's faithful to death;
He sees the great soul which the body conceals
Oh, it's great to be young with a dog at your heels.

MAY GAMBLE IN CITY OF PARIS

Before No Halls Allowed Within 100 Kilometres of Place

Paris.—The thrilling call of "Faites vos jeux, Mesdames" may yet be heard in public ballrooms either within Paris or within easy automobiling distance of the capital. Officially recognized gambling establishments are not allowed within a radius of 100 kilometres of Paris, under laws adopted just before the war, but the rapid growth of clandestine gambling is bringing the question to the attention of financial experts.

It is said that there are now more than 20 highclass clubs within a radius of half a mile of the Opera. They are ostensibly social clubs for gentlemen. The cost of membership is insignificant in all of them, but if a member calls to appear in the gambling rooms at least two or three evenings every week, he is soon made to feel that his company is not desired.

In these private clubs, which are considered officially as merely "social" in character, there is usually to be found an excellent restaurant and bar. Off the profits of these the government levies its usual taxes—but no more. The gambling clubs have found an easy way out of this, however, for they turn a definite proportion of the "social" dues over to the treasury of the "charitable institution" of the government of the country.

With the creation of casinos at Versailles, Fontainebleau, Rouen, Orleans and the reopening of the one at Enghien which for years was exceedingly popular, it is predicted that not less than 60,000,000 francs would be turned into the public treasury yearly.

Gambling laws are also in France for the development of official sightseeing, the improvement of country roads and the care of orphaned and abandoned children.

ILLITERATE MEN OF AUSTRALIA

Melbourne, Australia, (By C. P.) —"Not one in four adult Australians even reads a book," said W. H. Hould, O.B.E., chief librarian of the public library of New South Wales, at a recent lecture to the educational conference in Melbourne University.

"In both cities and country districts," said Mr. Hould, "there is a surprising ignorance among the people concerning the real value of books. Even among the well-to-do one seldom comes across anything worthy of description as a private library. For the most part, the people get all their reading from the newspapers. The libraries have fallen behind shockingly in their attempt to keep pace with the times and the growing population of the country."

EXPECT SMITH TO CARRY WEST

Once His Views Have Been Presented Fully To The Electorate

Salt Lake City, Utah.—An interesting mathematical theory big behind the Democratic bid for western electoral votes in 1928. It is that Governor Smith, since his views have been presented fully to the western electorate, will win the bulk of the support that went to Senator LaFollette in the three-cornered campaign of 1924. Add to this to the vote given John W. Davis, the opposing arrive at a Smith victory in a number of states which Coolidge carried without having a clear majority over the combined vote of his opponents.

This is should be understood, is purely a Democratic thesis, to which the Hoover managers do not subscribe. The Republicans deny that the LaFollette vote, or even the western "progressive" vote, can be treated mathematically as a unit, capable of transfer en masse from one allegiance to another. Republican deposters say, furthermore, that most of those who voted for LaFollette were Republicans and that they naturally will return to the fraternal fold when now that the La Follette party is no more.

The hopes of the Democrats in this matter have their beginning in the well established western urge toward "progressive" and this has often manifested but variously defined. Roosevelt, always a western idol, selected the name "progressive" for his third party in 1912, twelve years before the same label was chosen by the third party partisans of LaFollette. The independent bloc of westerners who have been operating in the Senate at Washington go by the name of "progressives." It is the belief of the Democratic managers that before the campaign is over, Governor Smith will have given convincing proof of his devotion to "progressive" principles, even though he does not agree with all of the opinions of other "progressive" leaders.

For whatever it may be worth, here is the way the Democrats apply their reasoning to the Rocky Mountain group of states as a whole:

The group includes eight states, all classified ordinarily as Republican states, and all claimed by the Republicans—Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. In six of these states, the Republicans have been in the minority in three out of the last four presidential elections. The one Republican victory was the Harding landslide of 1920. All eight were carried by Wilson in 1916. Coolidge carried them all in 1924, but only by Wyoming and Colorado did his vote exceed the combined "anti-Republican" vote cast for Davis and LaFollette.

These eight state, together have but thirty electoral votes, just two-thirds the number accorded New York state alone. When Governor Smith was nominated at Houston, many politicians believed he would stake everything on a combination of the east and south, and would have this western corridor to take care of itself. Instead, the Democratic nominee already has delivered two campaign speeches in this section, and the Democratic organization is disputing all states with considerable energy.

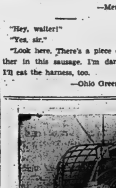

At Denver he spoke on water power and at Helena on Teapot Dome. Water power has been pronounced an outstanding issue by various leaders of the "Progressive" group including Senator Norris of Nebraska, who has made many senate speeches attacking the power trust.

Considering those things, the regional managers of the Democratic campaign in the Rocky Mountain states expect these two addresses to greatly aid in swinging the LaFollette vote in to the Smith column in November.

To which the Republicans reply that the whole theory that the LaFollette vote in the west can be captured by a section of Tammany Hall is a rank fallacy.

WATER POWER AND ELECTRICITY

For several years the electrical output of hydraulically driven central stations has been in excess of 50 per cent of the total electricity distributed in Canada for public use.

Here is shown one of the five 12-cylinder 550 horsepower engines on the Graf Zeppelin. Each of them weighs 2,650 pounds. A separate gondola houses each motor, distributed along bottom of the bag to avoid any interference from one another's backwash.

CHINESE GUNMEN ACTIVE IN SIAM

Bangkok, Siam—Siamese police authorities are trying to discover methods drastic enough to curb gangs of Chinese gunmen who are terrorizing other sections of the capital city of Siam. The operations of Chinese gunmen in Siam are rendered easier by the fact that Bangkok has a large Chinese population, which has become increasingly nervous and uneasy as a result of unsettled conditions in China.

The Chinese themselves are the worst sufferers from the gunmen, who specialize mostly in blackmail and in the torture and murder of those who fail to pay the blackmail demanded, but it is almost impossible to get evidence to give any information which will ever about the gunmen who terrorize them.

CAMPAIGN CLOSES

TO DEAL WITH THE FLYING FOX

Real Menace Faces Australian Fruit Growers Unless Exterminated

Sydney, N.S.W., (By C.P.)—Although an engagement of two years, $2,000 a year, with an additional $1,500 for expenses is open to sonio who is willing to study the biology of the "flying fox" with a view to its extermination in Australia by scientific means by the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research. "Shooting is expensive, Strychnine is successful to an extent. Poison gases are not efficient, because of the timidity of the bat, and it is almost impossible to give a lethal dose before it takes wing.

Infection with a certain bacillus is said to have cleared Samoa of the pest some years ago, but evidence shows that Samoa has become re-infested.

A small flame-thrower has been tried, but bedding being dangerous and expensive it is insufficient for general use. All these methods are hopelessly inadequate and a workable slaughter is the only stamp.

"How great the present maladies are is shown by the report of the Brisbane, and East Moreton Pest Destruction Board, which since January 1, this year, has expended $4,000 in destroying 70,220 of these pests and there are literally hundreds of millions ravaging the fruit areas of the north during the season."

There are five species of these bats in Australia, the commonest and most destructive being the grey-headed flying fox. The name is given on account of the dog-like head and reddish color. They are natives of tropical and subtropical animals, but they occur as far south as Gippsland.

They are nocturnal and gregarious living in camps of hundreds of thousands, and migrating according to season and good supply, but they usually return to the same camps in successive seasons.

In the day time they cling upside down to the branches of trees, but are restless and alert and a single shot will put the whole camp to flight. At night they do appalling damage to fruit trees.

COMPULSORY TO TEACH WELSH?

Campaign Open In Wales And First Step Is Successful

London, (By C. P.)—The campaign for the preservation of the Welsh language has entered upon a new and intensive stage the first of which is to "capture the children and the language is safe."

The preliminary skirmishes have been fought and won in the day schools, particularly in Glamorgan, where the teaching of the native tongue will be compulsory after the end of this year, and no teacher will be engaged who is not proficient to teach the customary school subjects in Welsh.

The pioneer authority in the movement is the Rhondda Education Committee, which has framed an elaborate syllabus of Welsh instruction with which the teachers are expected to comply. Other authorities are contemplating similar action.

Cardiganshire has already dispensed with its last monoglot English teacher, and the whole of the schools are now staffed by persons capable of giving instruction in the Welsh language.

Latterly, the Welsh Board itself is being requisitioned in aid of the movement. For some years, mainly as the result of the endeavours of the late Sir Owen Edwards, Chief Inspector of Schools for Wales, who is devoted entirely at the National Eisteddfod for every year, to collect competitions, and so successful has been the venture that "children's Day" is now one of the most popular annual feature of the week's proceedings.

But the leaders of the movement feel that if the children are to retain the native language and culture something more than "Noe" must be done at the National Eisteddfod is imparative and so there is to be a Children's National Eisteddfod, run on the same lines as the older festival, and meeting in alternate years to the older festival.

The new venture is to be sponsored by the League of Welsh Learners, an organization founded by Ifan ab Owen Edwards, a scion of Sir Owen Edwards.

The League, which is now in its seventh year, has a membership of between 12,000 and 15,000 Welsh boys and girls.

It has branches in every village and hamlet in Wales and vies in popularity particularly in the mining districts with Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. It has a right set of rules one of which specifies the penalty for the English tongue whenever and wherever pos sible.

Its rally at the last National Eisteddfod at Treorchy was attended by boys and girls from every part of it, principally, Headed by two brass bands, they marched in procession through the streets, 2,000 strong; and as they took up the place specially allotted to them at the pavilion, the huge audience rose in enthusiastic greeting.

A few days later hundreds of them again assembled at the two summer camps held in the neighborhood of Llanwrchlin, near the home of the League's founder and supervised in whole of the arrangements.

EXPECT FIGHTS ON RADIO MOVE

New Allocations For Broadcasting Stations Cause Much Trouble

Washington, D.C.— Reaction to the new allocations of broadcasting stations to result in the biggest invasion of the national spatial by broadcasters in the history of radio.

Coincident with the beginning of hearings by the federal radio commission of stations dissatisfied with assignments, the National Association of Broadcasters announced here October 15 to discuss problems engendered by the radical changes in the station set-up. The association has a membership of 200 stations, including a majority of the larger ones. In addition, many broadcasters, not affiliated with association, are expected to appear before the commission to voice individual protests.

While the association has not made official expression of its attitude since announcement of the new allocation it has on several occasions gone on record as being opposed to a sweeping change in the broadcasting structure on the ground that it would entail grave injury to many worthy broadcasters and affect the entire industry. Recommendations on this matter will be made by the association by its legislative committee.

The problem of operating their stations with a minimum loss under the handicap of new frequency, reduction of power and new time sharing arrangements probably will be the chief topic of discussion by the broadcasters. Several station owners have declared that the drastic changes will force them to abandon the broadcasting field altogether. Judge Ira E. Robinson, chairman of the commission, who voted against adoption of the new allocation, opposed the radical change in the present set-up, in favour of a redistribution and the equalization of assignments by increasing the number of stations in each zone to 90, two thirds of those of the largest number of assignments.

College Head Invites Federal Agents To Investigate Rum Charges

Ann Arbor, Mich.—A request that federal agents be invited to come to Ann Arbor and investigate rumors of widespread drinking at fraternities and house parties was made in a letter written by Dr. Clarence Cook Little, President of the University of Michigan, to Joseph A. Burnley dean of students and made public today by Dean Burnley.

Declaring his belief that the reports of drinking were exaggerated, Dr. Little points out that it is desirable to establish either "the correctness or incorrectness" of the charges and refers to Dean Burnley reads in part:

"I know that we have (all co-operated in efforts to meet the situation and that we believe the reports are grossly exaggerated. Nevertheless, I have been asked repeatedly by students, alumni and citizens of the State why no effort is made to check up on the situation.

"It is my opinion the university is not the agent to conduct such an investigation, although for the protection of the fraternities as well as that it should, in my opinion, see that such an investigation is made, this burdens of the university and as such should be expected to conform with the law and to respect constitutions. I am sure they recognize this fact and would welcome an opportunity to prove the rumors are not based on fact.

"It therefore seems to me that we should approach the Federal Government and request that one or more federal agents be delegated to Ann Arbor for a period sufficient to establish the correctness or incorrectness of the rumors in question.

CHAPTER IV

DARK DAYS

Marguerite had her bacon full during that journey with Irma, who looked her pride and gave way to her inclinations that she had repressed during the last few weeks. Marguerite had to deal with alternate moments of hysterical depression, fits of flippant gaiety, and nervous exhaustion.

It seemed endless, that trip across the continent to the home of Irma's parents. The two girls had all their meals served in their compartment, which made the journey more monotonous; but Irma was in no condition to appear in the dining-car. She ceased to pay attention to the matter of grooming and lay all day in her berth, with disheveled hair and tear-streaked face. Marguerite's patience was tried to the limit.

When they changed trains at Chicago, Irma's resolution failed her for a moment, and she declared that she was going back to Steve, pride or no pride. But Marguerite knew that this mood would pass, so she suggested that they stay in the city a night and think over things. She was wise, because, in the morning, Irma was resolved to go on.

Marguerite will always remember those last few days aboard the train that carried them to their destination —the waste of windswept prairie; the barren fields, sodden with winter rains; gray skies; lonely homesteads, showing a feeble light as darkness descended on them. Then, to her utter exasperation, Marguerite learned that Irma, in the excitement of leaving New York, had failed to write her parents that she was on her way to visit them, and they had left for a motor trip to Canada. Their home was closed—only a caretaker in residence.

Irma said blithely, when they were established at a hotel: "What a fool I am. Well, we'll have to stay here. I can't go back now, and I don't care to travel."

The two girls rented a small but extremely pretty house, hired servants, and prepared to live again. Marguerite dropped the pall of humor keeper. Irma was too nervous and restless to be of much assistance. She herself enjoyed hugely the power that had been one of the diversions of her girlhood. She wondered why she had never thought of it before, and when she was so lonely and unhappy that first winter with Mat.

It occurred to her that there were so many things she might have done, instead of moping. But, alas, she thought of all those things too late, she told herself.

Irma came down to breakfast one morning, looking a little more cheerful.

"Do you know what day this is, Mar guerite?" she demanded, as she sipped her orange-juice.

"Why, inevitably, I think," said Marguerite serving the coffee.

Perhaps I'll get a letter from Steve if I do, I believe I'll go back home.'

"You really mean that? I was going to suggest that we take a trip to Hawaii—maybe go on to Japan, for I'm getting tired of this place, and I don't think your parents will return before fall."

Irma laughed a bit harshly. "You seem to forget that I'm not the only child of wealthy parents, like yourself. I can't ask Steve to pay for a trip like that."

Marguerite protested quickly: "Oh, Irma, I meant that they were good as gold. Do say you will." After breakfast they went into their charming little sitting-room.

All that moment the mail brought in the morning mail. Irma seized it eagerly, but dropped it with a sigh when she saw that there was nothing from Steve. There was a letter from Laura Hastings. There's a letter from Laura for you. I recognize her writing."

Marguerite looked over her little stack of mail and opened an envelope that bore Hall's club crest. She held in her hand for a long time, without saying a word. Finally she drew out the letter and began to read.

After a long moment she said quietly:

"Well, even if you do go back, Irma, I think I'll go on to the orient. Hall seems to be filling on beri-beri. His letter is very gay and cheerful. He won't care if I slay away for the rest of my days. And I've half a mind to do so."

METHODISTS ARE ONE IN BRITAIN

Three Different Sects Unit ed Recently In British Isles

London, (By C. P.)— Now that the requisite seventy-five percent measure of agreement has been secured in the Primitive, United and Wesleyan Methodist Churches negotiations are being carried on throughout the country to ensure that the union of the three bodies shall be a triumphant success.

At a meeting of the Union Committee in London there were about 200 representatives of the three denominations from all parts of the country, including many ministers and laymen, and there was great enthusiasm.

The Rev. Dr. Alcock Pyrah, general secretary, said that it was proposed to thirty-two centres throughout the land set up great, area committees of the union. These will be composed of representatives from the three uniting churches, and the members of the union committee. The representatives of the Methodist Church is to be equal to the other two churches combined.

The function of these area committees is to foster fellowship in worship and corporation in work, and to survey the needs of the area, to suggest possible readjustments of organization and to assist in preparing for a great forward movement when union is consummated.

The morning sessions of the meeting of the area committee will be given to a devotional and an experimental consideration of the local situation and of the methods of meeting it and of using the united organizations for all aspects of the churches' work. Sub-committees will be set up for this purpose dealing with home mission and church affairs, foreign missions, local preachers, temperance and social welfare, young people's work Sunday schools, guilds, etc.) class leaders, and so on.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

The growing popularity of the corduroy and the strong emphasis on velveteen for autumn is marked by New York shops which not the fashionable significance of the present in two-piece suits and in coats often combined with a silk of woolen frock in the assembling of an ensemble.

At Deauville, prints continue to be worn and play the role of trimmings as well as that of media for whole frocks, and the small print on crepe de chine is worn for daytime, while an example of trimming effects is the encrustation of bandings of a printed design on a two-piece frock of white crepe de chine.

The lacis-chosen this year to ornament the velvets range from the delicacy of Chantilly to the coarser sturdiness of silk Spanish lace, while Chan-

BIG WEDDING A SPLENDID SIGHT

When Lady Herbert Was United To Viscount Hambledon Recently

Salisbury, Eng.—(CP)—It is not always the "fashionable" or the "brilliant" wedding that results in a really memorable sight for the beholder. But everything went to make a spectacle which was delightful in every particular at Lady Patricia Herbert's wedding in Salisbury Cathedral to Viscount Hambledon, eldest son of the publishing firm of W. H. Smith and son.

Lady Patricia is the only daughter of the Earl and Countess of Pembroke and Montgomery, a tall, dark girl who has been very popular in society ever since she made her debut.

It was exceptionally a family ceremony but hundreds of villagers and tenants from the surrounding acres joined the bride's Wiltshire home thronged into Salisbury for the day. More than twenty-eight others, with the bride's brother, Lord Herbert, to lead them, began shortly afterwards to file past the guard to their places. The five aisles of the Cathedral were packed soon, with a gorgeous throng of women and children.

The bridal procession and the ceremonial stories were worthy of the setting. Pale buttercup yellow and soft Wedgwood blue were the color schemes introduced by the six little people who followed the bride up the aisle. There was really a minor tragedy when Master Kim Pennoyer, Lady Wakehurst Pennoyer's small son, appeared, discovered that he would have to set alone, owing to the illness of the Earl of Limerick. All the peasant in the world could not induce him to promise to carry the bridal train. But eventually the difficulty was got over by his walking in the procession with Lady Elizabeth Peget holding his hand, the bridal train, being allowed to sweep over the crimson car pet of the aisle.

The bride was obviously very nervous. She walked to the altar aglaned with her head resting on her father's arm and her head bent, a serious expression on her face. Her gown of ivory chiffon velvet fell to the ground in straight folds, and had no suggestion of decoration. On the court train which was mounted on silver tissue, however, appeared a beautiful design of Madonna lilies embroidered in pearls and silver. A tiny spray of white heather was pinned on one hip with a diamond brooch, and three rows of pearls encircled her throat in choker fashion to hold in place the old Brussels lace of her veil.

PREFER DEATH TO SERVING IN ARMY

Belgrade—A community of "Nazarenes," inhabiting the Woywodina plain in the city of Jugoslavia's richest provinces, has decided that death or imprisonment is preferable to serving in the army.

The Nazarenes are members of a religious sect reared on strict pacifist principles. The recruiting officer of the district reports that out of 300 persons called to serve from the district, only one was willing to put on the king's uniform.

The conscription laws provide a penalty of ten years at hard labor for refusal to serve and the government has been obliged to act against the entire community.

NUNS ARE FORCED TO QUIT RETREAT

Havana—Cuba's famous Carmelite nuns have been forced by pressure of commercial expansion to abandon the cooperated retreat which has been occupied by the order since 1700.

The low, rambling building of Monte-Espanita, type the massive walls covered with the moss of centuries and the large containing the remains of Cuba's first bishop, will soon be razed to make room for shops and office buildings.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DULL IN MORNING, BRIGHT AT NIGHT.

Perhaps you are one of those folks who are called "night bloomers", because you seem to wake up tired, dizzy, have frequent headaches, and feel better some time during the evening yet better, some time "bloom" as it were.

This condition is thought to be due to a slight poisoning of the blood and the field that haunts the brain and spinal cord. And the source of this poisoning is thought to be from the intestinal canal.

Dr. Clifford Kaufmann, of Bleming ham, tells us that the functions of the mind are probably altered by the long continued presence in the blood of substances that are slightly poisonous such as the poisons due to absorption from the wastes in intestinal canal. In patients suffering from intestinal toxemia—poisoning—, sleep is not refreshing and headache is frequent.

The fluid bathing the brain and spinal cord, in addition to protecting these delicate structures, actually carries food for building up the brain and cord structures, and also carrying away the poisons, may affect the pressure of this fluid. The pressure of the blood and this fluid get beyond normal, and cause mental depression. In these cases breathing at the top of the head, and at the base of the skull just above the neck, is quite common, and is relieved by deep breathing.

Healthy persons will have similar headaches as a result of physical or mental states of fatigue.

It is just a matter of poisoning in all cases. Whether from work in healthy persons, or absorption of poisons in those who are constipated. The surest, most effective remedy is most important as the longer poisons remain in the body, the more severe will be the symptoms, and the recovery will be slow.

So if you find yourself lazy, with headaches, and feeling a bit brighter in the evening, see your doctor and decide how you ever and try and locate the source of infection. While it may be teeth, tonsils or sinuses there is a good chance of it being due to the intestinal condition.

TRADED WIVES BUT SOON GREW WEARY

Budapest, Hungary (CP)—A very up-to-date comedy of peasant life has occurred on the banks of the Tisza. Two farm servants who were enamored of each others' wives disdained to resort to knives and discussed the matter amicably over a bottle of wine. They agreed that they should simply exchange wives without incurring the expense of divorce, and a feast was arranged at which the whole neighborhood made merry. The women went to their new homes with their original dowries—cow and pig—plus presents. But when a month had passed and the new "husbands" had spent the money gained by the sale of the animals disillusionment set in. Both men decided that they greatly preferred their legal partners so the women returned to their husbands, and the life of the erstwhile couples is since reported to be exemplary.

TOO MANY PEWS MAR A CHURCH

London, (By C. P.)— Rev. T. P. Stevens, a well-known South London clergyman and a recognized authority on church furniture and ornaments, is provoked into a vigorous protest against the undue crowding of so many churches, otherwise comely, with pews and other kind, of seat.

"Go where you will in England," he writes, "you will find churches so crowded with seats that half the beauty is gone. Unnecessary seats are the ruination of our churches; they obscure the idea of the architect time and again. There is a church near Oxford which would add to the dignity of the population, and there are great other churches, in the town. You could lay the carpet all the way into the building—it would proved to the doors. Then, of course there are the choir stalls.

"In a tiny church in Kent, the chancel was so filled with seats that the clergyman on one side could only shake hands with their brothers opposite. The stalls were of material suitable for a bonfire, but, to my horror, the vicar said: 'Before I retire I want to see those stalls built of oak.' My heart sank. Here was a lovely little building serving a very useful purpose, and that part of it where some is wanted above all others, the dear old chancel on one side could only be reached regretfully upon the same thing. But in many places there are evidences that a better degree of taste is now being exercised.—At Sly Calthorpe, for instance, it is pleasant to find that the greater part of the nave is free from either pews or chairs. This enables the beholder to appreciate to the full the noble character of this great church, and the view from the gangways and the aisles and the choir is also improved immensely.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

The time of the 'springer' is here again, an easy way to flour a cut-up chicken for frying is to put the seasoned flour in a paper bag, drop the pieces of chicken in and shake thoroughly.

Place a board above the sink or work table and hang hooks on it to hold the utensils used every day, as canopener, bread-and-paring knives, strainers, slotted mixing spoon, measuring cups, and measuring spoons.

Mark the lines to be hemstitched with a contrasting cotton or silk to the material to be hemstitched. Then they will be noticed easily and the garment will not be returned with just enough of the stitching overlooked to prevent you from wearing it when you wish.

3RD ANNUAL SECTIONAL MEETING OF UNITED CHURCH AT CANIFTON

Mrs. Forbes Delivers Splendid Talk On Trinidad Conference

The third annual sectional meeting of the United Church was held at Canifton, October 11th.

The gathering taxed the seating capacity of the Church at both sessions.

Mrs. F. W. White was in charge of the meeting and in a few opening remarks commented upon the strong feeling of women that existed through out the section.

Much of the morning session was taken up with the reports of circles, bands and C.G.I.T. groups. A number of new societies was reported in all three groups. Great activity among these groups was most evident through out the report, and speaks well for a successful year's work soon to be completed.

Mrs. E. B. Sexsmith gave a very inspiring and searching address in "The Call of the Child." She pictured to us the call of the child Jesus to his mother and the many opportunities in the home that they had of meeting that call and how carefully she met it.

Then our minds were turned to the needs of every child and how these needs could best be met through Christian teaching and motherly wisdom. And then came the challenge to all to meet the call of the Christian child. The child found in all lands who toils long hours wounding many of our luxuries and has in return a chesated childhood.

Miss Robins' Templeton brought before the gathering the place the C. G. I.T. program has in the life of the teen age girl. She pointed out the splendid opportunities there were for service through closely linking up these groups with the senior societies. The steps to be taken to affiliate these groups was carefully outlined and it was pointed out that these groups must conduct the affiliation service annually.

Through an address given by Mrs. F. Bennett we learned the importance of the department of "Associate Helpers" to link up those who through business activities, household duties, health in age were unable to attend the regular meeting but desired to be kept in touch with the work.

The afternoon session was mainly given to reports of auxiliaries and it was interesting to note the general use of the study book as a basis for programs and the success that was evident where ever the group system had been tried. Also the use that was made of either the mite-box or envelope system.

The outstanding address of the day was given by Mrs. Forbes, one of the five delegates to attend the jubilee in the mission field of Trinidad. Most interestingly did Mrs. Foster carry us to that isle of beauty and show to what splendid work had been accomplished in the short time it had by our workers among the East Indian people. These people had been brought over from India to replace the freed African slave and had made the stand their permanent abode. She told us about the splendid school system carried on by our missionaries which is given government assistance. Our vocational school where carefully trained home-makers are found. Also the Bible women's classes where middle age women go into the city spend one day in each out of every week and then go back into their own home fields and minister to their own people the other six days.

Mrs. Forbes gave us glimpses into the lives of some of our outstanding native workers and in the time they have more than repaid any small effort put forth in our part. Everywhere the delegates went they were greeted by crowds and repeatedly did these people express their gratitude for the help given them.

A very instructive paper was given by Miss Lazelle Brown on "A Missionary Dollar and where it goes." She outlined, the percentage that went to the various workings of the society.

Also reported funds that had been received by her for this year and showed us how we stood regarding this year's objective.

A temperance address was given by Mrs. Baker who pointed out the grave peril confronting temperance workers and the subtle agencies at work. She made a strong plea for all W.M.S. workers to come out boldly for the temperance cause and to realize that the present conditions should not be looked upon lightly.

A vote of thanks was tendered to all who had in any way contributed to the success of the meeting. Thanks was expressed to the ladies of Canifton who so hospitably provided the lunch for over four hundred people.

An invitation from Shannonville for next year's meeting was accepted.

MAJOR BURKE IS DEAD IN EXILE

Passed Away In Honduras; Charges Against Him Quashed

New Orleans, La. (CP)—A life that ran the gamut of almost every human emotion, and experience was ended a few days ago with the death of Major Edward A. Burke at Tegucigalpa, Honduras.

Starting humbly, he rose high and then sank to the depths of exile, dying while well on his way to his ethereal home a stigma from his name. Honduras, the place of his death, also the fled forty years ago against an embezzlement indictment charging had been the place of exile to which with appropriating Louisiana state funds to his personal use while serving as state treasurer.

Entrenched in Honduras, which refused to surrender him to the United States, the Major grew old and feeble in his efforts to have the blemish removed from his record of gallantry in the Civil War and service to the state of Louisiana. After numerous failures his friends in the state finally succeeded in having the indictment quashed last February but Major Burke still refused to return unless he officially was declared innocent of the charges. While waiting he died.

Forty years ago Major Burke, flushed with repeated honors by his state, surrounded by influential friends and with substantial personal fortune, sailed from New Orleans to London to interest British capitol in Honduras mineral lands. While there a grand jury returned an indictment against him on charges of misappropriating $300,000. Louisiana was aroused and the Major also professed amazement when the news reached him and declared he would return to face the charges.

But the Major never returned, instead he went to Honduras and stayed there to his dying day. The last Louisiana ever saw of him was when he took ship on that bright day four decades ago.

Major Burke held a warm spot in the hearts of Louisiana as he was give an credit with doing more for Louisiana during the reconstruction days than any other one man. Before him and his band, the carpetbaggers and free negroes were put to rout and Louisiana's officialdom was reclaimed for the southern white race. He and President Davis of the confederacy, enjoyed a warm friendship beginning transportation of southern supplies for the support of Burke's plan for and troops during the war. Besides his political and military activities Burke also was interested in a railroad official of the south.

Employing his magnetic personality in Honduras, Major Burke soon became one of the most popular men in the country, serving as government auditor, railroad director and manager of mines. His last public appearance was when he received Colonel Lindbergh as the official representative of the Honduras Government.

An air service between Nelson, Spokane Vancouver is to be inaugurated by the Nelson-Spokane-Vancouver Airways. Four planes will be used, those for the route between Vancouver and Nelson, B.C., being seaplanes, and those for the service between Spokane, Wash., and Vancouver being airplanes. A NEW PRIVATE OWNER

Colonel C. H. Ackerman of Peterborough, Ontario, recently took delivery of a Moth Seaplane which he intends to use for his own private travels. Colonel Ackerman has a private base for his Seaplane just adjacent to his summer home at Sandbanks in Prince Edward County. He is at present employing Mr. R. Miller as his private pilot, but he intends to fly his Moth himself. His business activities interestte frequent trips into Northern Ontario and he estimates he can save many days tedious travel by using his Moth and slightly on the various lakes adjacent to the properties in which he is interested.

ENGINE TO POLE

The giant-tri-motor Ford monoplane, which will be the aerial flag ship of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition has an extraordinary performance due to its power plant.

In addition to two Wright "Whirlwind" 225 H.P. air-cooled engines, one on the port and one on the starboard side, Commander Byrd selected a Wright Cyclonic 450 H.P. air-cooled engine for the nose, making a total of 925 H.P.

In selecting this big brother of the "Whirlwind" for the Byrd Pont plane, Commander Byrd has equipped his aircraft with the most efficient high powered air-cooled engine yet developed in this country. Two similar engines are in the U.S. Navy P.M. flying boat recently established several world records.

AERIAL CROP DUSTING

Wyndmere, N.D.—In an effort to check the severe damage inflicted upon timber, grain and feed raised in the Dominion, the Canadian Government, through its Department of National Defense, is conducting a series of experiments here to determine the feasibility of dusting forests and crops with insectide by means of airplanes In the first actual test, 15,600 pounds of poison were spread over the spruce forest to kill the bud worms, a pest that has been particularly hard to control.

Wright "Whirlwind" powered Keystone seaplane dusters, built by the Keystone Aircraft Corporation Bristol, Pa., were used in the work. In the first tests, nearly seven tons of the poison were dusted over the trees in seventeen hours and twenty minutes, a task which would have taken the ground personnel about seventeen weeks.

Another experiment of a similar nature was carried out in Winnipeg, Manitoba, where arsenic paste had injured the crops. An area of 345 acres was covered in eight hours and twenty minutes with the 2000 pounds of dust. In view of the satisfactory results of the tests carried on thus far, the Department of National Defense expects to extend their operations to include other areas and other crops being damaged by pests and disease

NEW MAIL PLAIN READY

Bryn Athyn, Pa.—Build to suit—and a need for mail of greater usefulness, a new Pitcairn Superchallenger, with a capacity of 400 pounds instead of 20,000 air mail letters made 127 miles an hour over a measured course here yesterday.

In a series of tests, including vertical banks, steep turns, zooms and other gymnastics, the new plane, which is powered by a Wright "Whirlwind" demonstrated greater manoeuver-ability than virtually any military plane used in the World War, according to James G. Ray, who made the tests.

UNIQUE AIR MAIL DELIVERY

An air mail delivery that is destined to go down in aviation history as one of the outstanding feats of the year took place during the Air-Mail Week celebration at Milwaukee, Wis.

Two Fairchild monoplanes, with wings folded, took on air mail at the central post-office in the heart of the city and then taxied down the main thoroughfare, Wisconsin avenue, under their own power to the Milwaukee County Airport, where the two planes took off for Chicago to connect with the N.A.T., and Boenig Air Lines for points East, West and South.

The purpose of the "Airplane Parade" as it was called, was to bring to the minds of Milwaukeeans, particularly those who had never seen air mail planes, a graphic picture of the service and its advantages.

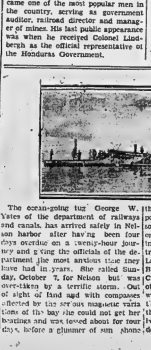

MANY LUNATICS IN RUSSIA HOMELESS

Moscow—Russia has encountered a serious problem in caring for her insane citizens.

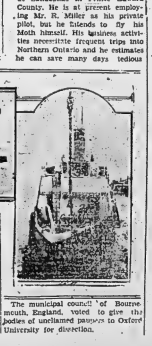

There are only 17 lunatic asylums in the whole country, with accommodations for 21,103 persons. The public health authorities say that there are five times that number of lunatics in Russia who ought to be locked up.

Money for this purpose is hard to obtain in Russia and some of the existing asylums need repairs. There are no funds available for building new ones. The state finds it difficult to provide for 11,000 employes who care for inmates.

The ocean-going tug George W. Yates of the department of railways and canals, has arrived safely in Nelson harbor after having been four days overdue on a twenty-hour journey and giving the officials of the department the most anxious time they have had in years. She sailed Sunday, October 7, for Nelson but was over-taken by a terrific storm. Out of sight of land and with compasses affected by the strong magnetic variations of the bay she could not get her bearings and had to anchor for two days, before a glimmer of sun shone through and she was able to get her position and make her way into Nelson. In the meantime the engineers on shore had sent search parties looking for her but they could find no trace. Aboard her were D. C. McLachlan chief engineer of the Hudson Bay project and the chairman of the Canadian section of the joint board of engineers of the St. Lawrence waterways, and 23 other men in addition. Above are shown two views of the tug, a side view and a view of the bow with members of the crew on deck.

Why I Like Selling Life Insurance...

"Because—

"Each life insurance policy I sell (1) safeguards the home; (2) provides the necessary income for dependents; (3) furnishes the means for education of children; (4) enables people to enjoy independence, particularly in old age; or (5) builds and protects business, and therefore guarantees human happiness and prosperity.

"To realize something of the satisfaction there is in my work, all you would need to do is to go with me to any home where I deliver regularly every month the insurance cheque which had been provided through loving forethought to keep the family from worry and want.

"If I am a trifle persistent at times in advising men to buy insurance, it's because I see so many even kindly husbands, through the pressure of other things, leave life insurance out and the heloless ones at home suffer."

Statistics show that 85% of the total estate left at death consists of life insurance.

A man age 40 could provide that in case of his death his family would receive $100,000 a month for 20 years, making $24,000 payable to them, for an annual deposit equal to $11.50 per week less dividends. (Other ages and other amounts in proportion). No one should longer go inadequately insured. Ask for a presentation for particulars of our Jubilee policies.

Argosies of Magic Sails

"For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;
Saw the heavens filled with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with cooly hales."

As he watched the very recent departure of the first airplane to take off on the regular daily express service between Toronto, Montreal and New York, T. E. McDonnell, president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, thought that to these lines, Tennyson had envisioned the present age, when winged messengers of peace and commerce cross the imaginary line unchallenged". T. E. McDonnell himself has a vision of the future when the travelling and shipping public will have a greater fair mindedness" and the service which his Company has pioneered will have developed into an economic factor of tremendous importance. To just what proportions the air express service will be developed immediately Mr. McDonnell would not commit himself, but the transportation must be seriously taken into account if one world does attract at the time of the present regime. "Every little or no prospect of a vision assuming a serious- ly competitive attitude towards present day modes of transport. It is rather as an auxiliary service to railroads and steamships that it is destined to function for some time to come. The Canadian Pacific, he added, has already recognized this fact by the establishment in conjunction with the Government Air Service, of an air express service and hopes the success of this service will hang future development upon it. The Company is concentrating in this connection, as throughout its history, the Canadian Pacific is doing a pioneer work in Canada. We are merely watching the development of aviation in the belief that Canada will be the ultimate centre of the world's air traffic, and that its possibilities are particularly promising field for its employment."

Air transport is, of course, faster than any other and although the daily dexterity of some reckless, and stunting pilot resulting in injury and death has as earned front page prominence on occasion, it is not a factor in commercial transport.

"Argosies of magic sails" is not a distant vision.

"Bug" Bear was the first shipment to be handled by the Canadian Pacific Express Company over the Montreal-New York Airway. The picture at left shows the Company's Superintendent of Montreal, Mr. Bowen, showing some of the plates engraved in air transport. Inset is a close up of one of the cabin monoplanes more generally used.

SUCCESS DUE TO SHORT SPEECHES

The success of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the opening of the Midwest trade was due, say the Melbourn Bull, "to the small measure to the briefness and completeness of the speeches in the unveiling of the different cairns. Short speeches and brief, pithy, they always more effective than long and prolix distinction. Many presidents exhibit lack of interest on the part of their hearers by dwelling too long on their lonely, secondary and timely. Dr. R. W. Stapleford, president of Regina College, Regina, in a recent word of advice to the ministerial conference of the United Church of Saskatchewan, said that rarely should a sermon exceed 35 minutes in length, and added that one of the most effective preachers in the province never exceeded 20 minutes. There is much in the adage, "Brevity is the soul of wit."

Mrs. Lillian Baker of Kansas City has, denied a maintenance order against her husband when he proved another lady had kept her pet dog cat.

BELLE THEATRE

The Cadio Company has drawn upon the New York cast of "The Racket" to furnish a character for the film version, of the popular underworld play in which Thomas Mighan is being starred, and now showing at the Belle theatre.

O. Pat Collins, who distinguished himself in the Broadway version of The Racket as Captain Delaney, a police officer, was brought to Hollywood by Howard Hughes, president of the Caddo Company, to play the same role in the screen play.

With the signing of Collins, the cast for "The Racket was completed, giving Thomas Meighan what is said to be the greatest support he has had in his career of stardom.

The Racket, which was filmed on a lavish basis at a cost of more than $500,000, was directed by Lewis Milestone, of Two Arabian Knights fame. It is released by Paramount.

REGENT

The best dressed woman on the screen since 1914, that is what is said time and again about Florence Vidor, the beautiful star of Paramount's picture Doomsday, now playing at the Regent Theatre.

Don't get the idea, however, that Miss Vidor depends upon her exquisite clothing for her screen appeal. Her beauty is just as alluring and perhaps even more vibrant, beneath a plain calico dress as it is when clad with the most gorgeous gowns and exquisite finery.

She proves that in breath-taking fashion in Doomsday, the film version of Warwick Deeping's sensational novel of life and love. For in part of the picture she is shown as a worn weary girl, a creature of rebellious beauty, clad in gingham and calico dresses, who is experiencing the bitter ling pet of injury, the toast of beauty connoisseurs. She is again the exotic Florence Vidor that the public knows and loves, but not a more beautiful woman than the splendidly vital child of toil.

THE PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY

The manufacture of pulp and paper is a comparatively recent development in Canadian industry. The First St. Andrews in Quebec in 1803 and in 1825 at Crooks' Reflector near Hamilton was erected the first paper-mill in Canada. This was established in what was then Upper Canada. What is claimed to be the first woodpulp mill in Canada was erected at Windsor Mills, Quebec, about 1870.

HIGH SCHOOL FIGHTS HARD BUT IS BEATEN OUT BY ALBERT 11-0

Purchase, of Albert, Practically Wins Game For His Team

BYRNES IS GAME

Tommy, High School Star, Plays a Plucky Game Saturday

By K. C. W.

They class "fighting" as one term to hand it to the High School boys when they met the Albert College boys on Saturday at the old fair ground in the second annual game of the Albert-High School rugby league and they put their best head it was a good best, never if they were beaten 11-0, they displayed that old fighting spirit that carried last year's team right through to the finals for the championship of Ontario, but there was just one factor that upset all their plans—and that factor was Purchase, the all-quarter-back of the College team, the brainiest man on the ground, the greatest player and the best of 'em all—of both teams. Purchase, who last year carried the practically all the scoring, scholastically and athletically that Albert College had to offer. And to look at him off the field, a quiet, inoffensive, good-natured boy, one would not think that he was a stellar rugby player, one of the best that has been seen around here in years. But just let the High School players. They have nothing to complain about in the method of playing, there is no getting around it he is the cleanest player, probably, on either team. But when he starts that backfield in motion—watch out. Saturday, his backs seemed like the hounds of an expensive watch, smoothly, quietly, and with such speed that even the referees had an awful time trying to keep track of the ball. I am sure I don't know where he secured them but plays out himself or whether the coach did—but all credit is due to that lad for the combination that is whilst they clicked.

The gamest man on the field Saturday was Tommy Byrnes, of the High School. Tommy, this season, is suffering from a sore hip, but that doesn't stop him from trying. Without doubt he tackled the hardest and scored the more points being chalked up against the Collegiate that there were. Not that the other lads weren't good, They were, and there is no getting away from that, Farley Faulkner, especially, played a stellar game. No one expects a brilliant debut from the snap, but Farley furnished just that. When it came to massing up plays, recovering a lost ball and generally keeping up the morale of a losing side, Farley was right there. The St.Denis goes for the honour of being able to smash through a husky line, and don't believe that Dale and Albert College have anything on Farley! "Si" Williams, the hard hitting Ottawa lineman, was playing a good two hundred pounds, and Twid ey, they were all good ground-gainers, and Good young Twiddy ploughed through the Albert line for about fifteen yards gain. "Si" Williams and St. Denis both have that faculty of getting out to a flying start which other players seem to lack, but they certainly got, perhaps, all the support from their own line that was coming to them. St. Denis, especially, usually found a hole to get through and where he hit he hit hard.

Of the Albert College backfield, only the Highest praise can be said. With the help of their brilliant quarter, Purchase, they just couldn't go wrong. Charlie Earl, when he took the ball in the line with all that was in him, and the same might be said of Thompson and the same Anglin. "Cozie" bore the brunt of the pushing, and it cannot be denied that he was by far a superior kicker to Tommy Byrnes. But taking all in all, the High School did remarkably well and Albert College got one of their touches through an error. The collegiates didn't plow through the local squad's line all the time by any means the ball seemed to be usually in Albert's territory, but Albert got the breaks—and what have you?

The Game

The game, which was witnessed by a good-sized crowd, did not have any dull moment in it from the time Monk was tackled behind his own line until a long-flight started in the second half of the fray. Shortly after the struggle started, Earl Anglin and Monk, attempting the ball behind his own line, seemed to be in doubt what to do with it, he hesitated for a second—and was lost. Instead of punting the ball he tried to run it out and this was the fatal. Two Albert lads triumphantly swept down upon him and nailed him in his tracks. At the end of the quarter they were still disputing if one point or two points should be awarded Albert for this play, but I think that only one point is the proper score. If they had thrown Monk from outside the line back of the line, then there would have been another score, and the High School.

The Collegiate lads came back fighting and everything went swimmingly for the next quarter, until half-time. Neither team scored, but Hartland put brilliant plays, but if anything Albert had slightly the edge. In fact, at one time in the game was the Albert goal threatened. Both sides bettered their punting during this, and Albert tried one successful run.

It was after half-time, however, that the High School squad seemed to show it's best form. Perhaps, Coach Shields's dressing down at the quarter-time had rankled, anyway, the boys started to find a hole in the centre of the line and through. St.Denis, "Si" Williams, Hunter and Twiddy, all were successful; while Albert Victoria—Goal, Yeomans; Backs, White, Saunders; Halves, Hughes, Rigby; Forwards, Langman, Oarley, Morris Morgan, Morgan.

St. Michael's—Goal, Schreiber; Backs, Langton, Lynch; Halves, St. Dennis, Jennis, Lapain; Forwards, Goyer, Cary, Perrell, Savage, Boyle.

COLLEGE BOY NOT ALWAYS 'COLLEGIATE'

"Tootin's Last Stand," by Perry Martin, which is the first college novel since the sensational "The Flaming Age," begins on College Humor for October. It is of the story of a college boy who went to school determined not to be "collegiate" and to secure the gold in co-eds—but without letting his efforts be dissipated on rah-rah activities.

The story is more than entertaining. It illustrates the peculiar application of educator's advice that outside activities should be given much less of a student's time than they are at present. There is not a little dynamite in its handling of social and educational problems.

QUEEN VICTORIA SCHOOL DEFEATS ST. MIKE'S 3-0

Queen Victoria's and St. Michael's School team met on the Victoria grounds for the Harvey School Cup Rugby series, Monday afternoon, and close and close to play win the breeze. Morgan kicked off for the Collegiates and play started with the other end. Play was very even, both sides attacking in turns. Schreiber made a brilliant run and Morgan, Half time came and no scoring. On changing over Queen Victoria had the wind and were given on the attack. Rigby dribbled to close but Langton reached the ball first. Victorias were awarded a free kick for a hacked ball near the goal and Rigby took a shot over. Play went again but after good combination Morris got in close and scored the first goal. St. Mike's worked very hard the other end but White cleared Carey got possession and after good run scored again for Queen Victoria. Two minutes from time Langman on the left wing got away and, passing under the bar giving Schreiber no chance, making it No. 3. Whistle blew a few seconds later and the full time ended.

WHEELERS WON FROM ARGONAUTS

Scored 16-6 Triumph In Thrilling Game At Montreal

Montreal, Oct. 15.—Montreal's Big Four rugby squad is comfortably launched on the road towards the Interprovincial championship. The Winged Wheelers kept in the quest for Hubert Jaunts when they defeated a smart Toronto Argonaut team in the local opening of the league season at the M.A.A.A. grounds Saturday, 13-6. They now face the big test of their campaign, a game with the Ottawa Rough Riders here next Saturday.

The triumph of the Montrealers came in a close battle that was shot full with wide open football by both clubs. Undoubtedly never before in the Interprovincial Union has the ball so consistently been moved up and down the field as it was in this game, neither minded on advancing and knew how and where they were going. With Red Moore, Perry, Wrights, Howard and Potter carrying the ball for Montreal, Frank Turner, Hamilton Gault, Claude Harris and Sinclair replying in kind for the visiting Argos, the crowd of 10,000 enthusiasts was in a grand one way was followed by a counter-attack that sent the play back.

It was an evenly-matched contest, with the Montreal team displaying more polished combination for ball and that smartness in the critical moment which means victory in a close struggle. Jaunts was the star went to the Toronto scullers in the first quarter, only the fall over of the double blue to use a little extra brain power when they ran as they did. Within half a minute, however, ed them from crossing with a touch- or scoring on a placement or at least a rouge. The Montreal wing- swung, which would have tied the score, and Jaunts was the man in that anxious frame of mind which must have prevented them from pulling it off.

THIS IS HOW A REAL MAN ACTS

"If I were a man," says Katharine Brush in the October issue of College Humor, "I'd get up in the world of trade, and never let a barber tip it too much. I'd have that effect in the back of the neck. Perhaps I'd carry a tiny mustache, but I hope not. Especially I hope I wouldn't, if I were blond. Blond mustaches always look to me a little insane, too. I'd have a little sad. I know brave, bold men who wear them, but the thing's inconsistent, like a rose with a fur-lined sweater."

After a successful young novelist and author of the most discussed and talked of the year, Katharine Brush is well qualified to give opinions on men. Her father was head master of an Eastern school for boys, and he knew more about his pupils than he did himself. She attended her first dance at the age of fifteen. Among other strong convictions she has are these:

"If I were a man I'd be sunburned by late means or foul. I wouldn't be that kind of man for anything. And I wouldn't be ashamed to care about appearance, and to know that I was. I'd be ashamed. I'd be manicured. I'd keep my waist line down. I'd fight a bald spot from the time it began to fell.

"If I were a man, I'd shake hands low, letting the right shoulder drop. I'd look straight into eyes. In meeting another man on an older relation, I'd wouldn't be ashamed to care about appearance, and to know that I was. I'd be ashamed. I'd be manicured. I'd keep my waist line down. I'd fight a bald spot from the time it began to fell.

"If I were a man, I'd shake hands low, letting the right shoulder drop. I'd look straight into eyes. In meeting another man on an older relation, I'd smile; but in meeting a girl, and par- ticularly a pretty one, I'd be grave as though I were thinking. 'Heavy danger.'"

SOME FORECASTS FOR FOOTBALL

"Speaking of college football, which opens in October from coast to coast and of the opening games of the year, on will see Columbia beat Vermont 14 to 7, Chicago beat Wyoming 20 to 1, Notre Dame beat Wisconsin 21 to 0, Colgate beat Vanderbilt 13 to 7, Army beat the Navy 6 to 0, Penn beat Penn State 7 to 0 and Penn Leal Penn 14 to 0, and see Joe Godfrey, Jr. in the Colder College Humor.

Some of these score predictions re- ring the decisions of last year when Georgia beat Yale Penn State wal- loped Pennsylvania and So. Methodist beat Centre 21 to 0. Which is why, for other early games are as follows: Columbia 20, Cornell 7; Dartmouth 14, Oklahoma 3; Indiana 14 Wabash 13 U. S. C. 19 Washington State 6.

POST MORTEMS

By K. C. W.

She sure was a peaceable encounter—I don't think! A swell gang fight start- ed about the middle of the game with even the spectators taking a hand. It appears as tears had been started over St. Denis, who claims he was be- ing picked on, by Williams, who went to his rescue, both of the High School and a gentleman by the name of Youell, of Albert College, who state- that he was only giving St.Denis tit for-tat.

Youll and St.Denis were the main reasons for the encounter, the bad causes of the big gang fight—every- body wanted one the year 'ere and hands. Youll, who is at least three times St.Denis' size, was quite efficient- ly slitting on the latter gentleman for the first half of the game—sitting per- haps a little bit too hard.

Anyway, he claims Rene had it com- ing to him.

Everything ended peacefully, how- ever, and these two hot-headed gen- tlemen graced the side-lines for the remainder of the game.

It is doubtful if there ever has been a quarter-back as good as Purchase in Belleville. Besides being a star of the football variety, he is also absolu- tely clean game, tackles hard, and is the first to help his opponent up- his feet after bringing him down like a ton of bricks.

And there is a whole bucket of credit coming to this fellow Tommy Byrnes. Tommy, who played the whole game on the field yesterday and his tackl- ing was brilliant throughout the game he saved at least one touch- down with one of the nicest flying tackles of the day, and he was pretty fired by then.

Congratulations, Coach Shields! Me sure liked that team into shape and the boys showed that they ought to be able to go right back and trim Albert College handily next Saturday- good and properly if they played like they did on Saturday.

The Collegiate squad has got two good chances. It will have to lick Al- bert College twice in or- ove if it wants to be the winners of the next league, competing with Ottawa, Hull and Napanee. And then win a third game.

Nobody thought Farley Faulkne- was such an agile lad until he was out in action on Saturday, and then he was absolutely it. If I think he sur- prised even himself!

It's a darn shame a few more of th- high school boys don't turn out t- help their team along. Albert lads were out in full force and the Hig- School boys, too. Just a few more cheers might mean the grand differ- that would win the game.

If they could all hit the line like Farley, Ottawa and Rene St.Denis'- might make a difference in the next game.

Say, those two boys Earl and Thomp- son of Albert, are pruty smooth. When they go around the end, and it happens frequently, and when they hit the ob- ling something drastic happens.

Till we meet again!

KINGSTON WON RETURN FIXTURE

Visitors Were Entertained By Local Soccer Players On Saturday

A large crowd witnessed the football game between Kingston and Belleville on the Pine Street ground on Saturday. The visitors won the toss and Kingston kicked off. Howard got posses- sion and dribbled near their goal. Play then went to the other end and Graham shot, which was cleared. Both teams showed good combination and the play was fast. Early Graham obtained a free kick Daybell fielded awly. Graham made a long shot, which Bellinger punt- him up. Both teams were evenly matched and half time came with no scoring. Both teams kicked off on the resumed forcing a couple of corners with no results. Then Bailey got away but Kennedy shot over. King- ston still pressed but offside spoilt the movement from the free kick Col- clough shot hard at Daybell who saved. Then Graham took a Middleton in close best Bawden for the first time. This re- vers netted the home team and they tried hard to equalize but Pugh clear- ed. Belleville forced a corner an- Daybell took away. Play team wor- took Kingston to the other end for Graham again slipped through to bea Bawden again. For the 2nd goal Kingston kept up the pressure an Bawden saved twice. Belleville wer attacking when the whistle blew leaving Kingston winners, on clear game by two goal to none. Charlie Jelfs was a fe- feree and blended the game to eve- to his satisfaction. The teams w- as follows:

Kingston: R. C. H. A.—Goal, Day- bell; backs, Daybell and Pugh; Halve- Brighton, Taylor and Johnson; For- wards, Mackenzie, Tanner, McKegan, Myke and Graham.

Belleville—Goal, Bawden; Backs Hatfield, Bellinger; Halves, Howard and Robinson; Forwards, Howard Bailey, Kennedy, Pickin and Rowan.

After the game Kingston Belleville players and supporters were entertained and an down to a dainty luncheon prepared by Mrs. Cross of the Canadian Legion. After words Community singing, songs, etc. Johnson, of Kingston, while Messrs. and G. Lancaster, of Belleville re- sponded. Speeches by Messrs. Mac- Intosh and Pugh were applauded; both speakers spoke on soccer football. Fred Rawson presided of the piano. The party ended when the roll w- called for Kingston to start by moto- home again.

ROUGH RIDERS LOST TO TIGERS

Mike Rodden's Team Stage Strong Finish To Defeat Ottawa

Ottawa, October 15. — Hamilton Tigers handed Ottawa Senators a thirteen-point drubbing here this afternoon in the second Big Four rugby game of the local season. The final score was 18 to 7, and the Tigers margin on the entire play was five points as the score indicates. True it is that the Bengals ran their total up with a nine-point assault in the last period, but they were in command of the situation for the greater portion of the game.

Caught in a yellow and black avalanche that slowly and surely roll- ed them back into their own end of th- field, the Ottawa team were unable t- stem the weight of the Tiger offensiv- and although they fought hard, the- went down fighting, it was unavai- ing.

Brilliant ball carrying by Gil Small and Broadway, backing up a terrific line smash by the front ran- ers, and coupled with some classic long distance kicking by Welch spelle- the downfall of the locals. Tubman was not outclassed in the kicking du- Twenty had an edge on the red ma- in practically every department of the game, except in punting, which a reeklessness born of confidence to ste- ed, outsmarted them at every turn. There were few times when Tromson fumbles or mistakes were not invited to points by the aggressive and brilliant red team.

SHEEP RAISING HAS INCREASED RAPIDLY

Adelaide, South Australia, (By C. P.) Seven years ago, sheep northwest of Port Augusta numbered only 185,000. Today flocks aggregate 475,000.

Thousands of pounds sterling have been spent in interpreting pastoralists in development work and especially water conservation.

"Seven years ago prople were inclined to think that the country around Port Augusta was not fit for what dogs to roam, but it is a different picture now, one hudlog sheep haber declares.

"Stock is needed on all holdings but the sheep are holding their condition remarkably well. This is a tribute to the breeding of merinos, for animals with a less robust constitution would have succumbed to the hardships during the drought conditions. Several stations have increased their stock fifty per cent and the increase will run thirty per cent increase."

ELECTIONS BUT 6 WEEKS AWAY

Political Pot Starting To Boil—Prominent Names Mentioned

THE OUTLOOK

Several of Present Council May Seek Mayoralty Honors

With the Municipal Elections but six weeks away the pot is starting to boil and already there is some serious talk as to the possible composition of the City Council for 1929. It is rumored that there will be a number of new candidates out for a seat in the Council Chamber and it is also stated that some of the present body are contemplating retirement from the municipal ring. The Council have come in for no strong criticism this year particularly in reference to the McColl Brothers Cheddar Station. The controversy had its beginning when the permit was issued by City Engineer Campbell last Spring and since that time the bubble has burst from time to time in the heated verbal assults revolving around the question, featuring scenes of the meetings of the Council. Some of the members have been the target for strong outbursts on the part of their colleagues, and now it appears that the situation may reach another impasse with the Council considering steps to prevent the Company from laying a driveway leading from the property, using Front Street.

However, on the whole, the business of the City has been transacted with all efficiency and the members of the Council in the face of the criticism have carried out their duties with a fair liability. Mayor Morley Duff has been a good Chief Magistrate. He had the city's interest at heart and he commanded the respect of the Aldermen and Civic Officials. Mayor Duff when queried this morning said he had given little thought to the impending election and had neither had to offer as to the possibility of his seeking a second term.

Several names have been mentioned as Mayoralty candidates but none of them have as yet flat-footedly announced their intentions. Dame Rumor has it that three of the present members of the Council may come out for Mayor—Aldermen Wootten, Hyde and Collins. Ald. Russell Wootten has not made any statement but it is known that he has aspirations along the line. Ald. Collins said he had nothing to say as yet.

"I don't know, yet it all depends on developments within the next three weeks," said Ald. Hyde. Ald. Bell intimated however, that there is a possibility of his coming out.

"I have been approached but I have nothing to say," said Ex-Ald. George Ostrom. He explained that he is a member of the Board of Education and should he decide to run for Mayor, this would mean his resignation from that body. However, there is a strong opinion that Mr. Ostrom will be in the field.

Ex-Ald. R. P. White, Ex-Ald. Harry Greenleaf, Secretary of the Parks Board, and Ex-Mayor George A. Bennett are other prominent names which have been mentioned but these men could not be reached this morning. Ald. George Reid is almost sure to allow his name to go before the electorate for a second term and others who will probably be on the Aldermanic slate are Ald. Rollins Woolley, Cherry and French. Others have expressed themselves as having retirement. At any rate it appears as though the election will be treated to a warm campaign this year.

FOOT IS CRUSHED BENEATH WAGON

Picton, Oct. 16.—While might have proved a fatal accident occurred last Saturday at Glen Huntly when Mr. John Mitchell was run over by a wagon laden with gravel. Mr. Mitchell had loaded his wagon and was about to leave the pit when the team started and the front wheel passed over his foot causing him to be thrown on the ground between the two wheels. The hind wheel passed up his right side from just below the ribs and entirely over his body and head.

INTREPID POLAR EXPLORER

Off For The South Pole

Here is shown Commander Byrd and Chinook, "King" of his polar sledge dog teams and malamutes. The dog's grandsire was leader of Peary's team in the successful north pole trip and Chinook will likely fly to the south pole with Byrd by plane.

BELLEVILLE MERCHANTS REAPED PROFITS FROM TOURIST TRADE

Majority Enjoyed Excellent Season—Traffic Is Increasing

The past summer season has been one of the best from a tourist business standpoint that Belleville has ever experienced according to several merchants interviewed by the Intelligencer this morning. With but one or two exceptions all were more than enthusiastic over the business, which resulted from the six months of heavy tourist traffic, one of the heaviest in many decade Ontario. Every line of merchandise a splendid season was enjoyed and Belleville merchants are of the opinion that every day the business increases.

The clothing stores, perhaps are the lines of business that predominant from the tourist traffic. Quick & Robertson, Front Street, say that the past summer was one of the best they had ever experienced. An official stated business was better by far than last year and it is increasing every year, or it appears so while "We certainly have had a good summer," he said.

On the contrary, Tom Mayes of C. J. Symons' clothing store believes that last year was better from a tour ist standpoint. "Business was the same just past, "I don't know why," he said, "but it seemed to be a dull year, days of course this year. They did not spend as much money and also did not buy the same high quality of goods.

Although it would not appear to be affected by the present weather, nevertheless the drug business found a heavy trade this summer. Albert H. Fowlie, of McGowan's Drug store said that the ordinary layman would be surprised just what difference the tourist trade can make to the pharmacy business. "One good feature of the tourists is that they spend cash, and we had an excellent season this year. I can't think when we have done a better tourist business before."

FLYING ENDURANCE TEST FAIL!

Oakland, Calif., October 16.—Roscoe Turner and Jack Rand failed in their second attempt to establish a new endurance record for flying when their Travel Airplane was forced down with a burst oil tank at 12.20 p.m., today. The fliers said they may make another effort soon tomorrow.

Delegates of Various Groups Were Welcomed By Dr. Malott

Representatives from all the Young People's Societies, C. G. I. T., and C. E. in the group in the Bay of Quinte Presbytery gathered at Bridge St. United Church for their annual Fall Rally this afternoon. There are about 25 Y. P. Societies and about 75 other organizations in the Presbytery which includes Trenton, Napanee, Prince Edward County and the towns of North Hastings as far as Bancroft.

Mr. D'Eon opened this afternoon's session with devotional exercises. Rev. Dr. Malott extended greetings to the delegates. Music and the election of officers occupied the afternoon session.

This evening the installation of officers takes place, and a supper for the delegates will be given, after which Rev. Henry Carter, of London, Ont., will address the meeting. He will be assisted by Rev. John Coburn. Mr. Carter is a speaker of world fame who is known for the fine work he has created large congregations where he has appeared. He recently appeared in Victoria Street United Church, Toronto, and was heard by a large audience. Hundreds of his youthful listeners pledged themselves to abandon alcohol. Mr. Carter served on the Royal Control Board of England and in this capacity had to talk on the subject. Tonight's meeting is an open one and no doubt many others will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear this splendid speaker.

The Young People's Convention will close tonight.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR NEW HISTORY

Although several hundred of the new Canadian History books authorized by the Ontario Department of Education were sent to Belleville, it will be impossible to procure any, the demand has been so great. The new book is comprehensive, to say the least, and deals with the early history of the country from the French regime extending up until the time of Confederation. It is taken from the Canadian right up until the present time. Can Mac's part in the great war is dealt with in one chapter, and the Dominion's relations to the United States in another chapter.

CROWDS THRONG TO R. C. MISSION

Rev. Father Barry Preached Service To Women Parishioners

Services in connection with the Mission now being conducted at St. Michael's Church continued last evening and the church was filled with the women of the parish. Following the recision of the Rosary an able and convincing sermon was preached by the Rev. Father Barry, C.S.S.R., who took as his subject "The Everlasting effects of sin. Preaching his address with a little story of his Seminary days, Father Barry used this to emphasize and describe the harrowing results of sin in the world. While walking with a friend on a beautiful summer day in Baltimore he was remarking on the beauty of everything particularly a giant oak tree which reared its mighty leaf covered branches toward the sky. In the course of their walk however, the sky was overcast and a great storm came up and the two were forced to seek shelter and from their cover they watched the progress of the storm, the beautiful oak tree was struck by a shattering bolt of lightning and shorn of its grace and beauty, said Father Barry, is the beauty of the soul lost through sin and crime.

Further illustrating his theme Father Barry dwelt on the consequences of the disobedience of the Angels, their expulsion from the Heavenly Kingdom and their condemnation to everlasting fire. The sin of our first parents resulted in the suffering, sorrow and death of all their descendants.

Following the sermon, benediction was conducted. Tonight two sermons will be preached and mission masses and sermons in the morning will continue throughout the week.

OPEN CAMPAIGN WITH BIG DINNER

Y.M.C.A. Financial Drive Will Officially Start Wednesday

The inaugural dinner and Workers' Coaching Conference in the Y.M.C.A. Merger Campaign will be held in the Y.M.C.A. building Wednesday night at 6.30 o'clock. It is expected that 150 workers will attend this opening meeting of the Campaign.

The first report session will be held in the dining room Thursday at noon.

The Campaign Organization is nearing completion, each of the captains securing the still needed members of their teams.

The Merger Campaign is to take care of three needs of the local Association—

First—To clear off its indebtedness.

Second—To provide for its Annual Budget.

Third—To provide for the much needed improvements in the Association buildings.

These three merge in the one Campaign. As this is the first call of the Association in ten years for more than its Annual Budget, it leads to hearty commendation of this effort.

E. W. Ackerman, Vice-Chairman and Chairman of the Special Gifts Committee, has been hard at work the past week, and is meeting with splendid response on the part of those he has approached. Mr. Ackerman, with Mr. C. M. Reid, is in Toronto today in the interests of the local campaign. Mr. Wooten was the first Major to report a completed division, his four captains, H. J. Deacon, Geo. F. Cole, A. B. Collins and Harry Greenleaf, all reporting completed teams.

CONVICTED OF DRUNK DRIVING

John, Donovan Will Spend One Week In County Jail

John Donovan, Station street, was this morning sentenced by Magistrate Hall to one week in the County Jail when he was convicted of being intoxicated while in charge of a car. E. J. Butler appeared for Donovan and although he admitted the charge laid by the defence to show that the accused was not in an intoxicated condition.

Each and every one swore that when Donovan was driven to headquarters before the accident occurred, he had been sober, and as far as they knew, not had a drink. Donovan had been working in his store until 11 o'clock midnight on the night in question and all of the witnesses had been customers in his store. Leaving the store at midnight, he intended to drive over some goods which had been ordered by phone, but when a short distance from his store he crashed into an automobile and the police, who had been on patrol duty, were soon on the scene.

Sergeant Booth and Constables Evans and Jackson each swore that in their opinion the accused was intoxicated, as he had all the usual symptoms. Magistrate Mikel gave the accused a severe lecture with regard to his business affairs arranged. Donovan received his sentence next Monday morning.

ENTER APPEAL IN LIQUOR CASE

Crown Attorney Donnan Files Appeal Against Judgment

Yesterday Crown Attorney S. C. Donnan filed Notice of Appeal against the Judgment of Magistrate Mikel in the Isaac Barnhardt case, which Magistrate Mikel dismissed last week.

It will be remembered that this was the case where Barnhardt was arrested following an accident near the Point Ann road on the Provincial Highway and was charged with being intoxicated while in charge of a car.

Barnhardt was said to have been on the wrong side of the road, and struck a car driven by Russell Wescott, mail carrier, of Shannonville. Wescott swore on the stand that Barnhardt was intoxicated at the time of the accident, but apparently his testimony did not carry much weight with the magistrate.

Chas. Cline Is Charged With Driving While Drunk

Charles Cline appeared in Police Court today charged with being intoxicated in charge of a car, and had his case enlarged until next Monday. This case was the aftermath of an accident on Coleman Street near the McLaughlin Garage last night when the accused was alleged to have struck a car owned and driven by Ray Wood of Foxboro.

The police officers who investigated the accident found that McLeod had not been at fault, and that the accused man was intoxicated at that time. Considerable damage was done to the car on the face and neck but was not seriously injured. Both cars were quite badly damaged.

Two Civil Cases At Autumn Court Were Laid Over

HIS REMARKS

Stresses Important Duties Borne By The Grand Jury

This afternoon, before the Honorable Mr. Justice Raney, the Fall Assizes were officially opened with only two cases, both criminal, to come before His Lordship, Charles Chapman, Robert Woods and E. W. Ackerman were today appointed to the Grand Jury in the places of Frank Bellamy, who sent a doctor certificate, and David Moon and Harry Ashley who failed to put in an appearance. Mr. E. W. Ackerman was chosen foreman of the Grand Jury.

There were two civil cases to have been heard by His Lordship, but the first, that of Minkes vs. Patterson, which arose out of an auto accident, has been settled between the insurance companies and the two of the counsels had not received official notice, the case was laid over until the next Assizes when it might be withdrawn. The second civil case was that of McLaughlin Motor Car Co. vs Sydney T. Medd. In this case judgment was consented for the plaintiff for $60.

In addressing the Grand Jury, His Lordship said: Justice Raney said: "I think what was perhaps the most practical suggestion ever made by a Supreme Court Judge is a local Grand Jury. His Lordship suggested that the Jury endeavour, in effect, to suggest some work in their own district, that the prisoners in the County Jail might be put to. Mr. Raney said that there were only two counties in Ontario who were receiving revenue from the prisoners in the Jails, the one at Kingston and the other at Ottawa. His Lordship was of the opinion that when the prisoners were doing something here, that they left the jails more sane than when they entered and that it was for the good of the prisoners themselves that some addequate employment might be given to them.

Kingston jail, with only half the prisoners during last year that were in the Belleville jail, had a revenue of some thirteen and half thousand, out that if the men incarcerated here had been at work they might have been able to make about $4000.

In beginning his address to the Grand Jury, Mr. Raney said—"You are summoned from your homes in the county town to take a share in the administration of justice. There are a number of agencies that have gone to the building up of civilization, the church, the school, the family, the press, and finally, but not least, the administration of justice.

"One hears occasionally criticism of our legal system, particularly towards the Grand Jury, but it is well outlined itself. That is not my view. It is true that the responsibilities of the Grand Jury have been greatly reduced, and yet they have an important duty to perform. They hear the evidence presented by the Crown to see if there is sufficient evidence to find a true bill against the accused.

"There are only two cases to come before you. Both cases are very serious ones. One is the charge of murder, and Donald Gilmour are charged with rape. In one case the alleged victim was only seven years of age and in the other case the victim's woman is under eighteen years of age."

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Immodest words admit of no defence,
For want of decency is want of sense.
—DILLON.

RATS IN A TRAP

The French submarine Orphee is down in many fathoms of water, 30 miles off the coast of Portugal. It is not even known exactly where it went to the bottom, so there is no chance to look for the boat or recover the bodies of the 43 dead men.

International conferences have often declared themselves in favor of doing away with the submarine, but nations keep on building them, and having built them, send them off on trial trips or manoeuvers.

The submarine is a mean boat—mean to shipping and mean to the men who are placed on board to operate the thing.

When anything happens the history of the sea shows that in nearly every case the crew are trapped like rats. Down they go. There may be a few hours' communication and some tapping on pipes to try and communicate with the surface urging haste in delivery.

Then—silence. If the craft can be brought up it is nearly always full of dead men.

Forty-three more lives have been added to the submarine toll, and all because nations keep on building a mean craft that hides rather than rides.

THOUGHTLESS CRUELTY

A recent news despatch told of Tereza Corona, 14 years old and six feet tall, who ran away from school and home to get away from the ridicule of her fellow pupils. Thoughtless by her associates have made her the victim of a heartless tragedy.

It was hard enough to bear the self-consciousness and embarrassment which the child's abnormal size made inescapable, but those who made her burden greater by their derisions were unspeakably cruel.

Thousands of instances like this occur, where some physical defect or peculiarity of sensitive persons is used as a pretext to torture them with unkind remarks which cut to the quick. Some time ago a young girl finally committed suicide because she had been driven to desperation by ridicule by her family name which was a suggestive meaning to evil-minded persons.

Children will seize upon such opportunities to harass their associates, sometimes in a spirit of fun but often with vicious intent. While most parents would disapprove of such conduct, many do not take the trouble to explain to their children how really cruel it is, or appeal to their better natures to induce them to refrain from it.

Unnecessary infliction of mental suffering is as bad or worse than the infliction of mental pain, and children should be earnestly admonished to avoid both forms of cruelty.

AERIAL TRANSPORTATION

The immediate object which the Graf Zeppelin had in view when she started her aerial journey from Friedrichshafen, in Germany, for Lakehurst, in the United States, had already been achieved by a vessel of her own type and in a manner which was considered four years ago to have carried the dirigible beyond the experimental stage as a transatlantic airship. The secondary object presently sought is that of blazing a permanent trail or flight between the continent of Europe and America. Failure of the Graf Zeppelin to do this can only delay accomplishment of what is designed.

Great Britain has under construction two immense dirigibles and one of them, the R-100, will, when completed, direct her course to Montreal in accordance with plans which, as they are fulfilled, will establish an "All Red" aerial route through the British Empire. Transatlantic aerial service is to be established eventually on a permanent basis between the Motherland and Canada, and when so established will constitute one of the links in the projected Empire chain. It is only a question of time when the Dominion ship will be brought within approximately two days' journey of Great Britain, and there can be no impatience over the accomplishment when it is remembered that as recently as nine years ago it was considered a great event to take two passengers from London to Paris in a converted military machine. As a mark of the progress that has been made in a comparatively short time, and as some indication of what may reasonably be expected of the future development of aerial navigation, we may state that Imperial Airways alone now carries upwards of 2,000 passengers a month on a regular service across the English Channel to and from France.

From India to England is less than five days is a flying record established by Captain Barnard and Mr. Elliott. Their accomplishment goes a long way to assure the early permanence of a through air route from London to Delhi, and a beginning of the heralded "All Red" route from England through Africa. Great Britain has, indeed, contributed largely and effectively to the development of civil flying, and all the indications are that she will continue to occupy a prominent place in that new field. This assimilation of distances is making the people of the different countries closer neighbors. If thereby they may better understand each other and each other's problems, universal peace will be more assured.

LOVED THINGS

The things that I have loved for years
And gathered in my heart
Are these: a row of little books,
Upon a little shelf.
A treasured nick nack here and there,
A vase of painted delf.

And when I sit beside my desk,
Upon the wall I see
The pictured faces of old friends,
Still smiling back at me.
And in a drawer a lock of hair,
From baby Rosemary,

Here's letters I have pigeon holed,
And gifts I hold as rare,
While in a secret place I keep,
Unfinished poems there.
Of things my soul had caught and loved,
But no one else would care.

And in a little drawer is laid,
Some withered wayside flowers,
Love gathered long ago,
In well remembered hours,
Where interlacing trees had made
An arch of leafy bowers.

A green bowl full of colored pinks,
From out my garden row,
Bring me the beauty and the scent
From places where they grow.
A persian cat sleeps at my feet,
His head upon my toe.

Oh, these are very simple things,
But meanings big they hold.
And bring more joy in quiet hours,
Than silver could or gold.
For in my heart are memories still,
Too sacred to be told.

And when my spirit wanders on,
To that eternal clime,
The things that I have loved on earth
So very wholly mine—
Will all be waiting there for me,
In God's fair summer time.

Canada's grain yield is estimated at 30,794,000 hundredweight, compared with 46,456,000 hundredweight last year.

The turnip crop is estimated at 38,-611,100 tons, an increase of nearly 1,500,000 tons over, 1927. Other field crops are shown as follows:

Potato corn, 3,837,800 hundredweight, against 3,947,000 hundredweight in 1927.

SHEEP IN NEED OF GREAT CARE

Instructions For Best Way of Taking Care of Flocks

Minimum attention to the breeding flock during the autumn months is one of the major causes of a small lamb crop.

The lambs should be weaned in the month of August, or September, depending chiefly on three factors:

The age and thriftiness of the lambs.

The condition of the ewes during the summer months.

The time of the lambing season.

The first week after the lambs are weaned the ewes should be pastured on a field in which there is very little succulence in order to prevent udder trouble. The ewes should be inspected daily during this week to see that their udders do not become caked. A ewe which has an abundant supply of milk should be partially milked out for three or four days after the lambs are removed. After all danger of udder trouble is over the ewes should be "flushed", e.l' brought into good condition on a succulent pasture; such as alfalfa, alfalfa and sweet clover, or a good brome pasture. The latter has given satisfactory results in the prairie provinces during a wet season. Often the run of the stubble fields will bring the ewes into good condition for breeding.

At the experimental station, Rosthern in the fall of 1927, the ewes were divided into three groups. One lot of twelve ewes was given access to a field of alfalfa aftermath for two months previous to the breeding season. Here it had access to sweet clover, and Lot No. 3 had access to a bare stubble pasture where there was very little aftermath. The rams were in approximately the some condition when they were put into the pens. They were also weighed at the beginning of the experiment. The ewes in Lot No. 1 were given about eight ly greater gains than those on sweet clover pasture, while those on the bare stubble field made only a limited gain. The first of March, and Lot No. 3 the 20th of March.

The twelve ewes in Lot No. 1 had 23 lambs weighing 187.0 pounds at birth, average weight 8.1 pounds. Of these fourteen were twins, six triplets and three were singles. There was one weak lamb in this lot, which died within 24 hours.

The twelve ewes in Lot. No. 2 had 19 strong, healthy lambs weighing 169.5 pounds, or an average of 8.9 pounds each. There were seven triplet twins and six singles in this lot.

The ewes in Lot No. 3 had 15 lambs weighing 120 pounds, or an average of 8.6 pounds, with six twins and nine singles. Three of these lambs were dead at birth.

The results of this experiment would go to show that the practice of flushing the ewes previous to the breeding season.

The rams should be removed from the ewes in August and brought into good breeding condition by feeding them a little grain, one-half to one pound per day (three parts oats and one bran), depending on their condition. They should be allowed to take sufficient exercise so that they will be very active when the mating season arrives.

REFORESTATION IN ONTARIO A SUCCESS

Quebec, Oct. 11.—The nurseries and plantations which were visited in On tario are adequate proof that reforestation is a practical enterprise," stated C. C. Piche, chief of the Provincial Forestry Service, on his return to the parliament buildings today. Accompanied by H. Ketf, chief of the Forest Association, Mr. Piche, on the invitation of Hon. W. F. Finlayson, Min ister of Lands and Forests in the Ontario Government, visited the territory controlled by the Niagara Park Commission and the nursery and plantation around Williamston, Ont.

"The nursery with its 10,000,000 trees and the plantation covering approximately 1,500 acres, are indeed wonderful sights," Mr. Piche stated. "The trees are growing fast and forming excellent stands and prove conclusively that reforestation is a practical enterprise. The nursery and plantation work have done a great deal to change the conditions in that section of Norfolk county."

The plans of the Ontario Government for reforestation, were meeting with success; Mr. Piche stated, and over three hundred men were employed on the work.

CARROLL MEMORIAL TO BE ABANDONED

Darlington, Eng. (By C. P.).—So little public interest has been taken in an appeal by the rector and churchwardens, of Croft, Darlington, for a stained-glass window in Croft Parish Church, to the memory of Lewis Carroll, the author of "Alice in Wonderland," that the scheme has been abandoned.

"Lewis Carroll," who was Rev. C. L. Dodgson, spent his boyhood and youth at Darlington. His father, Archdeacon Dodgson, was rector of Croft from 1843 to 1868.

In connection with the failure of this appeal it is interesting to recall that $77,000 has been paid recently, by Dr. Rosenbach, for the manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland." Almost at the same time that this large sum was paid for the manuscript the author's grave had to be reared from neglect by the private benefaction of William Leonard.

The rector, Mr. Ekins working independently of the appeal, raised for the memorial. He suggests that what money is left after payment of expenses should be used to make comfortable the tomb of Lewis Carroll's parents in the churchyard at Croft.

The supper meeting was presided over by Mr. A. W. Armstrong, chairman of the Membership Committee with Mr. Arthur Grose at the piano, and Mr. Jack Andrews as song leader. The group singing was enthusiastic and reports were made by the various teams, showing a large increase in the membership.

Gardiner Duff and Frank Hilchen as managers of the opposite teams were asked for an extension of the closing date in order to complete work which they had begun. The time was agreed to and October 31st fixed as the closing date. The awards and prizes will continue also. The New York teams are leading at present.

Mr. J. B. Sherry, General Secretary, was called on and gave a report of the returns to date and outlined also a number of other features being developed in the interest of the membership. The supper was given by the Ladies' Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Boyes. The group expressed their thanks to the ladies for singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and gave three hearty cheers.

READY HEED TO COURT ORDERS

John Hughes and Frank Harris, who gave their addresses very remotely as Toronto, appeared before Magistrate Millet this morning charged with being vagrants. It is alleged that they were going along from house to house begging for food, and when it was refused as was sometimes the case, became very impertinent to the householders. Crown Attorney Ponton asked, "How long will it take you to get out of Belleville?" "Five minutes," they both declared in unison. A very fine group of Women, representing various women's organizations in the city, will assist in making the Campaign successful.

MISS V. HOBSON TENNIS WINNER

For the third year in succession, Miss Violet Hobson, has won the Sports Club Ladies' Tennis Ranking List, and will thus become the permanent possessor of the Championship Cup, as well as receiving the medal which is presented annually by the Club.

The Ranking List is undoubtedly the best test of the ability of tennis players, because at the beginning of each season the position of the players is automatically decided on and each leader is placed, at the bottom and has to work her way up the ladder during the season. Miss Hobson encountered one or two stiff opponents in her climb to the top, but in reaching the top her position was hotly challenged but she was able to demonstrate her superior skill and retain the lead up to the official close of the season on the 15th.

Club's Sports Club will probably enter a Ladies' Bowling Team, in the League this year, and also have picked out some mixed games between rival teams in the plant.

NEW SEED LAWS RELEASED SOON

Harry Pearson Says Cows Were Not Poisoned By Liquid

"There was not one case came to my attention this year of cows having been poisoned by the liquid sprayed along the railway right of way to kill weeds," Mr. Harry Pearson, Government Seed Inspector stated today. "They had some trouble in Sutton district when one farmer lost a good many cattle from this cause, but as regards this vicinity we have not been bothered at all. The railway sprayed the side of their tracks very lightly and cows did not pasture there."

Mr. Pearson has just returned from Ottawa and states that some interesting data on the new seed laws will soon be released by the government. These will be out in a few days, and will appear in these columns in the near future.

Enthusiasm Marked Opening Meeting of Women's Canadian Club

Splendid enthusiasm marked the first meeting of the Fall and winter season of the Women's Canadian Club held last evening in the Lecture Room of the Armouries and the speaker of the evening was Lieut. Col. C. N. Williams, manager of the Navy League of Canada, was an excellent choice to increase that fine patriotism which the Canadian Club has ever sponsored. In introducing the speaker, the President, Mrs. F. C. Anderson, welcomed all present both members and prospective members and urged a greater co-operation with the executive in promoting a stronger club.

Present Speaker

Col. Williams gave a most fluent speaker. The wealth of illuminating facts which he presented was correctly delivered and his address was enlivened by many anecdotes and which social touches of humour. His lecture was on the "Navy League" and he dwelt at length on the men of the mercantile marine, that branch of service which is "riveted to the navy by hearts stronger than steel". Thousand whose service is entirely voluntary were the only organized labor union in the Empire which did not strike during the war. They receive a maximum wage of five hundred dollars a year. The service employed there is unsteady. This organization, the Navy League of Canada, has in the interests of these men and has organized sailors' homes in nearly every one of the large ports in Canada. In the last two homes maintained in Montreal 184,000 sailors were received during the course of a year.

Enormous Trade

Col. Williams then gave some idea of the enormous trade done on the thin mercantile fleet. Into the port of Montreal there came in one year 1,716 ships and from this port was then were exported 196 million bushels of grain. In one hour these men should go on strike, the channels of industry from ocean to ocean would be tightened, there would be chaos and the whole nation would be in a state of chaos.

Remarkable Progress

Remarking on the progress of this Navy League, Col. Williams told of its growth from a membership starting with a $500 donation, from the Canadian Club a few years ago, he as manager now controls, with organizations, a membership scene $5,000,000. The League has 1000 men at sea and 2700 boys, and 1,000 officers in the Naval Reserve. These are ordered in many cities throughout the Dominion and Col. Williams urged the forming of a sea cadet corps in every 16 Belleville and guaranteed the furn ishing of 100 boys. Such a corps would discipline and efficiency were included in the students. Illustrating the wonderful interest displayed in the Navy Col. Williams told how on the 6th of this month a parade was organized what the English sailor of was able of. After twenty years' service in the Navy he is given a free pass granted to Canada and he secured employment, he can go on a farm between Wooler and Frankford. Speaking those principles learned while at sea he soon was master of his job and moving ever onward he continued to studies and was eventually ordained a minister. Later he took up the work dearest to his heart and which he has continued since. Col. Williams concluded his forceful address in a burst of patriotic fervor, stressing the almighty dollar and Union Jack stands for as it flies over Malta, Cyprus, Gibralta every point in the British Empire and to each place it is "the outward and visible emblem, of advancement and liberty's cause."

At the conclusion a vote of thanks moved by Mrs. Baker was conveyed to the speaker by Mrs. Anderson for his splendid address.

CHAPTER 68

THE HUSBAND SLEPT BEHIND

MEN

On the evening of the day that Marguerite and Irma left for the west, Steve Brockton closed his office early. He had had a busy afternoon, a sales factory afternoon, from a business standpoint, and there had been so little moments to permit his thoughts to wander.

It wasn't until he emerged from the subway that a queer sensation assailed him. He felt as though some one had hit him in the pit of his stomach.

He thought: "That's queer. I must have eaten something for lunch that didn't agree with me."

As he entered the door of the apartment-building, he said to himself: "I guess I need a drink." As the elevator carried him upward, he had a fleeting vision of what he was going home to—an apartment that was empty, except for the servants; no Irma nagging, or in tears, or distraught by gay; an evening in which to do as he pleased—he had decided to ring up Lydia and ask her to go to play—a nice comfortable, man's meal, quietly served.

All the pleasant details of that vision had been known to him the rest of his mind throughout the day. Now, quite suddenly, the whole thing went a bit flat.

It certainly must have had some meaning for Irma's hasty note. The note had left itself. "Let me see—what did I say?" He couldn't remember.

The stillness of the apartment, as he had opened the door, struck him. But silence was so much better than Irma's jazz records on the phonograph, he reflected. Only, since he had returned from the Adriana, trip, she had generally called a greeting, when she heard him open the door. Sometimes it had been frethful—but sometimes it had been sweet and tender. He had to admit that. And then if she happened to be out, there was always the lingering breath of her perfume to remind him of her presence.

He caught himself wondering how the fragrance had vanished so quickly after her departure. The servants must have aired the place very thoroughly. Did he miss that perfume?

"Of course not," he told himself. "Don't be silly. She always used too much of the beastly stuff anyway. Place smelled like a beauty-shop."

Directly he had hung up his coat and hat, he went to the telephone and called Lydia's number. Her drawling voice answered him.

"Well, how does it feel to be a widower, Steve?"

"Great!" he answered staunchly, and turned a deaf ear to some strange little voice that whispered mockingly: "You're a liar!"

"How would you like to do a show tonight, Lydia?"

They set the time and place of meeting, and he had rung off and started for his room when one of the maids appeared.

"Oh, Mr. Brockton, I didn't know you'd come in until I heard you telephoning. There's been a policeman here, asking about Mrs. Brockton, and I didn't know what to tell him, so he said he'd come back later. It was something about an automobile accident that Mrs. Brockton was in on the way to the train....."

Again Steve felt that horrid sensation in the pit of his stomach. Only this time it was worse. Much worse. "Mrs. Brockton in an automobile accident! Was she.....was she hurt? Where is she?"

"I don't know, sir," stammered the girl. "I didn't understand very well."

Steve reached the 'phone in two strides. Then he paused. Where to call? Police stations? Hospitals. They'd have brought Irma home.....unless.....

"Shall I get you something, sir." He heard the girl's solicitous voice dimly. "You look kind of....."

The sound of the door-bell interrupted her.

"Quick," said Steve. "Maybe that's the policeman again." He took out his handkerchief to mop his forehead, and noticed that his hand was shaking.

But it wasn't the policeman. It was Hal Reynolds, and he was looking strangely grim, for Hal.

"Where is Marguerite? Where is Irma?" he demanded, with out preliminary greeting.

"Heavens," breathed Steve. "Was Marguerite in it, too?"

Hal grasped his arm. "Then there was an accident?"

"I don't know what you mean. The maid tells me that some one's been here inquiring about Irma, because there was an automobile....."

Hal said impatiently: "We're talking like a couple of fools.....Listen —I got home just in time to see one of the servants told me that a police man had been to your place to ask about an accident. Irma was in on her way to the train, presumably, back-dairy goods, I suppose. Anyway, if Irma was in an accident, so was Marguerite. It stands to reason that they were together until we left the station.....My word, man, don't stand there looking at me like that. Do something! Or tell me what to do!"

Steve sat down suddenly. "I don't know what to do," he admitted stupidly. "Call the hospitals and the police headquarters, I guess. Or wait until the policeman comes back."

Hal started at him in disgust. Then he turned and walked away, calling back something about seeing the superintendent.

After a minute, Steve picked up the telephone-receiver and gave a number.

"That you, Lydia?.....This is Steve.....Would you mind awfully if I postponed our theatre and dinner engagement until another evening? You see, when I got home, I found an old friend here from out of town.....Yes, here only for one night," he lied bravely.....Yes, I'll come to you this week and make another date.....Yes. You're awfully kind not to mind.....Good-bye, dear."

Hal came back after a few moments. He was grinning a bit sheepishly.

"We were a couple of frightful dubs.....There was an accident, but no one was hurt. Irma's taxi hit a bus. Irma apparently got off without a scratch, because she gave the cop, who was taking the names of witnesses, the slip. He wants to find her, because the bus company is going to sue the taxi company, or the other way round.....The superintendent knew all about it, and was very anxious to talk with him."

The two men sliced together and went to a show and afterward to a night club. Each tried to impress the other with his high spirits, for each was feeling strangely lonesome.

NEW SUGGESTION FOR HALLOWE'EN

Ideas Offered For Those Planning Parties For October 31st

Invitations are now out for several Hallowe'en parties so it is evident that someone has been thinking of the approaching event and to those who have not already planned their party bits' are intending to, we are offering a few suggestions. The chief problem is to have something to suit all occasions for what would do for a church or school social, necessarily would not be the thing for the home or club. Here is an idea for the invitations which we have seen used:

On Hollowe'en at half-past eight
You're bidden to a novel fete.

In sheet-and-pillow case disguise
Present yourselves if you are wise.
Your future we'll to you disclose
Where Jack O'Lantern's garden grows
And other things may happen, too,
On Hallowe'en to each of you!

On arrival the guests are directed to enter by an outside cellar door, outside of which a ghost stands sentinel and another guides you to the darkened fashion upstairs. On this goes sage something clammy flags in your face (a damp cloth) while grinning pumpkins afford the only light.

In a latic article we will suggest some Hallowe'en games.

For a suitable menu the following may be used:

Sandwiches, doughnuts, pumpkin pie cider or coffee.

At a club or house party more elaborate refreshments might be used, but for a large crowd these would be amples.

There need be no lack of decorations on this occasion for there is a wide range from which to choose. Black Cats, Pumpkins, Witches, Broom sticks, Ghosts, Goblins, Autumn Leaves, Etc. afford quite a choice.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

VALUE OF BLOOD TO OTHERS.

AFTER AN ILLNESS.

During the Flu epidemic in 1918-19, it was our custom to save those patients finally recovered and about to leave hospital, to give a small quantity of their blood, about an ounce or two, which was injected into the blood vessels of cases of Flu seriously ill with bronchio-pneumonia, which so frequently followed the flu.

In some patients with a temperature of 104 degrees F, after one injection of this convalescent serum, as it is called, the temperature came down to 100 degrees F and never did go up again, the patient recovering in a short time. Indeed the results were so gratifying that there was no lack of volunteers to give blood to help comrades less fortunate than themselves.

You already know, of course, how vaccination for small pox and typhoid fever has reduced these ailments to a minimum. Vaccination simply means giving the individual a slight attack of the ailment to prevent a severe one or a fatal one. Again, during the world war, Dr. Wesselhoeft of Boston, and P. P. Gordon of Northampton, Mass., tell us of an experiment with measles serum. They found that single doses of a serum made from the blood of measles patients who had recovered, had the effect of markedly reducing the severity of an epidemic of measles which invaded the scarlet fever and diphtheria wards. Among 75 of these patients that were exposed to the measles, 25 were not given any serum, and the whole 25, or 100 percent, came down with the measles. Of this number, 16 had severe measles. Of the 50 exposed patients without a history of having had measles before, who were given the measles serum, only 11 contracted measles, and only one had a severe rash.

One patient died of both groups. As a matter of record this one had not received the convalescent serum.

Now in the light of the above figures it is not hard to understand why, all over the world, research men are working patiently on the problem of how to prevent cancer in mankind. They see what can be accomplished for their fellow men.

EXHIBITS SHOWN AT UNIONDALE WOMEN'S INST.

The Uniondale Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on October 5th at Brookdale School, 5th concession of Sidney. The meeting was opened by singing the Institute Ode. The interesting part of the meeting was the exhibition of the work of the Girls' Garment Making Club. Mrs. Towrise, of Athens, Ont., was appointed by the Department to act as judge and after a careful examination of the work presented the eleven girls, who had completed the Course, with 7 Certificates of their first year's course in sewing.

The programme was very interesting as Mrs. Towrise gave a delightful talk on "Service," which was enjoyed by everyone. Mrs. Towrise compliments ted the girls on their splendid work and presented the diplomas to them. The girls read the essays they had written on their experience in the Club, they also sang several of their Club songs. Miss Helen Mallory gave a paper entitled "Our Club's Motto." Mrs. G. Morrow then read the following address:

Dear Madame President and Club Members:—

We, members and co-workers of Union Dale Institute, felt it our duty to show some appreciation of your diligent and painstaking efforts in making this Club a success.

To you, Madame President, as leader of this Clarmont Making Club, we feel very gratefulfor your sacrifice in giving of your time and talent. We all know the elementary work in sewing, as in many other things, should be covered while children are young, and fewer there may take to it naturally. Therefore the Sewing Clubs for children are most beneficial and there seems no better way of getting these Clubs established for the girls of rural Ontario than through the Women's Institutes.

The finding of leaders is one of the great services which the Institute can give to this work, but no one can estimate what such a training means to the girls. So we ask you to accept this Rose Bowl as a token to show we have appreciated your services as leader of the Junior Girls' Club.

To you, Girls of the Club, you have done your best we feel sure, and we are justly proud of your efforts and hope you will do as well and better in your second year's work.

If your Club motto, "Training the Head, the Hand, the Heart and the Health" is kept ever in your minds, we know you will be just as successful in all your undertakings.

So we ask each one of you who have finished your required work and have received your Certificates of achievement, to accept these tape measures.

You will find them very useful in your sewing, and we hope you will appreciate them, not for their value, but for the spirit that prompted the giving.

Members of Union Dale W.I.

Mrs. G. Fox presented Miss Kitchen on with the Rose Bowl and Mrs. E. Burkett presented each girl with a Tape Measure.

A delicious lunch was served by the girls. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

"HYMN TO PEACE" MAY HONOR PACT

Paris—An international competition to erect a "hymn to peace", has been announced by the musicians, Carl Dburner, to celebrate the Kelogg pact.

The sponsor has the backing of many famous French musicians including Gustave Charpentier, Maurice Ravel, Andre Messager and Alfred Bruneau. They have accepted places on a committee with Paul Leon, director of the Beaux Arts, as chairman.

Musicians of all countries which signed the pact are invited to compose a "simple and expressive song glorifying the reign of peace on earth."

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

The separate blouse is more important than it has been for many seasons.

A new Paris coat has shaded watchan for trimming which is shad ed from patty to brown.

Violet, maize and amber are predicted as probable spring favorites by a New York importer for woolens and worsteds.

Jewel colors are a feature of the season's plain velvets, and Emeralds, sephires, ruby, topaz yellow and turquoise will meet in the winter ballrooms.

When Lady Clarke recently married the Earl of Bective she wore an unusual dress for a widow at a second marriage, for it was of cream lace beaded in pearls with a court train of the same, and a Russian head dress crowned her hair.

The new shade of sulphur, a deep honey-beige, has been used to good effect in the more formal satin blouses of the type intended to accompany a black velvet skirt for tea, weddings and afternoon bridge parties.

On October 18, Miss Estelle Stead is setting a stone in the hostel of the Girls' Guild of Good Hope, Hoxton, in memory of her father, the late Mr. W. T. Stead, who inspired it, and Queen Mary, who takes much interest in the work, has given a conditional promise to open the hostel.

Arrested before his wife's home, Jas. Caddon of Chicago said he had been sitting on the curb two days and two nights waiting for Mrs. Caddon to admit him.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

Albert College has the better of the two bad teams. They beat the Collegiate team 11 to 0 and this almost gives them this half of the Bay of Quinte League. A small Purchase starred for Albert. This chap is an example of what a good local boy should be, a good student, a good athlete and a clean sport. If all the chaps from Albert and our Collegiate were like Purchase there would have been a fast game of rugby with no fist fights such as were quite prevalent during the game on Saturday. There were many rather crude things done on Saturday but the very "meanest" thing the writer saw was an Albert man twisting a High School player's ankle into knots after he had already been tackled with three "Albert" men piled on top of him, having absolutely no chance to defend himself against this unsalled-for attack.

See the Collegians now playing at the Capitol Theatre with good professional vaudeville.

The best Collegiate player in the game on Saturday was Cecil Williams. This boy does not get half the credit that is due him. On Saturday he went through for yards three times and when they were most needed. Symons played a good game too, but on the whole the backfield were very weak including the quarter back. The Collegiate team would go a long way with a good quarter-back but without one they are lost. Alan Sprague, one of last year's players has finally decided to play and he should be a great help to the team on Saturday when they meet Albert again. Gordon, the regular quarter-back will also be back in the game and this should make a big difference.

The Literary Society met in the fifth form last night after school. They discussed many problems and finally adjourned. The representatives from the various forms and departments are as follows:

Fifth Form Rep.—D. Dalrymple.
Fourth Form Rep.—F. Barber.
Third Form Rep.—M. Drummond.
The Commercial Representatives are:—
Second Form Rep.—Rita Symons.
First Form Rep.—E. Lemon.
The Vocational Representatives are:—

For snappy cuts that satisfy, try the Ambergris Barber Shop, Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M. Spaker.

Try Arthur McCle for the latest made-to-measure Suits and Overcoats.

The Cafeteria will be utilized very soon by out-of-town students. The meals shall be given to the students for the actual cost. This will shorten the noon hour till five minutes to one. This will enable the country students to reach home before dark. Mr. MacLaurin is getting after the students coming late to school in the morning. He states that anyone who does not get up at seven in the morning or earlier has not a very bright future in his estimation. It's all right to get up at seven in the morning if one has one's winter coat supply in, but these cold mornings are very trying for the students who have not their buying at their disposal.

Collegiate Clothing at popular prices is supplied by Clarke Dickens, local agent for Tip Top Tailors.

The keys of the...locker shall be given out this week or in the near future. The keys will be given to every student. This will prevent books from being lost or stolen.

For prompt service on gas and tin try Lloyd and Evans, corner Dundas and Front Streets; Coleman and Bridge.

REV. STEWART TO LEAVE THE CITY

Accepts Call To St. John's Church, Toronto—Temporary Successor

Rev. Mr. R. G. Stewart accepted a call to St. John's Church, Toronto, at a pro tem session meeting held in St. Andrew's Church yesterday afternoon. Rev. T. G. Marshall, Moderator of Presbytery presided. The first business before the court was the call to Rev. Mr. Stewart. This call was signed by 377 members and 445 adherents and carries with it the salary of $4,000 per annum and one month's holidays. The following gentlemen appeared in prosecution of the call:

Rev. J. A. Mustard and Messrs B. D. Ross, H. A. Miller, James Johnston, and Lloyd Harrison, who urged strong arguments why the call should be accepted. After they had been heard Elders from St. Andrew's Church were given a hearing. These were John G. Cameron, W. V. Fairbairn, T. L. Moore, Arthur McCle, and Dr. MacTavish. Mr. Mustard was then asked to reply. The call was then placed in Mr. Stewart's hands and he signified his acceptance of it. On motion of Revs. MacTavish and McKenzie it was agreed that the pastorate be declared vacant on the 18th of November and that Rev. C. K. Nicoll be appointed interim Moderator.

The other matter that engaged the Presbytery was the standing of the Parkers. Elder Mr. Parker complained it was agreed to raise the field from a mission to that of an augmented charge and to reappoint Mr. A. S. Duncan for a period of six months.

PLUNKETT REVUE THE BEST EVER

The Dumbells Have Many New And Added Features This Year

In pursuance of his policy to provide something entirely new with each aerial revue sponsored by him, under the banner of THE DUMBELLS, Captain Plunkett has departed drastically from the traditional all-star revue of the past nine years and for "Why Worry?" which comes to the Capitol, on October 22 and 23, he has acted on about a dozen Canadian girls to the cast of an equal number of all-time favorites, headed by Al Plunkett, "Red" Newman, Fred Emney, et al.

In introducing them to this heretofore Eveless Eden, Captain Plunkett is simply following the precedent that had their beginning when the population of this world was one-and man had all the girls.

There has been considerable controversy over this above question immemorial, and there will probably be a great amount of discussion over this latest evidence that Adam was father of us all.

Captain Plunkett bases his explanation in the opening prologue of his "Why Worry?", when he proffers as a testimonial to the fair sex assembled, Canada for the part which they so valiantly played in the Great War.

On one thing we may be sure, and Captain Plunkett is too good a showman to disappoint them, Canada forwards, or stand still. Every season for nine years he has produced a revue that was just a bit better than the one before, and he has gone to unusual lengths to make this his annual revue the greatest of them all.

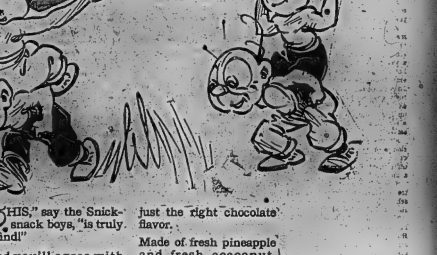

"THIS," say the Snick-snack boys, "is truly a find!"

Made of fresh pineapple and fresh cocoanut, dipped in butterscotch and coated with milk chocolate. A bar developed only after years of experience in the making of choice confections.

GREATEST TASK OF MODERN LIFE

Thomas R. Jordan Heard With Interest By Men's Association

The first session of the Men's Association of Bridge St. United Church, in the Community Hall, yesterday afternoon, was a decided success.

The young men of the S. S. Classes of Mr. Holmes and Mr. Lapsley augmented the attendance; for the occasion and Prof. Hunt led in the singing.

Rev. Dr. Jordan's enlarged upon the reading of the Bible lesson, the 13th chapter of 1 Corinthians, "The greatest gifts possessed by the early leaders were," he said, "shown to be superseded by charity or love, and love is a all spectrum revealing many characteristics contained in full-orbed Christian Ky."

The special feature of this opening affair was an address upon the Greatest Task in Life, by Mr. Thos. R. Jordan, International Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is in the city for a local campaign. Burrin, so the speaker remarked, defined the ability to think properly as the greatest thing in life, but Mr. Jordan contends that "to be a Christian in profession and practice utters everything else. In the home, business and social spheres, following of Christ ought to be precminent. Our homes which are so important to the church may be the place where Christian principles can be exemplified greatly and should be such that even when the spirit of Jesus dwells like unto the time. In business, Christian men can carry on with Christianity with a detriment to trading operations, rather one can be a help to each other."

WINE IS TAKING PLACE OF CIDER

According to the statement of cider makers in Toronto, the good old drink that most farm boys used to "sneak" cellar and help down" is going into the discard as a beverage.

The whole output of cider in Toronto is not to exceed 2 per cent. of alcohol and is made only in the fall when the apples are most plentiful.

Apples that cannot be sold or used for any other purposes are generally used for cider making. A small quantity of the cider made by the vinegar manufacturers for the making of cider vinegar, but even cider vinegar is gradually being displaced by the "white wine" vinegar.

Cider used for beverage purposes when made is preserved for a short time by materials that stop and prevent fermentation. This destroys it for the making of cider vinegar. Cider for vinegar must be allowed to sour and those who have indulged in a drink of fermented cider know.

Apples, so vinegar makers say, are what a "really headache" means. In short this "pest," and the quality is too good to make them into cider. The "windfalls" are used for cider, but they will not for only a short time.

Pure cider when fermented will contain about 2 per cent of alcohol, and this has some "kick."

Wine has replaced cider in many country homes, and the cider mills that used to dot the landscape have disappeared. Wine is now made from dandelion flowers, elderberries, grapes and other fruits and vegetables, and cider can be made only from apples.

There is no special provision against the sale of "sweet" cider, but the Liquor Control act makes it an offence to sell any beverage containing more than 2-1-2 per cent. proof spirit. Sweet cider is sold in the government liquor stores, and it is said by connoisseurs, who have a weakness for cider and have not acquired the champagne appetite are just as fond of sweet cider as they would be with "sparkling wine."

PASSENGERS, MAIL SEPARATED IN AIR

Cheyenne, Wyo. — Officials at the Cheyenne Airport say complete separation of the mail and passenger traffic in the transcontinental line will result from the increased volume of air mail since the reduction in aerial postal rates.

The volume of mail has become so large in Cheyenne on planes from the east and west that many persons desiring to travel by air have been denied reservations because mail usurps the passenger space.

Fifteen airplanes for carrying mail only are now being built and each will

LOCAL BROKER VIEWED CANADA'S MINING COUNTRY FROM THE AIR

Gordon Osborne of Mowat & McGillivray On Extensive Tour

To Mr. Gordon Osborne, popular mainspring of the local office of Mowat and McGillivray, stock-brokers, was given the privilege of seeing first-hand and at close quarters some of Canada's greatest mines. In company with Mr. Wells, a partner of the firm, and Mr. McDonald, a mining engineer from Toronto, he left Belleville on the 20th of September, Saturday, for North Bay and it was from this base that the trip really started. It was a splendid trip from every point of view educational, pleasure and financial. It was educational in that it permitted the manager of one of the important offices of Mowat and McGillivray to see the mine whose stock he was trying to sell. Assurable beyond doubt, for who would not get a thrill from going down into a great mine, from seeing thousands of tons of rock blasted from the face, from seeing the wonderful water trips. And last, but not least, it was financial because in two weeks in the open air, eating the truly wonderful food that only a mining and lumbering camp can furnish ad miles and miles of walking would make a dying man sit up and take nourishment.

There were five mines that were inspected by the party, mines that are not everybody's joy every day, anonymous, with today's stock markets. They, included Kirkland Lake, Thompson, Moffatt and Sudbury.

And it was of Malartic the tale. Osborne was most enthusiastic. "I think of the mine has wonderful possibilities," he said to a representative of this newspaper yesterday. Of course that others were good, too, but it was Malartic that interested me the most. I cannot say a great deal about the claims, that would be unethical, but this trip certainly was an eye-opener to me." Mr. Osborne's desk was covered with specimens that he picked up at the various mines they went through.

From North Bay the party went to Kirkland Lake; the first mine to be looked over. But, perhaps the most interesting part of the entire trip was the inspection of the mines from the air. The ride from Rouyn to Malartic, from Malartic to Siscoe, and from Siscoe to Amos, in Quebec. The plane flights, though, were all the pleasures of the trip. A motor-boat was chartered and the party went to Malartic, with the interesting interludes of a few portages on the way and a walk of a few miles through mud at least six inches deep and stickier than any ever produced in Flanders. Dressed in hiking costumes, it was not so bad, but in some places the going was pretty rough, to which fact Mr. Osborne will testify.

Another series of high lights of the trip were the meals that were eaten at the various mining camps. Now, anybody who has ever walked some ten miles through a rough country, portaged a heavy pack and other little odd jobs, one can appreciate just what a good meal tastes like. Mine operators and lumber camp owners are firm believers in the saying that a contented man does good work, and there is only one way to make a man contented—feed him well. The food on the tables is plentiful, and more than that it is plentiful with nearly anything the greatest gourmand could ask for.

After seeing the five mines both from above and beneath the party were inside all of them) the return trip was started and Mr. Osborne only landed back in the city the day before yesterday, after spending two of the best weeks he has ever enjoyed. Truly what he has to say concerning these properties—

FIND INTERESTING DATA ON QUEEN BEE

Cleveland, O.— The Queen of Ancient Ur, whose body was dug up recently in the Chaldees, was only twenty-seven years old when she was slain so that she could be buried with her husband, according to Dr. C. Wingate Reed of Western Reserve University, an authority on the age of skeletons.

The King, Meskalamdug, Todd said, was only 45 when he died. The bodies of the King, the Queen and one of the nobles of the court were recovered in excavations at Chaldea.

The skulls of the Queen and the nobles of the court were recovered by Todd Dr. Todd. Evidently they had been beaten with some sort of club. It was the custom when the King died for his Queen and court to be buried with him.

The scientist made the examination of the skeletons in Europe this summer at the request of Sir Arthur Keith, of the College of Surgeons of the British Museum.

Scientists are collecting phonograph records, of primitive languages which are dying out.

RAP SEIZURE OF "SEX" NOVELS

Shaw And Wills, Literary Giants, Combine Attack On Hicks

London—England seems threatened also now who controls the destinies of the which has been agitating the Irish Free States, except that instead of being the result of Government legislation it has crept in through department action. The intervention of Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells has given it extra point, these two literary giants ranging themselves in opposition to the redoubtable personwith a corkscrew smile akin to that British Home Office, Sir. William Joynson-Hicks.

Jonathan Cape, the English publisher of a sex novel by Miss Radclyffe Hall entitled, "The Well of Loneliness," suspended its publication at the Home Secretary's request. A French version republished it in Paris but English customs officials yesterday seized copies of it that were being shipped to England. As the book was voluntarily withdrawn here the legality of the seizure is questionable and Shaw and Wells have added the weight of their names to protest against the attack on the freedom of literature which was made when the books were seized in transit.

It is understood here that the book will be published or will still be published in the United States by Alfred Knof.

"I read it, and read it again," said Shaw, "and I repeat that it ought not have been withdrawn. It speaks of things people ought to know about. Apart from that its voluntary withdrawal does not imply a legal right to prohibit its importation."

H. G. Wells said:

"The book should not have been seized, and I doubt whether seizure legal. I hope the owner of the copies will take action."

Miss Radclyffe Hall herself described the seizure of the books as an outrage against literature and an attack on personal freedom.

CAPITOL THEATRE

A noteworthy contribution to screen art is the characterization of the polar explorer, Captain Ramper, by the noted German actor, Hans Wegener, now at the Capitol Theatre in Paul Malonati's German-made film, "The Strange Case of Captain Ramper." In Europe, Wegener is ranked as One many's greatest actor on both stage and screen. His portrayal of Captain Ramper in the present picture makes this estimate of his ability seem not at all over the mark. He gives a vital, human and impressive performance.

"The Strange Case of Captain Ramper" was adapted from a German play by Max Mohr which tells of an artist for who set out to fly to the North Pole, whose plane crashed, and who lived alone among polar bears for fifteen years, more animal than man, forgetting how to talk, how to think.

He is rescued by whalers. A scientist becomes interested in him and removes his mind and memory through an operation.

The picture is one that should be seen not only for its great acting, but also for its fantastic story and the real human appeal which it carries. Mary Johnson, Swedish film and stage star, is excellent as Zizi, the circus girl who is the only person that the stricken ironically that was Ramper will allow to come near. Director Malonati will obey Cast, direction and photography are excellent.

On the same bill Capitol diners are sent a clever cut snappy singing and dancing act which was well received last evening. o16-3id

REGENT

Combining a love story of surpassing heart interest with a fascinating picture of the greatest of human problems, Paramount's film version of Clare Kummer's play of "Doomsday," opens next week at the Regent Theatre.

Florence Vidor has the starring role in the picture in the character of Mary Vivier, Gary Cooper, as Captain Richard Thorne, is the leading male role. Rowland V. Lee, the man who directed Paramount's "Loves of Sunya" is the director of "Doomsday." The screen play was written by Donald W. Lee from the adaptation by Clare Kummer of Doris Anderson.

The scene of the picture is rural England and the time is five years after the close of the World War.

Work, and its possibilities of good and evil, happiness or despair, is the central theme woven through the fabric of a sweet and stirring love story.

BELLE THEATRE

"The Racket" was adapted from the stage play of the same name, which enjoyed a healthful run on Broadway, and subsequently was presented on a road tour. Mr. Meighan personally selected this vehicle as ideally suited for himself, and words of praise should be heaped for his judgment. The play was written by a newspaperman, Bartlett Cormack, who wrote in play form, a record of his observations and experiences gained from his employment as one of the newspaper reporters, which placed "The Racket" as a timely dramatic piece.

Mr. Meighan is supported by a wonderful cast which has Marie Prevost in the leading feminine role. Others in the cast include Carl Laemmle, John Darrow, Skeets Gallagher, Ben Hewin, Corrye Stone, Helen De Grasse and others of character fame. The picture was directed by Lewis Milestone, who previously turned out "Two Arabian Nights."

SINGERS PRESENT VOCAL "MOVIE"

Selberling Radio Program For This Evening Announced

On the screen of the other one Selberling Singers will project the close-ups and flash-backs of a vocal and instrumental "movie" tonight, October 16th. The theme? Love.

Instead of reaching the audience through their eyes, each scene will be sketched for the ear alone. All you have to do is sit back, close your eyes and let the story tell itself.

The program will open with the "Opening Scene," Bartlett's "Land of Dream", sung by the quartet. The situation begins to unfold when James Selbery, Selberling's own tenor, next steps to the microphone and sings Tosti's "Good-Bye". As the "Fade Outs" fades, the two pianos of Phil Gilman and Victor Arden will pick up the thread of the story with that old English song, "Alice Where Art Thou?" by Asher.

Then comes a flash-back. In recollection, the quartette will do Irving Berlin's "Blue Skies", after which the famous Selberling "Singing Violins" will play, banked before the microphone. Out comes Lorniest of all the songs which came out of the War, "Hardin Wood," by Ord of Picardy.

A moment of doubt, during which James Melton will sing "Was It Love?," and then the final close-up—the denouement, as they say in professional circles—while the Selberling Salon Orchestra, latest of the Selberling units added to the Selberling programs, will play Charminade's charming Greek marriage dance, "Pas de Amphore".

The program will conclude with "The Shadows", by Allen, from the current edition of the "Vanities."

WHERE THE CRIPPLED NEW YORK YANKEES WILL SPEND VACATIONS

Several Members Will Be Included On Barnstorming Club

OTHER PURSUITS

Ball Players Have Craze For Hunting In Northern Wilds

New York, October 13.—The world's series are over. This may not be news but its undoubtedly a fact. Public interest, however, is still focused on the Yankees, individually and as a team. And for this reason the following article written for the New York Sun by Will Wedge is most timely.

"Let's turn to different things!"

That seems the attitude of many of the Yanks. Their success was sweet, but they confess they have had enough baseball for one year. All but such sturdy Athletes as Ruth, Gehrig and Hoyt. These birds cavort gay on playing ball clear through the calendar—and enjoy it. All three are going to dabble in the barnstorming racket during the next few weeks.

They are allowed to exhibit themselves in the provinces or any place for that matter until November 15. That's the deadline beyond which no gente is allowed cavorting in organized ball can harvest extra dollars from fans curious and hero worshippers.

Ruth and Babe Barrer Gehrig start raking in loose change tomorrow at Easter Park. Hoyt's barnstorming plans are less definite. He has to gather his team together. It will cut in on the time he would rather devote to social activities, but he wants the money to help float his new undertaking venture in Larchmont.

It will be November 1 before Hoyt learns whether he passed the State medician's examinations, which he took on Sept. 30. He figures this period of waiting might just as well be put in playing ball as so much per game.

Hoyt's Wealthy Year

When Hoyt balances his books at the end of the fiscal year he may find that he made more money than any other pitcher in the business. He stands to gross nearly $30,000 for 1928, counting his $17,500 salary, his bonus of something like $2,500 for winning twenty-two games during the league campaign, his world series share of $5,532; his stipend for writing world series stories which he actually composed and typed all by himself; his coming profits from his barnstorming venture, and a few other items of advantageousness that have escaped my memory.

He will need all this money, for he figures that it will take a long period to establish the wrecking business on a firm foundation.

Hoyt has been tailing mortuary lines for so long now that he has his battery partner, Benny Bengough, interested in the subject. Benny wonders if he couldn't run for coroner up in Niagara Falls, N.Y., in order to shove some business Hoyt's way.

But before he takes any steps in this direction Bengough is going to relieve his system of its annual hunting itch in a few days, he will start for the wilds of Canada with Joe Dugan, Sam Jones, Mickey Cochrane, and Eddie Collins in quest of the elusive moose. A fine party will come back to civilization eventually with heavy beards of their own, if not with the chin whisker tuft and antlers of one of the monarchs of the northern forests.

A Hunting We'll Go

Bob Shawkey and Freddy Hoffmann were slated to go with the Bengough hunting party, but the word is now that they will head for the Ozarks to help spread the holy writ of baseball among the heathen.

The Yanks will contribute other minnrcds to the open season for going around popping at things. Strangely enough, Leo Durocher, who has been toppling off all summer, will not go out with a gun after the country. Leo may go back to his old trade as an electrical worker, renaming the tinkering of carburetors and spark plugs that held his attention at Springfield, Mass., before he got into baseball. Durocher has a rather stiffly attitude toward hunting. He'd rather spend his time hanging around town than tramping into the wilds.

But most of the Yanks have the gunning craze bad, and it is no wonder considering the way the Bupert rifles shot their way through all baseball opposition this year.

Gene Robitaill, who predicted before the W. S. that the Yanks would clean up in a hurry as the Cards were already jinxed by his presence on the opposing side will spend a couple of months tracking whatever game there is to track in the Catskills and then go to Minnesota to hunt ducks with Nick Allen. Gene was asked if he was going to do any work after he had his fill of hunting.

"Work," he sniffed. "I've never worked in my life and I'm not going to start now. When I get all done with baseball I'm going to finish my law course and go into business with my brother."

Off to Florida.

Henry Johnson, the young pitcher whose many wins over the A's helped the Yanks' tremendously in gaining the pennant, will shortly hie to his native Florida and commune with as many as possible of the lions, tigers and elephants of the Everglades.

George Pipgras, one of the most ardent of old trappers, will spend most of the off season with either a gun or a fishing line in his hand at his estate near Blayton, Minn. Pip-gras has decided to be an active fisherman and will not be content with fishing through the ice when his manager's ice stores and straw had been hocking amberjack and red snapper on the Gulf of Mexico.

Huggins is plainly beseiled weary If they ever try to introduce a 160-game schedule in baseball I'll move up or if the Yanks should ever go back to the old system of playing more than one game in a world series, it would probably drive Huggins to the refuge of his ancestral game of cricket.

He is so fed up on baseball, and even its triumphs, that he hasn't even bothered to attend the 1928 race. Hug will immerse himself in golf for a couple of weeks in this neighborhood before setting out for Florida. Huggins will not do any hunting. He doesn't care for it. This is another thing that stamps him as unique in his class.

For some reason or other Herbie Pennock is luring mascot Eddie Bennett down to Pennock Farrow, in Pennock estate near Kennett Square, Pa. He has told Bennett that there will be some hunting on tap, and Eddie, who has never seen any artillery except Babe Ruth's big baseball bats is keen for the idea. But Eddie may find himself acting as Pennock's caddie on the Pennock golf course, or at least he nock's groom on the fox-hunting acres of the Pennock estate.

Wild Goose Chase.

Ruth is going on a wild goose chase after he finishes barnstorming. It is the great man's annual custom to go out each fall in June of a goose to grace the Thanksgiving board of the family, of Egbert, Barrow, If Ruth fails to bag a November goose he will keep on trying and maybe bag, or buy one as a Xmas present for Babe.

Combs and Koenig had planned to join the barnstorming crusaders of one or the other of their famous exhibition games, but since Combs hurt his wrist and Koenig has been bothered with his sinus bruises they have changed their minds. Koenig may motor all the way across the continent with Ruppert's boss to their home in Frisco, where Mark may get married this winter.

Cedric Durst, who was the only member of the Yanks to bat .300 or better in the W.S., heads for Texas later in a month's rest before going to the Pacific Coast to golf. Cedric has hired John Robertson in hunting in the Cats. Pat Collins will look over Broadway for a while and then beat it for Kansas City, where he owns an interest in a bowling alley and pool parlor. Mascot may ages around the Yankee outs in Baltimore and they play a few games of exhibition ball out there.

Zachary's Cornob

Tom Zachary goes back to farming at Graham, N.C., where the tobacco crop is his main interest. Tom gave some thought to a project for establishing a Carolina division of the Missouri mercshaum industry, but faded to interest support. Tom laments that there are so few Carolinians in the league the good old cornob pipe. It is his favorite smoke, and he had a mascot cornpob, a veteran of the 1924 Washington world series, in his tents. Tuesday night when every other member of the celebrating Yankee homecoming party had a souvenir in his hands, Freedie Heimach goes back to Canden, where he will knock around for the winter. Wally Pipp goes to the Arizona home of the Thomas clan with no particular plans in view. Bill Ryan will go to Toledo, where he has makes his home. Mike Gazella may try his hand at running the bootlegging business. Mascot Bennett, when he finishes his visit to Pennock, will go to work trying to make an honest living selling insurance.

SOME CHANGES IN RUGBY RULES

In his article, "The Gridiron Situation," appearing in the October issue of College Humor, Major John L. Griffith, Western Conference Athletic Commissioner, says: "While most of the changes noted in the new football rules have to do with clearing up of the many points which caused some confusion among officials last year, there have been a few changes which will make the interest of the college men and women who will witness the games this Fall.

"Last year the committee, composed of Ted Jones, Bill Roper, Alonzo Stagg, E. K. Hall, F. Burrn, C. J. Beerman, D. K. Hine, H. W. Hughes, George Varnell, E. K. Hall and W. S. Langford, in an attempt to add another interesting feature to the game, tried to encourage the backward pass. Experience taught, however, that many fumbles in the backfield were called incomplete forward passes and without doubt there was no intent on the part of the offensive team to make an English rugby play. This year the committee has designated that a protected forward pass is a backward pass other than one from the snapper back which is thrown a distance of not more than five yards from the air. This year on an incompleted backward pass the ball will belong to the team that recovers it at the spot of recovery. In the case of a backward pass in which a player attempts to hand the ball to another and where it has not been clearly thrown two yards, if such a fail is fumbled either team may recover and run with it.

"The rules also provide that when the ball is not in possession of a player and strikes the goal post or crosses on the Pennock golf course, or at a point which later scores a goal, it will be considered as out of bounds."

OVER-DOSE OF HORSE RACING

Melbourne, Australia, (C. P.)—Australia has been getting an overdose of horse racing, according to track authorities, because of drought of decreased returns, and businessmen who contend that the length of recent meets has had a serious effect on the country by diverting money from useful channels, it was declared. Several race meets were launched following the government's decision to abolish all racing restrictions some special meets for charity.

"With the industrial situation as it is, it behooves everyone to increase production rather than create, the Melbourne Herald said in an article of the largest manufacturers in Melbourne, commenting on the proposal. "One has only to watch the crowds that pour out from the races to realize that they are people who can afford to bet, and whose whole livelihood depends on work."

Mr. L. J. S. Mackinnon, chairman of the Victoria Racing Club, says that the racing season is definitely over and that Australia is now suffering from its backwash. "We take a serious view of this over-racing," he said in a recent report. "It is most harmful to racing and distinctly bad for the community."

PREMIER BALDWIN TO SPEAK

Glasgow, October 16.—Premier Stanley Baldwin will be the principal speaker at an evening demonstration in St. Andrew's Hall next Monday evening in connection with the meeting of the Scottish Conservative conference.

QUEER PET OF BOSTON YOUTH

Boston—Other guys can be contented with ordinary pets, if they are built that way. They can shower their affections on playmates like cats and dogs and canary birds and turtles. Those are the kind of fellows who stick in their own backyard and never have adventure call to them to sneak over the fence and take a peek around the world in which they live.

Dave McCarthy has a different idea about pets. He is one of those self-sufficient kids of four years who has original though young ideas. Having just a dog or a cat as a pal would give him no kick at all. More to his liking would be an elephant or a lion or a tiger—or at least something like that.

All summer long the residents of Suffolk Street, Medford, have noticed that young Dave has been perspired by a tremendous problem. They have seen him sauntering hands behind his back, head in neighborhood with a wrinkled brow and a look of concentration in his eye. And everyone who knew him and saw him wondered what Dave would do up to next.

Well, the secret is out. Dave has gone and done it. He has adopted a pet, or rather, the pet has adopted David. Being iconoclastic, it was no surprise when it came to out that Dave had a different kind of a pet than any fellow in the neighborhood. It wouldn't even set the neighbors agog if Dave annexed himself a polar bear or a rhino. So it didn't disturb them when they saw Dave come home with a squirrel, or, rather, they saw a squirrel come home with Dave.

Now, the young man himself ain't saying much for publication. As if he feared that someone would discover the strange magnetic power he has over wild and woolly animals he has not a say or his neighborhood companions into his trade secret. But his folks probed David and then told the reporter.

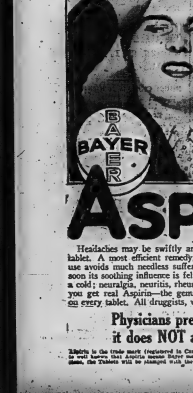

Dave, it seems, climbed the fence recently and started on one of his many exploration trips. On an adjacent street he cast his hypnotic eye on a baby squirrel. The squirrel looked Dave over and vice versa. Both seemed to be pleased with each other, in fact. Dave is reported to have said: "Nice fella me, haven't ...I seen you some place before?" The squirrel winked and kept his eyes fastened on Dave's dungaree.

It was a good cockie and Dave liked it. But he wanted up in the tree they'd to share his all with his fellow man even though it hurt, he gave the squirrel a bite. The squirrel ate it unceremonially. Thus, having cookie-eating as a foundation for friendship between them, Dave on the spot, in the nick of time for one might say, began a beautiful, friendship.

Dave and the squirrel came walking home together. The McCarthy boats held was much upset. Yes, squirrels were nice while sitting in trees or burying peanuts, but as to having one for a regular boarder in the house that was something else again. However, the squirrel stayed. Dave let it be known that it was either the squirrel and him or an empty high-chair at the McCarthy dinner table that night.

A drawer of a cupboard was cleaned out under the direction of Dave and the squirrel installed. The animal liked its bungalow. In fact it liked Dave so much it would have been content to sleep in the ash pan if allowed.

The squirrel has shown no signs of leaving. He isn't at all fussy. Last Saturday night he ate beans like the rest of the folks at home. He is extremely fond of nuts and Dave's pet—it is pestered daily by her 4-year-old sister, Medford.

WHEAT OUTLOOK MOST UNCERTAIN

According To Statement Issued By Royal Bank of Canada

A review of the world wheat situation issued by the Royal Bank of Canada states that the present outlook is uncertain, due principally to the two years large crops which seem to threaten over-production in the immediate future, but concludes with the belief that the world's growing population is bound to require a steadily increasing wheat supply.

"Among the varied studies of demand for and supply of wheat," the review says, "it is possible to secure statistics and construct a story quite favorable to the pessibility of such a steady growth in world wheat requirements as to absorb all probable production. On the other hand, it is also possible to study the potential increase in supply from Canada, Argentine, Australia, Russia and Manchuria and to come to the conclusion that the world is on the verge of a period of immense overproduction.

"At present the outlook is uncertain due principally to this years large crops which seem to threaten over-production in the immediate future. The large indeterminate factors in the situation are each of sufficient consequence so that one cannot be certain of attaining an approximation by offsetting them. There is, however, reason to believe that are unfavorable. But those who take a balanced view of the long-time trend realize that there is likely to be a normal proportion of failures, that a year or two of low prices will reduce production somewhat, and that in the long run the high level of production in the United States will reduce their export surplus more effectively than it can be done by legislation. The world's growing population is bound to re-Vancouver.

JERSEY BROUGHT FROM THE COAST

Several large shipments, notably of pure-bred animals have been sent from Toronto and Brampton this year to Vancouver, but the first carload probably ever sent from British Columbia back to Ontario was shipped by Roy W. Brown, of Vancouver to Mrs. R. Marshall, owner of a herd of Jersey cattle at Meaford, Ont.

The new purchase to Ontario is a year-old bull calf, Quilchena Silver King No. 4405, with Advanced Registry No. 148. He was sired by a prize winner from the Bagg herd at Edgeley, Ont., bought several years ago by Mr. Brown in Vancouver. The dam of the calf now sent to Ontario, Quilchena Lady of Lyngcurry, is a notably producer. As a three-year-old she made a record of 440 pounds of butter fat as a four-year-old 522 pounds, both of these records in 305 days on twice-a-day milking. She has now just completed a 365-day mature record of about 800 pounds fat. Mrs. Marshall looked all over Canada for the type she desired, together with a pedigree of at least three official records, and she found this bull in you're a steadily increasing wheat supply."

At the outset the review says that among the more important changes which have occurred in Canada—190 million bushels, or about 100 per cent.; in the United States—100 million; Australia—44 million; Argentine—63 million; Italy—19 million; and Spain, 1913 and 1927-28 are the increases

Harold Barnum Pleaded Guilty--Gilmour Stands Trial At Assizes

HAROLD BARNUM PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE; JUDGMENT RESERVED

SCHOOL BOY SHOT IN FRIENDLY FIGHT

Chicago, Oct. 17.—School boy guns dropped Orville Brandy, 14, during a fight in front of McKinley school yesterday. The boy was dangerously wounded. The police said the shooting occured during a gang fight between the boys in their early teens and that the gun was fired by a student who is being sought.

PARKING LIGHTS MUST BE USED

Police Wage Campaign Against Drivers Who Ignore Act

City and Provincial Police will, in the near future, concentrate on those owners of motor vehicles in this city who persist in parking their cars on the street without the necessary parking lights. The same thing is becoming a common occurrence on the highways leading in and out of the city and daily the traffic becomes more dangerous to the public as a whole.

The Highway Traffic Act says clear as day: "Whenever on a Highway after dusk and before dawn, every motor vehicle shall carry three lighted lamps in a conspicuous position, one on each side of the front and one on the rear of the vehicle. Any lamp so used must be clearly visible at a distance of two hundred feet.

Particularly on side streets have the police found that car owners ignore the question of parking lights. In a short time, however, these motorists will be hailed into court and when they are found guilty of the offence they may comply with the law in future.

GERMAN GUESTS GIVEN WELCOME

Broadway a Riot of Color As Zeppelin Crew Lands

New York, Oct. 17.—Two score of gallant men who had shown a new way to the conquest of the air by their flight in the Graf Zeppelin from Germany last night were the guests of an enthusiastic city after a tumultuous welcome in the late afternoon.

The city forgot its business for a time to hail the crew of the dirigible, symbolic of a new era in transportation of passengers and cargoes.

The visitors were landed from the municipal tug, Macom as 3.50 p.m. at the Battery, and proceeded northward to the tip of Manhattan, on which the skyscrapers encroach as close as they can. Patient crowds of women had waited since early morning, and at the landing time a chorus of five thousand voices went up to hand to cheer. A light sprinkle of rain failed to diminish the crowds.

The grey office buildings had blossomed forth with the flags of Germany and the United States, and from their upper stories, as the parade formed and moved up Broadway, came that paper storm which office workers delight to shower on the heroes who gain below them.

The mounts of patrolmen cavorted ahead of the automobiles bearing the city's guests, and behind marched smart detachments of the army and navy. The sidewalks were packed from curb to wall, and at street intersections eafended further back.

PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT

Toronto, October 17.—James Arthur Weeds, former civic employee, pleaded guilty to seven regt todav to theft of $1,390 from the municipality and was remanded until October 24 for sentence.

THE WEATHER

Moderate southerly winds unsettled with occasional rain.

Thursday, fresh winds mostly cloudy and somewhat cooler, probably scattered showers.

SCHOOL WRECKED

Dynamite Cap Explodes In Stove—Two Children Injured

Verdigre, Nebraska, Oct. 17.—A country school dynamiting mixture to that which occurred near Ottawa, Illinois, a year ago, had the Verdigre experience crowd today. Two small children injured in the explosion were in the hospital painfully hurt. The dynamite was planted in the school house stove. Only the fact that the children were at recess prevented a heavy casualty list.

E. MITCHELL HAS PRISON RECORD

Criminal Department States Prisoner Wanted In Maritimes

Provincial Police in the city today received notice from Ottawa that Edwin Lorne Mitchell, who is held here on a vagrancy charge, has a criminal record in Moncton, New Brunswick, and apparently is wanted at that place. He was sentenced to serve six months in the Dorchester Jail at Moncton on the 5th of June, 1928, for forgery, but apparently had escaped from that institutior as his time was not up when arrested in Belleville.

Mitchell, it will be remembered, was the young man who stood in the dock at Corbyville when he was tried and threatened Corbyville workers with a revolver, until arrested by Provincials. From his actions it is thought that he is weak minded, as he declared at the time of his arrest that he was getting ready for the war in China. And it turned out later that the gun he was using was nothing but a toy pistol painted black. He was remanded for another week until word could be had from Moncton as to whether they wished him returned to the Dorchester Jail.

CAMPUS WASHED AWAY BY RAIN

Heaviest Fall of Court Year Was Recorded Yesterday

Yesterday's and last night's rain was a good deal heavier than most Belleville folk believed, a total of 23 inches falling from the time it started to rain yesterday morning until twelve o'clock last night. This is one of the heaviest in this district this year, and no doubt will be a memorable as the spit was beginning to harden perceptibly.

The only place in that short time it rose well over a foot, last night several sewers about the city became blocked, and the Public Works Department were forced to work overtime. Coming down Church St. and across the river of sand, taken for the most part from the New Collegiate grounds, it was evident that the rain was a boon to a campus at the Collegiate is to have it sodded, as with a few more rains there will be a fair garden and last night there will be no sand left.

ANNIVERSARY AND SUPPER SUCCESSFUL

The Anniversary Services of the Foxboro United Church proved to be successful in every way. The Rev. J. McCutcheon's sermons on Sunday were very much appreciated. The Fowl supper on Monday evening was well attended, and a good program by the Brighton talent jas enjoyed by the large audience. The orchestra of West Belleville United Church gave splendid music. Everybody left delighted with the supper and the entertainment. The proceeds of the thank offering and supper were $213.

URGES YOUTH TO SHUN ALCOHOL

Five Hundred Heard Eminent English Speaker Last Night

Well over five hundred people were present last evening to hear the Reverend Henry Carter, at Bridge Street Church, speaking on the evils of liquor, outlining a strong case against alcohol and challenging youth to take up the fight against the evil. Mr. Carter is from London, England, and seldom does any citizens of Belleville permitted to hear a more able or convincing speaker than Mr. Carter. He took up the cause against liquor, not from the standpoint of the ancient propaganda, but from the modern scientific viewpoint on the question. Others were scheduled to take the speech, there was no battle cry to recruit the Ontario Temperance Act; all the Reverend Gentleman was that liquor present last night would make a dodge, a declaration of principles that they might serve God and humanity with all their powers to abstain from alcoholic liquors as a beverage and to serve by winning others to abstain, Needless to say everybody signed up the pledge.

In brief, the Reverend Carter's address was as follows. He spoke of the case against alcohol. "Science," he said, "has brought to light the facts about drink not known before. The alcohol problem is one that concerns the whole quality of modern life and civilization. If the drunkenness factor was the sole factor of the drink problem, you could almost trust to education and public appeal to deal with that."

"But," he continued, "what I want to urge upon you is that science has shown us that the drunkard is only an individual aspect of the drink problem." A most interesting sketch of the effects upon the human brain of alcohol was here outlined by Mr. Carter. "The brain has its two sections— a lower and an upper section. In the lower are primitive potencies. The upper level has cells that control these emotions. If a man drinks, it only takes about ten minutes for the alcohol to reach these cells and it throws them out of gear."

SALE OF LIQUOR SAVED DEFICIT

Government's Action In Cutting of Timber Cuts Revenue

Toronto, Oct. 17.—The Telegram today says that only the sale of $8,000,000 worth of timber has saved the Ontario Government from facing a deficit on the year's operations and that a considerable portion of the liquor revenue will go to balance the deficit which will be created by the succession duties taxes. Last year the revenue from the succession duties was slightly over than $3,000,000 while this year, the newspaper revenue from this source will be somewhat lower than $2,000,000.

The Telegram says the revenue of lands and forests department will decrease from $3,500,000 to about $2,000,000 following the Government's decision to limit the sale of timber unless its disposal was essential in keeping the mills open and the men employed.

The expenditure has jumped, the newspaper states, and the amount for the highway construction will show an increase of $4,200,000 to about $4,000,000 necessitating the imposition of five cents a gallon tax on gasoline foreshadowed by Premier Ferguson.

MUNICIPAL AIR FIELD MOOTED

Capt. Earl Hand of Toronto Flying Club Will Stop Here

Captain Earl Hand, D.F.C., and President of the Toronto Flying Club, will arrive in Belleville tomorrow morning accompanied by Clifford Wallace, aviation editor of the Toronto Star, to confer with the city fathers on a municipal flying field.

They will come to this city by plane and are scheduled to arrive at nine o'clock at the Bleecker Street flying field, formerly Pootons Field, just west of the new Agricultural Grounds. Captain Hand has a Gypsy Moth plane, and will continue on to Kingston with Mr. Wallace after the day. They will be met by Mayor Duff and the City Council, and plans will be shown to the City Fathers by means of which a local Flying Club can be organized as well as having a Municipal Airport.

Mail planes daily pass over this city and the need of a safe landing field for them alone can clearly be seen. Private flying, however, is becoming even more common, and progressive citizens will welcome a new industry and sport hail way by supplying suitable places for landing and taking off.

KIWANIS HOSTS TO RIVERDALE

Visitors Presented Belleville Club With a Wall Clock

One of the most successful inter city meetings ever held by Kiwanis of Belleville took place last evening at the Quinte Hotel when fifty members of the Kiwanis Club of Toronto were guests of the local service organization.

On returning the visit made them by Belleville last Spring the Torontonians yesterday had agreed that they had the time of their lives. Met at the station in the afternoon, the visitors were taken for a drive by the Belleville Kiwanians and the luncheon and programme followed. About a hundred Kiwanians faced expectant than Secretary Jack Charlie Hanna acting as Sergent At Arms, Lieutenant Governor Gordon Lee and Leo Riggs at the piano, the party was a live affair—in fact several of the respected of the visitors declared—so speakers were scarcely accorded the time contrary they had difficulty in finding a vacant moment to send their way.

However, when the speaker of the evening Aubrey Bond, K.C., was introduced, the gathering did listen and heard one of the finest talks ever given to local Kiwanians. Mr. Bond dealt on the life and accomplishments of the "Unknown Englishman," Colchrist Thomas, the man who perfected a process for manufacturing iron ore, this making possible the general use of steel, particularly, in Germany, and Sweden, and the way for the building up of an industrial Germany, replacing the agricultural nation it had been before the war.

Other speakers were President Jack Fanning of Riverdale, Jr., Jos Shortt, Secretary of the local Y and formerly of Toronto, Past Pres. Frank Johnston, and George Griffin.

During the evening, the Torontonians presented Belleville Kiwanis with a beautiful wall clock, having on the ures the letters "Kiwanis Club" and the Kiwanis motto in raised letters beneath. President Greenlees' fittingly expressed the appreciation of the home club.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Wild, as waves
Thou wash no shore, words wander.
—MEREDITH.

WHEN THEY SEE IT

Discussion continues about the announcement that there will be an increase in the gasoline tax in Ontario, although this is to be acombination with a decrease in the yearly fee for drivers.

The reason probably is that drivers know they will have to pay a little more each time they go to the filling station.

There's something else besides that. Drivers feel that they are actually paying more in taxation of the direct kind; they will be able to see the system of taxation in operation.

People pay taxes in the way of sales tax and tariffs, and say nothing about it because they do not see the system in operation. The increase is merely added to the selling price, no explanations made, no questions asked, and yet they are parting with money just the same as when they pay an added levy for gasoline.

It's when the blinkers are taken off and they know just how much they are paying for taxation in addition to the cost of the article that they commence to complain.

TELLING JOURNALISTS

Fourteen British journalists landed in Boston the other day, the object of their trip being to look around United States in the interest of international peace. It is recorded that the journalists want the big boss-ing over points of interest, such as Boston Common, Faneuil Hall, Bunker Hill," etc.

By the time these Britishers spend a few hours there they would be saturated with American history, for it is a fact that Boston is greater on tradition than it is on beans.

They would enter the old State House, climb the winding stairs, and then some one would announce that it was right on this little balcony over here that the Declaration of Independence was read when it was brought over here from Philadelphia. And over in this case is a letter bearing the signature of John Hancock. You know who he was? The first man to sign the declaration, and said he'd put his name down so big that the king of England could read it without his spectacles."

Then to the old South Meeting House. Yes, it's 26 cents to enter here, but perhaps they had special rates for journalists travelling in a party. Now, we'll go to the home of Paul Revere, and before they neared the place there would be at least fifty Italian children on hand to call off the history of Paul, who "was married twice, the father of eleven children and who....."

Now to Boston Common, and be careful not to step on the pigeons; there's a man who will sell you peanuts to feed them. And so on. Boston's ripe in history, and how the folk there do love to serve it up in generous quantities.

WORK FOR PRISONERS

The suggestion made by Hon. Mr. Justice Raney in his address to the Grand Jury yesterday, that the prisoners in the County jail be given some recreation sounds like a reasonable one and doubtless the members of that unused body will render in their report a recommendation to this effect. It has been tried and found successful in other centres and the same results would apply here.

Crime breeds within the four walls of prisons and jails when those in confinement have nothing to occupy their time and minds, and if the inmates were put to employment the County would benefit materially. In Kingston the prisoners earned $2,500 last year and the tile which was manufactured was used on the road system in Frontenac County. Often in the Autumn of the year certain individuals find it convenient to commit some petty crime and are incarcerated in a nice warm building to spend the winter months. Their talents might be put to use and otherwise they are merely boarders gaining their bread and board at the expense of the County.

Last year 186 prisoners were confined to Kingston jail while for the same period 331 were incarcerated at Belleville. Should the Grand Jury render a recommendation along this line the County Council would undoubtedly sanction the move and the County jail would become the home of an industrious hard-working set of men. A man sentenced to jail for some petty crime is often, as Mr. Justice Raney puts it "contaminated by the hardened criminals who have spent half their lives in jail."

$3,500 was spent for the maintenance of prisoners in the Province of Ontario last year, an enormous sum, and if some means can be taken to provide inside employment the number sent to goal might be lessened.

SUBSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

A new story which reports the fact that two brothers in Watertown N.Y., went blind due to the effects of drinking of poisonous alcohol secured from a bootlegger by the men on the assumption that it was Scotch Whiskey, is further proof that the Liquor Control Act now in force in Ontario is far ahead of the prohibition laws of the land to the south of us. Bootleggers ply their trade almost at will and the unsuspecting public buy their stock for its face value.

These two men, so the story goes, were teetotallers but planning a hunting trip they took the beverage along as a precautionary measure. Now they are afflicted with the loss of their eye sights for the rest of their lives and life holds little joy for them. The authorities will probe the case and the bootlegger may be punished to the extent of paying a fine which means little or nothing to him.

This is only one story that has sifted through and dozens of similar cases are occurring every day. If you will remember seventeen persons died from the effects of drinking poisonous liquor in New York City over the Christmas holiday season last year. The United States is now facing the question and modification of the Volstead Act is proposed should "Al" Smith be elected. The Democratic forces do not appear strong enough on the surface to overcome the Republican strongholds but from press reports one would judge that the Act is not serving the purpose and a change will be in order within the next few years.

The Liquor Control Act has been on trial in this Province for one year and the people are solidly behind Premier Howard Ferguson in his efforts to stamp out the inevitable bootlegger.

It is a known fact that "Speak Easies" openly dispose of liquor over the open bar in New York City and political ward bosses afford the proprietors protection. Every effort was made to save the sight of the two unfortunate men who will be forced to seek their livelihood through some other channel.

DELORO CAPTURE SOCCER HONORS

Win Semi-Finals For Peck Cup From Peterboro De Laval

Marmora, Oct 17—Through defeating De Laval by 4 to 3 in another soccer game of football at Deloro on Saturday afternoon, Deloro won the semi-final of the Peck Cup and next C.O.E. in the final game at Peterborough.

Deloro kicked off and after both goals had been visited, the homesters forced a corner. Receiving from the kick, W. Brown scored. While both teams played with considerable dash and the goalies were kept busy, D. Brown narrowly missed another score when the ball struck the right upright. Play then became listless for a period. Finally, Dyer, Jr., made use of a good opportunity as the Deloro goal underwent bombarment and scored with a clinking shot.

Tales was called upon to save shortly after when the visitors had forced a corner. He cleared in fine style. Play was taken to the other end Brooks being conspicuous with a fast rush and sending in a shot. Fowler made a poor clearance, and W. Brown, dashing up, scored his second goal. Twice Deloro should have increased their lead before half-time came. The forwards bunched up when a good chance came and W. Brown had hard lines in receiving from another corner, a beautiful shot striking the left upright.

Lady: "My, but you must have lots of trees to be so careless in chopping them down!"

Farmer: "We have, lady. The woods is full o' them."—Jack o' Lantern.

"Waiter, waiter," sobbed the thirst-racked shipwrecked sailor who had just been rescued by a trans-Atlantic liner.

"Listen to the dam 'Fool," replied the American Tourist.—Harvard.

Mother: "Where, Willie?"

Little Willie. "Pooly, pooly, it's only papa."—Pup.

"How many will the patrol wagon hold?"

"Oh, about twenty-five in a pinch."—Rhenish.

Half-time arrived with the score; Deloro 2, De Laval 1.

The second half opened with Deloro aggressive. Their efforts were rewarded when E. Brown sent the ball between the uprights. Fowler was given his opening period of the game at this time. First he had to deflect a shot from a team mate which was of the danger-ous type. After several rushes on the De Laval goal without success, a Deloro player set the ball bounding on the cross-bar. Pulley brought off a nice save when the goalkeeper was beaten. Then Brown went to the other end, De Laval playing nice combination. Pulley had had his first real goal looked certain. When play returned to the other end, Cousins was similarly under-taxed, making an open goal. Fowler made a nice save from a kick coming from a corner, but a moment later, he was again beaten by W. Brown. Dyer, Sr. shot wide when given a good opportunity. About ten minutes before the finish, De Laval were awarded a penalty, Dyer being successful with the kick. Play was even until the final whistle blew.

Final—Deloro 4, De Laval 2.

Referee McKinley kept the game well under control and his decisions were satisfactory to both teams. Though again victors, Deloro on the whole did not reproduce the good play of a week ago, but against the stiff opposition which will be furnished by C.O.E., they hope to show improvement over their form in the previous clashing with this team. The teams:

De Laval—Goal, H. Fowler; backs, R. Evans and A. Downer; half-backs, J. Mitchell, H. Pulley and V. Curtain; forwards, W. Watkins, J. Dyer, Jr.; F. Dyer; E. Abraham and K. Hanson.

Deloro—Goal, A. V. Yates; backs, R. D. Murray and C. Nicholson; half-backs, W. Savage, J. Kelly and J. Hart; forwards, T. Cousins, E. Brown, M. Brown, A. Rundle and G. Brooks.

Referee: Alex. McKinley, of Peterborough.

The boys were required to judge five classes of livestock and five class es of grain and vegetable. The judges expressed themselves as being well pleased with the work of the boys.

The ten winners will be entertained at the Royal Winter Fair with a party of five hundred and will have all expenses paid for the four days that they are there. Considered will still be a feature of their visit to Toronto where the boys will be shown through various industrial concerns in the city.

URGES YOUTH

Character Makes a Nation "Control," he said, "is God' gift to man, making him man as separating him from the animals. The characteristic of mankind is that he can hold these lower tendencies in control.

"However! Long before man struggle in climb, he struggles in mind, from the effects of alcohol. The individual who is alcholised in his or her brain cells is not fit to control his life or to fulfil character brain sense to the fore I hope that the habit of total abstin ence may prove your salvation. Thus can I pray."

"You young people" he said in conclusion, "are the builders of a nation. Canada. It is not mere wealth that making the greatness of a nation, but character. I believe that the old country is going to break the power of alcohol within the coming years and I would certainly like to see Canada do the same."

Speaking further upon the effects of alcohol upon the morals of youth, Mr. Archer conducted his address.

It is not likely that ever before has a meeting in the interests of temper ance assumed such a serious mission. The body of Bridge Street Church was packed, last night, young and old and the Reverend Carter's reception was rousing to say the least. Following his address, Madge Desmond Hirsey, of Madoc, arose to accept the challenge and he was received in this by Miss Theo Reid, of Belleville. Mr. Dickson president of the Young People's Association, was chairman of the meeting Several hymns were sung during the service. Mr. Hunt, organist, was pres ent and rendered the music for the service.

Farmer; Earl Sagerville, Bonny ers; John Adams, Belleville; and Geo. Cooper McCullough, Sidney, Farmer.

In addressing the jury before hearing of the case, Crown Attorney Fraser described the events leading up to and including the alleged offence. It al leged to have taken place on the road between Point Anne and Bonarlaw, by the Church of England, on the night of the 10th of September. There was a community gathering in honor of a newly married couple, (Mr. and Mrs. Reid) that evening and Miss Charlton attended the affair.

At the conclusion of the supper, which was around midnight, he contin ued, the girl was standing outside the door of the hall, talking to a girl friend and Gallant. Gilmour came up and spoke to them. Miss Charlton that he had something that he wanted to say to her. It is alleged, and they went off together. When they arrived at the point where the alleged offence is said to have taken place, he seized her and kissed her and then assaulted her, according to the girl's story.

Two Witnesses.

There were but two witnesses called this morning, Sergeant Roy Clarke, of the Provincial Police, did not finish his evidence-in-chief by re asked to step down out of the witness box in order that Miss Charlton might be called to testify. Sergeant Clarke described the investigation of the alleged offense, as conducted by him. Miss Charlton's clothes were introduced as evidence, but Gilmour's appearel was not allowed to be produced. When Miss Charlton mounted the witness box, she was most tastefully dressed in a sports costume with a smart hat offsetting the outfit. She gave her testimony in a clear, precise voice and created a good witness. She described the alleged affair minutely, but at times appeared to be on the verge of breaking down.

Shortly before noon a point of law arose and argument between the counsel of the defence and counsel for the prosecution began. The point was that Miss Charlton, who is said to have walked home with her father at most immediately after the affair is alleged to have taken place, should have told him right then about it according to the defense counsel, and not waited until the next morning and then told her mother. Court adjourned about the noon.

ROTARY CLUB AT CAMPBELLFORD

Belleville Members Explain Principles of World Movement

President Max Robertson, immediate Past President Owen Herity, and Secretary O. Scott, all of the Belleville Rotary Club, were in Campbellford last night for the purpose of organizing a Rotary Club in that town. Between fifteen and twenty of the more prominent citizens of Campbellford were present at the dinner which was held in the Gil Lawrence Hotel, which will probably be Rotary Headquarters there.

Each member of the Belleville Club spoke on Rotary ideals and principles showing how a Charter could be had, and telling of the world-wide extent to which Rotary has grown. Rotary at the present time is firmly established in forty-four countries, there are well over three thousand clubs, and more than one hundred and fifty thousand members. It was shown that with a Rotary Club in Campbellford the town and all the inhabitants would be bettered, even as other towns had which were very skeptical as to the good which could be done.

It was decided that a committee should be formed from the Campbellford business interests and that this committee should look further into the matter, and then hold another meeting at which they would present their report. Belleville Rotary Club will assist in every way which it is hoped will soon come into existence, and no doubt several members of the local club will be on hand at the next meeting in Campbellford.

CHAPTER 68.

THE DAY OF DAYS

Week after week passed and Irma had given up all hope of hearing from Steve. She grew pale and listless.

Marguerite had definitely made up her mind to go on to Honolulu, and she tried to persuade Irma to accompany her. But Irma refused. "If I go with you," she said, "Steve will hear of it, and that may make him decide that I don't care what he does. For all I know, he may be on the verge of giving in, and I wouldn't want to spoil that. And what about Hal? Don't you suppose he expects you to return soon? Or do you intend to stay away for good?"

Marguerite sighed.

"I don't know what he expects. I don't think he wants me to return." Her tone was lifeless. She was pale and thin, as in the early days of her marriage, and there was a haunted look in her eyes.

Neither girl knew quite what was in the heart of the other. At least, Irma was ready to admit that, after living in the same house with Marguerite for months, she knew less about her than in the day when they had known each other only casually.

"You're as bad as Laura," she complained. "I never know what you're thinking."

"Perhaps that's because I don't think," laughed Marguerite.

"No, you're not a head—good one, too. I tell you, Marguerite, the trouble with you is that you're too proud. I still right over with every passing emotion, but you shut yourself up in some inner recess, and one can batter at the door until one's exhausted."

Marguerite stood very still. She seemed reluctantly to be listening. She was watching a pair of robins, busily engaged in building a nest under the eves of the veranda.

She said finally: "Why talk about it?"

"Because I've learned a lesson," persisted Irma. "My experience has taught me that you can't just take marriage for granted and expect it to be a success. It's a problem that you've got to study. I believe I know now where I failed, but I can't understand you and Hal.....I've often wondered," she mused, half to herself, "if Hal didn't mistake your pride—that habit of shutting yourself up within yourself—for coldness or stupidity, and if you didn't take Hal's remoteness for indifference, when it's a matter of fact, it may have been only his pride that wouldn't permit him to show what he really felt."

Irma's amazement Marguerite uttered something that sound suspiciously like a sneer and bolted out of the opened door into the garden. Irma stared after her, for a moment, and then shrugged her shoulders.

"Well, there it is again.....There's absolutely no fathoming her."

But Irma made no secret of her own feelings. When she came downstairs, the next morning, she showed traces of having wept. When Marguerite asked what was wrong, she said:

"I lay awake all last night, remembering the years I spent with Steve—all the silly, trivial little things we used to do and say; the little, absurd jokes we used to have between ourselves, that nobody else understands."

She choked back a sob and turned to stare out of the window. Marguerite's heart was wrung with pity for her. She asked herself again whether she ought to tell Steve that Irma really loved him and was broken hearted.

If she had only had Steve's confidence, as in the old days, she might have done so when the trouble began. But, on the African trip, their friendship had cooled considerably. And she reminded herself, if she had gone to her, she would always blame herself for having betrayed Irma's pride to Steve and he had refused to listen and the confidence that the latter had placed in her.

"Was I a coward, a fool, or a wise woman?" she asked herself that morning as she looked at Irma.

The luncheon-hour passed, and the afternoon dragged. Irma wandered about restlessly, played a melancholy air on the piano, turned on the phonograph, and quickly shut it off, picked up a novel, read a page, and threw the book down.

Finally, at five o'clock, she appeared on the veranda, where Marguerite was reading and said:

"I think I'll go to Honolulu with you!"

Marguerite greeted the announcement with an exclamation of joy, but before she had finished the sentence, the maid came in her, carrying a telegram. It was from Marguerite's mother. Marguerite read it aloud:

"Come home at once. Palmer very ill. Mother."

CHAPTER 70

Enlightened

Once again Marguerite was on a train. This time she was alone. The memory of Irma's face, as the train pulled out of the station, lingered with her.

Irma had refused to accompany Marguerite east, but she had said:

"Try to see Steve, Marguerite. Sound him out, if you can, and write me. If he is willing to meet me half-way, I'll swallow my pride and come back."

Marguerite had been aghast at the idea of approaching Steve on such a delicate matter.

"What can I do? It's your affair and Steve's."

"But my pride won't let me take the first step. Now please help me."

Marguerite gave in, when she saw how near the border of nervous collapse Irma had drifted. After all, she and Steve had once understood each other—and she did love Steve, that is. She supposed she could bring herself to discuss impartially with him the situation into which Irma had plunged so recklessly under the lash of her pride. In her heart of hearts, she had a faint hope that she might patch things up without giving Irma away—unless Steve was already too enamoured in his new life to care for anything but his freedom.

In spite of worry over her father's illness, Marguerite's heart lightened as the train sped across the prairies. She made no secret of her exhilaration; it was hard to be sad when one was young and pretty and wealthy. But she wished that the train were carrying her in the opposite direction. She had failed to abandon that trip to Hawaii.

She reminded herself that she had one thing to be thankful for—Hal would be out of town. She had heard indirectly that, with the dissolution of the firm of Glover and Reynolds, Hal had said he deserved a vacation and had gone on a cruise with a couple of friends.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

The shop windows are so wonderfully attractive these days with the new Fall showing of clothes that it is a temptation to wander in if only to look further. The open season for dances with their attendant party frocks is approaching and a visit to the stores shows some charming models. All the articles described below were seen at the local stores.

It would be hard to imagine anything more sweetly girlish than an evening dress we saw with a closefitting bodice and tulle skirt formed of cascaded tiers ranging in color from palest pink to deepest rose. Another variation of that is the color shading through the orchid and mauve tones to rose. These models should be worn with flesh colored hose and silver or black slippers.

And speaking of hose we have been told on good authority that the demand for black hose is increasing, and that the newest shades are "boulevard" which is a deep beige, and "walnut," a deeper brown. Also the day of the clocked silk stockings is over—everyone now demands full-fashioned.

Something new in coat trimmings is the fur collar with a dog's head either at the back or on one or both sides. There is one coat which combines dressy appearances with utility. It is a navy chinchilla, belted and trimmed with black fur. We notice from the showing that the Jersey dress has come back into its own.

"Gentlemen prefer blondes" and who wouldn't if they could see one dressed in an old blue dance frock with overblouse of silver and gold, a skirt of tiered tulle which reaches to the ankles at the back? A swallow bip-line insures a neat fit.

It seems as though we couldn't get away from the dance gowns, and we don't want to forget the brunette sister. We saw a most striking model for her of pink georgette with insertions of colored lace, on yoke and skirt, embodying different shades of reds and the final touch was a huge bow at the waist of green and orchid.

Speaking of parties one naturally drifts to bridge parties and in this connection we saw some pretty suggestions for prizes. It is a question whether the pyx vogue for mascots has come to stay or not, but in any event it is at its height now, and the shops

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SHOULD YOU UNDERGO OPERATION FOR GALLSTONES?

Perhaps you have had one or two attacks of gall stone colic, and after coming through them safely, even if in pain, you are wondering whether or not it would be wise to have an operation and have the stones removed.

Now an operation is always an operation and no one likes the idea of being cut. But it might be well for you to talk the matter over with your family doctor and then decide what to do. That is if you have had the dye test and are reasonably sure that the stones are there.

There is first the idea of treatment such as avoiding fatty foods and using duodenal tube to remove surplus bile from time to time.....

It can be done once or twice anerk by yourself at home, or as often as recommended by your physician.

This should prevent further stones already formed.

But if you fail to have the operation, what are the chances of getting good results and that be freed from these terrible attacks of gall stone colic.

If you are in reasonably good condition, aside from the attacks of colic, you can expect a very high percentage of good results after stone formation has ceased.

That is if you watch the matter your diet and take regular exercise. If you have had the condition for a number of years, are overweight, and sometimes have jaundice, the chances are not quite so good. In fact the results from any operation cannot be uniformly good under these circumstances.

A system below par is bound to be slow in responding to any treatment, aside from any operation.

Dr. J. Verbrugge, of Brussels gives the results of 62 cases operated on for gall bladder. The gall bladder was removed in 41 cases; in one case it was drained. Of this number 53 had gallstones, 8 had inflammation of the gall bladder without stones, but every one gave a history of attacks of colic or persistent dyspepsia.

What were the results of the operation? There were 31 patients cured, 26 per cent improved, and 9 per cent unimproved.

These results are about the average obtained by other surgeons.

With these figures in your mind you can decide whether you wish to withstand more attacks of colic, or undergo the operation, which has now reached a high point of safety.

Vegetable Compound Helps Run-Down Condition

Simcoe, Ont.—"For several years I have had a run-down feeling, dizziness from overwork. One day a neighbor came in, I told her all about what was wrong with me and she told me she had suffered the same as I had. She said she only medicine she tried was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she advised it to me. I sent to the drug store and got a bottle and now I am on the fourth one. WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Molyneux is said to be having much success with his stiff Florentine velvets.

Earrings, perhaps the buttons being excepted, slenderize the face.

Chanel is showing a black woolen frock with starched linen collar and cuffs.

Both blouses and sweaters, on the whole, are longer than last year and have a tendency to flare below the belt.

The dainty little seed pearl when combined with multiple links of silver, makes a handsome choker, having a different air from the usual glass or metal styles.

New York notes that rough tweed suits with short jackets or three-quarter length coats, lined with fur, are a feature toward increased suit comfort in the cold weather of late fall.

At a recent London wedding the bridesmaids wore medium dresses of powder-blue georgette, with Medici collars, pearl caps, and shoes with long points to them and carried red roses and lilies of the valley.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Parsley that is spiced now and put in airtight jars or boxes will be a handy seasoning when winter comes.

To prevent the edges of small mats or rugs from curling, make strips of linen the width of the mat and about six inches long.

Pierce some holes in the linoleum with a gimlet, and then neatly stitch in the underside of the mat with fine twine.

"A delicate subject —but these girls must be told"

—a dean of women says

Unfortunately this delicate subject is seldom discussed, Now, a new patented process deodorizes this scientific sanitary pad completely

EVEN among girls who are very frank with each other, there is a question of daintiness, of fastidious personal care that is unfortunately seldom mentioned. Yet many women are unconscious of quality. And even this lack may be seriously offensive to others. With relaxation comes constant fear and worry.

Today these fears are ended. Science has discovered a way to counteract this offense.

Kotex now completely deodorizes

Kotex has brought a new idea of feminine hygiene to women all over the world. In the past ten years they have learned new comfort, new ease of mind through this sanitary protection. Now, after years of work, a process has been perfected that completely, amazingly ends all odors. In Kotex laboratories the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved.

Modern in fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

CONGESTION IS ACUTE IN WEST

Regina, Sask. — Modern machinery and fine weather have enabled the grain congestion that is greater at the present time than at probably any other period in the history of the west, elevator and railway officials here declared.

Travellers throughout the provinces coming to Regina are bringing with them reports that farmers are dumping their grain on the ground because elevators are plugged, and the railways cannot carry away the grain fast enough.

While admitting that the grain movement was greater up to the present to this season than ever before in the history of the country, rail officials claimed that the grain was being brought back from the head of the lakes with as much dispatch as possible.

Besides the Convention of Editors, to be held in Toronto on October 26th and 26th, there will be a debate with Ottawa Normal on October 26th, and with Peterboro Normal on November 16th. Besides these, a debate with Queen's University, Kingston, is being arranged for the early part of December. H. M. JONES IS NEW PRESIDENT

Officers Chosen For Belleville Badminton Club—Good Prospects

Captain Rubert Jones is the new President of the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club. He was unanimously elected to the important position last night at the annual meeting of the club. Captain H. Watchorn will fill the position of vice-president and Lieutenant T. M. Webster, General manager of the J & J Cash Company, will be secretary. Captain C. A. Cameron, an enthusiastic badminton player and one of the crack opponents of the game in Belleville is Club Captain a position he is well able to fill. The important post of treasurer will be handled by Captain Waller Scott, manager of the local branch of the Dominion Bank.

It is expected, although not certain, it was decided last night, that the official badminton season will open in Belleville a week from the coming Saturday, until the meeting of the St. Lawrence League, called by Mr. C. O. Walker, taking place on Friday night of this week a schedule will be drawn up and the local club will know just what competition the members will face this winter.

It was unanimously decided that the Club should make a contribution of fifty dollars towards the dress uniform (Kilt) fund at present being raised by the Argyll Light Infantry.

The office at opening night was fixed for October 27th, although it is possible that the courts will be ready for play a few days earlier. Courts will be available during the season on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights and Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

It is hoped, in particular, the Picton Club, as the Aggregate on Saturday, November 3rd.

It was announced that a profession al may possibly be engaged to spend a week in Belleville this season, in order to give lessons to members of the Club, and judging by the enthusiasm with which this notice was received, a large number of the club members will avail themselves of the opportunity of improving their game.

The Club would be glad to hear from any military men who desire to become members. Owing to the ever increasing popularity of the game in Belleville, as in all centres throughout Canada, vacancies are promptly filled and it is definite that intending members should communicate with the Secretary in writing as early as possible.

The ladies will meet shortly to elect their Vice-Captain and House and entertainments Committees.

The Club will participate again this year in the Canadian and Ontario Badminton Associations and it is expected that the teams entered in the league games will be stronger than ever. Altogether, everything seems to indicate a most successful and enjoyable season.

SIXTY YEARS OF CONNUBIAL JOYS

Mr. and Mrs. Owen McAvoy Surrounded By Friends On Anniversary

An event of unusual interest took place on Friday evening, October 12, when about one hundred friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Owen McAvoy, assembled in their home, Fourth concession of Tyendinaga, to celebrate with them their sixtieth wedding anniversary.

An address was read by Mr. William McLaren at the conclusion of which a well-filled purse was presented by Mr. William Power. After lunch had served, several of those present rendered some delightful piano and vocal selections which were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McAvoy who are eighty-eight and eighty-three years of age, respectively, are at present enjoying the best of health. Their family consists of Mrs. C. A. Bellamy, of Detroit; Owen, of Albany, N.Y.; and James, of Tyendinaga. A pleasant feature of the celebration was that Owen, his wife and family, motored from Albany to be present for it.

The following is the address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. McAvoy:—

We, your friends and neighbors, have assembled here this evening to extend our homage to the grand old couple who are celebrating their diamond jubilee. We rejoice with you on reaching this sixtieth anniversary, hale and hearty as you are and we desire to express our sincere wishes that the remainder of your days may abound with happiness.

What better could be yours to look back over those sixty years, spent in unselfish service to God, to each other and to your family? What comfort must you feel as you realize the reward that will be yours for such unfailing devotion!

Sixty years ago to-day you stood before the altar—the one exception of all that was noble and true in manhood; the other, typical of the finest maidenhood. Going forth as husband and wife you launched your ships in Life's stormy sea. Well equipped were you for such a voyage, for both of pioneer parents and trained by them, you carried on the great work which they had begun.

Then followed years in which you ministered unto the wants of a family and with loving care watched each grow to maturity. Always standing for that which was best, you completed the role of a Christian life as devoted parents, good neighbors, and efficient citizens.

Gradually old age has crept in; the step once quick and firm, has become slow and unsteady; the pulse that once throbbed its forty beats content itself now with the slower throb of old age. But, though Time has wrought a physical change, yet none has taken place in the feelings of the heart.

So tonight you appear before us the venerable old couple; in your hearts of rest, awaiting the call which will some day reach you; "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

And now, Mr. and Mrs. McAvoy, we ask you to accept this purse as a token of the esteem in which you are held in this community, and as an outward sign of our sentiments.

We repeat the blessings we wished you at the beginning—Happiness and a hundredfold.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors:

William Power.

Michael Kennedy.

William McLaren.

ANNUAL CHURCH HARVEST SUPPER

Emmanuel Church Harvest Supper which was held Monday evening in the Sunday School room of Emmanuel Church was marked by a splendid attendance and was a delightful affair. The long tables were prettily decorated with late Autumn flowers and yellow candles in silver candlesticks were an added decorative touch.

The feature of the supper was an interesting table talk given in the Hall, of John Street United Church, who took as his theme: "Fellowship" and pointed out the advantages of this splendid Christian spirit. Other speakers who gave brief talks were: Mr. Todd, of Albert College; Mr. J. W. Barlow, Mr. R. A. Ketcheson and Mr. W. G. Miller.

Rev. George Marshall was chairman for the evening, and presided in a splendid manner.

TABLE LAMP AND CABINET TO MR. AND MISS MOORE

Two hundred friends of Miss Mary and Mr. William Moore gathered at Plainfield Hall on Monday evening to bid them farewell on their departure for Belleville. It was a most delightful evening and a short programme rendered, was added interest. The following artists took part: Mrs. Arthur Hall, Miss Grace Symmons and Mr. Job Hall. Rev. J. C. Block filled the office of chairman in his usual ideal style.

Mr. and Miss Moore were called to the platform and Mr. Hicks read the address and Messrs. Fred Hall and Donald Leslie made the presentation of a china cabinet and an electric table lamp. Mr. Moore made a reply, remarking on his regret at leaving Plainfield and spoke of the many pleasant associations. He felt he had been amply repaid for any work done in connection with the Sunday School exercises. Mr. Moore spent many years as a Sunday School teacher and superintendent and for a time school also was also an elder in the church. The following men made brief addresses: Don. Leslie, Willis, White, George, Colling, Henry, Denyes, Mr. S. Moore. The ladies served a luncheon, before the gathering broke up.

The address read to the departing residents was as follows:

To Miss Mary and Mr. William Moore, Plainfield:

Dear Friends:

Too often we have failed to tell our friends how much we appreciated and loved them. Today it dawns upon us that we who have been the best of friends must part. We are now compelled to set aside our shyness and bashfulness and tell you that we are exceedingly sorry to part with you. Some of us would have gladly made you in order to enjoy your company longer, but fate has given us no such encouragement. We realize that we could spare half a dozen others who would not be missed as much as you will. It has been impossible to fill your place in the Realm Sunday School and Church. Every Sunday will bring forth to our memories your teaching in the Plainfield Church and Sunday School and your interest in the young folks of the eighth line has its influence on the lives of many.

Some of us are of little account and are soon forgotten but we many a time will think of you when we hear that old familiar hymn which you have so kindly accept, be a reminder of our appreciation and sincerity. May this lamp ever light your pathway and be a salve to your eyes that they may not grow weak and dim. May this cabinet never be empty but daily replenished with those victuals and vitamines which will keep you young and vigorous.

Our hearts will be glad so long as we hear that you are happy and contented in the big city. Don't forget that there will always be a most cordial welcome for you in the north of Thurlow.

Signed by: Don. Leslie, F. Hicks, Hall, Bill Sills, O. Rollins, J. Gow.

You seem to have a most modern Collegiate educational system with your four new public schools and new Collegiate. Belleville is indeed a progressive city."

Hon. Dr. Monteith Spoke At Sidney Conservative Annual Meeting

OFFICERS ELECTED

Deficits a Thing of The Past And Debt Is Being Paid Off

There is nothing wrong with the Conservative Party in Sidney Township. Old party stalwarts and new voters, men and women, gathered in the Sidney town hall last evening despite the rain to hold their annual meeting. Over officers and listen to addresses from the Honorable Dr. Monteith, Provincial Treasurer, W. E. Tummon, Federal Member for South Hastings, W. H. Ireland, Provincial member for West Hastings and several local speakers. Following the addresses the ladies refreshments and it was close to midnight before the meeting broke up with cheers for the party leaders and the whole hearted rendering of "God Save the King."

Mr. Joseph Hollinger was elected President, Mr. Harold Cummings vice president and Mr. F. R. Mallory was re-elected for a second term as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Hollinger in his business meeting in a separate room intimated that the Anglican church was to take the place of pride over the intended adventure.

None of the watchers along the west coast of Ireland caught glimpses of the plane's wreck. The hope continued that MacDonald might have passed over his objective point in Ireland and proceeded onward.

There is a question here among avia tion authorities as to direction Commander MacDonald would be able to fly, the amount of gas he had aboard and how he could remain in the air. Some fix the period of time at twenty-four hours, which would mean that he must descend at sea or somewhere. Others place the time limit at twenty hours while there are those who venture the belief that he could remain aloft for 36 hours.

Y. M. C. A. FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN AWAY IN BURST OF ENTHUSIASM

Workers Have Pledged To Raise $15,000 In The Next Week

Enthusiasm marked the first get-together of the workers engaged in the Y.M.C.A. financial drive which was officially opened today and will continue for the next week. Supper was served every canvasser was on hand at the Association building last night when the drive roll of honour was thrown. The workers have agreed to raise $15,000 for the local Association and with the spirit and enthusiasm enough canvass will be made. The Y. M. C. A. for the past ten years have asked for no more than the annual budget but this year in the hope of increasing the service organizations of the city, Belleville firms and individual members have pledged to support.

Bert Jennings, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. presided and explained after a few remarks introduced Mr. H. W. Ackerman General Chairman who, in the last few minutes at his disposal outlined the plan of campaign. He stated that with the carrying of the floating debt, the interest had accumulated and it was time an effort was made to wipe it off. "The building is in good shape, and I believe we have no debt. Shortly, the best general Secretary we ever had", he intimated that there would be lots of work to do and expected that the job would be cleaned up by next Wednesday.

Report of Activities

Joe Shortt made a report of the activities in the "Y" during the past year. Before proceeding he gave a short history of the Association, noting that it was originally started by a group of clerks in London and was crowned to enormous proportions. "The Y.M.C.A. is a brotherhood and a movement, not a building", he said.

Tom Jordan Int'l Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. spoke of the success of similar campaigns in St. Catharines, Vancouver and Midland. He outlined the idea of salesmanship to the canvasser, that of selling their product to the customer and he explained that the canvassers were selling the Y.M. C.A. to the citizens of Belleville.

NO WORD YET OF ATLANTIC FLIER

Grave Anxiety Reported Over Fate of Lone Adventurer

London, Oct. 18.—All England and Ireland awaited anxiously today the coming of Lieut. Commander F. C. Macdonald retired naval officer who is trying to be the little moth plane across the Atlantic.

Hours passed without word of the airman who hopped off at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland at 11.51 Eastern Standard time yesterday morning and when the circle of twenty-four hours had been completed and no news of the flyer from res or coast was received, grave apprehension took the place of pride over the intrepid adventurer.

Cairn Again Wednesday Morning

The next morning the same procedure was gone through, only this time the two birds which were planned were shot, but left there. Some had their hills shot off, while others were wounded on the legs and wings. It appears that the men who did the shooting slaughtered all the birds they could and did not care how many died as long as they were able to carry out their wanton destruction.

Mr. Wallace, Havelock Robb, in conversation with The Intelligencer today declared that some of these geese had been there almost all summer, and were no tame they would feed out of his hand. "I believe that this is the work of some one who is not in sympathy with my work, and is taking this action to spoil everything which I have started on the island. They guess which came this year showed that we were beginning to get results from our care and attention to them, but I do not know how this will affect them."

Crown Attorney Donnan has issued instructions that no stone be left unturned in effort to find the culprits who would destroy the work which has taken so long to build up. When they are apprehended they will certainly not be dealt leniently with. Both Provincial and City Police are investigating.

VANDALS SHOOT AND MAIM BIRDS

Fourteen Wild Geese Killed By Destructive Poachers

A SLAUGHTER

Crown Attorney Donnan Will Assist In Running Down Men

Perhaps one of the meanest and most malicious acts of vandalism recorded for some time in this city, took place at the bird Sanctuary on the Pointers Highway last Tuesday and Wednesday mornings, when some fourteen wild geese which were sleeping there, were shot or maimed by poachers who entered the sanctuary in the early hours a.m. on the mornings.

Last Sunday, Walter Turner, who acts as the caretaker of the sanctuary was called to Hamilton on business, and early Tuesday morning the slaughter of the birds commenced. Dr. A. E. Scott, who lives near the place, heard the shots and arrived in time to see three men hurrying away in the mist. He found that several of the birds had been killed, and many left were pitiable to see as they had been shot in the legs and wings. It appears that the men who did the shooting slaughtered all the birds they could and did not care how many died as long as they were able to carry out their wanton destruction.

Mr. Wallace, Havelock Robb, in conversation with The Intelligencer today declared that some of these geese had been there almost all summer, and were so tame they would feed out of his hand. "I believe that this is the work of some one who is not in sympathy with my work, and is taking this action to spoil everything which I have started on the island. FINE WORKMAN ENDS LONG LIFE

George B. Warham Died This Morning In His Seventy-Sixth Year

George Barton Warham, a highly respected resident of Belleville for sixty-five years and a member of the Imlah gender staff for over fifty years, died this morning at his residence, 151 West Bridge St., in his 76th year. Mr. Warham was undoubtedly the oldest member of the profession in this part of Ontario, a master craftsman and his death will be lamented by scores of fellow workmen in Belleville and people for whom he has done work. Belleville loses a fine old citizen.

Mr. Warham was born at Portsmouth, Frontenac County in 1852, but came to Belleville when he was thirteen years of age and has lived here ever since. As a young man he began work for the late John MacKenzie Bowell and has spent practically his entire active life with The Daily Intelligencer. For many years he was in charge of the Job Printing Department and was responsible personally for much of the finest work for establishing a reputation for high class work for the Company. Some months ago failing health prevented him from attending to business and from that time he has practically been confined to bed.

Adolphus Burgoyne's Case Will Be Heard At Madoc

HAROLD BARNUM IS GIVEN FIVE YEAR SENTENCE IN PENITENTIARY

Donald Gilmour Gets Six Months' Term In Reformatory

JUDGE'S REMARKS

Barnum Will Be Under Surveillance of Officials

Harold Barnum this morning was sentenced by His Lordship Justice Raney of the Supreme Court of Ontario, to five years in the Portsmouth Penitentiary at Kingston. Further, while there, he will be placed under observation by officials of the Department of Justice, if His Lordship's letter to that department is observed.

Donald Gilmour, of Point Anne, did not receive such a stiff sentence. The presiding Justice ordered him to spend the next six months in Belle Isle Ontario Reformatory, as well as eighteen months indefinite sentence. Gilmour, standing erect, took his sentence without a murmur, but Barnum lost control of himself and began to weep even before the Judge had pronounced judgment upon him. Gilmour's victim, Miss Agnes Mabel Charlton, was not in court this morning.

Both these men, in their early twenties, were facing two serious counts and while Barnum promptly pleaded guilty to both, Gilmour first declared not guilty upon the first and more serious offense and pleaded guilty upon the second. Donald Gilmour has been in court before. Earlier this year he was convicted before Magistrate Ponton of Trenton of carrying upon his person obscene pictures. At the same time he paid a fine and the case was dismissed. On the first charge Mr. Mikel gave him one year's suspended sentence.

Barnum Sentenced First

Harold Barnum was the first of the prisoners to receive sentence. Before pronouncing judgment Crown Prosecutor Frost of Lindsay gave a brief outline of the case to His Lordship and Dr. Faulkner, who attended the eleven-year-old victim shortly after the offense, explained the nature of the injuries to the Honorable Mr. Raney.

In pronouncing sentence, Mr. Raney said: "You have pleaded guilty to this dreadful offense. It has been suggested to me that you are a man of deficient mentality, perhaps a pervert. I am going to write to the Minister of Justice in Ottawa and have you arrive at the institution to which I am going to send you, you will be put under observation, as two doctors are going to pass upon you in five years in the penitentiary.

"It is apparently an oversight upon the part of the Government that, while the warden has the custody and care of, the family of a prisoner consigned to gaol or the penitentiary, is not looked after." Mr. Frost (addressing Crown Attorney Donnan) the city will look after this man's family."

Six Months' Term

To Donald Gilmour His Lordship then spoke—"Donald Gilmour," he said, "you are a very likable-looking young man and I cannot understand it. I think. But you are not yet twenty-one years of age and you have been given several of offenses, one of them a serious one and I cannot repeat the suspension of penalty you received. You have had your opportunity. You will be sent to the Ontario reformatory for eighteen months, and after six months of your sentence has been served the term will be made indeterminate. If your record is good you will be released on parole after six months."

Crown Prosecutor Frost concluded, two civil cases that were to have been heard before His Lordship were settled the first day.

Yesterday's Session

When C. A. Payne, counsel for Donald Gilmour and Mr. Frost, Crown Prosecutor were called into His Lordship's private chambers for a consultation yesterday afternoon, it was announced by His Lordship to the jury that, owing to conflicting evidence upon the parts of Gilmour and his alleged victim, Miss Agnes Mabel Charlton, he, Mr. Payne, thought that he could give the benefit of the doubt to the accused on the first and more

A total of $2386 has been collected in the Y.M.C.A. financial drive, according to the reports which were received at the noon-day luncheon in the Association building today. Mr. Brown and his team were despatched to the big thermometer at Carter's Electric Shop which denotes the production of the drive, and placed on the thermometer the amount already realized. The "Little Willing Workers" led by Major Chas. T. Dolan, captured the division honors, and almidst applause were awarded the National Flag. TODAY'S THOUGHT

If good books have the least blemish there is no way to efface it.
CONFUCIUS.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Magistrate Mikel, of Belleville, does not seem to have read what Attorney-General Price said recently in regard to drunken drivers.

According to Belleville papers, three motorists pleading guilty to being intoxicated while in charge of a car have been given suspended sentence, apparently because they had not been involved in an accident or caused any property damage.

The doctrine that driving a car while under the influence of liquor is not a very serious offence as long as you are lucky enough not to hit anybody is too dangerous to be generally subscribed to, and surely gets well away from the spirit of the legislation that prescribes a jail sentence for such conduct.

The drunken driver, whether he has been fortunate enough to escape an accident or not, deserves no leniency at the hands of any court in this province.

With traffic conditions as they are, the man who tries to drive while under the influence of liquor is a menace, and his rashness merits a jail sentence.

That undoubtedly is the purport of the law, and in showing leniency to offenders as he has done on more than one occasion, Magistrate Mikel is helping to defeat the aim of the Legislature in adopting this particular legislation.—Peterboro Examiner

PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 25 years ago)

The Rev. George E. Dyde, a Presbyterian minister, died at Kingston last night. A member of our citizens met the deceased gentleman when he was in the city attending the wedding of his brother, Dr. Dyde, to Miss Bessie Yeomans in June last.

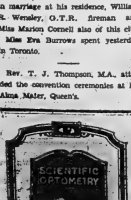

Lt.-Col. Ponton and the officers of the XY Battalion have been invited by Lt.-Col. J. S. Skinner and officers of the 14th Battalion, P.W.O. to attend the At Home being given by Major General and Mrs. Hutton in Kingston in the near future.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Mr. W. C. Mikel, of this city to Miss Ewen, Albert St.

Rev. Jas. Anderson yesterday united in marriage at his residence, William R. Wensley, O.T.R. fireman and Miss Marion Cornell also of this city.

Miss Eva Burrows spent yesterday in Toronto.

Rev. T. J. Thompson, M.A., attended the convention ceremonies at his Alma Mater, Queen's.

PROVINCIAL

his address was the special reference to the statement which will be issued after Oct. 31st, which is the close of the Province's financial year. Dr. Monteith said that provision had been made as in the preceding year for the paying off of $3,000,000 of the Provincial debt and quite he would not say that there was to be a surplus he stated that he was quite cheerful about it and expressed the impression that the coming annual statement of the pleasant reading for the Province at large.

Field Of Old Deficit

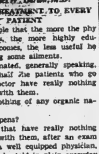

It will be recalled that at last annual statement, the Provincial Treasurer announced that the odd sixteen million deficit inherited from the late Hearst Progressive Government had been wiped out and a net surplus of over three hundred thousand dollars created. From the time of Dr. Monteith's talk last night this will be considerably augmented at the end of this month.

The speaker pointed out that while Ontario's gross debt stands at around $320,000,000, the bulk of it is covered by revenues producing assets such as the Hydro Electric System, the T. and H. O. Railway, etc. The Hydro System alone could be sold for more than enough to pay off the entire Provincial gross debt, and was turning back to the Treasury each year more than enough to pay all interest charges on bonds and debentures. This in addition to the benefits to the citizens of Ontario with the cheapest and most effective lighting system in the world.

Liquidating The Debt

Starting with 1927 the Conservative Government makes provision each year for the retirement of three and ten dollars of the consolidated debt of the Province as it stood in 1925, as well as the growth of a comparatively few years all the non-revenue producing debts of Ontario will be retired. The policy of the Government is that each capital expenditure made now shall carry its own sinking fund. The net debt is being created.

Dr. Monteith also briefly spoke on Federal affairs and urged the adoption of a policy of adequate protection for Canada to be so framed that capital, labor and agriculture would know exactly where they stood and could plan intelligently for the future. Quite a policy in a growing country like Canada would speed up development. It would provide opportunities for investment and jobs for everybody.

By James H. Barton, M.D.
DIVIDED TREATMENT TO EVERY PATIENT

It is possible that the more the physician knows, the more highly educated he becomes, the less useful he is if in treating some ailments.

It is estimated, generally speaking, that about half the patients who go to see a doctor have really nothing the matter with them.

That is nothing of any organic nature.

What happens?

The half that have really nothing the matter with them, after an examination by a well equipped physician, are likely to be told in plain everyday language that they are not ill, need of a physician's services.

The entire body has been examined, the urine and blood tested, and in a logical businesslike way the physician dismisses the patient from his office and from his mind.

What about the patient?

The very fact that he went to see the physician is sufficient evidence that there really is something the matter with him and that he needs treatment of some kind.

Dr. L. B. Wilson says "I believe that the physician in his contacts with patients who have lost more or less of their physical and mental stability, is today more lacking than in the past, in sympathetic appreciation of the intense, though it may be utterly illogical, mental attitude of the patient.

Not finding help for his troubles in treatment rendered by the highly educated and most knowledgeable modern physician, the patient reverts to primitive savage instincts, charms, religious rites, and other things, for relief."

Of course this condition of affairs is due to the fact that our physicians are getting medicine to an "exact science" whereas, as Dr. R. F. McGill says, the family physician of former times, in addition to being a surgeon, eye, ear, nose and throat man, laboratory man, sometimes dentist, was, as well, spiritual, political and financial adviser.

What is the thought?

That when you consult a physician don't hesitate to tell him everything. Tell him about your aches and pains of course, but also let him know any things and everything about your troubles of mind or spirit. This will enable him to help you himself, or send you to the right source for help.

This would inevitably mean a flood of desirable immigration and increased population would solve every problem facing Canada. It would solve the problem of the railways for instance by providing increased passenger and freight traffic and would create larger and better markets for agricultural products.

Patronage Evils

W. E. Tummon spoke only briefly. He touched on the scandal created by postmaster general Veniot, and hoped of the patronage system in the appointing of postmasters and promised that the matter would be thoroughly investigated in Parliament at the next session. The returned soldiers, he said, are going to get a fair deal at the people will know why.

W. H. Ireland who was the first speaker was greeted with cheers and encouraging cries of "Attaboy Billie". Quite evidently there is no use any person trying to beat "Billie" Ireland in Sidney Township. There was some good natured banter as to why the Government did not take over the road leading north from Trenton to Frankford and Stirling as a Government Highway but Mr. Ireland assured his hearers this would be done in due course when finances permit.

Others who spoke briefly were Mr. Chas. A. Payne, President of the Belleville Conservative Association, Mr. George Reid, of Belleville, Mr. E. James, President of the Trenton Conservatives and Mrs. Walter Oram the newly elected President of the women's section.

CANADA BISCUIT TRADE INCREASES

Operating Costs And Expense Ratios Reduced—Margin Improves

London, Ont., Oct. 11—Continued improvement is being made in the operations of the Canada Biscuit Company, which corporation is the merged resulting from the consolidation in 1926 of several of Canada's largest biscuit and confectionery companies, including McCrystle's, Ferrin's Marcus, Montreal Biscuit, Paulin-Chambers of Winnipeg and the Northwest Biscuit Company of Edmonton.

No official figures have recently been made public, but it is unofficially admitted that the company's sales volume is being substantially maintained. Operating costs and expense ratios have been reduced, and the profit margin for 1928 to date shows material improvement, compared with the same period in 1927.

The London plant has been working overtime, including Saturdays, in order to keep up with the incoming orders, a condition which has not previously existed since the merger in 1926. It is stated that indications point to an unusually large business in the sweet biscuit and confectionery departments during the remainder of 1928, not only throughout Ontario, but also Quebec, the Maritime Provinces, and particularly in Western Canada, where another successful crop year is already reflected in the company's increased sales at its plants in Winnipeg and Edmonton.

At the time of the merger the capitalization of Canada Biscuit Company, Limited, consisted of $2,200,000 6½ per cent. first mortgage bonds, $3,519,000 7 per cent preferred stock, and 87,200 no par value common shares. Due to the operation of the sinking fund in 1927 and 1928 it is understood that close to $100,000 of the first mortgage bonds have been retired. The first mortgage bonds were the only securities of the company outstanding in the hands of the public, both the preferred and common shares being distributed among the shareholders of the old constituent companies.

"WINGS" COMING TO CAPITOL NEXT WEEK

"Wings", which was more than twenty months in the making, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, October 24 and 25.

Much of it was taken on a make-to-order battle area of five square miles near San Antonio, Texas. The responsibility for the picture rested with William Wellman, a young man who service his country during the war.

Sharing the responsibility with Wellman were Lucien Hubbard, Paramount feature supervisor, and John Monk Saunders, the author of the story.

Five thousand men were used by Wellman for the filming of the St. Mihiel drive. In addition to the land "troops" 120 airplanes, manned by the cream of the country's pilots, deployed over the allied and German armies, dropping gas and "death" bombs.

The battlefield was honeycombed with almost 1,000 mines, the explosion of which simulated the laying down of a barrage to screen the oncoming army.

Nervous escapes were many, but in the big battle scene not a single casualty was listed.

"That wasn't luck," said one of the three army generals who viewed the action from Wellman's directorial tower. "It is the more rare which so often must exercise over his men in actual battle."

BARNUM

serious charge and he instructed them to bring in a verdict of not guilty, which they did without leaving their seats. On the second count, however, Mr. Payne agreed to plead guilty and His Lordship will pronounce sentence upon the young man today. At the same time the doctor's evidence in the case of Rex vs. Harold Barnum will be heard, as well as the little eleven year old girl's testimony.

Gilmour's case dragged through all yesterday, with conflicting testimony, making the case far more confusing to the jury. When the accused was placed in the witness box by his counsel, he contradicted practically everything Miss Charlton had said earlier in the day. Gilmour claimed that he and the girl had been sitting in an automobile and that the alleged offence and that he had kissed and hugged her there. The girl stated that she had not been in any automobile whatsoever with Gilmour during the evening. The accused also stated that Agnes had bitten him on the cheek in the car, not meaning to, while she stated she had done it during the alleged attempt.

Two witnesses for the defense claimed they had seen Gilmour in the car with some girl, but neither would swear that the girl was Miss Charlton. One however, said that the woman in the car was wearing the same colored and styled dress as Miss Charlton had had on that night. The dress was produced in court as evidence.

There was a good deal of technical evidence upon the parts of 2 doctors, Dr. George S. Noble and Dr. Cronk, during the afternoon and the girl's mother also testified. Mrs. Charlton told how the girl had sobbed out the whole sordid story to her next morning when she, the girl, refused to go to school.

In instructing the Jury, His Lordship said: "There has been so much conflicting evidence in this case and I think that I can give the accused the benefit of the doubt. I thereby instruct you, gentlemen of the jury, to bring in a verdict of not guilty. This girl Agnes Mabel Charlton, her people tell me, won't go back to school. She says she is ashamed of what they might think and say to her. I hope that she can be prevailed upon to go back to school and I am sure that her many friends will try and help her to forget. Tomorrow' I will deliver sentence on the accused criminal."

The court room was packed all day yesterday from mid o'clock in the morning until nearly six in the evening.

Burns & Co., Limited

6% Cumulative Preferred Shares
(With Common Stock Bonus and Warrants)

This Company is one of the largest business units in Western Canada and, over a period of more than a quarter of a century, has had a record of steady growth and satisfactory profits. In the year ended December 31, 1927, dividend requirements on the preferred stock were earned by a substantial margin, and the prospects for the current year indicate a marked improvement over last year's figures.

The Company, being strongly established in every part of Western Canada, will no doubt benefit by the further extensive development of that country's agricultural areas, mines, forests, and other natural resources. For this reason it is felt that the Common Stock which is being given as a bonus with these preferred shares and the warrants to purchase Common Stock, have attractive possibilities.

PRICE: 100 and accrued dividend, to yield 6%

Each Preferred Share will carry a bonus of ½ of one share of fully paid Common Stock and the right to purchase ½ of one share of fully paid Common Stock at $30.00 per share up to July, 1930. Fractional shares of bonus Common Stock will be allotted at the rate of $30.00 per share.

CHANGES WOULD HELP CAGE GAME

Would Change Cage Rules In Order to Help the Game

"We're almost around to the basketball season again," says Dick Gibson, in the Border Cities Star, "and I'm afra'd the rules are not going to be very much improved. A few minor changes in the code may help some but there is still the danger of games being slowed up and spoiled for the spectators by continuous whistle blowing.

"I've always argued that the personal foul rule is a joke and a very harmful joke. For four personal fouls a player gets out of the game. And almost anything can be interpreted as a personal foul if a strict official is in charge.

"Because basketball, a few years ago, got a little rough, the rule makers have gone to extremes in trying to remedy that situation. Now almost any contact is a personal foul. A guard is guilty if he steps one foot to one side and touches a dribbler. And, by the winter's rules, a dribbler will be committing a personal foul if he touches an opponent without making every effort to avoid him.

"Perhaps basketball without any personal contact would be the ideal game, but it's too high an ideal to reasonably expect. Charging, tripping, shoving, slapping and holding can be spotted and penalized without making every contact a crime. However, that's the way the code is to read, and it's a great game, anyway, so we might just as well make the best of it."

By "The Observer"

Charlie Delaney who will be remembered as having played with Albert College Rugby and Hockey teams some years ago, has turned odd with the champion Balmy Beach Club of Toronto. He is appearently making good. Charlie, when here, was no star at hockey, either, but he made his place on the world Champion Varsity Grads so why not on the Canadian Champion Rugby team.

In the three Rugby Unions, it sure looks like Tigers, Balmy Beach and McGill. And then it will be a toss up between Tigers and Balmy Beach for the Ontario Title, as McGill will not likley go out of their college league.

In the local series, Albert College seems to be the team to beat, as they have taken two from the Belleville Collegiate and one from Picton. They have the brains, this year, as well as the brawn, which is what wins Rugby games.

Another thing which is doing a lot to make the Collegiate team bad friends is the continual search by one or two of the players for a "fight." Apparently they think that what they can't do on the field of play can be made up by hitting one of the opposition.

This has happened in practically every game this year and on Saturday last the referee was forced to put one of the Collegiate players out for half the game because of his battling tactics. He not only hurt his team's chances of winning the game, but he gave the Belleville Collegiate a black eye which it certainly did not deserve. If these players would think twice fights would probably never start, before starting a free-for-all, the but, apparently it is too great an effort of these hot-heads to even think once.

Citizens do not go to a game to see a fight, they want to see a game of rugby, and unless the games become cleaner the crowds which have been fairly good all along will desert them entirely, for which they have no one to blame but themselves.

"Frenchy" Belanger's come-back did not materialize, although from all accounts the Toronto boy put up a good fight. His reign as king in his class lasted for some, three weeks last year, and he has been trying ever since to get back on top again.

The Industrial Basketball schedule has been released, and the teams will start in their quest for the Championship one week from to-night, when Stephens Adanac take on the Alchite in the open.

Wilful Wives

By

MILDRED BARBOUR

She shut Hal out of her thoughts very determinedly.

She arrived in New York on a stifling morning in early September and went directly to a hotel.

When she had bathed and changed and breakfasted, she rang up the Lang's behind home of her family, and was told that her father was much better. Her mother said she was spending the car at once. Marguerite said she was ready to leave at any time. There was no use stimping to see Steve, so while she waited for the car, she decided to call on Laura and learn how the land lay with regard to Steve.

The door of Laura's apartment was open, when Marguerite emerged from the elevator, apparently to admit a breeze from the corridor. She rang twice, but no one answered, and it occurred to Marguerite that Laura's maid must have gone out on an errand.

Then she heard voices in Laura's little salon at the end of the hall and with no thought of eavesdropping, she entered.

The scene that met her eyes brought her up short.

Charlie Harris was standing before Laura. Her head was turned from him, and Marguerite couldn't see her face, but the droop of her shoulders suggested weariness.

Had Harris proposed to Laura, and had she rejected him? Marguerite wondered whether his devotion to herself lingered in Laura's memory?

She crept away fairly holding her breath, and sped up the stairs to the floor above, fearful lest Harris, descending soon after her, might see her waited, sitting on the top step in that in the street. For half an hour she sitting corridor, hoping fervently that no one would emerge from any of the apartments on that floor and wonder what she was doing there.

When she was sure that Harris must have long since departed, she rang for the elevator and descended to the street, without seeing Laura. Not that she didn't want to see Laura; but she was sure that Laura was in no mood to receive her.

And besides, she had a duty that brought a pleasant little smile of anticipation to her lips.

CHAPTER 71.

POOR MOUSE!

Back in her hotel room, Marguerite wrote a letter. It read:

"Dear Charlie Harris:

"I am in New York again for a few days, and I am hoping for a little visit with you, for I have something I must tell you, Charlie. I hesitate to meddle in so personal a matter, but I really must do so.....For a long time I've had the feeling that you care for Laura and that she cares for you. But I also have a feeling that she thinks our friendship stands in the way of a real understanding between you two. So, if she seems cold to you, that is the reason. I wanted to tell you this, because I'm sure she never will.

"Marguerite."

She despatched the letter by messenger to Harris's club, and hoped that it would be the means of paving the way for happiness for her friends. Then she went to Long Island to see her father. Late that afternoon she called Steve's office, but his secretary told her that he had already left. She waited half an hour and called his apartment, but the operator informed her that no one answered. So she left her name and asked to be called when he came in.

At seven o'clock the 'phone rang and she sped to answer it, expecting to hear Steve's surprised voice, but it was Harris who answered her "Hello."

"Did you really mean what you said in that letter, Marguerite?" he asked, after greetings had been exchanged.

"Every word of it, Charlie."

When he rang off, she knew that she had convinced him. She could fairly picture him speeding to Laura as fast as his car could carry him. She blew an airy kiss in the general direction of Laura's apartment. "Good luck to you dear, middle-aged lovers!" And then, being a woman, she cried a little.

Meanwhile, Steve Brockton was dining with Lydia in the backyard of one of the Greenwich Village tea-rooms. A wash-line was in his range of vision and, somehow, it irritated him.

"I hope we don't get a sock on Somebody's shirt in the soup," he grumbled.

Lydia laughed her softest laugh. "Poof dear, he's such a grouch tonight. Did anything go wrong at the office?"

"No," he answered, a trifle shortly. He found himself wishing that Lydia wouldn't coo at him as if he were a fretful infant.

They labored through something that purported to be an entree, wrestled valiantly with a portion of a chicken's anatomy, and were sipping coffee, when Lydia asked suddenly.

"Steve, do you know what day this is?"

"It was Wednesday when I got up, and Wednesday for all the appointments on my calendar, so I think I'm fairly safe in assuming that it is still Wednesday."

The sweetness of her expression turned momentarily acid at his retort, but she felt that she couldn't afford to be angry with Steve. Things hadn't gone so well with Lydia that summer. That single success with her charity stunt had proved only a flash in the pan. She hadn't done anything since that had brought her money. And here the autumn was at hand, and there wasn't even the tiniest sign of a theatrical engagement. It looked like a long, hard, lean, winter to Lydia.

"I mean," she elaborated patiently, "the day and the month—and the significance thereof."

He looked at her blankly.

"Don't you remember, Steve, that this is the anniversary of our first meeting?"

His mouth tightened.

"What was she driving at?" he asked himself.

Her eyes lowered momentarily and then lifted, to his in hurt surprise. She resolved to try other tactics.

"Steve," she said quietly, "you and I have been seen together so much since then, and there's certain amount of talk. People are beginning to wonder whether——"

He forgot he existed. He leaned across the table toward her.

"Well, what are they wondering about?"

"They're sort of wondering whether Irma's coming back, or whether you and I——"

He felt the net closing round him. Things actually swam before his eyes. He wondered if this were terror, or if he were really ill. Somehow he managed to signal the waiter for the check, and, forcing a laugh, he said:

"We'll discuss this another time, if you don't mind. I've a frightfully important engagement with a business acquaintance uptown."

"But you didn't say anything about having an engagement," she protested. "I thought we were going to spend the evening together."

"I——I'll ring you up for lunch in a day or two."

"What days?" she demanded wartly.

"Tomorrow," he gulped, as he hustled her into a taxi and fled. He walked the streets for several hours and then went home.

He was so distrait that he didn't see Marguerite descending the stairs between his apartment and Hal's, as he ascended in the elevator. Nor did he see the note that she had slipped under his door, asking him to call her at his earliest convenience.

Marguerite now was staring at the door that had opened so often to her key. The door of the place she had once called home. The strange doorknob that she had shared with Hal. And something welled up in her throat and choked her.

She still had her key. She hesitated for a moment, then drew it from her purse, and inserted it in the lock.

The apartment was dark and cool. The silence and the darkness enfolded her before her fumbling hand could find the electric switch.

But, in that moment, her heart stood still. She knew that she was not alone in the apartment!

MENTAL BRAVERY A WORTH WHILE TRAIT

DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

We hear a lot about physical bravery. Soldiers, if ever, however, is mental bravery lauded.

Seldom, indeed it is never mentioned.

The opposite of being mentally brave is to pity yourself!

And the person who lacks mental bravery is likely to be a self-pitier.

Pity is one of the noblest emotions we posses—that is, pity for fellow man!

But pity for one's self! That's different! Self-pity is decidedly reprehensible!

It means admission of defeat!

It shows right instead of fight!

It stands for cowardice!

It insults self-respect!

It is cringing!

It is begging!

Worst of all it kills initiative to begin again! It's astonishing the numbers that fall into the way of it!

Yet self-pity is not so uncommon an ailment!

No man, woman or child can go through life without weakness. When life hits it usually hits with a telling blow.

But if we all stopped at the first impact and wept, what would become of us? What would become of the whole structure of civilization?

Realize defeat but don't let it overwhelm you. Find out why you got the worst of it, then take hopefully steps to see that the same thing never happens again! Learn from the lessons of life but don't succumb to them!

Every time a person pities himself he shuts the door of hope. If he does it habitually he bolts it and seals it tight.

If you happen to be a victim make up your mind immediately to give the fellow no quarter until you have routed it out and driven it far afield!

Constantly watch your reactions to unfavorable circumstances. Be on the lookout for signs of weakness, depression, fear and discouragement.

Counteract your timidity by reading heroic novels, storing the biographies of great men, and feasting your mind with stories of gigantic accomplishment. Think lofty, inspiring thoughts!

Then back your mental ride with the physical. Go in for exercises in which large muscle groups are used. Take up combative sports like boxing, fencing, wrestling!

Make yourself mentally as well as physically brave.

Constant self-pity is like a parasite. It makes you feel good for awhile, then it undermines and deteriorates your character.

The habit of self-pity is hard to vanquish.

Guard against it always. Don't let it get a start.

Keep your mind strong and robust.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

It is sometimes difficult to vary the luncheon or supper, and one does get tired of the sameness of the meat. At this season, quantities of home-grown vegetables and fruits are on the market and the wise housewife presents these nourishing food to her family in varying forms.

Here is an appetizing luncheon dish made from that ever-giving fruit, the tomato:

STUFFED TOMATOES

Fresh tomatoes should be used exclusively now. An inexpensive luncheon dish is made of tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese and chopped green peppers and cucumbers. Serve with parsley French dressing.

"The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year."

No doubt most of us will decide that the poet was right, especially as we look out the window and see the rain streaming down. It certainly has a tendency to lend itself to melancholy musings. Nevertheless, we like the sound of this other little poem much better. It appeared in the New York Times and was written by John Cook.

REAPING TIME.

This time is joyfullest of all the year.
With loaded sweets for nostril, eye and ear;
Nature in fragrant rind and husk reflow
Her many tasting seeds and purple wine.
These all in dual majestic concord to the seasons

The beady bramble and the wine-dark plum.
The tawny leaf and rowans bunching red,
The barley with her bending, silky head,
Male, pretty sheaf and golden-rustling oat,
The first faint frost, and robin's dainty note,
Who comes the happy reaper with his song—
A toilsome drudge no more, but girt with strong
Compact machines whose cunning click and whirr
Fill all the valleys with melodious stir.
He skips the acres of their golden stores,
With whimsical treasure proud his garner floors./

This very season has its own peculiar beauties and we in Canada are especially blessed with varied seasons, but for a pure color riot nothing can compare with our autumn. A trip outside to a woods or some country place when billowsand sign posts do not obscure the view, will amply repay one in returned vigor and a feast of beau-

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl sixteen years old and in love with a boy sixteen. We have known one another all our lives and have lived one another for six years. He has high ideals and a very good character. He would never lie. He does not drink nor smoke nor swear. I do all these things he hates. Lately we have drifted apart because I do those things. How can I win him back?

JOAN.

JOAN: If you truly love the young man, it should not be hard for you to give up these things he dislikes. Naturally a man wants his sweetheart to be a lady in all ways, and only by proving to him that you are a lady and showing a willingness to adapt yourself to his ideals, can you hope of winning back his friendship. Why not try? I'm sure you will be much happier in the love of such a man than by cheapening yourself in the eyes of all men by "pet things" with them all. Don't you think so?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl, eighteen years old, I have boy friends and they treat them all alike. My girl chum tells me I should go with one steady but I don't know which one to choose. Am I doing wrong by going with different boys? I have been with as many as four in a week. Of course, I turn down a lot of them, but I'm never stuck for a boy friend. I like sports but don't like petting although I have let more than one boy kiss me good night. I know you don't think it right but just a kiss between friends.

PAL.

PAL: You do have your trouble don't you, Pal? But surely among so many you can choose one and remember, however, that "they are as ill who fall short with too much as they who starve, with nothing." Why not try just effect, however, you seem to specialize in numbers.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

What shall I do? I am a girl o eighteen and I am going with two young men, but I dislike one. He loves me dearly and says he doesn't know how he can live without me.

I am going with another young man and love him dearly and he loves me. How could I tell him that I do not care for his company?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: You are only prolonging the agony when you persist in going about with someone for which you do not care. If you are in love with another, you should tell the first young man that your feeling for him does not warrant your going about with him, as you cannot return his love. But be very sure of yourself before you make a decision.

WHAT'S NEW (From a Woman's Standpoint)

Brown hats worn with black costumes or black hats with brown are smart.

Marabu plaide earrings are being worn by some smart New York women this season.

At a recent beautiful London wedding the bridesmaids wore blue pearls in the tricks with high Medici collars embroidered with pearls and they also wore pearl embroidered caps.

Paris notes that very low decolete is general, with narrow shoulder straps, with deep U reaching to the waist or in an equally deep V formed by crossing the two back pieces of the corsage in surplice fashion.

Seek To Halt Use Of Dangerous Drugs, So-Called Cure For Obesity

Canada has had some appalling cases of women who have given their lives after taking some of the modern remedies warranted to give them beautiful figures.

Hence news from Chicago is that sales of dangerous drugs to give women that boyish figure now under investigation by the Federal Trade Commission, and hearings are being held in that city.

Assisting the commission are the American Medical Association and the American College of Physical Therapy. The widespread has become the use of these so-called cures for obesity and so brazen are the makers with statements as to their harmlessness," says the Medical Association, "that potential death or permanent impairment of health to unnumbered multitudes is the possible result."

Judge Edward M. Averill, of Washington is conducting the Federal hearings. Among Chicago physicians who testified to the "danger of taking one of the reducing prescriptions were Dr. Roland Burdick, Dr. Charles A. Elliott and Dr. Rollin T. Woodyat.

Dr. Arthur J. Champ of the Bureau of Investigation of the American Medical Association said of one reducing tablet:

"The manufacturers admit that each tablet contains one-half grain of desiccated thyroid. They also give with their trade package the names and quantities of other alleged ingredients.

"For some years this drug was sold as a mild proposition. Then the Government got after the concern and the owners offered to go out of business and made an affidavit to that effect.

"They ceased selling the stuff on the mail order plan and made a drug store proposition of it. It is now widely advertised.

"There is no excuse for putting so potent a substance as thyroid in a nostrum sold for reduction of weight. Thyroid may reduce weight and it may also, if administered without due knowledge of its dangers, leave the person who is taking it a nervous wreck."

Cases of extreme nervousness, threatened insanity and disturbed heartaction were cited by Dr. Champ as resulting from taking weight reducing pills.

Drs. S. Maximilian Kent, E. N. Kime and J. C. Eads spoke in the College of Physical Therapy on the fake reducing business. Diets and drugs, they held, would mean thyroid disorder and wide forms of goiter.

POTTED PLANTS EASY TO GROW

Crocuses And Hyacinths Elicit Instant Admiration

The easiest pot plants to grow for home decoration during the winter months are the Bulbs. These include crocuses, hyacinths, tulips and moreover, while too hot and dry atmosphere sometimes causes failures with the hardiest and even the hyacinth, easiest of the large bulbs to grow, the little bulbs are more certain to show a fine bit of color.

Pots of crocuses and grape hyacinths have been attractive exhibits of the flower shows of recent years and have never failed to elicit admiration. Now is the time to start them going. Plant half a dozen bulbs in a five-inch pot and set them away after watering to form roots. Keep the soil damp but not wet. As soon as top growth starts, showing that roots have been formed, bring them to the light. They, too, prefer a moist atmosphere. A saucer with a little water in it under the pot will give the necessary moisture. While they are usually rather slow to start top growth, this is to be desired as it will bring their blooming period in midwinter when bloom is most desired.

An even easier way to grow them, which is used with success outside of planting the bulbs in pots and setting them in a shady place out of doors, acering to is that they do not become bone dry. They are allowed to remain until after they have been well frozen. When wanted they are brought into the house, thawed gradually and given a sunny window. This gives an imitation of the spring thaws that bring them above ground so quickly.

The grape hyacinths and scillas respond to this treatment.

Lilies of the valley are best grown with this outdoor freezing treatment. Pots are filled with peat, which they are given the same treatment. Buy the clumps in autumn and put them up and set outdoors in a convenient spot. They can be brought in as needed through the winter and soon will be developed carefully, offshoots being cut off. As the clumps send up spikes so that it gives a larger spray than those allowed to follow their natural style of growth in the open. Lilies of the valley are kept in stock in cold storage the year around, but they are the easiest of plants to force into bloom when wanted.

Yellow crocuses make one of the most cheerful pots for winter bloom.

One of New York's newest vogues is a silk sleeve of transparent velvet or metallic cloth which can be worn with a tailleur as part of a correct afternoon costume and which quickly becomes a costume appropriate for dining out or for the theatre by the removal of its coat.

Lucretia Bon has just arrived from Paris in a model ensemble created especially for her, and it was of cherry-red in a soft rough-surfaced transparent velvet combination, with a large shawl collar of fabric itself, while a turban of broadtail and kerchief to match completed it.

When in doubt choose a picture frock" seems a very wise slogan at the moment when it is a question of an evening frock, for whatever changes may evolve from this to that in time, the "robe de style" remains always right and always successful in whatever company it may find itself.

HENS LAY BEST ON NIGHT SHIFT

New York Proves They Give Best Results Under System

The hens that lay New York's eggs are about to go on the night shift again.

The recently introduced practice of increasing egg production by lengthening the short autumn and winter days with artificial light in the hen houses has proved so successful that it is expected to become almost universal this year among the thousands of suburban poultrymen in New Jersey, Connecticut and on Long Island.

Proof that the hens respond profitably to the system of lengthening the winter days by electricity has been produced by Leslie M. Black, poultry expert of the New Jersey Agricultural college, who publishes the results of his test in the current issue of The Farm Journal.

Black has tested 186 flocks of pullets, over a six-month period. Of these 46 flocks were tested without the aid of lighting and were found to average 72.8 eggs per hen. The others, tested under three different lighting systems, all ran profitably ahead of that figure.

The three methods used to convince the hens that winter days are as long as summer ones, and so keep production artificially stimulated when prices are high, are these:

First: The evening lunch system, when the houses are lighted for an hour at night, between 8 and 9 or 9 and 10. Second: The morning lights plan, when the houses are lighted before dawn. Third: The use of lights both morning and night so that the length of the day is made to equal absolutely that of the night.

"This last system seems to give the best results of the three," Black reports.

Alfred Auser, London, was granted a divorce because his wife concealed the fact that she had been convicted of bigamy.

CASE INVOLVES INTERNATIONAL FREIGHT RATES

(By Canadian Press)

Washington, October 11—For the purpose of gathering evidence for and against a change in the present system of through rates on international freight, the International State Commerce Commission held court here today. With few exceptions and submissions of both shippers and carriers were in favor of a continuation of the present system as against a system of proportional rates to and from the Canadian-United States boundary. The Commission adjourned without giving any decision.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association and other Canadian shippers' organizations and both Canadian railways were represented in the courtroom but Canada took no official part in the proceedings. The case arose out of a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States upholding the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that the commission had authority to order reparation when in its opinion excessive rates had been charged by railroads, Canada was involved because the particular test case chosen involved preparation ordered on shipments of newsprints from Thorold, Ontario, to United States points on which rates were reduced by the commission in 1922. The News Syndicate Company of America claimed rebate of what they said were excessive charges assessed by two American railway prior to this rate.

The Supreme Court found that the Interstate Commerce Commission had full authority to order reparation even though its order was not binding on the Canadian railway which carried the newsprint up to the United States boundary. This question was involved but was really secondary to the general question of whether through freight rates were preferable to a combination of local rates on each side of the line.

Two hundred and seventy-eight hogs were shipped gratis on the C.N.R. last June, Joseph Cohen, K.C., contended yesterday in asking that two men be sent for voluntary statement on charges of conspiracy and theft, laid by the railway company. The men were committed by Chief Justice Perrault in Enquete Court, after evidence showed they manipulated the live-stock in the Montreal Stock Yards to defraud the railway of $921.73 in freight charges.

Michael Donovan and Jack Murphy were the two men charged. Murphy was a foreman in the stock yard, and the other man was shipping hogs. J. McRae, who worked under Murphy, testified he followed orders which called for certain irregularities to other employees, but he carried out his orders dutifully, he said.

McRae and other witnesses said hogs were unloaded from freight cars at the yard, placed in pens, and then some of them were taken from the pens to the yards before being led to the scales. The scale records are the basis on which freight charges are made. As many as twenty-five animals per car were extracted from the pens and not weighed, the witness said. Murphy, the witness swore, opened the gate of the pens leading away from the scales and instructed him to "yard" them.

"Who decided whether enough hogs had been extracted from the pens?" Mr. Cohen, acting for the C.N.R. wanted to know. The witness replied that Murphy made the decision.

On June 18, McRae declared, he saw Murphy standing with a bank note in his hand. He believed it to be a twenty-dollar bill received from Donovan. "I concluded that Donovan gave it to him in return for yarding the hogs before sending them to the scales, and thus saving him freight charges on a certain number of live-stock," he told the Judge.

George Shea, chief superintendent of the Investigation Department of the C.N.R., stated that Donovan on the day in question shipped 14 carloads of hogs. He paid freight rates on 1,163 animals, weighing 220,810 pounds. The total charges paid were $2,572. There were actually weighed for the purpose of sale, however, 1,441 hogs in this shipment, weighing 301,310 pounds. The total charges should thus have been $921.73 more than they were.

Voluntary statement was set for October 18 for the two men, and the theft charges will be decided by the same record as the conspiracy. Evidence in the case had already been heard by a commissioner of the Superior Court, under the Railway Act.

William Taylor resigned as organ lower after serving 43 years at the United Church at London.

WILLIAM HICKMAN EXECUTED TODAY

Commander McDonald Joins Roll Of Missing Transatlantic Fliers

BELIEVE AIRMAN WENT TO DEATH

Little Hopes Are Held Out For Lieut.-Commander MacDonald

LONG OVERDUE

Vigilant Look-Out Maintained Along Scottish Coast

London, Oct. 19.—The flares that had burned all night at Croydon and other aerodromes to guide Lieut.-Commander H. C. McDonald to a safety landing were extinguished at dawn today and the hope that he had survived went out of the hearts of many. It was the general belief that he had become the nineteenth person to perish trying to fly the Atlantic.

At the next his tiny moth plane in which he risked his life in an attempt to fly alone from Newfoundland could hold enough gasoline for thirty-five hours of flying and the 35th hour neared at 3.35 a.m. (10.51 Eastern Standard time).

Vigilant Watch

Ranraer, Scotland, Oct. 19.—The possibility that Lieut.-Commander H. C. McDonald long overdue on his flight from Newfoundland, might have been forced down somewhere along the Scottish coast led to the manning anew of lands watch by volunteer guards in this region but nothing has been seen or heard of airman this plane.

AVIATORS FAILED TO ARRIVE HERE

Rain Delayed Capt. Earl Hand And Clifford Wallace

Mayor Duff received a wire from Clifford Wallace, Aviation Editor of the Toronto Star stating that, owing to the delay in extending all the way down the lake yesterday morning, their trip to Belleville would be cancelled.

Mr. Wallace and Captain Earl Hand, D.S.O., President of the Toronto Flying Club were scheduled to arrive in Belleville by air at nine forty-five yesterday morning, and the reception committee including Mayor Duff and several of the City Aldermen were at the field at the appointed time to meet the aviators. They failed to put in an appearance, however, and at the present time it is not known when they will come.

The purpose of the fly visit was to show the City Fathers how Belleville could have a recognized landing field and where it could best be laid out. Captain Hand and Mr. Wallace are making these trips to various cities in the interest of making flying safer for both private owners and commercial companies. Each city along the Air Mail route should have a flying field which will be shown on all air maps so that pilots will know where safe landings can be made and where they can refuel.

Trenton Wants Field

It is known fact that Trenton would like nothing better than to have the proposed Belleville field transferred to their town and unless Belleville citizens and the City Council are wide awake to the situation, such a thing may occur. If Belleville can supply a suitable landing field, sooner or later she will be a regular stop on the Air Mail route, but much the same manner that Kingston is now. Pothen's field, where the Leavens Brothers have been landing all year, can be made into a fine field by the use of a hundred cars and would suffice to put Belleville on the map in an aerial sense.

POLICE COURT

Fred Clark of this city was arrested last night on Front Street for being intoxicated, and was fined the usual fifteen and costs this morning.

Victor Hartnett, vagrant, was ordered to leave the city and not to come back again, when he appeared this morning.

ENGLISH AVIATOR LOS T WITH HIS MOTH PLANE

Hopes Dwindle

At 1.21 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Commander H. C. MacDonald, former officer with the British navy, left Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in a Gipsy Moth single seater bound for the British Isles. MacDonald, shown in (1) made preparations quietly, and his departure was marked with no ceremony. Photos (2) and (3) show the small size of the plane-the flyer is using, it being a four-cylinder machine, developing 80 to 90 horsepower. In (3), a picture taken from the air, the impromptu hangar is shown, and the motor car shows how small the Moth machine really is.

TWO CASES OF THEFT DISMISSED

G. Waite Given Suspended Sentence On Charge of Stealing Milk Can

Two cases of theft were heard in police court this morning, the first being dismissed when the Crown decided that there was no case against the accused on the evidence shown. Reeve of J. Moore, of this city, was formerly a partner of Edward Cameron in the Ontario Supply Company. Cameron took a battery eliminator from the shop to his home to use, and when he failed to return it Moore laid a charge of theft against him. Magistrate Mikel after listening to some evidence felt the defence decided that the case should not have been heard in Police Court as it was purely a civil matter, and no intention of theft was shown.

Stolen Milk Can

G. Waite, a local milk dealer was charged with the theft of a milk can from Harold Harmes. Another local man, Mr. Hann, Crown Attorney Mr. Donnan was present and from the evidence adduced the case was extremely complicated. It appears that Harmes missed the can last August, and saw it, or one he supposed was his, at the Citizens Dairy a few days ago. The can as the Citizens Dairy says, carried away by Waite, so Harmes went to him and asked for his can.

Waite refused to produce it claiming ownership indicated his name and mark on the can. The charge of theft was accordingly laid against Waite by Harmes. After hearing all the evidence Magistrate Mikel gave Waite a suspended sentence, and he was ordered to pay the costs of the court.

URGE BUILDING OF LINE FENCE

The question of building a boundary fence between the new Collegiate and the St. Thomas' Church cemetery will be one of the chief matters to come before the Board of Education at its October meeting. Mr. Elliott stated to the Intelligencer this morning. There is a small ravine between the two properties and the Church maintains that it remains for the Board to build a three strand barbed wire fence. A meeting of the executive of the church was held earlier this week, but nothing definite was done.

THE WEATHER

Moderate to fresh southwest to west winds; partly cloudy with few scattered showers.

Saturday, moderate westerly winds, fair and comparatively cool.

POLICE PROBING VANDALS' ACT

May Offer Reward For Arrest of Men Responsible

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan has issued instructions to the Provincial Police to go ahead with their investigation into the recent slaughter of the geese at the Bird Sanctuary on the grounds of trespass under the Game and Fisheries law of using guns before dawn and after dusk. The element of theft may also enter into the affair, as it is alleged that some of the dead birds were carried away.

Many Belleville citizens have expressed their desire to offer a reward for these "sportsmen" who would make a practice of shooting a helpless bird pinioned in the water. Many are of the opinion that the only way to find out who committed the act is to offer a reward which will lead to the conviction of the culprits, and that a public subscription fat should be organized to make up a reward. It is now up to the citizens to sponsor the movement.

J. DIAMOND BUYS YEOMANS BLOCK

Will Convert Billiard Parlor Into Antique Shop

Mr. Joseph Diamond, Front Street merchant, has purchased the Yeomans Block on Front Street, now occupied by Michael Maracakas and used as a billiard parlor. This block which was owned by L. W. Yeomans, and in which a drug store was situated, was burned down some years ago and was afterwards rebuilt. Mrs. Huffman, Trenton, purchased it and it was from her that Mr. Diamond acquired the property. Mr. Diamond will not take possession for two years at least, as Mr. Maracakas' lease has not yet expired. He plans to remodel it and will convert it into an up-to-date gents' furnishing store. He has entered the Antique Furniture business on an extensive scale and will combine this branch as well. Mr. Diamond has been a member of Belleville's business fraternity for the past twenty-five years and has built up a reputation for himself. The deal for the block was consummated through Mr. J.R.L. Gorman of the Belleville Locators.

HICKMAN ACCEPTED HIS FATE ON GALLOWS WITHOUT A MURMUR

Slayer of Marion Parker Displayed Utmost Stoicism

REFUSED TO EAT

Spent His Last Hours On Earth With His Spiritual Adviser

San Quentin, Calif., Oct. 19.—William Edward Hickman was hanged here today for the murder of twelve-year-old Marion Parker Los Angeles school girl, whom he kidnapped last December. The trap was sprung at 10.10 a.m.

The fourth who boastfully called him self "the fox", walked to the trap white but with little other outward appearance of emotion, consistent to the last breath with an attitude displayed since he was arrested in Oregon.

When breakfast was brought in this morning Hickman left it virtually untouched. He chose to spend the last few moments of his life with Rev. William Pendroy Nagle, who converted to Catholicism.

Crowd Swarm Prison

Earlier he wrote farewell letters to his mother, Mrs. Eva H. Hickman, his uncle, Horace Hickman, and he Chief Attorney, Alexander Pope. The photograph upon which he played antiquated, syncopated tunes last night was silent. The flowers which were placed about the cell yesterday as his request were slightly wilted but still gave a slight warmth to the cheerless room.

The execution chamber was filled to capacity with witnesses, newspapermen, and others, well before the final hour.

Outside the grim scores of others waited. The guards announced they had turned down a score or more of applications for entry into the death chamber.

San Quentin, Calif., Oct. 19.—Portified by the same bold spirit he had manifested since since his arrest for the murder of twelve year old Marian Parker in Los Angeles last December, William Edward Hickman today was prepared to pay the death penalty on the gallows in San Quentin prison. The hour for the execution was set for 10 a.m. The Roman Catholic Father Nagle remained with Hickpriest administered the final consolation recently entrusted.

In a note to a prison chum the slayer said, "I'm going to walk up like a man." Hickman made his yesterday playing the phonograph and arranging flowers in his cell.

ZEALOUS WORK BY CANVASSERS

One-Third of Total Amount Is Raised In "Y" Drive

The workers in the Y.M.C.A. Financial Campaign, at their noon luncheon at the Y today, reported another twenty-five hundred dollars and the thermometer on Front St. has gone up by a total of exactly $5,065.00 for the two days. Captain George Cole earned the right of being called the "first citizen" when he and his team brought in subscriptions for the one day total with $1,700.. The Bleecker's captained by Russ Wootell, lead today with a total of $440.00.

P. C. Macaulay in his usual witty manner bestowed with great solemnity upon the Royal Order of Hammerheads on H. W. Ackerman, F.S. Deacon, G. F. Ostrom, and Rev. F. E. Malott, this highly coveted order being given only to those who have collected a total of one hundred dollars by themselves. Following this came the presentation of the Flag by Col. Dolan, yesterday's winner, to Captain Wootell, today's leader. Mayor Duff then presented to Captain Cole the robe and crown, signifying the leading position of Belleville, following which the Rev. Robert Hall spoke for a few min utes on his experience in the Y.M.C.A. work. Another meeting will be held at twelve-fifteen tomorrow at which all workers are requested to be present.

LIFE OF VALUABLE CANINE IS SAVED

The life of "Long's Kewpie" a very valuable Boston Bull dog owned by Mrs. C. Richardson, Coleman Street, has been saved through the efforts of Drs. Welbanks, Belleville, and Honey of Trenton. The dog was taken seriously ill and his life was almost despaired of. The two Veterinaries were called into consultation and while the condition of the canine was critical they worked all night and a serious operation was performed with the result that the dog will survive. It is one of the most valuable animals in the city and is sought after by leading fanciers.

MOTORISTS MUST OBEY BY-LAWS

Those Attempting To Beat Light Will Be Summoned

Eleven reports of breaches of the City Traffic By-laws were reached the police in the past few days. Although none of the violators have appeared summoned, Belleville motorists must remember that the by-laws are to be obeyed, and that steps will be taken they will be hailed into Police Court and ordered to pay fines.

Many motorists have formed the bad-habit of trying to beat the red light at the corner of Bridge and Front Streets, and it is for these breaches that most of the reports have come in. Others are for speeding and some for failure to stop at stop streets. The public is, however, becoming more educated to the stop-streets as time passes.

This week-end will see the championship of the Belleville Golf Club decided. There has been considerable competition for the honours this year and the semi-finals saw Mr. Judson Whalen facing Mr. J. Cummings and the latter was the winner. Mr. A. H. Ketcheson defeated Mr. Lorne McConnell, Mr. Cummings and Mr. Ketcheson will fight it out for the championship. The winner will receive a beautiful cup, donated by Denman & Company of which company Mr. Ketcheson is local manager.

LEGION TO HELP THOSE IN NEED

Planning Monster Armistice Night Dance In Memorial Hall

The local Branch, Post 99, Canadian Legion, B. E. S. L., are holding a dance at their hall on Front Street each Friday evening.

The object of these dances is to raise funds for the purpose of relief work during the coming winter; This is a great work and requires a great deal of money. Last year over 280 meals were served to Ex-service men needing them. This year it is hoped that the local relief which is a greater expense than the other, also the main branch of Memorial Hall, will be kept up practically by members contributions.

The Poppy Day Fund helps in this a great deal but is not enough to cover the whole winter, hence the reason for these dances to help the ex-service man and his family who are in want during the winter months.

A monster Armistice Dance is being held Monday, November 12th, several real good prizes are being given for this night. Tickets can be obtained at the Memorial Hall and from members. Price of tickets 50c each.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Temperance: He is almost as rare as a well-spent one.

CARLYLE.

NO COMPLAINT

William Rockefeller, former ruler of Germany, voices a greater prosperity; he's not satisfied with his estate at Doorn, to which he ran away when his military fortunes crashed upon him.

He thinks he will purchase Castle Bloomfield, near the German border, and by this time the deal may have gone through.

William Hohenzollern has no right coming a cousin; he got more than his due when he was allowed to run away and live at Doorn.

He got himself out of court as a brave man when he left his people in the hour of defeat. On November 9, 1918, the greatest thing in the world to him was the saving of his own hide.

He lived in comparative comfort while the people who had given their all for him suffered. He was an absentee ruler when the people of Germany were going through the search for paper money and hard times.

He chose deliberately not to suffer with his people or for them.

The decent people of Germany and there are many of them—have no respect to feel complimented that William Hohenzollern desires to pitch his tent a day's march nearer to them.

He created a national mess, then ran away and left others to make the best of it.

WONDERLUST

Wanderlust is wonderful. Lust for the strange roads is lust for the unknown things to be seen along them and at their ends. Individuals of all ages and all generations have known it—have felt it dragging them from the beaten tracks to trails that lead into uncharted regions. Never return is a rage, broken, worn, weary with sore feet of monsters and evil things encountered and with scars to prove their adventures. A few return in the rain battered garbed, with weird stories tales of good things found and with evidence that bears them out. Few are the lovers and treasures of the unknown become evident.

Regardless the big gulf into the lost and pulls its victims along strange paths: toward wondrous places, new lands: undiscovered wastes. Something it does into the mind and leads to weird, strange theories of life after strange objectives, some of them real, some chimerical, some of them good, some bad. Sometimes the lure of the mysterious grips tragedy, strange political, moral, social, economic or metaphysical "isms"—some of which prove sound and safe, but most of them unsound and deadly dangerous. Sometimes it gets into youth' and tempts it toward evil moral capacity and fancies—some harmless, some destructive. Many wanderers perish on their journeys along strange mental lines. Others return, sadder and wiser.

A large number of grown-up "truants" are today wandering after strange notions. And many of the regular organization are in pursuit of strange things that may cause him to abandon new pleasure by new paths into new haunts. May all return as regretful and confident as they set forth.

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

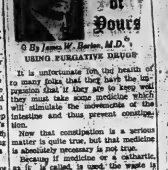

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote us a letter when she got relief with ALL-BRAN a new "ready-to-eat" bran cereal for constipation. Read her voluntary testimonial:

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for some time and find it very good. I have much pleasure in writing you to say that it is a remarkable remedy for constipation. I have used it for that purpose and found it very beneficial. I certainly advise all who suffer from constipation to try it for in a few days they will be pleased. Kindly send Kiell, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Many people suffer with it all their lives. Ruining health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, backaches, pimples, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty other ailments.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a delicious cereal? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Not two tablespoonfuls all—but enough to cause a movement every meal. Serve with milk or cream—delicious as cooked. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

USING LUBRICATING DRUGS

It is unfortunate for the health of so many folks that they have the impression that if they are to keep well they must take physic which shall stimulate the movements of the intestine and thus prevent constipation.

Now that constipation is a serious matter is quite true, but that medicine is absolutely necessary is not true.

Because if medicine is a cathartic, as it is called, in that the waste is removed, and the lower intestine thus empty for hours. How does this differ from what it should be empty, but should always have waste matter within it on which the muscles of the intestine could keep healthy by working? Further, when medicine is taken every day by which the bowels even material in small intestine that should really be absorbed in the blood.

The point is that there are natural movements of the stomach, the small intestine and the large intestine, and nature stimulates these movements by various methods, all of which are necessary.

First, the brain enters into the movements of digestion and extra juice flows, if the food is appetizing and the table and dishes clean and tasteful.

Then there are chemical substances in the different foods that as they come against the sides of the intestine, stimulate it into activity. Then as you have learned in the bile from the liver and the intestinal juice itself, which stimulate action in the walls of the intestine.

And then also some foods have more rough material in them than others, and this "roughage" as it is called, rubs or irritates the walls of the intestine and thus stimulates action.

Thus if all these things have a part, in intestinal movement it doesn't seem like a wise act to take a purgative medicine. This simply interferes with all these methods nature has arranged. Now, there are times when medicine may be needed, but to get the intestine into a good healthy natural condition, instead of taking medicine, talk things over with your family physician. He knows about these things from his study of physiology and will outline the health habits necessary in your case.

WAS ACTING AS "CARRIER"

Mr. Adolphus Burgoyne, well-known Pinnacle Street taximan, who is charged with selling liquor by the Provincial Police, stated this morning that he was only acting as a "Carrier" which is within his rights, when the alleged offence was committed. Mr. Burgoyne said that he had been forwarded the money by friends, the order, together with the liquor permit by a man in Madoc and was instructed to bring the spirits to the village and leave them behind a fence which he did. However, other parties made complaints and he was not arrested until the next morning by the police at his home here. Mr. Burgoyne wishes to correct the impression that he was "selling" the liquor.

SENSE OF HONOR DEEP WITHIN ALL OF US

DR. LOUIS E. BISCH,
Eminent Psychologist.

Human beings come in for a great deal of criticism in one way or another, and it is refreshing often one runs across evidence proving that we are not always as bad as we seem.

Not long ago I happened to see a newspaper rack with a coin box attached over which was written "honor system." It was in a country district, a small store, the sort of place where trade is not so brisk as to require the uninterrupted services of a clerk. There was no lock attached to the apparatus. One took a paper and pushed the price in cents through the slot.

Needless to say, a dishonest person could readily have gotten his newspaper for nothing. But the proprietor of this store told me that he had never lost a single penny.

In the cities, also, it is not uncommon for a newspaper stand to be unguarded, passers-by taking what they want and simply leaving the money on the sheet and even making their own change.

Apparently people want steal when they are put upon their honor. There are several restaurants in New York where you order and eat what you like and later, as you leave, you tell the cashier how much you spent. Nobody checks up the customer in any way. In one of these places I was told that people undoubtedly make honest mistakes on occasion in figuring up the exact amount they owe, but that any underdetermination is more than made up by a few who pay more than they should. In other words, scrupulous honesty prompts them to take no chance.

The honor system in school and college examination is also working most satisfactorily. Students really do better work when they are not watched all the time.

Put a man or woman, boy or girl on his honor and it is hard to find one who does not respond.

We like to be trusted. It flatters us to think others have confidence in us.

But if it is assumed that we may cheat, that we may be dishonest, something within us rebels and we may live up as far as to show definite resentment.

If you want to get hold of a rebellious boy, for instance, prick his sense of honor. You may not succeed the first time. Sooner or later, however, you will reach the honour urge and when you do, the boy will cease to be a problem.

We make a great mistake in being too mistrustful.

Downright naivete and unwarranted gullibility are of course absurd. We must be careful of the proverbial "sucker." It is illogical and contrary to all the principles of wise and self-preservation to be trusting when there is no point to trickery. And, unfortunately many people are too easily taken in by that sucker. They believe because they want to believe, usually because they think they will gain something by it.

On the other hand, we all have honor deep down in us and honor can be elicited if we try for it.

The sense of honour is not conditioned by the thought of advantage to or by fear.

Honor is an inherent trait, common to the average. Even criminals may possess it in certain respects.

It develops in us as part of the socializing development we pass through. Not only do we want to be well thought of by others. We want also to think well of ourselves.

A Substitute for Dieting

PARTICULAR people frown on those who "pick and choose" at the table. A "diet" is often embarrassing and always a handicap. And nine times out of ten it is unnecessary!

Try this simple experiment; see if that "problem" doesn't disappear from the very hour you first take Pape's Diapepsin. To restore good digestion just eliminate excess acid. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders. You may have decided that nothing could give you a "strong" stomach; just make the diapepsin test!

CHAPTER 72.

A TANGLE UNTANGLED

Marguerite's first instinct was to flee from the dark apartment. But second thought assured her that there couldn't be any one else in the place! Hal was away on a cruise. If there were actually some one lurking—

But suppose Hal had let the place, after all, and she were intruding on strangers?

She was no coward, and she settled her doubts by reaching out a calm hand and turning on the lights.

The sight that greeted her eyes stunned her. She leaned against the hall table to save herself from falling.

.....For, at the end of the vista, which was her dressing-room, she could see Hal kneeling beside her chaise longue.

"Hal!" she shrieked, and came toward him.

He got to his feet, blinking in the sudden glare of light, and stared at her. Then there was an expression of wonderment on his face.

"Marguerite!"

That was all! In a moment she was in his arms.

There followed a long interval, broken only by murmured words, whispered confessions. The barriers of pride breaking, bit by bit, were being swept away.

And then, finally, Marguerite freed herself from his clasp enough to look up into his face and asked the age-old question:

"When and how did you learn that you really loved me?"

And he answered as man has always answered, "I think I loved you from the very first. Only I didn't know it."

Later, when they had become a bit more coherent, they sat on the divan in the library, and told the story that happened to be in the apartment that night.

"I've practically lived at the club, ever since you went away, but something always drew me back, and I've spent many evenings sitting here, trying to imagine that you were just out somewhere and that you'd be coming in all gay and sparkling."

Marguerite said: "Shh!" and kissed him, and there was another interval of silence.

Then he said: "Well, to go on with my story, I was away on a cruise with a couple of chaps, and I was never so miserable and unhappy. Finally I decided not to be a bear and spoil the party, so I got them to put me ashore at Bar Harbor, and I came down by train. I didn't stop for dinner. I came right here, and when I entered your room, I simply went to pieces. I wanted you as I'd never wanted anything before."

She put her cheek against his. "Dear Hal! Something drew me here, too. I didn't know what it was that made me come back tonight.... What idiots we've been."

Then, woman-like, she added: "But it was all your fault."

"My fault," he echoed, in amazement, "when you were as remote as the Pole? I simply couldn't reach you."

"But it was you who were so remote," she insisted. "It was I who couldn't reach you."

They looked into each other's eyes and then Hal said, with a happy sigh:

"What does it matter whose fault it was, now? The whole thing boils down to the fact that we were playing at cross-purposes. And we were both stiff-necked. I set the pace at the very outset, and you followed my lead and then, when I came to love you, you weren't there. You'd built a bar-

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader.

The training of children is an ever present topic, for children, the poor, we have with us, and the way we are going to have a little talk on child training. If any of the readers have loved ones of those difficult small problems which arise every day perhaps they will send in their experiences that the rest of us may profit by what they have learned.

Child psychology has taken such rapid strides in the last few years, and self-expression is the key-note of child development. Still there is quite a majority who still believe in corporal punishment and quite the old adage "spare the rod and spoil the child," and who disapproves of a child "expressing" himself all over the place....

Within reason, however, we believe a little less spanking and a little more understanding makes things decidedly more comfortable for all concerned. In the matter of eating, for instance, how many mothers know how difficult it is to overcome a child's dislike for certain foods. One little boy we know, who obstinately refused more than a swallow or two of milk at his meals. Now he has been blessed with an understanding mother, who, rather than upset every meal with tears and wailing, bought some straws and allowed him to drink through those. This would, in certain appeal to the little fellow! Another mother up against the same problem purchased a tiny jug and cup to match with bright pictures on them. This had the desired effect and the child in a little girl in this case, had to be restrained from drinking too much—it was such fun to pour the milk from her tiny own pitcher.

In the matter of food—it is best to give small quantities and to see that every morsel is finished before the next course is given.

If it can be arranged it would be desirable to let the small children have their own little table and chairs. Kindergarten styles are often very good for the children's meals as during the meal they are busy with their food and not with the grown-ups' conversation.

Reds, either burgundy or in a clear bright shade, are very good for the new separate coats.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a high school girl sixteen years of age. Recently I met a boy and we fell in love with each other. My mother says she doesn't want me to go with fellows. Other girls go with boys when they are fifteen or younger. What would you advise me to do?

DOUBTFUL.

DOUBTFUL: I'd advise you to do exactly as your mother wishes you do! When you are old enough and your time is not so taken up with your studies there will be plenty of time for you to go about. In the meantime, you will be much happier if you abide by you mother's decision.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

The graduates of the Bellefville High School will be very prominent in the annual Inter-Collegiate meet at Montreal. Jack Marshall, newly appointed president of the Inter-Collegiate Track Union of Canada, will represent the University of Toronto in the hurdles, while Hal Calloway is representing Queen's in the 440 yds. dash. We wish both of them the best of luck.

Our rugby team has its last opportunity to win the Bay of Quinte Mague this year on Saturday. If they lose this game they are out of the running for this season. They are expected to make a very good showing against Albert College on Saturday as they have Allen Sprague playing regular inside and Jack Cousins playing regular quarter. The team has given their best and will put up a stubborn fight on Saturday. The game will be played at 3 p.m. and everyone is urged to come out and support the Collegiate team.

Recreation is the spice of life. Try Hall and Symon's Billiard Academy at 44 Bridge Street, east.

You are as welcome as the commercial traveller at the Antiseptic Barber Shop, Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M. Spiker.

The winner of this league will play the winner of the Lake Shore league which in all probability will be Peterborough.

The vocational and technical rooms are now ready for use. They have the necessary equipment for a matriculation and vocational course combined. There are two aeroplane engines in the Collegiate which are attracting a great deal of attention.

Mr. William Cook is the chief ensigner of the bolsheviks in the Collegiate. He passed examinations at Toronto qualifying him for this position. The coal that will heat the school is called "run of the mine coal." This coal has not been refined and comes direct from the mine. The coal was purchased by H. Waddell, and so far there has been 150 tons put in the coal bunker. This coal bunker, as it is called, has a capacity of 300 tons. The engineer is endeavoring to find out how much coal is required to raise the temperature to 12F. They burn approximately 3-4 ton a day. This is not very much in comparison to the 770 tons of coal a day that is burned at Corbyville Canadian Distilleries.

Louis: Is your girl fat?

Dizzy: Is she fat? I'll say so. She had the mumps three weeks before they found out what was wrong with her.

Collegiate boys have she-faring eyes.

St. Peter: Who's there?

Voice Without: It is I.

Peter (excited): Get outa here; we don't want any more school teachers.

WILFUL WIVES

rier around yourself, and I couldn't reach you. And the knowledge of that made me bitter."

"And, all the time, I was building the barrier to keep you from seeing that I loved you. My pride wouldn't let me let you see. . . Hal," she added solemnly, "pride has its place in this world—but not in love."

The chime of a clock from a church steeple told them of the lateness of the hour. Marguerite sprang up.

"Good gracious, it's midnight; and I'd forgotten all about Steve. I left a note under his door, asking him to call me when he came home tonight, and make an appointment for tomorrow."

He asked jealously: "Why?"

She explained then, and he suggested: "Let's go up and see if he's in."

They went up, and Steve, collarless and disheveled, opened the door. He stared in amazement at Marguerite; then he clutched her hand with nervous fingers.

"Irma . . . Is she with you?"

"No, Steve," Marguerite told him gently. "But I want to talk to you, about Irma, and I want you to promise me that you'll never let her know what I've said."

"What is it?"

Marguerite didn't quite know how to begin, but she tried painstakingly to make clear Irma's state of mind.

"Steve, why don't you go to see Irma and talk with her yourself?" she asked.

He stared at her. "She wouldn't speak to me, probably."

"Wouldn't she?" Marguerite smiled demurely. "I'll try it, if I were you."

"You mean," he sprang up from his chair and rushed over to her, "that Irma still cares a rap about me?"

"She's never stopped caring, Steve. Isn't that what I've been telling you?"

Steve straightened up and drew a deep breath. "She's the only woman I ever loved, or ever will love. . . . I didn't realize it until I'd lost her. I've learned my lesson now. . . . But, like all lessons, it comes too late."

"I wouldn't be so sure of that," Marguerite told him. "And don't forget that Irma has learned a lesson, too. I think we all have." Her eyes met Hal's. "But Irma has pride, Steve."

"That's in deuce of it. She may never give in and come back to me."

"Pride!" Hal's triumphant laugh made Mrs. Mars. And he stared even more, as he saw Hal gathering Marguerite into his arms. He had been so concerned with his own trouble that it had never occurred to him to wonder what they were doing together in his apartment that night.

"Pride!" Hal repeated. "What's pride —compared to this?"

But Steve was not listening. He was at the telephone, calling information at Grand Central, to ask about westbound trains.

THE END.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately form into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and surgery relief and healing to the lungs.

While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get these delicate and healing remedies.

DUMBELLS BACK IN NEW REVUE

After an absence of two years, Capt Plunkett and his "Dumbells" are coming back to Belleville again, this time to the Capitol Theatre, and for two nights, October 22nd and 23rd. So, everyone who loves a real good, bright show such as the "Dumbells" have a reputation for offering, will have an opportunity to see their newest revue entitled "Why Worry".

Many of the favorites will be seen once again together with some unfamiliar ones, one of the chief new features of the present show is the appearance of about a dozen charming Canadian girls—added to a show which for nine years ran as Canada's most successful stage revue, and that without the aid of any members of the fair sex in the cast.

"Al" Plunkett, Red Newman, Fred Emney and the others will be there, and the show is reputed to be the "Dumbell's" greatest effort, and that's saying something, for this organization has put across some real shows in the past nine year. Each one has been just a little better than the last, and so we can depend on it that "Why Worry" will be well worth seeing, Belleville-ites.

of any kind for some time past, and are looking forward with pleasant anticipation to seeing these old favorites again.

THRILLING SCENES IN AIR FILM "WINGS"

"Wings" is an entirely different picture. It's author utilized the aeroplane as the principal dramatic situations, and, in fact, he centered it. The spectator is thrilled throughout the entire picture. It is difficult for one to describe the thrills one feels at the sight of one plane attacking another plane, of one group of planes attacking another group, and later seeing more planes downed, and falling to the earth in flames. They are magnificent sights—they are, in fact, so magnificent, so impressive, so thrilling that it is doubtful if one could feel more excited even if one were to watch actual aerodrome battles.

There is one situation where a giant plane, supposedly German, takes part in the battle, the scene of it has not been seen in other pictures or even in real life. It is a gunnery. For this reason, the battle in which it takes place is made more impressive.

The greatest aviation picture with extraordinary orchestral effects will be shown at the Capitol Theatre two days, next Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 24 and 25, with matinees. Don't miss it.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Wheat, Dec. 119 3-8; March 120 1-2. Corn, Dec. 82; March 84 1-8. Oats, Dec. 42 3-8; March 44 1-4.

BOARD OF EDUCATION APPOINTED H. RANSON NEW TRUANT OFFICER

P. C. McLaurin Takes Issue With A. Jones On Cafeteria Question

VACCINATION

Auditorium of New Collegiate Will Be Rented For Conventions

Last night's Board of Education meeting at times lobked stormy, and memories of the good old days when the new collegiate institute was but an intangible thing, not yet built, were recalled, but everything was smoothed over and no wordy and heated arguments resulted.

The first bombshell of the evening was cast during the reading of the finance committee's report when Mr. Arthur Jones, chairman of that committee, announced in no uncertain term that the Board had received only some $530,000 from the city council and that they were about $20,000 short, with only $1630.91 left in the treasury. This shortage was caused by two things: First, the interest charged on the debentures was only 4½ per cent. instead of 5 per cent. as was the plan and also the interest on the bank loans ate up a good deal of the money. Mr. Elliott explained the matter out, however, by saying that the city council had promised the full amount to the Board, and that the Board would be sure to receive it. "We don't want the public to think they (the city council) are giving us a great deal more money than the original grant, for it will be paid. Nevertheless it was stated last night that $560,000 would not be enough money to finish everything.

Principal Angry

The second rather unpleasant moment arrived during the reading of Mr. P. C. McLaurin's report to the Board. In his report, the principal brought up the matter of the school cafeteria. Mr. Arthur Jones promptly arose and queried Mr. McLaurin whether he had made the statement to several pupils that they would not be allowed to eat their lunches in the school building if they brought them after the cafeteria was installed. "Mr. Chairman and Board Members," replied the principal in decidedly heated tones, "I don't think that it is fair to me that I should be badgered before the Board in this way. If Mr. Jones wanted to ask a question, an unbiased question, like that, why did not he come to the first, and then if my answer was unsatisfactory, bring in the matter before the Board? If you believe every story carried out of the building by the various members of the teachers here there would be a fine state of affairs. I did not say anything of the kind. All I did was query some of the students to find out what were their attitudes upon the subject of the cafeteria. I made no such statement as that.

Incidentally, Mr. McLaurin pointed out, the cafeteria will be a fine thing. It will eliminate the students eating their lunches all over the place and stop attracting mice and rats. The matter of furnishing food for the cafeteria, such as sandwiches, was turned over to a special committee composed of Mrs. McPee, Mrs. Noyes, Mr. Cook and Mr. Jones.

New Truant Officer

And then the old, old question of the appointment of a truant officer arrived. It developed that an officer in the person of Mr. H. R. Ranson had been , appointed by the school management committee. There was promptly a storm of horrified protest from Mr. Ostrom, Mr. Geen and Mr. Jones. "Why had not the matter been brought before the Board?" they asked. Mr. Jones thought the matter should have been decided by ballot. Mr. Ostrom thought that too much responsibility had been placed upon the shoulders of the chairman of the school management committee. Anyway, the appointment was confirmed by the Board on vote, with Mr. Jones dissenting ballot, cast by the three aforementioned members. There were some thirty applicants for the position and if the Board had attempted to weed out each and every case, it would have all night. Mr. Hanson's salary is $1000 per annum.

Another bone of contention was just when should the auditorium in the new school be rented to responsible parties for conventions, etc. Mr. Jones

They found that their highest hopes with regards to the success of the Karnival were not high enough, for one of the largest crowds ever in the Picton Armouries was present, and that an excellent program was being put on which was greatly appreciated by the public. Tom Mahaney, Master of Kings, Belleville were on hand and dispensed dance music until midnight for those who wished to dance to the orchestra. OFFICIAL WELCOME

Commander Entertained At White House By President

Washington, October 20.—Plans to have the Graf Zeppelin here Saturday on its return flight to Germany on Saturday, October 27, after a visit to the middle west next week, were announced by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the huge dirigible, during an official visit to Washington yesterday, when he was received by President Coolidge for breakfast at the White House and by Secretary Hoover and Cabinet officials in a program of high Government honors accorded in recognition of the historic transatlantic flight of the air liner. A full day awaited the gu ding spirit of the dirigible from time of his arrival at the Union Station from New York at 7 o'clock yesterday morning until a formal dinner at the Carlton Hotel tonight.

It did not interfere, however, with his taking up technical flying questions with army and naval aviators, as a result of which he was able to make definite announcement of future plans.

The Graf Zeppelin, he said, will leave Lakehurst next Wednesday. If weather conditions are propitious, and proceed to Scott Field, the army air base at Belleville, Ill., near East St. Louis, where it will spend the night at the mooring mast. The next day the dirigible will return to Lakehurst by way of Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and other cities, the exact route dependi upon weather conditions. On Saturday, if all goes well, the giant airc ft will take off for Germany.

Dr. Eckener was accompanied to Washington by Captain Ernest A. Lehman, first off cer of the dirigible and three passengers who accompanied him in Pacific flight. Captain Lehman Met at the Union Station by Government and diplomatic officials. Dr. Eckener and his party were given a cordial rece'pt'on by a crowd of several hundred persons. They were officially welcomed by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Air; Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics; Major Frank N. Lewis Matthews Suspected of Thefts In Neighbouring Town

With the arrest of Lewis Matthews proclaiming Texas as his birthplace and at present of no fixed abode, but hailing from the United States, the Trenton police believe that they have succeeded in clearing up a series of daring robberies which have been perpetrated in that town since last Monday evening.

There were four homes broken into in Trenton this week, including Mr. Joseph Barry's, Dundas street west; Mr. George Wells, Spring street; Mr. John Blacker's, Sidney street, and Mr. William Hendrell's, Sidney street. From these homes the versatile Mr. Matthews took a variety of articles including rings watches, jewelry, etc., and last, but not least, some $190 in cash. When arrested at 3.30 yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police Baip part of the loot was recovered.

This morning the accused appeared before Magistrate O'Rourke and was remanded for one week for trial. He is not represented by counsel, and, unable to obtain bail, is incarcerated in jail.

WOMAN INJURED IN CAR CRASH

George Pettingill Drove His Motor Into Funeral Cortege

George Pettingill, of Wellington, while driving to his home from Picton in a sedan, crashed into a car driven by O. O'Brien, of Oshawa, not far from Picton. The O'Brien car was travelling in the opposite direction, coming from Oshawa, and the accident is said to have been caused when a car in front of Pettingill stopped out of respect for the funeral cortege. Pettingill was travelling too fast to stop before striking the car in front, so swerved to the left to pass, but instead crashed into the O'Brien car which was coming in the opposite direction.

Mr. O'Brien's mother, who was travelling with him, was the only one to be injured, although the cars were very badly damaged and had to be towed to Picton for repairs. Mrs. O'Brien had the misfortune to fall downstairs a short time ago and fractured her nose, and in yesterday's motor accident she struck it again, although it is not yet known whether it is broken. Traffic Officer Prink of Belleville investigated the accident.

PANTS BURGLAR MAKES A HAUL

L. F. Reid, Belleville Dairyman, Is Victimized of $200

BOLD WORK

Thief Made His Entrance By Cellar In Morning Hours

Another "pants burglar" has visited this vicinity, and the's time made a rich haul, a total of between $185.00 and $200.00 being taken. Somewhere between the hours of midnight and four o'clock this morning, a nocturnal marauder entered the home of Frank F. Reid, on the Belleville-Trenton Highway, by forcing open a cellar window and then made his way all through the house, finally ending up in Mr. Reid's bedroom, where he took the money from the sleeping man's pockets.

Mr. Reid is positive that he had the money when he went to bed last night, and did not notice that it was gone for a few hours after he arose. He was up at four o'clock, however, as he is in the dairy business, and so is sure that the theft must have happened between the hours of twelve and four. Provincial Police were notified and are conducting an investigation into the case, although they have very little information to work on. The cellar window by means of which entrance was made to the house was forced open with some blunt instrument.

These thefts are becoming more and more frequent, and it is to be hoped that the thief who was captured in Trenton is the responsible party for most of the thefts. It is possible that they may be the same parties who visited Mr. Reid's home.

CAR HUNG OVER BANK OF RIVER

Motor Crashed Hydro Pole Which Prevented Fall

Only a Hydro light pole last night saved three women and a man, Thomas Crilley, Coleman Street, from plunging into the river. While travelling along Station Street about ten o'clock in his automobile, Crilley's car was struck with terrific force by a Chrysler Sedan, owned by Frank Bradley of Toronto, and driven by Herman B. Flindall, Park Street.

The impact drove the O'Hara car over the sidewalk, and after it had snapped off a telegraph pole, and then hung half way over the bank of the river. Crilley and all four of the women seven or eight feet deep at this time of the year and had it not been for the pole stopping the car there is no doubt that it would have crashed through the fence and into the river.

Flindall appeared in Police Court this morning charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. As it was his fault, as he had failed to stop at the Stop street, He declared that he was under the impression that he was extremely drowsy, and had not noticed the other car. Magistrate Ponton fined him $100 and costs, the minimum penalty, for reckless driving, and suspended his driving permit for a month.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Speak low but boldly as the gods who hear.

—SHELLEY.

ENOUGH BUSINESS

The statistical programme in the United States has been cut lately and consequently the time-thin cry is heard from a certain type of trade affected. While Canadian building looks as if it might increase rather than diminish in the next few months, there will always be that everlasting when it will have to drop.

What will the attitude of the plumbing and heating trade be then? Well, by and large now is that there is enough such business to be had, and we must grab every nickel of it, let ourselves and nothing more, then we'll have to face a diminishing return. If, however we realize how little we do need to tackle, there are various avenues of business now only barely explored, we can turn around to other sources of profit, let the construction activity be what it may.

Modernization, home and business, and other concerns, who must have it fairly shrivel of sales, state that it is impossible to manage their output on a basis which allows them to go for the same money market as the time-is inclined. If money is tight they call "Join their weekly carders." If the market is easy they go after big investment whatever may happen there's if there's any left in.

So it can be in our business. There are spaces where we might sell which we let present unmarketed. Our whole plant and replacement business might be said to be still in the stage where we're waiting for someone to come to us and buy. Naturally a lot of them are not ever going to "find ways of being open to these lines for specialties" which we can handle.

NOT "BITING"

Good news comes from France, to the effect that billboard advertising is becoming discredited there. "Billboard advertising has not the pulling power in this country," writes a Paris-based correspondent, "that many people suppose it to have. A well-known soap company which has covered the boardings for many years with its admonitions to buy a certain soap—a very good soap, too—is now reported to be on the verge of bankruptcy. The general public is astonished. It supposed the company was making millions, in order to be able to afford all that expensive billboard space. We are sincerely sorry for the soap company, but compliment the French people on their good taste in getting off their backs against this harassing form of advertising. If the rate of the soap manufacturers whoever they may be, serves as a warning to others not to follow their example, they will have done a real service to the country. But it seems that foreign advertisers are not yet convinced, for an American tobacco is reported to be preparing to spend a couple of a million dollars in an endeavor to popularize their brand by clustering up the Boulevards with billboard notices. "The opinion of many onlookers is that the money will be wasted," comments the correspondent, significantly.

It only such advertisers could be persuaded of the futility of their placards, there would soon be an end of the offense. It is said that large business houses are individually opposed to such methods but are unwilling to withdraw so long as others remain in the field. Popular opinion, however, may induce them to abandon the practice. Appeals which provoke resentment—as these huge notices generally do—can hardly be expected to produce a favorable response. In all countries there is a general outcry against the nuisance; it will not be possible for conservatives to continue indefinitely the public abuse of what is wrong.

LAW IS MAINTAINED

An 85-year-old Scotsman appeared in the police court at Boston, the other day to answer to a charge of vagrancy. The old chap was about done for, he had been a "master mariner by trade, but age and ill health had weakened him so that he could work no longer. Homeless and penniless, he had drifted to Boston, hoping to obtain to job that would be the night have a bed and something to eat.

All of this he explained to the judge, who listened sympathetically and paroled to sentence the man to three months in jail.

Then, however, it developed that the old man had not lived in Boston for 30 years. Under the law, therefore, he could not be found guilty of vagrancy. The police were advised to turn him loose, wonder of nobody knew where, and to do nobody knew what.

At first glance this looks like just another common case of legal hair-splitting. But, it is something more than that. It is a symptom of the way a great many things are done by a great many of us in this year of enlightment, 1928.

Most of us live pretty well-intentioned. We would really like to live by the Golden Rule, if only it were not so hard. We would really like to be kind to the helpless, to relieve misery, to treat strange unfortunates as our brothers.

But most of the time it is too much trouble. We prepare to act and find that our hands are tied. We are not big enough or wise enough to cut the red tape and get results. So we retain our good intentions, and the person we intended to help gets it in the neck, regardless.

Consider this Boston episode. The judge on the bench, the prosecutor and the policeman were all sincerely anxious to help the pitiable old wanderer. Not one slam in the court where he was arraigned wanted him to continue in his misery.

Yet, in the end, he might as well have been surrounded by enemies!

Nobody there was capable of cutting the knot and getting to him the old man got relief. Everybody wanted to—but there was an idiotic legal technicality in the way.

One of these days we'll learn that good intentions are not enough. Not enough! They're worse than nothing at all. Of course, it may have been a great solace to the old stonecutter as he wandered off to meet whatever variety of starvation, weariness and loneliness the fates might have in store for him, to remember that the people who sent him away had given him their best wishes.

PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mr. W. H. Biggs has returned from Pittsburgh, Pa.

The death occurred yesterday in Hamilton of Mary E. Roxburgh, widow of Dr. Roxburgh, of that city. The news will be received with general regret here as the deceased was well-known, being a daughter of the late James Biggar, ex-M.P., formerly of this city.

THE EAST TRAIN

(Lines addressed to the 10.30 p.m.)

We hear it rumbling up the line—
The fast train,
Through the dark but up to time—
The last train;
It clatters round the Tarbert Hill,
And gives a screech both loud an' shrill—
The last train.

We hear it starting off again—
The last train;
Puffing away through wind and rain—
The last train;
'S tail laingth watch out o' sight,
The day is done, but out the light,
And so it bids us all Good-night—
The last train.

Our lives in some ways seem to match
The last train.
At eventide we fain would catch
The last train.
That better, brighter world than this
God grant, that none of us may miss
The last train.

APPROVES NIAGARA BRIDGE

Washington, D.C., October 20.—The War Department today approved plans of Niagara Falls, N.Y., for a bridge across Little Niagara River at South 66th street, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

RUMORS OF SESSION

Calgary, October 20.—Rumors of an autumn session of the Alberta Legislature were denied here last night by Premier J. E. Brownlee. The House would not convene, he said, until after Christmas.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHAT WORK CAN DO.

One of the few good things that resulted from the war is what is called occupational therapy.

Men who had held positions of responsibility before the war, found on their return that they had couldn't hold down the old job.

They felt that it was just a little too much for them, and that they would be likely to break down if they continued at it.

And so the governments engaged to teach them other work that would more nearly fit in with their physical and mental capacity.

From 30 to 50 percent of patients discharged from sanitariums for tuberculosis with the disease in an "arrested" state, suffer a relapse in a comparatively short time, according to Dr. B.E. Hedding. In order to give these patients a chance to get strong, and to be able to adjust themselves to the world again, Wisconsin established a camp for men where sanitorium treatment was combined with the definite object of preparing the patients for productive work.

Under carefully guarded conditions these men cut wood, build roads, plow fields, plants and harvest crops, clear stumps from land, until they are able to do a full day's work under ordinary industrial conditions.

After nine years of this experience it was found that two-thirds of all patients were sent out with their work-ing ability restored.

Now there are two points about this. By working daily in the outdoors, under sanitarium conditions as to food, air, rest, aside from the exercise, the patient became physically, much stronger and able to do a man's work.

And also the very knowledge that he was becoming stronger physically, his old self, and that he was able to take his place in the world again, gave him that confidence in himself that is an essential part of a man's makeup, if he is to be able to take his place among his fellow men.

This same contour physical exercise is to be found in private gymnasiums, both, with medical attendants, back to normal.

And it has proved a good percentage of inmates of hospitals for the insane.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir:—

If I am permitted, I would like to, have a small space of your valuable paper to say a few words about the distribution of the proceeds, given to the Belleville Fair, which was the Ontario Championship.

If I am informed correctly, the committee have received a large proportion of the "Gift from the fans for the 1928 Team" for next year's team that is to say helped to win this year's pennant. That sounds charity fair to me.

When the fund was being raised, why was there not a clause on that paper saying a large portion was to be reserved for next year and not deceive the fans who gave so nobly to this splendid ball team of ours of 1928.

And last but not least, who is responsible for giving the committee in charge authority to reserve said portion of the fans' money?

POPULAR SWEDISH FAMES DECREASING

Stockholm (Press Cable).—(C.P.)—The names of Andersson and Pettersson, the commonest in Sweden, are gradually decreasing in number, according to statistics issued by the city of Stockholm, and numerous persons have lately taken two great tribes are changing their names into more individual ones. In 1927 the number of Andersons in Stockholm had decreased by over 1,500, and the Pettersons and Berggrens by about 1,000.

The ancient Swedish customs was for a young man to adopt his father's Christian name and add "son" to it, so that Erik, son of Karl, was called Erik Karlsson, his son Nils Erikson and so on. But during the past 75 years the surnames have been retained, irrespective of the father's Christian name.

CANADA BISCUIT WORK OVERTIME

$100,000 in Bonds Retired Through Sinking Fund

London, Ont., Oct. 20.—Continued improvements in plant made in the operations of the Canada Biscuit Company, which corporation is the merger resulting from the consolidation in 1926 of several of Canada's largest biscuit and confectionery companies, including McCormicks, Dorion, Maritime, Montreal Biscuit, Pacific Coast, Ogilvies of Winnipeg and the Northwest Biscuit Company of Edmonton.

No official figures have recently been made public, but it is unofficially stated that the company's sales volume is being substantially maintained. Operating costs and expense ratios have been reduced, and the profit margin for 1928 to date shows material improvement compared with the same period in 1927.

The London plant has been working overtime, including Sundays, in order to keep up with the incoming orders, a condition which has not previously existed since the merger in 1926. It is stated that indications point to an unusually large business in the biscuit and confectionery departments during the remainder of 1928, not only throughout Ontario, but in Quebec, the Maritime provinces and particularly in Western Canada, where residual successful crop year is already reflected in the company's increased sales at its plants in Winnipeg and Edmonton.

At the time of the merger the capitalization of Canada Biscuit Company Limited, consisted of $2,500,000 6-1-2 per cent. first mortgage bonds, $3,519,600 7 per cent. preferred stock, and $1,280 no-par value common shares. Due to the operation of the sinking fund in 1927 and 1928, it is understood that close to $100,000 of the first mortgage bonds have been retired. The first mortgage bonds were the only securities of the company outstanding in the hands of the public, both the preferred and common shares being distributed among the shareholders of the old constituent companies.

LEGION EUCHRE PARTY SUCCESS

Last evening under the auspices of the Canadian Legion an enjoyable card party and dance was held in the Veterans' Memorial Hall with a large number in attendance. The euchre party continued till a late hour. Prize winners at euchre were: Ladies' Mrs. McKeiver; 2nd, Mrs. Morris; Consolation, Miss White. Men's 1st, Mrs. E. Foley; 2nd, Mr. C. Mosher; consolation, Mr. Bell. This is the second of a series of entertainments which will be held throughout the Fall and Winter and which she prove very popular.

GOOD SEATS REMAIN FOR DUMBELLS' SHOW

Contrary to rumors on the street, the management of the Capitol Theatre wishes to make it definitely known that there are a great many excellent seats yet to be had for the big Dumbelle Revue, "Why Worry" coming to the theatre on Monday and Tuesday. There is quite a number of good seats remaining at one dollar, these being the seats directly towards the front part of the theatre. A great many two dollar seats remain, these being the choice seats of the entire house, and located in the centre part of the theatre. Then, too, behind these are many good seats at one dollar and a half. Chose nearer the back of the house. However, with the fine layout of the Capitol Theatre those in the rows farther back, and from any of the dollar seats are enabled to see the performance almost equally as well as those in the centre of the house.

The reserved seats for the Big Revue are going well, but as outlined above, many good seats remain for both Monday and Tuesday evenings. So the management advises prompt action while there are still good seats to choose from. The Dumbelles are the biggest success these old favorites have ever put across, to act now.

LOCAL ARTISTS RENDER CONCERT

Splendid Attendance At Program Given By Church Choir

An appreciative audience filled the Tabernacle Church last night to hear a most enjoyable concert by the church choir, assisted by local artists. Again it was demonstrated to the Belleville audience that it need not go outside its own bounds to obtain first-class talent. The choir left was tastefully decorated with softly glowing lamps and with ferns.

From the opening rendition by the choir of "The Gypsy Chorus" from "The Bohemian Girl", to the last Number by the Male Quartet the program was carried through smoothly.

Much of the credit is necessarily due to the accompanist, and in this regard Mr. Griggs at the piano, and Mrs. Jones at the organ, were unexcelled. Mr. Ross Hunter, well-known violinist accompanied by Mrs. Hunter, contributed two solos and performed difficult passages displaying skill and grace.

The soloists for the evening were Mrs. Stobie and Dr. Ladore. Mrs. Stobie is always a welcome addition to an evening's entertainment and her coloratura soprano voice showed to particular advantage in the first of her solos "Carnival of Venice." Dr. Halfpenny also splendidly two minor solos "Smiling Through," sung in a sympathetic voice made a thrilling appeal.

Miss Jessie Tuite offered two numbers in her own inimitable style. A humorous reading entitled "Overheard in a local Groceteria," was humorous and made an immediate appeal to her hearers. Owen Smille's "A Man's description of a Woman's Dress," was also appreciated.

The Ladies' Quartet, consisting of Mrs. Stobie, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. McKeown and Mrs. Duff was heard to advantage in two numbers. Their voices blended harmoniously and their varied numbers were very enjoyable.

The Radio Quartet presented one of their numbers which has been put on record by special request. All their numbers were given in their usual finished style.

Mr. Harold Howard and Mrs. Brown sang very sweetly two Duo duets.

Following is the program:

Choir—Gypsy Chorus, "Bohemian Girl."

FIGHT FOR SUCCESS BRINGS THE THRILLS

By DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

Striving undoubtedly yields the truest happiness. It is not so much what we possess but that which we do not yet possess, and which we are still trying to possess, that gives the greatest pleasure. The man who seeks riches gets a tremendous thrill as he piles up the hundreds and thousands and millions. The man who wants to achieve in politics doesn't get so much fun out of wealth as he does trying to reach the particular goal he has set for himself. The woman who desires above all else to excel in motherhood or art, cares little for the advantages and possessions she already has. What she is after and has yet not accomplished appears as the ideal which will bring her the largest return of contentment and joy.

Usually we find, after we have got what we longed and worked so hard for, that it does not satisfy as much as we dreamed it would.

The reason is not so much the fact that our imagination conjures up images that cannot possibly be matched by reality—a truth that must always be reckoned with—as it is the fact that striving is lost when actual accomplishment is gained. We often worry over rich men seem to try to become richer still. And why seem at seventy don't retire.

It's because such men realize the fun of striving. Striving keeps their vitality alive and acts as a constant incentive to keep on living.

It is lucky in a way, that we are not all born alike. Relatively speaking, each individual is superior or inferior to other individuals as regards health, traits, possessions, desires, likes and dislikes.

One is strong and healthy while another is sickly. One is handsome or beautiful another ugly or deformed. One can boast of a native intelligence, handed down to him in his heredity, that is far above the average. Another finds it difficult to make his grades even in the primary school. One is born in a family of ease and luxury and social prominence. Another is of humble origin. And so it goes!

But these inequalities, often unjust though they may seem engender striving.

It makes the boy or girl early in his career determined to get what he lacks. And no matter how many advantages he may already have he is motivated always to be something different or to gain something different from what he already is or has.

All these strivings, from millions of minds, produce a cumulative effect that forces civilization forward.

It also adds variety to life and helps to create interest in the mere act of existing.

Continuous striving from everybody pushes the level of living to an average ever higher and higher.

As individuals our strivings may produce heartaches, especially if persistent striving does not seem to bring about results. But we all profit by the strivings of others. And this we must never forget.

One need not advise anyone to keep on striving. One does that in spite of oneself.

A human being may become thoroughly discouraged and stop striving for a while. But this cannot last. We just cannot help striving—that's all!

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my early teens and am going with a boy one year older than myself. I like him very much but he gets jealous if I speak to any other boys. I am thinking my other boy friends down on account of him. I don't know whether to continue to do this. Thanking you for this advice.

BILLIE.

BILLIE: I think you are very foolish to "turn down" all your other friends for this one, my dear. You are not engaged, therefore it is your privilege—and his—to have as many friends as you desire.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my late teens and am making your advice.

I met a man about six weeks ago. He is good looking, dresses well and has lots of money. He has taken my girl friend and I out many times and we have had a wonderful time. He has asked me to go out with him alone many times. I went out with him Sunday night alone. He offered me a beautiful wrist watch. He wanted me to try it on and I allowed him to put it on. I wore it all evening. When he was leaving I remembered the watch. I took it off and handed it to him. He took it and put it back on my wrist and asked me to wear it always. He went away and I have received many gifts since then but no letters.

What shall I do? I would like to return the watch and other gifts.

FRIGHTENED BROWN EYES.

By all means return the gifts immediately. You were a very foolish girl in the first place to accept them, my dear.

TURPIN SUBMITS TO BLOOD TRANSFUSION

Port Hope, Oct. 20.— To save the life of his sister, Mrs. W. Plunkett, who for five months has been relatively ill in Oshawa Hospital, "Dick" Turpin, popular returned man, and fire chief, of Cobourg volunteered to give a quantity of his blood in a blood transfusion, which was considered by doctors as the only hope for recovery. The transfusion was successfully performed in the hospital here this morning.

GAY ADVENTURERS
BY MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER I

OUTWARD BOUND

Sheila Allen was ready for her great adventure—the adventure that was to make up for twenty-three years that had been far from adventurous—the last ten of them having been spent in caring for an invalid mother.

She was free now, and the world lay before her. True her present environment did not augur the world of which she had talked and dreamed during those ten years. The room she occupied was very small and very white and contained two berths and a wash-stand with a wavy mirror above it. Two folding stools and Sheila's modest luggage took up most of the remaining space.

But, through the open port-hole there was the glimpse of the land of romance! Not very romantic yet, but suggesting unknown worlds that lay just over the horizon. For that tiny aperture revealed New York harbor in the golden loveliness of a perfect summer day, gleaming blue water; a silver haze softening the Jersey shore; a giant liner coming in from Europe; a tug-boat plodding its stolid way toward the Battery, with its cargo of poor humans who were not embarking that day on a gay adventure!

Overhead was the rattle of chains; the shriek of cranes lifting last-minute luggage into the holds; the shouts of stevedores; the rumble of trucks under the arch of the pier; greetings and adieus; laughter, and tears. In short the Mauretania would be outward bound!

Sheila's cabin! Sheila looked about the room. It might have been the royal suite. She'd been told she'd had a cabin-mate, but, so far, that person hadn't put in an appearance. She didn't care—not even if the individual proved to be as trying as her Aunt Cousin Dora. Nothing, . . . no person on earth . . . could dampen Sheila's sky on that summer morning. Not even Dr. Baxter's cross, which must have cost him a pretty penny with their brave message: "Here's to the great adventurer!" caused Sheila a resurrectal twinge.

A terrific din, accompanied by the orchestra call: "all ashore!" sent her scurrying darkward to witness the casting off. But first she took a look at her reflection in the mirror. The result was reassuring even though her blue suit, the navy-and-white hat, the utilitarian tailoring and her hair was the identical, inexpensive fetch clothes that several million others were wearing that spring. For Sheila was Sheila, and not only Doctor Max, who for five months had watched and had told her that never had Heaven bestowed such eyes and hair on any woman—which was rather amusing in view of what happened a quarter of an hour later, proving, as ever, the fallacy of man's prophecies.

Sheila's hair was as ready as ever Burgundy when it's held to the light. Her eyes were very brown, and she had a fair skin and exceedingly dark alive lips.

Now she hurried through corridors that reeked of salt, and past great kitchens, where blasts of heat from enormous ovens fairly bit her in the face and finally scrambled up an iron stairway to the tourist deck. She wriggled her way to the rail and took her last look at the pier, with its gay adventurers, a lump came into her throat, and she thought: "What if I never see this blessed land again?"

She stayed on deck until the little tugs had done their work and backed off with a derisive toot, as if to say: Now, then, you big hulk shift for yourself!" She stayed until the shore line melted into the doomday mist. Then lay ahead of her now only the boundless ocean and the beckoning land of adventure.

It was warm and she took off her hat and ran her fingers through her hair as she descended the companionway and threaded her way back to her cabin. Before she had pushed aside the curtain, she heard sounds of activity within. Her cabin-mate had evidently arrived and was unpacking.

She knocked tentatively and received a laughed: "Come in!" Drawing aside the curtain, she entered—and paused in amazement.

For an instant she thought that the wavy mirror must have been replaced by a full-length one, and that she was viewing her own reflection. But part of that "reflection" was wearing a dark blue silk and there was a scarf of cable across its shoulders and a rope of pearls about its throat.

"Good gosh!" exclaimed the "reflection," in an awed tone—and she could be forgiven. "I'm I going crazy? Are you real?"

Sheila murmured: "I'm real enough . . . But are you?"

The other girl's answer was to reach into a drawer of expensive toilet articles that were scattered over her berth and pick out a tortoise-shell hand-mirror. She held it in front of her face.

"Sit there!" she bade Sheila, in the tone of one whose command is generally observed, and indicated the opposite berth. Sheila obeyed.

The girl with the mirror studied Sheila as minutely as an artist studies a model. . . .

"Hair identical—except that we have a different cut. Eyes the same, I think. Eyes aren't so important. Your nose is a little more refined than mine and your mouth a shade smaller. Your face is a bit rounder, . . . and fresher." She made a wry grimace. "If you had a hard knock—" she added before anyone but she same, we might be twins!" She laid down the mirror. "Now, young woman, please address-ed herself—" If you tongued that you were the unique bit of clay ever fashioned—and you did think that—you've had a rude jolt!"

She tilted her eyes to the bewildered Sheila. "I'm Constance Kerr. Will you tell me the name of my—double?"

Sheila managed to get it out, although she was stricken fairly dumb with amazement. All America and most of Europe knew the name of Constance Kerr. No illustrated society journal was complete without photographs of her on horseback at Hot Springs; in bathing costume at Palm Beach; on the stage at Biarritz or the Lido; at the Ascot races; on the Promenade des Anglais at Nice. The name of this petted daughter of a millionaire who never her car like a demon, thumbed her nose at traffic regulations, and was once reported engaged to a prince, a household word in America.

Sheila, through the long years of waiting on Cousin Dora, had tried to entertain herself by reading about the world in-which she never expected to play a part. The name of Constance Kerr was well-known to her. Now she gasped:

"In-but what are you doing here in—in a tourist cabin?"

"It's a long story. . . . What are you doing here?"

Sheila's gaze went from the elaborate toilet articles on the other girl's berth to her own modest possessions. That seemed to her the answer, but she said:

"I can't afford anything else. I haven't much money. Only a small legacy that a relative left me. I've taken it all and I—" she laughed a little, for it seemed so absurd to say to Constance Kerr: "I'm going to see the world."

Miss Kerr eyed Sheila quizzically. "I think flowers sent you to me in my hour of need!" ;

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

A modern New Yorker remarks: "We live expensively to impress others who live expensively to impress us."

A new fashion is that of wearing a cardigan jacket of some small pattern, red foulard over a plain sleeveless frock of crepe de Chine or shantung.

Skillful cutting allows the new sleeve to fit well under the arm without the customary pull when a coat is donned while tapering down the arm to a closely fitted wrist this sleeve is especially graceful.

Agnes is employing a new art feather which is made in leaf design, and Patou is using tiny pompoms on a roll brim collar.

Peacocking a shimmer is quite in keeping with Sheila's decree are the new rayon velvets and tweeds which are being indorsed by the leading couturieres and featured as a high style note at the smartest shops in New York.

The outstanding peplum is being much stressed and a flowered print evening frock from Lanvin is shown with this popular feature, and another black taffeta frock has a peplum incrusted with paillettes.

Touches that Add Style to Dresses
By MAE MARTIN

It's amazing to see how easily out-of-style dresses are transformed by a few buttons, a little braid and the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing.

Your tinting or dyeing will always delight you, if you are here to use only true, fadeless Diamond Dyes. Tinting with them is as easy as hinting, and dyeing takes just a little more time. New colors appear like magic right over the old colors. They give all the fashionable tints and shades, with never a hint of that redyed look which comes from inferior dyes. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

Woodley's Furriers

Two many people in the larger communities a spinning wheel is a nice looking antique to set in a corner of the living room, but to Mrs. Philippe Croteau, of the Canton of Figuery, in the parish of Saint-Thereze, in Abaldie,—not far from Amos on the transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways,—a spinning wheel has a definite utilitarian purpose. In this particular instance, Mrs. Croteau is providing the material with which to provide warm "coolies" for her grandchild. Mrs. Croteau, widowed the head of a large family of boys and girls, is practically penniless, but her thirteen children into Abaldie and undertook to clear 200 acres of forest land. That was in July, 1916. To-day the Croteau farm is 300 acres in extent, with modern houses, barns, garage, good horses, good stock, electric lighting, mechanical aids, a tractor and motor cars, all the result of the courage and industry of a woman who having her children and learn to the land, battled successfully with Nature to win, rest, find, a living, and then a competence. While admitting the modern comforts, Mrs. Croteau believes that yarn spun in the old-fashioned way is best of all and practices her own doctrine. The wonderful achievements of this woman who set out from her home parish near Joliette, twelve years ago with the scanty proceeds of the sale of her old home and a loan of fifty dollars, have been recognized by the Government of the Province of Quebec in presenting to her the highest possible award for agricultural merit.

AUTOMATIC GEAR SHIFT FEATURED

(Associated Press Cable)

London, October 10—Most important of the many features of the National Motor show which opens at City [illegible] tomorrow is an automatic gear change.

No gear shift protrudes from the floor of the automobile which exhibits the new device. Instead, a lever, like that of a gasoline throttle, operates on a dial lying flat on the hub of the steering wheel, and as the lever is moved the gear changes from low to second, or high or reverse.

Motor experts of England say the new mechanism is a practical manufacturable commodity, and not a freak if this proves to be a fact it will eliminate the unceasing efforts automotive engineers have been making for at least a generation to eliminate the necessity of reaching for a gear shift lever.

Gear changing to many drivers is the worst of driving. But with the new device all the driver does is to put the dial finger at the speed he wishes, and depress the clutch pedal. The engine does the rest.

The driver can choose his gear in advance. If he is driving on high and approaching a hill, it is obvious that he will require a lower gear when the car begins to lose speed. So he puts the point on the quadrant opposite second. As soon as the engine shows the least sign of laboring he presses the pedal and the car changes down into the next gear without making any loose shock. In fact giving an imitation of a coffee grinder.

The self-changing gear box is silent. Except for the variation of engine beat it is impossible for the driver to know in which gear the car is running, except by looking at the quadrant.

The automatic change mechanism works a mechanical finger. When the pointer on the quadrant is moved to opposite the desired gear, the mechanical finger is automatically moved in to position to effect the change. When the pedal is pressed, the mechanical finger buckles down to work.

The automobile expert of the London Daily Mail claims he has been able to make 15 gear changes on the automatic gear in 10 seconds. He declares that because of the time saved, the self changing gear car gained 33 per cent. speed on an ordinary car.

One manufacturer has adopted the automatic gear as a regular feature of its cars, and claims to have tested it out successfully on runs totalling 50,000 miles.

DEVICE IS FOR SAFER FLYING

Washington, D.C.— Another radio device to make flying safer and navigation easier has been perfected by engineers at the Bureau of Standards.

It is a marked beacon which will be used in connection with the bureau's visual radio beacon to direct the flight of planes by day or night on the civil airways of the United States. The marker beacon, which will send characteristic signals to the pilots, can be placed at intermediate fields or at short intervals on crooked sections of the airways so as to form landmarks for the speeding planes. The use of the marker beacon, in addition to the radio beacon, will enable the pilot to tell not only whether or not he is on his course but how far along the course he has flown.

The marker beacon consists of a transmitting set comprising two 7 1-2 watt tubes used in a self-rectifying circuit. Alternating current from the 60-cycle supply mains is used to furnish power. By means of the self-rectifying connection, 100 per cent modulation at a 120-cycle rate of the radio frequency power is transferred to the antenna is obtained. A 120-cycle reed, placed on the dashboard of the plane, is used for receiving the marger signal. The reed is broadly tuned to permit slight fluctuations in the supply frequency.

BOARD OF

Mr. Jones thought that this should be done immediately so that revenue could start coming in almost at once. The other Board members differed on this point however, and suggested that until the School was officially opened (sometime next month, in all probability) the auditorium would not be rented.

May Hold Conventions

With regard to the finest auditorium, Mr. P. C. McLaurin stated definitely that there would be no objection to holding, day-time conventions in it as he did not think a convention would interfere with the pupil's work. This afforded great relief to Mr. Parkhairn who stated that a meeting of railroad unions would in all probability be held in Belleville this month and that the auditorium would be a splendid place to convene.

It was also definitely decided last night that no road shows, or anything of that nature, could appear in the auditorium. Further, a committee was appointed to deal with the renting of the hall, composed of the chairmen of the various standing committees.

Mr. McLaurin brought up the matter of holding night classes again this in the school. It developed that the Government would pay one-third the cost of tuition fees, and Mr. Jones thought that the students themselves could defray the remainder of the cost for the teachers' and light bills, etc. The matter was referred to the school management committee.

With regard to the daily opening of the school, a committee was appointed, composed of the chairman of the Board, chairman of the building and repairs committee, supplies, school management, secondary, music, [illegible] and Messrs. G. A. C. Weir and P. C. McLaurin to deal with this matter. Nothing definite could be said last night.

Precaution To Board

Mr. McLaurin made a splendid progress in the school and suggested, among other things, that the money received from the rental of the auditorium be placed towards buying books for the library. This was not granted last night.

The Sanitary Inspector's report for the various public schools was referred to the chairman of these schools. A letter was received from the American Optical Company stating that twelve sets of protective glasses, for use in the vocational department were presented to the Board. Mr. Elliott wrote the company a letter thanking them for their gift.

C. O. Alex Mann appeared in person before the Board last night to ask that a letter, concerning the reinstatement of his child to school be withdrawn. It appears that Mr. Dann had trouble with the courts some time ago because he would not have his child to be vaccinated, and when he kept him at home during an epidemic, at the medical health officer's orders, he was threatened with court action for not sending his children to school. When the boy caught chicken pox, after being made to go back to school, Mr. Dann had to foot the bill.

Know Her?

You ought to know this lovely New York City girl because her blonde beauty has been displayed on so many magazine covers. She's Marion Dahl 35 Clarkson St., Brooklyn. Artists say she's a "type". They fairly rave over her delicate flesh tints and the golden glory of her hair!

Miss Dahl says: "Everyone I know tells me how wonderful my hair looks, nowadays. I don't feel like it's a personal compliment, however; I take it more as a compliment to the method I'm using to care for it. It's the rage among girls here in New York. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. My hair was wiry and hard to keep in place, but Danderine makes it soft and easy to dress and holds it like I arranges it, for hours! My scalp fairly tingles with vigor after I use it, and it keeps my head so clean I don't need to shampoo half so often. It brings out the color of my hair marvelously, making it fairly glisten!"

Every application of Danderine tones and refreshes your scalp. It removes the oily film from each strand and makes dull, stringy hair gleamy, soft and easily manageable. It dissolves dandruff and keeps it out of your hair. It isn't sticky or oily. It doesn't gum! All drug stores have the generous 25c bottles.

WORLD FAMOUS PIANIST APPEARS AT GRANT HALL

Those who are interested in good music, and by good music we mean the best works of the greatest musical minds of history interpreted by a man whose skill and interpretive powers well qualify him for so difficult a task, will be among those who journey to Kingston on Saturday evening, October 22nd, when Osslp Gabrilowitsch, world famous pianist will appear at Grant Hall, Queen's University under the auspices of the Kingston Art and Music Club.

Mr. Gabrilowitsch was born in Petrograd in 1878 and his musical education began at the Petrograd Conservatory of Music where he came under the personal supervision of Anton Rubinstein and he later studied in Vienna, making his professional debut in Berlin at the age of 18 years. In 1918 the talented pianist was offered the conductorship of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and though his fame was already heavily taxed the temptation to leave the limited field of pianoforte interpretation for the wider range of the great symphonic works proved too great and as a Conductor Mr. Gabrilowitsch has made his name world famous.

In 1910 his marriage to Clara Clemens, daughter of the inimitable writer, Mark Twain took place and he has gradually become more and more adopted in this country. Critics of music in practically every City through the United States have acclaimed him for his outstanding art and skill. His interpretations are marked by a poetical feeling and technical brilliance that carries his audience with him.

No longer of the best in music can afford to miss this rare treat, at Grant Hall, Kingston, on Monday next.

What will You do when Your— Children Cry for Castoria

THERE is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million babies are born without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of this soothing preparation. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and baby is comfortable. A few moments, and that colic or constipation is relieved, or diarrhea checked. Yet this is a vegetable product; a remedy meant for youngsters. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Strong medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; is inexpensive, or few every-day ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless,

"Hudson-Essex is the world's largest selling Tne of six cylinder automobiles. This continued popularity is a severe test of quality and satisfaction.

"What is true with the Hudson-Essex cars is true in our own organization. In selling used cars, we offer them to the prospective purchaser on their merits and stand behind everything we say in regard to them. It is a common occurrence for folks to call us and ask us to pick out a car for them and deliver it, living up to this sort of confidence we feel we must offer a little more than the product really calls for.

"The sale of new used units will, according to present indications, reach a higher peak this month than for any other similar period and we feel that buyer confidence backed by a superior product has brought this condition about for us."

Special Low-Priced
Pines AUTOMATIC
Winterfronts for Whippets

WHIPPET owners — and owners of all small cars—don't make the mistake of trusting as vital a thing as motor protection to memory and guessing, for the sake of a dollar or two.

When you guess about what to do for your motor in cold weather—9 times in 10 your guess is wrong — and your motor suffers.

Get positive, dependable automatic motor protection

You have noticed the shutters now on many equipment on many leading cars. They are automatic. Their makers take no chances with cold. There is no waiting for the smell of heat— no guessing it's cold. Automatic motor protection guards your motor with scientific accuracy. The shutters open themselves when your motor needs cool air. They close themselves when your motor needs heat. Cadillac, Lincoln, LaSalle, Hupmobile 8, Chrysler 75 and 50, Dodge Senior Six and Pierce-Arrow now have this protection.

Offered as a special

And now—so that Whippet owners can enjoy the same protection afforded owners of these fine cars—a specially priced Pines Automatic Winterfront is offered you. One that costs but little more than makeshift methods.

Pines Automatic Winterfront gives you full protection against excess dilution, scored cylinders and cylinder walls, fouled spark plugs, corrosion and extreme carbonization. These are the troubles that bring costly repair bills and lower the efficiency of your motor.

The special Winterfront for Whippets has the identical features of positive, automatic, dependable operation found on the cars that come equipped. All it adds another note of character to Whippet's distinctive beauty.

Motor Protection must be Automatic

Drive in—have your car equipped in a few minutes—and forget the danger of cold as long as you own it. Thermostats are guaranteed.

Accept no substitutes. Demand the same automatic motor protection sold by the leading car manufacturers. There is only one Automatic Radiator Shutter on the market. Ask for it by name.

REGENT

Now we are back at the new REGENT THE CABARET KID," in which that rip-tear comedy, Alice Day, and that sweet singer and actress, Gertrude Olmstead, Cute, sure is a rib-tickling comedy, and the dancing scenes are the best ever. Indeed, the dancing is a feature in this picture. Then, special attraction is a dancing thing to examine, because this dancing stuff is now entirely English. And hitherto Miss Balfour has been entirely the charming, handsome English girl. In this her play she is wonderfully cute, sympathetic and pleasing, without fail of humor and fun.

There is some amusing scenes. The girl is taken from a convent and becomes a dancer in a Cabaret. Then she escapes with the help of a nice English boy, comes to England and becomes a dancer there. Don't miss it.

BELLE THEATRE

The Fleets in!

In from a lurking cruise, not every sailor from the scrape of Dover, looks after Ernest Edwin Bell.

To meet the fleet, and to drum up trade, Manager Duane Bell, that management has sent down its child artist brothers to give the gobs the glad hand when they hit the beach. The girls are headed by Peachy Deane (Clara Glow), who boasts the control of a freaky voice. Eddie Knight (James Hall), and Doyle (Jack Cakle) Eddie is the self-styled sheik of the lot. He is a Californian, while Doyle, leader of a girl in every port. Doyle's vice that recently got very bad. Peachy agrees to the rocky Eddie at the dancehall that night, and gives her dances to Doyle. There is a moonlight waltz, and Eddie cuts in with Peachy thinking the dance with Doyle. A fight ensues between Peachy and Eddie, winning the prize trip for being the best couple on the floor. But Eddie is not satisfied with over, so Eddie takes a fight with a drunk friend of his, to be can be Peachy's. How?

Peachy now begins to think and follows him to take her home. Finding that Doyle has gone with another girl, she "gets" Eddie on the rebound. Doyle realizes he loves Peachy, but punishment for over-staying his leave.

Meanwhile Peachy and Doyle get together. Peachy visits Doyle to give her his ring. Doyle fails. Peachy returns to Eddie, and the dance hall sees Peachy wearing the ring. He takes a sock at Doyle, which starts a fight. Doyle is shot. Eddie is arrested. He refuses to identify Peachy. She follows him to jail.

At the trial, Peachy takes all blame for the fight; winning over Eddy.

As the fleet leaves out, Eddie from the bridge of the California waves Peachy farewell. She will be over soon and he will be back to his red-headed bride-to-be. Monday at the Belle.

REGENT

Here are the best of the new pictures.

"THE CARNIVAL KID", in which that rip-roaring comedian of the silent screen, Tom Mix, is featured, is a picture of circus life, and is about as much a circus as the average picture. The girl is taken from a convent and raised as a circus girl in France, where she escapes with the help of a nice English boy, comes to England and goes through many thrilling circus adventures. Tom Mix is at his best, which is saying a lot, for in this fast play she is unexcelled for sympathetic and natural, spiritual fill of humor and fun.

BELLE THEATRE

The Fleets-ins!

In from a blinding cruise, and every man a millionaire, the Navy looks forward to Shore Leave.

To meet the fleet, and to liven up trade, the Chamber of Commerce has arranged that next week shall be held another big-time to give the gobs the good hand when they are in town. The girls are headed by Peachy Peach (Olive Shea), who becomes the owner of a trawler. Eddie Bright (James Hall), and Doyle (Jack Cooley) Eddie is the self-styled leader of the U. S. S. Californ-ia, while Doyle, master of a girl in every port. Doyle tells what he thought was his wife, Peachy spurns the cocky Eddie as the dandified thief caught, and gives the fast-moving dance a chance in moonlight waltz, and Eddie cuts in with Peachy thinking the dance with Doyle a new dance step and leaves Peachy and Eddie winning the prize day for being the best couple on the floor. FRANK BOUCHER LONE HOLDOUT

Star Centre, Ice Man of Rangers Has Not Signed

New York, Oct. 18 — The term "hold-out" is hanging around. This time it is in hockey. The first star of the hockey world reported at variance with his employers of the year at his pay envelope is Frank Boucher, rock centre ice man of the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League.

The remainder of the team that won the world's professional hockey championship in the Stanley Cup series last spring—the brothers Bill and "Doc" Cook on the forward line, the defense stars, Ching Johnson and Ty Arbuckle, and Lorne Chabot, the goalie, have come to terms.

Reorganization of the New York American team which finished last in the international group in 1927, was approved as a recent meeting of the league governors. Lester Patrick, Tommy Gorman, manager of the Americans, made the proposal that Spring training last season, Herb Gardiner be taken over the Chicago Black Hawks, purchased by Charley Stanley, Sherry Green former pilot of the Americans, has been traded to Boston.

The league heads made several changes in playing rules. A ten-minute over-time period will replace the "sudden death" sessions designed formerly to end games tied at the close of the regulation play. A penalty as the discretion of the referee was been made for the delaying of the puck, including the disc the length of the face or shaking back and forth behind the goal to waste time.

Drastic changes in the rules governing the play-offs for eight of the ten of the Stanley Cup finals have been made in an effort to cut down the length of the series.

Detroit Cougars Nearly Sold

Tommy Shepard, left wing for the Detroit Cougars last season, has been sold to the New York Americans for $15,000, Jack Adams, Detroit manager announced here. It was announced today by Jack Adams, manager of the Cougars.

The deal is one of several under way at the National Hockey League meeting in New York, according to word in circulation Detroit and the New York officials. Another deal by which the Detroit club and four players will be involved is on tap.

Gordon Fraser arrived in the city Friday from Regina, Sask., and Saturday Jimmy Herberts, Bob Connors and Pat Traub, are due on Saturday. Reg. Noble and Larry Aurie are due today from Alliston, Ont., and Sud Cuny, Ott Dadds and Lewis will be in today.

Herbie Lewis, one of the Detroit cousins is not turned in the American association, is reported to pay the Detroit Cougars $15,000 for his year. All last season, the Detroit club tried to sell Lew. It was secured from Duluth and traded to Boston from Toronto to fill the gap. Frank E. Fitzsimmons and Herbert A. Pratt.

James William Geddes—Jim Geddes —the well-known Canadian sporting millionaire track and field official recently celebrated his 70th birthday. The photos shown above show the vet who is 3 years old and when he was in his prime as a quarter, ball and mile runner, and as he is today. Geddes started running at fifteen years of age. He was in his prime when "Bunt" Saunders, Alex and Dave Wodds, Alby Robinson, Jack Oladays,

Bobby Coll, A. B. Henderson and Au drew Colvin were at their zenith and were running all over Canada and the Eastern States. He was in his young er days at his best up to five miles. Geddes always kept himself in shape and at 52 years of age entered a marathon, beating 183 out of 202 starters. Right now he could step out and put last the majority of men of this age, going anywhere from five miles up to the full marathon route.

ROACH TRADED TO N. Y. YANKEES

Toronto, Oct. 19.—Determined to build up a winning club at all costs, with harmony and co-operation the keynote, Maple Leafs has made one more trade in the r quest for ab. H. H. L. title.

For some time John Ross Roach has r espressed dissatisfaction with his surroundings in Toronto. The Maple Leafs having in mind his record as a net guardian with the Maple Leafs as well as attendance figures have felt that they had gone the limit, and when this failed to satisfy, arranged to transfer the popular Little Leafs to the New York Rangers, holders of the Stanley Cup and the World Professional championship.

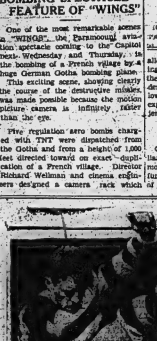

Purchase of Babe Dye, wing player of the Chicago Black Hawks, was announced today by the New York Americans. The purchase price was reported to have been in the neighborhood of $15,000.

BOMBING SPECTACLE FEATURE OF "WINGS"

One of the most remarkable scenes in "WINGS", the Paramound aviation spectacle coming to the Capitol next Wednesday and Thursday, is the bombing of a French village by a huge German Gotha bombing plane.

This exciting scene, showing clearly the course of the destructive missiles was made possible because the motion picture camera is infinitely faster than the eye.

Five regulation aero bombs charged with TNT were dispatched from the Gotha and from a height of 1000 feet directed toward an exact duplication of a French village. Director Richard Wellman and cinema engineers designed a camera rack which allowed full vision of the death-dealing plummets from the time they left the fuselage until they fell like murderous hail upon their objective. So low was the plane at the time of the explosions that concussions actually jerked the ship.

Frank Turville, a new Anglo Saxon wing star in the Canadian football firmament this year. He first came into prominence as a backfield player with the University of Western Ontario. This season he stepped up to the Argonaut team in the "Big Four" Rugby Union. He more than made good. It is doubtful if he will be seen in action in the Canadian finals however, as his club dropped their first two games against Hamilton and Montreal. It should have getting one clubs long high punts away.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer,"

Basketball starts the new season this Wednesday evening at the Y. when the Industrial League gets under way. Alemite Products will meet Stephens-Adamson in the opener, while the C.N.R. takes on the American Optical in the second game. Pre-game dope may not figure here, but the Alemite are favored to take the SA cagers, while the C.N.R. look to have the Indian sign on the Opticals.

Al Walters Captains the Stephens-Adamson outfit, while Johnny Kerr is the leader of the Alemites. Vern Weir and Albert Armstrong will lead the C.N.R. and the Opticals respectively.

Basketball fills in the sport season between baseball and hockey—if any—and should be supported by the general public. Some fast and interesting games will be seen in this Industrial Loop, and fans can get an idea as to who will be on the Belleville Intermediate O.B.A.A. team by watching these games.

Many youngsters are coming on, including some of last years Collegiate team, and the old guard will have to step to retain their places. And the Intermediates should be in perfect condition by the time the Intermediate League commences.

Belleville Collegiate and Albert College meet again this afternoon in their third contest this year. Albert defeated the Collegiate in both games, and on paper look to be able to defeat the Collegiate boys again today. Cousins will be back as quarter for the High School, while the addition of Allen Sprague will also strengthen them somewhat at inside. If the High School Tigers would only get there and play Rugby instead of trying to pick fights, they may have in the first, they would stand a chance of winning. But no team can do anything two things at the same time!

Stanley (Bucky) Harris, once peronmanager of the Washington American League champions, who has been deposed and will probably lead the Detroit Club in 1929.

CHICAGO GOLFER NEVER GIVES UP

It seems in order to rap out a few pretty words about Virginia Van Wie, the young Chicago golfer, in connection with two very well-known phrases in sports—"competitive spirit" and "don't give up."

Miss Van Wie was runner-up in the national women's golf tournament this year and in the finals merely by reason she refused to quit and kept on fighting to win.

A less hardy soul would have cracked most of the clubs in a bag after taking a ten on the fifth hole during the qualifying round. Ten meant certain elimination from the ranks of the qualifiers. Instead of getting sore, Miss Van Wie went out and shot the remaining thirteen holes in such a neat fashion that she finished just four strokes back of the medalist.

That wasn't all that came up during the tournament that established her as a woman of fighting heart and courage. In three of her matches to reach the finals she was down at every turn. That is the order of things a la Hagen.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

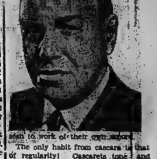

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Men need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascara.

Cascarting the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For Cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the mammoth purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least 5 million people know that; what's pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

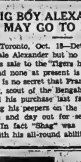

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep

BIG BOY ALEXANDER MAY GO TO DETROIT

Toronto, Oct. 18—Detroit may get Dale Alexander but no deal involving his sale to the Tigers has been made and none at present is contemplated. It is no secret that Frank Slaughnessy, scout of the Bengals, recommended the purchase last fall after keeping his peepers on the big fellow day in and day out for several weeks.

In fact "Shag" was so impressed with his all-round ability that he advised Prexy Navin to go the limit to get him. But nothing came of the matter from the developments of the last day or so that they were not overlooked.

It is now reported from Detroit that Alexander is being counted upon to play first base for the Tigers next season and that the Detroit Club will turn over a bunch of players, including First Baseman Sweeney, Third Baseman Sam Gibson, two outfielders and much cash for the International League slugger.

The Money Losing Cow

THE average production of milk per cow in Canada is about 4,000 pounds annually but authorities are agreed that the higher the production per cow the greater the profit. You can materially increase the productiveness of your herd by breeding better live stock and the local branch of the Standard Bank of Canada is at your service in supplying loans for the purchase of stock which will give a greater cash return for the feed and labor expended.

WHEN COLLEGE WOMEN CHANGE

"The various social contacts made by men in college are probably the most valuable feature of their college life," says Lois Long, writing on her return to school, Vassar, in October issue of College Humor. "College men who are reasonably human never seem to lack for male companionship anywhere. But if you went to a girls' school at Vassar, you will find your dearest friends have a way of undergoing appalling change after a few years.

"Regardless of profession, men manage to find some interests in common. But if you are a woman—look what marriage has done to that grand egg you once used to trot to proms with! She hasn't the slightest interest in your job; she views with alarm the morals of the unmarried; she can discuss nothing but her husband, her child, and the goings-on at the country club. The thing invariably winds up in a defensive account of the doings of those in the dear old class of 1902.

"Women are great levelers. They only like other women in their own general milieu, and their milieu is arbitrarily assigned. They are conservatives, and alien points of view put them on their guard rather than interest them.

"For this reason, I often wonder whether it really matters very much differences whether a woman has been to college or not, unless she has set her heart on a profession requiring an A.B. It is destined for school teaching. After a few years, I am unable to discuss much difference between a college girl and an intelligent, wide-awake girl who stopped education short at finishing school."

CIRCUS DRAWS CROWD IN PARIS

Paris.—The circus has come to town. The famous Fratellini clowns are back at their old stamping grounds the Cirque d'Hiver and drawling as big crowds as ever.

Paul, who is 53 and was born in Circus in Italy, went back there this summer and got a big welcome from his old countrymen. He has come back with four or five medals and a cigarette-case from Mussolini.

Francois, 49, was born up on the hill of Montmartre and is very proud of the fact. Albert is 42 and was born in Moscow.

Among the three of them they can chatter a dozen different languages.

Each one has several children who are also in the circus. Three of them are giving a very clever act this year, tumbling from great heights and dancing in original manner.

The Fratellinis have been making all Paris laugh for many years and will probably continue until they die. They also very often set people to crying for French clowns are not always in a comic mood. Sometimes they are very sad.

Another celebrated music hall clown, Grock, caused a big laugh in Paris recently when it was announced that he had just been made a Doctor of Philosophy by the University of Budapest. Grock is a real artist in his manner, everyone agrees to that and he can do his acts in seven different languages, including Hungarian, but if he ever received such a high degree it will undoubtedly be an honorable distinction which certainly has its price, but can scarcely be confused with that obtained by serious study examinations and diplomas.

SHEEP MENACE IN AUSTRALIA

Sydney, N. S. W., (By C. P.)— Parliamentarians are wondering what they should do about the menace of the Australian wild dingo that have been imported to Australia in large numbers during the past year. Australia will start taken to sheep stations and trained for sheep handling with indifferent results. Some of them have gone bush and are a positive peril to the sheep industry in some sections due to its ravages on flocks.

The chief fear of the sheep men is that when the vogue of the Alsatian runs its course many dogs will mate with dingoes and produce a breed with the capacity of the Alsatian and the marauding instincts of the wolf.

The Australian government has appointed Dr. W. A. Robertson, federal director of veterinary hygiene to make enquiries into the behaviour of the breed in this country. Opponents of the breed who claim that Australia has already suffered from too many pests are telling examples of alleged ferocity against human beings in various parts of the world.

AN INTERESTING ORNAMENT

At one of the Courts held at Buckingham Palace last season a most wonderful aigrette was worn. It is formed of rows of diamonds with a central Star to which is attached a small piece of clock-work mechanism, which makes the diamond revolve, a y kind of glittering flash of light. This aigrette is well known among collectors and at one time adorned the hat of Admiral Lord Nelson, for which it was presented by a sultan of Egypt after the Battle of the Nile. It is said that in order to show his respect for the gallant admiral, the sultan removed from it's turban and presented it to the sailor. The Queen was particularly interested in the ornament when it was previously inspected on a visit to a collection of antiques.

WEAK AND NERVOUS

A condition Due to Watery Blood—Easily Corrected Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Thin, pale girls lack the power of resistance to disease that rich, red blood gives. Nervous breakdown is often the result. So is indigestion, headaches, backaches and many other troubles. Girls suffering from this ailment should just the help Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give. For many years Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a world-famous blood-builder and nerve restorer. They actually make new, rich, red blood which brings new vigor and life to all the organs of the body. Their first effect is usually slow, but as the blood supplies the nerves with new strength and restlessness at night gives way to restful sleep. For sufferers from anaemia, nervousness, general weakness or physical exhaustion Dr. Williams Pink Pills are a restorative of the utmost value. This is proved by the experience of Miss Sarah A. McEachern, R.R. No. 3, Brule, N.S., who says:—"About three years ago I became very weak and nervous. I had pains in my side and back. I also had frequent pains in the back of my head and neck. I was very pale and very weak. I had attacks of nervous irritability, and at times I was in a very sad state. Life seemed hardly worth living. While in this condition a friend strongly advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking these pills and used them for about two months with the result that there was such an improvement in my condition that friends would ask me what I was using, and it was only then I got to tell them it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am now enjoying good health and am glad to give this statement for the benefit it may be to some other sufferer."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Stratford Normal School. Apparently there are those who think this is a retrograde step which is to be deplored, but, as the Stratford newspaper points out, it is no reflection on the school, which is one of the best in the province.

The decrease in the number of students seeking qualifications as school teachers is simply the logical application of the law of supply and demand. Education of the right kind is the blessing of teachers who are unable to obtain satisfactory positions in the public schools, and this fact is proved, and this fact has become so generally known that young people are heeding its warning. Already there is a overcrowded profession. A decade ago, here was a dearth of qualified teachers, and salaries jumped to figures which made teaching a more attractive profession than it had been prior to that time. The natural result was that young people flocked into the profession than it had been prior to that supply exceeded the demand. That this condition exists to-day is seen every time a board of education or board of school trustees advertises for a teacher. It is not uncommon for more than a hundred applications to write in application for a single vacancy. With a well-balanced supply and demand, this would not be so. It is, therefore not surprising to find that young students are fighting shy of the teaching profession, and are not attending in as large numbers as they did a few years ago.

EXALTATION.

These are the things that swap me with exaltation,
That catch my heart, and toss it against the sky:
The surge, the lift, of a great wave's undulation,
The emerald swirl of the trees when the wind is high.
Above the smoke of the city—a pigeon winging
With tig at the still wings prisoned close to the sky.
And a wild bird lilting a windy bough and singing,
Has ever awaken'd an answering ecstacy.

These are the things my spirit strives to capture;
The leap of a flame—a star shot through the dark—
The silver notes of a bugle—and the rapture
That God has hung in the throat of a meadow lark.
Something immortal within me mates with and clings,
And lights like a torch at its every wind-blown spark.
GRACE NOLL CROWELL.

—BROKEN OFF.

You love existence, heart of mine,
The busy hum of towns;
I love the little winding lanes,
The cattle in the fields.
You like a five or six-course lunch,
With cocktails ere you start;

I like a sandwich 'neath the hedge—
I think we'd better part.

You love the drum and saxaphone
Before whose din I quail;
You hear before the gods of jazz—
I love the nightingale.
You like to dance the hours away
And go to bed at two;
I keep to less ungodly hours—
And so good-bye to you!

At least all his friends said, especially those who were golfers.

David didn't play golf. He rather turned up his nose at (and also looked down on) those who did.

But one day he got bitten by the golf germ.

It bit him—so badly that it got into his blood.

It began by eating up his Sundays. From Sundays it worked backwards to Saturday afternoons, and then Saturday mornings.

Fridays, Thursdays, Wednesdays, Tuesdays followed in quick succession.

Mondays resisted for some time.

Then they, too, went.

So did his business.

It went to the other dogs.

He became bankrupt and his wife tried to get a divorce.

"Left-over" meat dishes are often very dull, but when extra care is taken, cold meat can be transformed into most delectable dishes.

There are four important details to remember about food that has been cooked once.

1. That it needs only to be heated through the second time and not cooked twice.

2. It will require extra seasonings, such as onions or herbs or it will be lacking in flavor.

3 Cooking with uncooked foods should not be mixed together unless it is or tain the latter will cook while the other is heating.

If the meat is to be re-heated in the oven or fried, it should be protected in some way with the addition of potatoes, batter, egg and bread-crumbs, or pastry.

Here are three favorites:

Minee

1 lb. cooked meat.
¼ lb. onions.
Salt and pepper,
2 tablespoonfuls flour.
1¼ pints stock or gravy.
Dripping.

Peel and slice the onions.

Put them into a saucepan with a little dripping and fry them until tender and golden. Draw the pan aside and drain off the fat.

Put the meat through the mincer, removing all skin and gristle, then season well.

Mix the flour to a smooth paste with some of the stock, add the remainder of the onion, then stir in the thickening and continue to stir until the gravy boils, when it should be thick. Season to taste, add some browning as required, let it boil for a few minutes, then add the meat and make it hot.

Serve with mashed potatoes. They may be served separately or round the mince, in which case the gravy must be made a little thicker.

Croquettes

½ gill stock or thin brown gravy.
½ oz. flour.
½ oz. butter.
2 oz. cold beef.
2 oz. cooked ham.
Salt, pepper, celery salt, powdered mace.
Egg and breadcrumbs.
Fat for frying.

Make a thick sauce with the stock, flour and butter, boil it for a minute or two, keeping it stirred, then draw it aside and stir in the beef and ham, (both minced). Season to taste—if liked, a little fried onion can be added to flavor—turn the mixture on to a plate and leave is until cold and firm.

Divide it into small portions, form them into sausage shapes. Brush them over with egg and coat them with breadcrumbs, then fry until brown. Drain on paper. Serve on a dish-paper.

Rissoles

6 oz. cold meat.
Some sliced or gravy.
Salt, pepper, celery salt.
2 or 3 mushrooms.
6 oz. fat (margarine).
½ teaspoonful baking-powder.
Water to mix.
Egg and breadcrumbs.

Peel the mushrooms, remove the tails and chop them. Chop them up thoroughly and fry them in a little dripping, and then drain off the fat.

Mince the meat, season it to taste, add the mushrooms and moisten it with some stock or gravy—barely liquid will be required.

Let Me Tell You

A hot salt compress put to the back of the neck often relieves bad neuralgia.

Watercress that is insufficiently washed and cleansed may prove to be dangerous.

Use only the inner parts of celery for salad, and prepare an endive in the same manner as a lettuce.

Slice a cucumber from the thick end downwards. If cut the other way it bitter that life seemed incurable.

A jelly or blancmange can be removed easily and cleanly if the outside of the mould is dipped in boiling water for a couple of seconds.

After using the grinder for meat, potatoes, etc., run two or three crackers or pieces of stale bread through to bring out particles that cling to the knives.

Cheese for sauce, macaroni, etc., will be smoother if run through chopper instead of grating it, using a medium knife.

Nuts, raisins, currnts, figs, dates etc. can be run through the grinder together for cookies, cake filling, fruit cake, salads, sandwiches etc. Mix in with the ingredients a little of the flour which is to be used in baking, or a few drops of lemon juice, and the fruit will not stick to the chopper.

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to lard used for frying prevents articles being fried from absorbing too much fat.

This halves of lemons, when the juice has been extracted, should not be thrown away at once. They can be used in a hot bath, the oil in the rinds has a wonderful effect on stiff joints when rubbed on like soap. Again, when the lemon rinds are used in washing up greasy pans and dishes, fish or onion odours quickly disappear. The rinds are excellent, too, for removing marks on polished tables.

COOLIE COATS SHOCK THE JAPS

Tokyo (By C. P.).—Coolie coats are all very well in their place, but that place is not on the backs of smartly dressed Canadian and United States girls, in the opinion of Dr. Tetsuji Nishiyama, who has just returned from a visit to North America. He says he was shocked and alarmed by the things he saw there.

The fad for wearing coolie or hari coats, which seems to have found a strong foothold among the young society women is an amazing thing to Dr. Nishiyama. "They walk right down the main streets in these things."

Survey the flour and baking-powder, rub in the fat, then mix to a stiff paste with cold water. Roll the paste out and cut it into small rounds. Turn them on to the other side, and put some of the prepared meat on one half. Damp the edge and fold the other half over, making the edges secure.

Brush the rissoles with beaten egg and coat them with breadcrumbs, then fry them in hot fat until golden-brown. Drain and serve.

But coolie coats are not the only items of wearing apparel that caused the doctor to wonder where the world is going to. Short skirts and bobbed hair! They would never be tolerated in Japan, he says.

ANDORRA WILL BE MODERNIZED

To Be Exploited By Syndicate of French And Spanish Gamblers

Paris—Europe's last unspoiled scenic playground is to become modernized, if the little republic of Andorra, situated high in the Pyrenees, between France and Spain, has been acquired for exploitation purposes by a syndicate of Paris and Strasbourg financiers who intend to turn it into a Spanish Monte Carlo.

The syndicate is reported to have a capital of $6,500,000 and has already begun the work of making its property accessible to tourists. Four roads are being built through the mountain passes. A railroad has been constructed from Barcelona and by 1930, when Andorra will burst in its sophisticated glory, there will be a railway line from Toulouse.

Stacks of money has been Andorra's chief means of livelihood but too strict attention by the Spanish and French customs officers to the activities of the smugglers has caused a serious falling off in the little republic's revenue. So it has sold itself out to the foreigner and hence forth will live on the proceeds of gambling. It will also levy a small poll tax on all who cross its frontiers—to be included in the inflated hotel bills.

The new syndicate has acquired all the mining water power and tobacco growing rights and will develop the local industries, but its main profits will be derived from the gambling rooms. A hotel de luxe is being built at Lasescades, which is a spa situated at a height of 5,000 feet. There will be a casino with the accustomed trappings, golf links, tennis and paper chase running.

Politically Andorra is independent and can do as it likes though it is under the protection of the Bishop of the frontier, and the President of the French Republic who as successor to Henry IV. is Prince of Andorra. Its total population is about 5,000 of the peaceful, honest and rural tax-paying people in Europe. Centuries of intermarriage in the place which until recently has been almost cut from the outside world has produced a people of poor physique.

The air is marvelously stimulating and the scenery fine, so that the pros pects are good for development. Even while he was not very familiar with all its details, he thought the immigration scheme of Hon. T. A. D. Mc Rae was well thought out.

Dealing with the Ontario scheme of erecting cottages for settlers, Cannon Vernon said that surely 100 Anglican laymen could be found who would give $500 each for the erection of these buildings.

Hon. John S. Martin, who has charge of immigration in this province, said that while it was possible to turn our backs on people other than British, it was not in the interests of Canada to do so.

"We must realize that they are a problem," said he minister, "but it is up to us to deal with this problem on a broad plane and not one that we can push to one side."

Hon. Mr. Martin explained that Ontario worked through the Federal Government in its immigration scheme and he said he had received every consideration from the Dominion authorities. The Minister said he must confess he was a bit afraid of whole sale immigration. It should be a family affair, or an individual affair, he said, but troubles began when they were brought in by the shipload.

He declared that the industrial development of Ontario had drained the farms of agricultural labor, and one of the most serious and most hopeless things was to see men in the prime of life leaving the farms because they were unable to get hired men. The minister spoke also of the back door route into the United States taken by young men brought out at Government expense, and for that reason the schemes, which he went into in detail, had been tried out. Farmers who would exploit boys if they had the chance were shunned by his department, who regarded the boys as wards. The minister thought there had been a more friendly feeling in Ontario 30 years ago, and he urged the delegates to show more friendliness in their churches to newcomers from the old land.

Following a brief discussion today, a resolution urging the provincial cabinet to protest against the proposed establishment of divorce courts in Ontario, placed on the order paper earlier in the day, was withdrawn, on the ground that there was not sufficient time left to discuss the matter.

Bishop Roper of Ottawa declared that the "church's position on divorce

ALIENS MUST BE TREATED WELL

(By Canadian Press)

North Bay, Ont. October 11.—Bishops and clergy of the provincial synod of the Anglican Church in joint session today discussed the immigration problem, following an address by Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, secretary of the social service council of the church. Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario also addressed the gathering as a delegate and explained the workings of the provincial immigration schemes.

Canon Vernon told the gathering of his recent trip in Western Canada and expressed satisfaction with the treatment and training being accorded British boys brought to Canada by the Church. Referring to the transportation of British harvesters to the west, he said that here and there the placing of the men might not have come up to expectations while the scheme also included Communistic agitators, disgruntled men, and some who had regarded the trip as a "joy ride." The majority, he said, had stuck it out and made good. He paid tribute to the "real British pluck and grit" displayed by the great proportion of the harvesters and also to the kindness and consideration of the western farmers for the newcomers.

Canon Vernon, referring to continental peoples, said the Church must take more interest in such numbers of these, people all can reasonably be absorbed into our national life. He spoke of the attitude which should be taken with regard to French-Canadians, who have as much right by treaty to be here as we have, and whom they could not expect to force in their own province any more than it could be expected to force all English-speaking people in Ontario. He spoke of the scheme of limited settlement which had been endorsed by the social service council at a meeting in Hamilton and which, he said, had not yet got into the sphere of party politics. Canon Vernon declared that,

When Food Sours

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They feel distress. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The name is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the ideal method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions.

If it fails as a resort the syndicate believes the mining and water-power developments which can be made will produce a good return on the investment.

September... Greatest Month in all Chrysler History

—Spectacular New Record for Chrysler Sales

PUBLIC demand for Chrysler products, after creating new sales records month after month, reached a most significant and spectacular climax in September.

Usually a month when automotive production declines, September for the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, was not only the month of largest production throughout 1928, but the largest also throughout the entire history of Chrysler.

The demand for new Chrysler and Plymouth models, in fact, exceeded everything in Chrysler experience and requires even more than the vastly increased facilities of the Windsor plant to cope with the flood-tide of orders.

Chrysler is gratified by such an overwhelming expression of public confidence—and appreciative of the opportunity it offers to extend production facilities still further in order to satisfy the demand which is ever widening.

In the months and years to come, Chrysler is firmly resolved to continue true to the Chrysler ideals of leadership—in pioneering the new and important improvements in motor car design; in developing new ways of progress in scientific engineering and precision manufacture; in discovering new methods of raising quality and thereby constantly increasing the purchasing power of the automobile dollar.

Note the significant increase in Chrysler production for July, August and September this year, as against the same months last year. In September, when production of most motor car companies declines, Chrysler shipments rose to more than the high mark 3 times as many as for the same month in 1927.

CHRYSLER

was already clear. It neither knew nor sanctioned divorce. Coupled with the withdrawal of the resolution another was passed, that the clergy place the views of the church on marriage strongly before all persons entering the "holy state of matrimony." The urgent need of the times, it was declared, was for steadfast loyalty to the Christian ideal of marriage.

The motion was introduced by Can on Ferguson of Hamilton and Archdeacon Doherty of London. It was withdrawn at the request of Archbishop David Williams of Rupert, after Chancellor Osborne of Ottawa had expressed strong opposition to a debate on the subject, at such a late hour in the synod meeting.

SPEAK TO YOUR WIFE, HUSBAND!

Or Else You Are Liable To Be Charged With Desertion

London (C.P.)—The North London police magistrate has ruled that a husband who has been silent to his wife for two years, although he has continued to live in the same house with her, is to be deemed guilty of desertion. The magistrate has granted the wife a separation order and ordered the husband to pay her $15 weekly. The wife is the owner of the house and of most of the furniture.

Mrs. Fanny Diver, of Rendlesham Road, Clapton, had asked for a separation order from her husband, Barnett Silver, a costume manufacturer. She said that her husband had never called her by her Christian name, never taken her or the baby out, never shown any signs of affection, and even refused his mother-in-law's invitation to quarrel with her (the wife) and thus "say something and put walk about like a dummy in the house." He had absolutely withdrawn himself from her company and had all his meals in the house until last week without saying a word.

The husband generally admitted the facts and told the magistrate that it was all because of his mother-in-law who "did not like me as the boss of the house."

The police magistrate said it was not necessary in a case of desertion to show that the parties were separated in the sense that they were not living under the same roof. The husband had refused to accede to his wife's request that they should resume ordinary married life.

"As to the husband's statement that he proposed to continue the same conduct unless his wife retired to have anything more to do with her mother," Magistrate Dummett said: "I think that his contention that she should give up all social relationship with her mother is a perfectly ridiculous and monstrous demand on his part.

Wolfe's True Metal Seen When Enamel of the Hero Is Removed

W. T. Waugh, a Professor at McGill, has turned out a Superb "Life" of the Victor of the Plains of Abraham, in which the Lonely, Red-haired Figure of the Young General stalks again, in His Habitat, before Quebec.

BY WILLIAM ARTHUR DEACON

During the sixty years since the first one was issued, there have been several books about Wolfe. Professor W. T. Waugh's "James Wolfe: Man and Soldier", (carrier, illustrated $5, limited edition extra illustrated $6) is the first full-dress "life" to appear in the last twenty, during which important new information has been found. Not that this author needs any "excuse" for his book is fascinating. From his subject he has scraped the enamel of conventionalized hero-worship, and revealed the true metal of the man. Ye the book is no "exposure," but fair temperate and convincing in its good sense. A pretty wit is shown in many a passage, and the whole is free from that sogginess which too often disfigures serious historical writing. Not any one feels that Wolfe and his story is not worth knowing in detail, let him be disabused. The reading is an initiation, a great delight and a thorough education. It is not only to unerale the book's excellencies for I think it has them all. Of the Canadian books of 1928 that I have so far examined, it, is easily first in interest and in merit. Never have I been rash enough to say that any book disposed finally of a subject; but I do now say and at small risk, that Professor Wolfe", being a perfect performance from every standpoint, will stand.

Like Lord Nelson

As a hero-type, Wolfe anticipated Nelson." The victor of Trafalgar is mentioned only once by Professor Waugh in his biography of the victor of the Plains of Abraham, but the similarity is seen repeatedly. Both were so frail and sickly that neither could now get into the fighting forces. In the letters of both there are constant references to ill-health. And Wolfe was actually in the last stages of some fatal malady—supposed to be tuberculosis of the kidneys—when he set out for Quebec. Consequently both were querulous, irritable, and fault-finding persons; but while Nelson was vanity personified, Wolfe's opinion of himself was coldly accurate, nor was he ever small and spiteful towards rivals, as Nelson often was. Both were strict disciplinarians, kept restless eyes on details, and owed their promotion to efficient readiness to seize lucky opportunity.

Both touched the imagination of the British people, and held it by dying in action at the very moment of their greatest achievements, each having won spectacularly the greatest fight of the war in which he was engaged. ? thore respectively, both exposed themselves recklessly to danger and practically invited death. It will be remembered how Nelson's last wound came through his wearing all his medals at the battle; but it is not generally known that Wolfe also made himself a target by putting on a brand new uniform for the battle of the Plains—one of those acts of gallant folly for which we blame and love a man, and as he moved resplendently up and down the line his lanky figure and pale face made him vividly conspicuous.

Killed at 32, Wolfe naturally never exhibited the special virtues of age; and the progress he had already made leads one to suppose that with time he would have corrbled the admitted faults of youth. He wrote wisely ; his temper as the force that did not break through tight places. It seldom exploded impulsively. Six feet three in height, with flaming red hair, an uptilted nose, receding chin and "features unstintingly cast, perhaps with a little comical in profile," he was not a movie hero. But his "winning smile" was most attractive. Looks, temper and smile were all probably heritage of his Irish blood. He also had the Irish characteristics that is variously interpreted as inconsistency, or the swift adaptability of mind to new conditions. But, above all, he was Irish in his dogged, whirl struck his contemporaries as impulsively. Compared to General Wade and Lord Stair, under whom Wolfe served (a fact of high campaign of 1745, and whose habitual strategy was a "masterly inactivity," having Wolfe's propensity for "pushing on sparely" must have seemed hazardous. But when summoned suggested to George II that Wolfe was mad, the old King only "wished he would bite some of the other British generals."

First and Last a Soldier.

Along with his "customary ardor," with phlegm he enlisted in any duty that fell to him. Even when he was given an all-consuming love for his profession. First and last he was a soldier. Consequently he learned and practised a rigid attention to duty that held lusty impulses in check. He had fair sailing, but his rise was plainly due to the low average of talent among British officers of the time. Writing to his father, he says it is a shame that they are men of such poor calibre that a "little diligence allows the ordinary" on his own part should make him one of the best officers in the service, as he is thought to be. Yet in spite of that contempt, he was popular enough and at Louisbourg was a general favorite with his equals just when we would expect them to be torn with jealousy over his rocketing reputation.

His self-discipline was exercised in repairing the lack in his education by joining the army as a boy. He'hired tutors to teach him Latin and mathematics wherever his regiment was suitably stationed. In fact it made him a bit of a prig, as is seen by the systematic care he ?it self-improvement he put himself through during his six months' leave in Paris. Prof Waugh justly comments on this episode: "One would like Wolfe a little better if he had not always risen so early in the morning, if he had sometimes shirked the duties of the afternoon, and if he had now and then gone to bed after dinner."

This earnestness, this impetuously balanced by a cultivated restraint, and this absorption in the details of his chosen business, however, created the situation that immortalized the youth of General at Quebec. Young, romantic story of the night boat-ride, Gray's "Elegy," climbing the precipice and the rest of it is all very well; some of the legend is even true. But when Pitt asked the Colonel to lead a force against Quebec the Battle of the Plains of Abraham may be said to have begun. Wolfe wanted to name his own officers. And he did—Monckton, Murray, Carleton and others. He wanted to equip his own expedition. It was allowed. In fact he arranged the whole campaign himself, and got everything he wanted, except he could only get 9,280 troops when he thought he should have more. "Five thousand more would have been better equipped," we read, and can well believe it. The Goddess of Fortune may have decreed that Vaudreuil should frustrate Montcalm's skill to keep a close watch-dog at the top of the cliff to prevent the British from getting up. But Wolfe left nothing to chance that he could attend to himself.

Myth of Dangerous Climb.

English misconceptions of the period are responsible, for the illusion that Wolfe's genius came out in selecting the place of attack, and in being able to climb the hill. Montcalm knew all about the vulnerability of the spot. The surprise element in the strategy, as Lieut. Butler says, lay not in the place attacked, but in the direction from which the attack was launched, it being unusual to transport troops a long way from a base when the aim is to be made close to that base. Wolfe's heroism lies not in climbing a hill—"a climb well within the reach of any able-bodied person between six and seven"—but in getting up a dying man, to direct the move when he knew that none of his subordinates was capable of carrying it through without him. Again—"in these last hours of his life, Wolfe proved himself a master of his craft." Not because of any miraculous inspiration of the moment, but because, through his pre-arrangement, "every point of the machine" was in a definite place, and the whole ran smoothly under the perfect control from the beginning to end." Every fighting force Wolfe ever commanded behaved exactly in the manner to be expected. The supreme test of his career, the men behaved as the right men remembered to bring the right tools every one was where he was supposed to be at the exact time.

The only novel feature of the engagement was the employment for the first time of the "two-deep line of red" line, which was a common-sense contrivance to offset a shortage of men: to hold the length of front made necessary by the nature of the ground. Wolfe is remembered in the British army as a trainer of soldiers for the future and then as a master of battle, another at sixty feet, and blazed away at 'em! Another for five minutes, and the British could numbered only 58 for the whole battle!

A Child in Arms.

Though Wolfe was young he had had seventeen years of soldiering, he was now a comparatively large part of the time on active service, in fact he was born in the ensign. At 16, though adjutant and second in command of his regiment and having put in three years in Flanders, he was still an ensign. At 17, he received a captain's staff in the war of the long brigade-major. At 22, he attained the rank of major, with command of a regiment, and at 23 received his commission as lieutenant-colonel. He was in Scotland four and a half years, becoming a full colonel. And in subsidiary rank a colonel he remained. Between Scotland and the great most of his time in English barracks.

At 31, he was chosen to accompany Amherst to Louisbourg with the temporary rank of Brigadier-General; and there he soon made a name for himself by grasping promptly two or three opportunities, which led to his section of the army hiking some distance from the rest in a strategic position, and his unit becoming practically an independent command. On the fall of the fortress, there, were rejoiced rejoicings: "Halifax celebrated by drinking 60,000 gallons of rum; Boston, had a ?ight fracker." Parliament thanked Amherst; but Wolfe was the popular hero of the siege; the common belief was that he had won the victory, and this led Pitt to select him for the Quebec venture, with the temporary rank of Major-General.

NOVEL VIEWS ON MOTHER LOVE

"GREEN WILLOW." By Ethel Mannin; Doubleday, Doran & Gilhby; 368 pages; $2.

Those who know Miss Mannin only through "Sounding Brass" may be surprised to discover that she has chosen the theme of motherlove in "Green Willow" is, moreover, as dainty and charming a novel can be without becoming ?enti?Dital. The sweetness and simple purity of Margaret Harran are refreshing as is the cool moonlight in the old willow tree that stood by the corner of her house, protective yet responsive to every breeze, is an apt symbol of the brooding, watchful but unobstructive care she bestowed on her family.

Like the tree, she was a natural thing—placid, even-tempered, asking few questions. A creature of perfect breeding, she was still elemental. Beautiful, glad of the protection of a successful husband, and grew besides the tree and put out her own leaves. Two children were born—a boy and a girl. Both loved her and from infancy were conscious of the perfection of her. To that admiration they were slaves.

For the sum of the whole matter is that Miss Mannin has written a seductive, novel about a woman, who, behind its gossamer qualities is the essential thought that too good a mother is the ruination of her children. Nowhere this is so subtly suggested, and by such delicate innuendoes, that the presence of heresy so foul may even escape the unreflective reader. Michael goes all his childhood lonely; he and his sister marries a bar-maid, when the cravings of the old Adam must be satisfied. With her conscience though she be no companion with his angel of a mother. And when he comes to grips against his partner comes, life is left utterly empty. Lynette, the daughter, reacts differently, but there is no her adjustment to the world is equally unhappy.

What Miss Mannin is doing is dramatizing the psycho-analyst's theory of "fixation". "It is as though she had given birth only to their bodies whilst their spirits were still in travail, struggling to be born of her, who did not want them born."

Unpretious as it seems to object to anything so low-voiced and pleasant as "Green Willow," its harmony is marred for me by the "message" which it is not true. Miss Manhin has failed to create in Margaret the type of woman who would have her children for their children. At least I think so. She had a normal affection for her offspring, and took the facts of life too much for granted to try wilfully to alter the course of nature.

Or, if Miss Mannin is right, we are in a pretty pickle. Motherhood can hardly be a virtue, though it may be a being a bad mother is a bad thing; and if being a good mother is a bad thing; then the race seems to have come a long way over an insuperable obstacle. "Green Willow" is a delightfully entertaining book. But I must continue to believe she errs fundamentally in the power influence Margaret would have on her children

A MASTERPIECE OF HORRORS

"THE SHADOWY THING," by H. B. Drake; Lewis & Gordon; 320 pages; $2.

The author of that clever tale of adventure, "Cursed be the Treasure," which gives us a wonderful story that really keeps the reader gasping. There are "creeps" on every page, and no room to cover. I cannot recall in fiction a more sinister and malignant figure than Avery Brooks, the psychiatrist, in this powerful and well-told story. One follows this frail of insanity, death and destruction, right to the grim, ghastly climax, which is the crowning tragedy of a masterpiece of horror. Mr. Drake has succeeded in creating a book that holds the reader, even against his bet, for long hours, in a sort of trance. If you commence this tale, you will finish it.

"The Shadowy Thing" will assuredly take its place in literature, with Bram Stoker's famous "Dracula," as an outstanding achievement in the cult of the gruesome and unnatural. It would be unfair to give the game away. The book must be read to be appreciated and by lovers of this form of fiction it is well worth reading.

INTERLOCKING LIVES

"THE STRANGE CASE OF MISS ANNIE SPRAGG." By Louis Bromfield and Mrs. Bromfield; Frederick A. Stokes.

Mr. Bromfield has a wonderful facility for seeing into people and then recording the essence of their lives in a few telling words. His art resembles that of the miniature painter: at least in final effect; his hand is as deft in describing his characters as that of a welder of fine brushes. When, as in the case of this "Annie Spragg" book, he undertakes to anything like on a large canvas, his grasp, coupled with the perfection of detail, approaches the masterly. Mastery in its fullest sense he does not attain, since that implies a profundity and a broad inner unity that is not apparent in his novels.

"Annie Spragg," is a good book; the fitting together of all these individuals into any sort of plausible formation never enough, to do it as smoothly as this very clever. Mr. Bromfield seems to know just how clever he has been, and he captivates the reader in the "face of what appears to be real. What he has done is to unite in one story-pattern a large number of divergent but interlocking livit. The reader will come very near combining the advantages of the novel and the short story. Wiffe it is a book of superlatives, the performance suggests forcibly the inter-dependence of lies. Narrowly speaking, Annie's own story was too short and too bare for a novel. But Annie was a vital part of the lives of others, and they of hers, and by the time all threads are traced to their ends the one story, life is seen to have been full-bodied enough. It is characteristic of the authors, virtuosity that he begins with Miss Spragg's death.

Lynia, her father, had been a religious eccentric in the middle west, a pioneer days, and thrown out by the Mormons for immorality. His son, Irish, equally fanatical but fairer, sets out to right the wrongs his father did. Lynette's sister, Mrs. Hamilton of Falls, Iowa, from whence the frustrated Ty Annie goes to Italy to spend her last fifteen years. She plays a vital but largely unconscious part in the pathetic and idyllic wooing of Miss Fredrick, an American old maid, by Mr. Winnery, an English old bachelor. Here too, she touches the chaste but ruinous devotion of the Princess d'Orbeill to Father d'Atelier. Characters how they multiply! and each in turn a centre of absorbing interest. What a little gem of portraiture is "Stay me with Flagons," on the drunken Irish washerwoman and his love for her subnormal son! Winnery's Aunt Bessie, too, is unforgettable. And Mrs. Weatherby, one of the most important has not been named.

But why try? They are too many of enumeration. The book offers ever new faces and new scenes, abounds in lively variety and is never artificial. Mr. Bromfield's efforts to get certain effects out of use of the supernatural are hampered by his superficial knowledge of the subject: but in a book of such sustained interest that can easily be overlooked. Psychologically, his studies are penetrating, and his characterizations frequently brilliant. The book's novelty should make it an immediate favorite. Its merit is (relatively) enduring one.

TRACTOR PLANT MOVED TO CORK

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—The Ford Motor Company plans to move its Fordson tractor plant to Cork, Ireland, it was learned today. The machinery now is being moved from the present Fordson plant near Detroit and shipped to the Company's plant at Cork to be reassembled and put into operation by January 1, it was announced.

The manufacture of tractors at Fordson was discontinued about a year ago and the reason given for the change was that the European demands for tractors has so materially increased that the Cork plant was unable to fill them.

BATTERY WORK NOW PREVENTIVE

Tarlington's Doughnuts
ALWAYS FRESH
Phone 264.

The slogan among the motor battery dealers these days is "Preventive Service," according to Mr. Russ. Smith, local Exide Battery agent.

"For some time now," says Mr. Smith "we have been trying to educate car owners to look upon regular battery inspection as a preventive of future battery trouble rather than coming to us only when trouble pops up.

"Too often the motorist looks upon the battery man as one having but a single thought in mind—to sell him a new battery whenever he comes in. The impression is gained because most motorists never call on the battery man until it is actually the case that either drastic repairs or a new battery is necessary.

"Realizing the mistaken feeling in the minds of car owners in general the Willard Battery men of the country drafted a preventive service plan which they call Pre-Form Inspection. It includes the five important features in inspection which is offered the motorist by every Willard battery station; one, testing each cell; two, replacing evaporated water; three, cleaning terminals and four, shining top of battery; five, tightening hold-downs and grounds connections.

DODGE MOTORS POWER ADDS 78 TIMES NIAGARA

Waste Metal Salvage Reduces New Car Cost.

An avalanche of motive horsepower 78 times greater than power generated at Niagara Falls has been turned out by Dodge Brothers Corporation since the first car rolled off assembly line November 14, 1914, according to figures compiled by engineers of the company. In nearly 14 years of the company's automotive building, approximately 2,140,000 cars have been turned out. The total rated horsepower of Niagara Falls power plants is estimated at 1,862,000 due to yearly limitations to represent a total potential horsepower while all cars built by Dodge Brothers during of approximately 20,000,000.

Engineers estimate that if all Dodge cars could be harnessed in a single unit, it would be possible for them to do as much work in one day as the Niagara Falls power plants can do in two and one half months.

Salvage of Waste Material Helps Lower Cost of New Cars.

Partial credit for keeping down the unit cost of automobiles in the consumer can be claimed by the salvage departments of motor car manufacturers where immense savings are effected in iron, steel, metal scrap, paper, leather, fabrics, lumber and other materials entering into the construction of a motor car.

The value of all scrap material sold outside from the Dodge Brothers plants last year amounted to $1,092,000 in reclamation work existing partly into the most remote corners of the factory. Wherever any manufacturing operation leaves borings, turnings, trimmings or other scrap, there is a problem of utilizing such scrap or selling it for the highest prices. The value of materials reclaimed or salvaged for further use in the Dodge plants is estimated at $438,000 for 1927.

Dodge and Legge, local Dodge Brothers dealers, will be glad to demonstrate these cars to you at any time, without obligation.

WILLYS KNIGHT SETS HIGH MARK IN ANTIPODES

Wins Five Out of Six Motor Events In Australia

With the Willys-Knight Standard Six setting an outstanding performance record in this country, which is reflected in the wide public demand for this famous priced light-weight six, comes word from Australia of the signal success of the same car in the annual automobile contests staged under the supervision of the Royal Automobile Association of Victoria.

The Willys-Knight Standard Six in the Australian contests made an outstanding record by winning five of the events in which it was entered and finishing second in the sixth event, also clean sweep for the Standard Six.

The contests, which were open to all stock cars of the world, included hill climbing, acceleration, speed slow running, economy and reliability. In the three various classes there were 40 competitors representing automobile manufacturers of Great Britain, Continental Europe and the United States.

Compared with records established in contests held in previous years, the performance of the Willys-Knight in the 1928 Australian events has never before been equalled by a car of any

HERE AND THERE AROUND TOWN

Indication enough that the high cost of living is rapidly coming down is to be had in the quality and quantity of meals to be had in restaurants now, for less money than was the case a few years ago. For instance, Wong's roll chicken dinner Sundays, for only fifty cents is one outstanding example. It's fact that for a really good Sunday dinner at a most reasonable price, one wouldn't need to search further than Wong's, it's next to the Intelligencer office.

Duco refinishing prices are lower than they have ever been, according to Isaac Stephenson, local authorized Duco refinisher, who reports having a busy season this year. And it's one that is to by means over yet for almost as many cars are coming into the shop right now as earlier in the season. A factory finish job, with the Duco applied identically as is done at the factory may be had right here in the city for comparatively little, and a lot of better looking cars are on the road as a result. Phone 1287 for prompt Duco service.

Firestone tires are running up new sales records almost everywhere according to the local distributor, Geo. Deline, on Front Street, next to the Queen's Hotel. When is logical enough, too, as it seems only logical that an immense organization such as this should have the experience and the resources to produce better tires than a smaller firm, and one not nearly so long established. Every Firestone tire has this backing of Firestone's reputation—and that's a lot.

Belleville boasts several shops where good welding may be had, but for really first-class work and prompt efficient service, have you ever tried Howard Bros., on Pinnacle Street? They have established a reputation for good welding work, and their quick, courteous service makes it a real pleasure to do business with this energetic, live firm.

Next time that watch or clock of your's refuses to function as a source of information, don't abuse it with a brandstick of unprintable epithets, but, just task, it around to Rowntree's store on Bridge Street, east, and the damage will be repaired in short order and at a very slight cost. It's really remarkable what an expert watchmaker is able to do with a timepiece when he knows how, and Rowntree is an expert, trained in England—than which there is none better.

There are monuments and monuments, but those sold at Moore Bros. on Front Street, ranks with the best. Many people have the idea that in their heads that in order to get something a little better, or perhaps a little cheaper than they can secure in their home town, they must get it elsewhere but actual experience shows that equally as good value, in stones can be secured from a local firm such as Moore Bros, as can be had from out of town concerns. Try them next time you have occasion to purchase a monument.

The average wife these days hasn't much time to do her own baking, but it doesn't matter much any more, for in a firm such as Tarlington's the quality and the experience to turn out really homemade cooking that has all the appearance of the kind of cakes, cookies, doughnuts and all the rest of other make.

In a recent campaign in Brazil under the auspices of the Good Roads Association, eight cars were entered over the difficult 200 kilometre route from Sao Paulo to Campos de Jordao and return as a manifestation of that country's demand, for better highways. In this gruelling drive over an almost impassable road, a Willys-Knight Standard Six was awarded first prize, which reached Campos de Jordao and the only car of the eight that made the return trip to Sao Paulo.

HAMILTON AERO CLUB

Hamilton City Council passed a vote to acquire land for a municipal airport. The project provides for the development of a large acreage situated on the Barton St. Highway, and will be the headquarters of the International Airways, Limited, and the Hamilton Aero Club.

"The many and varied uses of the airplane," was stressed by Major General MacBrien in his address to the Hamilton Kiwanis Club, and when a band of citizens is formed by municipality, private enterprise, and the Government to extend assistance to a great undertaking, the result is bound to be a favourable one.

Stewart Park, the home of the Hamilton Aero Club at present, is a very fine place. Major R. Dodds, the Club's energetic president, is to be congratulated on the splendid showing of its members, six of whom are flying "solo", with 100 hours of dual flying during the month of July, under Major Dodd's instruction ably assisted by Bob Whyte, "during rush hours." The new sign on the aerodrome is a mark of identification for passers-by, and attracts many visitors to the field. The Club boasts of several girl members though to date none of them are actively engaged in flying.

GREAT WESTERN AIRWAYS OF CALGARY, ALTA.

The Managing Director, Captain F. B. McCall, D.S.O., M.C., D.F.C., has recently taken delivery of two Moth landplanes which are to be used for instructional and taxi work in the Prairie Provinces.

The de Haviland Company has received a letter from the Great Western Airways, stating that the Company is exceedingly well pleased with the machines, the performances being a revelation to all officials of the Company and those interested in aviation in Calgary.

MOTHS FOR INTERNATIONAL AIRWAYS LIMITED

One of the first steps taken by Major General J. H. MacBrien, C. B., C.M.G., D.S.O., on his appointment as General Manager of International Airways Limited, in the reorganization of the Elliott Air Service, which his Company absorbed, was the scrapping of old equipment and its replacement by modern aircraft.

For the Flying Schools which the Company intends to operate at Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal, Major General MacBrien placed an order for six de Havilland Moths with Cirrus engines, and equipped with Handley-Page automatic slots.

A number of these machines have already been delivered and have been put into service at Montreal under Capt. R. Keene, the Company's Chief Instructor, and at Hamilton under the charge of Capt. L. J. Tripp.

Some of the machines are being equipped with float undercarriages. The Company will thus be able to give instruction both on landplanes and seaplanes.

CHANNEL AIR TAXI LINE

Should the success of the new aerial taxi service connecting France and England by making the flight from Calais to Dover in 15 minutes, continue, larger planes will be added, according to the French company that is inaugurating the service. The planes now operate in conjunction with the boat trains from Paris and London, and eliminate the unpleasantness of a channel crossing. As the hop is of such short duration there is hardly time for the most susceptible passenger to become either airsick or seasick. Seaplanes are to be used exclusively so that they may land on the water in case of trouble. The first planes carry two or three passengers each.

WHY NOT IN BELLEVILLE?

Clifford S. Wallace, aviation editor of the Toronto Star, wired Mayor Craig, of Kingston, as follows today:—

"Capt. Earl Hand, D.F.C., president of the Toronto Flying Club, and I would like the privilege of calling on you early next week to discuss the aviation situation in your municipality. Considerable business is being lost in Ontario because visiting airmen, doubt that fields near our cities are suitable for safe landing. We solicit your co-operation suggesting a field near your municipality which we can mark on the map for the benefit of visiting airmen. No expense is involved. It is only necessary that we can broadcast to airmen that they can visit your municipality with safety when they wish. Would suggest that you consult with local pilot in choosing field and would appreciate same if you could have clerk and the municipality mail us map of city, showing the location of the field so that we can land on it next week, and publish its location. Would also appreciate if you could meet us on the field when we call as we will be on tour of the province. We will wire exact time of our arrival next week.

Advertising City.

"Your action in selecting a field will result in splendid advertising for your city and will also be a fine contribution to the safety of aviation. Please understand that there is no expense involved to the municipality. The field you select will go on the map and can be any farmer's or other field providing it is safe and accessive to the heart of the city and easy to find from the air. Would respectfully request that you wire me today if map is coming and if you will be able to meet us on the field when we land."

Major Craig informed the Whig-Standard that along with Col. K. C. Schmidlin, president of the local Flying Club, he would meet the visiting airmen on their arrival in Kingston, and that the matter of securing a suitable aviation field will be taken up by the Finance Committee and the City Solicitor.

MAROONED MEN FISH WITH FEET

All They Had To Do Was To Kick Fish And Catch Them

Washington, D.C. (CP)—Members of a four-man unit of the National Geographic Society's expedition to the Pavlof volcano region near the tip of the Alaska peninsula "fished with their feet" and provided food for themselves for several days after they were marooned without supplies.

R. H. Stewart, staff photographer of the society, handed the sub-party, which included a topographer and two natives. The men were dispatched to get transit sights of the volcano from an isolated island. A storm arose after they reached the spot and they were marooned for a week. In three days, they were without food.

"The only food available was in the waters, surrounding the island. How to get it without hooks or nets was the question. That was solved when the men went into a nearby lagoon and kicked fish out on the banks."

Salmon were so numerous in the inlet that it was only necessary to wade in and a few well-directed kicks sent a meal flying out. The fish were caught by hand before they could flop back into the water.

First photographs taken by the expedition and tales of hardships encountered in the strangely beautiful and heretofore virtually unknown territory have been received by the society.

The expedition, sent out to study and photograph volcanic and other natural phenomena, was led by Prof. T. A. Jaggar, eminent volcanologist.

Another distictive American wonderland may have been found, Dr. Jaggar has telephoned, through Pavlof Bay, at the tapering end of the Alaska peninsula. The party sailed 75 miles to the head of Pavlof Bay, an almost landlocked body of water, hitherto unexplored, which Dr. Jaggar describes as a veritable "baby Mediterranean." North of that bay to the Bering Sea and west of Port Moller, the explorers entered an area wouth disclosed hundreds of lakes scattered among treeless valleys and low ridges of great geologic interest.

The expedition mapped 2,500 square miles of United States domain which had never been surveyed, recorded scores of physical features, hitherto unnoted, and corrected many details placed on older maps from tradition and hearsay.

Pailing into a glacial crevasse, and photographing a large wounded bear at close range as it showed fight were, other of the unusual experiences that enlivened the daily business of "shooting" Alaskan scenes.

STUDENTS BOUND TO KEEP PEACE

Kingston, Oct. 19.— An evidence that the Student Government of Queen's University intends to take strong measures to stamp out rowdyism and lawlessness among the new students, who have not yet realized that they are expected to act as gentlemen at all times, was given on Wednesday afternoon when the court of the Science Faculty, through Chief Justice F. Roy, imposed a fine of $100 on Science 31 and Science 32, the classes which participated in the rush on the Capitol Theatre on Monday evening, assessed the total damage, $114, equally between the two classes, and further bound each class over on a bond of $50 to keep the peace for the rest of the year.

WATERTOWN MEN WERE BLINDED BY DRINKING POISON WHISKEY

Purchased Alleged Liquor From American Bootleggers

Kingston, Oct. 19.—One of the saddest and most distressing incidents ever reported in local medical circles is that having to do with the case of [illegible] 28 two Watertown, N.Y., brothers, 28 years and 21 years, respectively who [illegible] rent over here in Thursday last by a Watertown physician in the hopes that the local eye expert to whom he sent them might be able to save their sight which had been afflicted—the Watertown doctor believed only temporarily—by poison alcohol which they had drunk. Imagine then, his consternation as well as the terrible shock to the young brothers themselves when after careful examination the local expert pronounced their case hopeless and declared that they would be blind, for the rest of their lives—absolutely and totally, with no possible chance of recovery. Those who were present when this almost death sentence was pronounced in the presence of the two brothers say that the tragedy of the event left such an impression upon them that they are never likely to forget it.

Details of Previous Events

The details of the affair leading up to the tragedy are simple. The young men had planned to go on a hunting trip and, though themselves not drinking men but, indeed, almost teetotallers, took the precaution, like many other hunters and trappers to buy a bottle of Scotch whiskey to be used in the event of emergency. As it happened on their second day out and on one of the cold days of a week or [illegible] ago, they were caught in a drenching and bitterly cold rain storm, with the result that they opened the bottle of the alleged Scotch which they had purchased—of course from a bootlegger, as none other is available in the States—and each drank from it. As is unfortunately happen i the alleged Scotch was in fact not Scotch at all but poison alcohol of the same kind that has been afflicting the United States in various places ever since the Volstead Act went in force and they has often such a deadly toll of life and sight.

Realized Something Wrong.

Some time after taking the liquor the brothers—fine, upstanding, handsome boys — realized that there was something seriously wrong with them and at once broke camp and made their way home to Watertown where as soon as possible they consulted a prominent physician there. He at once diagnosed their case as one of poison alcohol and did all in his power to arrest the progress of the deadly poison. But as it proved, it was too late so far as he [illegible] was concerned. Thus it was that in a fatal heroic endeavour to save the sight of these unfortunate brothers, he [illegible] planned to Kingston to arrange that [illegible] at this time is yet to be determined.

FIRST CITIZEN

Canvassers In Campaign Enter Last Days With Renewed Effort

Seven hundred and seventy-x dol lars was the total the workers have in to the Y.M.C.A. over the week-end in the Financial Campaign which is entering its last stages. Two hundred more came from the Speci Gifts Committee. The total amount w th three days left to make up a litle over six thousand dollars, the work ers feel sure that they will reach their objective.

Harold Holton was the "Leading Citi zen" today, his team bringing in a total of $110.00 while four more workers were given the Royal Order of Spinnerinkum. The order now in cludes the following men, men all having chlected one hundred dollars or more each). H. W. Ackerman, F. S. Deacon, C. A. Dafoe, Rev. Mac lolt, C. Hanna, B. P. Jennings, C. L. Hyde, P. C. MacLaurin, C. P. Cole, K. L. Brown, A. E. Smith, L. Thompkinson, H. Holton, J. B. Findlay, H. C. Donnan and Ralph Morden.

"That indefinite, indefinable and well-nigh indescribable something which, persistent, saturates, and pene trates the true sportsman. It is enthusiasm and optimism personified and is the backbone of enterprise, a basis of endeavour and the spoke to guarantee of success. It is that rich, red-blood ed enthusiasm that sets men on fire for their chosen work, kindling in the flame of zeal in the heart and mind. It is hope, grit, optimism, enthusiasm and endeavour combined into self-confidence. It is vim, intense energy and the will to win."

It is almost assured that the campaign will go over the top, as Mr. Jordan has the situation well mapped out. If the same enthusiasm is main tained in the last three days as there was shown in the first, the fourteen thousand five hundred will be collected.

A. H. KETCHESON NEW CHAMPION

Defeated Jack Cummings For Denman Cup In Golf Finals

Mr. A. H. Ketcheson is the undisputed men's champion of the Belleville golf club for 1928, having defeated Mr. Jack Cummings, the runner-up in a close game. The winner will receive the Denman Cup, donated by the company of which he is local manager.

There was close competition for the cup this year and Mr. Ketcheson, Mr. Whalen, Mr. Cummings and Mr. McConnell were also in the running until last week. The two-ball foursome, another event at the Belleville Club, has not been decided as yet, but will be finished in the near future.

ONE CAPTURED

Motor Boat Laden With Ale Seized In Niagara River

Buffalo, Oct. 22.—The blockage against rum runners maintained for the last week on the Niagara River settled one capture over the week-end. The Customs patrol boat seized the motorboat loaded with ale and whiskey and arrested the crew of two men, who described themselves as Harry and Robert Stirling. The blockage was strengthened by the addition of two boats and customs and immigration border patrolmen were stationed at strategic points to augment the coast guard forces.

WAIT FOR CITY COUNCIL'S REPLY

McColl Bros.' Front Street Gasoline Station Is Nearing Completion

The new McColl Brothers' gasoline station situated at the corner of Bridge and Front streets will not be completed until the matter of cutting a driveway through the sidewalk on Front street has been definitely decided on. Mr. Wallbridge, the contractor stated to the Intelligencer today.

"We have started breaking the wall on the Bridge street side" he said this morning "but will not cement it in place until we receive word from the City Council as to whether or not the right-of-way on Front street has been definitely decided."

The pumps in the station have been placed in position; the building is practically completed and all that remains to be finished now is the leveling down of the ground around the station and cutting a driveway through the two sidewalks. The building itself is substantially beautiful and is far better looking than the building which graced the corner before.

CHEESE BANQUET HELD NEXT WEEK

John Elliott Planning Monster Dinner In Quinte Hotel

On Thursday November 1st, Mr. John Elliott will hold his annual banquet in the Hotel Quinte and prominent cheese makers, cheese exporters sellers in fact all connected prominently with the cheese industry from Montreal to Hamilton have been invited.

Mr. Elliott announced to The Intelligencer today that he had invited for guest speaker Dr. Christie, President of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Last year the Honorable Howard Ferguson was the speaker.

It is expected that about three hundred will be in attendance at this sumptuous banquet that number attending last year. The Cheese Banquet is the biggest affair of its kind to be held annually in Belleville.

FRAME HOTEL IS TOTALLY BURNED

Village of Finch Without Power Following The Blaze

Finch Ont., Oct. 22.—The Dominion Hotel in three storey frame building was destroyed by fire early today. All the occupants of the hotel succeeded in escaping although some had to make hurried exits in their night attire. The population of the village turned out to fight the flames, but, the alarm was given at about three a.m. A high voltage hydro wire ran near the burning building and fearing it might fall and cause injury the power was turned off. This left the village in complete darkness except for the red blaze of the hotel. There is very little equipment here with which to fight a fire of the proportion of this one, and calls were sent out to Cornwall, Winchester, Avonmouth and Chesterville for assistance. The Winchester brigade was first to arrive but the building was nearly consumed by that time and was covered by insurance. All the top floor were rescued by ladders. The building is owned by J. T. Campbell.

PLEADS SUPPORT FOR IMMIGRANTS

Rev. J. McKay, of Toronto, Intercedes On Behalf of Foreigners

"A SQUARE DEAL"

Pastor of "Church of All Nations" Is Heard By Rotarians

Rev. J. MacKay, pastor of that famous "Church of All Nations", Toronto, was guest speaker at the Rotary lunch on today and Mr. MacKay most ably pleaded the cause of the foreigner in this land of ours. Minister of a church where eight sermons in eight different languages are given every Sunday, where classes are held to help the immigrant and from which centre a great work is done, Mr. MacKay, is indeed in a position to talk on such matters.

"We have 2,000,000 people of non-British origin come to our country" he said. "There are many who think that they came here just to disturb us in our peaceful existence, to upset the country. But I find", he continued, "that the main reason that they come here is, that they want to get away from those very conditions that I have just mentioned. Come over here to get away from revolutions, some to get away from tyranny, other are persecuted and they cannot stand for the settled conditions of their own lands."

Appreciate Contributions

"Those of us who live and work with them have appreciated them and their contributions to this country. But we have to give them a square deal. We have to assimilate them, assimilate the 2,000,000. We ought to encourage these people to bring their talents to the country of their adoption, and bring them to help the country at their adoption. They have their talents, the same as us. In brief, all they want is a square deal in order that they may exercise these talents."

Mr. MacKay then told of some of his experiences with the foreigners, their wonderful talents, their honesty and their appreciativeness. "You can trust them as readily as you can our own people", he vehemently declared. "If you are honest with these people and give them a square deal they will be honest with you and respond as you have done. When we allow them to come here we should give them the fair deal that they deserve."

Mr. MacKay's no is plain but he harsh if just because one alien is dishonest. We are sure there are as many Britishers with the same failing as there are foreigners, let's give them the op portunity to succeed."

This is a brief resume of the remarks that Rotary heard today from Rev. MacKay. Each man was introduced to bring a foreigner guest, and the majority did. There were Hollanders Icelandic, Chinese, Russian, Finnish, Greek, Italian, Roumanian, in fact a very many nationalities represented to-day.

UNION MINE PICKET KILLED INSTANTLY

Scranton, Penn. Oct 22.—A man believed by the Police to be Steve Petchinski thirty, mine union picket, was shot and killed today during the disspond mine of the Glen Alden Coal Company in West Scranton where there had been a strike in progress for several weeks.

Identification of the victim however is not yet positive.

TILL OF SERVICE STATION RIFLED

Herbert Sweetman, who operates a service station a few miles west of Trenton on the Provincial Highway was victimized to the extent of twenty dollars and several gallons of gasoline last Thursday afternoon when two men who drove up in a large car rifled his till when he went after oil. He had filled their tank, and when they asked him to get a quart of oil they quickly entered the office and the money in the till and then drove away before he returned. Provincial Police are working on the case.

ASKED FOR DATA

Dr. Lessmer, Criminologist, Confers With Attorney-General Price

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, today stated that Dr. Maximilian Lessmer who is in Toronto in an effort to solve the Ambrose Small case had been in touch with him and that the Victimese doctor had been requested to place any data before him as Government that would assist in clearing up the mystery of the theatrical magnate's disappearance. Dr. Lessmer was asked by the Attorney-General to confer with Deputy Attorney-General Boyd and Acting Commissioner of Provincial Police Alfred Cuddy.

Authorities On Look-Out For Two Motors Stolen At Oshawa

At seven-thirty last night, M. J. Quinn, of R. R. No. 4, Belleville, reported to the police that his motor had been stolen by a young man who had worked for him for two weeks and who had given his name as Henry Earl. Earl was represented as being a youth of seventeen years and about five feet five inches in height. Word was flashed all along the line to be on the watch for him and he was arrested early this morning at Prescott by Provincial Constable McLeod.

The car had been seen three miles east of Desoronto yesterday afternoon about six o'clock, and only fast work by the police led to Earl's quick capture. When arrested by Provincial Constable McLeod he gave his name as Henry Earl. He will be brought back to Belleville today to stand his trial for the offence.

Oshawa Cars Stolen

Oshawa police reported that two cars had been stolen from that city yesterday, one a Buick touring, painted blue with red disc wheels, and the other a Chevrolet sedan. Both cars were stolen about eight o'clock last night and the police authorities who kept a sharp watch on the roads leading to Toronto feel sure that the thieves came east.

Another theft occurred some time between Saturday night and this morning when a wheel was stolen from a car standing in the street at the Cooper Flour Mill. H. T. O. Hall, Oshawa, reported the theft and it is thought that arrests will be made in the near future, as local people are thought to be the ones who stole it.

DAMAGE IN AUTO CRASH SETTLED

Miss Jennie Dillworth Mistook Accelerator For Brake

Two slight accidents occurred Saturday afternoon, one in a rather peculiar manner. Miss Jennie Dillworth, of Myersburg, Ontario, backed her car from its parking space but failed to apply the brake when necessary. Instead, her foot slipped off the brake, she stepped on the accelerator and the car sped swiftly backwards across the road and into it crashed the car owned and driven by Fred Horton, of 7 Bleecker Street, who was proceeding north on Front Street. Considerable damage was done to both cars, but an amicable settlement was made between the two parties.

The other accident happened when Dr. A. C. Collins of Toronto tried to park his car in front of Loblaw's Store on Front Street. A boy's bicycle was standing against the curb and Dr. Collins ran into it, breaking the rear wheel. He paid for the damage he had done, however, and the boy departed happily to get his wheel fixed.

TWO KILLED, SIX HURT IN SLIDE

Tons of Clay Crash Upon Heads of Canal Workmen

WERE TRAPPED

Usual Series of Week-End Motor Accidents In Province

St. Catharines, Oct. 22.—Two men were killed and six injured Saturday afternoon when a portion of the east bank of section four of the Welland Ship Canal in the vicinity of the Ontario Power Co. plant gave way and suddenly slid down onto the canal floor, burying a gang of ten "muckers" under it.

Victims of Crash

The dead are:

Joseph Denorlin, aged 28, Battle St., Thorold.

Mike Korra aged 16 William street, Thorold.

The injured, confined to St. Catharines General and Homer Hospitals, are: Rocco Girlinco, Thorold, fractured right ankle; Paul Brzezonicki Thorold contusions throughout body; Mike Hadick, Merritton, back injuries and bruises.

All the injured are expected to recover. Two are in hospital as being fairly comfortable but still suffering from shock.

Trapped at Bottom

The ten men were in the act of laying track for a crane when the slide caught them. Denorlin was killed instantly. He did not have a chance to get to the centre of the canal floor. He was working right next the bank and was terribly mutilated.

Korra met death trying to save himself. He saw the bank move and people standing behind it. Seeing a clay hit the car, turned it over like a toy and trapped the man underneath.

Fatally Injured.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Thrown from his motorcycle as he swerved to avoid a car and crashed into the curb, R. Pearson 18, was fatally injured here early today dying less than an hour after his admittance to the hospital.

Orangeville, Oct. 22.—Edwin Hamilton, 25, is dead in the hospital here as a result of an automobile accident Saturday night in which his brother, Norman, aged 22 was instantly killed. Both men were struck by a motor car while walking on the road. The driver is said to have "pulled out" from another car and left the brothers who were walking on the left side of the road.

TORONTO MAN'S BODY LOCATED IN LAKE

Peterboro, Oct. 22.—Lester Watson of Runnymede road, Toronto, was found drowned yesterday in Rice Lake.

Together with W. J. Turner of Toronto, Watson was likened on a hunting to spend a few days duck shooting on Rice Lake. The two men had secured a canoe and after spending the night there, had risen early. Watson had decided to go and look after his dog short time, and taking the rowboat left Turner preparing breakfast.

STRANGE LIGHTS MAY HAVE BEEN AURORA

Belfast Northern Ireland, Oct. 22 — A strange light that passengers on the Liner Montclare saw when 150 miles off the south coast of Ireland on Thursday night, is believed here to have been the Aurora Borealis.

The Aurora was seen in Northern Ireland that night and it was a display really visible in these latitudes.

CONDUCT INQUIRY INTO LANDSLIDE

St. Catharines, Oct. 22.—Coroner Herod, of Thorold, will on Thursday night conduct an inquiry into a landslide on the Welland Ship Canal, on Saturday afternoon, which took two lives and injured five men.

The recent heavy rains had the cause proximity of the highway detour to the top of the bank, are believed to have contributed to the accident.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

A wish should be a savings bank.

NOT QUITE SIIMLAR

Queer things do come up in court cases at times. Only a week ago there was a case in a Quebec court where a man first served the line was suing a resident of Valleyfield for failure to carry out his contract to deliver a shipment of beer disguised as hay.

The court held that it could not take into consideration that such a contract would be breaking the laws of United States, nor would it allow that said constitution had anything to do with the case because, the United States law had not been proved in court. The fact that it was "common knowledge" did not suffice.

As laws are interpreted that finding is quite in order, we are informed.

Another case of a man in the same province is under appeal. He was convicted some time ago of having made counterfeit money, copying American currency, and now in his appeal he claims that he was doing no wrong because United States money had no standing in this country. The crown argues that he is wrong and is contesting the appeal on the ground that the man committed a crime in counterfeiting United States money in Canada.

Of course it would be too much to claim that the cases are parallel, or even nearly so, but there is a suggestion of similarity.

United States has its money and it has its prohibitive laws. The prohibitive laws of that country, not has long been ignored in a Canadian court, have no effect, although it is common knowledge that such laws do exist.

Yet the currency of that country cannot be imitated in Canada. Did the courts also consider it necessary to prove that United States had a currency and that it was being sinned against? Or did "common knowledge" hold in one case and not in the other.

HUNTING ABUSES

Shotgun toters whose delight it is at this time of the year to blast the everlasting daylights out of things that fly will find food for thought in the information that comes from Queen's park that there will be no open dates for pheasant shooting this year. It is further stated that the question of dual shooting is also being considered by the department. Danger of extermination of pheasants is said to have been the major consideration that prompted the departmental ban, but there is a belief that many sports privilege by those who "go a-hunting" helped the authorities arrive at their decision. Complaints were made by landowners of Lincoln and Welland that on "open dates" on pheasant shooting, their properties were damaged and that when the pheasants refused to co-operate there were some hunters who were not averse to taking pot-shots at farm live stock. It is an old story, this one of abuse of privilege. The offenders no doubt are in the minority, but the majority will have to pay for the sins of the few. Locally, the duck-hunting season has not been without its unpleasant features. A week ago, the propeller of an airplane was splintered by a charge of buckshot. The activity of airplanes in the vicinity of duck marshes also has interfered with the sport, it is said, the wild game being frightened away by the noise of the flying machines. He that as it may, the duck hunter, who, in exasperation, drew a bead on the airplane and let it have both barrels, demonstrated that he was not a fit person to be in possession of either a gun or a hunting permit. And hard on the heels of that episode came a report that the engineer of a passenger locomotive had taken a shot, from the cab front a lumberman's gun entered the window of the cab. How many more incidents of a kind occur during a season throughout the province it would be interesting to know.

EMPIRE GAMES

The Sporting Life, published in London says that the proposal made by several Canadians at the recent Olympic Games that British Empire Games should be inaugurated has been received with cordial approval in British and Ireland and most of the overseas dominions. It indicates that the first series of Inter-Empire games may be held at Hamilton, Ontario, in two years' time.

This is good news, and everything should be done in this country to help these games along. There is nothing that binds people together more than a mutual interest in the same sports. There are certain games like cricket and association and rugby football which are peculiarly British, and inter-Empire tests of skill in them would have a very beneficial effect upon our relationships with each other.

It is being pointed out, however, that those engaged in launching these Inter-Empire games should be very careful not to create a false impression in other countries. It would be easy for the impression to get abroad that British interest in the international Olympic Games was weakening and that the Inter-Empire scene is a counter move, a sort of covert attack on the older and wider field of sport. Nothing, of course, could be further from the truth. Any sporting event that is confined to British participants would be regarded, as merely supplementary to the international event. British sportsmen would be the very last to wish to do anything that would injure the growth of the sporting spirit through out the world.

SIR FRANK DICKSEE

The death in London Dickee, president of the Royal Academy, carries one back to the eighties of the last century when the Graphic made a bid by engaging each of the leading artists of the day to draw a type of beauty. Frank Dickee's was one of the leading favorites in that exhibition of loveliness. Dickee first exhibited in the Academy in 1876, became an A.R.A. in 1881 and an R.A. in 1891. He belonged to the classical school and painted many legendary and symbolic pictures, but his work was never of a character to alienate popularity, while at the same time he shunned all that was banal or vulgar in art. He carried on a tradition, which, if it did not foster originality, at least preserved the high standards that help to make originality worthy when it emerges. It will be interesting to see who will be chosen as his successor, for it may indicate the drift of opinion in the Academy, whether more or many innovations in style and subject have largely changed the world of art as of other things.

AN EMPTY HOUSE

An empty house is a lonesome place,
Lord, keep me from it ever!
For there must be smiles each room to grace
Or I shall go there never.

The squeak of the stair is a gruesome sound,
And I jump at a curtain flapping,
An empty house is a tomb I've found
Where many a ghost comes tapping.

The chairs stand still and they state at me
Rigid, and stark and lifeless
Not for long can I stand to be
In a house that's children, wireless.

An empty house is a ghastly place,
For the silence is appalling,
And I need the smile of a happy face
And a voice which heeds my calling.

Yes she must speak when I cry
"Helps!"
And my little ones must play there,
Or out of the home we love I go.

WHO WAS GOLFER BROUGHT TO FAME?

London (By The Canadian Press)—Who was the Canadian golfer who furnished Right Hon. Arthur Meighen with the story which he replied the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith? It appears in the posthumous volumes of "Memories and Impressions," by the Earl of Oxford, which are just published. The Earl of Oxford (then Mr. Asquith) writes the substance of 1921:—

"The Canadian Prime Minister and his wife came to luncheon. Very nice people. He told us not a bad story of a Canadian golfer, who, when he came in from his round declared, "I did the first three holes in thirty-three, and after that I went to Hell."

CANAG. OIL FLOWIN OUT IN TEXAS?

Party Has Hopes of Doing This In Coming Elections

Fort Worth, Texas (CP)—The state of Texas, ever a paragon of extravagance in experiencing and operates political surprise of its life, for the first time in history the republican party actually is seriously talking about carrying Texas in a national election, and just the thought of such possibility is giving old line democrats a headache.

A republican victory would be a political eighth wonder of the world, say these democrats, and they refuse to believe that it can happen. But there are some, even many, democrats who say it can happen and they are sorry for it, and that is done, for the democratic party of the Lone Star State is dry and badly split.

To find the exact line of cleavage is the problem of the assessor of facts who would like to know whether the Smith or Hoover? For all practical purposes this is a one-party state; it rarely gives caffeine to a republican candidate for state offices and in national affairs has never given less than a very comfortable majority to the democratic candidate, and often a greater margin than that. This party has always been an almost negligible quantity, but now with the opposition divided, it offers tempting shelter to the democratic anti-Smith forces.

BRITISH MINERS ARE RETURNING

Winnipeg. — With threshing in southern Manitoba fairly well over, harvesters are now beginning to leave Winnipeg. From the men who have seen actual work in the fields, little fear that the favorable marks are heard, for men willing to work have had it, with good food and good pay to boot. This from Mr. George Arthur, of 36 Portland Road., Winton, Bournemouth, England, applied at the Canadian Pacific employment office for another job. Arthur, who in the old country has been a builders assistant working six days on the week for some time, had been sent on arrival at Winnipeg to Melita Man. He was employed first as sloober by W. S. Black who farms 480 acres. He worked there for 28 days and was paid $5.00 per day, according to the work on which he was employed. He saved $120.00, he has had plenty of it; a warm bed, and his laundry was done, altogether as he termed it, he was treated white throughout. He did his bit. Tonight Arthur is leaving for Wilkie, Sask., where he is promised about $6.00 a day.

When his ticket expires at the end of the week, Arthur will go back to England, because as an ex-service man with actual farm experience, he will be able to take advantage of the government service scheme. He will come back to Canada and take up a farm of his own. Mr. Arthur saw service with the ninth lancers for twenty years, was a sergeant major with that unit in France, but after his third wound he was attached to the military police. He says he never has to wait in his life as does the super-cise—a Canadian farmer, and cannot understand why, if physically fit, and anxious to work, more Canadian sent from the old country have complained about the treatment given them.

The Earl of Oxford has the following note relating to the passage which, on his Majesty's own initiative, was conferred upon him soon after his retiral to private life: "I spent an hour with the King this morning. Nothing could have been kinder. We chatted for a few days. He told me, apropos of my double title, Oxford and Asquith, which was been criticized, that when Lord Aberdeen, on being created a Marquis, chose the title 'Aberdeen and Temair,' Lady Aberdeen sent a photograph of herself so signed, with a Scotch terrier on her knee. The friend replied with effusive thanks, adding that it was so nice to see you with your little Temair."

LIGHT IS FOOD

I have spoken before about my wonder as a youngster that any human being should worship the sun. Even now as I grow older, my wonder grew that more folks did not worship the sun.

Because as A. G. Nichols says "The sun is the most striking and splendid single object in Nature. It is the source of light and heat it is the dispenser of health and happiness; it is the giver of its ideal. All will admit that the sun is essential to the welfare and continued existence of all living creatures, whether animals or plants."

And yet the modern use of sunlight as a healing agent, that is from a scientific standpoint, dates back only ten years.

During the Great War the discovery was made that because most of the fats were being used in high explosives that an insufficient quantity was left for the people and this reduced human resistance to a higher degree of disease. Rickets—softening of the bones— and tuberculosis, were very prevalent in the countries engaged in fighting.

When the war ended, fat in the form of cod liver oil, was given to the children of Vienna and other cities, and then a strange thing was noticed.

That is, that while this supply of fats or cod liver oil was essential in the winter months, that it became less necessary as the warm weather approached.

In other words, sunlight was equal to cod liver oil from the health standpoint, or in other words, light is food.

Then Dr. Huldchinsky of Berlin, made the remarkable discovery that if instead of giving cod liver oil to a child affected with rickets, he gave it a bath in the light from a quartz mercury vapor lamp, recovery took place.

Again in other words, the light from the lamp was equal to cod liver oil for building up the tissues.

There is just one word of caution needed at this time. This quartz light treatment is to its infancy. You are constantly practically the same powerful rays as the sun itself.

Now just as the sun can do much harm if common sense is not used, even more can these rays from these lamps do damage, because the protection itself is only learning something of their good and harmful properties.

Rev. T. P. Parry of Ganonoque Preached At Yesterday's Services

Holloway Street United Church yesterday celebrated their Fifty-Second Anniversary by special services both in the morning and the evening, at which the Rev. T. P. Parry, of Gananoque, delivered the sermons. Just fifty-two years ago, in 1876, the corner-stone of this thriving church was laid in the presence of the church, and yesterday their descendants and some of the very citizens who were at the laying of the corner-stone were in the church to hear the Anniversary Services and to listen to the messages by Rev. Parry.

Specially selected music by the Holloway Church Choir was much appreciated, and a solo by Arthur Burke, bass soloist, was also good. Mr. Parry's text was taken from the Fifth Chapter of Romans, the Eighth Verse, on God's Redeeming Love, and His Redeeming evidence of the manner in which God proves his love for his children.

Likening the progress in the study of His love with the progress made in the research to find the cause of electricity and all about this marvel of the earth, the minister showed that although we have been taught to be-rise with regards to the redeeming love of God, "which is passeth all understanding," even as some of the research work which is being done in the realms of science.

Jesus Christ died on the cross, all because of His Redeeming Love, and the question is, "Are we worthy of this redemption?" If all do not realize that they were saved, it is because they refuse to see us, which showed the wonderful quality of His love. Mr. Parry emphasized the matter how much your friends admired you and thought of you, very few, if any, would be willing to give up life to save yours. Jesus Christ, however, after his battle in the Garden of Gethsemane went to the Cross without flinching, the quality of His Redeeming Love being above all earthly knowledge.

Applying this redeeming love in a practical manner, the minister told the congregation that the way to make the most of their opportunities to do good, is not only to pray for it, but to have a ministry of their own through inspiring and uplifting those whom they daily come into contact with. "We should love Him for His first, loved us and by the everlasting remarks of Mr. Parry."

TWEED RAILWAY OFFICIAL MOVED

L. Davey Is Honoured With Presentation By Fellow Employees

The fellow workers of Mr. L. Davey on the staff of the Canadian National Railways at Tweed, last week presented him with a beautiful fountain pen and pencil set in recognition of his services rendered. The presentation to Mr. Davey has been transferred to Rydeham, and the staffs of both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways united in wishing him God speed. The following address and presentation which were made by Mr. W. A. Donnelly, agent of the C. P. R. and Mr. W. J. Austin acting agent of the C.N.R., respectively.

Dear Friend Davey:—

Your fellow workers on the local staff of the Canadian National Railways and your friends on the local staff of the Canadian Pacific Railway view with deep regret your departure from Tweed to take up your new duties at Rydeham. For the past nine or ten years you have carried on the duties of your office in a manner which has won for you the loyal support of the members of your own staff; the respect of members of the local staff of a rival railway company, and a well deserved promotion by your headoffice.

As a resident of this district your genial manner and, whole-hearted support of every worth while project has gained for you a host of friends who feel deeply the loss resulting from your removal from Tweed. No community can afford to lose a good citizen such as you have proven yourself to be. Your railroad friends of Tweed, who have come into probably closer contact with you than others, have met for the purpose of expressing their regret and wish you a successful future wherever you may be. They also wish we accompany by this small gift which will convey to you in a real way, their respect and good will.

Signed

A. Berry, M. J. McQuaid, Guy Thompson, W. A. Donnelly, W. J. Austin, Hark Cousintyman, F. C. Hayden, J. C. Hayes, J. Martin, A. M. McConnachie, E. Bath, W. S. Fisher, Geo. Ralonde, C. R. Porritt.

POLICE COURT

John Donovan appeared for sentence this morning after having been found guilty of being intoxicated in charge of a car a week ago but was not sentenced today as he asked Magistrate to give him another week to get his business affairs arranged.

Nellie Wannanaker was charged with being a vagrant, having been arrested last night in a hallway on Front Street and was remanded for one week.

Mrs. L. Hudgins asked that the charge she had laid against her husband, of assault, be withdrawn and with the consent of Crown Attorney Donnan this was granted. Magistrate Mikel, however, gave the man warning that if he ever came before this court again, he would give him the full penalty, which includes logging. If he should kill his wife in any way and the police heard of it he would deal very drastically with him. The case was thereupon dismissed.

GIVE PROBLEMS YOUR INDIVIDUAL THOUGHT

By DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

The individual should think for himself—clearly, logically, unimpassioned, deep—then he should stick to it!

The statement as it stands is an exaggerated one and I have overstated it on purpose.

Nowadays what we need is not so much a willingness to co-operate with the other fellow in thought and deed as it is independence of thinking.

The tendency to follow some one else's lead is partly a convenience mechanism and partly inherent crowd-mindedness.

It's much simpler and easier to agree with the ideas of a forceful writer or speaker than to trouble to think out some policy or problem yourself. The tendency to vote the same party ticket year after year because you have always voted that way, irrespective of platforms or candidates, is stronger than it is to take an active interest in what is said about issues dissecting analyzing, comparing and digesting them yourself.

It is also so much simpler to agree with a friend in an argument than to continue to argue to a show-down.

Crowd-mindedness, likewise, is a powerful motivation in making us agree and in making us want to appreciate the other fellow's view point. We still like to live together in villages and cities because aside from business and conveniences, we feel the safety of numbers. We also feel the security of mutual agreement.

Nevertheless, we must observe our lazy streaks and instinctive re-actions and must realize that agreeing too much and too often may readily lead to a wishy-washy state of mind and character.

Stubbornness mere resistance for the fun of it or because we lack generosity of spirit is not the remedy.

We must be intellectually honest with ourselves as well as intellectually capable.

Both can be acquired if we happen to be short on them.

Both promote mental poise and vigor.

Both are excellent antidotes for the poison of intellectual laziness.

Children should be taught early how to think things out for themselves and how to think true and straight and to be open minded.

Therefore it is generally wise to explain to a child why you want him to follow your way of thinking rather than letting him follow his own.

Nowadays independent thinkers are becoming rare.

We must not disagree simply to be different. Nor should we be obsessed with the notion of relying upon one's own judgment always.

But we can and should think important matters over alone and should weigh and consider carefully what we have read and heard before we make a decision.

This is one of the best ways, if not the only way to build a strong, dynamic and impressive character.

Begin as soon as you can and keep on learning how to depend upon yourself.

It may make you feel uneasy at times but that is better than being led around by the nose.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl just sixteen years of age. I have a boy friend that I have been going with one and one-half years. He came to see me often and my people do not object. Lately he has been trying to persuade me to marry him. I want to finish and finish High School, but I feel that if I don't marry him I may be sorry. What shall I do? I believe I love him as much as I could love anyone.

SARA.

SARA: The best thing for you to do, my dear, is to stay in school until you finish. You are too young to think of shouldering the responsibilities of married life, and your ideas and ideals will change greatly within the next few years. Have your friends and good times, but don't let thoughts of love and marriage out of your prety little head until later.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I heartily disapprove of petting and necking and I am a very affectionate person and love to kiss and be kissed. If I am ever out with a person especially, if I am fond of him, I kiss him, and yet I despise the words necking and petting.

Now, the question is, what shall I do? I hate necking but I love to be kissed. Please help me out.

I wear glasses. Do you think this is hindrance to me in any way that you think it will make any of the boys dislike me or fail to ask me for a date because I wear glasses?

CUTIE.

CUTIE: I'm sure I don't know what to tell you, Cutie, for from the tone

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

Occasionally, even in this day after we have worn our hats snugged about our faces for years, we find some eccentric dame wearing one perched slit and high on the top of her head. To wear it thus proclaims to the world that you are not conforming, or that you expect, because you do not conform to the styles, or that you are very much of a fossil and entirely out of date. No woman wants to be lumped thus, and your friends will not enjoy taking you about with them if you are so different from the other women in the street.

Stand in front of the glass and try on your hat and observe your self. Set your hat at different angles and see how different it makes you look. Wear it high; do not pull it down; and take a look. Tilt it to one side; push it back from the forehead; angle it firmly about the ears and see how much more modern you appear.

A little hair should show beneath the hat. Loosen your locks a trifle and pull them out to let the world know that you are up to date and modern. If your hair is too thick and heavy to permit your hat to come down low to a becoming line and hold them cut some out underneath. They know how to do it so that it will not be scubby and stick out.

Perhaps the reason you wear your hat high is that you have not the right shape. Are you trying to wear one of an ancient vintage? There is scarcely any article of dress which so effects your general contour as does the hat. Its shape and the way you wear it may make you attractive and sweet-looking or hard visaged and unattractive. You cannot afford to neglect so important an item.

As we promised a few days ago we are putting some new suggestions for Halloween games, and also a few hints for the refreshments.

Future Wife's Name: Each boy writes his name on cards provided. The hostess then takes the card, tag ing that she has found a new way to tell what it should be—a combination tag. She explains that she must leave the room in order to complete the charm. She writes "Mrs." before each boy's name, puts cards in envel opes, carefully mixing name inside or outside so that they may be distributed correctly.

Mysterious Portrait: This game equires the services of one confederate. Talk is purposely turned to the extraordinary properties that some persons possess of being able to tell who has looked into a mirror. On every hand incredulity will be expressed, and one player who declares there may be some thing in it offers to leave the room so that the matter may be tested. He has already arranged with an accomplice that he shall enter the house, go to the mirror, or otherwise identify him for certain. This must be done naturally. A mirror is produced. Some one gazes into it. The "medium" is called in. He is handed the mirror and looks into it first for several seconds, then he gently wipes it with his handkerchief and looks again. This creates a mysterious atmosphere. Then he draws his hand across his forehead and says: "I see the face of Dennis—" walks toward the person in question, "this is the lady in the mirror." If this is done very solemnly, serious manner it will prove very effective. Do not repeat more than two or three times.

Hallowe'en Story: To close the evening a weird story should be told of your letter no matter what i might say would have any effect on you. To begin with, I do not approve of promiscuous kissing, for sooner or later it will lead to the wrong kind which you say you dispise. But, I will say this, there isn't a person in the world who does not rare affection. None of us are exempt from this, but some are better able to control the urge than others. There will come a time in your life when you fall deeply in love with someone and you'll be mighty sorry to have satisfied your kissing urge to the extent that you now are. For the first kiss of true love will miss by a mile the pure thrill that should come with the kiss with which you seal your love pact. Think that over sometime, Cutie, and see how you feel about it.

As to the glasses, they have nothing whatever to do with your dates. Personality is what counts.

GAY ADVENTURERS
By MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER 5.

THE PULSE OF YOUTH

So much can happen in three days. Only three days before Sheila Allen was facing Constance Kerr, heiress to the Kerr millions, across the narrow space of a tourist cabin and finding the girl the exact prototype of her self. She had been at the station in her home town, awaiting the arrival of the languid little social train and bidding her friends farewell.

She hadn't been sorrowing—far from it. She had laughed gaily, when Uncle Peter—uncle to the whole town —shook his head and said: "No good will come of it, I tell ye, Sheily. You won't meant to go traipsing off to furrin parts. What was good enough for your mother before ye ought to be good enough for ye."

In that little crowd of townspeople who had come to wish her bon voyage were girls with whom she had gone to school. Only they were no longer girls, but tired young matrons, with fretful babies on their arms. There were boys with whom she had gone to school, and who had been her devoted suitors. She might so easily have listened to one of them, if the golden song of freedom had not echoed in her heart.

Doctor Mac had driven up in his little roadster at the last minute. His full name was Malcolm Baxter, but nobody ever called him that. He was Doctor Mac to the whole town. Barely thirty, personable, skilled in his profession, people wondered why he was content to bury himself in comparative obscurity when he might have gone to a big city. Perhaps he had had something to do with his decision. He had seen her first in a store with a market-basket on her arm when he had come by chance to the town, fresh out of medical school, and had fallen in love with the slender, lithe himself. Apparently he found Poitsville the bright particular field, for within a year of coming he was taking over the practice of a doctor who was retiring. Since then Doctor Mac had been the town. To the poor he gave his services free. It was rumored that he had money of his own, but by the rule, he lived very comfortably in an old house at the edge of town, and had a housekeeper and one aging nurse. It was said by one suggested that he was wasting his youth and talents in the little town. He was content. He had only one ambition—to make his home, where he could be comfortable. Then he could settle down and be happy.

He leaped from his car and came over to Sheila, and his little reserve surrounding her melted away. It was common knowledge that Doctor Mac, whom Cousin Dora had appointed Sheila's guardian, had proposed to his ward and been summarily rejected. People couldn't quite understand Sheila for that.

"Sorry to be so late." He took her hand. Mrs. Flanagan was ill, and I had to see her. For a while, I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to get away at all.... All set for the great adventure, Sheila?"

He spoke lightly, but his fine gray eyes were steady and kind—eyes that had reassured many a sufferer—looked into Sheila's as if asking one last question.

She pretended not to understand. "All set!" she answered gaily. And added: "I wish you were coming with me, Doctor Mac."

"I wish I were.....on one condition," he responded significantly. "I'd always planned to spend my honeymoon in Venice."

"But why the 'past tense?' she queried flippantly. "You promised to go.....when you were right girl." And then she turned and greeted some newcomers.

In the train, when the last red water-tank at the edge of town, had been left far behind, Sheila sat, perfectly comfortably and gave herself over.....not to dreams of the future that she would come back and be, besides, she had been thinking of little else for years and years.....but to memories of the past. Memories how things assume a certain virtue, when we are leaving scenes forever! Scenes we know the hurts and the heartbreaks and the weariness are smooth ed out and we can look with calmness and tolerance on events that once seemed too irksome to bear!

In retrospect, Sheila could see herself, a bewildered orphan of thirteen years, compelled to make her home with her sole remaining relative. Even then, Cousin Dora, not yet bedridden, had been fretful and exacting. She seemed to feel that, having taken on responsibility of this daughter of her dead cousin, she should get her money's worth. And her constant plaint was: "If your mother had listened to me and had not married that handsome scalawag who came here to build the bridge one summer, we'd not be nearly penniless today. If we ran through your mother's money like it was water, as you Engineer, built that bit building that bridge was the only job he ever did in his life!"

Sheila had known when her cousin finally took to her bed. After that, the girl was nurse, companion, somelimes cook, for the old woman. Five years of Youth lost in bondage! There were friends, of course.....and parties.....and beaux. Eighteen and beauty are a combination not to be denied. Never, though all the hours that should have been golden was the dull echo of an old woman's complaints.

"Oh, to get away! Oh, for something different!" Sheila used to whisper to herself as she dried the dishes, night after night.

None of her friends understood. They had never heard the call of freedom. They were slaves, and content in their narrow environment, only.....if they didn't realize, didn't feel their bonds.....They would often say: "Never mind, Sheila. Dora Allen can't live forever. Then, you can get married and have a home of your own."

How often she had heard those words.....yet married and have a home of your own." They spelled the realization of the wildest, ambition of any of her friends. And the men were just as lacking in understanding. Each one of them wanted a house on a shady street, with a baby in it, and you went touring over hot, dusty er of a summer evening; a car; a monthly vacation once a year, when rounds with millions of other people of the same ilk; and a pretty wife.

Doctor Mac was the only one who understood Sheila. He was Cousin Dora's guardian and Sheila's friend. He brought her books and magazines and talked to her of the beautiful places of the world, many of which he had seen. If it hurt him that she turned so eagerly from him to the illustrations in the magazines, he gave no sign.

He had passed away, and Sheila was free.

That was why, when Cousin Dora raring to sell the old house, she was fairly stunned by Malcolm Baxter's proposal of marriage.

B—but you've never.....I never dreamed.....," she had stammered.

"That I loved you? I've cared, ever since the day I went into. Farnham's grocery and saw you in a little gingham gown, with a market-basket on your arm. Your hair wasn't bobbed then; you wore it in a long braid.... I love your hair, Sheila." His strong, lean hand..... the hand of the surgeon.....had reached toward her ruddy curls yearningly, but she shrank away from him.

"I—I don't want to marry, Doctor Mac."

"I was afraid so.....Oh, I knew I hadn't a chance. That's why I've never spoken before. But now that you've told me that you're going away, going to leave us all.....I had to try, at any rate."

It had ended like that.

And this was the Sheila, with Cousin Dora's tiny legacy in travelers' checks, tucked away in a safe place, who started in amazement at Constance Kerr's cool announcement: "I think Heaven must have sent you to me in my hour of need."

OFFICE DEVICES USED IN KITCHEN

A business woman who learned to use the supplies and conveniences of an office discovered that these same devices may be useful in the kitchen. The wire baskets are useful to hold vegetables, or for the bakers of radishes every type, pea shells and other refuse, which should be kept dry and burned, and also as a dish drainer or tray to hold the silver.

The clip is a convenience to hang up the recipe above the table while you are using it, to hold open the proper page in the recipe book. The card index is useful for recipes or for accounts. The account file or the large leaf book may be used for both these purposes. The spindle reminds one of things to do, or to order, or memoirs for the week day. Then the convenient and available shears, pins, pencils, rubber bands adhesive paper strip, so necessary in an office, are a great convenience in the kitchen. Visit an office supply shop and see how many little things they have which may add joy and comfort to your housekeeping.

"News In The Air"

By P. T. C.

Many Planes Pass Over Belleville

Two large Cabin planes flew over Belleville Saturday afternoon heading in the direction of Trenton, and flying at about five hundred feet. Local people who had not seen any of these planes at close range were certainly surprised to see the difference in size and construction as compared to the light craft which are now quite common here about. These were, from their markings, which were plainly seen, Canadian Airways planes, and were flying from Montreal to Toronto with the mail.

Flying Lower Than Usual

As is usual when windy weather such as was felt Saturday is in the air, these planes had hunted around until they found that their best flying altitude was some four or five hundred feet up. At fifteen hundred feet, a thirty mile an hour wind is blowing, which would have held them back considerably. And if they had gone any higher they would in all probability have been running in and out of clouds. The trip to Montreal from Toronto takes up the neighborhood of three hours, and with a head wind of thirty miles an hour against the plane, this time would be increased considerably.

Arthur Leverns Back in City

Arthur Leverns, Belleville's only local aviator flying his own machine, arrived back in this city last Thursday evening from Ottawa, where he had been for some two weeks. He has been "barnstorming" all through the eastern part of the province for the past month and a half, while his brother Walter has been doing the same through Western Ontario. These two boys deserve a great deal of credit for all they have done for aviation in Belleville and district, as they had the courage to buy their own plane and come back to educate people here into the safety of flying. They spent their money on repairs and landing field and putting cinders on their runways, and several times through the past summer flyers have been helped considerably by the use of the landing field which they established in the west end of the city. They were certainly the pioneers in aviation as far as Belleville is concerned.

Up To The City Now

It is high time the City as a whole and the City Fathers in particular, took some steps for the advancement of aviation in Belleville. Kingston has a live Flying Club, as well as many other cities and towns in Ontario, so why should Belleville be left behind? An expenditure of a few hundred dollars would place the Leverns Brothers field, which is owned by Col. Ponton, in good shape, and mail planes as well as private planes would be able to land there. Belleville would then have a Municipal Airport, the name would go on all the Air Maps of the country, and she would be right up in the van with the rest of the cities of Ontario when opportunity knocks at her door.

Many manufacturing firms are using the air for deliveries of rush orders of their goods, but if a plane cannot land conveniently close to the city, this will not be done. When one considers that an ordinary plane can fly from Belleville to Toronto in one hour, one begins to see where the plane will soon be a distinct benefit to all those cities who have looked far enough ahead to see the advantage of having a municipal airport.

Plane Has Fur "Dustings"

To combat the "hemlock loopers," which is reported to be destroying trees in the lake Joseph district of Muskoka, and also near Brockville, a flying machine will be used for "dusting" operations by the Ontario Forestry Air Service next year. The plane a Dehavilland 61, will be fitted with a hopper to carry half a ton of calcium arsenate. Powered with a 500 horse power Bristol "Jupiter", it has a speed of about 130 miles an hour.

The ambitions of Miss Dora Gig Mac McLean of Windsor to be the first commercial woman aviator are not likely to be realized, for Miss McLean, who has just joined the Border Cities Aero club, has not yet made her first solo flight. Miss Aileen Vollick who had the distinction of being Canada's first aviatrix, is without doubt, also going to be her first woman commercial flier.

Miss Vollick told The Herald that she has a position awaiting her in connection with a Toronto firm and only needs her commercial flier's license in order to enter upon her new career.

She hopes to obtain the license within a week's time and in order to do so will have to make a cross country flight of 180 miles, which she may undertake this week, was her permission Miss McLean has not yet secured her private license and will have to do 50 hours' flying in order to get it.

Miss Vollick said that, in any case, she feared that Miss McLean would encounter the same difficulties as she had had. It she endeavored to get a position as an air mail clerkier. Major-General J. H. MacBrien had frankly told her, said Miss Vollick, that he did not have confidence in women aviators. "We have to show what we can do with commercial flying before we have a chance of being employed by the government services," she said.

SCOTCH BELIEVE IN "BLACK ART"

Demons Still Haunt Highlands And Witches Walk Over Moors

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 13— In the northeast of cotland belief in black art still hangs on. Witches walk in moors and flit over the tops of mountains. Spirits and demons "small chained to stone pillars and rocks Fels and sorrow may be transferred from one person to another by magica means.

Until recently Hallow Fires blazed on the hilltops and Abredeenshire High Days. Down in the middle of the nineteenth century the Braemer Highlanders formed a circuit of the fields with lighted torches to ward off evil spirits and to ensure good harvests.

Such is the significance Halloween has to the Scottish Highlanders. At Balmoral where King George and Queen Mary have a chalet, the custom assumes the form of an effigy of an ugly old woman or witch called Shaggy Dann. At Kirkwall people used to loop through the flames to cleanse themselves from evil influence.

Dingwall called its witch-burning ceremonies the burning of the crain. On the last night of the year the crate, filled with combustibles and destroyed by a huge bonfire. Peat ball a piece of wire is attached, with which the celebrants swing it. A chief procession moves up and down the Main Street of the old town, the swingers make gleaming circles in the night with their blazing fireballs.

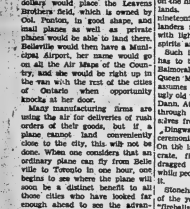

Many Scottish people today believe there is something sacred about pillars of stone. In Aberdeenshire such pillars were believed to be abodes of spirits and sometimes of demons. Some farmers place upright stones about their fields in the belief that they are propitiating the gods.

BADMINTON OFFICIALS FAILED TO APPEAR

Although there was a meeting called last night of the representatives of the St. Lawrence Badminton Association for the purpose of getting a line upon schedule drawn up, none of the officials appeared, apparently due to a misunderstanding, the secretary of the league told the Intelligencer to-day. It is hoped that the local badminton season can be started a week from today, but this has not been definitely decided as yet.

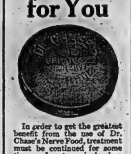

KILLED BY FALL FROM BRIDGE

SCHOOL PUPILS ARE IRREGULAR

Twenty-Two Had Tonsils Removed — Dental Work Done

There has been considerable irregularity in the attendance of the public school pupils in Belleville since the reopening in September, Miss Ross, school nurse, claims. This is true especially among the older pupils. 900 pupils were examined in the dental clinic, but had perfect in while 49 had their dental work done by the family dentist in September. "During the summer vacation and the first month of school," she stated, "twenty-two pupils had their tonsils removed and two were fitted with glasses. There were six excluded from school here for reasons of uncleanliness, six for rediculous and two for conjunctivitis. There was only one case of contagious disease, and that quickly cured. Twenty home visits were made.

PULP FORESTS LOSE BY DECAY

Pulp wood forests, like most other vegetation are subject to loss by decay. To arrest as reasonable extent as to the cause of this condition and the practicability of applying methods of control, the Botanical Division of the Experimental Farms conducted a series of studies in pulp wood timber limits in the province of Quebec. The work was carried on by Dr. A. W. Mc-Callum, Forest Pathologist, and has issued a report of his findings in bulletin No. 104 of the Dominion Dept. of Agriculture at Ottawa. The studies were confined to decays in balsam fir which it was found that three diseases of importance were discovered, one that affects the heart of the tree, and two that attack the butts. These are designated red rot, feather rot, and brown rot. The red rot, it was found, gains its entrance to thy heart wood principally by the way of branch stubs while the butt rots enter their host chiefly through the roots. It was further discovered that these rots may occur until the tree arrives at a considerable age, and it it this fact which will enable the forester to manage the stand so as to avoid loss of this nature to a large extent. Per instance, in the Lake St. John county it was found that decay in balsam fir does not become serious until the stand has reached 80 years of age.

With this knowledge the forester is in a position to fix the rotation, or approximate length of time for which the stand is to be allowed to grow with some assurance that at the time of harvesting the crop will not have been seriously affected by decay. The only in this way that decay in forest trees can be controlled for under present economic conditions expenditure of money for direct control measures would be prohibitive. The bulletin which is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, should be of interest to pulp manufacturers, students of forest pathology, and to others who are interested in the lumber industry.

MANY CHANGES IN FIFTY YEARS

In scanning newspapers printed fifty years ago and one published today many interesting changes are noted. And for those whose memory cannot wander back to the newspaper reading of forty, fifty or sixty years ago a comparison of prices, habits, styles, customs and general manner of living then and now is worth reading. Going back to the market pages of newspapers printed in 1878, we find turkey, 7c a pound; chickens 5 to 6c a pound; butter, 15c a pound; eggs, 15 to 17c a dozen; milk 3c a pint or 8c a quart "no staff of chemists to see as to cream contents." In 1878 the butcher gave away liver, treated the children to bologna, cut the bone out of the steak before he weighed it, and contributed enough scraps to feed all the household pets. The grocer with his scoop usually shook a few extra crackers into the sack, and the good old lady at the bake shop knew that a baker's dozen consisted of thirteen. At home the can opener was not known, rather the sealing wax was tapped off the can with a knife handle and there was usually enough home made stuff in the cellar to give every body three square meals a day and the kids grew husky. Mother did not faint at the unexpected news of company for the noonday meal. Among methers and daughters the word neatness meant something besides a part of a phonograph. Long skirts swept the dusty sidewalks and street crossings and long hair was still a woman's glory. Cosmetics were privately applied and vanities ashamed of. Men folks did not vote nor did they smoke, drink cocktails, play bridge, shoot golf, goes or do the charleston. The young chap hired a sprightly hag and rubber tired buggy that was a flashy speeder for two, and took his best girl out riding. If there chanced to be snow, they rode in a sleigh, and the jingle of bells timed the feet of the steed. There was no "Stop" and "Go" signs and a fellow became an expert at one-hand driving. The young sport wore a two inch choker collar starched like cast iron. The shirt of fifty did not know the feel of silk socks, and his shirt did not matter much for it was usually ornamented with a fancy double-breasted vest and an ascot, ie. The typical man of middle age wore whiskers or creeping sideburns, and had his hair cut once every two or three months down at the veterinary shop. He usually worked six-teen hours, and never heard of the word vacation. He played no golf, but when a lad may have played shinny. Before breakfast he curried the family horse, and after supper may have played seven up. He knew a good horsehair watch chain when he saw it. On Sundays he may have smoked a good 5c cigar and for the same price could have got a good can of soda. In fact he had to go somewhere to get a long way from home; a fifty-mile journey was a never-to-be-forgotten experience. He was a midsummer luxury, and an eighth of a page a whale of an advertisement for even the most merchant.

CANADA'S great fishing industry is perforce, one of the most uncertain elements in national business. To-day the nets may be empty. To-morrow the fishing vessels come into port loaded to the gunwales with the sea's mighty harvest.

Betty is reen as a scholar in a found ling home; as a girl attended by a Paris cabaret, and then as an heiress of an estate in Cornwall. The Parisian scenes are speedily well done. Cabaret "turns" are brilliantly sandwiched into the action of the story, while Betty's mad race through Paris in a taxi is a hilarious interpretation of what we all know in a very serious affair.

"The Cabaret Kid" shows Betty Balfour to be worthy of wonderful Versatility. Today at Regent.

BELLE THEATRE

A new version of the sailor's homesick, trouble-and dance-of-the men who go to sea, to the sea, is "Hallelujah I'm a Bum," produced in Hollywood by Jamie Hall and Nick Cable, sailors in Clara Kimball Young's picture, "The Fleet's In" now showing at the Belle theatre.

Jamie Hall and Cable were leading men in New York musical show before coming to Hollywood. Hall two years and Cable but recently. They can still "hoof it" like nobody's business when the mood strikes them and when the time is right.

One lunchtime, during filming of "The Fleet's In," at the Paramount studios Hall and Cable entertained all members of the company by appearing in an improvised lunch dance that burlesqued the original horn-pipe.

In the Clara Bow starring picture they are a rival act in their dance they get along so well together they were booked for one of the acts at a Paramount studio club entertainment. And they stopped the show. Don't miss it.

The President, Mr. J. T. Daley, of Port Hope conducted the various business and many important business matters were dealt with. Interesting discussions followed the reports brought in by the various secretaries of departments and ways and means of furthering the work of the society along every line considered.

Education along mission work and missionary study was brought urged as was systematic giving. The report of the Advisory Committee showed the great and valuable assistance, literary, educational and evangelistic, in both Home and Foreign fields.

Mrs. W. R. Ashton of Campbellford was appointed Assistant Secretary for the department of Temperance Education and Mrs. Lloyd Bowen, of Belleville, Assistant Treasurer.

The allocation of $100,000 for this Branch was accepted.

Two subjects calling for considerable discussion were the Autumn Thankoffering and the three year's term of office.

The following resolution was brought in and passed unanimously:

"Whereas for different sessions of our Dominion Parliament, at Ottawa a Bill has been brought before the House to establish a Divorce Court in Toronto, presumably to relieve the Senate of work, and realizing that the establishment of a local court presided over by one or more individuals, is making divorce much less difficult to obtain than is the case at present, when an Act of Parliament is necessary, we, the members of the Executive of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, W. M. S. now in session in Belleville, do hereby resolve to place ourselves on record protest against such a change; wishing as we all do to preserve the unity and the sanctity of the home."

We also call on all our members to use their influence with their local member of Parliament to secure his vote against such a Bill."

BELLEVILLE COLLEGIATE TOOK THIRD ALBERT COLLEGE GAME

Defeated Trent Road Students 6-To 5 In Good Game Saturday

WET FIELD

Collegiate Must Win Next Game To Tie With Albert

With a brilliant display of football strategy and the splendid kicking of Blakey thrown in the High School defeated Albert College by a 6-5 tally on Saturday. Although the score, 6-5, looks as though the game had been very close, this was not the case, for after half-time the local lads were immeasurably superior to the boys from Albert, outplayed them, and shocked their hopes gaily west with two fine kicks for a point each. Blakey, practically broke their hearts a short time before when Earl was nailed behind his own line to give the high school lads two points. After this Blakey's first kick evened up the score and his second gave them the final and deciding point.

In fact, if Norman hadn't pulled a bad play, Albert wouldn't have had any points at all. But don't think Norman Byrnes didn't play a good game. When it came to tackling, line-plunging, end-runs, and catching long bonts, Byrnes was right there with the goods. It is doubtful if anybody on the field played a better average game than this backfield star. But there's no getting away from it, he made a mistake behind his own line, a mistake that might have cost the Collegiate the game. Catching a punt several yards of the line, with two or three Albert men bearing down upon him at express-train speed, he evidently lost his head and tried to kick the ball back. He failed to do so, and Purdon, star quarter-back of the Albert squad, pounced on the ball for a touch. The logical play was to hold the ball and sacrifice but one point which wouldn't have mattered much as the High School already had nine points in the opening quarter.

Tightening up again, the local boys drive back fighting, and, in the third quarter sailed "Onie" Earl back of the Albert line, personally making the points.

Shortly after this, in the same quarter, Jack Cousins, the regular quarter-back of the High School squad, two points and Blakey was successful in putting both of them over the line. This same Blaker played a different game Saturday than he did a week ago. Punting throughout the whole game he was more than successful in this department and his line-plunges had far more vim and "steam" to them than in the second encounter with the College. Cousins, too, seemed to inspire the Collegiate boys to do their utmost as his services were sadly missed before.

But the credit for the win can go to no one man, because they were, all good, on both teams. For the Collegiate, Priddy made two of the most plays of the day. When he blocked two Kicks from the punky toe of "Onie" Earl he helped his team immensely, and his plunges through the line nearly always gained him ground. Williams too, is worthy of considerable mention. He hasn't done much this season previous to Saturday, but he sure made up for lost time. An incomparable pivoter, he more than once gained yards for his squad while he often broke through the opposing line to nail the man with the ball. Mike Gillen played a splendid game, while Louis Maraka's sub, gave a good exhibition of tackling and has plenty of commendation coming to him. Farley Faulkner, snap, was responsible for smashing up a goodly number of plays. In fact they were all good. The entire team were up their 'ons Saturday and they should be able to beat Albert again when they play.

It was not any walk away for the High School, though Albert College fought hard and at one point it looked as though they were going to be top-dog. Youill played a splendid game. This Youill is a big boy, about six feet tall, and when he hits this stride is hard to stop. At least he was in the first two periods. Jenkins, at end, seems to have the faculty of smashing the line with every ounce in his body and when he gets the ball he is a dangerous man to any team. His end-mate, Reid, played a steady game too. Purchase who only carried the ball two or three times gained yards every time he started, and also looked as though he were away for a touch. Earl's kicking, as usual was in A class by itself but both he and Thomp son seemed to find it difficult to hang onto the ball when catching a punt. All the boys on the College squad played a good game but they were outsmarted.

The first quarter was all the High School's. Shortly after the kick off Thompson was caught behind his own line and two points were chalked up for the local's credit.

After half time, however, with the exception of the one touch-down by Purdon the College lads seemed to have everything pretty well their own way. In the final quarter particularly, Albert was fighting with her back to her own line about fifty percent of the time. The High School quarter, Jack Cousins in this part of the encounter, showed his brains by repeatedly signalling for the ball to be kicked back into Ascott's territory. Time and time again, the ball was called and if the College boys could have got anywhere near the opposing goal they probably would have kicked to tie the score.

There were plenty of fumble in the game, a very sloppy field caused this and both sides were guilty of more than one fumble. But it was one of the best gridiron clashes seen here for some time and the next one should be just as good.

KINGSTON WINS FOOTBALL GAME

Defeats Belleville By 4 To 1 Score At Limestone City

Kingston Sons of England and Belleville met in Macdonald Park, Kingston, on Saturday last, a large crowd being present. The S. O. E. have not been beaten this season and are leading the City League. The visitors won the toss and Zip kicked off. Wilson got away in the right wing but his centre was clean off. The play was fast, both teams showing good combination.

Cross put Howard in possession and after a good dribble centered for Kennedy to beat Garrity, for the opening goal. End to end play followed both goalies having to stop shots. Hegarty drove a hard one at Howard's head but he got it out. Howe handed the ball and from the free kick Hatfield cleared. Belleville now pressed and Howard centred. Colcroft shot over from the goal kick Kingston went to the other end.

Nice passing between Guy and Orme Sons put Zip in position to score but giving Bawden no chance. From the kick off Belleville pressed. Howard tricked Harrison but Garrity saved. Mid-field play followed and half time came with the score equal 1-1. Belleville kicked off, Kennedy swung the ball over to Howard who dribbed in and struck the post. Fray kicked clear. The home team now attacked and Zip again scored to give the S.O.E. the lead. Belleville came back and from a pass from Garrity, Kennedy just missed the upright from the goal kick. Kingston were awarded a free kick for obstruction but Pickin headed away. Robinson then shot but Garrity saved and Kingston went away again, Zip scoring his 3rd goal.

Belleville were given a free kick for Garrity carrying the ball but couldn't score. Edwards and Harrison pushing up a great defence. The homesters scored again, Orme putting one in at the corner. Soon afterwards the same player was hurt when heading the ball against Hatfield, Belleville tried hard to reduce the lead and the whistle blew with the score 4 to 1 for the Sons of England.

After the game both teams were banqueted in the Sons of England Hall. Donnelly's Orchestra was present and rendered some popular and snappy selections which were heartily appreciated. Songs by both teams were encored and the evening closed with Auld Lang Syne, after Belleville members voted that Kingston and players were second to none. Mr. Fred Rawson, Belleville, presided at the piano.

The return game will be played during November. Next season may see an Inter-City League with Belleville, Deloro, Kingston and Trenton in.

S.O.E.: Kingston—Goal, Garrity; Backs, Fray, Edwards; Halves, Guy, Farrer, Harrison; Forwards, Orme, Zip, Wilson, Orme, Hegarty.

Mail Carrier Weighs 425 Lbs.; Too Heavy For Plane

Jackson, Miss.—The rural carriers' association of the sixth Mississippi district boasts the champion heavyweight mail rider in the United States.

Carrying Uncle Sam's mail on a rural route, while he makes a living at it, is one of the least things William R. [illegible] (Kingston Section) R.M.C., 5; Queen's 0.

Rankin of Columbia, Miss., does. He has to carry himself along, too, and that means 425 pounds.

If they ever install air lines for rural delivery he says he will resign. He does not believe it would be fair to Uncle Sam to have to transport so heavy a carrier.

Mr. Rankin, sometimes facetiously called "Little Willie," was born 33 years ago.

The little fellow has a wife and six children. He makes his rounds for Uncle Sam in an auto which had to be remodeled to allow him to get behind the steering wheel.

His waist measure is 5 feet 7 inches; height 6 feet; chest 58 inches; weeds No. 12 shoe and 7 3-4 hat. If he could get a store-bought collar it would be 22 size.

Mr. Rankin is a little shy in field sports, but can measure inches with all comers in aquatic manoeuvres. He has vanquished six men in a duskied contest and can dive and swim like a lively duck. He is the only heavyweight in his immediate vicinity, but had an aunt who tipped the scales at 530 pounds and another whose weight was a hundred pounds less.

WOMEN TAKING VOTE SERIOUSLY

Miss Ethel MacDonald, eldest daughter of Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at a women's luncheon conference at Southampton, England, said that, though women were trembling at their new responsibility, she felt they would do their work as citizens very well. They would not be led citizens straight away, and some would not use the vote at once, though all would probably vote in time. Education was needed, and she thought that eventually young women would be more enthusiastic than the young men, as they were more serious-minded. Some thought young women would vote for the most handsome candidate, but she has much more faith in her generation, and felt sure that they were going to live up to the task imposed upon them. Mrs. Malone, wife of C. L.W. Malone, M.P., for Northumberland, said: "They will tell you that young women are only interested in dances, pretty clothes and boys. Of course; they are—they would not be girls if they were not. It is a sign of health and vitality, but you can also

URGES ADOPTION OF STATUTE LABOR

City Council Defer Action In Question of Gas Station Drive-Way

COUNCIL ENDORSE FERGUSON'S POLICY FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS

Ald. Collins Says Gas Department Shows Increased Revenue

OILING COSTS

Will Take Action To Prohibit Erection of Sign Boards

Last night's meeting of the City Council was particularly mild in comparison with some of the warmer sessions of recent months. The City Fathers, however, did considerable work but the business which transpired was cleaned up in short order. There were no contentious issues to be discussed and the matter of allowing the Mc-Coll Brothers Carriage Company to lay a driveway leading to Front Street from the station was left in abeyance for a time at least. They were given permission to lay the driveway to Bridge Street and the Hydro Electric Power Commission will remove the pole which is an obstruction. On the whole it was an uneventful meeting.

Ald. Hubbard took issue on the letter regarding the cost to the Dundas Street residents for the laying of oil as well as the cost of the coal-tar which was applied to repair the thoroughfare in mid-August. Chas. T. Campbell, City Engineer, submitted a proposal to the Council, that the assessment for road oiling for the year 1928 be made payable without penalty on or before December 4th, and the charge on Dundas Street East and the Bay Bridge Road to be based on two oilings, as outlined in a letter of recent date. The by-law providing for the oiling of that thoroughfare provided two applications per season.

The City Engineer explained that there was a application of oil about July 1st, and by mid-August it was necessary to patch the road due to the wash through provincial traffic. The expenditure for patchings with coldpatch and gravel exceeded the cost of an oiling application by some amounts "It is my intention with the concurrence of the council to assess East Dundas Street properly and also the Bay Bridge property with the cost of two oilings otherwise the charges of cold-patching Dundas Street East will have to be borne by the whole city and this would not be fair treatment," said the City Engineer.

Ald. Rollins contended that the by-law did not provide that the property owners should be assessed for oiling patching as for oil. He did, however, admit that it provided that oil could be applied on this street twice and the owners assessed accordingly on the approximate rate of ten cents per foot but he maintained that there was nothing to cover the cost of laying the cold-tar on a similarly basis.

Ald. Donahue, Chairman of Public Works, stated that the cost of keeping Dundas Street in a good shape of repair was quite a considerable figure and said that the cold-tar was well spread over the road. "The east end was well patched the west end was the first," claimed Ald Rollins, "and I do not think the residents should be doubly assessed."

Ald Woodley: "It's always been that way."

Ald Rollins: "Is there a by-law to the effect that cold-patching comes under the category of oiling?"

"I don't know that."

Reeder Oiling Rifle With Tares

Ald. Collins was of the opinion that the bills for the oiling should be included in the rate assessment just but Ald. Woodley stated that the tax collector does not receive the extra charges in sufficient time to include them on the regular tax bills.

Ald. Collins: "Well, we should strike to have them included hereafter."

City Clerk Holmes stated that it could not be done as the oiling continues through the whole summer season. Ald. Collins, however, felt that an estimate could be made the first year and then dealt accordingly. "I dont like this tax question dragging along until nearly Christmas," he said.

Ald. Collins introduced a motion which was unanimously passed, supporting the Provincial Government plan for Old Age Pensions. It is to that such an act will not mean such a drain on the Civic Relief funds. The motion, which was framed as follows, will be forwarded to the Prime Minister:

"Having regard for the amount spent

MOTORS, COPPER LEAD ADVANCE

Mixed Price Movements Chief Feature of Today's Trading

New York, Oct. 23.—Mixed price movements in today's stock market reflected the play of the opposing speculative forces but the major activity was again on the up side with copper, steel and motor issues in the forefront of the advance. Repeated commission house warning against over-boughtness position brought heavy selling but a series of the recent speculative favorites which dropped 5 to 10 points but these were offset by gains of five to seven-teen points in the fairly large assortment of specialties. This renewal of call loans at six per cent. the lowest opening rate since Sept. 28, had a bullish effect on the entire speculative sentiment. Further gold exports from Argentina coupled with predictions of additional shipments from Great Britain in the near future also tended to allay the uneasiness over the credit outlook.

FAMOUS WELSH CHOIR COMING

Singers Will Be Heard In Bridge St. United Church

Belleville will be favored with a visit of the celebrated Welsh Choir on Thursday evening, Oct. 25th. This choir is made up of male singers, and are all picked voices, each man in fact being a soloist. They were the picturesque costume of early Welsh days, viz., soft swiftwalls, woven trousers, soft frocks, and neatly bee black ties. After the Massey Hall concert tours in the Toronto papers all agreed that it is the best Welsh choir ever heard there, their voices being beautifully soft in texture, with a tremendous dynamic on climaxes. They sing in Bridge St. Church and it will be a great opportunity to enjoy a wonderful Welsh Choir, who are now making a world tour. Their programme will be a popular one and cannot fail to please as they have some wonderful soloists-basses, baritones and tenors.

Canvassers Must Collect $5000 To Reach Objective

ELEVEN HONORED

G. F. Cole Is First Citizen—National Flag To Chas. Dolan

Entering the home stretch of the Y.M.C.A. Financial Campaign which ends tomorrow, the workers are being called upon to raise a little over five thousand dollars, to attain their objective. Subscriptions to date have amounted to $9,040.00, a total of $600 having been turned in today. If all the cards which are in the hands of the workers are covered, there should be no difficulty in reaching the objective, every cent of which is needed for the work of the Y.M.C.A. in East Belleville.

Captain G. F. Cole was again "The Leading Citizen", his team turning in a total of one hundred-and-twenty-seven dollars today, and to him for the second time since the campaign started fell the honour of pinning the thermometer. Chas. Dolan also leads in the team aggregate with a total amount of $1,554.00, a lead which he has passed from his bagels for four days.

Eleven more workers were given the band honour of being pinned into the Royal Order of Spitzerinthum, two however, being made Spitzerinkas, these two being Mrs. G. Lewis and Mrs. W. J. Jordan. The others are Thompson, Charles C. Dolan, R. Wetten, G. Chaffin, Joe Imlah, Earl Clarke Vern Wete and Jack McIntosh. To put the campaign across Mr. Jordan, the organizer, declared that it would be necessary for nearly every worker to become a member of the Order of the Spitzerinkus, which means that every canvasser must report one hundred dollars. The final luncheon will be held tomorrow at noon at the Y.M.C.A.

VAST RESOURCES IN DARK AFRICA

R. J. Graham Dealt With in Interesting Problem At Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians at their regular weekly luncheon meeting this afternoon listened to a most interesting talk on Mr. R. J. Graham on the subject of "Central Africa". Mr. Graham was a guest of the Kiwanis Club Chamber of Commerce representatives, who travelled through Southern and Eastern Africa as guests of the Government and so was in a position to give his listeners some interesting sidelights on the country, its peoples and its development.

Referring to the African copper production, the speaker predicted that within a short space of time, when better facilities were provided for production on a large scale, the price of copper would take a big drop, and shareholders in copper properties would not be so fortunate as they are today. He said around Elisabethville of the Belgian Congo, copper deposits of from seven to nine per cent copper ore and some ranging as high as fifty per cent. are to be found—and all this practically right on the surface. The Belgian Government has made a trip to some of our larger Canadian copper mines, and intimated that the latter could not be compared with those in Africa as regards size and value of mineral deposits.

Kiwanis today recommended to the Directors the payment of one hundred dollars to the Y.M.C.A. for music for the underprivileged boys and of two hundred dollars to the Y.O.N. Committee.

URGE REMOVAL RAILWAY TRACK

Ratepayers Say Pinnacle Street Property Depreciating In Value

Following the submission of a petition by the ratepayers of Pinnacle Street, that the railway tracks on that street be moved to the Eastern City limits, Alderman Collins introduced a motion last night at the regular meeting of the City Council urging that the petition receive the attention of the City fathers. The property owners say that the property is depreciating in value and with the prospect of Pinnacle Street becoming a part of the business section as the population increases, that now is the opportune time to take some action. Of course the major part of the cost in removing the tracks would necessarily have to be borne by the City. Ald. Collins moved that petition be referred to Committee, and that copies be sent to the Dominion Railway Board as well as the Executive of the Canadian National Railways, and that the Chairman of the Executive accentuate through the City Engineer the practicability of the move as well as the approximate cost. When the data has been compiled Ald. Collins thought that the Mayor call a special meeting to consider the matter which would, he thinks, be in the right of the petitioners, as the C.N.R. officials and the public in general. He urged that caution be exercised in approaching the matter but was of the opinion that the ratepayers petition deserved all due consideration.

HON. H. FERGUSON SAYS ONTARIO LEADS THE WORLD IN HIGHWAYS

Announces Gasoline Tax Will Be Raised To Five Cents

ROAD SUBSIDIES

Premier Urges All Townships To Abolish Statute Labor

Spencerville, Ont., Oct. 23.—Premier G. Howard Ferguson, addressing a banquet here last night following the official opening of the seven mile stretch of the new concrete surfacing on the Ottawa-Prescott highway announced that the gasoline tax will shortly be raised in the province from three cents to five. As a justification of this step, he pointed out that it was based on the principal adopted in the railways, putting according to a distance travelled which as he said, is the safest and most equitable method yet devised.

The Premier outlined his remarks almost entirely to a review of the provinces net work of improved roadways. Ontario had spent some $200,-000,000 on highways, he said and had the finest highways to be found anywhere in the world.

Mr. Ferguson dwelt at some length on the principle of road subsidies. The man the government most desired to help was the man who had gone out to the country side to build his home and the road best-loved accomplished, he thought through subsidies to town ships. He strongly urged all townships to agree to the abolishment of statute labor which was barred under the highways act when subsidies were considered.

Peacetul Slumberers Disturbed Betore Dawn By Noisy Milk Men

When the majority of all honest and industrious citizens were in their beds at four o'clock or thereabouts this morning, a terrible crash, many hoarse words and sundry other noises disturbed residents of Catherine Street who jumped out of their beds to determine the cause of the trouble. It appears that a milk-cart belonging to the Central Dairy and a new motor truck, the property of the Victoria dairy had become hopelessly tangled up. The motor truck had collided with the milk cart and the shaft from the cart had pierced the windshield of the car. The horse was almost beyond the driver's control and blood was flowing profusely from its head. Fully twenty minutes was taken in separating the cart from the automobile but luckily nobody was hurt. Both vehicles were able to proceed on the regular rounds.

LITTLE GAINED BY AGREEMENT

Washington, Oct. 23.—Only the benefit which President Coolidge believes the cause of the naval disarmament gained by the Anglo-American naval agreement is that both these nations allowed themselves willing to change the attitude which they had maintained at the previous conferences. There fore, he feels they may be induced to change their views still further and bring themselves in line with the American ideas as to naval limitation.

Apart from this hope, President Coolidge believed that the agreement has not added much the cause of naval disarmament. He holds that Italy and France are also antagonistic to the plans.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

No working power is wanting, if prudence be used.

—JUVENAL.

COLLEGIATE OPENING

The beginning of a new stage in collegiate development in the city of Belleville will be marked by ceremonies in keeping with the historical importance of the occasion when the Hon. O. Howard Ferguson officially opens the new Collegiate. The facilities that are afforded by the new building throw open the doors of opportunity to many young people of the 3rd Quinte District, making it possible to secure training along practical lines that should be of great benefit to them. The inauguration of such training should not be accepted tolerably and it would not be placing sufficient emphasis upon the importance of the development to dispense with a dignified and impressive official opening.

The Board of Education is quite right in planning appropriate ceremonials to open one of the finest equipped buildings of its kind in the Dominion of Canada.

TRUE SPIRIT

It is particularly gratifying to note that the Belleville Rotary Club has taken such an interest in new Canadians and in enfranchising a number of the foreign-born element is portraying the true Rotary spirit. Naturally new Canadians entering the Dominion's portals, if they are to be ideal loyal and true citizens, must be considered that hand-shaking which signifies that their presence is welcomed. Rotary has taken the initiative step in the right direction and it is assuring that those newcomers left that adopting yesterday filled with a feeling of pride that they are a part of the Dominion of Canada. The Maple Leaf and the Union Jack represent freedom in the fullest degree and if those newcomers settle here it is only fair that they should be afforded the same privileges as the natural-born Canadian. Mackay of "All-Nations Church" struck the right note in his address when he said "All that these people want in Canada is a square deal." The Rotarians have conceived the right idea and if the members learned from Rev. McKay's talk only the fundamental principles after which this great free land of ours is established.

The argument has been advanced that foreigners are responsible for much crime that is committed but it is only such gatherings as yesterday that will lift the foreigner's mind to a higher plane and make him a citizen to be proud of, building up, rather than tearing down the structure of Canadian life.

Y.M.C.A. CAMPAIGN

Two days remain of the "Y" financial campaign and with a little over half of the objective realized at the time of writing, the canvassers have urged to throw all the resources of their command into the drive in order to put it over the top. Citizens of Belleville probably do not understand the functioning of this great institution or probably the activities have not been brought home to them with such emphasis as to others. The man who has a growing family connected with the Y.M.C.A. is naturally the first to offer his financial support to the institution. The Y.M.C.A. has more to offer than the facilities contained therein; there is a fellowship which is only superseded by the Church. The warmest welcome awaits the new members and the officials extend the glad hand to the stranger. In the winter months time naturally hangs heavily on the hands of some and the Association offers a multiplicity of advantages. Classes have been organized in public speaking and the prospective young orator will be given splendid training in this accomplishment artists. The gymnasium classes contain the physical advantages, the swimming pool is a mecca for young natators, and the bowling alleys will be in full swing within a few weeks. A dramatic club has already been organized and plans are under way for similar classes in the vocal and instrumental sphere.

The three-fold life is portrayed throughout the Y.M.C.A. program and it is earnestly urged that the balance of the financial campaign will see the canvassers given the hearty support from the citizens which the Association justly deserves.

IGNORANT PRACTICE

Two distressing accidents occurred last week which should serve at least to bring to notice a prevalent practice which is as disrespectful as it is dangerous. The one accident which took place on the Picton highway was only a minor one, but the other which occurred near Barrie entailed the death of four persons and several injuries to the others. The point in common in these accidents was the fact that both cars involved were part of a funeral borage and the offending motorists with utter disregard for the dead sped on at a tremendous pace and crashed the motor cars in the procession. At different times complaints have been registered of the indifference shown by motorists in this regard which sometimes amounts to actual callousness by drivers. Not so long ago we were witnesses of one of such cases when a truck driver approaching a funeral procession blew the siren noisily, much to the consternation of the mourners. Finding an opening the heavy vehicle thundered by as the hearse reached the gates of the burial grounds. It would be unfair to say a few seconds of the driver's time to halt the truck until the procession had passed. It was no doubt most distressing to the relatives and the least the passer-by could have done was to show a little respect for the others' sorrow. Doubtless had the man been placed in the position of those who were paying their last tribute, he would have viewed the solution in a different light.

There is a law in the statutes of Ontario which forbids vehicles to pass a funeral cortege but a large proportion of the citizens are either totally ignorant of it or they choose to ignore it. The oriental does honor to the dead and the occidental certainly should not be less reverent than he.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Our esteemed friend and colleague Fred Craig of the Peterboro Examiner, has offered the suggestion that Belleville, Peterboro, Oshawa and Port Hope be included in a "city four" hockey group this year. The suggestion sounds reasonable but from the present outlook the Belleville team will be playing their games somewhere in the vicinity of the lighthouse.

This present hand box affair which has outlived its usefulness will not be opened, according to the latest word and the citizens face the prospect of a hockeyless winter, all of which is good news to the theatre and radio men.

By the way Fred offers the strongest kind of opposition to Kingston's entry in the Central Baseball League next year. Kingston and Peterboro have always been bitter rivals on the diamond and not alone has the enmity been confined to the ball park but it has been carried into the columns of the newspapers. In no uncertain terms Mr. Craig denounces the attitude of the Kingston team in accepting from the League after they had been all but eliminated last season. The Petes in the face of heavy opposition completed the schedule and now they are all tossing the Limestoners out. The Central League has enjoyed a successful season after one year of dormancy and it is to be hoped that there will be no axes to grind when the annual meeting rolls around.

Election time is but five weeks away and there has scarcely been a ripple on the municipal sea. The McGill Limestone Creation Station has been the big issue this year and it is trusted that the City Fathers will at least inter the question before the incoming members assume their seats.

That Body of Yours

By Isaac W. Barber, M.D.

EXTENDING YOUR LIFE SPAN

I sometimes wonder if my friends, who consult statistics for insurance companies are doing it with the idea in telling folks that the span of life has been lengthened by fifteen years in the last fifty years. The natural conclusion is of course that mankind is living much longer than formerly, and longer than could his ancestors of fifty years ago.

All that these statistics prove is that of one hundred individuals born today that more of them will reach the age of fifty say, than at any other time in history.

And yet, as you've been told before, this whole saving of life is due to the savings of more babies at birth, and during the first year. Now I haven't any desire to alarm anyone, in fact my object is just the contrary, but this complacency this self satisfaction that life will be longer with you, is a mistake.

The health Bulletin, Toronto, points out that the so-called waiting diseases of middle life, such as cancer, chronic heart disease, premature hardening of the arteries, have not really been influenced or helped by methods or hygiene or preventive medicine.

The reason for this is that these conditions come along quietly, silently, and they are not suspected until the individual is perhaps getting examined for life insurance

However many conditions might have been prevented or at least made less severe had these individuals been examined once a year by the family physician, because we know now that many cases of heart disease, and premature hardening of the arteries, can be traced back to early infections following some acute communicable disease, and then a little later in life to infections from teeth, tonsils, abscess and chronic diseases of appendix, gall bladder, or from the large intestine.

These degenerative ailments of middle life are responsible for over 60 per cent of our total death rate every year.

Therefore if you and your family are to get the full benefit of an extended "span of life", it is up to you to have your children carefully watched during the acute infectious ailments, measels, scarlet fever and so forth and to have your family doctor examine the whole family at least once a year.

THE MAN WHO IS AHEAD

In almost every paper You see, pretty sure to find A lot of gush and nonsense, All about the man behind; The man behind the bust-saw And the man behind the gun, The man behind the plough-share And the man behind the son; The man behind the whistle And the man behind the cars, The man behind the books, And the man behind the bars; The man behind the whiskers, And the man behind the fist— Oh, you read of them quite often For they're always on the list. But there is another fellow Of whom nothing has been said— Its the fellow who is even, Or a little way ahead; The man who pays up promptly And whose cheques are always signed, He's vastly more important Than the man who is behind. For every kind of business, And the whole commercial clan, Is indebted for existence To this honest fellow-man. He keeps us all a-going, And his value's never dead— So we all take our hats off To the man who is ahead.

Vegetables were selling at about the same price as Saturday's market, while apples were a failure. McIntosh Reds being offered at about $3.00 a bushel. The last of the melons at five cents each likewise made their appearance and it is not likely that next Saturday will see many for sale. Eggs are selling for 60c per doz. and sixty cents a dozen, a new time price.

PRACTICALLY FINISHED

The Alcide Tabernacle, Pinnacle Street, is practically completed, Mr. Nyhan stated to The Intelligencer today. DUMBELLS WERE WELL RECEIVED

New Faces With Annual Revue Add Novelty Touch

Returning to Belleville and to the Capitol Theatre after an absence of two years, Capt. Plunkett and his 19th Annual Dumbells, Revue "Why Worry", were enthusiastically received by a capacity house last evening, the first of a two night's engagement at the Capitol.

This 19th Annual Revue had been heralded as the best ever, and the advanced story was not exaggerated; Capt. Plunkett himself, Morley and Al Plunkett, Red Ferguson, and others of the old timers were always popular here in their clean breezy revues again played, danced and sang their way into the hearts of local theatre-goers in this latest production "Why Worry."

New faces are to be seen with them too, and a real novelty this year is the introduction of a bevy of beautiful girls, who by their clever singing and dancing contribute in no small way to the success of the Revue. New songs were mingled with old favorites, introduced by the Company during the past ten years, and in addition to genuine treat for those who have seen one successful Dumbell Revue follow another to hear such songs as the "Little Red School House" and other old times that made Capt. Plunkett's Revues what they are today.

TELEPHONE AFFECTS SOME PERSONALITIES

By DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

Have you ever observed how the telephone affects some people? Many persons are not as polite over the telephone as they are face to face. Others, but they are exceptional, are more polite.

A few become affected in speech and mouth their words when talking over the wire. They pose with their voice.

Others again, talk in a careless, slovenly offhand manner as though they were bored to death. By far and large, however, the telephone gives courage.

When you do not see the one you are addressing and cannot note the reactions of what you say, you are placed at an advantage.

Often people say: "I wouldn't like to ask such a favor but I'll telephone," indicating that they realize how much easier it is to bridge a difficulty by wire. The telephone undoubtedly cuts embarrassment down to a minimum. This, works to the advantage of both parties concerned.

There are people who find it impossible to say "no" in ordinary relationships but who experience no difficulty whatever when telephoning. In this instance the telephone increases the strength of their own convictions.

The reason we change on the telephone has to do with personality reactions.

When we look another in the eye not only are we affected by those subtle and intangible reactions which flow from his personality, but the other person is also affected by personality stimuli flowing from us, to him.

The personality effect is really a consummation of forces that flow from the features of the individual plus his character traits. This total make-up radiates a unit flow which is conveyed from one person to another.

The telephone, of course, eliminates actual sight. Therefore, since several of the forces constituting personality are thereby dropped out, the telephone personality is bound to be different than face to face.

We may not always and actually realize it in just these terms, but undoubtedly when we telephone we feel that our own personality is changed as well as that of the one we are conversing with.

The whole tendency, therefore, is to be less natural.

And often this is not deliberate and purposeful but simply part and parcel of the conditions.

The cutting out of several personality factors accounts likewise for the stress we put upon voice over the telephone. The voice becomes much more important than in ordinary social relationships. The voice sort of makes up for the other personality deficiencies.

It is logical that the saying: "The voice with the smile, wins" should have grown out of telephone usage.

The voice that adorns like a smile looks—that is, a summary cheerful happy voice—surely has a better chance of being liked than the sad, grouchy, irritable or unmusical voice and that is true at any time under any conditions. Over the telephone, however, it becomes especially true and everybody would do well to practice smiling with the voice.

If television ever becomes a commercial proposition—and it certainly looks as though it will, and soon—then our personalities as they really are will not be altered to the degree the telephone does now. We will see as well as hear, almost as though we could touch the other person.

But whether this be far and large, will seem an advantage remains doubtful. Surely one can imagine how tete vision hooked up with the telephone might be disadvantageous if not, at times, even embarrassing.

BOY IN HIDING RUN OVER

Brockville, Ont., October 23.—While at play with some other children near his home here this afternoon, a 3-year-old boy, Robert Vandusen, son of Leonard Vandusen, was run over by a delivery truck driven by Floyd Foster, when hiding under a quantity of straw which had accumulated in the street. The boy suffered such severe injuries that he died in the General Hospital two hours afterwards.

WINDOW BOX IS SOURCE OF PRIDE

Gay Colored Flowers In Contrast With The Plain Walls

Beauty and art seem only to be appreciated and recognized through contrasting opposites. And so it is with window boxes with gay-colored flowers in contrast with the severe walls of the average apartment building.

The planter the building the more gardenesque appear the flowers in contrast; so with this added entitlement at so little expense can the sensible landlord add to the attachment himself and the tenant. There is nothing more luring or impressionable than flowers, particularly where so conspicuously arrayed as in boxes.

A very sensible matter that has been worked out has been to furnish window boxes and set them up for every tenant, and the enthusiasm of the tenant, in having some small space in which to plant and grow things is a source of much pleasure and interest.

And in connection right here—an invisible tie results, for pleasure in nature does not seem to be able to leave those things easily for which its interest has been in the actual growing of something. So if Mr. Landlord wishes to steep the emotions of his tenants, nothing will have a more subtle influence than giving the tenants a chance to grow something. Likewise, the tenant who stimulates a landlord to afford the possibilities of growing things will have awakened an interest in the landlord and developed a more sound rental value.

Here, too, about lawns. No landlord is affording or producing a home unless he has a little bit of green in the way of lawns, trees and shrubs about the building.

It is very easy to consider a few bare rooms a home if there is just a little time left the building to give it a home-like atmosphere. Nothing will do it more than a well-kept lawn, and it seems, that buildings will otherwise be gradually destined to inferiority and very low rents seeming to come with the present readjustment of buildings where there is not value received for tenants.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a boy three months. Last week he decided to go back to his old girl.

Later he passed me without speaking. Do you think it proper for me to speak to him again?

He also has some things of mine which I would like to have back. Please tell me some way that I might be able to obtain them again.

DOLORES.

DOLORES: I would certainly show the young man that I am more of a lady than he is a gentleman by speaking when you meet. If he ignores your greeting, don't speak to him again.

As to having him return your property, if he refuses to do so, why not ask an older brother if you have one to speak to him about it. If this fails, then you should tell your parents and have them get in touch with him and ask for the return of your property.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in High School, seventeen years of age. I have been going with a chap for seven months.

We had a quarrel and returned each other's rings that we had been wearing.

He speaks continually and treats me with the greatest respect.

Would you tell me how I might get another date with him?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: If the quarrel was your fault, it is your place to speak to a friend. Say to the young man the next time he passes you. Then he will know you are sorry not angry with him and the friendship will probably resume where it broke off.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

Woman has the veto now! She is step by step becoming emancipated so that she can take her place in the world of affairs along side of her old time rival, the male of the species. But the question is now that she has attained all these things what is she going to do with them. Some women, no doubt, would be highly insulted if they considered for a moment that there was any doubt as to their ultimate success in any business or profession they chose to adopt, and there are to be sure many women who have done great things outside the home but, as in all things, we have to get down to the average individual. If family life is to maintain that charm and beauty which is always to be a happy remedy when those who created it have long since passed from the scene, woman's place is in the home. There are many good women who spend their spare time in the various welfare and charity organizations of the place where they dwell. This is, of course, highly commendable, but their own nearer duties should not be sacrificed to this end. Perhaps those women who are so interested in the reformation of criminals, prison reform, etc., can do more good in the end in their own home which their blindness or carelessness is hiding from their eyes and remember if every man and woman had the right home atmosphere and loving guidance there would be fewer criminals to reform. Making a success of marriage is still a job for a man who has done this has done a fine and beautiful thing, a thing which may not be heralded by trumpets and brass cymbals, but one which is nevertheless recorded through the years in the principles she had taught the men and the women of the future.

The gallant of yesterday must feel a little thrill, that is if he has not reached the age when a happy memory can still stir an answering chord in his heart, when he passes the shop abundance of lace and ribbon. Perhaps the little, white-haired lady who recalls his home-coming was dressed in a frock that the first night he met her, because the styles of today, especially in evening wear are showing a decided return to grandmother's time. The day or rather the evening of the demure maiden is at hand. For if styles dictate matters then the shy maid who could never quite keep the ringlets of her sister, the loud-voiced and garrulous flapper, will be in popular favour. If the debutante is to wear three dresden taffeta frocks with their long bustled skirts she must be in keeping with them, and no doubt with the advent of this new style there will be a decided change in the manners of the day.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Paris notes that black or navy blue handkerchiefs are considered very smart for evening.

Ombre caracul in unusual high shades are striking features of the newest tweed coatmaks in New York.

In spite of the predominance of fur trimming, some New Yorkers still sponsor the furless tweed coat on conventional tailored lines, and one of the smartest matrons is wearing a tweed coat matched with a tweed hat.

According to other reports from Paris, designers of genuine stone jewelry are employing flowers in brooches in various sizes and these usually combine stones of diverse colors in the semi-precious and precious stone group.

The chicken supper given by the ladies of Shannonville United church on October 17, was a splendid success in spite of the unfavorable weather.

The long tables, decked very attractive, decorated with autumn flowers and fruit and laden with all the good things of the season.

Chicken, stewed, roasted and pressed and some made into pies was of course the chief feature of the feast. Waiters were kept very busy until the large crowd had been satisfied.

The programme that followed was also very much enjoyed, the talented entertainers being Mrs. Harris and Mr. Jos Gow, of Plainfield; and Mr. Everett Smith of Belleville. Shannonville Male Quartette also assisted with two selections.

As there was plenty of provisions left over the ladies served dinner the next day noon, charging only 25 cents. Many availed themselves of this opportunity to have a second chance of enjoying the good things together. Proceeds amounted to three hundred and five dollars, with some donations promised. Net proceeds clear of expenses, two hundred and eighty-six dollars.

COUNCIL ENDORSE PENSIONS ACT

sarvisily by Ontario cities for the work among citizens whose incomes are not sufficient to properly sustain decent knowledge of their station in life.

"And considering the number of persons who, under the Old Age Pension System" would be entitled to pensions but to whom the acceptance of relief administration by civic committees is repugnant.

"And keeping in mind that pension system properly administered should greatly minimize the amount required for civic relief with a consequent saving to the city treasury.

The Council of the City of Belleville most respectfully petitions the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to enact at the earliest opportunity such legislation as is necessary for the adoption of the Old Age Pension Act in the Province of Ontario.

That all other Ontario cities be invited to join in the prayer of this petition."

And that a copy of this resolution be sent to the local Member of the Provincial Legislature and to the Hon. the Prime Minister of Ontario.

Unsightly Sign Boards

The City Engineer communicated with the Council in regard to the erection of sign boards on private property. He instanced the building of several boards near the Tourist Camp and urged the Council to pass a by-law prohibiting or controlling this matter. It was left in the hands of the Chairman of the Executive, City Engineer and City Solicitor.

Ald. Collins: "This is an important matter and should receive our attention."

Ald. Tice: "I believe there is a by-law in the office but no steps can be erected without the Council's ratification."

However, this by-law has jurisdiction over boards on City property only and the City Solicitor will take steps to determine what can be done to prohibit their erection within the limits.

Ald. Reid: "There is a little matter which I would like discussed, and that is the building at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, used as a cream stand." The speaker said Mr. Elliott had communicated with the Council in regard to its removal but no steps had been taken. Ald. Russell Wotten said the Council had made an investigation but nothing was done. It is proposed to remove the building to a less prominent street.

Ald. Hyde: "I scarcely like to bring to the attention of the Chairman of Civ the matter of faulty reading of meters and the fact that complaints have been registered of unreasonable bills. It is a pity to build a gas plant and then turn customers away."

Ald. Collins: "This is the first complaint of that kind to my knowledge and I have investigated the situation thoroughly. The quality of gas had improved, the number of users had increased as well as the revenue which will be shown in the report which will be given later. We are anxious to give service second to none and we welcome suggestions, criticisms and complaints."

Ald. Hyde: "Care should be exercised in the reading of meters."

Ald. Reid said that several complaints had been referred to me but he had turned these over to the gas department.

The usual remission of taxes will be made to the Y. M. C. A. for the year 1928, the Association being responsible for the payment of all local improvement taxes. Arrangements will be made with the Bank of Montreal for the borrowing of an amount not to exceed eighteen thousand ($18,000) for Collegiate and Vocational School purposes, this amount ring in excess of moneys of the sale of debentures which have been issued and sold.

The City Solicitor and City Engineer will make such inquiries and searches as may be necessary to determine whether a roadway between house No. 38 and 40 on Great St. James street is a public highway and report at once.

The request of the British Empire Service League for permission to hold a Poppy Day on Saturday, November 10th was granted.

A petition was received from a large number of ratepayers on Pinnacle street touching on the Railway tracks on that street. They felt that the increased freightage in recent years by reason of the addition of a further switching of cars has depreciated in value the property, particularly between Dundas Street and the Market Square. "Pinnacle Street is the logical and convenient street for a second business location and as Belleville increases in population this street will become absolutely necessary for the extension of business." read the petition.

The ratepayers feel that so long as the railway tracks are there the street will become useless for business purposes. The Railway from Victoria Ave. to Dundas St. is used for hauling purposes and serves no business industry or the public between these streets. The petitioners stated that a convenient and feasible route to the southern part of the city can be had by diverting the track to the eastern limits of the city. The petition said that the city of Belleville can afford to pay such necessary costs for the diversion of the track over a cheaper right-of-way. The ratepayers favored immediate action in this matter and if necessary a vote be taken on it. It was left in abeyance.

A report of the Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes was received by the Council and filed.

A report of the Railway Board on the Desoronto sub-division was received. A new connecting track will be laid to connect Pinnacle Street street with the Deseronto subdivision across Pinnacle Street and Dundas Street to be used only for emergency movements and for serving any industries that may be established south of and adjacent to the sub-division.

McCall Brothers Drive-Way

Mr. Walter Pallerson addressed the Council in regard to a drive-way from the McCall Brothers gasoline station leading to Bridge street. He stated the arrangements had been made with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the removal of a pole, but was not aware of a petition by the Council authorizing the move. The station will be opened next week, according to the speaker. He was informed that the Council sanctioned the move to chip the sidewalk, remove the pole and lay the drive-way to Bridge St.

Harry Smith was granted a ten-year lease on the property now occupied by him on the west side of Pinnacle street. He must vacate it in the event that the building be sold. The city will maintain the necessary repairs. But the city requires it for industrial purposes he must move out at a months notice. This is known as the best arrangement.

It was recommended that Edward Clarke be authorized to advise R. J. Butler to prepare and submit to the council for approval an agreement in settlement of any alleged liability of the city to him in connection with an injury sustained by him on June 11, 1927, while in the employ of the city as fireman. A letter was received from Mr. Butler in this matter.

A letter was received from Chas. D. Campbell with regard to the condition of the western sidewalk on Church street between Pinnacle and the Church Street. The planks are rotting and he advised that a new sidewalk be laid as an approximate cost of $500. The sidewalk is used by College students and repairs should be made at once.

Chas. D. Campbell wrote a letter to the Council in regard to Sign Boards which were erected near the tourist camp. Mr. Campbell stated that there is no by-law governing the erection of these boards and he felt that in many cases they should be governed and in some cases prohibited. The City has spent $600 on a tourist camp and he proposed a by-law be passed. The matter received the support of the Council and was referred to the City Engineer, City Solicitor and Chairman of Executive.

CHAPTER 2.

THE PAMPERED HEIRESS

For a moment Sheila thought Constance Kerr was joking and she laughed, a little carefully.

"I'm afraid I can't see what possible—Assistance I could ever be to you, Miss Kerr."

"Can't you?.....Well, look in the mirror," was the cool reply. Miss Kerr pulled aside the litter of articles on her berth with an impatient: "It's a beastly nuisance, being without a maid," and swung herself up to lie full length on the coarse counterpane. Her feet rested on a blanket labelled: "S.S. Macedonia." "They were pretty feet, shod in high-heeled bronze sandals." They made Sheila painfully conscious of her own neat black pumps.

The other girl continued: "I'm in the dickens of a mess, if you want to know it.....I wonder how far I can trust you.....Perhaps you tell me a little about yourself."

The command was so cool, so peremptory, and yet it lacked offense. Sheila began to sense, behind the other girl's appeared arrogance, an uneasiness that was akin to fear. She felt that this was not Constance Kerr, spoiled fatherss, speaking to handscript little Sheila Allen, but one woman appealing to another.

So she told the little there was to tell about herself, quite frankly. She had nothing to conceal, and in this respect, though she didn't know it at the time, she was in a vastly better position than Constance Kerr.

When she had finished, Constance nodded, as if satisfied.

"My dear, you were made to order. . . .You don't know any one in Paris? You've never been there?"

"Never—unfortunately."

Constance made an impatient gesture.

"Don't be silly. Paris is horribly overrated."

"Please don't spoil my illusions," begged Sheila, laughingly.

"Good Heavens, have you got those things yet?....And you said you were twenty-three. I'm twenty-five myself and I look thirty-five and I feel forty, just at present, and I don't even remember when I had an illusion."

She reflected on this for some time, and then added: "Yes, I do remember and I did have one. But it got bumped and that's why—"

She sat up abruptly. "Please close the door," she bade Sheila.

When Sheila had complied she said: "Now listen. I'm going to tell you what I'm up against, and, after I've finished, if you refuse to help me, I still want your word of honor that you won't give away my confidences to a soul."

"I was married at ten o'clock this morning to the Count de Bellefonte!" she raved round the cabin in a whisper.

"Oh!" gasped Sheila. "My—I wish you great happiness." Her eyes

BELLE THEATRE

A study of the lives of the "taxi dancers" of the public dance halls was made by Clara Bow, the red haired film star, before she started work in the moving picture "The Plastic Age," now playing at the Belle Theatre.

In this Paramount production Miss Bow plays the part of Flapper Fanny, one of the many hostesses of the Rose land Dance Hall, a place peopled with the kind of girls who are dancers for ships of the navy come to port.

To play the role with sympathy and understanding Miss Bow spent several afternoons and evenings at the larger of the public dance halls in Los Angeles and at the same time made these excursions she was accompanied by James Hall, her leading man in the picture, and Elinor Glyn, author of the picture.

She found that in most instances the professional hostesses, who dance with patrons for a percentage of the dances they have to show quite a following goods over counters. Many of the girls bring their mothers to the dance halls with them, the mothers sitting near spectators all during the time their daughters are working on the floor.

"I came to have a new respect for these girls," said the Paramount star, "They work very hard for what little money they make, the most difficult part of their work to me being the new beaux they meet continually and their low boring their partners. Dancing to them is a business and not a pleasure and when their work is finished they are glad to go home for a rest that they well deserve."

Arbitration Treaty With U. S. Awaits Views of The Empire

Washington, Oct. 23.—An arbitration treaty similar to those recently signed by the United States and various governments and a conciliation treaty similar to the Bryan so-called "cooling off" pacts, were signed today by Secretary Kellogg and Fak Kouliss, the Minister from Albania.

Arbitration treaties have been signed during 1928 with Austria, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy and Poland.

Negotiations for arbitration treaties are in progress between the United States and Great Britain, Japan, Norway, Spain, Portugal, Hungary, Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Turkey, Bulgaria, Rumania, Greece, the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, Sweden, Siam and Luxembourg.

Conciliation treaties have been signed during the current year with Austria, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Germany and Poland.

Negotiations for conciliation treaties are in progress between the United States and Japan, Hungary, Belgium, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Turkey, Bulgaria, Rumania, Greece, the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes, Siam and Luxembourg.

Great Britain recently informed the State Department that its negotiation of an arbitration treaty to take the place of the one originally entered into with the United States 10 years ago, but which expired early last summer, is awaiting correspondence with the British Dominions.

The information was given in a brief note, after Secretary Kellogg inquired if there was any reason for delaying a conclusion of the pact. There was no indication that an unfavorable response would be forthcoming once the views of the Dominions are fully communicated to Downing Street.

Announcement was made by Secretary Kellogg today that the Swiss Bican Congress has ratified the Pan-American conciliation treaty entered into in 1923. This pact has in contemplation the same general ends as the Bryan treaties, but is directed primarily to Latin-American needs.

Costa Rica did not sign it at the time of its negotiation, but has now taken favorable action as the result of a resolution of the Pan-American Congress of last winter, urging that it become a party to the treaty.

Meanwhile the Government of Panama has submitted to its Assembly the question of adherence to the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty, with a strong endorsement of the subject.

BALL MANAGER DIES SUDDENLY

Jack Dunn, of Orioles, Passed Away Yesterday At Baltimore

Baltimore, Oct. 23.—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles, eight times pennant winner of the International League, died suddenly yesterday while riding on the train of the Maryland Field Trial Association near Towson, a Baltimore suburb. Dunn's death, was believed to have been caused by a heart attack.

Jack Dunn, was an outstanding figure in minor league baseball for a number of years. His first experience was as a player with the Binghamton club in New York state and after showing promise in the minors he made his way to the major leagues as a pitcher, playing with the New York and Brooklyn National League clubs.

It was Dunn who introduced "Babe" Ruth to league baseball. Brother Matthead of the St. Mary's Industrial School there, called Dunn's attention to the big left hander who played for the school and the Orioles manager took an immediate liking to him, and gave him a trial on the Baltimore team.

AERIAL CAMERA WORK FEATURE OF "WINGS"

The picture play "WINGS" in which 125 planes rise to a climax toward the end of the story, will be shown at the Capitol Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, October 24 and 25.

A few of the announced facts and figures concerning the manufacture of the drama include five square miles of war trenches barbed wire, shell holes, tanks, guns and tractors. The battle of St. Mihiel is refought. Five thousand men are engaged here in important parts. It has been twenty months in the making, most of it having been shot near San Antonio, Texas. It is directed by William Wellman who was a member of the Lafayette Squadron in the World War. In an article described of the production it is written:

"Not a foot of the picture was photographed from the ground which could conceivably be taken from the air. The action was shot from aeroplane, from captive balloons and from lofty parallels ranging from six to 100 feet high.

"Flying 12,00 feet above the earth and separated from the ground by a cloud veil 8,000 feet thick Cruiks Rogers and Richard Arlen featured players in the picture, completed one of the most unusual feats of acrobatics in the history of aviation during its taking.

"This was their work on the 'Top of the sky' which each became at once director, cameraman and actor, two miles and more above terra firma.

"In order to get the desired effects Director William Wellman had automatically operated cameras mounted on the airplanes just back of the propeller and controlled from the switchboard in the cockpit.

"Then Rogers and Arlen, each alone in a separate plane, climbed to more than 12,000 feet and there enacted one of the most realistic scenes of the production. After exchanging pre-arranged signals each of the boys started the motor on his camera and went into the action of the scenes, while from a third ship long shots were made of the two planes, striking and darting about in aerial combat."

DREW MAY PLAY CANADIAN RUGBY

McGill rugbyists and rugby enthusiasts are also going to be Saturday's defeat crush their hopes for that title that has evaded them for nine long years. Although it was three days after the stadium and all the footballers were enjoying their small postgame holiday, the campus was buzzing with football gossip. And there was still optimism in the air despite the fact that third team week down to defeat at the hand of Queen's last Saturday and that the intercollegiate race has to be started all over again with half of the six games already played.

The chief reason for the optimistic Drew, star of last Friday's intercollegiate track meet, was seriously considering turning out for football. Drew's imposing record was the talk of the day. Besides being national junior hurdles champion of the States in 1925, Drew starred at football at Mt. Allison College and in his final year was captain of the varsity team. Drew was picked that year for the second All-American team and was rated as one of the best fullbacks in the east despite the fact that injuries kept him out of over half the games. One of Drew's outstanding performances was running back the kick-off for a touch down twice in a single game.

If Drew decides to turn out with the red seniors, he will have two weeks' practice in which to accustom himself to the Canadian style of game before McGill goes into the next intercollegiate struggle, and he will also have the opportunity of playing in an exhibition contract to find his bearings under the strange code of rules. McGill's next fixture is the R.M.C. game next Saturday and, with nothing at stake, the McGill coaches will be using as many Drew inis action whenever they can to find out just how the former American star figures under the Canadian style of play.

United States college football stars in the past have failed to cut very much of a figure under the Canadian code, and the history of the game is filled with stories of many that have failed and of few that have succeeded. Drew has this in his favor, that he is as fat as any man that has played Canadian college football since he is a born athlete, both in physical build and mental makeup. That he will adjusts should stand him in good stead if he decides to turn out in the McGill senior ran.

Radio Air Gleanings
By Static Bug

CKGW, which weekly broadcasts the Clicquot Hour on Friday evening from 11 to 12, has changed to Wednesday, 8.9, by special request. This brings in the cuisines of Big Ben, in London, England, a feature greatly appreciated by the radio listeners.

Twenty unpacked radio sets, and as many more out on approbation, is a record that has been set up by Doyle's Drug Store radio department. Doyle's as all fans know, carry the Victor radio, one of the best on the market.

Uncle Henry, over Collier's hour, on Sunday evenings is weekly becoming more popular. In hundreds, yea hundreds, of Belleville homes on a Sunday evening, Uncle Henry can be heard wise-cracking the Editor. Hams in and hear a real hour, folks.

Another feature that has become more than popular is the Lucky Strike Hour. Cigarette fiend, or no cigarette fiend, you just can't keep the old dogs still when that peppy Lucky Strike orchestra hits up it's opening number "This is my lucky day."

The average Canadian Radio Fan will be pleased as punch when the Yankee elections are over. Pretty near sick and tired, you turn on your set, to either hear the hands playing "The Sidewalks of New York" or some Smith or Hoover delegate rip ping the other side to pieces.

And speaking of elections, is it my radio's fault or does Al Smith say golf for golf, skoll for skirt, etc, etc.

No musical instrument is more appropriately addicated with the free, lig gay life of the gypsy than the guitar. And no modern composition is more closely linked in the popular mind with gypsy love and life than "The Gypsy Love Song" from Victor Herbert's light opera, "The Fortune Teller." This number will be the featured guitar solo on the Stromberg-Carlson program of October 26 from 9.30 to 10.30, EST, through WJZ and associated radio stations. Andy Sannella, the guitarist, is a recent acquisition to the ranks of the Stromberg-Carlson musicians.

Within half a decade radio receivers have been transformed from clumsy pieces of electrical apparatus into magnificent articles of furniture. The better grade of radio receiver today is the envy of as well as the ear. There are certain definite reasons why radio furniture has taken on the beauty it now possesses. First and foremost is the fact that the better class of manufacturers have had the vision to see that the radio's place is in the living room within the family circle, and that just as the radio receiver was an intimate thing, an instrument that is as necessary and useful as a favorite easy chair.

Radio has proven the soundness of this vision; it has entered the family circle. Much of a family's after dinner life is bound up inseparably with the radio receiver. To take the radio out of a home where it has won such a place would be to rob it of much that makes it home-like.

It is any wond'r, therefore, that the finer grades of receiving sets, say from $150 upwards, are more or less guided by the hand of that master craftsman—the cabinet maker—that they could and unconsciously do fit in with the furnishings of any living room, treasured Plymouth now stands. Mrs. Foster gave a reading, Mrs. Foster gave several selections on the graphonola. Peace. Chimes being among some numbers. Meeting closed, with God Save the King, with Mrs. King Terry as accompanist. Refreshments were served by hostess assisted by Mrs. Sherman Foster, Mrs. King Terry.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bailey were in Picton Thursday evening.

Mrs. A. Post of Toronto is visiting wife, engaged in the mercantile business at Foster and other relatives in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Foster, Mrs. Arthur and Mr. Norman Foster, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones on Mondey.

Quite a number from this vicinity who were in Belleville last week were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tanning, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Wolf and Mrs. E. E. Palmer.

Wesley Avery to report Mr. Ernest McGill at Picton General Hospital. Dr. Scott is in attendance.

Master William Ernest Terry, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Terry, of 40 Woodington Ave., Toronto, was baptised on Sunday last at St. Paul's Church where Dr. Cody is the rector.

Wellington friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burleigh of Belleville, are glad to learn they escaped with only a few bruises when they were in a motor accident on the stirring highway recently.

Prince Edward County friends of Mrs. Jordan are glad to learn she is able to leave Toronto hospital and come to stay with her family near Belleville.

Dropping nuts and shortening days, October comes with woods ablaze.

FINE TOBACCO FROM DOMINION

Canada produces as fine tobacco as can be bought anywhere declared Major Jules C. Mermet of Saint Claude, France, the center of the world's cigar pipe trade on a recent visit to Toronto.

Mayor Mermet is in Canada as representative of the official brear control bureau, in the interests of all the pipe manufacturers of Saint Claude.

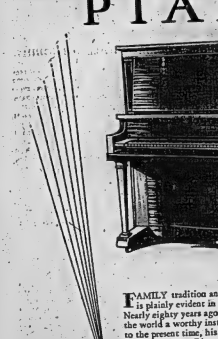

One of the chief purposes of the visit is to endeavor to obtain the use of a hallmark in his manufacture of let a hallmark in the manufacture of quality. It is claimed that thousands of inferior pipes are annually sold at exhibitant prices through lack of such protection.

Mayor Mermet said he had never found anywhere, a finer tobaccof than that grown in Kent county and stated that the Canadian leaves was about half the price of the popular United States Virginia brands, which were really vastly inferior.

"You are like the Frenchman who insists on buying foreign textiles when equally as good and cheaper materials are made in France," added Rene A. Hertig, who accompanied the mayor. "You don't appreciate your home products."

In Ireland, Scotland and several other countries, said the French manager, women smoked pipes habitually. He told of a highly respected lady in European diplomatic circles who was often seen with a huge "chin-warmer." Canadian women, however, he said apparently never touched the pipe and were comparatively light in cigaret consumption.

ENGLISH TELEPATHIST CLAIMS HE RECEIVED MESSAGE FROM PLANET

CERTAIN SIGNALS

Dr. Mansfield Robinson Says Greatest Event of History

London, Oct. 24.—After paying 36 cents a word for government-rate radio grams to be sent to a woman on Mars and after listening for replies Dr. Mansfield Robinson telepathist announced today that certain messages had been received but would have to be decoded.

Operators at Saint Albans Radio Station who had listened for a reply said that nothing had been heard from the distant planet.

The messages sent by Dr. Robinson were despatched into space by Rugby Station early today and were addressed to Comarura, a Big cared Martian woman, with whom Dr. Robinson said he had had telepathic communication. The message was addressed to a woman on Mars, with whom Dr. Robinson claims to have acquaintance through a telepathic visit there. He hoped to receive a reply and said early this morning that certain signals had come from the planet to him and Prof. Low, a scientific friend at Chiswick.

OTTAWA VALLEY IS INUNDATED

Water Rising Steadily—Residents Forced To Vacate Homes

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 24.—Rising steadily for the past few weeks, the waters of the Ottawa River have now reached a height which handicapped industries at Chaudiere Falls. Below the falls the level is the highest in over eighteen feet or about twice the depth it was last fall and along the upper reaches the water is proportionately high.

It has been found necessary to place the dam at Britannia Bay in the Booth saw mill in operation owing to the high water forcing the closing down of the regular power.

Along the upper Ottawa, reports of flooding came from Port Cologne and Campbell's Bay and residents of these have been forced to move from their homes by the high water.

In the Gatineau district the roads in some places have been rendered impassable. A bridge between Kazabazua and Gracefield over the Pickanock River was carried away yesterday by the high water.

CONSERVATIVES TO HOLD DANCE

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Executive of the young Men's Conservative Club, held last night, among other matters discussed it was decided to hold another of their well-known dances, on Friday, November 9th, in Johnston's Academy. They intend making it a very snappy dance, with lots of novelties and an enlarged orchestra.

This was the first meeting after the Summer season of the Club, and the enthusiasm displayed can be taken as a sign, it will be an eventful season for the Club and its friends.

PLEADS GUILTY TO MOTOR THEFT

William Johnston Is Charged With False Pretenses Here

Henry Bauware, alias Earl, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with the theft of a car the property of M. J. Quinn, R. R. 4 Holloway, by whom he was employed. It will be remembered that this is the lad who stole the car Sunday morning while his employer was at church, and who had reached Prescott before he was arrested by the Provincial Police in that town.

Bauware had given his name as Earl to Mr. Quinn for whom he had worked for two weeks, and it is thought that he has a record in New York State. He pleaded guilty to the charge and the case was enlarged for judgment for one week to allow the police to look up his record in that State.

William Johnson, of Madoc, was charged with obtaining a suit of clothes from C. I. Rose, of Madoc, by false pretences. Apparently Rose had given the lad the suit on condition that he pay for the clothes by a certain date. In the meantime Johnson came to Belleville without informing Rose, when the day for payment was reached and the clothes were not paid for, Rose laid the information. Johnson was remanded until the 26 and his case will probably be tried in Madoc before Magistrate Clavemont.

ODESSA FARMER IS SEVERELY INJURED

Kingston, Oct. 24—David Lockman, farmer, Odessa, was brought to the Kingston General Hospital, Monday evening, about 5:30 o'clock, suffering from a fractured thigh. It appears that the man was repairing a stable door of the cattle barn, and was standing upon a ladder. The wind blew the door shut, and striking the ladder, overturned it, causing the man to fall to the ground. He suffered a fracture of the left hip by the fall.

THE WEATHER

STRANGE AQUATIC CREATURE

Frequents Canadian Waters

What it is that has fingers like a baby, and head like a dog, a mane like a lion, and a body like an eel, with four legs, that lives under water? Sounds like one of those popular riddles, but it isn't. It's real and

James M. Palmer, a leading Canadian pre-historical authority, has two of them. Others, he says, have probably have identified it a "Nectarus," which can be found in many marshes, although very few of them are captured.

VICTORY DINNER

G. B. Smith, Leading Citizen; National Flag To F. Smith

Almost twelve hundred dollars was subscribed today by the citizens of Belleville to the Y.M.C.A. Financial Campaign, bringing the total up to ten thousand two hundred and twenty-two dollars. This is a little over three thousand dollars short of the objective so the workers vowed to keep the Campaign open until Friday night, when it is proposed to hold the Victory Dinner in conjunction with the Y's Men's Club Dinner.

G. B. Smith was crowned as the Leading Citizen of the day, as he and his team brought in the greatest amount of money, while the beautiful flag today went to his mayor, Mr. Fred Smith. There will be a luncheon each noon tomorrow and Friday for the workers, and when all those who have in any way helped to put over the Campaign, tomorrow night, it is hoped that the objective of $14,500 will be realized.

Any citizen who has not yet been canvassed and who wished to make a subscription to the Y.M.C.A. may do so can do so, by getting in touch with any member or with the secretary at the Y. M.C.A. It is thought that there may be some who have not been approached and the workers would appreciate greatly if those came forward will their contributions. Four more were reduced to the Royal Order of Spinnerrikstines today, they being L. B. Walsh, H. Wenman, H. Poole an G. B. Smith.

BELLEVILLE MAN IN MOTOR CRASH

Car Driven By Chas. Hautlain Is Damaged In Collision

Port Hope, Oct. 24—Attempting to cut in, while two other cars ahead of him were waiting for a car coming in the opposite direction to pass Joe Redmond, of Millbrook, driving a Dodge touring car, crashed into the Buick touring car driven by Mr. Charles Hautlain, of Belleville, doing damage to both cars and breaking the right arm of Miss Helen Ogilvie, of Port Hope, who has an occupant of the Buick.

The crash occurred on the provincial highway a little west of Port Hope yesterday afternoon, when, it appears, a car apparently having trouble, had pulled up on the east side of the road and parked. Two cars travelling north were waiting for Mr. Hautlain, who was travelling south, to pass, Redmond, who was going north, saw the two cars waiting ahead of him, but did not pull up, but turned out to his left to pass them, and crashed into the Buick touring.

Miss Ogilvie was thrown clear out of the back seat in which she was riding, falling into the ditch, and she received her injuries by the fall. Other occupants of the Buick were Miss E. Hautlain, of Port Hope, sister of the driver of the car, and Mr. T. W. Higgins, of Toronto, all of whom escaped injury. Driving with Mr. Redmond, in the Dodge car, was Mr. H. L. Crowley, of Millbrook.

A charge of reckless driving has been laid against Mr. Redmond.

ANNUAL SUPPER AT HOLLOWAY ST.

Local And Outside Talent Assisted On The Program

Holloway Street United Church held their Annual Fowl Supper last night in the Sunday School hall, approximately five hundred people taking part in the bountiful repast, which was served by the ladies organizations of the church. It was as usual one of the best Fowl Suppers held in this city by any of the churches in this district.

Following the supper, the Holloway Orchestra, which includes twelve pieces gave several musical selections and a fine program was put on by favorite local artists. The ladies reported that something over four hundred dollars was taken in at the door.

Not only were the desires of the inner man catered to at the supper but a veritable feast of music and entertainment was offered and was much enjoyed by all present.

Two solo numbers by Miss Betty Conley, of Stirling, were much appreciated by the audience. Miss Conley possesses a fine soprano voice. Mrs. Eva Coolchaup contributed two solos. A quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Maynes, Mr. Fred Burks and Miss Colclough was heard to advantage in the numbers "Come where the lilies bloom," and "Good-night, gentlefolk." Readings were contributed My Mrs. Percy Mott and Mrs. Wilson, of Wellman's. Mr. Alex Gordon played an organ number in his accomplished old fashion.

The speakers for the evening were Dr. Bishop, of Albert College; Rev. R. Hall, and Rev. Mr. Coulter. Rev. L. Wight, pastor of the church was chairman for the evening.

WOOLER MAN IN HONEY DISPUTE

Toronto, Oct. 24—Whether the Ontario Honey Producers' Association had bought 25,278 pounds of honey from Mr. Smith, Wooler, or had acted his selling agent was the point at issue in an action before Judge O'Connell today. The plaintiffs claimed that they had advanced money to Smith on account of the crop, when had turned out to be so abundant that the price realized was lower than expected, and Smith was overpaid $231. As his Honor found that the honey had not been sold to the plaintiffs but merely had been put up for events under a pooling system, he directed a reference to take the accounts between the parties.

Thomas Frost's Body Found Hanging In Drive-Shed

WAS WELL-KNOWN

Loss of Crop Advanced As Motive For Strange Act

The body of Thomas Frost, former well known farmer residing on the 5th Concession of Sidney, was found about nine-thirty yesterday morning hanging from a beam in his driveshed by a logging chain, dead. Coroner Dr. Crowe, of Trenton, after an investigation decided that an inquest was unnecessary, as it was a clear case of suicide.

Reports received from that district, state, that Mr. Frost apparently ate breakfast as usual with his wife and a lad who has for them named Arthur Gibson, aged sixteen, and then left the board stating that he was going to his father's home, which is near by to procure a saw. That was the last anyone saw him alive.

About nine o'clock Gibson went to the drive-shed and saw Mr. Frost hanging from the beam, and immediately returned to the house to tell Mrs. Frost. Dr. Mcallilin, of Frankford, was called, who pronounced life extinct. A box on which the deceased man had stood was found by, and his toes were only a few inches from the floor.

Crops Ruined

The only reason Mrs. Frost could give for her husband taking his own life was, that he had been worrying over the fact that his eye sight had begun to fail him, and that the recent heavy rains had ruined the crop for the year. He had never been despondent at all that she was aware of, and his untimely end will be regretted by his many friends in the district.

Mr. Frost is survived by his wife and two children, Reginald and Helena, aged 6 and 9 years respective ly. The latter was also four half brothers and two sisters. Gordon, who lives on the Trent Road; Carman and Harold, of the 4th of Sidney; and Cecil, of Murray; as well as Mrs. Albert Casswell and Mrs. Anders, of Stirling.

He had lived on the farm where he died for the past ten years having been married at the age of twenty-six and was thirty-six years of age at the time of his death. He was an Anglican being a member of the Frankford Anglican Church, and was also a member of the Frankford Orange Lodge.

Music Lovers Looking Forward To Singers' Visit

The Imperial Welsh Singers will be in Belleville on Thursday evening and will sing the same programme that they gave in Massey Hall, Toronto, last week, and of which the Toronto papers, through their musical critics, wrote in terms of such commendation. R. Penlyn Davies, the conductor, has especially picked these singers for a world's tour as we may confidently expect an evening of rare enjoyment. They have with them also remarkable bass and tenor soloists. H.R.H. the Duke of York after hearing them in London said, "A wonderful party"; "A credit to Wales."

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The trees in the autumn wind rustle,
The night is humid and cold.
HEINE

A SUGGESTION

The auditorium at the New Collegiate has been fully completed and equipped, and is a thing of beauty and a masterpiece of architectural delight. The Hall will accommodate in the neighborhood of twelve hundred people and the student body at the very best can number but six hundred. However, the builders in planning the auditorium did not neglect to take note of the fact that within a decade it may be found to twice that number. It is proposed to rent the hall to bodies holding conventions in Belleville and since the City is without a theatre where the larger of the road shows can be accommodated the plan might be entertained to permit theatre people the same privileges. The revenue from this source would run into a considerable figure and the Board of Education would profit thereby. Only a road show but large concert and opera parties would no doubt find the new auditorium a splendid place in which to entertain.

REMOVAL OF TRACKS

The petition submitted by the ratepayers of Pinnacle Street asking the City Council to take some action in the matter of the removal of the Pinnacle Street railway tracks will receive the consideration which is due, but in the face of the proposal it appears that it is far from feasible to attempt any such move. The ratepayers contend that this thorough fare will become a second business section as the City increases in population but how far distant is this time is merely a matter of conjecture. Undoubtedly the property depreciates in value with the presence of the track but to remove it to the Eastern limits of the City would cost to the neighborhood of half a million dollars which is in itself but a rough estimate.

The tracks serve no business concern or the general public, but the City in its present financial condition can ill-afford to attempt the obligation of diverting the line. The council will be taken up in the Committee meeting and if necessary a public meeting will be called by Mayor Dutcher general sympathy is opposed to it.

SIGN BOARDS

Chas. D. Campbell's suggestion to the City Council that a by-law be passed in Belleville, prohibiting or controlling the erection of unsightly sign boards should receive the attention of that honorable body. The City Engineer has made a study of the situation and feels that some drastic action should be taken in this regard. Obviously, the City's beauty spots are marred by the presence of these extremely violent boards and he is instanced the case of the tourist camp which has been modelled after the finest in the country, and as advertising concern has pounced upon it as an ideal place for the erection of one of the boards. A site on private property has, adjacent to the camp, been leased and boarding will be fixed by the ugly structure.

There is no by-law in the City's statutes governing boards on private property and there should be, but apparently it has been an oversight. However, sign companies must first interview the Council, when contemplating the building of the boards of City property.

The City of Montreal is waging a campaign against this form of advertising with the limits and a step in the same direction here in Belleville would no doubt receive the hearty endorsation of the citizens. A traveller places his first impressions of a city from the appearance of his person and if the landscape is cluttered with illerirable sign-board he stamps it as a retrogressive rather than a progressive centre.

CARCEL LICENSES

Since time ago, commenting upon the prevalence of reckless driving, the Spectator expressed the opinion that cancellation of licenses of offenders would be more effective than the imposition of fines. It notes with interest that delegates to the 15th annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads' association, at Regina, are advocates of the plan. Discussion of the subject was launched by Mr. J. F. Duff, registrar of motor vehicles for Ontario, and his recommendation that the license of offending drivers be lifted, either temporarily or permanently, was supported by Mr. P. H. Hanson, president of the Royal Auto Club, of Montreal. The indications now are that the convention will memorialize provincial governments to enact covering legislation and, the Canadian Good Roads Association being a body with a deal of weight, its recommendation in this matter is not likely to be ignored. Reckless driving is the plague of the highways and the practice has taken a deadly toll in Canada this year. It is an offense to exceed the speed limit, but speeding does not always come under the head of reckless driving. There is less danger to the operator of the car at 50 or 60 miles an hour on an otherwise deserted stretch of highway than there is in attempting to maintain the legal rate of 25 miles an hour on a heavily-travelled street. Reckless driving is chance-taking, doing something that common sense says should not be done—cutting out of the traffic line, when the only safe course is getting safely back into it again; trying to get past another car when it is apparent that the only way this can be accomplished is to force the other driver off the road; taking more than one's share of the right-of-way. There are a score of things motorists do that come under the head of recklessness. Their acts brand them as unfit to be in charge of a motor vehicle and the cancellation of their licenses would seem to be the only effective means of eradicating the hazards they cause. The fellow who might be tempted to confound traffic by cutting in and out would think twice about doing it if he knew that a complaint from a fellow motorist would cost him his driving license. If the minister of highways inaugurates this reform, thousands of safe and sane drivers will rise up and call him blessed.

AFTER DISAPPOINTMENT.

The thing is lost when a zad hoped to gain,
The pleasure I had planned for cannot be,
Misfortune now has settled that for me.
But all my sighs and all my frowns are vain;
How oft when men want sunshine comes the rain!
How oft the fog hides all they wish to see!
Life with no one gives a guarantee
That what he seeks he surely shall attain.
Some disappointment every man must face,
Who whimpers, lightens not his load of care
Into the past no mortal may retrace
His footsteps to make better what there was;
Wise hopes for happier days must look ahead
And waste no time bewailing chances fled.

Gilbert Parker, who has been visiting at the homestead for several weeks, leaves this afternoon for St. Paul's.

Miss G. Dunbar was able to drive out on Saturday and yesterday visited her room in Queen Victoria School.

Rev. T. J. Thompson, M.A., of this city delivered the Sunday afternoon talk in Queen's Kingston Convention hall on Sunday. His subject was Joseph Thompson. The papers speak in high terms of the address.

TOURS CANADA FOR SWEDISH PAPERS

Halifax, N.S.—William Ahlen, editor of the Jamtlanius Tidningen, a newspaper of Ostersund, Sweden, arrived in Halifax recently, a representative of fourteen provincial newspapers of Sweden, to tour Canada for the purpose of reporting back agricultural conditions with a view to promoting immigration from Sweden. The entire Dominion will be toured and information compiled for the use of the immigrants to settle here.

Although Mr. Ahlen has not yet completed touring Maritime Provinces he is convinced that a great many Swedish immigrants should be placed on Eastern farms. The climatic conditions here, he believes, are very similar to those in Sweden.

The farmer of Northern Sweden is none too prosperous, according to Mr. Ahlen, and he thinks that settlement in the Maritime Provinces should appeal to a large number in Sweden.

That Body of Yours

THE MEDICINE MAN
When we used to read about the strange customs of savages, particularly about the "medicine man" of the tribe, we were thankful indeed that we were in a land where such "foolishness" did not exist.
And yet it is only in these last few years that we are beginning to learn that some of this foolishness of the medicine man of the tribe must have had some sound reasons underneath, which had been handed down for perhaps centuries.
What the sun did for some of these natives, we in this twentieth century are only beginning to realize.
And when we used to read of how these medicine men, or witch doctors, made up medicine from the different organs of the animals that were slain, it made us smile.
And yet, what is happening today?
Our largest drug manufacturers have a corps of men whose work is to carefully remove glands and other organs from the slain animals, cattle, sheep, pigs, horses and other animals, and from them make up some of the most valuable and important products in use in medicine today. Think for a moment about insulin, which actually rescues the young people that formerly incurable disease, diabetes.
This is secured from the pancreas or gland that secretes or manufactures one of the digestive juices in the animal. Then the thyroid gland in the neck which has the power of regulating the speed of certain functions of the body. It is being used for a great many purposes by physicians these days.
The juice from two little glands, situated one on top of each kidney, is being used to slow and strengthen the heart that has stopped beating. A few drops of this injected into a heart that has stopped beating has restored many folks, apparently dead.
A tiny little gland in the base of the skull manufactures a juice that is used daily by physicians for emergency cases.
You know how the liver and liver extracts are being used to cure pernicious anaemia and to lower high blood pressure.
In fact if we think of all these duo-

SUCCESSFUL SARDINE SEASON FOR U. S.

Lubec, Me. — Experts declare the sardine season, now drawing to a close, has been one of the most successful on record starting in April and continuing almost without a break until the present time. Fish have been in good supply, and with few exceptions the cargos have been of the right size for canning, there not suitable going to the smokehouses which call for larger fish.

During the first part of the season the goods were sold almost as fast as they were packed, and not until recently has there been any surplus stock accumulating. Some grade have been secured but nothing like the quantity that has been put by for a series in past seasons.

AUDITORS HERE

The annual inspection at the local branch of the Dominion Bank is at present taking place. Messrs. Armstrong and MacArthur, from Toronto, are the auditors here this year, Mr. Walter Stout, manager, stated today.

KINGER'S BIRTH

On Thursday evening, in Bridge Street Church, the choir leaving public of Belleville will have one of the finest treats of the year when the Welsh singers will render a programme. A special feature of the evening will be the first soloist that will be heard. This is the first time that the Welsh singers have visited Belleville.

AUDITORIUM COMPLETED

The auditorium in the Collegiate Institute is completed, with seats installed to accommodate over a thousand people and the curtains for the stage are hung. A report is of this newspaper, writing the hall since it has been finished found that it has the finest acoustics and suiting arrangements of any place of a like nature with a stage in the city.

WAITING INFORMATION

Although it was rather hoped by the students of the high school that the football game with Albert College might have been held today, the game will not be played until Mr. Shiels, the coach has additional information from the Hamilton with regard to the method of counting the scores. Albert College claims that the High School has jumped the highways for months at a time, and has slept in seventy-five casual wards. According to Mason, field meeting his own travels as a tramp, he said:

"I have thrown bread over the hedge and have refused work. Think of a man that set out the casual ward after a breakfast of two toads, slices of bread and margarine, and who having walked eight or ten miles, calls at a house. He is offered two thick slices of bread, with perhaps a piece of cheese between. He has not felt like that, for it was not hunger that made him call. He called as he did, in the hope that someone would say a kind word to him. He wanted companionship, and he was offered bread and cheese.

"How many realize that these men on the road suffer not only physically but mentally?" he asked. "I have felt that mental suffering, even though I could see the end of my journey. The feeling that there is no end to days, the kindly word for weeks on end is terrible. If such a man calls at your house like Him into your home, treat him as your brother, and he will respond to kindness."

"At Spring House," said Mr. Gibbons, who is known as the tramp's friend, "we have a room between "roadsters" in residence. Doors are never locked and during its existence he has never experienced any trouble.

On entering the men are given a change of clothing, if need be, and helped to feel they are respectable members of society again, and after a few weeks' rest are helped to find employment. On this way Mr. Gibbons claims that he has met with considerable success in helping tramps to a fresh start in life.

Spring House, he says, is maintained by faith. It is kept up by sympathizers and there is no appeal to the public. Now in its third year, it is only slightly in debt.

HOCKEY PLAYER TO JOIN TEAM

Kingston, Oct. 24.—"Willie" Elmer, one of the best forwards of Kingston professional hockey players, leaves on Wednesday to join the Philadelphia team in the Canadian-American League, where he starred at right wing last year.

Elmer was one of the most popular hockey players Kingston ever produced. As a member of Kingston Intermediates he was one of the big reasons why the team went to the O.H.A. finals later he went to St. Paul, and then jumped to the professionals, being one of the stars of the Victoria Cougars when they won the Stanley Cup a few years ago.

WOMAN SUSTAINED FRACTURED SKULL

Port Hope, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Elmer Fairman, of King street, Trenton, Ont., is an inmate of St. Michael's Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull sustained when she opened the door of the motor car she was riding in on the Kingston Road, Saturday, to throw out a lunch box, and fell out.

A LITTLE COOLER.

It seems to be gradually becoming a little cooler. The temperature yesterday was sixty-nine at its maximum and forty-six at the minimum. Today was fifty-one, for the highest point reached and thirty-eight for the low mark.

PLANS FOR SUPPER DAY

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, held in Memorial Hall last night. Plans were discussed for a Poppy Day to be held on Friday, November 16. The weekly dances and card parties also were the subject for discussion and arrangements were made for a rummage sale which will be held in the near future. Election of officers will take place at an early December meeting.

KIND WORD IS ALL THEY WANT

Tramps Don't Want Dry Crusts of Bread, A Kindly Word

London, (By C. P.) — The point of view of the tramp is being called at a house and is put off with a dry crust is put by J. T. Gibbons, who at Spring House has had an open house for tramps at Spring House, Heckmondwike, says the Daily Mirror.

In order to get into close touch with men on the road, Mr. Gibbons has tramped the highways for months at a time, and has slept in seventy-five casual wards. Describing to a Mirror field meeting his own travels as a tramp, he said:

"I have thrown bread over the hedge and have refused work. Think of a man that set out the casual ward after a breakfast of two toads, slices of bread and margarine, and who having walked eight or ten miles, calls at a house. He is offered two thick slices of bread, with perhaps a piece of cheese between. He has not felt like that, for it was not hunger that made him call. COOLIDGE SPOKE ABOUT RELIGION

At the 60th general convention of the American Episcopal Church, held in Washington, President Coolidge was a participant, taking his place in the impressive manner. He emphasized religion in his remarks as the underlining of all government and indeed of all society. He said:

"Material prosperity is a means," he said, "not to materialism but to a new sense of duty toward spiritual ideals."

Coolidge added remarks were:

"It cannot doubt that the world is growing better."

"We have advanced for others abroad as well, depend upon the intensity of the ideals in us."

"Man is more than a searcher for knowledge or wealth. He has spiritual demands."

"As a nation we are not seeking an increased material welfare that leads to materialism; we are seeking an increased devotion to duty that leads to spiritual life."

"The fabric of government itself rests on religion."

"If the heads of our religious convictions be loosened, the guarantees which have been created for the protection of life and liberty are gone."

CATTLE MARKET IS CALLED GOOD

Continuation of Satisfactory Market Outlets For Our Cattle

"A continuation of satisfactory market outlets for our cattle surplus for the balance of 1928 and for 1929," is the prediction of the Dominion Department of Agriculture through its market intelligence service."

Stock yards are the most strategic points from which to view the possible trend of the markets and the statement quoted is based upon an analysis of the reports made by officers of the Dominion live stock branch located at the central stock yards in the different provinces.

Last year autumn trading was in the sellers favor, in spite of the endless stock offered, many of which was not of butcher quality. Prices at the moment are 2 to 3 cents higher than a year ago but it is expected that there will be a repition of last year's market conditions. It is regretable that there is a wide shortage of good beef cattle. Producers are short on supply particularly of good weights. Ontario's cattle of butcher quality have already been closely marketed. Domestic buyers are combing the country for finished cattle and meeting strong competition from Buffalo buyers. Offerings from dairy herds will be fairly heavy during the next three months owing to the attractive prices.

The west is not likely to put out a normal autumn run of cattle and early grass brought cattle along fast, and this with high values has made for heavy runs during the past six weeks. This is expected to continue through September and October. Present runs include a large volume of light stockers, with heavy feeders in light supply.

Demand for store cattle is strong in the west, and is likely to be keener. Feed is plentiful. The chance demand for western stores is keen, this with United States competition, and the prospects of a strong demand from western farmers will make unparalled competition, that should offer a chance of weakness late in the year in the market on eligible cattle.

DUMBELLS WILL PLAY IN TRENTON TONIGHT

Another capacity house at the Capitol greeted the Dumbells last evening for the second and last local presentation of their 1928 musical comedy Revue "Why Worry" and Capt. Plunkett and Company, were equally as well appreciated at this evening as on the previous night.

For the benefit of those who were unable to secure seats either evening the past two nights, and for the people of Trenton, Mr. Gibbons manager of the Capitol Theatre, has arranged to have the Dumbell's present "Why Worry" at Weller's Opera House in Trenton this evening. A great many were unable to secure seats to see the show here in Belleville, so it is expected that a large crowd will motor to Trenton this evening for the Revue.

"Wings," is the next attraction at the Capitol and this gigantic production Aviation film will be shown today and to-morrow with matinee to-morrow (Thursday) at 4.15. Special augmented orchestra will accompany the picture which will be presented with the same synchronized musical effects as in all the large theatres. Don't miss this picture—it's one of the most thrilling ever produced. The majority of the seats will be available at the popular price of fifty cents.

FASTEST SHIP IS MAURETANIA

Great Britain Has Speediest Boat On The Seas To-Day

Great Britain has the fastest ship on any of the seas, in the Mauretania, over 21 years old, and which she originally made the eastward Atlantic crossing in a few minutes over five days. The Mauretania is not as large as either the Majestic or Leviathan, both the product of German yards and each of which has claimed supremacy as to yards size. The question of bigness will not be in dispute, however, when the superliner now being constructed in Harland & Wolff's Belfast shipyards for the White Star Company, is launched. The length of this ship is 60ft. is launched. The speed of this giant liner will be half a knot less than that of the Mauretan's, but it is anticipated that she may, when her trials are finished, be found to prove as swift as this other famous British vessel. In any event, Great Britain will be the largest steamship in the world when the superOlympic is put in commission.

It is interesting to note that the new ship is to be steam-driven, and not motor-driven. Although it will cost the White Star Company at least six million pounds sterling but is expected that it will be completed in style of Atlantic travel is increasing all the time and there is heavy demand for ships that will give speedy sea trips from every port. There is a growing number of, travellers willing to pay for the extra accommodation and a quick voyage, and the new giant is practically assured of large patronage? British shipbuilders have centuries of experience behind them and still lead the world in the matter of safe, swift and comfortable ship. The public everywhere has confidence in the British seaman's ability in handling super-Olympic seems destined to maintain Britain's pre prestige for some time to come and is just by the enterprise of her owners.

MIRTH RESULTS IN LOST TEETH

Boston — Everything that people commonly carry in the hands or wear or have attached to them in any way is lost in the theatre.

Even false teeth are picked up in the theatre lost property rooms.

Once in a while when the comedy is uproarious a patron will lose a set of false teeth. Usually the loss is not reported into the world by the violence of the laughter. But cases more often than mirth cause the loss of teeth in the theatre it appears. When dark or dimly lighted rooms there and coverstly drop them in their lap or upon a vacant seat, that their owner of the show may be undisturbed. Then they drop them on the floor or forget them when the show is over.

Gloves, glasses, umbrellas and hats are the commonest articles, picked up in the theatre, although everything from false teeth to automobiles find their way into the lost and found departments which are regularly conducted by the theatres. Records are kept of all articles found, with a description and the date. Each day every effort is made to return its owner.

DEVELOPMENT OF THEATRE SHOWN

Toronto, Ont. (By C. P.) — A description of drama development in North America was given by Walter Prichard Eaton, representing the Theatre Guild of New York, in a recent address to the Women's Art Association. He went back to the Puritan days when in order to get a precise tion of Othello in Providence, R. I., the manager announced a concert with a moral lecture—the lecture being Othello, with illustrations.

From the imported English companies after the revolution, the first developments was in opera. Then came said Mr. Eaton; when each leading city had its own excellent company of players. This was before the development of road shows, first made possible by the "syndicate" on Broadway, which was at first a mere junta of speculators making money out of plays which went to be popular—plays that were made to suit the least intelligent audience anywhere in the syndicate, standard.

The successful syndicate play made Broadway the dramatic centre of America. All over the country people stopped going to the theatre because they could not get plays they liked.

Hence the modern development of little theatres and local stock companies, three outstanding examples of which Mr. Eaton cited as, the Theatre Guild the Community Players in Pasadena, Cal., and Hart House Theatre, which began in the same year as the Guild.

The speaker sketched the history of the Guild from before the war in Greenwich Village as the Washington Square Players until the revival of 1919 in Carrick Theatre with its first play, "John Ferguson," by St. John Ervine. The growth of the Guild into a body of subscribers with its own play houses, its own actors, directors, staff and theatre, now dith ofe company on the road playing "Marco Millions" by Chicago, where the Guild already has 5,000 subscribers, and another special company doing rehearsing prior to taking that Negro folk drama to London.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT PSYCHOANALYSIS

By DR. LOUIS E. BISCH

Considerable confusion still seems to exist as to what Psychoanalysis really is.

There are those who believe that some of its principles are far-fetched and that they overstress certain instinctive emotions of childhood and in the love life of the adult. Others again are convinced that the doctrines and conclusions of the psychoanalytic school have been the most valuable psychological contributions of modern times.

One associates psychoanalysis especially with Dr. Sigmund Freud, of Vienna, really its originator, and the year 1899, when his book, 'The Interpretation of Dreams,' was published, established a landmark in this new branch of mental work. The reason is that Freud laid great stress upon the importance of dreams in the understanding of human conduct and of certain types of nervous disorder and ever since the adherents of psychoanalysis have used dream interpretation as the royal road by which one can explore the unconscious and unrelated maladjustments of the individual.

The term itself — psychoanalysis — simply means an analysis of the psyche or mind. Psychoanalysis has nothing whatsoever to do with hypnotism, thought transference, Christian Science, osteopathy, New Thought Movements, etc. These are all entirely separate and distinct systems of practice.

Nor does psychoanalysis belittle or try to do without medicine or surgery. Organic disease, for example, are never treated by analysis. In fact, although it is well known that the mind can be primarily responsible for many ailments that may seem to be of organic origin, psychoanalysis insists that every possible organic defect or disorder should be known before a psychoanalysis is begun.

What makes psychoanalysis treatment appear so different from other types is that it concerns itself largely with neurotic manifestations, that is purely functional as contrasted with physical or organic disorders.

The number and variety of such disorders are legion. One might mention the familiar Neurasthenia and Psychasthenia, Mild Anxiety and Compulsion Neuroses and such symptoms as fears, feelings of unreality, depressions, inferiority, self-depreciation, poor memory, lack of self-confidence, etc., etc.

Although psychoanalysis first concerned itself—and still does primarily —with such mental and emotional upsets, the subject has spread tremendously in past years. Analysis nowadays claims to interpret art, pedagogical problems, religious concepts, indeed every conceivable law, habit, belief, custom, character trait or what not that is the result of brain activity.

An extensive literature is available —thousands of books and pamphlets, the latter terminating in scientific and popular articles. Those who may be interested in learning more about psychoanalysis.

Whether one agrees with the psychoanalysts or not, or whether one believes that cures may be brought about through psychoanalysis or not, there can be no question but what the subject is unusual and interesting and that it has created more discussion and comment than any other scientific doctrine.

Helpless With Pain In His Back

Vancouver man thinks Gin Pills wonderful

Right in the midst of the local Horse Show, Mr. J. S. Russell, of Vancouver, B.C., was completely laid up by severe pains in the small of his back. He could not sit on a chair, let alone on a horse. "I was compelled to go to bed," he says.

How a most awkward and painful problem was solved by a friend who advised Gin Pills, which quickly relieved the trouble according to Mr. Russell, whose letter ends—and I am able to ride again in 24 hours. Gin Pills are wonderful."

Gin Pills positively give relief, not only in cases of severe backache, but in even more acute kidney conditions. Gin Pills soothe the inflamed kidneys and end the misery. How much better to obtain a 50c. box from your druggist than to take chances. The symptoms of kidney trouble are unmistakable—backache, dizziness, headaches, swollen joints, lack dust in urine, specks before the eyes, a burning sensation attendant on scanty or too frequent urination. Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 4.
THE WAYWARD MAID

On the morning before Pete flung Sheila Allen and Constance Kerr so unceremoniously into each other's lives, the Kerr family departed for a three-months' cruise on their yacht, the Sea Gull.

Constance had refused to go. She had been sulky all that spring, for what she considered a very good reason. And when Constance made up her mind to something, not even Mother and Father Kerr could shake her resolution. Mrs. Kerr held the whip-hand over New York society, and Kerr himself could make or break a million-dollar corporation, but their combined strength amounted to little, where their headstrong daughter was concerned.

Constance told them that she was dated up for house-parties on Long Island and in the Adirondacks and Heaven knew where else, and she wasn't going to imprison herself on a yacht with such a lot of old people. So they went without her.

She told Sheila that she could fairly hear mother saying to her father, in an effort to be resigned and hopeful: "Well, she'll be safe enough at those country houses. I've written to every one of the women and told them not, under any circumstances, to invite the Count de Bellefonte while Constance is their guest. And with Harry Edmonds safely in London, and the fact that they've quarreled anyway."

Three months before, Constance and Harry Edmunds had parted forever. "The only man I ever really gave a snap of my fingers for!" Constance told Sheila. "Harry was jealous of the attentions of the Count de Bellefonte. "And I was a bit flattered by his devotion—the Count's, I mean," Constance explained. "He is a distant cousin of the Queen of Italy, and has a title and very clever and the family is elliptic the best in France. But he hasn't a red cent, of course."

"Harry hadn't money either. But, Connie, he was terribly in love with you, and you were quarreling. Don't you think you could fairly well afford to marry for love, rather than the Count de Bellefonte did."

"Jean makes all manner of fun of the American man's devotion to business. He says that life is too short and that work is the province of the bourgeoisie. That is one thing I don't like about him.... Harry sells bonds."

In a few minutes, Sheila had the whole story.

In March, young Edmonds's firm offered to transfer him to its London office at an increase in salary. Harry jumped at the opportunity, seeing a chance to offer Constance one little luxury to which she'd been accustomed, but a fair degree of comfort, if she loved him enough to make some sacrifices. When he sped to Constance, radiant with expectation, she had just received the Count de Bellefonte's first proposal and was feeling a bit cocky over it. She told Harry, flippantly, that his full year's salary wouldn't keep her in handkerchiefs. It wasn't until he had gone away, hurt and angry, that she realized how much she loved him.

For a week, she waited for him to come back and apologize for some of the harsh, but very true, things he had told her about herself. She was so sure that he would come; they had quarreled bitterly several times, and after a brief space of time, he had always returned. But he didn't come back this time!

She waited a fortnight before her pride allowed her to call him up. And then she found out that he'd sailed for London the previous week. Sailed without a word of farewell, without making the slightest effort to see her. She was stunned and angry and hurt and bitter, all at the same time, and her sense of mind was completely destroyed when a friend happened to mention that she'd been at the boat to see some people off and had noticed that Julia Breton and her family were among the passengers. Julia Breton was the only girl of whom Constance had ever been jealous. Julia and Harry had been girl-and-boy sweethearts, and Constance knew that the Bretons approved of Harry. She had torturing visions of Julia and Harry in London together, on the voyage. There was a moon that week, and Constance knew only too well the danger of that infallible combination of sea and moon and deserted boat-decks.

She finally conquered her pride sufficiently to write Harry a friendly little note, addressed to his London office, wishing him good luck in his new work and expressing the hope that he would drop her a line occasionally. He'd have to answer that, she thought.

But he didn't. Not a word from London, and the spring dragged out its weary length, and she kept hearing about Julia Breton's social conquests in the English capital. Julia had been presented at court, and a lot of prominent people had taken her up. Constance's only hope was that she'd get a swelled head and find her self too important for Harry.

When the Count had proposed for the eighth time, Constance decided to accept him, just to show Harry a thing or two. But her family raised the most frightful row. Her father, insisted that de Bellefonte was an adventurer and after her money. He declared that he'd have a 100 per cent. American son-in-law, or none at all. "I reminded him that we'd had a sun per scene when I thought I was going to marry Harry.....and that Harry's family had come over in the Mayflower," said Constance. "But he only said that I seemed to be the world's worst picker of husbands and he couldn't understand how a daughter of his could have such poor judgement."

So that was the way matters stood when the Kerr menage transferred itself to the Sea Gull for the summer. Mrs. Kerr's social secretary was left behind as a sort of unofficial chaperon for Constance until that young lady was due to depart for her round of visits. "And the first thing I did, after my well-meaning parents turned their backs, was to send her packing." Constance told Sheila, with a ghost of a smile. "Fancy! A chaperon .....as though I were a child."

In the evening, when the Sea Gull was skimming southward, the Count came to take Constance to a dance at a country club on Long Island. It was a perfect summer night, and they soon drifted from the ballroom to the beach. The Count proposed again. "He has a perfectly divine voice," said Constance, "and he sang to me in French.....a lovely little love-song. And he is good looking, if you like the blond French type, with the little waxed mustache?"

London seemed a long way off, the Count was very persuasive, and she'd lost Harry definitely, "I thought it was time I got married anyway. I was the only girl who came out in my season who hadn't a husband, and it doesn't do to wait too long. People say such catty things," Constance explained, as she pushed her bright hair back from her forehead with a nervous hand.

"I told the Count that Dad would raise an awful rumpus and he said he knew it, because he went to ask Dad for permission to propose to me, he'almost got kicked out. But he pointed out that I was of age, and, if we got married while the family was away, it would be too late for them to do anything about it when they returned.

"Oh, I must have been mad! Or else I wanted to spite Harry on my family, or something. I don't know whether I ever possessed but I accepted him. We arranged to meet at nine-thirty o'clock this morning, to go to City Hall for the license."

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Antique jewelry has brought back the use of small-e stones for formal-only European and designs of small stones, as Americans were said to demand only fine, large gems, too precious for many to be used.

The latest tweeds for sports attire are of the soft, rough woolens, diagonal, irregular and bold square designs introducing contrasting color themes are black with yellow, red and blue with natural, dark blue with gray, brown with yellow and cream are combinations that brighten the general impression of tan and brown.

Some printed crepe de chine blouses are offered as an accompaniment to the severe tailored, a few in broad one-inch stripes, and many more printed in the patterny suggestive of tweeds which are used so much for summer sports dress.

Barnees Furnivall, who is a peeress in her own right, is to appear on the London stage this month in a one-act sketch entitled "The White Lady," which may be a preliminary to a serious stage career as Baroness Furnivall has acting ambitions as an actress, and has already made her stage debut for a week in Manchester.

"How often I wish I could tell my women patrons"

Says a beauty specialist

If women only realized how often they are in danger of offending others! That discovery, which neutralizes odor in sanitary pads, removes all fear of such offense.

ONE woman cannot always speak freely to another on so delicate a subject as this. And often women suffer needless fear, needless self-consciousness today. Because a new process, developed and patented in Kotex Laboratories, acts in a most remarkable way to end all odor while Kotex is being worn. There is no further need for the feeling that one may be annoying others in this way.

The new cut, non-revealing

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or department store . . . 60c for a box of twelve.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing: pliable filler absorbs as no other sanitary can;
2—Corners are rounded and tapered, no evidence of wearing protection under any gown;
3—Deodorizer-safe: shockingly, by a new and exclusive patented process.
4—Adjust it to your needs: filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required; and 5—It is easily disposed of: no unpleasant laundry.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

Well, the Collegiate sure came through on Saturday afternoon. This victory gives them another chance to beat their ancient rivals, Albert College. A drizzling rain came down before the game and made the field very wet and muddy. Nevertheless, both teams played good games both on the defensive and offensive. On Saturday the Collegiate overcame their jinx. They were strengthened by Sprague and Coultis which made a difference in the Collegiate team. They were on the top of every play and never were in danger except in the first quarter and remaining five minutes. The game was very exciting and close. The Collegiate scored their 6 points on two rouges and two safeties. Albert College scored 5 points on a touchdown. The kicking of Slaker was excellent and enabled the Collegiate team to climb to victory. The out-standing players for the Collegiate were Slaker, Tweddy, Gillen and Williams. Gillen was very good on Saturday coming through for yards when needed and in tackling. Tweddy and Williams played good on the line and tackled to perfection. Albert's clever quarter, Purchase, and Youell were the best for Albert College. Purchase made the longest run of the game when he ran 47 yards from the Albert three-yard line to the middle of the field. The game, this Saturday, promises to be a great battle and the Collegiate need your support.

You are as welcome as the commercial traveller at the Antiseptic Barber Shop. Hotel Quinte, managed by J. M. Spiker.

Picton are practically sure of winning their group by defeating Napanee 6-0. They play their final game next Saturday with Desoronto. It was a very exciting game and there was a fairly good crowd present.

GERMANS TOUR UNITED STATES

Automobile Club Sees Land Which Was Mortal Enemy In War

London.—One hundred and fifty German men and women, members of the Allgemeiner Deutscher Automobile Club, which has been touring the United States, reached London from Detroit in eight motor buses, and were given a warm welcome by Mayor Wenige on behalf of the City of London; George Yull, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and several German business and professional men who are residents of London, including Herr Hans Kahrs of Hamburg, Germany, who is temporarily located here.

Banner Bears Greeting

A banner with the words "Sieben Tausend Willkomen"—seventy thousand welcomes—greeted the visitors in signs on the windows of automobiles and at the Hotel London, where the party dined, whence they later left for Kitchener and Hamilton.

At the banquet tendered them, Mayor Wenige greeted the Germans in their own tongue, and received rounds of applause. Mayor E. E. Rats and ex-Mayor Schmals of Kitchener also spoke, with Mayor Wenige, Mr. Yull and Herr Hans Kahrs, at the dinner, and a reply on behalf of the visitors was made by Wilhelm Lieurig of Bremen, Germany.

Messrs. Rats and Schmals came to London to have the party visit Kitchener, they having been informed that it was the intention to run straight through to Hamilton, where the night was to be spent. When the visitors heard the Kitchener delegates speak and mention the fact that previous to the war the city had been known as Berlin, there was a resounding cheer, and maps were whisked from pockets by men and women anxious to locate the well-known German municipality of Ontario. It was then unanimously decided that a call should be made at Kitchener.

Toronto Not On Route

M. J. Ryan, manager of the foreign department of the Canadian Automobile Association, stated that the German visitors had not gone to Toronto because an attempt had been made to exact what were considered hold-up rates. He would not name the hotel that had quoted the objectionable rates or whether or not more than one hostelry had been approached. Many of the party were keen to see Toronto, but they upheld the manager of the tour in refusing to pay the hotel rates asked.

Baron Max von Prann, formerly of Vienna, Austria, whose Fahrm-in-law was Commander-in-Chief of the Austrian armies from 1907 to 1917, came from his farm near Forest, Ont., to renew old acquaintances among the German visitors. The party, he explained, was made up largely of important business men of Germany, anxious to forget the past and secure ideas for an extension of trade with Canada and the United States.

"News In The Air"

By F. T. C.

Walter Lawrens Returns

Walter Lawrens returned to Belleville yesterday afternoon with Mike Sindair, Air Engineer after a successful summer spent in Western Ontario, "barnstorming". Walter was flying the Curtis 'Jenny' and reports having had little or no trouble all summer. It is expected that they will be busy from now on in Belleville taking people up for rides and teaching some who wish to become pilots how to fly. If the proposed new Flying Club for Belleville goes through there is no doubt that aviation would take a big jump in this district as there are many who would welcome the opportunity of getting up in the air.

Visit Postponed

It is not yet known when Captain Earl Hand of the Toronto Flying Club will pay his promised visit to Belleville which was postponed on account of bad weather. The sooner he comes and the city takes some action, with regards to getting a suitable landing field in this city, the sooner will Belleville be ranked as one of those progressive cities which keep up with the times.

Common Sight Now

Planes are becoming, as common nowadays in and around the city as they were during the years of the war, when it was an uncommon sight to see fourteen and fifteen in the air flying in and out of formation at one time. Mail planes pass over this city daily until now the citizens have almost stopped craning their necks to get a glimpse of them. And yet if Belleville had a flying field and a Flying Club, many of these citizens would be more than pleased to lend their support to the advancement of flying in this district.

Name Aeroplanes

A movement is on foot to have aeroplanes appropriately named, and it is gaining much headway. As an example the instigators cite the case of Capt. Courtney's plane which was named in accordance with their policy. This plane with its crew was rescued from the Atlantic after it had drifted one hundred miles from the place where it dropped into the ocean. What more appropriate name for a craft like this could be found than the Whale? Perhaps if more transatlantic flyers adopt this policy of naming their planes after amphibians the planes in turn will live up to their name in an amphibian manner. The organizers of this movement also have a suggestion for the name of the plane which the United States Navy is planning to build equipped with six machine guns. We unsolicitedly endorse their suggestion of "The Spirit of Chicago."

Birds "Hook" Rides

Birds are not too slow to realize the advantages of aviation, a report from Winnipeg states. The birds out there follow the example of the wild west and play rodeo, using aeroplanes in place of steers and bucking broncos. Western aviators state that it is not uncommon to find ten or twenty birds "hooking" a ride, all comfortably settled on the machine. As the planes bank around a few birds slip from the wings, only to regain their perch as the plane straightens out. Experts say that the birds are relieved of much fatigue on a long journey by this intimacy with those who have invaded their realm.

Game Wardens Use Plane

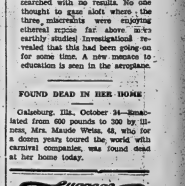

Aeroplanes have been used for some time for forest patrols in search of fires, but now game wardens are taking to the air. The Conservation Department of Western New York State have arranged for the use of aeroplanes to apprehend violators of the game laws. A Waco plane is used each day patrolling the district in search of stray shots.

Aeroplane Escapade

Surreptitious aeroplane escapades are sited as the reason for the expulsion of three boys from Eton College, Eng. When supposed to be in class one bright summer day they were missed and the alarm sounded. The usual haunts of boys who play "hookey" from school were searched without avail. The swimming holes and fishing pools were searched with no results. No one thought to gaze aloft where the three miscreants were enjoying ethereal recess far above terra earthly studies. Investigations revealed that this had been going on for some time. A new menace to education is seen in the aeroplane.

TALL YOUNG MAN TO ENTER REGIMENT

Lowell, Mass.—Leon F. Hayden, a tall young chap of 19, who stands six feet six inches in his stocking feet and weighs 197 pounds, found himself so cramped when he felt the urge to serve his native land in the uniform of its army, Hayden and his parents at length hore in the United States have for some time made their home in the Canadian city.

The young man heard he could enlist in the United States army, so set out for that state on foot. Failing to find an enlisting station in Maine and having come as far as New Hampshire, he made his way to Haverhill on foot, only to find he had been misinformed. Hayden was told he was certain to find a recruiting station in Manchester. He wasted no time in getting to the New Hampshire city, and he resumed his hike, to meet with success upon his arrival there. He has reason to suppose that after his 500 mile journey the hiking days of Hayden in the army will hold no terror for him.

Radio Air Gleanings by "Static Bug"

Speaking of wireless radios, which we assure, a friend of mine was trying to decide what kind of a set to buy and had five different makes in his home, two or three of them connected at the same time. After two nights of "listening in" he still couldn't decide which was the best set.

Augurs pretty well for the general practability of the modern radio set. Anybody in any home any night of the modern sets advertised in responsible publications. They're all good and good nights and words can't describe a bad night.

Although the great New York stations put on wonderful programmes, it is doubtful if any are better than the Imperial Tobacco programme broadcast over CKGW. Here is one solid hour of entertainment that WILL or WHAP can't beat. Besides that, it's Canadian, advertising a Canadian industry and other stuff has turned out to be eastern Canada's most clearly "picked up" radio broadcasting station.

DJ's ever go home and turn on the radio and have them tell me only with thins eyes" played five times—five——throughout the evening and about the fourth time I went for a drink seemed to call for a nice long, cool one and then find that there wasn't a drop in the house!

There was an announcer named Janice

A favorite indeed with the dams:
But they all had to smile
Every time he'd switch
When they heard him pronounce for—
High stations.

Tarzan acts as Kok's rival for the girl's affections and a battle for supremacy between him and a grizzly bear with a lower, picks up his handkerchief, trips Kok and does other bits of highplay that one would expect a human to do.

Two feature pictures.

BELLE THEATRE

George O'Brien, who plays the role of a hard-boiling cop in Fox Films "Starpsbooters," due at the Belle Theatre tomorrow, has graduated from the ranks of the extra specials to the position of leading man in the course of two years.

O'Brien, like many of the playboys, put his himself into any type of role with equal ease and assurance. He has played the part of the dashing romantic type of part as in a fighting role. He scaled the heights in his "part" by.

When asked what type of role he preferred, O'Brien said that there was no one type that he specially liked to portray. He said he liked different types.

"With the same role for every picture a person's interest naturally wanes," he said, with some difficulty trying to characterize and bring out in each production, it proves a stimulus to the mind to find some new depths to the personality."

Lois Moran plays the sisting feminine role with O'Brien in "Shadows Sold," and others in the cast are Nancy Carroll, Tom Dugan, William Demarest, Noah Young and Donald Archibald. J. G. Blystone directed from an original story by Randall H. Faye.

BASKET STARS SWING IN ACTION

Industrial League Opens Tonight At Y.M.C.A.—Keen Interest

Sharp at 8.30 the 1928 edition of the Belleville Industrial Basketball League gets under way at the "Y" when the Alemite and the Stephens-Adamson teams hook up for their first encounter of the season. Johnny Kerr has gathered around himself a fast bunch of cagers, who should be a real thorn in the side of the other three entries, while "Al" Walters, captain of the B. A. outfit, has picked the biggest team in the league. They all measure around six feet and weigh around 200 pounds.

One hour later the Associated Oil-ers take on the C.N.R. "Speed Kings" who gathered together such choice players as Milt Davidson and Frank Symons, as well as several others who are good. Veteran Wete is out again, this time as captain of the C.N.R. outfit. His promise to run on some dark horses, but he will need to, to take measure of the Oilers.

A small admission will be charged and no doubt many of the Belleville basketball fans will turn out to see these games. Little has been done in Belleville as far as sport is concerned but the Industrials make basketball history, so now fans have a chance to get some of those yells and cheers out of their system which they have been saving up.

BRITTON IS NOT LIKELY TO START

Queen's Captain's Injuries Prove Serious—Tricolor Ready For Varsity

Kingston, October 24.—Back in har ness again after their game at Montreal on Saturday, when they swung back into the race for the senior inter collegiate rugby title, Queen's yester day afternoon plugged along for al most two hours during which every player on the squad, excepting Britton and Handford, got a fair gruelling.

Coach Carson had the intermediates, who were eliminated on Saturday by R. M. C., lined up against the sen iors and the clip they as was a fast one. The intermediates didn't seem to care what they did, and kept up their terrific thrusts at the seniors throughout the practice. Monahan did nimble the ball carrying for the seniors, though still hobbling badly. His foot had not fully responded to treatment, but declared he was ready for another spell of sixty minutes against varsity. One of the senior lines of the practice, however, was the way "Bud" Gorman, the former Hamilton Technical College star, changed through the intermediate line.

Every time Gorman got the ball he was able to shove over the odd five or ten yards. Gorman didn't get a chance in Montreal, but he is practically certain of getting action against Lee Blackwell's team.

"Ike" Hutton again directed the team at quarter, and he was given relief by George Caldwell. The latter looked good on the plays he pulled, but if things develop as they did in Montreal he will not have much of the game from the field.

Queen's backfield worked well, especially on end runs. Warren and Carter loomed large on cutting through the ends while their passing was both daring and accurate. Carter seems to have taken a new lease on life, and the excellent passing he has developed a "pep" that has proven contagious. "Doc" Durham played through the vacation period without a game, and will probably play in that position against Varsity. Britton's injured knee, which was really a new injury to an old wound, is believed to be such as to keep him out of the game, and perhaps out of rugby for the rest of the season.

Handford's foot was walked over a dozen times in the Montreal game, and is twice the normal size, but a couple of days should see him in shape again.

Today almost 2,000 tickets for the game on Tuesday will be disposed of locally, and still there was a big demand for more. These tickets included 800 students. Because one of the biggest contingents to ever follow the tri-colour colors of town is sure to be at the Varsity stadium on Saturday.

WATT'S PORTRAI WILL BE SOLD

Included in the proposed sale of the late Ellen Terry's effects will be the well-known Watts' portrait of her at the time of her marriage painted by her first artist husband. It has been suggested that the picture should be presented to the National Portrait Gallery, but the executors have no power to make such a presentation. Included also will be the monochrome portrait in oil of the great actress as Lady Macbeth, by Sargent, which was reproduced on the program of her jubilee performance. It is probable that her house at Smallbridge will be acquired as a national memorial, but if this is not proceeded with Miss Edith Craig will retain the house and the farm adjoining for her own use. The cottage is left to Miss Craig and the furniture to herself and brother. They would, however, both be happy for the cottage to become a national memorial.

SportOgramS By "The Observer"

Industrial League Basketball gets away tonight in the Fall League when the Alemite Products and the Shepherd-Adamson entries pry off the lid at 8.30 at the Y Gym. Belleville fitmen who are interested in the game would do well to take a walk over and see what the boys are shaping up. The league this fall promises to be one of the fastest yet, all the teams being apparently quite even.

Most of the old faces will be back with a liberal sprinkling of new ones, and the fact that this league brings on the players for the Intermediate team should be a big factor in its favor and in its success. At nine-thirty the C.N.R. will take on the American Optical, which should be a good game for the nightcap.

This league deserves the support of the fans, for good entertainment will be provided during the "dead" season between baseball and hockey, and for the very small admission which will be charged, all fans should be satisfied.

Belleville Collegiate bucked up at the last minute and saved their selves from oblivion for this year by the game they put up last Saturday, and if they play the same kind of rugby when next they meet Albert College, should force the series into an extra game. Although they won by only one point they clearly deserved a larger margin, as the touch which Albert made was somewhat tainted.

Sir Williams played his best game this year and with his pivot working overtime went through time and time again for substantial gains. Although light, he hits the line hard, and Keeps his eyes open to look for holes. Another pleasing feature was that there was none of that pugilistic feet-or abroad, and the game went off without fights.

Belleville's Grads are arranging a game either with Albert College or with Picton for a week from today, and no doubt many will be glad of the chance to see this team in action. They should be of intermediate O. R. F. U. calibre, as there are many players in the city who have voiced their intentions of trying out. Several experienced players who have taken up their residence here would like nothing better than to get in the game again and all that seems to be lacking now is a good coach.

Coaching is half the battle in rugby, and if one could be secured who would take a little time with the team, next year Kin City would be represented in the Intermediate O. R. F. U. Peterboro and Belleville would no doubt make a welcome addition.

Belleville Collegiate girls have dropped out of the Bay of Quinte League this year, although they have a fine new gymnasium and efficient coaches. Perhaps they know best, but it certainly looks as though girls' basketball will receive a big setback by dropping out. They could have carried on for this year even though they finish 'Ci in last place, and have developed some of their players for next year.

Cliff Goyer, well known local ho key player has received notice a report to St. Louis of the American Association Hockey League t November the 3rd. The many friends of "Cliff" will watch his progress with interest.

CAN A DEAD MAN SUPPORT A WIFE?

Toronto (CP)—Judge Mott in Surrogate Court is often faced with poser questions, but both in that league and Belleville would no doubt make a welcome addition.

but here is one that caught him. A younger mother with two children, charged her husband with failing to support her or the children, and parents had been separated for two years. The evidence of the wife-mother was allowed to be put in, then counsel for the husband-father took charge.

He produced an "In Memoriam" notice from a local paper which gave the name of the accused husband-father as having died on September 30, 1926, and then was a notice on the paper September 30 last from the wife who laid the charge yesterday, saying "In memory of—Gone, but not forgotten.

Then how could a man who is said to be dead be tried on any charge? That was the point that faced Judge Mott. But the wife soon explained the whole story. She admitted putting in the "In Memoriam" notice. She gave no reason for it. Finally Judge Mott through his testimonial brought matters to a mutual understanding, between husband and wife.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FORD

Production and Demand for New Ford Exceeds All Previous Records

The manufacturing schedules of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, have been steadily built up until a new daily record for Canadian automobile production has been reached.

Despite this peak output, orders for the new Ford keep uniformly ahead of the rising tide of manufacture. It is therefore necessary to continue at high rate of production. To this end a steady flow of material from more than 385 Canadian sources streams into the Ford plants. And here, with more than 10,000 men on the payrolls (almost double the previous employment record) these materials are converted into New Ford cars.

Ford Quality of Manufacture Has Been Strictly Maintained

In the effort to build enough New Ford cars to meet requirements, no deviation from the high standard of Ford precision has been permitted. This standard, unbelievably strict, was set before the car was placed upon the market, and it has since been rigidly adhered to.

In the New Ford Car 40 different steel alloys are used. Each is chosen for the specific use for which it is best adapted. In the transmission gears alone there are seven different kinds of alloys. Likewise, the forged steel spring perches, hardly bigger round than a man's thumb, will withstand a strain of 15,000 pounds. This is 30 times greater than the strain put on them in ordinary use.

The excellence of materials used is matched by the careful precision of its manufacture. For example, the eight valve guides in every engine may deviate from perfection only by 1/30th of the thickness of the average human hair.

The simplicity and soundness of Ford design is unparalleled. Such manufacturing methods ensure a high degree of satisfactory performance over a long period of years.

Ford Performance is the New Standard for Judging Automobiles

The rapidity of get-away and acceleration of the New Ford is a by-word. Its endurance, which permits sustained driving at the higher speeds hour after hour, is little short of marvelous. The ease with which steep hills are climbed in high gear is equally an impressive revelation. Steering and handling of the car under the most trying road conditions are exceptionally simple. 25 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and remarkably low oil consumption give a worthwhile operating economy.

In city traffic and on country highways, the New Ford performs as well as and often better than considerably heavier and higher priced cars. In the light car field it is absolutely without equal.

By these marks of Ford performance other motor cars are being judged. It simply means that price is no longer the gauge of automobile quality.

Ford Beauty Is More Than Skin Deep

On the surface the New Ford car is all that you want it to be. Beautiful new lines, harmonious color combinations, sparkling nickel, sturdy steel spoked wheels and balloon tires all play their part in making this a car of graceful proportion and handsome appearance.

But its real beauty is invisible. The quality of materials; careful workmanship; correctness of design; the things that really matter—these are the points in which the New Ford is exceptional.

Windshield of shatter-proof glass and a six brake system, fully enclosed, safeguard occupants in any emergency. Every efficient aid to safety in conjunction with the best proven light car spring system, give maximum riding comfort. All models are completely equipped to provide the ultimate in comfort, convenience and safety.

If you have not ridden in the new Ford car, or experienced the thrill of driving it, there awaits you the knowledge that car values have actually changed; that a really fine car has come into the light car field; and that values offered by the new Ford cannot be duplicated anywhere. Your local Ford dealer will prove these statements by demonstration.

TOO DISCRIMINATORY ABOUT IMMIGRANTS

Melbourne, Australia. (By C. P.) — Commissioner Lamb, in an article issued by the Salvation Army immigration department, entitled "What is Wrong with Migration," suggests that the Dominion should not be so particular about the quality of migrants.

He quotes instances of official stupidity in rejecting Britons anxious to migrate and adds: The white Australian policy is evidence of sound loyalty to British ideals by a young nation. Yet the pressure of world population changes may cause adjustment in this policy. The yellow and black races are rapidly increasing, and no one knows to what extent this will affect the future nationality.

Mr. Forrando, secretary of the Development of Migration Commission, states that most of the four thousand Germans who have gone to Australia have made good, and many are now prosperous share farmers. The statement he made in reply to the report that Hubert Storey had said that he had not heard of a single successful farm among the Dreadnought boys. Mr. Forrando adds that many of these men have done so well that they have nominated their parents and relatives to come to Australia.

BORER PEST HAS BEEN REDUCED

In Great Majority of Districts It Is Dying Out

The corn borer had already last fall reached to almost every part of the province therefore this year it had little chance to spread further. It has however, become more abundant where the corn borer act is not in force and so as not to be found in numerous fields and gardens where it was not present last year.

Last year only eight of the worst infected counties were under the corn borer act. This year much new territory was added, and the act was put in force in all the area south of a line from Goderich to about eight miles north of Toronto and extending east from there as an average distance of about six miles from Lake Ontario to the eastern boundary of Hastings County.

Last year we had the reduction in five out of the eight counties under the act. This year although full data for some of the counties has not yet been obtained, we have sufficient to show that while in a few counties the borer has continued to increase, yet in the great majority including all the worst infected there has been a gratifying reduction. Last year, in the six worst infested counties of the province—Essex, Kent, Lampton Middlesex Elgin and Welland—the average percentage of corn plants infested by borers was 43 per cent. This year the average is 29 per cent, a reduction of a little more than 33 per cent. The reduction in Essex and Kent the last two years has been very conspicuous, as can be seen from the fact that in 1926 the corn on more than a thousand square miles in there counties was either totally or almost destroyed, while this year there were not two dozen fields in them ruined.

In the few counties in which the borer continued to increase this year, in spite of the clean-up measures, a good deal of early corn was also grown and the increases in some way seems to have been associated with this fact. We are, however hopeful that with a little extra care and study, we shall now be able to make a reduction in these counties. It should be remembered, too that the increase in these counties was not nearly so great as it would have been if there had been no act.

It is not planned to bring any new counties under the act this year but in all counties where only the southern portion was included last year there will be an extension to either the whole of the county or to all the northern part. Extensions have made only when 80 per cent of infestation seems to justify them.

Farmers should study the best methods of clean-up, thereby efficiently in conforming to the requirements of the regulations under the act is the amount of labor falling on fields that is often needed. Every farmer should therefore strive to lessen this as much as possible, by cutting the corn low and crushing the stubble well on the ground, and also by using any other good method to make his field say for good ploughing. He should then use only a wide furrow plough and should cover all stubble and other debris in the field thoroughly. In addition he should make the necessary precautions in spring and to drag this up. If he fails to do so, he has the privilege of postponing the plouging until spring thus avoiding winter heaping of stubble. In every county there are farmers who treat their fields in such a way that they have either no land-picking or almost none to do. Every farmer should aim to this.

Small plots of sweet corn are an important source of borers and should be very carefully cleaned up in the spring.

The inspectors will gladly give any suggestion in their power to help persons in doing the work in the best and easiest way.

Pat Sullivan, Detective, Promises Sensational Evidence

EXCAVATION WORK

Province May Assist Financially In Solving Mystery

Toronto, Oct. 25.—Co-incident with the developments in the Ambrose Small mystery brought about by the investigation of the international criminologist, Dr. A. M. Lazaguer, Pat Sullivan who has been investigating the case for the sisters of the missing theatre magnet, declared this morning that the Redcake dump must be excavated and that if the Government does not do it, the Small sisters will, according to a report published in the Mail and Empire.

For some years the belief has been expressed that the body of the missing man is buried in the dump. Some excavating work was done but the ground has never been thoroughly searched.

The Mail and Empire continues, "The revelations that will amaze Ontario are promised by Sullivan. He says that he will show cheques issued in connection with the disappearance of Small that will startle the whole Province."

Financial Assistance.

Dr. A. M. Lazguer, in his efforts to solve the mysterious disappearance of Ambrose J. Small, may be accorded financial assistance by the Province, at least to the extent of a reasonable amount for his fare expenses. It is learned authoritatively that he has stated his case, first to the Attorney-General, then at the latter's request to the Deputy Attorney-General and to the acting commissioner of provincial police, and has asked financial aid in carrying his inquiries out.

It is stated that there is no disposition at Queen's Park to view his request unsympathetically, particularly as Lazguer, for any personal reimbursement other than fare expenses, is said to be looking to the long-standing rewards offered for a solution of the nine-year-old mystery.

NO DEMAND FOR AIR MAIL STAMP

Ordinary Five Cent Postage Will Cover The Cost

One hundred and fifty of the new Air Mail stamps have been sold in Belleville since they arrived here last September. The sales date from September 18th. Although air mail transfer is invaluable in certain districts, it is rather curious to spend five cents to dispatch a letter from Toronto to Belleville, as the plane takes the letter from Toronto to Montreal and it is then placed on the train for Belleville. Thus tape is lost; and if the sender had posted it to Toronto in the evening it would arrive here in time to catch the early morning delivery. Postmaster Alfred Gillen stated to a representative of the Intelligencer today.

The new stamps are most pleasing in design. The design shows a map of Canada on the globe with two female figures joining hands over a panel bearing the word "Air". There is only one price, that is five cents, which covers the first ounce, and ten cents additional must be paid for each succeeding ounce. In sending a letter by air-mail, Mr. Gillen stated, it is necessary to affix an air mail stamp. All that is needed is five cents additional must be paid for each ounce and above the first one, the letter must be written "Via Air Mail".

There is a daily plane service between Montreal and Toronto and the aeroplanes can make the journey in three hours and a half, some eight hours for a fast train.

Another issue

Another interesting issue is the latest two-cent denominations. There has been a complete change in design in these stamps, although the stamp itself is of the same size as the previous one. The picture of His Majesty King George V. shows a front view instead of a side one. The frame, too, varies from being oval in more rectangular in design. The figure "2" is large, making it much easier to decipher.

Local Members of Parliament Were The Chief Speakers

THE TOAST LIST

County Council And Friends Feted At Tweed Auditorium

Probably never before in the confines of the village of Tweed has such a banquet been held as that tendered by Warden Samuel B. Rollins, of the County Council, last night. Council members, ex-council members, ex-wardens of the council, prominent members of the Provincial Parliament, Federal representatives, prominent Belleville business men and friends of the Warden to the number of about three hundred congregated in the Auditorium in Tweed village last night at eight o'clock and not until long after 1 a.m. in the morning did the affair end. Twenty-four speakers were listed on the programme and three was not one dull moment in the evening. A more than delicious supper was prepared by the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star, some five courses in length and it is unlikely that Warden Rawlings Banquet held heretofore proved more popular.

When one stops to consider that more than as far as eighty miles attend the event last night, it argues well for the popularity of Warden Rollins. And when one stops to consider again that the speakers included such fine master of oratory as Mr. "Billie" Ireland, M.P.P., Mr. "Ernie" Tummon, M.P., Dr. A. T. Hunter, K.C., M.P., J. F. Hill, M.P., Mr. W. H. Nugent, County Clerk; Mayor Ellis of the city of Belleville, Mr. John Elliott of the local branch of the Standard Bank, Mr. J. Owen Herity, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and a host of other notables it is easy to imagine it was a splendid function this must have been.

The first toast is to the King, to the Warden, to the Dominion of Canada, to Education and it's Advantages, to the Province of Ontario, to the County of Hastings, to the city of Belleville, and, last but not least, to the Ladies, God Bless 'em. Besides this such artists as Mr. James Bankier Dr. Locke and the small son of Warden Rollins furnished scientific music during the dinner and at intervals during the evening.

Presentation of Cane

There were several "high-lights" that will not be forgotten by those that attended for some time. The one of these was the presentation to Warden Rollins by the County Council of a beautifully engraved gold-topped cane. The Warden was touched at the time that he could hardly express his appreciation. Another interesting feature of the evening was the evening with the presentation to Mr. Barton Haggerty of the Dominion Shield for Agricultural Work. This presentation was made by Agricultural Representative Hamilton and the correspondence by a shtable address. Mr. Haggerty has thus won for himself a four day trip to Toronto and Montreal to attend the Winter Fair that will be held in the Quinte City.

And last, to close the meeting, and perhaps the most touching and beautiful event of the night was the observance of that custom that seems to have died out at banquets of this nature, that is for everybody to join hands in a circle and sing "Auld Lang Syne." When three hundred hands met around the old refrain the very rafters of the building trembled.

The banquet was expected last night by more than one speaker that Reeve Rollins would hold his high office for many years to come, and the general concourse of the guests was that the popular reeve of Tweed would do his very best to keep Sammie had something nice to say about the Warden, eulogizing his splendid character, his capacity for work, his knowledge of municipal science, and many other virtues, but not one thing too much was said. Warden Rollins in the past year proved himself more than worthy of the high trust that the county council placed in him.

No, although a great many of them are, the Wardens are not all dummies. There is nothing tedious or dry about Mr.

CROWDS SEE AIR FILM "WINGS" AT CAPITOL

CROWDS

As many of Belleville's citizens as could possibly crowd into the Capitol Theatre last evening were there to see the first presentation of Paramount's now famous aviation film "Wings" here for a two-day showing.

As well as marking a newsera in motion picture melodrama, Wings combines a powerful and gripping romance with some of the greatest aerial photography ever seen on the silver screen aerial combats thousands of feet up planes crashing, all expressive of the youthful spontaneity, pep and crowds that characterized these fighters of the air, these all go to form what is undoubtedly one of the best films ever to be shown locally. The casts have plenty of talent and requires at the same time plenty of courage; both are there for Wings has made stars of more players, and one of the youngest directors in Hollywood.

An augmented orchestra, presenting synchronized musical effects, a big part in making Wings outstanding, and the management of the Capitol has in Wings brought to this city a picture which should not be missed by every lover of really good movies.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By

J. A. McFEE, Optometrist

Belleville

No excuse need be offered by those who attempt to show the advantages of the correcting of errors of vision?

None should be necessary. Public welfare demands a more thorough recognition of any and all influences that tend to retard public advancement.

How does abnormal vision prevent progress?

In various ways. School children are handicapped by eye strain due to defective eyes show several result that are well known to Optometrists.

Name these.

Lack of interest in studies. Carelessness. Willfulness. Disobedience.

How are these conditions caused by eye strain?

Success in any endeavor depends upon concentration. This is difficult or impossible when a child's nervous stability is interfered with by the irritation of eye strain.

PROGRESSIVE IN SCULPTURAL ART

Quebec Leads Ontario In Memorials of High Quality

Toronto (CP)—Development of sculpture in Canada was dealt with optimistically by the Globe in a recent editorial on the display of sculpture in the Toronto Art Gallery which occupies three rooms and represents nearly a dozen workers in the plastic art, illustrating different periods and manners. Mentioning that more imagination has been used by artists in recent years than formerly. The Globe says:

"There is, for example, the effective war memorial by Mr. Henry Herbert, at Outremont, with the tragedy of war indicated by the figure of a woman weeping. Earlier work included Bell Memorial at Brantford by Mr. Walter S. Allward, with is broad expanse of bronze on which messages of joy and Sorrow, such as would be conveyed by the telephone, are suggested in reliefs.

"Still earlier were the masterly groups by Philippe Herbert in recording the life and achievements of Maisonneuve, the founder of Montreal. And if we would go back to the primitives, there were the wooden carved figures of almost two centuries ago in the church decorations of New France. A few of these have been preserved, and are treasured relics of the beginning of Canadian Art.

"The Sculptor of today has moved far from those accomplishments Wood is little used, though a few wood carvings adorn the Art Gallery rooms. There are creations in plaster, bronze, marble and tin, and there are variations from delicate likenesses of men and women to mere abstractions such as like the modern 'busts' in the store windows. The richness of recent work in portraits garden sculpture and home decorations show that substantial progress is being made.

"Toronto has reason to feel a keen interest in the development of sculpture. Quebec is more lavishly provided with public memorial, many of them of high quality, than is Ontario But Ontario has a considerable group of workers in the plastic Art and the Sculpture Court in the new Art Gallery provides an effective setting for work of this kind for coming generations."

HEALTH CLINIC MAKES VISIT TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Edmonton, Alta. - (CP)—Alberta's travelling health clinic is doing excellent work, an example of which is seen in the recent report from the school at the village of Alliance. The clinic composed of three doctors and four nurses, visited Alliance for two days under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

The four-roomed school in the village was turned into a temporary hospital where the patients were made comfortable. On the first day 94 children who had been recommended by the nurses who preceded the clinic were given thorough examinations by the doctor in charge of the clinic, 29 were recommended for tonsils and adenoids and a large number referred to the family physician, dentist and optician. On the second day 16 operations were performed to tonsils, two for adenoids and two minor operations. This clinic left for the third morning for Rosyth.

SERVED NINE PRIME MINISTERS WELL

London, (By C. P.) — John Kerr is retiring from the post of foreman of the supply division of the Office of Works after 40 years service, during which he served under nine prime ministers.

Mr. Kerr, an active man nearing 80 years of age, was born at Luss, Loch Lomond, and came to London as a youth. It was in his responsibility to arrange the furnishings of state apartments on great occasions and to see to the equipment-generally of the residences of members of the Royal Family and cabinet ministers. He supervised the equipment of the foreign office No. 10 Downing Street, St. James' Palace, and in by, some days Osborne House and Windsor Castle. He helped to arrange for the coronation of King Edward and King George.

"Serving with distinction, I have arranged the furnishings of No. 10 for nine Prime Ministers," said Mr. Kerr to a newspaperman. "Getting No. 10 ready is a difficult job. Some Prime Ministers like to bring their own furniture ;Mr. Baldwin is one of them) while others rely more in the Office of Works. I shall always remember Mr. Bonar Law for his little dog Farnham. He used to follow me, miles from Downing Street, and it was marvellous that he did not get lost. I draped St. George's Chapel for the funerals of King Edward and Queen Victoria, and I was foreman of the dismantling of Osborne House and the preparation of it was B'ovovalescent home for sold iers and Sailors."

GRADE CHILDREN AS TO MENTALITY

Prof. E. D. McPhee Suggests Three Grades In Schools

Toronto (CP)—The grouping of children in different grades in the schools—the retarded, average and brilliant children—was recommended by Professor of Psychology, E. D. McPhee, University of Toronto, in a recent address here. The old maxim of the child to the school," the professor said, "we must fit the school to the child." Declaring that there were more people in the mental hospitals in Canada than in the public schools Prof. McPhee said four percent of the children entering primary schools were headed for mental hospitals. He regarded the situation as serious, and grouping the children in different grades, he thought, would relieve it to some extent.

DEHYDRATING PLANT BURNED

Vernon, B.C., Oct. 25.—The building, machinery and stock of Bulmans Limited dehydrating plant here was destroyed by fire today with an estimated loss of $125,000. Ninety employees at work in the plant escaped uninjured. Stock consumed included 120,000 pounds of dehydrated apples ready for shipment.

ART TREASURES FOUND RECENTLY

London, (By C. P.)— A rich store of art treasures was found recently in a boy box at High Beech, in the heart of Epping Forest, where Adolphus Hermann Louis, regarded by his neighbors as eccentric, lived. He lived a life of retirement but he was fond of children and often stopped to speak to them.

Last week no will, and as no relatives have been traced his residence and its contents are to be sold by auction, and the Crown will take the proceeds.

His pictures include two by Corot and other artists represented are Constable, Herring, Linder, Grahame and Mulready.

He had water colors by Birket Foster, etchings by Whistler and Brangwyn but it is said that he valued more than anything else two photographs of Mr. Gladstone, whom he reverenced.

His library consisted of 6,000 volumes including early editions of Dickens and Hardy.

EXERCISE TO KEEP A SLIM SILHOUETTE

It haven't made you do much exercising lately, but it was really too hot to work hard. Now that it's cooler, however, we've got to get back on the job of keeping hips slim and waistline supple, for there isn't any indication that fashion is going to produce anything but the slender silhouette this Fall and Winter. There is a decided change, however, from the emphasized figure to one that is healthily rounded.

The hip exercise is not so bad as it sounds, thank goodness, so don't be frightened out of trying it!

Remove all tight, binding clothing (which isn't as silly as it sounds, for tight, straightline silks can bind the body when it is in action just as much as the days of yesterday), then stretch out at full length on your back on the floor. Now turn over until your weight is resting on your right side. Place the left hand on the left hip and with the right hand placed palm downward on the floor, push up the upper part of the body as far as you can. A little practice and you'll be able to push up the body until the right arm is perfectly straight and when this happens you'll discover that your hips and upper limbs also have left the security of the floor! Which is just what we want for when you can thus master the first stage of the exercise you are to raise the left foot as high into the air as you can and lower it again repeating twenty times.

Rest for a few minutes and repeat with the left side. This exercise will slenderize the hips and strengthen the arms and shoulders.

A splendid exercise to use in connection with the one above to help slenderize the hips and to exercise the back and shoulder muscles is as follows.

Lie flat on the back on the floor, then raise the feet high up in the air until the entire weight of the body is now on the shoulders. You'll need to support the legs by bracing them with the hands on the hips and the elbows on the floor.

Now, holding the left leg straight up in the air, bend the right knee until it threatens to hit your nose! Avoid this calamity by straightening out the leg again and lower the left leg in the same manner, alternating in this way until you've lowered and raised each leg twenty times.

Advice to Girls
By Anaie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years of age. Pretty, very attractive, plenty of money to spend and lots of good looking clothes and a big automobile to drive. I have a sweet disposition and am popular among the girls; but I have very few boy friends. Please tell me what to do to make me popular among the boys.

LITTLE BIT.

LITTLE BIT: Probably the boys are scared, my dear. You seem to have so much that they probably haven't that they are bashful about asking you to share what pleasure they might give you. Why not give a party some evening, and I don't mean a big, elaborate affair, and have a bunch of the boys and girls there. Show them that even with all the luxuries you have that you are willing to share their pleasures and at heart pru "one of the crowd" and they pro bably will lose their bashfulness and include you in their activities.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are two girls in our teens and we both admire the same boy very much.

He also seems to have the same feeling for each of us. We are great friends and do not wish to quarrel, so we would like very much to have your advice as we could really determine which is the better for we are sure he can not like both alike.

BUBBLES AND SHORTY.

BUBBLES AND SHORTY: Of course, the young man can like you "both alike", my dears. Why not? He probably feels very friendly toward you both, so why not enjoy a platonic friendship rather than quarrel over it? If he likes one of you bet ter than the other, you'll soon know it, but until that time comes, let things remain as they are.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

Something that most of us can take to heart is the advice given, in this little talk on table conversation, and, in fact, any conversation. Too often someone is left out in the cold, and consequently made to feel uncomfortable when a word or question of subject would draw that person into the pleasant intercourse that makes life interesting.

It is never courteous, in a group, to discuss topics which are of interest only to one or two of the party. The tactful hostess always endeavors a way to introduce the subjects of interest which will enlist the conversation of all her guests. It is the height of rudeness for one or two members of a company to monopolize the conversation to the exclusion of others in the room.

But did you ever stop to think how we parents are likely to do that very thing at mealtime with our children. Parents are such busy people and they have so little time to discuss with one another the many things which concern them and the children are so constantly bickering and chattering over their petty differences, that the parents, if they are masterful, will talk about people they know, books, politics, money matters and all sorts of thing which are beyond the interest of the children. Yet we expect the children to be courteous to us. When we are aged, it will hurt our feelings if they treat us in that way.

Wouldn't it be a much sweeter and more polite and fair way to talk about things at meal time in which all the family can share? To discuss school or the doings of the day or some interesting things one or more of us have read? It would be merry and makes the mealtime a sociable time to be remembered by the whole family as the years go by and the family is scattered.

One of our contemporaries says that beauty cost American women $425,000,000 last year, or an average of $3,000,000 a day. This includes cosmetics facial treatments, and the care of the hair. I do not know that the figures are available for Canada, but I strongly suspect that they are in a like ratio with the population. This article goes on to tell about an information in one of the Toronto shops ..... a woman who sits at a desk and prescribes the right sort of rouge and powder to suit her dress and color at five dollars a dose. Now we will admit that no woman knows another well enough to tell her that her make-up is funny or that her dyed hair is comic, no, we said nothing about hats, bands or brothers, whose word wouldn't carry much weight anyway) but there does seem to be something wrong in the scheme of things when such a sum as the above mentioned is spent in one day on cosmetics. We are not advocating a return to the days of no make-up for women, but surely that a touch of rouge or pastile does wonders to a plain, face. It would look queer to see the faces on the trees all naturelle. I wonder how many we would recognize? Nevertheless what is there in so much need in the world it seems a shame that so much should be spent on beautifying one's appearance. We are not sure that beauty is the right word in this connection, and, if the finished products we have seen are certainly not artistic successes. We do not expect to state any views in this connection but just a suggestion—the next time you are tempted to buy that unnecessary new fangled powder puff, think about some needy charity and devote your collar to that.

One of the most interesting places to while away an hour is the China Shop. It is gay with color today. The dainty, anaemic dishes of Grandmother's day have given way to the bizarre patterns of the moderns and the futurists.

Here you will find cooking dishes of green or blue or orange glaze; dainty lacy Dresdeny plates and cups; flowered like a piece of ancient calico or checked and striped like heavy ginghams.

Taste is in evidence in the modern dishes. The unpretentious shapes and clever ornamentations are quite in their places are simple patterns, graceful lines, beautiful color harmonies and fine designs which you could possibly imagine. It seems that every little service has a dish all its own.

Among the novelties are tray-plates with compartments for the coffee cup and for each separate article of food. They eliminate saucers and side dishes for vegetables. They are called "luncheon sets" and are useful when serving a lap lunch on the porch, or for a breakfast in bed.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Opening attic windows for ventilation helps keep the house cool.

For a cut on broken glass, pour kerosene in the wound before any other application to prevent soreness and further trouble.

Always keep one or two attractive cest hangers on the clothes tree for the visitor. Her coat will then stay in press all the time she is with you and at the same time you will not have outside dust brought in on your clean bedspreads.

Linoleum will never crack if cleaned with vinegar and olive oil in equal quantities instead of soap and water.

Transplant your bed of parsley to a pot while it is young and healthy. Then you have your kitchen window sill plant for next winter and indefinitely. She always welcome garnish right on hand.

When the fur neckpiece is shabby, cut it down for small daughter, eliminating worn places and joining the good to form a collar for her little coat. She will be delighted and it will be a smart touch to the coat.

In many of the smartest and most attractive, coats declared by the mannequins the large fur collar which leads the mode is arranged to hold the wrap-over of the coat in position and this makes a very becoming line while another interesting phase of the mode appears in the treatment of the head, which is left unstuffed and limp.

Rollins entertainment. It will be long ere such a splendid banquet will be enjoyed by any of those present last night and a great deal longer until a better one is given.

It is hard to say just whose speech was the best. All the speakers limited themselves to about ten minutes all the most a great number of them such as Mr. Elliott, Mr. Duff and Mr. Herky only speaking some two minutes.

The Tourist Trade

But one of the masterpieces of the evening was the address given by Dr. A. T. Embury and another by Mr. E. W. Tummon. In replying to the toast to the Dominion of Canada, Mr. Embury said, in brief—The things in the Dominion that affect us the most are the amount of money spent on the road. Last year in Canada some $45,750,000 was spent. We got back in tourist traffic some $276,000,000. I cannot understand why more money wasn't spent on the Hastings County roads." he finished up humorously. "But getting down to serious facts," the doctor continued, "there is no country in the world in the last century that has improved as much as has Canada. She has had an unprecedented era of prosperity, particularly in the last twenty-eight years. In 1928 were produced 500,000,000 bushels of wheat. Our mineral wealth and our manufacturing possibilities are greater than of the newest countries of the world."

"I am not concerned with immigration," he said in closing, "the only thing that counts is that we keep Canada British. There is a possibility for this country to support 75,000,000 people but we want them from the northern parts of Europe and the British isles. Canada has had a really great problems, only some proportions."

E. W. Tummon, M.P., too, gave an excellent address. "Canada," he stated, "is a great western continental power. We think of England as the old world but we are of the new world. We only greet your performs the part of the Empire in the new world is Canada. One of the marvels of the world is the unity of that empire. Our nations are standard. The cannot understand that a group of nations so separated can after all be so united.

Canada Has A Mission

"All our governing institutions we have inherited from the mother land. More than that, we in Canada have an ideal in life. Canada has a mission to perform in the world. Perhaps some day Canada may be the seat of the British Empire. And who knows but that history may repeat itself? Should that never come to pass still as that great western continental power, I believe it is our mission to prove ourselves worthy of that honor even if it never comes to us." Mr. Tummon, as all the other speakers, could not talk too highly of the merits of Warden Rollins.

Colonel Reuce Vanderwater, proposing the toast to the Province of Ontario, and J. P. Hill, M.P.P., and W. Ireland, M.P.P., responding with three other short addresses that were enthusiastically received. In proposing the toast Colonel Vanderwater said: "New Prescott you will find a fort, a monument to the early settlers by the name of Fort Wellington and one cannot refrain from recalling to mind the struggles and sacrifices that those people had to undergo in those days. Inscribed on the walls of this fort are the words, 'Love' they thy land."

"Ontario," he enlarged his theme, "is the banner province of all the provinces, and we are more than proud of it." The Colonel went on to tell of the splendid municipalities there especially Hastings County, and the advantages of living in such a province.

In replying to the toast, Mr. Hill spoke briefly, but right to the point. "We don't say much about our own country," he said, "we think that we ought to toot our own horn a bit more. We have the greatest country in the world, we none. We should be proud to belong to the British Empire, the Empire that is pre-eminent in this modern world, the greatest empire, in fact, that the world has ever known or is likely to know. We, in Ontario, have the honour of being residents of the banner province of Canada, the best and most prosperous province of them all. When we compare our lives with those of other countries we are indeed lucky, we have every possible advantage in this province."

Our rugby team is going to give Albert the fight of their lives on Saturday. Albert are broadcasting a lot of bunk about the Collegiate having to beat them by 12 points on Saturday to win the league. When it was decided to play four games there was not the slightest idea of points count ing, but games were to count, so why all this talk? Albert is not banked on paper instead of on the field. It is the Writer's prediction that most of them are getting cold feet, or already have them. Mr. Shiels has written to Toronto about it and as yet there has been no answer.

A school paper was published once every two weeks and great interest was taken in it. This year things have been very quiet so far in the Literary department with no particular signs for a change.

Ontario's Mining Assets

Mr. Hill then spoke particularly of two prominent members, the Hon. William Finlayson and the Hon. Charles McRae. He spoke, too, of the great mining assets of Ontario; surpassed by none in the world, of the great fish and game preserves that attract literally thousands of tourists to Canada every year. "The Department of Health and the Department of Highways were touched lightly upon by the speaker. 'In closing, he congratulated Warden Rollins on Centennial Park, a new addition to the village.

Mr. Hill was followed by Mr. Ireland believed by all in Hastings County, "Billy", like his predecessor, spoke but briefly, but his remarks were terse and hit the mark. "We are going to have a surplus on hand the 1st of November," he said. "This is indeed good news. $10,000,000 was collected in taxes from gasoline and licenses in 1928, and all of this will be used in the keep of the roads of the province.

"There is no province in the Dominion doing as much for Education as Ontario is," he continued. In the correspondence school the Department carries knowledge into the far outlying districts, and another splendid feature is the travelling school, a school that reaches hundreds of children in the country of ordinarily which otherwise would probably never see the interior of a school house.

"There is no section of the province that has a keener interest in education than the County of Hastings. The high schools and collegiate institutes of the county are marvellous. Hastings is the greatest of them all in a great many ways. Belleville has just erected a new collegiate institute that is one of the best in the province. I believe that in the not too far distant future they will pay a greater dividend than the real estate wheat fields of the west."

In opening the banquet, Mr. Nugent, the toastmaster of the first half of the evening, gave an address, humorous, explaining just how the residents of the county of Hastings were chosen. The warden in the old days, he explained, was chosen by their personal appearances. After this they were chosen for their knowledge of municipal law, about 1916, however, this was changed and they were chosen by council of their exemplary conduct; in 1920, oratorical qualifications were necessary; in 1924, good looks were the requisite and in 1928, S. S. Rollins possessed every one of these qualifications named, so he was honored.

Dr. P. T. Bowby gave the address of welcome on behalf of the Warden. "I am pleased," he said, "most pleased see here representatives from every point of the county. I am pleased to see you here to do honour to our warden. I welcome you, first, on behalf of the town and secondly, on behalf of the village of Tweed."

This was responded to by Mr. Geo. W. Bailey, Reeve of Marmora. "The village of Tweed has been honoured by having such a man as Sam Rollins as warden," he said. "Also that the banquet was held here. "I deem it a great pleasure to have worked under our warden this past year. He always cooperated, he always gave the best to us that was in him, and on behalf of the County Council I wish to present this case to you to show you the place you hold in our hearts."

Visibly affected, Mr. Rollins rose to reply in a few words. He told how much he had enjoyed his work in the council and he thought that the council had done the best for his native village, Tweed, that it possibly could. "We worked harmoniously, the council is composed of broad-minded men," he said, and nothing bette could be said.

The other toasts, the one to the County of Hastings, proposed by Mr R. M. Mitchell, reeve of Thurlow, and replied to by the chairmen of the various committees, and the other t Education and the Department of Highways were touched lightly upon by the speaker. In closing, he congratulated Warden Rollins on Centennial Park, a new addition to the village.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 5.

"MARRY IN HASTE"

Constance rang for her coffee at nine o'clock the next morning. Dressed early, after a dance, the Kerr heiress slept until noon. But on that bright summer day, she rose early. She wished to meet the Count de Bellefonte at an appointed place.

She told her maid to pack, intimating that she was leaving for the first house-party in a few hours. She met her fiance according to schedule and he kissed her hand all the way to the City Hall. She was very confused when the whole proceedings. "Which should have proved to me that I didn't give a rap about him," she said to Sheila.

By sheer luck, they evaded reporters, and, in the jostle and jam of the marriage-license bureau, they escaped recognition. A clerk asked them questions and filled out some blanks. Constance was relieved to see that the names of "Eugenia Kerr and Jean LaFarge" signified nothing to him.

Afterward they sought the justice of the peace in an adjoining room and were married. Then they entered a taxi and sped uptown.

"I dropped the Count at his hotel," Constance explained. "He decided to stay there for a few days—or until we could get reservations for Europe. It's terribly difficult, at this season, you know, because everybody's going abroad, but Jean thought he could manage it. He promised that I should pick up my bags and depart, ostensibly for a house-party, and meet Jean at his hotel. Meanwhile, Jean would write a letter to my family, announcing our marriage and address it to the first port of call of the Sea Gull. We hoped the news wouldn't leak out before we were safely embarked for Europe."

Constance returned home and saw that her maid was packed. She gave her maid a month's vacation with full pay, looked around her luxurious suite of rooms, and inspected the contents of the jewel-case that her maid handed her, to assure herself that all of her jewels were there. She missed one article—a bracelet that Harry Edmonds had given her at Christmas.

"It shows where my heart was," she remarked in self-defense to her maid. "Barely married to another man, and unable to go on my honeymoon without his bracelet."

She and the maid searched her effects without result. She tried to remember the last time she had worn the bracelet and recalled that it had been on the afternoon when she had driven Frida Mannheim to the library, and Felicia had told her about Julia Bentley being on the ship on which Harry had sailed. After Felicia had left, Constance went into a transport of jealous rage, wrenched the bracelet from her arm, and threw it on the floor. She hadn't seen it since. She recalled that her mother had come into the library just as she was dashing up to her room to have a good cry! It occurred to her that her mother might have picked it up and, sensing with relief that this was another of Harry Edmonds, decided not to reopen the subject.

Constance went to her mother's rooms and searched. She felt that she absolutely couldn't go without Harry's bracelet. She was a very beautiful secretaire in the sitting room, with a little secret cabinet, Constance knew that her mother sometimes put things of not too great value. She knew how to open it and did so. The bracelet was there.....And other things were there, also.

The other things were the letters to herself from Harry Edmonds, bearing a London postmark.

"Poor darling mother!" Constance sighed at this juncture while Sheila looked on. And she added at this evidence of material duplicity, "I must have hurt her conscience to take those letters out of my life. She probably comforted herself with the thought that she wasn't stealing them.....misplacing them."

Constance sat down and read each of those six tempestuous love-letters from Harry Edmonds. When she had finished, she knew that she could never love any one but Harry. The Count was a bad mistake. She was much too late to correct it. Harry loved her. He was repentant, imploring. He begged her to come to London and marry him.

Constance was accustomed to making instant decisions. Wealth is assurance, and, if she chose to go on a trip at a moment's notice, she had the wherewithal to grease the wheels of red tape, to overcome obstacles. Overturn them. She set all official dom on its ear. Fifteen minutes after she had read Harry Edmond's letters, she was in a steamship office, demanding passage on the first boat bound for Europe.

PLAN INTER-CITY SOCCER LEAGUE

Belleville Included In Proposed Eastern Ontario Group

Belleville, Oct. 24—With competition very keen in the fall schedule of the Kingston District Association Football League and with interesting matches arranged on a friendly basis between Kingston teams and the Belleville Club, the interest in soccer in Kingston this year is far greater than it has been for some time.

As a result of this a suggestion put forward some weeks ago at a meeting of the local league is rapidly gaining in approval at all soccer enthusiasts and it is very probable that before the season opens in September, 1929 that an inter-city league will have been organized.

The Belleville team appears to be most enthusiastic regarding the idea while Brockville, Cornwall, Trenton, Deloro, and of course Kingston, might eventually enter teams in such a league.

Some few years ago Brockville had a strong team while Cornwall has had a local league for some years with a high standard of football being played. Very little is known here about Trenton and Deloro so far as soccer is concerned but it is understood that the game is played regularly in both these towns.

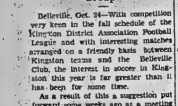

The soccer enthusiasts who are promoting this suggestion realize that such a league in Eastern Ontario would have to commence its first season in a small way or disaster would be bound to follow. They feel that it would be sufficient perhaps, if a three team schedule was arranged with Brockville, Belleville and Kingston represented in the league. The jump from Cornwall to Belleville is considered rather a long stretch for teams in a league which would be wholly without funds.

The schedule, it is thought, could be arranged on a home-and-home basis, each team playing two games at home and two away, with a final game on neutral ground if necessary. Under this general tentative idea each team would pay the whole of its own expenses and take the whole of any gate receipts received either at home or away.

The first season under such an idea, would naturally be purely of an experimental nature, and it would be upon the success or failure of such a league, depending in a large measure on the loyalty and enthusiasm of each individual team, that the future of the organization depended.

The season would be but a short one, commencing early in September when the interest in baseball is waning, and continuing until the commencement of the regular soccer league schedule in October, and thus not interfering with the plans of purely local teams which would naturally supply players for the inter-city team.

The idea is worthy of discussion, and it is likely that a meeting of representatives from neighboring cities will be called in Kingston for this purpose in the near future.

U. S. THANKSGIVING

Washington, Oct. 25.—President Coolidge issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation today by calling upon the people to offer thanks on Thursday, November 29, for prosperity in agriculture, industry and commerce, and for the peace which has existed in the last year.

Experience the Joy of a Quick Start the COLDEST WINTER'S MORNING.

Enjoy freedom from difficulties of winter starting—Install a Knight Motor Heater and say good-bye to cold morning starting troubles.

The Knight Motor Heater keeps the motor warm when standing in a cold garage—makes a heated garage unnecessary. Imagine, at twenty below zero—you set your spark and gas-step on the starter—and you get the immediate response of a purring motor, warmed up and ready to go. No trouble. No delay.

The warm engine—the easy start—saves wear on the motor—saves run down batteries—reduces crank case dilution troubles—saves your time—your temper—your self-respect. You need a Knight Motor Heater—the saving is greater than the cost.

It is not Winter driving that wears out the motor—it is stored cylinders—burned out bearings—loose piston pins—and worn out batteries.

It is Winter starting with a cold engine and the consequences necessary flooding which washes the lubricating oil off the cylinder walls, and the frozen oil which refuses to circulate, thus causing the first five minutes running of the motor during the warming up period to be practically without lubrication.

This metal to metal contact during the warming up period is what causes the huge depreciation in Automobile Motors, during the Winter service. The tremendous drain on the battery in starting, a cold motor causes a run down battery, being driven in this condition it becomes alphated, and the next thing the owner knows he needs a new battery.

Knight Motor Heaters reduce or eliminate all these winter troubles, and increase the life of your car—save loss of time and temper and add to the joy of winter driving.

STEVE O'NEIL TO MANAGE LEAFS

Toronto, Oct. 24—Steve O'Neill, former Toronto catcher, will manage the Toronto Leafs in 1929 according to an announcement made today by Vice-President Dunn of the Toronto Baseball Club. He will also be a first string catcher on the local team.

O'Neil was a former catcher with the Leafs, but has been with the St. Louis American League team for the past two years. He is to be playing manager and guarantees to catch at least 100 games during the coming season.

It is anticipated that Bill O'Hara, present manager of the Toronto team, will manage Newark next season, succeeding Walter Johnson, who has gone to Washington. It has also been suggested that O'Hara might remain with the Leafs as business manager next year, as he has been given that opportunity.

Dr. Lou Hudson, Olympic hockey star, now practising medicine in Timmins, Ont., who will coach the South Porcupine N. O. H. A. intermediate team this season. It is not known whether Dr. Hudson intends to turn out with the team, but there is a feeling that the call of the ice will prove to be strong when winter sets in.

OPENING GAMES OF BASKET LOOP

Stephens - Adamson And Canadian Nationals ...Were Winners

For early season games the basketball fixtures at the Y.M.C.A. which were played last night were certainly splendid exhibitions of the indoor pastime and a few railbirds who turned out to witness the twin bill were well repaid for their efforts.

The opening fixture resulted in a win for the Stephens-Adamson by the score 31-18 largely the result of better team play. The Kerr Quintette were not able to play at full strength and a portion of the game had to be played with four men aside.

The C.N.R.-American Optical game was a hard fought battle the former having a slight edge throughout, in the play. The full time score of 22-18 was the result of a close checking game in which very few fouls were made.

THE TEAMS—Stephens Adamson, McFee, Faulkner, Miles, Chadwick, Byrne and Walters (Capt.) Alemite, Miller, Kerr (Capt.) Kinnear, White, Cole.

C.N.R. V. Weir, J. Redfern, Duff, Morrison (Capt.), Pinkston, Buchanan, H. Redfern. American Optical, Curry, Byrne, Armstrong, Symons, Davison, Hitchon, N. Symons, A. Weir.

GIRL OF MOMENT ABLY DEFENDED

Cambridge, (By C. P.)— Discussion of sex difference at the British Institute of Adult Education Conference at Cambridge, recently, led to a striking defence of "The Girl of the Moment" by Miss Merrington, head of the Bailey Street Women's Institute, under the London County Council. Miss Merrington said: "We have been so long told of the limitations of women that it is time we stood up for them. The girl of the moment," she said, "is better paid, has a daintier way of dressing, is not so marked out from the class above her."

Of mixed classes she said:: "The influence of the young man teacher has a fine effect for discipline on my girls. I would not be without a young man teacher for anything. Nothing presents any tendency to hooligan behaviour more than a polite 'good evening' from a young man teacher."

Miss Phillips, of the Training College Association, said:: "The experience of teach-rs and examiners is that girls naturally are less fluent with their tongues, but more fluent with their pens than boys and men."

ANOTHER METHOD TO EXTERMINATE FUNGI

Stockholm, Sweden, (By C. P. — "A new and fully effective method for exterminating the fungi causing the surface of sawn timber to turn blue has been invented by a Swedish engineer, Vindar Jernberg. The method consists in exposing the wood before the drying process to impregnation by a special gas, which ensures immunity against the blueing of the surface and the deterioration of the wood resulting therefrom. It is calculated that the Swedish timber industry incurs a loss of $1,000,000 yhy reason of the wood turning blue, but the Jernberg method, which has been tested for a period of three years at a leading Swedish sawmill, will involve a total extra cost of only 72 cents per standard of sawn wood.

COUNT WANTS TO ENTER THE U. S.

Karolyi, Former President Of Hungary Returns From Mexico

Paris—Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the defunct Hungarian Republic has asked that his application for a visa to enter the United States "without strings attached" be referred to Assistant Secretary of State Castle in Washington. The Count has just returned from Mexico and applied for his visa here.

"I was allowed three days in the United States while the ship on which I was returning to Europe from Mexico remained in New York Harbor" he said. "I took advantage of this period to visit Assistant Secretary Castle in Washington. He told me that if I applied for a visa at the Paris Consulate in the regular way I might hope to re-enter the United States with the same status as any other alien visitor.

"I wish to make a lecture tour with the unrestricted privilege of speaking on European politics, particularly in regard to Hungary. I have good reason to believe I will be allowed to carry out my wishes after the United States elections are over. I also hope to adjust another matter which I had no time for during my recent stay. American banks are holding some $30,000 credit of the non-existent Hungarian Republic which I hope to get released."

URGE ABOLITION OF PREY FISH

Portland, Me. — Maine fishermen, worried by what they see as a menace to the supply of valuable food fish as represented by the large number of skates, dogfish and other destructive varieties, are urging that steps be taken to reduce their numbers. Some have suggested that if these "waste" fish were utilized as in Nova Scotia for fertilizer and other purposes that fishermen would have an incentive to bring them ashore, instead of casting them adrift to resume their destructiveness.

One fisherman, Capt. Jim Leavitt, has this to say:

"I was up in Nova Scotia that they first discovered what an enemy the skate is to the lobster. As a result a warning was issued to fishermen that the skate ate hundreds of young lobsters. The fishermen thereafter ceased to cut them adrift, but brought them in to a fertilizer plant where they are dried in the wind and sun and ground up for fertilizer.

"If we want to save our lobster and food fish industry from their natural enemies we must soon do something. Fish fertilizer factories at frequent intervals all along the coast, bounties paid the fishermen for bringing in such destroyers as dogfish and skates, would solve the problem. It seems to me the government could well afford to help out private capital in establishing such fertilizer plants and the demand for fish meal for live stock and fish fertilizer could be made equal to any supply."

BARBER FINDS THE PATIENT CUSTOMER

Port Credit, (By C. P.)—The patient customer, the barber's dream, has been found here. He was discovered recently when William Newman had him lying pace in his chair, somnolent under the soothing combination of lather and hot towels. One-half of his face had been shaved, when, without warning the firealarm was sounded. According to the story, before the last resonant tone of the alarm bell had died the implements of the trade had been dropped, the while coat of the barber had been replaced with clothing, and Fire Chief William Newman was speeding on the way to the conflagration. One hour later, the fire out, the chief returned, and as Barber Newman whetted his blade, Mr. Patron turned the other cheek.

Funds have been subscribed by some rich patrons, who have formed a limited liability company with a capital of 1,000,000 francs, and the director, Pierre Dortot, has been given to Louis Fursetier, Ernest Ansermet and Alfred Casella, Artur, in 1929.

BIOLOGY TO AID THE U. S. FARMER

Classifying Distinct Belts of Plant and Animal Life

For many practical advantages to agricultural, the U.S. Bureau of Biological Survey is classifying the distinct belts of plant and animal life on the North American continent, as affected by climate and altitude.

Authorities say no longer are specific The old geographical divisions of torrid, temperate and frigid zones, enough. There are seven natural life zones spanning the continent in very irg and fantastic shapes. An understanding of these zones is expected to result in a knowledge of the average climatic conditions of any part of the country and the adoption of certain crops and livestocks or other industry to natural influences.

In agricultural regions it is often important to know what fruits or cereals or vegetables will give their best returns in a certain valley or section of the country where long tests have not been made. With a working knowledge of the zone in which he lives, the farmer can drop the struggle against needless production and turn his efforts to species which adapted, will have an advantage from the start.

The fact that the life zones are not uniform belts across the continent is readily explained by the effects on climate of varying altitudes, slope exposure, or the varying angle of the earth's surface toward or away from warming rays of the sun, varying degrees of humidity, prevailing winds, character of soil or soil cover and many other factors which tend to raise or lower the average temperature of the ground level. Change of altitude, or base level, is the strongest modifying factor and often carries a zone a thousand miles or more out of its normal line. For that reason an arctic life zone may be found far from the polar regions.

About one-half of one per cent. of all United State money is never presented for redemption.

HORSESHOES!

Every able-bodied Canadian, from fifteen to sixty, can cherish the ambition to become a champion horseshoe pitcher without overstepping the bounds of human vanity, according to Billy Struthers, the Sarnia youngster and Walter Kane, his older partner, who between them carried off the Dominion Championship trophy at the contest held at the Royal Winter Fair last year. The Sarnia shoe-tossers are planning to put up a strong fight to retain their title at the coming contest at the Royal in November, but they are willing to pass along any hints on pitching that may help those less experienced in handling the irons. Four years ago Billy was in short pants and Walter Kane thought that horseshoes were not worn on the hoof, belonged to a pile in the blacksmith shop. That's the hopeful thing about it for all those who are just making their debut as pitchers; it does not require long years of practice, a squad of trainers and coaches and a manager who pockets the lion's share of the reward. And as for rewards, this ancient and honourable game is strictly amateur, with only trophies and glory held out for the champions.

Just keep pitching—and get started right; that is the advice of the Canadian champions. "I catch the shoe on the side and very loose in my hand," says Billy Struthers, "and throw straight for the peg, and nearly all my shoes land open and flat. It sometimes to come natural to me as I can get the open shoe with two or three different holds. Of course, a beginner won't be able to get ringers; you have to work, keep your shoes coming open and straight for the peg. Don't throw your choo too high or too fast. I throw mine about five to eight feet high." Billy started to pitch in 1926, after he had seen "Pusi" Mosman, at that time the world "champion" pitcher do his stuff at Sarnia. "I started right in to pitch," says Billy, "and after a few weeks of practice I was getting a few ringers and once in a while the open shoe. I kept right on practicing, and got to playing in the regular games with men." Before long this youthful pitcher had outclassed the men and began to carry off first prizes in steady succession. In the contest at the Royal he was the sensation of the meet, where his uncanny precision in placing ringers startled the crowd.

Walter Kane, on the other hand, was one of those who got a wrong start. "When I started to pitch four years ago," he tells us, "I took what nearly everyone thought was the right hold—finger around the heel calk, threw it about forty feet in the air and open it like a top. If you didn't do this you didn't know how to pitch" and ringers were an event of some importance. We had built a gym in connection with our church and I was instrumental in having themwbuy a set of regulation horseshoes. I had only heard of such things by chance a few weeks before. In a short time we had organized the first horseshoe club in the province. Later on we brought "Pusi" Mosman to give an exhibition and it was through him and th1 different holds to make it lard flat and open. It was a real job to change over to a new hold, but after that we found out about the open shoe some months of practice I eventually got the open shoe; but I couldn't judge the distance or get it straight for the peg. Those are the three things, you have to learn to get ringers, and a lot of practice is needed. I have seen some men master a new hold in a few weeks and others never seem to get into it. At first but I am using the calk-and-a-quarter; I have tried this since Labor Day and find it more satisfactory as it is easy to throw. I always stand on the left-hand side of the stake, catch the shoe on the side, and close to the toe with the heels toward the outside; have the shoe very loose in your hand and throw it right or left feet high straight for the peg. It will almost always land open with a good chance for a ringer. Watch how your shoe lands and remember just where you held it. If it lands turning left just move your hand a little one way or the other until you get the right spot, and you will master the open shoe. For the turn-and-three-quarters, catch on the other side of the shoe, with the heel corks to the inside; or by catching down near the heel you can get a three-quarter turn. Stay away from clutching the shoe with your finger around the horseshoe. A good way to see if you are improving is to have some one score for you and pitch 100 shoes, keeping track of the points and ringers."

CHESS IS PLAYED BY CORRESPONDENCE

Halifax, N.S.— Certainly in the Pony Express day when letters were words "on the way," the person would have been considered demented who predicted that games would some day be played by correspondence. And yet for the last few years, although it is not generally known, correspondence chess has been played by the leading players in Canada.

No longer need a chess player confine his matches with those in his locality. If he feels the need for greater competition and the desire for keener gamshe merely selects a player whom he considers should make a good contestant, and sends him a challenge. Should the player accept, he mails a move, making a corresponding move on a board which he keeps for that particular game. His opponent then makes the move and in turn mails one back. This is continued until the game is won.

In Dartmouth, a town across the harbor from Halifax, T. W. J. Church has been playing correspondence chess for over three years. He is at present playing the Canadian champion Thomas Cowans of Montreal, if the first round for the championship. Mr. Lynch has "met" players all over the continent.

SCALLOP BEDS IN STATE OF MAINE?

Eastport, Me.— Search is being made in local waters for important scallop beds believed to exist here. If the Rockland Weekly Maritime and Fish and the Virginia R. are successful in locating such valuable beds it is expected much impetus will be given this branch of the fisheries. Local fishermen point out that Dr. Huntsman, biologist in charge of the Canadian Biological Station at St. Andrews, N.B., whose remarks on the Cooper Tidal Power Project created a furore last winter, has declared the existence of large beds of scallops in nearby Canadian waters.

While scallops always have been found in this section, no attempt has previously been made to gather them in quantities such as elaborately equipped boats with large crews should be able to secure. The local scallopers, operating in small boats, always have made wages during the winter, dragging in the bay for scallops, but their simple, crude equipment would not permit any big catch.

N. F. WOMAN WAS RESCUER OF BIRD

Boston.— Mrs. Evelyn Woodbine of St. John's, N.F., has attracted considerable attention by her action in rescuing a carrier pigeon from the torture of a crowd of boisterous boys. The pigeon, believed to have been worn out by a long journey, wore bands bearing tins following identification: Aug. 28 and L05810. Unable to locate the owner, Mrs. Woodbine has announced she will take her feathered guest to St. Johns, when she leaves for that city in the near future. She is at present visiting her brother here. The boys, according to Mrs. Woodbine, had the pigeon on a piece of string. The harried bird would fly to the end of the cord and then tumble to the ground. Since Mrs. Woodbine has become its keeper the bird has become a willing prisoner.

Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the Republic, on any interest date, at 110 days' public notice, at principal and accrued interest. Principal, failed notice, at principal and accrued interest. Principal, failed notice, at principal and accrued interest at the standard of and interest payable in United States gold coin of 1, 1918, in New York weight and fineness existing October 1, 1918, in New York City, at the principal office of either of the fiscal agents, J. Coupon form in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

- The Republic of Peru is the third largest country in South America, with an area of approximately 500,000 square miles. The construction of the Panama Canal reduced the steaming distance from New York to Callao, its chief port and one of the most important in South America, by 9,000 to less than 3,500 nautical miles.
- Mining and agriculture are the principal activities of Peru. Peru is the world's third largest producer of silver, and for many years has exported large quantities of low-cost copper. Eighty per cent. of the world's production of vanadium comes from Peru. The principal United States mining companies operating in Peru are the American Smelting and Refining Company and the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation. The petroleum reserves, considered of great potential value, are being rapidly developed by capital from the United States and other foreign countries. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, through its subsidiary, is active in this field. A wide range of climatic conditions result in diversified agricultural production. Four-fifths of the world's supply of alpaca wool comes from Peru.
- It is estimated that more than $480,000,000 of foreign capital is invested in Peru, of which about $250,000,000 is capital from the United States.
- The revenue applicable to the bonds of the Peruvian National Loan amounted in 1927 to $19,413,666, or 3.26 times the annual service charges on the outstanding bonds of the Peruvian National Loan.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Moral vision is a grievous bar
To perfect judgment.
—BOKER.

THE GREAT ISSUE

Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance of the nomination by the Democratic party as candidate for the governorship of New York State, emphasizes the importance of State ownership. "The people own vast water power resources," he said, "and by the far-seeing insistence of our Governor were saved at the eleventh hour from the loot of private hands in large portion of those resources. The time has come for the definite establishment of the principle as a part of our fundamental law that the physical improvement and development of State-owned water-power sites shall not pass from the hands of the people of the state." This is an issue which is greater than all the others that have been raised either in the State or the Federal elections. It is an issue as vital to Canada as to the United States, and by and by it will be the great issue to distinguish all political parties as they stand either for or against it.

TWIN EARLS

The death of the Earl of Durham last month admits his twin brother to the title, which he missed by a few minutes at his birth. They were sons of the second Earl who married one of the beautiful Hamilton sisters, for whom he had thirteen children, nine of them sons. The late Earl was a great horseman, a member of the Jockey club and senior steward five times, yet he never had a bet on a horse. The new Earl is the Hon. Frederick Lambton; their next brother is Sir Hedworth Meux, which name he took in 1911 on succeeding to the estate of Sir Henry Meux, the brewer. He had been scheduled for his service in the Boer war when, as captain of the Powerful, he landed a naval brigade and brought some heavy guns into action. Their grandfather the first earl, was the author of the celebrated Report that led to the present Constitution of Canada.

SYSTEM AT FAULT

The Philadelphia house-cleaning continues. Several captains, detectives and patrolmen have been indicted on charges of bribery and corruption and if scores or more are dismissed, "head and finest" suspended. One man has already pleaded guilty. It would be very nice to assume that this investigation will continue until every guilty man has been entered in the book; to assume that Philadelphia, after it is all over, will be given complete decency and probity in its law-enforcement activities. But one may be pardoned for being a little cynical about that. No United States city can go for very long without being swept by a reform wave. The nuisance crowns of metropolitan politics is bound to become fat enough to be ignored every so often. But the only trouble is that it is almost invariably the small fry that get caught. The higher-ups go free and are seldom even mentioned. And after the smoke has cleared away they are usually to be found doing business at the old stand in the old way—a little quieter, perhaps, but essentially unchanged. Reform waves may come and go, but the system under which so unnecessarious political machine can fasten itself on a large city and have its own way is seldom touched. The fault would seem to lie with the people. Political corruption, on a greater or smaller scale, seems to be almost inevitable under present conditions. When half of the electorate will not take the trouble to go to the polls at all; when the nominating of candidates is left entirely in the hands of those with personal axes to grind; when it is taken for granted that certain evils and abuses will be winked at, the wonder is not that there is corruption, but that there is not more of it.

CAN HE DO IT?

Dr. Maximilian Langsner, Viennese crime expert, who some time ago created a sensation by helping the Munich police to solve a murder mystery by the use of, what was akin to hypnotic suggestion, is now in Toronto, and claiming to be engaged in an effort to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Ambrose Small, Toronto theatrical magnate who dropped out of sight nearly nine years ago, and has never been seen or heard of since. Not long after he had helped to solve the Manitoba murder, Dr. Langsner claimed that he had the key to the Small mystery, and that he would soon reveal what happened to Mr. Small, if he can do this, or can even provide any clues which will give a definite idea as to what happened to that theatre owner, he will have done much to prove his claims to be something out of the ordinary as a criminologist, for this case has baffled the police and detective forces of Toronto for many years. In all that time, not a clue has been found to aid the sleuths in their search, nothing up their minds as to what happened to Small, yet Dr. Langsner came on boldly and said he had been murdered. Not only that, the Viennese expert claimed that he could produce the murderer.

Dr. Langsner now has a splendid opportunity to prove his claims. Attorney-General Price has handed him over to the acting chief of the provincial police, with a request that all he can be known. His attitude to this request will decide whether he has any real information or is just faking. No man ever had a better opportunity to make a reputation for himself as a criminal investigator, and if he can do what he said he would do, then many people who have been sceptical as to his ability and even as to his credentials will have to do a great deal of apologizing.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Farming may produce no millionaires but it has no bread lines.—Rhinebeck Record.

NATURE'S PAINTINGS

What a wonderful artist is nature,
Her paintings soul-stirring and grand;
Perfection of art in each feature
And done with a Master's own hand.
With all shades of colors she splashes
On canvas of cloud and of air,
All over creation she dashes
Painting beautiful things everywhere.

What beautiful shading and blending
Of rose tints with purple and gold,
Mark the day's dawning and ending;
Her paintings will never grow old.
In day-time she uses the sunbeams,
Soft rays from the pale moon at night,
Or the twinkle and sparkle of star dreams,
What magic she works with their light!

She has wonderful garments for May time,
With fine alterations for June;
How lovely they look in the day time,
How sweet by the light of the moon
Of new coats and costumes a myriad,
So many bright colors for fall;
A special new garb for each period
And how well she looks in them all!

She has birds and berries which grow on the prairies
In autumn turn red as the rose,
Yellow and green and all colors between;
How beauties wherever one goes.
The scenes in the fall are dear to us all,
When we garner the beautiful sheaves;
How charming and grand in our
Maple Leaf land
Are the tints and shades of the leaves.

TOBACCO BARON FOR G. GRITAIN

London, (By C. P.) — Bernhard Baron, whose latest gift of $2,500,000 to charities has taken the form of a trust fund, is chairman of Carreras, Limited, the tobacco and cigarette firm. He has already given over $6,250,000 on philanthropy, and has now set aside $2,500,000 to be used for the benefit of hospitals and for homes for orphans and crippled children during the next twenty years.

The trust deed states that Mr. Baron has transferred the sum of $2,875,000 per cent Consolidated Loan, 1960 trustees, and provides that the trust fund shall be called "The Bernhard Baron charitable trust for hospitals and asylums for orphans and crippled children."

It also states that during a period of twenty years from the present time the trustees shall in every year apply such part of the capital and income of the fund as they think fit for the benefit of the institutions concerned.

The trust fund is so arranged that during the next twenty years the total amount available for distribution shall be approximately the same each year. The distribution is to take place annually on December 8, Mr. Baron's birthday, which he has celebrated for several years by generous gifts to charities. The distribution will start this year.

Mr. Baron also stipulates that the moneys available for distribution shall be applied in the proportions of fifty per cent among Christian and undenominational hospitals, homes and asylums, and twenty-five per cent among similar institutions under Jewish control.

He has appointed as trustees:

WHY HOME TREATMENT FAILS

A pathetic picture is the individual who has spent many months in a sanitarium for tuberculosis, only after being home for a while finds that the tuberculosis has again broken down and he must return to the sanitarium.

In the majority of such cases it is really the fault of the individual himself.

He may follow out at home some of the rules or habits of life he was taught at the sanitarium, but usually he fails to get sufficient sleep, and his tissues are thereby rendered unable to cope with the organism of tuberculosis.

In many places a patient with tuberculosis is sent to the sanitarium and his expenses paid by the community.

In other places there is no such provision and these patients are treated at home.

To take care of those unable to pay or be sent to a sanitarium, they are established, which are called "tuberculin dispensaries in Great Britain.

This system "appeals to the self interest and the intelligence of the patient, and keeps the physician and the patients in touch during the treatment, but for the purpose of after examination and after care."

Under this system the visits of the district nurse to the home of the patient, enables the patient to take care of himself.

In many of these cases the patient can go on with his work because after all, the treatment of tuberculosis is not by medicine. Rest in bed and body is the first big factor in the treatment, as active work or exercise in tuberculosis patients is very often harmful.

Food is the second factor; meat, eggs, milk, always, with vegetables and fruits frequently, make up a diet that is wonderful from the body building power.

Fresh air is the third factor, and is absolutely essential in treating all the foodstuffs and giving heat, energy, and cell building power. After these three things have worked the wonderful creature to normal, arrested the power of the tuberculosis organisms, and to some weight on the patient, three light daily outdoor exercises is given, beginning with fifteen and gradually increasing it to five hours daily. And this is all that is required of the patient whether at home or in the sanitarium.

This same common sense method is the ideal treatment for any run down or worn out condition.

CLERGYMEN IN OPENING SYNOD

London, Oct. 25.—Fourteen hundred clergymen, under the chairmanship of the Bishop of London met at St. Matin in the Fields Church yester day for the first synod of the Clergy held in the diocese since reformation.

Great Secrecy was observed. It was understood, however, that the Bishop intended to report on the decisions entered by the House of Bishops at their recent meetings and to ask that the diocese pledge itself to carry them out. These decisions include a ruling that the use of the revised prayer book which was rejected by the House of Commons should be left to a decision of individual parishes.

CATTLE CLASSES AT ROYAL FAIR

Unusually Large Number of Entries For This Winter At Ottawa

Dairy cattle classes at the Royal agricultural winter fair have always been an outstanding feature of the livestock end of the show, both for numbers of entries and for the high quality of the exhibits.

Competition has always been keen between the provinces, and entries from prominent United States herds have made the awards of international significance. This year the Holstein-Friesian association of Canada and the Canadian Ayrshire association are offering special inducements to exhibitors in the form of cash bonuses and—in the Ayrshire classes—by adding a cash award of $5 for each of three entries in excess of the prize money awards. All of the dairy breed associations represented — Holstein, Ayrshire, Jersey, Guernsey and French-Canadians— are contributing generously toward the prize money. A new and attractive special award is offered for the first time this year for the best Ayrshire dairy herd of four cows, any age, all of which must have had at least one calf. This trophy has been donated by A. W. Montgomery of Lostmeadow, Ochiltree, Scotland, and must be won three times (not necessarily in succession) to become the permanent property of the exhibitor.

Early entries in dairy products have been unusually heavy for the 1928 Royal. In no section of the fair has competition been the different provinces been keener, and the special efforts which are being made by provincial legislation to improve better fog been materially increased this year. An innovation of special interest to milk and cream producers has been arranged with the co-operation of the Ontario Milk and Cream Producers' association, in which contributors may submit not less than 30 pounds of cream or one eight-gallon can of milk. The judging will be under the supervision of Dr. F. C. Hood, chief of the division of dairy research at Ottawa.

NIGHT PROWLERS WERE FIRED ON

Hamilton, Oct. 24 — Wakened by noises in the cellar of her home early this morning, Mrs. J. Herrod, Burlington, strolle and went down-stairs and fired point blank- at two men she saw emerging from the cellar. One man lurched as though he had been struck and two turned and fled.

The police were called but could get no trace of the men though they are confident that Mrs. Herrod saw the "panis burglars," who have been active in this district.

HOPES TO HELP MIGRATION ACT

Oberholser Is Confering With U. S. Regarding Habits of Water Fowl

Halifax, N.S. — In order to obtain accurate information regarding the numbers, distribution, migration of waterfowl for the purpose of aiding in the administration of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act between Canada and the United States, Dr. Harry C. Oberholser, of the Biological Survey, Washington, D.C., is at present in Nova Scotia, conferring with officials of the Department of Lands and Forests.

The Biological Survey in Washington is part of the Department of Agriculture, which aims at the conservation of wild life, with the exception of fish, and particularly that of mammals and birds. A treaty has been maintained between Canada and the United States by which all migratory birds are protected, especially by regulating the hunting of them.

Hunting in the United States extends over a period of more than three months, during which time many of the fowl migrate from Canada and are destroyed by hunters of the other country. In order to avoid this it has been found necessary to organize a continent-wide census of the migrations and distributions of the birds.

Dr. Oberholser has been over Canada with the view in mind of arranging with the federal and provincial authorities for the forbding of observation stations. At a designated day, once a month, estimates will be obtained for the distribution of the water-fowl. In both countries there are at present four thousand such stations, and the hope is that the number will be doubled.

AGED BAPTIST IS STILL GOING ON

Providence, R. I. — At the age of four-score years, Rev. Gilbert B. Custer, has no notion of resigning. Instead he intends to continue as pastor of the Free Baptist ministry at Little Compton. Rev. Cutler has led an unusually active life. Years ago he ran off to the Arctic, piloted ships in the Great Lakes, sailed in the clippers and whalers of a century ago, adventured among Texas cattle rangers, served as chaplain in the Spanish War, and sat in the Rhode Island Senate for two years. As a pastor he has married a thousand couples and preached at almost as many funerals. After fifty years of Free Baptist ministry, he declares, there is no starvation in leisure, even at his advanced age. A few years ago he thought he would go into retirement, but he soon returned to the ministry.

BRITAIN WILL ATTEND SHOWS

England To Have Exhibits In Poultry Shows Here In 1930

London (CP)—The interest created throughout the forty countries which participated in the last congress at Ottawa, Ont., indicates the expectation that Great Britain will not fail short of her promises in the part to host to the World's Poultry Congress when it is held in this country in July 1930.

The Congress assumes more importance than functions of this nature ordinarily enjoy, because it follows upon such evenig in Holland, Spain, and Canada, which were given a national character by the Governments of those countries. It was at the invitation of Mr. Baldwin on behalf of the British Government, that the decision was reached to hold the next Congress in England. Already plans are being prepared in Canada and the United States for organized parties to connection with the Congress; and it is believed that some thousands will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit England.

In undertaking the organization of the Congress the Ministry of Agriculture attaches much importance to the occasion which, it is anticipated will not only bring a great number of people to this country, but will provide a marvelous stimulus to the extension and development of the egg and poultry industry. It is understood that the King and Queen and the Prince of Wales have consented to become patrons; and it is expected that the Ministers of Agriculture for England and Wales and Northern Ireland with the Secretary of State for Scotland, will be the official presidents.

Preliminary activity ha snecessarily been devoted largely to arrangements for the great exhibition, which is to be general public will be the chief feature of the Congress, and there is no little doubt that the Crystal Palace will evenually be chosen as the most suitable site for the most comprehensive display of poultry and small stock that has ever been staged. This, it is anticipated, will be supplemented by international character though a competitive element will doubtless be introduced.

A number of committees, representative of every branch of the poultry and allied industries, will be appointed, and the secretarial and directorial duties will be undertaken by the officials of the Ministry of Agriculture.

LIBERAL PARTY TO ANNOUNCE PLANS

London, (By C. P.) — By the end of the year every adult resident of England, Scotland and Wales will have been made aware of the history and future plans of the Liberal Party.

Every one of the 3,250,000 women newly-efranchised under the recent Act, will be visited, as well as new voters going of age, in their lie the ordinary way.

The huge canvass will form part of a Liberal national survey, plans for which are now complete. A record the names and addresses of all Liberals will be made in readiness for the general election, next year.

The survey will go on through November, Decembyr and January.

The annual register of electors will be issued next month and will form the basis of the survey. A special register will be issued in May next year to include the new women voters, and this information gleaned through the survey will be used to ensure that all Liberals entitled to vote duly appear on the register, on which the general election will be fought.

Each constituency association is to appoint at once a committee to organize the survey for its own area. The committees will include Women Liberals, Young Liberals and members of Liberal Associations and Clubs.

HOUSE PROBLEM HELPS CHARITY

Review of Minutes of Health In Helping Him To Decision

London, (By C. P.) — The whole question of the housing subsidy is soon to come under review by the Minister of Health, Neville Chamberlain, and it is understood that he will call a conference of local authorities to assist him in reaching a decision on the subsidy's future.

He will have to decide whether the subsidy shall remain as it is, be reduced, or abolished. Abolition is unlikely but a reduction is likely to be made.

Those invited to the conference; to take place shortly will be representatives of the London County Council, the Association of Municipal Corporations, the Urban District Council's Association, and the Rural District Council's Association.

The decision arrived at will be incorporated in a draft order to be laid before the House of Commons. The governing factor will be the housing position, and it is considered that this is not yet so satisfactory that complete abolition is possible.

Since the Armistice, 1,035,000 houses have been built in England and Wales; but there is still a big demand.

Sir Kingsley Wood Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, has undertaken that all houses completed by March 31, 1929, shall receive the existing subsidy, irrespective of any change that may be decided on next month.

The policy of the Ministry is to encourage the building of the cheaper class of houses—those selling at $2,750 and less—by restricing the subsidy to this class, as far as possible, and this plan is likely to be extended.

The following figures show past and present rates of the subsidy:

Before October, 1923.

For houses, not subject to special conditions, imposed by the 1924 Housing Act, $30 a year for 20 years.

For houses subject to special conditions—$45 a year for 40 years.

For houses in agricultural parishes—$62.50 a year for 40 years.

Corresponding rates at present:

$30 A year for 20 years.

$37.50 A year for 40 years.

$55 A year for 40 years.

The Treasury is anxious to secure the greatest reduction possible, but the Government's anxiety to make a good showing on housing is likely to prevent a really drastic cut.

WOMEN ONE DAY TO EXCEED MALE

New York.— Now comes Miss Emili J. Hutchinson, associate professor o economics at Harvard, to predict that her sex will, in time, outdistance the male. She is another of the long list of eminent professional people her, hailing from way down east and her associates number her one of the shrewdest teachers of 'women of the day. She is a native of Yarmouth, N.S.

She is the author of the standard work "Women's Wages in the United States," and she is convinced that once woman takes the same view of life as men, makes the same sacrifices to acquire knowledge and, make preparation for a real life work, she will advance far and fast, and make man resemble a fixed planet.

"Look far ahead," she bids young women, "select a specific vocation for which you are fitted in every way, and then begin. Woman must look farther ahead than she has. The idea of a temporary vocation until marriage, and a hazy notion of resuming it if need comes, is not enough. There are hundreds of new, useful, gainful and satisfying positions open to women to-day to constructive work, and have the patience, ability and determination to go through.

"Women are finding, as many men have, that the enduring rewards go to those who are prepared; bluff carries only so far and inadequate preparations invariably come to grief, eventually. Women seeking economic independence without professional character though a competitive element will doubtless be introduced.

A number of committees, representative of every branch of the poultry and allied industries, will be appointed, and the secretarial and directorial duties will be undertaken by the officials of the Ministry of Agriculture.

The connection was made about half past nine in the evening, and, with the exception of two small interruptions lasting only a few seconds, the talk continued without interruption of any kind.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Five men were blown to bits today in a premature dynamite explosion, in the Cote St. Michel Quarry, on the Island of Montreal. The dead are, Joseph Gagnon, Ernest Lepage, Eugene Lortin, D. Gagne and A. Shanard. The cause of the explosion is unknown as only the five men were at work at the time. The men were placing dynamite in the crevice of a rock. The switch controlling the fuse was not due to be closed for an hour later. Windows within a few miles area were shattered and small buildings in the vicinity wrecked. Two hours after the explosion morgue officials patrolled the vicinity looking for bits of the doomed laborers. Parts of the bodies were found hundreds of yards from the scene of the explosion.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Five men were blown to pieces at the quarry of Napoleon Dupuis at Ville St. Michel near Montreal, according to a report received here today. AERONAUTS PAY DELAYED VISIT

Captain Earl Hand And Clifford Wallace Met By Mayor

Captain Earl Hand, president of the Toronto Flying Club, accompanied by Clifford Wallace, Aviation Editor of the Toronto Daily Star arrived by plane at the Leaside brothers landing field west of the city. The object of their visit is to create a municipal airport in Belleville and to interview the city council on that subject.

It will be remembered that these two aviation experts were to have visited Belleville before, but due to adverse weather conditions they were not able to make the trip. If the plan of converting the Leaside landing field into municipal landing ground was carry it through, it would be a great step forward for the city. The mail planes between Montreal and Toronto could then stop at Belleville, as the intermediary point. The pair were met by Mayor Morley P. Duff here this afternoon.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER FETED

Hon. R. B. Bennett Is Given Great Ovation In Montreal

Montreal, Oct. 26.—More than 3,500 Conservatives from all over the province of Quebec gathered last night in the two largest halls of the Mount Royal Hotel to extend to Hon R. B. Bennett, leader of the Conservative party in Canada, as great a tribute of loyalty as ever any party head enjoyed in the city of Montreal.

The banquet, at which, Hon. Mr. Bennett was the guest of honor, originally was planned as a local dinner-conference, but it grew last night ally a province-wide event. The entire ball floor of the hotel was required for the banquet. Both ballroom and piazza were filled to capacity, with the table of honor set in the former.

At the hour of dining, the greatest enthusiam reigned. Groups of party men from the north of the province, from below Quebec, had things grilled with tuneful habitant songs. Then Hon. Mr. Bennett arrived.

Preceded by two pipers, he entered the ballroom. It was the signal for a reception that lasted for five minutes. All stood, cheered wildly, and then floated up the famous Quebec song for heroes, "I a gagne ses quatre-vingt."

Arthur Sauve, leader of the provincial Conservatives, and Brigadier-General G. Eric McCuaig, identified mainly with the federal Conservatives, were joint proprietors and their presence side by side struck the true keynote of harmony and solidarity between federal and provincial forces which gladdened the heart of many a staunch party man in the throng.

MADE STATEMENT

Commander Says Oceanic Trip Was For Demonstration Purposes

Lakehurst, N.J., Oct. 26.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the transatlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin today abandoned his plans for a flight to the middle west, before returning to Germany. Cancellation of the trip was announced after numerous postponements caused by unfavorable weather either at Lakehurst or along the proposed route of flight.

Dr. Eckener made a statement saying he would "look forward" to making a western flight after our ship has been proven by another round trip over the Atlantic.

"The primary object of the flight of the Graf Zeppelin to America," he said "has been to demonstrate that modern rigid airships can be operated across the North Atlantic and on other oceanic passages with safety and reliability.

"To accomplish that object I could see it essential that the return to Friedrichshafen be made without unreasonable delay."

31 LIVES TAKEN IN RAIL WRECK

Italian Engineer And Family Fatally Injured In Collision

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 26.—Thirty-one persons were killed today in a collision between the Simplon tunnel express outbound from Bucharest and another express train from Sinhi at the little station of Recen near Sinaia. Those killed included an Italian engineer, his wife and daughter and a Greek passenger. Twenty-five persons were taken to hospitals. The force of the collision was so great that one of the sleeping cars of the Simplon Express was completely wrecked. Two dining cars caught fire and a baggage and mail car were smashed. The other 25 killed were Rumanians who were travelling third-class in the Simhi train. The number of injured was stated to be 40. LANGSNER LEFT FOR EDMONTON

Leaves Toronto And Small Mystery For Lecture Tour

Toronto, Oct. 26.—Comfortably installed in a compartment of a C.N.R. train, Dr. Langsner and his wife left at 9 o'clock last night for Edmonton. There, on Monday, the "eminent criminologist, hypnotist, psychologist and what not, will fulfil a theatrical engagement, or, as he prefers it, "open a lecture tour."

About 15 minutes before train time his dark, dapper little man, dressed in a fashionable overcoat and a broad-brimmed felt hat, arrived at the Union Station, accompanied by his wife and Miss Bernice, his secretary.

Apparently the "criminologist" did not make very many friends during his visit in Toronto. There was no one at the station to give him a send-off. The party went at once to their compartment, and just before the train pulled out Moffatt Devine got off.

Future Plans Uncertain

The secretary remained at the King Edward Hotel. "Waiting further orders from the chief," he said. He protested ignorance of his employer's future plans. He did not know what Langsner's itinerary would be after he left Edmonton, and he did not know whether or not he would return to Toronto. When he made the last statement he showed that he had not watched the "Doctor's" facial expression very carefully at the time for his departure neared. There was a suggestion on Langsner's face that perhaps Toronto was just a little distasteful to him. In any case, he seemed quite glad to go, and he did look grand, any hasty interview congratulating Toronto on its wonderful skyline, its fine waterfront or its beautiful homes.

He says that the transatlantic fliers desire to avoid themselves of the shortest course between Europe and the United States they must fly across Canada. This, he said, would entail flying over Arctic ice and he declared that the northern route was much to be preferred.

BULLS DOMINATE NEW YORK MART

Firm Undertone Featured Buying On Wall Street Today

New York, Oct. 26.—The stock market displayed a firm undertone today in the face of a recurrence of right persons call money and an increase of $107,000,000 in brokers' loans. Buying was again selective in character, but a long list of merchandising, copper, public utility and aeronautical issues registered substantial gains several of which ran from four to twelve quarter points. Call money reversed at 7 1-2 but subsequent to which as banks called $20,000,000 in loans.

Considerable interest was laid in the commission house comment on the ex cellent character of a large majority of the earnings statements being published. This, together with the fact that no signs of any marked recession have yet developed in any of the basic industries helped to maintain a confident undertone. A further advance of a quarter of a cent a pound to 18 cents is the price of export copper brought fresh buying into that group, which were mixed. Maryland Oil was a new high ground.

Home and Fashions

SENTIMENT? IT'S MORE THAN THAT, SON!

By WINNIFRED BLACK

Such a sad little letter it was, so full of disappointment and a kind of bewildered grief.

The woman who wrote it is leaving her home—forever.

It isn't so much of a home as it should be—nothing grand about it or luxurious, nothing particularly comfortable—but it's a home.

With a front porch and a side porch, and a little grip of garden with green corn, lima beans, lettuce and tomatoes —and some window boxes, two cherry trees and an apple tree—and two hard maples in front of the house — the woman's father planted these trees when she was a little bit of a girl.

He was a real estate man and owned street after street of the little town that was just beginning to hope that some day it would be a real suburb of the big city.

The little grew and it grew — and there was a new school house, two or three new churches and there was a public library, and by and by there was a green little park, with lilac trees growing in it, and there was a young people's club and now there's a country club with a golf course—and the woman who wrote the letter loves to sit on her porch and rock and say to herself:

"Yes, my father was right. It's all come true, the dream he used to tell us about the little town."

People pointed her out as one of the old timers and on rainy nights in March, when they had re-unions and anniversary dinnnrs at the church, she always made a little talk about the old town, the old times and the old people who have been gone so long.

And now she has to give up her little home and go and find rooms in somebody else's house, she and her husband—you see they signed over the little home to son and his wife so as to make it fair when son came and lived with them, and paid for the mat and the chickens and the telephone and the electric light and the gas range and the motor car and every thing. Now son is in trouble, and he's selling the place, he's awfully sorry about it, but what must he must be and Father and Mother are out look ing for furnished rooms.

Son thinks she's old-fashioned what's the difference between one house and another, says Son's wife, when you come right down to it and probably Son's wife is right, she has troubles of her own, and she hasn't much time to think about a homesick old lady and her troubles.

I suppose they'll settle somewhere and get along somehow, but, dear me when apple blossom time comes and the fleur de lis are blue along the old fashioned walk and the tomatoes and lettuce are beginning to show green in the little kitchen garden, my heart in the little kitchen garden, my heart is going to ache for Mother and I wish I could hear the creak of her rocking chair on the old porch that has been her refuge from an unkind world—so long.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a member of a junior set in the city in which I live. We have dances very often and have never formed the habit of "sticking." A new girl moved in and she has just been accustomed to "stick" with a boy at a dance.

We have started "sticking" now and it is not half as much fun for the unpopular ones who get "stuck" the whole time they think that their partner does not really wish to dance with them and it's very awkward for both boy and girl.

Is it right for a girl after she has finished dancing with a boy to say at the end of a dance, to tell him she enjoyed it? If he really wants to dance with her, won't he ask for another dance?

"STICKER."

STICKER: I'm rather vague as to exactly what you mean by "sticking" at a dance, my dear. However, I take it from your letter that you mean dancing the entire evening with the same partner. Is that it? Really, I cannot see any reason for this, to my understanding and knowledge of dances has always been that your escort claims the majority of the dances with you and your other friends fill in the rest of the program. It also is the place of your escort to see that you are not a "wallflower". It's rather a silly notion, to my way of thinking to dance with the same partner the entire evening. Why not get your own crowd to break up this silly practice? You could do it so easily and I am sure you would make your dances more enjoyable. Just because one girl takes it into her head to start this silliness, it doesn't follow that you should have to trail along in her lead, does it? You might start it by trying some of the old-fashioned dances, a Paul Jones, or a Virginia Reel. Don't laugh! I know they're somewhat out of date, but nevertheless, they're lots of fun. It might accomplish the breaking up of the "stickers" more quickly than anything else.

As for choosing a young man for a dance, he thanks you and you tell him you enjoyed dancing with him. Of course, you'll have to dance again if he enjoyed dancing with you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of fifteen and go with a boy who is seventeen. I have been going with him for almost a year. For some reason or other my parents have refused to let me have him come to my home any more. I love this boy very much and I know I couldn't give him up. I have tried going out with other boys, but I can't take an interest in any of them like I do him. What should I do?

There is just one other thing I would like to ask your advice about. When I am alone with this boy he tells me he loves me and that he wouldn't go out with any other girls and he is just so nice and seems to understand everything. When we are at school he is so different, he doesn't seem like the same boy. He just seems as if he don't care for anything, and sometimes he doesn't even treat me right. What would you think of that?

AMELIA.

AMELIA: I think you are too young to think of love, my dear. Your parents probably saw that you were neglecting your studies and that is the reason for their forbidding you to entertain the young man. And as he sets so indifferently toward you in public, I don't see how you can even think you are greatly for him. Just have a lot of friends and put all serious thoughts out of your mind until you are older. You'll be a lot happier in the end.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

The new bright blue green is very smart.

Double frill cape coats are new.

Moleskin dyed a golden henna is one of the interesting variations of the winter fur colors.

A number of new sports frocks from Chanel, done in the light weight tweeds, wool crepes and jerseys are excessively simple, relying only upon stitching for a finish.

Pounch bags in various shades are taking the place of the flat pochettes and they are small because they are new.

Applique is a way of decorating simple frocks and jumpers that has grown greatly in popularity during the last few seasons, while this autumn's innovation is felt or velvet applique on the knitted wool.

A velour tricorne, which is already one of the most successful millinery models of this autumn is wide at one side and comes down at the other in an attractive and most becoming line.

MODERN LIFE IS HARD ON EYES

Optometrist Says Majority of People Have Poor Vision

Montreal (CP)—As a result of the great strain on the eyes by the complexity of modern civilization, particularly in connection with urban life it is estimated that seven out of every ten people in the large centres of population have defective eyesight. Jerry Britton, a consulting optometrist in Montreal, in a recent address here in which he professed a moving picture illustrating this, said it was caused by the reaction of the daily demands of urban life upon the delicate mechanism of the eye. The effect was felt by young and old alike, he said. Human eyes are not adapted to the environment given by modern civilization, according to the speaker.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

It is hard to vary the ways of serving Friday's fish. This is a pleasing variation. The additions to the salmon may be changed to suit the taste, it is not necessary to use all those suggested.

Salmon Salad

A favorite salad for the Friday luncheon. Have ice can of salmon very cold before opening. Flake the fish into small pieces and for each cup of salmon add one tablespoon bottled capers, one-half cup minced green pepper, one chopped hard-boiled egg, two tablespoons chopped stuffed olives one half cup chopped pimentoes and one-half cup chopped celery. Mix lightly with highly seasoned mayonnaise dressing and serve edged with hearts of lettuce.

What a lot of ourselves we express in the tone of our voices! Over the telephone for instance—it is the only medium we can employ to impress our personality on the listener. It really pays to cultivate the voice. You know yourself what a pleasure it affords you to listen to anyone talking, who has a cultured voice. We cannot all converse brilliantly, but it is within the power of every one to train their voice so that it will give one's hearers a pleasant remembrance of one and a nice voice compensates for a large measure for the lack of clever speech. So if your voice is high-pitched or shrill, or if you are inclined to distinctly, try cultivating the dulcet tones and see how much improved it will be.

This applies not only to the speaking voice but to the singing voice as well.

Even if you have a lovely voice, you may feel that your songs do not receive the right appreciation. People with voices less nearly as good as yours are more enthusiastically received. Then a little self-questioning is due as to why people do not like a professional term, do not go across better.

Your troubles may come from several sources. First of all, enunciation of the words you sing may not be clear; second, these words may not be sung with expression; third, you may fail to put emphasis on words where it properly belongs.

All these things or any one of them will keep your listeners from fully enjoying a song, because they do not know what it is all about.

The cure for these vocal troubles, indistinct enunciation, can be overcome if you recite slowly the words you are to sing uttering every one of them distinctly, and being always careful to pronounce the final syllables.

A common fault with many singers is that they drop the voice on final syllables or to speak, swallow them. This fault leaves many words to be guessed by the listener.

Again, a singer may be so busy trying to keep mentally conscious of the execution of the words as to sacrifice to it consequently the song is nothing but a series of notes and the singer is placed on a violin as far as words are concerned. As we all know, certain songs depend for their entire charm only on certain tones, but by taking them as a separate study they can be conquered and the tone still remain beautiful.

As to the matter of singing the words with expression: Take the case of a child reciting. He or she would do it well, if they would catch general attention while the other will fall flat. In singing a song it is much the same. To arouse interest the words of a song must be alive with meaning or you would not say carelessly: "I love you." You would say it as if you meant it.

As to giving important words emphasis in a sentence, words which must be emphasized to bring out the full meaning, take the sentence "I love you." The two words demanding special emphasis are LOVE and YOU. They would be the entire value if sung for instance, this way. I LOVE you." Every sentence should be studied by the singer to put emphasis where it belongs.

In all sorts of weather, be it fine or otherwise the Victorian Order Nurse faithfully drives her car, the car purchased for her by the Kiwanis Club of this City. At any hour of this day or night she is always ready to answer the call to service, and the many homes of suffering she is a veritable angel of mercy, serving quietly and efficiently about her administrations. The large number of calls made within the month will testify to the work covered by the V.O.N. and the furnishing of a car by the Kiwanis Club is just one of their many works of service.

Here is a recipe that should find favor with the family. These tarts are extremely good. We know whereof we speak for we have tried them.

Butter Tarts

2 eggs.
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup currants
½ cup butter
½ teaspoon soda
Flavor with lemon of cinnamon

Two-toned furs are used in some of the new scarfs, long enough to form the entire trimming of a full length velvet coat for afternoon, while the long, straight scarf of black Persian lamb is faced with the same fur in gray, showing the two on their entire value if sung for instance, this way. I LOVE you." Every sentence should be studied by the singer to put emphasis where it belongs.

Not in years has moire had such a successful revival as it lends itself extremely well to the "flow" of the new evening dresses, with their long-er skirts and "peacock" line, while the new moire is a youthful material which weighs no more than an ordinary dress satin, and this is where it differs from the material which one associates with grandma's "best" dress and dolman!

VISITING CHOIR HEARD BY LARGE AUDIENCE HERE

Male Singers Welcomed By Belleville Music Lovers

Music lovers of Belleville were afforded an unusual treat when the Welsh Imperial Singers presented their concert at Bridge St. Church last evening. This entertainment has been long looked forward to by those who appreciate the best in music and the actual performance of these world renowned artists far surpassed even the expectations which glowing news paper critics, accounts led the audience to anticipate. The choir of Bridge St. Church under whose auspices these singers were brought here is to be congratulated on obtaining them and affording the musical public this opportunity for genuine pleasure.

This choir which is composed entirely of male voices is exceptionally fine in the ensemble numbers and in the individual solos. Each member of the choir is the possessor of a remarkable voice, and it would be difficult to discriminate between them, or say any one was outstanding, because with was a splendid part which went to make up the harmonious whole.

Attired in seventeenth century costumes they presented a picturesque appearance on the platform with red yellow-tail coats, frilled cravats, and flowered waistcoats with brass buttons. All the songs were sung in English with the exception of two which were rendered in the Welsh language, but although the words which were rendered in the Welsh were strange the music was familiar to the listeners. The accompanist deserves at the piano was perfect.

The opening chorus, sung with fervor, was "Men of Harlech" and with his number the attention of the audience was held and carried to the final chorus.

Harold Williams, baritone, sang "There is no death;" Harry Williams, a silver-toned tenor rendered the solo "I'll sing thee songs of Arsby." Jack Newbury, bass soloist, sang a composition by Mozart, with the feeling. Jabez Trevor made an instant appeal in his tenor solos.

The old favorite were not forgotten and "Carry me back to old Virginia," "Joan a-weraying for you," and "Killarney" were sympathetically rendered by the choir.

The conductor of the choir directed with grace and precision, and announced at the close of the concert that his concert party were touring the world and hoped to return again to our city.

The bull, which was about eighteen months old, had no horns and had never shown any signs of temper until it turned on Mr. Allen in the field. Mr. Allen has had the care of the animal for over a year, handling it every night.

STRIKES AND SPARES

Bowling which has become one of the popular indoor sports in Belleville is now attracting the interest of the trundlers and the alleys are a hive of activity with hundreds of devotees of the game preparing for the winter campaign. At Domenico's Recreation Parlors several new Leagues have been organized and the tournament is looking to the busiest season in history.

Although the bowling was originally confined to the ranks of the sterner sex but of late years the members have been challenged by the ladies who have entered the game this year with a new zest.

While the players are rapidly rounding into form, they have not yet reached the mid-winter style but some good scores have already been registered. Johnny Yerex hit the maples for 398 in the other evening and is now leading the alley patrons.

The new Bankers-Financial League will play the games on Wednesday afternoons and while most of the players are novices, in the art of slinging the "Apple", they are becoming adept and will challenge any of the veteran squads before many months.

Five Leagues are already under way and the Senior League will start next week while the Canadian National Transportation group will get underway soon. The C.N.R. foundation League embraces five teams, the Ladies' League ten, the Junior League ten, the afternoon League six and the Senior League six. Approximately two hundred and fifty players are affiliated with organized leagues while scores of others play for pastime.

Another group composed of automobile men will start in the near future.

The weekly competition for ladies is attracting an unusually large number of bowlers.

NOW! Gurney Heat

FOR YOUR HOME WITH A

MORE HANDSOME LESS EXPENSIVE HEATER!

Gurney "La Salle"

$35.00

Pleasant, even heat—not hot spots, no drafty corners—is what you want in your home. Such even heating that you can sit in any part of your living room and enjoy levity, even on the coldest nights.

The Gurney LaSalle Circulation Heater is what you want to give you this comfort. It heats by circulation, just like a well built coal furnace—all the cold air in the room is drawn to the heater, warmed, and circulated through the room. It is not like an old fashioned heating stove which gets red hot and nearly cooks you when you get near it, you can put your hand on the side of a LaSalle even when you have on roaring fire—all the fuel burned is working, heating air to warm the whole room, with an even temperature.

This handsome heater is available in two finishes, with polished steel body and nickel trimmings and with porcelain enamelled body in attractive two-one, effect. Both models are the same size and equally efficient, it is only in appearance that they differ. It will burn all fuels with efficiency and maintain a steady, fire for long periods. Offered now at the low price of only $35.00.

GURNEY "ROCKLAND" HEATER

The Gurney Rockland is a real heater, for comfort, economy and ornament service. It is built of wear-resisting, blued polished steel, and attractively finished with nickel-plated top band, tea stand, ash guard, arrow damper and front feet.

The deep circular type fire pot is a guarantee of highest economy with all fuels, and the fire clay linings distribute heat evenly and steadily. Made in four sizes with round top and two sizes in square top, all with triangular roller grates, as well as a smaller heater

IN ENAMEL

The increased demand for a porcelain enamel finished Rockland Heater has resulted in making this finish in addition to the regular line of Gurney Rockland Heaters. It has all the well-known heating features of a Rockland combined with an attractive white and grey enamel finish with nickel trimmings making it a welcome addition to any home.

Here and There

Advice to a spy owner, whose business is down: Move your office to a busy street.—If Charles Dare they is a pacific short-circuit in the Sea." We think that a locked-power unit will be cheaper than a diver's suit, in that case. What do you say?

Why the mesh-pickle instead of a contiguous sheet of metal in the 17th 22? heated-cathode tube. Many users of this tube have wondered about the reason for this change in the design of the outer envelope.

During the development of this type of tube, the laboratory engineers found that emission of electrons be curred, not only from the cathode, but also from the cylindrical grid and plate unless they were relatively cold. This would be an undesirable condition in the operation of a device of this kind, as it would set up control ling currents in a radio receiver.

To allow the plate to remain cool, and to eliminate undesirable electron emission, the use of a wire-mesh plate was adopted, thus allowing the escape of much of the heat generated by the heavy current through the filament. To realize the full power handling capacity of the 201A type the heater is 1/13 times that of the 201A type the heater and the generation of heat does not affect the plate.

Dobbsferry Hyrd's ship, the City of New York, which sailed a few days ago for the Antarctic, has been assigned the call WPBT, while its auxiliary portable transmitter is WFA. Smaller portables are KPK, 50 watts, WPD, 95 watts, and WPB 1-2 watts. The self-opine Fairchild has the call WPG and the Floyd Bennet WPB.

In addition to the ship frequencies between 600 kc. 500 meters the Byrd expedition may use these short wave bands: 8,312, 68.1, 52.57 (commercial), 53.15, 45.50, 34.05, 26.78 (comm.), 26.56, 22.76, 17.945, 17.857 (comm.), and 13.758 meters.

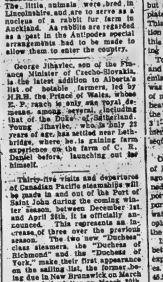

Visitor "And what became of the radio set you had?"

Hostess: "Oh, it didn't work right, so I got rid of it."

Visitor: "I couldn't meet my payments either."

When Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson lectured before the Institute of Radio Engineers, in New York City, last year, on a system of transmission and reception of visual images that had been worked out at the General Electric plant at Schenectady he was asked by an engineer what he thought of the system used by Baird, of Scotland, who was experimenting in London. Dr. Alexanderson replied that he had heard of the gentlemen but did not know what system he used.

In many instances where a resistor is employed for the purpose of obtaining "C" bias or "G" voltage from the "B" power supply, by-pass condenser is employed. This is an important oversight, since audio-frequency currents must and should in this part of the tube circuit, with the resistor, offering serious opposition to their flow because of its considerable resistance, and in the case of wire-wound resistors, the inductance it set up offers considerable loss of volume and tone quality in the absence of a by-pass.

There will be an improvement in volume and tone when a by-pass condenser is shunted across any grid-leak resistor. This condenser should have a capacity of four 1-mf., and may be of the low-voltage type. One mf. is the standard value of .1mf. value is satisfactory.

In radio-equipped homes the loud speaker usually is considered a luxuryunless when trying to talk on the telephone. If loud signals are being received, it is necessary either to turn down the set or let the person at the other end of the wire to repeat almost everything he says. Both of these things are annoying, but they may be eliminated easily with a simple device. This device is a homemade switch which, automatically disconnects the radio receiver when the telephone receiver is removed from the hook.

It consists of two contacts, one of which is fastened to the telephone shelf and the other to the vertical support of the telephone just below the hook. The contacts are placed so that they touch each other when the telephone receiver is on the hook; but as the hook itself is opened when the telephone receiver is removed, these contacts should be carefully insulated from the telephone itself.

A resident of Melbourne recently had a radio set installed, and when his bill was presented the astonishment was great to the rest of his acquaintance. "He hanging aerial and maybe—23 shillings."

Advice of Solomon put to practical use by the Boston Herald resulted in the Boston Post of June 15: "Johnson An tomatic charger, $5. "I remember her when she was beautiful"

IT WASN'T so long ago either. Her complexion was the envy of every girl and woman. Her radiant manner was felt the instant she entered the room. . . . But now you'd hardly know she was the same person. Her animation is gone—her clear skin is sallow. She's always tired —often irritable. . . .

Here's what has been said about countless women all over the country. Yet, all this could have been prevented. The cause, often constipation, is so easily removed by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Happily, thousands of women have made this discovery. By regular eating of ALL-BRAN they have regained all that they lost in beauty and health.

But you need ALL-BRAN—not "just-bran."

It is the "bulk" in bran that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has a large amount of "bulk." This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. In a part-bran product there is seldom enough bulk to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran— and brings 100% results.

How different from dangerous pills

How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives! Which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system. How much pleasanter than sickening medicines! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious cereal. Serve it with milk or cream —and add fruits or honey if desired. Use it in cooking too. Mix it with other cereals—for health! Just eat two tablespoonfuls in some form daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Keep ALL-BRAN always on hand—a package of health. But be sure it is genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. They can't be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at all hotels and restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in London, Canada.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation, you will return it.

BELLE THEATRE

George O'Brien and Lois Moran, two Fox Films favorites, came to the Belle Theatre for a three days' run last night in the stellar roles of Fox Films' "Sharp Shooters."

This story is a thrilling and humorous fortghat by Randall H. Faye that has been finely developed under the expert direction of J. G. Blystone and the shaded acting of O'Brien and Miss Moran.

The narrative involves a colorful plot which starts in Morocco on the blue Mediterranean Sea where a little naughty girl meets an American god. The story then swiftly unfolds with romance, pathos and comedy reaching across the sea to New York City.

REGENT

An all star cast in Virginia Brown Faire, Eric Mayne, Theo Lorch and Bill Franey are in support of Ken Maynard, in his latest Western feature, "The Canyon of Adventure," which is now playing at the Regent Theatre. The story is an original by Marion Jackson and was directed by Albert Rogell.

Two feature pictures now at the Regent.

The wistful loveliness of Irene Rich has never been seen with quite so telling effect as in her latest starring vehicle Warner Bros. "The Silver Shave." She plays the part of a gone-to-seed upon whom her parents, who married her to the highest bidder with the man she loved was cast aside. She is determined that her wilful daughter shall not make the same mistake and takes it upon herself to win away the rich undesirables whose wooing has captivated the child. This she does successfully, not without causing furious anger in the heart of the young woman until the reason is explained. Brilliant and glamorous is this story.

George Schurer of Louisville, Mo., fell out of a second story window while sleeping about in his sleep, but escaped without injury.

WEDDINGS

FOX—SPRY

Stirling, Oct. 26.—A very pretty house wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spry at noon on Tuesday when their second daughter, Edna May, became the bride of Mr. Earl Fox, son of Mr. John Fox of Campbellford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. N. Reid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, dressed in powder blue georgette and carrying a bouquet of roses, was given away by her father and was unattended. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Wynne of Campbellford.

After congratulations were received a buffet lunch was served.

The happy couple motored to Belleville where they entrained for Ottawa and points east, where the honeymoon will be spent. Many beautiful presents testified the popularity of the bride.

Miss Elsie Weinstein won first class honours with the highest standing in Canada in examinations at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

NEW OLYMPIC SERIES OAKLAND CAR INTRODUCED HERE TODAY

Smarter, Roomier Bodies And Improved Chassis

Completely new and original in appearance, with a number of interesting engineering feature, the new Olympic Series Oakland Six goes on display tomorrow in Belleville at the showrooms of T. J. Warren.

Smarter, roomier than a year ago with bodies of distinctive design and a chassis said to be the last word in mechanical refinement, the latest Oakland model bears only a passing resemblance to its predecessor—the New Canadian Oakland Six brought out a year ago. The name of the new Olympic games and its beauty of line is said to be reminiscent of the lithe grace of a trained and perfectly conditioned athlete.

Briefly, the new line offers a bigger, faster, more powerful engine; new Oakland tip internal expanding 4-wheel brakes; masterful body creations by Fisher; new Duco color combinations; higher, larger cross-flw radiator with grill front; adjustable driver's seat; chrome plated lamps of new design; sturdy ten-spoke wheels; Lovejoy shock absorbers and spring covers, as standard equipment; new steering gears; sturdier frame, and a host of other improvements that are destined to make the car a distinguished addition to th aristocratic motor car family of the Dominion.

Already a million miles have been piled up by test cars on the General Motors Proving Ground. Although brand new to the public, it is a thoroughly seasoned product with the equivalent of many years of owner-service behind it by its credit.

Seven passenger types comprise the line: sport roadster, sport phaeton coupe, 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, and a new landaulet sedan and convertible cabriolet.

The rear seats of all five passenger models are two inches wider this year to provide increased elbow room and to add to the comfort of the passengers. This change has been effected without increasing the tread.

A strikingly new outside appearance is provided by the hood,on view of the car. The chrome plated radiator has been raised so that the line from the base of the cowl to the new flat radiator cap appears practically level. A new grill or radiator front lever effect, is of chevron design with a vertical chrome plated bar extending the full height of the front in the centre of the grill.

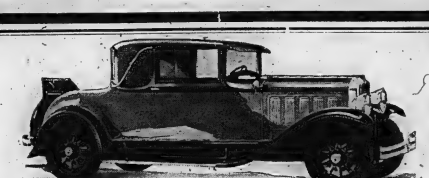

Flanking the radiator are new full crown fenders, larger and wider than a year ago, of seamless oneplece design with a beaded edge and a 71 Inch spread. Rear fenders ends have been extended lower than the hub cap to assure increased protection and added beauty. The newly fashioned hood has a chrome plated top hinge and vertical louvres in five groups of four each on either side to achieve a rangier air. Parking lamps are mounted on a chrome plated cowl bar.

A powerful new engine, offering flashing performance at every speed range, has been achieved by stepping up the cylinder displacement to 220 cubic inches as against 212 in the earlier model. This, in conjunction with other engine changes, results in a top speed of well over seventy miles an hour and quick acceleration of from ten to 25 miles an hour in high gear in 10.5 seconds. A new and exclusive Oakland feature is the four-point rubber engine mounting adopted on this model. By means of special rubber "biscuits" which insulate the engine from the frame, there is no metal-to-metal contact, a feature which eliminates noise and engine vibration.

Increased displacement was brought about by enlarging the cylinder bore from 3 1-4 inches to 3 3-8 inches. The improved engine develops 68 brake horsepower at 3,000 r.p.m.

Increased braking power with a minimum of pedal pressure, is achieved by new Oakland-designed brakes, of the mechanical four-wheel type, self-energizing, with internal expanding shoes on all four wheels. Individual adjustments are located at each wheel, and equalization has been entirely eliminated. The brakes operate on large twelve-inch drums and provide 296 square inches of braking surface. The parking brake on the transmission also has been redesigned for increased safety.

Special sport equipment, consisting of six wire wheels is available for all models. Spares are carried in front fender wells and are provided with tire locks and chrome plated caps bearing the Canadian Oakland emblem colors.

"COLLEGIATE CHATTER"

By Farley Faulkner

Last night the rugby team had its final practice before the game with Albert on Saturday. Mr. Shiels is very optomistic these days and he expects his team to trounce Albert as they have never been trounced before. The Collegiate line will hold Albert in their own territory most of the game. If the Collegiate backfield can come through for the odd touchdown the game should provide many thrills and Albert will have the fight of their lives.

Suits and Overcoats! The Oak Hall make a specialty of Young Men's Suits and Overcoats. We have some new Fall lines now in stock.

In "Wings" Mr. Weller of the Capitol Theatre had for Belleville movie fans one of the greatest pictures ever produced. The people of Belleville certainly appreciate the very high standard of pictures that are shown at the Capitol Theatre. This statement is verified by the crowds of people that Mr. Weller has to accommodate.

Last Saturday Harold Mott on the Collgiate backfield played an errorless game. A backfielder is open to praise and criticism just like anyone else on a rugby team, but the writer believes that Mott receives a lot of undue criticism and not sufficient praise. Byrnes on the Collegiate backfield played an excellent game on Saturday but on the day's work Mott was the most valuable man.

Collegiate Clothing at popular prices is supplied by Clark Dickens, local agent for Tip Top Tailors.

Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 4 Mr. Howard paraded the cadets of the Collegiate campus. Each company was divided into four platoons and the various officers and N. C. O's received their promotions. Mr. Howard is punishing anyone who does not do his job well, very severely and he intends it quite plain that there or four "smart Alecs" will not be allowed to spoil the whole battalion, Mr. Howard makes, some very straightforward statements to these cadets and if anyone can back them it is Mr. Howard.

The inter-form girls' basketball league has started at the school now and much interest is being taken in these games which are almost as rough as an average rugby game. The girls seem to be just about two jumps ahead of the boys in everything at the Collegiate. Boys' basketball has not even been mentioned yet. The lights are all installed in the girls' gym. now and the boys' gym. is in complete darkness as usual. The chemistry lab and the physics lab. will not be completed until after Christmas. This makes it very difficult to take up the experiments without actually doing them. The boys have started shooting now and Mr. Howard expects a team of championship calibre this year.

FEELS LIKE NEW PERSON

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her So Much

"I had inward troubles and at times my face would look so puffy that it annoyed me. I was so dull and sleepy that I did not feel like doing anything and was not particular whether my work was done or not. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Toronto Globe and my sister told me it was extra good medicine. I found it so too, as I now feel bright and active like another person." —MIRIAM MAUSER, R.F.D. No. 1, Elmira, Ontario.

For Change of Life

"I took the Vegetable Compound to help me pass the Change of Life. For two years I have had hot flushes, run-down feelings and prostration but am getting along fine now. I think the Vegetable Compound is good and you can use my name."—Mrs. D. PERSAUD, 342 Cloverdale Avenue, Victoria, B. C.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Woe to him who has no court of appeal against the world's judgment.
CARLYLE.

THE ELEVENTH HOUR

Another conscience has apparently been whipped into action by the prospect of an alleged innocent man being sent to prison. William Hazkins of London was sentenced a few days ago to spend five years in prison on a charge of manslaughter, arising out of the death of a man whom he was supposed to have struck and killed on the road leading to Springbrook.

After the sentence had been delivered a young lady came forward with the statement that she had been a passenger in another car which had first struck and killed the pedestrian in question, and it appears now that Haskins' car passed and struck the man some time after when he was lying on the road.

Steps are being taken now to undo the sentence imposed on Haskins. It is claimed that it takes $100 to do this, and that Haskins is not possessed of that amount. Money should not stand in the road of all. If a wrong has been done it should be righted regardless of the man's finances.

In the case of Haskins it appeared that justice was taking an even course. The facts brought before court all seemed to point to his guilt, and to all appearances he was a fit subject to be sentenced.

The trouble was that all the evidence had not been submitted. Those who knew the real story had not told it. The young woman who was in possession of the facts, as well as the driver of the car and another passenger, held their silence. If the conscience of one of the women had not been strong into action by the knowledge that an innocent party was being made to suffer, Haskins would have gone to prison.

It is not difficult to appreciate the feelings of the woman who has come forward with her statement at this late hour. It is not likely that she has had many pleasant days in recent weeks. It is entirely to her credit even at the eleventh hour that she should decide to do what she could to see that an injustice was not done.

FOOTBALL GATES

At the Queen's-McGill football game in Montreal on Saturday, estimating a paid attendance of 15,000, which we think is conservative, the receipts for this one game would certainly be over $20,000. On the huge sum Queen's gets not a single penny. In Toronto on Saturday next at the Varsity-Queen's game scheduled for this day there will undoubtedly be another $20,000 gate. Here again Queen's share will be represented by a large zero since up to date there has been a definite and absolute refusal at meetings called for this purpose to "split" gate receipts with Queen's and this though Queen's is and has for years been the greatest drawing card of any team on the Canadian gridiron.

Of course, this is "hoggishness" pure and simple—and we say this, not in any offensive spirit but merely as a plain statement of fact, which both Montreal and Toronto may criticize. If they are so disposed to their heart's content. But we do not think they will criticize, because as everyone knows, whether in football, in baseball or in hockey, the invariable rule is to divide the receipts of home games so that the smaller clubs and teams may have a fair share of these receipts, without which they could not live. Any supporter, therefore, of the present intercollegiate football unfair ness would not have a leg to stand upon.

Isn't it strange that practically, the only exception to this equitable division is in the case of these Intercollegiate Games played by students of Universities which are so jealous on the standing and non-professionalism of their players that the authorities have failing of the arches or some other dreadful thing every time the word "professionalism" is breathed above a whisper in their presence. Surely then, if they seek to be so "fair" in such matters—playing the game for the game's sake—their fairness might extend just a little further, so that the university teams in the larger cities would not hog all the proceeds of their home games, leaving the University team in the small city to struggle along as best it can on its much smaller gate. Not only is this not "cricket" but it isn't any kind of sport.

Of course, this is a "hardy annual" this resurrection of the question of an equitable division of the gate receipts in these intercollegiate games, in the interests not only of the game itself but in common justice to the small city University. However, the matter has been discussed in a mild, stepsexy, "please don't push" manner lest the tender sensibilities of this or that institution of learning should be wounded. But isn't it about time to change the hit-and-love methods—which have "got nothing to lose"—and "speak out at meeting." If one or other (or both) of the larger Universities—and we do not wish to be unfair in this matter, since we understand one of these two is much more open to conviction than the other—cannot be persuaded by argument to change the present methods perhaps the more obstinate one of the two might be shamed into it!

—Kingston Whig-Standard.

OLD AGE.

While old age is not preventable, its years are as inevitable as the "income tax," which all alike await. But a significant symposium at the Academy of Medicine is considering the question—ere which has probably never had such emphasis before by the profession—how the pathology of those who are old in years may be postponed or altogether avoided. Despite sanitary and medical science, it appears that the maximum span of life has not been lengthened much if at all. And perhaps with all that man can do he may not live beyond the limit fixed by the "predestination of heredity." What he can do is to lengthen somewhat the life of more individuals within that limit, and assure a more comfortable and efficient mental, moral and physical existence.

What the layman wishes to know, as Dr. George E. Vincent said in his brilliant address at the opening of the symposium, is "can an average man or woman of sixty-five or eighty hope to be fairly fit, reasonably alert, and of some use to the community, or is it only the exceptional person who may entertain that hope and reach that standard?" What has been accomplished so far has been in the groups under forty and especially under fifty. That has been a remarkable achievement, but a pretty large minority of the race is now much concerned about the years that lie beyond

A change is needful in the attitude of doctors toward the old people toward themselves. They are not to be thought of simply as bodies that have to be patched up by the doctors when there is a disorder or distemper therein or there, but as persons of old people who have "a significant contribution to make to the common welfare." The doctors must of course give attention to the healing of ills, but they should have the more positive function of trainers to keep even the old fit. To use Dr. Vincent's simile:

Doctors ought to be like the mechanicians who take contracts to keep clocks going and on time, rather than emergency men to be summoned when timepieces stop or are too fast or too slow.

Men have written and talked about old age from Cicero to Osler, but "gerontology" is now coming for the first time to make a place for itself in the science of human health. This symposium is a significant sign of the concern that is taken not in finding springs of youth but in helping those who "would be well old to be old betimes" in the thought that they take of keeping themselves fit.

MOTORING.

Sunkissed the road to worlds unknown,
With white hypnotic lure,
Day stretches on, the great car flies
With singing, rythmic purr.

The maples lift their gallant heads
To form a living arch
And on each side cedate and trim,
Green fields and houses march.

Then vineyards come and orchards white,
Fenced folds with flocks within,
And garden rows where newborn things
Lift fingers long and thin.

All mossy green the roadsides are
Bright flecked with shining gold,
The spring winds smile on cheek and brow
With kisses rough and cold.

O high and blue the sky is arched,
And fleecy clouds float slow,
The blossoms send their perfume wide
As on and on we go.

And something clutches tight my heart
As past the picture flies—
"I love thee, love thee, thee, Canada,"
A voice within me cries.

That Body of Yours
By James W. Barton, M.D.
THE WORK OF YOUR BODY.
One of the words you come across in your reading nowadays is "Metabolism." This simply means the building up and the tearing or wearing down of the cells as they perform their work in the body. In order to do this work, oxygen must be obtained because it is really a "burning" that goes on as the cells work.
As you know the cells get this by means of the blood, which in turn gets it from the lungs as it circulates through them.
Now just how much work the cells of your body are actually doing can be measured exactly, because it will be in proportion to the amount of oxygen they consume in doing this work.
Accordingly, after a good night's rest and no breakfast, no digestion going on, you lie down quietly and a machine measures the amount of oxygen you take in within a certain time, which oxygen is, as stated above used by your cells to do the ordinary work in the body. This is the "basal metabolism". If your body is using more than it should, it shows there is some trouble—infection perhaps. If it uses less than some of your ductless glands are not secreting enough juice, and thus fat gets stored in the body instead of being burned. But what is known as "total metabolism" is of interest to those of us who are well.
This is the total consumption of oxygen for the entire twenty four hours, which means the losses of energy caused by work, emotional stress and amount needed to burn up the food.
Foods stimulate the cells to take up more oxygen. Also when the body is at rest, and some foods have more of this stimulating action than others.
Meats and eggs have most, fats less, and vegetables and bread least; the proportions being as 33 per cent to 11 to 4.
Dr. Hole, the eminent physiologist calls this the "cost of digestion."
What is this knowledge worth to you?
Simply that if you are a meat eater you should be an outdoor man whose you can get plenty of oxygen to help burn up this meat.
Foreign matter is destined of burning up foodstuffs in the body, thus taking the work off the liver and kidneys, which would be burdened with wastes.
Hence the value of exercise and the outdoors.

"BUBS" BRITTON IN THE LINE-UP

Queen's Seniors Ready For Tussle With Varsity Squad

Kingston, October 26.—Queen's seniors finished up their preliminary work for the Varsity game on Saturday, when they held a signal practice at Richardson Stadium yesterday afternoon. Coach Carson called off the proposed scrimmage, evidently not wanting to take any chances on getting any more players injured. The practice with the intermediates and juniors this week have been almost as duly strenuous and following the ser ious injury to Don Abbott, the trickers decided to leave well enough a'one, and the players were not called upon to don their helmets, except when they were tossed in the air at the tackling dummy.

All the regulars, excepting Warren and Britton, were on the field the latter being called to his home through illness in the family, while Britton, following the doctor's orders, kept off his injured leg as much as possible. If Britton has his own way, however, he will be on the starting line-up against Varsity, though "Doc" Durham is being groomed for his place and probably will play most of the game in that position. A special leather apparatus has been made to slip over the injured knee, and Britton will use this on Saturday. It was found that the continued pain which Britton suffers is caused from the injury to a nerve on the knee, and only rest can cure it. Britton himself made the statement late yesterday afternoon that he was ready to start on the line-up against Varsity and is sure of himself that he might yet convince Coach Carson exists as is that notch.

Gear Grease that will not CONGEAL

It is congealed grease that makes gears go hard to change and your car so stiff to move in winter. Ease of driving and, what is just as important, economy of operation demand a grease that won't congeal.

Any ordinary grease will stiffen the moment the temperature drops.

Whiz Sub-Zero Gear Grease will flow freely in the coldest weather —even at 40° below zero.

You need WHIZ Sub-Zero Grease. In the coldest weather it will keep a protecting film over your gear and every bearing, preventing the damage that's sure to be done without it.

Drive in now where you see the sign illustrated here. Have the gear cases flushed out completely and the old grease replaced with WHIZ Sub-Zero Grease—don't mix WHIZ with other grease.

MAROONS DON SKATES TODAY

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Unofficially the pro hockey season opens here today with the Maroons taking the ice at the Forum for a skating practice, the first appearance of players on the white-painted surface this season. Three weeks of drilling on the ice and the teams will be ready to step into the 44-game campaign of the National Hockey League leading to world championship honors and the Stanley Cup.

Maroons had planned to take the ice yesterday, but at the last minute the start was put off a day, though a white-painted ice surface with but an inch of ice over the pipes was available in the afternoon as promised.

Canadiens, as previously reported, will not start on skates until November 1. But since Coach Cecil Hart makes this a hide-bound rule, it is likely that Canadien players will be slipping out for a skate before that date. It is a tough job to keep a hockey player off a rink once the ice is ready.

BABE RUTH PROVIDES AN IMPROMPTU LAUGH FOR ELECTION CROWD

Louisville, Ky., October 26.—"Babe" Ruth, king of swat, pinch-hitting as a stump speaker for Governor Fred Z. Smith at a meeting here last night, along with John W. Davis, received a hearty welcome from the big race when he pleaded the cause of the Democratic nominee, but the throng was on the operations a few moments later when a flimsy chair in which he was seated on the rostrum creaked and then collapsed.

The Babe, intently listening to the remarks of Mr. Davis, discovered his plight too late.

Newspaper men, sitting at a table beneath the rostrum, scrambled in every direction as the home run king hurtled forward, but the player averted a complete fall by clutching steadfastly to a nearby railing.

Grinning sheepishly, Ruth righted himself.

BASEBALL LEADER'S REMAINS INTERRED

Baltimore, Md., October 26.—Jack Dunn, owner-manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International Baseball League, was buried today while scores of men prominent in baseball circles stood at his graveside.

Floral tributes that overflowed from eight automobiles covered the sorrow throughout the country. The funeral was held from Dunn's home. A requiem mass was said at St. Mary's Catholic Church and the burial was in the graveyard adjoining the church.

YOUR EYES and Our Service

By J. A. McFEE, Optometrist Belleville

Eye strain or its results is not all a question of eyes?

Not at all. Eye strain causes what are known as reflex conditions. That is it is the EFFECTS of the strain rather than the strain itself that produces the detrimental results.

There is no relief to be had by treating the RESULTS of the strain?

No, the strain itself, being the cause, must be overcome.

This strain is caused by defective eyes?

Yes, defective vision is the result of defective or imperfectly shaped eyes.

The shape of the eye cannot be altered?

Nothing can be done, except to supply what the eyes lack to permit their proper functioning.

HOW PLAYERS OF THE CANADIEN HOCKEY CLUB SPEND THE SUMMER

Financiers, Truck Drivers And Salesmen Connected With Team

Fresh air and lots of it has been the chief item on the bill-of-fare for both Montreal and Canadien hockey players during the off-season. With practically no exceptions they have been "getting back to nature" with a vengeance, and the result this fall finds a crew of bronzed and remarkably well-fit young men training at the leash and rarin' to go.

Russel Ostman, the fleet Maroon forward who hurled through... aden team last year to score the goal that put his team into the finals with the New York Rangers, is the most noteworthy in this respect. Ostman turned prospector for the summer months and though he didn't dig up much gold he did dig up a lot of good health.

Bill Phillips, who ran a gasoline station about 40 miles out of Sault Sainte Marie, also had a flaking job on his hands and since a filling station and a joke are too much for ev en a man of Bill's ability to handle he sent an S.O.S. to Joe Lamb and between them they managed to keep things going.

Pat Walsh wasn't far away and managed to save his sporting goods emporium in the Sault for the occasional week-end to keep the backwood users company.

Jimmy Ward played semi-pro baseball for Kinnora and in his odd moments took a fling at sawing and tennis. Hooley Smith sold coal, Nels Stewart insurance and Ned Dutton turned carpenter the way out near Winnipeg.

Riding is Dune Munro's new hobby and he spent the mornings and evenings cantering around Mount Royal. Joe Lamb had a female player, and did a lot or work on the courts of Gordon Cushing's home on the Lake coast and also on the indoor courts. The rotund defence man is in fine shape, and played tennis with Vinnie Richard in Quebec City resorts has apparently had the easiest time of the bunch.

Canadiens Are Golfers

Candidates too spent a lot of time in the open air.

Aurel Joliat went completely "golf" in the game, and has been in the most remarkable library in existence on the game, and has been trying to adhere to the principles laid down by Braid, Mitchell, Jones, Hagen Evans, Sarazen, Ball and a few more. He considers the precepts of all these before making a shot. Joliat has been on the links all winter and is in great physical condition.

Howie Morenz, peerless centre-ice man, has been working on a cigar, golf, Morenz is a great natural golfstore, but he put in a lot of time at er, and Sylvio Mantha in the eighties. He and Cecil Hart, the Canadien pilot, are also fast risers on the links.

Art Gagne has been a C.N.R. conductor out west. He is another smart golfer, and didn't get a chance to work at it.

George Hainsworth is a "live wire," winter and summer. He did electrical work in Kitchener, Ont., all summer.

Sylvio Mantha is an electrician too, and was deep in sport all summer as manager and playing star of a professional baseball club.

Marty Burke is a practical young man. He was identified with his dad in the butcher and provision business in Toronto.

Albert Leduc has a great job. He is an inspector in a brewery—the Frontenac.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

But even the Kerr money couldn't make space on crowded liners. She was told that one reservation had been canceled a ship that was sailing the following day. But she was afraid to risk it. The Count would wait for her just so long, and then he would come in search of her. And she wasn't prepared to talk to him just yet. Her indifference toward him had changed to absolute panic, since reading Harry's letters. She realized the enormity of what she had done and how completely the Count de Belisforis could hold her to her bargain if he chose. And she had an unreasonable feeling that he wouldn't relinquish a connection with the Kerr millions.

She tried several other steamship offices and at last obtained tourist passage on the Macedonia. A shocked clerk protested: "But I am sure it would not be sufficiently comfortable for you, Madam." But she brushed his protests aside.

Fortunately her passport was in order. She made a mad dash for the bank and then rushed to the pier.

"The gang-plank was being raised," she told Sheila. "I shed twenty-dollar bills as I went, as bribes as tips..... anything to get abroad. The ship was moving when I stepped on deck..... And.....well, here I am."

"But the Count!" asked Sheila. "What did you tell him?"

Constance laughed, for the first time during her recital. "I didn't tell him anything. Nor shall I—until after I've had a talk with Harry. The Count, my dear, for all I care, is still cooling his heels in his hotel."

CHAPTER 6.

TRUTH—WITH RESERVATIONS.

"So you see," Constance continued, in her conversation with Sheila, "how it happened that I am here and why I said that I thought Heaven had sent you to me in my hour of need."

Sheila laughed. "I'm afraid I'm frightfully dense, but.....I don't see."

Constance sighed, a trifle impatiently.

"I suppose I have leaped a little ahead of my story, or leaped to a conclusion that may not be possible..... But you do see how imperative it is not to have the news of my marriage leak out until I have talked with Harry and am in a better position to make terms with the Count?"

"Yes, I understand that," agreed Sheila, "but I fail to see what I have to do with it."

"Well, in the first place, not a soul in the world knows that I'm on board this boat. And, if I keep to the stateroom, no one will know. That's the reason why I had to take you, a perfect stranger, into my confidence at the very first moment, because, if we're going to make capital of our remarkable resemblance, we'll have to do it from the start, before any one sees us together."

Sheila's bewilderment increased. "M-make capital?" she stammered. "I—I——"

Constance dragged herself upright on the berth and faced Sheila squarely.

"Here's my position: I've got to see Harry. Nothing shall stop me from that. But, if I go to London as Constance Kerr, it will be blazoned to the whole world and the news will reach the Count and my family."

"But that's what you're going to do, what you started to do."

Constance made an impatient gesture. "I didn't have time to think what I was going to do. I trusted to luck to find some way out of my muddle, and luck sent me you....."

"You, Sheila Allen, are going to Paris. I, Constance Kerr, am bound for London. My idea is this: we'll exchange places. You go to London, and I'll go to Paris."

Sheila gasped: "But I don't want to go to London. And what would I do there? And how would that help you with your Mr. Edmonds?"

"Don't be silly!" commanded Constance. "Can't you see? Of course, you won't go to London, in reality. And I won't go to Paris, but the whole world will think I'm there."

Sheila began to laugh helplessly. "I think I'm going a little mad. Is all this real, or am I dreaming?"

"We'll change places," Constance went on calmly, quite as if she were suggesting the most natural thing in the world. "I'll take your passport; you'll take mine. I'll give you my luggage in exchange for yours. You'll be Constance Kerr in Paris, and I'll be Sheila Allen in London."

Sheila stared at her in horror. "Oh, I couldn't. That——why that's——"

"Only for a few days." Constance suddenly rose, stretched and stretched out her hands appealingly. "Don't you see what a mess I'm in? I'm simply frantic. My whole future depends upon my crawling out of the morass somehow. Surely you won't refuse to help me. I can't take any serious ba'dship for you. And for me——it's for one chance for happiness. If you refuse to help me, I——I'll go over the rail on the first dark night."

Her arrogant young eyes suddenly filled with tears, and she threw her self back on her pillows and began to sob. Sheila was horribly distressed.

"I want to help you, Miss Kerr," she said. "But——but the thing you suggest is terribly dangerous, even if it's feasible, which it isn't. I could never be mistaken for you, except by people who really don't know you. We look alike, but that's all. I'm not a good actress, and I could never——"

"But don't you understand?" wailed Constance. "No one who knows me well will see you. It's only for a few days. You'd simply have to go to Paris and sit tight until I came to assume my own identity. You have no friends in Paris, you say, at this season, I stance's suggestion had, at first, stunned her, later frightened her. Now she began to see a chance for adventure in it. And she'd been crying for adventure for years! It would be a dangerous game but it might also prove amusing.

"What do they do to people who pose as some one else?" she asked.

"Nothing, I believe, if the two people have made the arrangement between them." Constance took hope from Sheila's question. "It will be very simple, really, if you'll only agree. We can arrange it like this: I'll pretend to be sick and stay in this wretched state-room for the entire voyage, so that we won't excite curiosity. Then, when we land, you'll haven't either. every one will be at the seashore or in the country, by the time this boat docks."

"I still can't see the necessity....."

"Well, I can!" snapped Constance. What earthly chance do you have—you have with Harry, if the news Constance Kerr is in London goes flashing across the ocean and the Count, knowing at once that I'm there, to see Harry, goes out the announcement of our marriage? And, of course, he'd do it. He told me that he always considered Harry his most dangerous rival."

Sheila considered this gravely. Constance's suggestion had, at first, stunned her, later frightened her. Now she began to see a chance for adventure in it. And she'd been crying for adventure for years! It would be a dangerous game but it might also prove amusing.

"What do they do to people who pose as some one else?" she asked.

"Nothing, I believe, if the two people have made the arrangement between them." Constance took hope from Sheila's question. "It will be very simple, really, if you'll only agree. We can arrange it like this: I'll pretend to be sick and stay in this wretched state-room for the entire voyage, so that we won't excite curiosity. Then, when we land, you'll need a rest anyway, after my strenuous winter, so I'll sleep most of the day and only walk the deck at night, after everybody has gone to bed..... have my meals served here, of course. I can put in a lot of time coaching you for your role. We'll have your hair cut just like mine, and you must learn to make up as I do and to talk, and walk as I do. I'll tell you all the things about myself that you should know.....in case you run across an acquaintance of mine.....but that won't happen. There's only one person in Europe who could really give you away and that's a spinster aunt. say. But the call of adventure was lilting its insidious voice. To be the Kerr heiress, even for a few days, was very tempting.

Constance watched her, carefully concealing the terrible anxiety with which she hung upon Sheila's decision. For Constance had not told .....all her fears.

What if the Count, suspecting that Constance had fled to Europe in the hope of finding her parents, should manage to obtain passage on a fast boat? In that case, he would be in Paris when the Macedonia docked.

POINT ANNE MAN AT POINT OF DEATH

Candidates Mobilize Forces For Last Days of Bitter Campaign

FINAL GUNS OF CAMPAIGN FIRED

Old-Time Political Emotion Features U. S. Election

GALAXY OF ORATORS

Hoover If Returned Will Call Extra Session of Congress

Washington, Oct. 27.— Under the stimulus of the eve-of-election appeal for interest, the Presidential campaign is nearing its end amid a bounteous autumnal outpouring of old-time political emotion.

Those who predicted that the, unreasonable activity of the earlier weeks would satiate public appetite for politics long before election day find their prophecy unfulfilled. Launched from the door steps of the national convention, the campaign was far ahead of the time in starting but ten days from the finish it still absorbs the active attention of millions who never took to the polities seriously in any previous Presidential year.

The calmly and unruly crowds stop about the trains and hang on the word of candidates, ex-candidates and near candidates. Thousands flock to cheer at the party rallies and march in the torchlight parades. The registration lists have skyrocketed. Political headquarters have become mad houses. The few remaining days of the campaign will see these activities further intensified. Hoover and Curtis, Smith and Robinson, seconded by as brilliant a galaxy of platform orators as ever answered the call of parties in modern times are swinging into the last supreme effort of the battle. It seems certain that the voter is to witness and be part of final weeks of political excitement unmatched in his time.

Washington, Oct. 27. — Herbert Hoover announced today that if the republican party is returned to power he would call an extra session of Congress to deal with farm relief. Adequate legislation should be enacted as the coming session. He characterized the farm relief question as "our most urgent economic problem.

AWARD BRONZE MEDAL FOR RESCUE IN LOCAL HARBOR

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 27.—Mary Evelyn Brown, of Woodstock, N.B., has been awarded the bronze medal of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission for her brave attempt to rescue Leonard E. Clode, aged five, whom the lad's father attacked his son with a razor. The bronze medal has also been given to John A. Eisenring, of New Bergen, N.J., in recognition of the heroic act of his son, John Arnold K. Eisenring, of Belleville, Ont., in rescuing F. Cecil Dodwell from drowning June 19, 1927. Both ring sank and was drowned after bearing Dodwell to safety.

The commission's list of citations numbers 97, including the two mentioned above relating to deeds in Canada.

The following is the commission's summary of the Eisenring rescue:

Arnold K. Eisenring, aged 27, blacksmith's helper, died as the result of saving F. Cecil Dodwell, aged 17, lens blocker, from drowning, Belleville Ont., June 19, 1927. Dodwell jumped from a boat into deep water in the Bay of Quinte at a point a hundred and eighty feet from shore. As his swam towards shore he was faced with cramps and called for help. Eisenring, who had jumped from the boat after Dodwell and had risen to shore, swam a hundred and twenty feet toward shore with him. He was swimming low in the water, motor boat then passed close to them and Dodwell was pulled from Eisenring's back into the boat. Before the boat could again be maneuvered close to Eisenring, he sank and was drowned.

Workers Wound Up Campaign With Banquet Last Night

After one week of strenuous efforts on the part of a large committee, the annual Y.M.C.A. financial campaign closed last night with a dinner in the Ascalaion building. GOOD SALE OF LIQUOR PERMITS

The new liquor permits are selling well, according to Mr. B. L. Hyman, local liquor vendor. Although the old permits do not expire until next year, Wednesday the new ones have been on sale for some time now. "Of course," Mr. Hyman stated, "about one day before the old ones expire or on the last day, there are usually a rush and heavier, but they have sold well so far." The new permits are on a better arrangement than the former ones, being rather like a bank passbook, with several sheets enclosed.

HEALTH OFFICER ISSUES ORDERS

Children of Shelter Are Quarantined With Diphtheria

Medical Health Officer Dr. Crook, yesterday ordered the Children's Shelter on Dundas street to be quarantined as a case of diphtheria was discovered there. This is the second time within two months that this dread malady has been found in the Shelter and another case is reported there the west end of the city.

There are at the present time some 36 children in the Shelter and the officials have decided that it would be in the best interests of all if the whole place was quarantined until the outbreak is over. One of the employees at the institution contracted diphtheria.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good however, as one of the youngsters found out. He was brought from Shirley yesterday to answer charges of truancy and was placed in custody pending further enquiries. He was placed in the Shelter a short time before the quarantine was placed on. Now he will have to wait until the quarantine is lifted before he can stand his trial.

Near the Goodwins, off the Kentish coast, the wind last night reached a velocity of from sixty to seventy miles while a driving rain made visibility extremely poor.

Kaisar Wilhelm Gave Advice To Czar That He Himself Refused

Berlin, October 27.—That the former Kaiser advised Czar Nicholas to do the very thing which ended the Japanese war, which he himself refused to do when he became ruler in the World War, namely, to go to the front and fight with his troops, is shown in a letter published for the first time today. When despair hung over Moscow in the winter of 1905, Wilhelm wrote to Queen Mother. Maria, expressing his deep sympathy for his true comrade "Nicky", and trying to find a way out of the situation Wilhelm wrote:

"While I cannot express a decisive opinion because I do not know your external and internal position, nevertheless I can visualize the possibility that Nicky would go to the army in East Asia, it might be a way to salvation."

As an alternate solution the Kaiser suggested the creation of a regency with the Czar's brother in the lead, promising the people a number of reforms including universal security for the press. The Kaiser thought the best way for saving "Nicky's" neck was for the Czar to make himself popular by going to his troops. "This has been the same in all countries and all times," the Kaiser adds. By going to the fighting line, the Czar would obtain three ends, namely, a unified command, willing obedience and enthusiasm in the army, Wilhelm opined.

The advice which the Kaiser so freely offered was, also given to him during the latter days of the World War, to which he refused to listen, and fled to Holland, according to documents covering this critical period.

Leo Still King Of Beasts After Furious Battle In Detroit Zoo

Detroit, October 27.—Leo today reigns supreme over the lions at the Detroit Zoological Park as the killer Melenik in a furious battle yesterday. Fire hose, blank cartridges fired close to their heads and iron bars could not separate the two enraged beasts, and the other lions, excited over the battle added to the deafening; noise, their roars and howls.

The fight was due to a jealous rage on the part of Leo, also assumed the part of overlord. As the lions were being driven from the den into cages, Melenik, the smaller lion, placed his paw under the door leading into Leo's cage. In the struggle to escape the smaller beast got his shoulder under the door and raised it, whereupon Leo entered and the fight was on.

With a lightning swift lunge Leo caught his rival by the throat, a rain of blows failed to make him release his hold until his rival had collapsed in death.

PROGRESSIVE LOCAL MOTOR FIRM INSTALLS NEW BURNER SYSTEM

"Iron Fireman" Automatic Coal Burner Is Revolutionary

In the march of modern progress with science constantly advancing, newer money saving, labour saving devices and equipment to replace the older, more costly and less satisfactory methods, it is interesting to learn that in one line there has been developed by a progressive business firm in Belleville a system which is a distinct step forward.

We have reference to a new automatic coal burning machine to be used in operation now at his fine garage of J. B. Boyer, Front street, local Hudson-Essex dealer. Doing away with all coal shovelling, this new equipment introduces the principle of 'automatic forced underfeeding' that is by introducing coal automatically the soft coal from beneath the fuel box, the coal being forced upward under the fire; it is slowly pushed upward through the fire where they are burned. Coked coal is burned when it reaches the top and the result is an incandescent fuel bed at work, uniform heat, at an even temperature of seventy degrees, no smoke and no fuel waste, and automatic feed.

That, briefly is the manner in which the Iron Foreman—as the burner is known—operates; but apart from providing a steady uniform heat, with little or no trouble and labour, more important, perhaps, is the fact that this new burner actually saves from fifteen to fifty per cent of fuel bills. The Iron Fireman is able to burn the small sizes of coal—which cost less in these sizes—and which provides greater heat. In firing with coal by hand from above, as has been done in the past, phasing the green coal in the furnace immediately lowers the temperature, and then the more volatile gases, which should be burned and give heat, are released and pass out of the stack in the form of thick, black smoke. Thus, in both these ways, [illegible]

[illegible] will readily seen how superior the new method is to the old. It simply means far cheaper heat and power, and the machine quickly pays for itself in what is saved. The new burner is said to operate much more economically than liquid fuels.

The Iron Fireman may be fitted to any type of furnace and is designed for both commercial and domestic use. Altogether the new method is a real departure from the old and bids to achieve great popularity.

KNOCKED OFF BIKE FOURTEEN TIMES

Winnipeg, Man. (By C. P.)—Henry Latchell, of this city, who has been knocked off his bicycle fourteen times within ten years and has been in hospital on six occasions and has had so many narrow escapes that insurance companies will not take risks on him, celebrated his 73rd birthday recently by pedalling to his work as usual, regardless of motor cars. In his younger days he carried insurance at times, but invariably allowed the insurance to lapse between accidents and never benefitted by it. He was born in Sarnia, Ontario.

"I must have more lives than the proverbial cat," Mr. Mitchell said in an interview. "I've been knocked down by a train, struck by a street car, twice attacked by crazy people, almost drowned, thrown from a runaway horse and buggy, hit between the eyes with an axe, precipitated from the attic of a three-story house to the basement, and wounded by a shotgun, by riders other accidents."

NEW TELEPHONE ACCOUNTS MAILED

Within the next few days, local telephone subscribers will receive two special accounts which will introduce the Bell Telephone Company's new rate to the public. These special accounts cover the transition period between the old and the new system.

The new plan, as Mr. Cokers, local telephone manager has explained out, means that the Company has split its thousands of monthly accounts into six equal groups, instead of sending them all out, as formerly, in one batch at the end of the month. The advantages of the new system are obvious.

In addition, a new type of billing machine has been introduced. All figures on the account are clearly typewritten by the machine, which totals mechanically. The subscriber is assured a neat, clear and accurate account.

Announcement of the change was made a short time ago when the regular October accounts were mailed. Each subscriber received a notice with his account which explained the new "Rotation Billing" plan and stated the day of the month on which his future accounts would be dated. Other leaflets are included with the present accounts explaining the changes shown.

Members of Mr. Cokers' staff in the telephone business office are very decidedly in favor of the new plan. Its advantages to the subscriber, they point out, are reflected in the better service they are able to render.

Fashion Throws Its Shadow Over The Youthful Mode

Turn little girl looks as though she might be playing with her sheets as it falls on the garden wall. In such bright sun, Dame can make the brilliant rabbits that way their ears and paws that meet their long sticks by just the simplest arrangement of her hands and fingers. Grotesque silhouettes are easily made and fascinating to watch out of the corner of one's eye. Doris sees a clear-cut profile, a stiffly starched frock that is straight from the collar down and very short, while her legs seem to stretch for miles. The shadow, however, does not catch the becoming pointed material and the tiny rosed collar tied with a bow. There is also a little scarf, pocket or the like that is usually bulging with valuable possessions. French pastries that match the frock complete a practical and smart play costume for this little girl. Lace, dainty, pongee and cotton crepe are cool and equally handsome materials for summer wear. WHY SAY "YEP" IF YES IS MEANT?

St. John Irvine Deplores Use of "Yep" And "Yeah"

I am told, writes St. John Irvine, in the New York World, that none but country people in America say "yep," "yeah" is the urban word. They are equally detestable. Will anybody tell me why a human being should say "yep" when he means "yes," and thus make himself sound like a laughing hyena attempting to talk, or why any one should say "yeah," which sounds as if he had started out to say "yes," but had suddenly contracted a violent pain in his stomach and was unable to sound the sibilant?

A year or two ago I tried to stir up Mr. Mencken to lead a crusade against yeppers and yeahers, but although he expressed sympathy with my purpose, he did not do anything about it. I now appeal to the American public to banish these dreadful expressions from the English language. Let there be no more yepping and yeahing. Let there, instead be, decent and civilized yessing, and promise in return for that favor that I will strive to make the English people pronounce the word "extraordinary" in the beautiful way that Americans pronounce it, with each syllable nicely announced and with the "r" pleasantly trilled. Is it a bargain?

CIGARETTES AND GAY PAJAMAS FOR HETTY

By WINNIFRED BLACK

"What do you think?" said the woman who ought to know better and doesn't.

"I've been to Chinatown shopping; guess what's in this box."

"I've guessed and some happiness and some said lichee nuts, lots of 'em and some said an embroidered dressing gown."

"Wrong—wrong," said the woman who ought to know better, "none of you are a little warm and the rest of you are entirely out in the cold." She gently opened the box and showed us, and in that box were two pairs of pajamas, one silk and one cotton, the cotton pair was rose-colored with blue and yellow flowers on it, and the silk one was yellow, a soft bright yellow, like sunshine, and it had silk tassels here and there. Besides the pajamas there was a bowl of funny Chinese shoes, and in a corner of the box was another box, a smaller one, and in that small box was a large package of cigarettes and a cigarette holder of gray yellow and red lacquer, with a silver mouthpiece.

"These are going to Aunt Hettie," said the woman who ought to know better and doesn't—she really doesn't you know, no matter what you say about her or think, either.

"Aunt Hettie!" gasped a chorus of amazed voices, "does she smoke?—does she wear pajamas?"

"No," said the woman who ought to know better—but she ought to, "Aunt Hettie was born and brought up in a little town where they think a woman who smokes is worse than she should be, and the woman who wears pajamas—for goodness' sake! But Aunt Hettie had a pair of black silk and in those black eyes there's the queerest kind of a gleam sometimes, just as if Aunt Hettie was laughing at the world or something, and once when she came to visit me she lit a cigarette—just for fun, and we teased her nearly to death about it. We called her the Jewel of Asia and the Cousin Girl and Aunt Hettie—delighted."

And once when she was downtown shopping with the woman who ought to know better, they came out from somewhere and there was Aunt Hettie standing spellbound gazing at an exhibit of outrageous, gay pajamas.

"Do they really wear them?" she said, "my I'd like to see somebody in a suit like that."

And now Aunt Hettie is not very well and she's worried about this and that and the other, and there's nothing that the woman who ought to know better can do about it.

"So I'm going to send her the pajamas and the cigarettes," said the woman who ought to know better, "they'll make her laugh. I hope. Lots on the pajamas and lights a cigarette. She'll forget her worries for a few minutes anyhow."

And we all laughed and some of us felt a little bit like crying. I do wonder what Aunt Hettie will do when she opens that box—don't you? You see I told you this woman ought to know better, but she doesn't—real ly she doesn't. You can see that now, can't you?

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

Fall is verily here, and a Fall whose general chilliness predicts that Winter is close at hand. A few gusts have declared unto us beautiful Autumn a few, that is, considering the hundreds upon hundreds who sing the praises of the ever welcome and dearly loved Spring, moreover it is a foregone conclusion that those who have eulogized Autumn have never beheld an empty coal bin when the thermometer was rapidly nearing freezing and the diminishing bank roll had to buy a new fur coat for the gentle wife who perhaps was not quite so gentle when her wants were denied. Added to the general joys of the season is the prevailing tendency to "catch cold." This is bad enough but now comes the news that the sequelae, a costly and dangerous group of diseases follow in the wake of the common cold. Fresh air is the never failing preventative of this malady. But now comes the news that the air ventilation. Accordingly with modern ventilation principles but now comes the news that the air have been adopted in up to date theatres and different places where crowds congregate.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am in love with a boy two years older than me.

Do you think it would be right for me to send or give him a birthday gift? If so, what would you like him?

BLUE EYES WAITING.

BLUE EYES WAITING: If you do send a gift, make it something very impersonal, my dear, a book perhaps or a fountain pen, but nothing very expensive nor elaborate.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in love with a girl whom I believe loves me. I am married but have not lived with my wife for over a year. I can get a divorce, but here is the problem. The girl is also married. Is it wrong for me to speak to her of my love?

ALAC.

ALAC: Neither of you have the right to entertain thoughts of love for the other until you are free. If you are divorced and the lady obtains one also, then it would be time to "declare your love, but not until then.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a man who has been married but does not live with his wife and has not for over a year. I love him and he loves me. Do you think it is wrong to go with him? He is talking of getting a divorce. Should I give him up? Please advise me as I want to do the right thing; some of my friends are going to a week-end party. Should I go with him? I never have gone with him to a party.

OH, SO LONESOMNE.

OH, SO LONESOME: You should not go around with a man who is not free, my dear. Even though he is separated from his wife, he is not divorced, therefore, not free to take you around. It might cause much unpleasant comment and while a week end slip which might be untrue and embarassing to you both. Wait until he gets his divorce before you go anywhere with him.

CHAPTER 7
THE PACT

Sheila asked for time to think over Constance Kerr's proposition. "Let me consider it a little," she begged. "It's always best to sleep on a decision of importance, isn't it?"

The persistent Constance who had never before brooked delay, was forced to agree. Too much depended on Sheila's assent for her to risk frightening the girl off by her insistence. She had a suspicion that her story, like any mention of her fears of pursuit by her bridegroom, was a trifle weak, and her one hope was that Sheila wouldn't sense it.

She remained in the stateroom, pretending to be prostrated, while Sheila had her first meal in the dining-saloon of an ocean liner and experienced the exquisite joy of lying in a deck-chair and watching a yellow moon rise out of the sea. When she returned to the cabin she found the girl in her berth in a confection of apricot-colored silk and lace, was propped up on her pillows, sipping an iced drink and pulling a chicken sandwich to pieces. She declared she felt unutterably wrecked and vowed she couldn't sleep on a mattress that was as hard as a board.

Sheila, who had passed many a night, during the last five years, on a cot in a tiny room adjoining the in mail Cousin Jenny's privately owned car her berth a haven of downy softness, fell went to bed and slept the sleep of a child.

Constance slept fitfully and awakened to face her problem with a sense of dull despair. She experienced the swift revulsion of feeling that comes to those who act on impulse. With horror she recalled her confidence of the afternoon before to the girl who was peacefully sleeping in the opposite berth. It occurred to Constance that, if ever any one had laid herself open to blackmail, provided Sheila was that type of person, she had certain ly done so with a vengeance. "What ever possessed me to tell her so much?" She thought wearily. "I could easily have made up another tale of story to get her help."

But, when she recalled the Countess' sinister threat to have the girl deported—who, within a few hours, seemed to be embarking for France, she knew that she had made a clean breast of her difficulty to a perfect stranger. She was willing to accept help from any quarter."

Later, when it grew lighter in the cabin, and she could see Sheila, she was once more reassured. The girl was so waxenly not an adventuress. The lay with her face toward Constance. She thought vexedly. "I dreamy shin, with its hint of rose, the long lashes and the cute curve of her cheeks gave her the appearance of a sleeping child. Constance thought, "She's prettier than Nan. That's the dear of it."

Sheila opened her eyes suddenly to find Constance's face fixed upon her. She said: "Oh, good morning," drowsily again, stretched, and sat up in bed. "Do you know, I thought I'd dreamed the whole thing." she confided, when she was fully awake. "All of our talk yesterday, I mean."

"I wish I'd dreamed my marriage with Jean," Constance answered with a sigh. "Well, what's the decision?"

"Oh, dear, must I decide before breakfast?"

"Don't tell me you're hungry! How disgustingly healthy you must be! I

The artist friend who advised lovely Dorothy Cray, 251 West 12th St., New York City, to enter two recent beauty contests, is probably saying, "I told you so." She won both of them and a movie engagement into the bargain. Too bad, pictures can't show the loveliness of her skin and the gleaming beauty of her dark brown hair, points which, the judges say, swayed their decisions.

"When I consider how people admire my hair now and how different it was not long ago" says Miss Cray "I can't help rolling about it. Dandruff had nearly ruined my hair. It had gotten stringy, dull, and was falling out. My scalp was terribly uncomfortable. Then a friend got me started on this method of caring for the hair which is all the rage among New York Stars. Now, I just put a little Landerine on my brush each time I use it. Since I have been doing this my hair has improved so much I'm amazed; my scalp has become perfectly comfortable and healthy; my hair has stopped falling out and has become soft, gleamy and pretty."

Landerine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre and wonderful softness. It makes the hair easy to dress and keeps it in place. It stops dandruff. It isn't oily and doesn't show. At all drug stores. A delicately fragranced toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl.

Montreal, Que. Convict in San Quentin Prison Realizes Literary Ambitions

Serving long term for robbery, Robert Joyce Tasker finds desire to become an Author. Puts up plucky fight to acquaint himself with Literature, and to learn the art of Writing.

By WILLIAM ARTHUR DEACON

A fair library could be made of famous books that have been written in prisons, extending from Luther's translation of the Bible to the record part of "The Age of Reason." As we run over the list — Sir Walter Raleigh's "History of the World," Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe," Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," and the rest — the wonder grows that so few talented authors, who have endured this humiliation, have used the material, the experience provided. Dostoievsky, indeed, having suffered ten years of it, has written well and copiously on what it was like and what it did to him; but he was a Russian and we excited regard him as a criminal.

Most of the books in English on prison life have been either written with obviously ulterior motives, or have been disinterested pieces of reporting, leaving out the all-important personal and subjective aspect. The dumb agony of caged men has only once become finally articulate in our tongue, and that was long ago.

But there is now in San Quentin Prison, California, a young man of twenty-five, Robert Joyce Tasker, who is serving an indeterminate sentence of from five years to life for first degree robbery, and whose first book, "Grimhaven" (Longmans, Green, $2) comes close to telling us all we want to know about prison life, and what it feels like to be a convict. He makes us drag out with him his weary days, and share his struggles to keep hope alight from every influence that is oppressive. On the one hand are the grim, prosaic details, and on the other an expression of cold contempt that echoes the dirge out of Reading Gaol:

We were as men who through a fen
Of filthy darkness grope:
We did not dare to breathe a prayer,
Or give our anguish scope:
Something was dead in each of us,
And what was dead was hope.

I know not whether Laws be right,
Or whether Laws be wrong;
All that we know who lie in gaol
Is that the wall is strong;
And that each day is like a year,
A year whose days are long.

When Tasker entered the penitentiary he had no ambition to become a writer; but realizing he must or send there too long a stretch of his life to be wasted, he formed this resolution. Any one who knows anything of the drudgery and discouragement that face the embryo author, will admire the bravery of this boy who, in that cheerless place, did the seemingly impossible. Without instructors, for he distrusts the effect of prison education, and at first without standards or sense or love of literature, since he knew next to nothing of it when he stepped through the great steel door, he struggled on, though often feeling himself finally beaten, until he became a contributor to the American Mercury.

His talent has been built up painfully. He has learned word economy: "At the bottom a guard counted us and admitted us to the basement dormitory used for the accommodation of new men. The door crashed shut, a bolt fell, a lock snapped. We were in for the night." And his humor, if acid, is real: "The last night of the year is ushered out as boisterously as elsewhere. Nowhere in all the world is a year put by more happily than in prison!"

The physical aspect of a large prison is known more or less to every one; but Mr. Tasker's descriptions of the huge pile housing 3,000 inmates are especially graphic. Primarily this is because he has imposed his 'motif' view point on the reader; but the depth of the impression he creates is due in part also to the fact that he lets many intimate things abound which are generally omitted. There is a chapter, for instance, on punishment in the dungeon and in "solitary", with full information about how the men outwit the guards to get notes, smokes, candy and other small blessings. There are sketches of attempts to escape, of fights between the prisoners, and of the clubbing and, on occasion, of the shooting down of prisoners by the guards. One chapter is devoted to a hanging day. Not a hanging, as that is out of our observer's range at vision. In terror, it gains by omission. The rest is sensed, not seen. There is a dull diffused fear running through the lengthy passage that is high proof of the author's ability to reproduce atmosphere with a minimum of incident.

The chief medium of exchange was tobacco. Each month we were allowed to draw on money sent us by our friends and credited to us in the office. Fourteen one-ounce sacks of tobacco were allowed each man. Soap and toothpaste were common trades: one bar of soap or one tube of dentifrice commanding two sacks of weed in exchange at all times. Writing-tablets brought the same. A packet of envelopes—one sack. Then staples, with a few others, formed the nucleus of our fiscal dealings. Tobacco was the inflexible standard—the gold in reserve."

Just as the spirit of a place is of infinitely more consequence than bricks or grass, so Mr. Tasker's interpretations of the spirit of San Quentin, which may stand for all modern prisons, is a finer and greater accomplishment than his record of rules and customs—interesting as they are. That spirit means loneliness and suspicion, frustration and shame, and such a deadening cloud over him, at the conclusion of the book, to cry of his ten hundred nights it has nothing wherewith to arouse my imagination. I leave it or enter it without regret or a saying thrice. It is my lot and I do surmounting all obstacles, has achieved any emotion whatever." This is almost the last word from the young man who, in it, or its counterpart, for more than

Our academicians will be surprised, and probably pained to learn that the decisive influence that led the author to forsake crime and turn to intellectual pursuits was the reading of the works of Floyd Dell. Worse perhaps, is his admission that the first book in which he perceived beauty in Gabell's "Jurgen". Yet we have his word on both points: "Much of what I thought and did as an outcome of reading 'Moon-calf' and 'The Briary Bush' started unconsciously. Only now can I look back and know what part those books played in fixing my attitude towards life." And since the brand was plucked from the burning, to owe, I been, will quarrel with the hand that pulled it out. The truth is that few older persons can possibly understand the nature of the effect of such books on younger reads.

From these popular contemporary writers the young searchers (they were drawn to Anatole France, Flaubert, Dostoievsky, Rowland, Plato, Nietzsche, Havelock Ellis and a host of others. It is inspiring to envisage this boy adventuring among masterpieces while propped up in bed in an unheated cell on a winter's night. To hold his book his hands had to be outside the covers. He made himself gloves from an old pair of socks. "But even so, my hand became numb with cold."

"Grimshaven" is not a long book, but it is a crowded one. Primarily it is, as it should be, the story of the rise of Robert Tasker from the status of a caught thief to that of an honorable author. In this respect it is unique, and will well repay perusal. His attitude is not that of the sociologist but of the artist.

It is therefore as an artist that he must be judged; and "Grimshaven" cannot be classed with the masterpieces that have been written in prison. Humiliating and sordid as it is, it lacks genius. Nor, plucky as the man has been, is there present to replace genius any great redeeming quality of mind and heart. I expect to see him leave prison to take his place among the cleverer of the younger authors. But he will bring with him none of the intellectual distinction nor spiritual capacity of the Wilde of "De Profundis," nor yet the growing hearted instincts of an Al Jennings. He is a hard young man, shrewd and cold, without the weakness of a Villon, and also without the mirth and music in his soul that has kept Villon's songs and name alive there five centuries. Mr. Tasker's dole, I believe, for conscious contemporary success: immortality is beyond him.

ROMANCE OF JOHN PAUL JONES

"THE SPLENDID RENEGADE." By John Herries McCulloch; McCulloch & Stewart; 373 pages; $2.00

The ubiquitous nature that belongs proverbially to the devil has enabled John Herries McCulloch, a Scottish Canadian who once lived for a couple of years in the United States, to enter whole heartedly into the character of John Paul Jones, the brilliant Scottish American privateersman of the Revolutionary period, and to retell his spirited story with vigor and warmth, but without false heroics. John Paul—youthful captain, and then gunsmith, pirate, and the most daring and skilful seaman on the American side in their war of independence—is a figure with obvious attractions for the novelist. Mr. McCulloch is not the first to seize upon it; but, in so far as I am familiar with the literature of the subject, he has done his work better than any one else. There is more fibre in its more force; and while frankly romantic in approach it is free from guilt and mush. It is a clean narrative, of dare-devil deeds, held down by a fine historic sense and shot through with a dry Scotch humor that is used with effect.

Possibly I am ready to give "The Splendid Renegade" this high place because most of the tales written about this man have been either written for boys (and therefore watered down), or dominated by American patriotic sentiments (and therefore distorted by ancient prejudice). Mr. McCulloch brings out clearly the value by treatment accorded Jones by the Republican authorities, whom he had served so signally. The care is analogous to that of Paine who served the cause with his pen and coined the phrase. The United States of America, Jones, the sea-wolf, after making plucky war on the British at sea, instead of being put in charge of the American navy, was coolly shelved in France, and left deserted and penniless in his old age. On his death he was buried at the expense of the Republic of France. The author scrupulously does justice to the pettiness and corruption of the New England political gang under Adams.

From these materials, Mr. McCulloch has made a capital adventure story, replete with incident, bristling with danger, and marked by many of the qualities of first rate writing, which are liable to be overlooked by the swift drama carries the reader breathlessly on.

NOTABLE EVENT IN CANADIAN LITERATURE

"BETWIXT HEAVEN AND CHARING CROSS." By Bartin Burrell; Macmillan; 328 pages; $3.50.

The first book of Hon. Martin Burrell, the Librarian of Parliament at Ottawa, is more than a book: it is an event in Canadian literature. For the first time the weekly articles of a Canadian book reviewer have been gathered between covers. here are the best of precedents for the move. From Sainte Beuve to Anatole France and Edward Garnett, most of the best European criticism has appeared first in the columns of some periodical — often those of a daily newspaper. The nature of Mr. Burrell's relations with the Ottawa Journal makes his contributions more than ordinarily suited to book publication. He may write to any length. In free in choice of subjects, is not wasting his energies on ephemeral fiction; and is consequently able to deal with important books in great detail. So his book opens with a 38-page review of Lloyd George's "Napoleon," and includes discussions of such books of current interest as the "Intimate Paper of Colonel House," "A Canadian Art Movement," Rigg's "Annals of Niagara, Mrs. Skelton's "Life of D'Arcy McGee." Lord Birkenhead's autobiography and Lord Beaverbrook's "Politicians and the War."

All the books covered may not be of permanent interest; but there are few that the average reader will not wish some kind af acquaintance with. To the busy person, Mr. Burrell offers adequate information about some of the outstanding books of the last year or two that he may have overlooked. Furthermore, Mr. Burrell writes entertainingly. Happily, he writes as a plain man for plain men. thereby again ranging himself on the side of Hazlitt, and the greatest critics generally. For, perhaps paradoxically, the critic, of all writers, is apt to be defeated soonest by a store of learning that crowds out more important things such as quick perception and ready sympathy.

$200,000 PAID FOR REMBRANDT PAINTING

London Eng. (By C. P.)— A portrait by Rembrandt of his woman servant, Hendrickje Stoffels, has been bought by Lord Melchett (formerly Sir Alfred Mond) for $2,000,000 from Messrs. Duveen Brothers, of Grafton Street, west.

The picture was in the Huldschinsky collection in Berlin, and was bought late May by the Duveens for $187,500.

A member of the firm of Duveen Brothers states that the portrait could have been sold in the United States for a higher sum, and that Lord Melchett's purchase had undoubtedly saved the picture for England.

JOHNS PROVIDENCE TEAM

Montreal, Oct. 26.—Clizzy" Hart for the past two years left wing player with the Canadiens, left today for Providence, to play in the American Professional League.

The promotion of two of Canada's best known hotelmen to important posts in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been announced by the hotel department of the company. T. A. Neale, manager of the Chateau Frontenac at Quebec, has been appointed manager of the new 1,200-room skyscraper hotel in Toronto, the Royal York, which will be opened to the public next summer. His place in the great hostelry at Quebec will be taken by John Johnston who has been assistant manager at the Chateau for some time.

The distribution of dividend money every three or six months to shareholders of industrial and commercial enterprises in Canada runs into many millions of dollars a year. The money goes to an army of people throughout the country, many of whom depend on it for their living and it has much to do with the continued prosperity of Canada. About 85 companies are listed on the Toronto Stock Exchange, a small part of the total number of those making regular dividend disbursements in Canada, but for the third quarter of this year these 85 companies distributed in dividends over twenty million dollars, of which the Canadian Pacific alone accounted for $7,500,000. This was by far the largest distribution by any one company, the next largest being $931,596. The number who regularly benefit by these distributions of profits is increasing every year, thus showing the more general tendency on the part of the Canadians to invest their earnings in the stocks of well established and sound industrial concerns.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR AN AIRPORT

Clifford Wallace Furnished Mild Sensation For Spectators

ON TO OSHAWA

Aviators Were Welcomed Here By City Council And Officials

Captain Earl Hand, D.F.C. and Clifford Wallace, aviation editor of the Toronto Star, were air visitors in Belleville for something over an hour yesterday afternoon. Swooping down from the clouds about 3.15, Captain Hand showed those spectators who were on hand why he is considered one of Canada's best pilots by the manner in which he made a landing over the rough ground.

Owing to the fact that the wind was very stiff from the north west the plane was unable to use the run way which has been constructed at the Leavens field, and so landed almost diagonally. Several large boulders stood in the way, but Captain Hand lifted his machine over them and then brought it to a stop on a small knoll, safe and sound. Getting away was a much easier task, the light machine, which weighs just a little over one thousand pounds, lifting from the ground like a gray bird after a run of a hundred yards.

Mayor Duff, City Engineer Campbell, Chief Kidd, and several others were on hand to greet the fliers. Captain Hand being driven almost immediately to the city for gasoline and oil. Mr. Wallace then gathered what data he could as regards the field and the possibilities of a flying club being organized in Belleville. He stated that this was by no means the worst field they have encountered in their travels, and in one landing they had gone over on the nose of the machine, smashing the propeller.

With Simple Instruction Ferry

Mr. Wallace seemed very pleased to know that the Leavens Bros. were operating an Air Service in this district, and declared that Belleville was far ahead of some of the other towns they had visited in that respect. The only thing Belleville needed now was to have a little work done on the landing Field and organize a Flying Club. He also stated that if a Club was formed here, the government would supply a plane for instruction purposes.

The Leavens Bros. field certainly had the look of a metropolitan airport for a few minutes, as both the Leavens planes were there, as well as the Moth of Captain Hands, while a Mail plane roared overhead on its way to Montreal.

Captain Hand was one of the Canadian aces in the World War who has taken up aviation as a peace time occupation. He had some twelve enemy planes to his credit and was shot down once in flames in Italy while engaged on that sector. He managed to make a safe landing, but his right hand was terribly burned, this being the hand which held the "joy-stick" as he made his way to the ground. He was of the opinion that with a large field such as he saw in Belleville, a few hundred dollars could make it one of the best in the province.

Speed of Plane

Their plane, which is a DeHavilland "Gypsy" Moth, is a biplane of the two seater style. It was in this same identical kind of plane that Commander MacDonald tried to fly the Atlantic last week. It is made in England and was assembled at the DeHaviland works in Toronto, and costs in the neighborhood of four thousand dollars. It will run for an hour on five gallons of gasoline, and it's great est speed is approximately one hundred and twenty-five miles per hour, with a cruising speed of ninety miles.

The fliers had come from Kingston earlier in the afternoon, and expected to pay a visit to Oshawa before dusk fell. Owing to the heavy wind which was blowing, Captain Hand estimated that they would take almost an hour and a half to get there. It was cold enough on the ground yesterday, but according to the fliers, it was "much more so up above." It is understood that Belleville's landing field will now be officially recognized, and placed on all maps for the use of aviators, and this city should soon begin to feel the march of progress as far as the air ways are concerned.

Tally Ho! For the Royal York Course

This old-time stage coach will run twice daily from the new Royal York Hotel, Toronto, to the new Royal York golf course, which is under construction in the beautiful Humber Valley area. The coach originally belonged to Major-General Sir Henry Pellatt, C.V.O., K.C.M.G., and will be used for the conveyance of guests of the Canadian Pacific hostelry, who will call after the approved fashion of a by-gone day at the Old Mill for the refreshment of man and beast. The route will be via the Lakeshore Boulevard, Sunnyside and the Humber Boulevard.

INVENT MACHINE, STOP BROKEN RAILS

New York, Nl Y.— Adoption of an electrical machine designed to prevent rom the tracks of American railways the broken rail source of accidents has been announced by the American Railway Association.

The Association describes it as "one of the most important safety moves in years, which will add a new factor of security to the work already done in decreasing the number of broken rails."

The trouble aimed at is "rail canker", the cracks known as transverse fissures, which are invisible, because they start inside the rail and show no warning sign until the rail creaks. The machine adopted to catch this invisible menace proceeds along the rails at seven miles an hour, methodically squirting a dab of white paint on any spot where one of these hidden cancers exists. It starts within a week on a demonstration tour of the principal American railways, giving each line about a week.

COOLIDGE'S PLANS

Washington, Oct. 27.—President Coolidge expects to go to Northampton, Mass., on November 5 to cast his vote in the election on November 6.

STOLE SHEEP IN NEW YORK CITY

One of the temptations from which, it might be supposed, New Yorkers should feel perfectly safe is the urge to steal sheep. Yet last week one of the 6,911,000 made off with one of the city sheep in the Central Park flock.

Stuffed under his coat, the creature was taken to his apartment. There it based so dismally and persistently that the neighbors were roused. The police were called, and when they ran down the bleating noise they found the miscreant, a Mexican countryman, trying to force the sheep to have a breakfast of hot milk.

He could not explain how he came to have the sheep or why he stole it. He could hardly have wanted it for business purposes as it is a long road and devious from Central Park to a standing dish of lamb stew on the counter of a cafeteria.

Perhaps the Mexican, coming from a warmer country had hoped to have a sheepskin to line his Winter jacket. He may have been lonely in a far country, longing for companionship and sought the woolly sheep for a household pet. When elevated trains, steam-rollers and loud-spikers go unmolested, it probably never occurred to him that a little bleating would annoy his neighbors.

DUFFERIN SCHOOL WANTS SCHOLARSHIP

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There IS a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can FIND IT.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA, Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing But the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascarize the bowels? They will usually function for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no longer, and perhaps smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any kid of any kind for weeks on-end.

So the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose, and EVERY druggists has them

"How often I wish I could tell my women patrons"

Says a beauty specialist

If women only realized how often they are in danger of offending others! This new discovery, which neutralizes odor in sanitary pads, removes all fear of such offense.

ONE woman cannot always speak freely to another on so delicate a subject as this. And often women suffer needless fear, needless self-consciousness today. Because a new process, developed and patented in Kotex Laboratories, acts in a most remarkable way to end all odor while Kotex is being worn. There is no further need for the feeling that one may be annoying others in this way.

The new cut, non-revealing

A certain bulkiness associated with old-fashioned methods has been overcome, too. Each pad is rounded and tapered in such a way as to leave no evidence of sanitary protection.

You may add or remove layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or department store . . . 60c for a box of twelve.

Deodorizes . . . and a other important features

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;

2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;

3—Deodorizes quickly, thoroughly by a new and exclusive patented process;

4—Safest to be your secret; filler may be made obtainable, discreetly, at any counter; and

SINICAL SADIE SEES

HOME GOOD ENOUGH

An Aberdonian received a letter from his son who had emigrated to Canada. It read: "This is a perfect spot. How you would love the view of the mighty rolling prairie, backed by the glistening white peaks of the Rock ies!" His father replied: "I am very well content with the view at home here. From my front window I can look on to the head office of the North of Scotland Bank."

THE SWINE KING.

On being told that Rokum-So, the swine king, made three million yen a year, Iendo, the philosopher, said: "Fate has cheated him outrageously—it is worth twelve million yen a year to be Rokum-So.

BLAMED THE POET

A schoolmaster named Bird was unpopular because of his quick temper. One morning his pupils wrote on the blackboard:—

"Hail to thee, blithe spirit;

Bird thou never wert."

Two minutes later Mr. Bird stalked in, glared at the blackboard, glared at his class, and snapped, "Who wrote that?" Twenty hands went up and twenty voices replied, "Please, sir, Shelley!"

TO THE HORSE

Oh, horse, you are a wonderful no buttons to push, no horns to honk; you start yourself, no clutch to slip; no gears to mix, no gears to strip; no license buying every year with plates to screw on front and rear; no gas bills climbing up each day to steal the joy of life away; no speed cops charging in your rear, pulling summons in your ear. Your inner tubes are all okay, and thank the Lord they're all that way; your spare tire plugs never miss and fuss; your motor never needs an cure; your fender is good for many a mile; your body never changes style; your wants are few and easy met; you're something on the auto yet.

Grecourt, the newlywed, went around with a dark look of melancholy on his face.

"What's the matter?" asked his most intimate friend. "Why so blue?"

"Imagine," he said, "last week I took a card with my wife for the first time—and the first thing she did was to pull down the shades!"

GOSSIP

"My dear, do you know that my friend, Mrs. A.,

Said to me, over the fence just today,

That somebody told her, I believe Mrs. B.

That she had been told by someone, Mrs. C.,

That Mrs. X said to her friend, Mrs. Y

If she had her senses, she never would try

To sing in the choir next to old Mrs. Z.—

She knew of no woman who sang worse

Then someone, the daughter of old Mrs. Z.

Told someone, I think it was young Mrs. B.

Who passed it along to my friend, Mrs. A.

Who told Mrs. C. just the very same day,

That Mrs. Z told Mrs. Y very plain

That Mrs. X surely was going insane,

If all she could do was to stretch like a cat,

She'd tell her in unvarnished language to scat!

JUST IN PASSING

THE CAGED APE.

I was a beast of the jungle,
Innocent, wild and free,
Heeding the urge of the moment,
Swinging from tree to tree.
Now I am penned and pinioned—
Gone is my liberty
Man, oh, man, with the cunning brain,
What have you done to man?

Where is my old mate waiting
Where can my children be
Crouched while my barking brothers
Search through the woods for me?
Gone is the glad-some clamour
When shades of night-time flee—
Gone is the awe of evening
At sunset's mystery.

Perding on food that sickens.
Dry as a last year's pea,
Longing for luscious fruit meals
Fresh from the parent tree,
Dreaming of bygone pleasures,
Cursing the days to be—
Man, oh, man, with the cunning brain,
How have you dealt with me?

Everything here is bitter;
All in the jungle good,

How can I live through iron?
How can I climb through wood?
How walk I shake my prison,
Shrieking for liberty,
Man, oh, man, with the cunning brain,
Can you not pity me.

DEFIANCE TO FALSE GODS

By L. MERCIVOL.

You do not like my altar smoke,
Nor find me true enough in prayer,
It is for human sacrifice
Sorrow so bend me with despair.

No gaudy tribute do I pay,
Nor hurt my voice to sing your praise,
It is for this that you display
Pain that can quench my burning gaze?

Or is it that I dared to ask
Why I was made, and to what end
You gave short days for my long task
Wh.n years were given to my friend?

So will I question, nor be done
Till I fall weary, soft submit—
I, who was once oblivion
And crashingway must return to it.

THE WAY TO A MANS HEART

SIMPLE LUNCHEON DISHES

Vegetable Dishes.

Take 2 lb of mushrooms, minced finely; 2 uncooked eggs, 4 oz. grated breadcrumbs, season with pepper and salt and a little nutmeg; mix the whole smooth. Mould into small flat cutlets, dip in egg and breadcrumbs and fry in oil till brown.

Simple Savory For Two.

A tasty savoury, that will be sufficient for two persons, can be made as follows: Beat two eggs until light, add three ounces of grated cheese and add mustard, cayenne pepper and salt to taste. When all mixed, pour the mixture into a well-buttered pie-dish, and bake in a moderate oven until set.

Fried Beetroot

Prepare some beetroot by cleaning them without cutting or scraping them and when boiled and cooked cut them into slices. Fry some finely chopped onion in a very thin slice of onion between the two slices of beet, pressing them gently together. Season well with salt, pepper, and vinegar, dip them in warm batter on each side, and fry them in hot fat.

Spinach With Eggs.

Prepare and wash spinach thoroughly. Then put into a saucepan and cook over low heat 20 minutes or until tender. It should not be necessary to add water if you have been careful that spinach does not burn. Drain, chop finely, season with salt and pepper and serve with one 4 ozs in ramekin dishes, or on pieces of toast. Place a poached egg carefully in the centre of each nest, sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve at once. Other greens may be used in place of spinach.

Delicious Tomato Dish

Skin and cut in slices 6 ripe tomatoes and put them into a well-greased pie-dish; season them with salt and pepper, then cover with a layer of very fine, and sprinkle over the tomatoes. Bake for about an hour, or until the top is golden brown. Serve hot.

Coffee Mould

Half a pint of strong clear coffee, half a pint of milk, two ounces of cornflour, two ounces of sugar, one ounce of butter, and a few drops of vanilla. Put the coffee in a saucepan with the milk and warm. Mix the cornflour to a smooth paste with the rest of the milk, and add to the hot liquid in the pan. Boil over the fire until it boils, then let it boil slowly until thoroughly cooked, add the rest of the ingredients, and mix all well together. Pour into a dampened mould, and set aside to cool. The addition of a little cream is a great improvement.

TO THE MOTHERS OF ALL PALE GIRLS

Your Daughter Shows Signs of Anaemia a Tonic is Needed

Anaemia is simply a lack of blood. It is one of the most common ailments of the same time most dangerous troubles from which growing girls suffer. It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls often overwork and overplay. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach and because of its tendency to grow gradually worse. Every growing girl should occasionally take a tonic to ward off this insidious trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made a world wide reputation for their powerful action in rebuilding the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made a world-

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

Christian we take our way, but not afraid:
Will there be no more roses—by and by?

CHANGING TIMES

The perfecting of radio has effected a remarkable change in the conduct of presidential campaigns. The quadrennial embroglion in the neighboring republic will never again be what they used to be. To-day, the candidates can reach millions from one end of the country to the other. If campaign speeches decide elections, then radio and the newspapers will provide those decisive factors rather than personal stump speeches of the candidates. Again, political parties have come to realize that it is important to keep their candidate in good health. The possibility that the standard-bearer might collapse in the heat of a campaign, has also been considered. The most cogent reason of all for the curtailment of speaking tours for the candidates again gets us back to the radio. It is recognized that a candidate has only so many good speeches in his system; that there are only certain issues on which he dares to touch at all. But over the radio he can't make the same speech twice. Governor Al. Smith, Democratic candidate, has confined himself to about 30 speeches for the campaign. Including his acceptance speech, he has now made half of these. He has talked on farm relief, religion bigotry, Republican corruption, water power, prohibition, slum issues and inland waterways. There isn't much more for him to talk about and there is little doubt that, barring the radio handicap, New York's governor would likely have accepted the opportunity to make several additional addresses. Hoover is confronted by a similar handicap but is more fortunate in that it fits in with his strategy. That strategy has been to virtually ignore his opponent and the fewer speeches he makes the better, he reasons. The speaking situation in a nutshell, is just this: Smith is intent on selling himself to the country, and Hoover believes he has already been sold—that conditions can win for him with little positive aid from himself. Well, we shall see what we shall see on November 6.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

This year November 11, the anniversary of the day on which the armistice was signed, bringing to a close the greatest and most terrible war in all history, falls on a Sunday. As the years pass by, there seems to be a tendency to forget much of the horrors of the war, but to pay more attention to the sacrifices made by the manhood of the world who gave their lives in it. Thus it is that, while the name "Armistice Day" was accepted a few years ago, it is becoming unpopular and is being replaced by the more significant term, "Remembrance Day."

The thought behind this is one which should be encouraged, and this year, with the day falling on a Sunday, there is a special opportunity for observing it in the right spirit, a spirit of humble thanksgiving for those high-hearted and noble young men who gave their lives for their God and their King, their country and their Empire, and of remembrance of the sacrifice which they made. It is not fitting that the anniversary of the signing of the armistice should be a day of holiday-making or rejoicing. Rather should it be a day for solemn remembrance, a day for introspection, so that those who are left behind to carry on the work of Canada's war heroes may look within themselves, and judge how they are carrying on the tasks entrusted to them.

This year, the observance of Remembrance Day should be on a higher plane than ever before. The churches can do much to bring vividly before the minds of the people in an impressive way. There is an opportunity for a city-wide honoring of the war heroes by decoration of the city's war memorial on a larger scale than ever before. Surely the war memorial ought to be a shrine before which all citizens should appear on that day, bearing their tributes to the honored memory of those whom it commemorates. It is but little to ask of a people who should feel eternal gratitude to those who sleep their last sleep in a foreign field, and every loyal Canadian should feel it a privilege and a duty to take a part in the observance of the day.

FIRST CANADIAN FILM

Canadians often wonder why high-class moving pictures are not produced here. This country can provide admirable settings. It has produced a Mary Pickford and should not lack others who would make capable actors. It has the capital with which the mechanical equipment for making the pictures could be bought. But a moving picture producing industry has not developed, the principal reason being that our population is not large enough to enable the industry unless it invaded other countries, to operate on a commercial basis.

Everything must have a beginning and the Canadian moving picture industry of the future may be said to be taking form and preparing to launch its first big production when Ralph Connor's "Carry On, Sergeant," The filming of the picture has been completed at the Ontario government studio at Trenton, which was leased for the purpose. The initial showing will be in Toronto shortly and the picture will then be sent to all parts of the world. The producers are prominent Canadians using the name, Canadian International Films, who invested half a million dollars in the venture out of patriotic motives such who believe that they are issuing a film of first-class artistic and technical quality which will reflect credit upon the Dominion wherever it is shown.

No pains have been spared to make the picture a success. The author, whose "Sky Pilot" was a movie hit, has the story which is the basis of production and personally directed every feature of the filming. The picture will not lack humor, but will have a theme of universal appeal running through it.

The story will appreciate the compliment of having the initial showing of this first-real Canadian moving picture. Toronto movie fans see the best productions and are capable critics. They will wait with no little expectancy for the privilege of seeing "Carry On, Sergeant" and will hope with the good citizens who financed it, that the picture will place this country on the map as a producer of films of dramatic and artistic credit. —Toronto Star.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Use Of Thyroid In Reducing Weight.

Did you ever consider at just what weight you feel best?

A few pounds less than this weight and you feel just a little less like work or playing; a few pounds more, and you feel heavy, clumsy in fact, and somewhat sluggish.

There seems to be a weight for your particular age and body that is just "right."

Perhaps you are the very thin type, troubled a little with "indigestion." If so you pick and choose just the foods that agree with you, it is not long before you are a number of pounds below your normal or "right" weight.

Or you may be one of those overweight folks and find yourself growing two or three pounds heavier every month until you are twenty to forty pounds overweight.

The family doctor will tell the underweight individual that food, food of the right kind, and rest are the means to be used if the weight is to be regained.

This food will be milk, eggs, plenty of vegetables and liquids.

And the overweight individual?

Here also the treatment rests on the same two things, food and rest, which must be cut down considerably.

A simple method is to cut down on the starches. Reduce the fat fifteen to twenty five per cent, and if possible on the rest to the same extent.

It is unfortunate that our overweight friends feel that if they could use the thyroid extract they could get results more quickly and more easily. They get their overweight in just one way, living too much, and they must get it off in the same manner, that is reducing the intake.

Cold is only of use to the individual was born with a thyroid that doesn't secrete it, or has long since tissues balanced. As you know they are able now, by the use of a machine, to find out whether your thyroid juice does more or less than what is considered normal.

Where it does less and allows too much fat to be stored, your doctor is willing to use the thyroid extract.

In these cases where the individual is not fat enough and exercise too little, the thyroid has no effect.

A GREAT PUZZLE TO CAREFUL PARENTS

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child is ill with Stomach troubles; is seized with cold or fever, refuses food or vomits what he has taken, when he is great pain and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandary. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to set him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly relieve fever, bowel troubles, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful health-restoring sleep. NO AMALGAMATION FOR THIS COUNTRY

Washington, D.C. — A Southerner's views on annexation talk is contained in an editorial in the Chattanooga, (Tenn.) News, of which George Fort Milton, is editor. "The unifirmed," says the editorial, "often talk of the advisability of the absorption of Canada into the American nation—that it is an outmoded union which is bound to come in a political sense. Well-informed Canadians scoff at the idea. The Canadians are proud of their citizenship of their membership in a free nation in a commonwealth of free nations and see no reason for any change."

The writer proceeds to review a recent publication embodying a speech by Hon. Vincent Massey on "The Making of a Nation" He endorses Mr. Massey's opinion that because Canada's development was evolutionary and not revolutionary its independence will be worked out in a manner different from that of the United States.

Commenting on the changed status of the Dominions in the last decade the editorial comments that "Westminster is very sensibly putting its faith in the practical truth, 'The looser the tie, the closer the bond.' Thus historically the editorial continues, "it seems unlikely that Canada will ever merge with the United States now is there any clear reason why she should. CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Oct. 26.—Higher prices both for wheat and corn developed early today. An unexpected firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations together with the absence of selling pressure here strengthened wheat and there was talk that further export business in corn had been done overnight. Opening to 1-2 higher, Chicago wheat relaxed little and then rose higher than before. Corn started 1-8 to -8 up and held near to initial figures. Oats were steady.

CRUCIAL GAMES OF "BIG FOUR"

Bengals May Clinch Verdict By Winning Today

Montreal, Oct 27.—Today's football in the Interprovincial Rugby Union will decide whether Montreal and Argonauts, of Toronto, are to keep in the championship hunt, or whether Hamilton Tigers are going to score a second straight Big Four titular triumph by taking a strange hold on the ladder, they won last season.

The battle for the laurels will be fought out in two fields, the Montreal Wheelers playing the wounded Ottawa, Senators at the M. A. A. A. grounds here and Argonauts journeying to Hamilton for the struggle in which the doddle like most win if the Tigers are to be prevented from clinching the title at this stage. For the Montreal team it is a necessity to beat Ottawa to keep pace. For Toronto Argonauts, they must win or Tigers will have scored their fourth consecutive league victory this season and will have an impregnable position on the top.

Argos having been putting everything they have into their drills his week in going over to Hamilton convinced that they can beat the Bengals. They may succeed, but from their former contests, the Argos will have to show immense improvement along the line if they are to halt the Tigers. The Hamilton scoring punch is not a guess, but it is powerful and sufficient if the opposition finds that they can make practically no headway themselves against the stout defensive bulwark that Coach Rodden has developed. Still, with a start on the right foot, Argos have a chance to triumph on the strength of a brilliant backfield.

BEACHES LET UP ON HEAVY WORK

Appear To Be In Best of Shape For Rest of Season

Balmy Beach, with an off day Saturday, are letting up a little on the heavy rugby drill this week, but they are going steadily at the play perfecting and conditioning and should wind up their league schedule in flying style. The Beaches are coming along towards the point of strength that is not far behind the championship power of last year. Their big, hard-hacking line is faster and better balanced than the pallast wing collection that met the brunt of the Tigers' charges in the final last year, and the half-line, though lacking the driving brilliancy of the famous Moore-Cawkell-Foster trio, is two swifter afoot. The Beaches have come near to the head three times of chance, and once again are a decided titular factor.

Coach Hobbs has his squad worked out now so that he knows exactly where he stands and knows what to expect from each of his players. Ross Robertson, Buck Billings, Jack Foster and Alex McKenzie, Hobbs' quarter of running back fielders who do the attacking in the two halfback positions. Earl Smith, the Flying Parson, has a likely looking understudy in Charley Delahey at second defence half. Then there is Bus Lewis, the rather slight but clever performer, who can work into either of these combinations in case of emergency.

Alex Fenton, the plunging quarterback, has a smart relief man in the person of Frank Norman, who can also take a crack at the punting. Either Ted Reeve or Lou Snider can work at flying wing, and Snider may be a regular at outsider is such a good line-

The champion Crescents with a partly reorganized ladies' team won four points from the Maple Leafs with M. Lynch and W. Heppard rolling the best scores for their teams. While the Stevens-Adamson captured all four from the Prudential which is a new team on the alleys and which should give a good account of themselves with a little more practice. NURMI WILL TRY MARATHON RACE

Expects To Win 1932 Olympic Marathon And Set New Record

New York, Oct. 27— Paavo Nurmi will be a full-fledged marathon runner by 1932, but, contrary to the expectations of American promoters, will not turn professional. Instead, the marvellous little Finn will devote three years to preparing to win the marathon run in the Olympic games in Los Angeles in 1932.

If Nurmi has an outstanding quality in his stable greatness it is thoroughness. No runner ever went about his work with the precision of Paavo. Now he has set his heart, upon making the 1932 Olympic marathon race the ultimate triumph of his career, and those who know him believe he will be successful.

Nurmi thus follows the lead set by Joie Ray, who once was the world's best miler, until Paavo pattered up, and who now is one of the best marathon runners.

But where the chesty little Chicagoan jumped practically overnight to the full Marathon route, Nurmi is directing his own transformation in characteristic thoroughness. The Finn is gradually and steadily increasing the distances he runs, and incidentally setting new world's records as he goes along.

Is Good Collector

Already, since the Olympic games at Amsterdam, Nurmi has broken the long standing record for 15 kilometres and 10 miles, as well as for one hour. Paavo collects records as conscientiously as an accountant. They are his solace in asceticism.

The idea in the mind of Will Pickens that the little Finn is directing his days to the study and practice of longer distance running for the sake of the few thousand dollars he would receive in the rather shoddy business of professional marathon running is as fantastic as some of the cheerful promoter's other schemes, and Mr. Pickens is must be admitted, can certainly fan the fantastic.

Has Set Goal

Nurmi has a goal upon which his heart is fixed, and the fact that it is nearly four years away does not trouble him a bit. It takes patience to be a distance runner, in the first place, patience or a great conceit. When a runner has only one of these qualities, like Joie Ray, he is good. When he has both, like Nurmi, he's great.

It would not be surprising if the Finn, when he finally tackles the full marathon route of 26 miles 385 yards, shattered all existing records, professional and amateur, including the Scandinavian.

By 1932, the man who beats Nurmi probably will have to do close to 2.20. And here is the reason:

Uses Regular Stride

Paavo has worked out for himself the science of distance running and has chosen as the length of his stride 1.75 metres. From this he never varies, except to sprint, and he practically never sprints. A three-mile Nurmi covers the same distance with each stride proceeding at the rate of 4.33 minutes per mile. He kept this up for a full hour last month, breaking the famous mark set by the great French runner, Jean Bouin, 15 years ago.

Great Performance

"Bouin's hour" has been a classic ever since it was established. It has been held up as the perfect test of one beyond approach. The French-man, running under excellent weather conditions on a fast track while at the peak of his career, covered 19 kilometres, 21.82 metres in that hour. At first try, timing himself with a stop watch and never varying his speed of each lap, covered 200 yards more distance. His time for his slowest lap of 400 metres was within three seconds of his time for the fastest circuit of the cinder track. Against such machine-like precision, the marathon runners, accustomed to running every day, will have to watch their steps.

Stadium with Royal Military College.

Today's game in Toronto may prove the turning point in the race. The defeated team faces practical elimination from the race and the victor will emerge with a strong grasp on the 1928 title. The fight after this afternoon's game will then be between McGill and the victor unless the three-cornered tie of two years ago repeats itself this year.

Varsity must win today to remain in the race. A victory for the trio-color would give them a commanding lead in the championship hunt with two victories and one defeat with their remaining game on their own grounds, a stronghold colegn teams have found hard to assault in recent years. Queen's have only been beaten once since 1922 on Richardson stadium gridiron and in each case against any team attempting to turn the trick twice in the same year.

SportOgramS By "The Observer"

Belleville Collegiate faces the acid test this afternoon at the Old Fair Grounds when they meet their ancient rivals, Albert College in what will be the last game for the Collegiate this year if they lose it. If they win, which is not only possible but more than probable, another game will be necessary to decide the group champion.

The Collegiate got away to a bad start this year, dropping the first two games to Albert, and then turned around last Saturday and squeezed out a win by the narrowest of margins. On the day's play, however, they were better than Albert, and should be able to repeat this win to-day.

Both teams have been practising faithfully all week, the Collegiate concentrating on the defensive work of their line, which was noticeably weak in the other encounters. Coach Shiels has been coaching them along sound lines, however, and the boys should show the result in the game to-day.

Queen's supporters have been streaming through this city all day yesterday and to-day on their way to the big struggle at Toronto. Should Queen's defeat Varsity this afternoon, what a struggle will be seen at the Richardson Stadium next Saturday afternoon when McGill invades the Queen's oval.

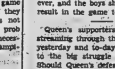

The team which drops to-days game can consider itself out of the running and the same can be said for Argos and Montreal in the Big Four if Argos fail to stop the Hamilton Tigers in Hamilton.

CLINT BENEDICT STRUCK BY PUCK

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Clint Benedict has assumed the dubious honor of being the first casualty of the pro hockey season, which opened unofficially at the Forum yesterday, when the Maroons put on skates for the first time and, after a 15-minute limbering-up, got busy with sticks in a short practice game.

Benny is looked as much for his old black cap, with its safety pin, as he is for his goaltending prowess. As far back as can be remembered, Benny has never appeared in a practice or a game without a black cap on his head. Yesterday he defied the fates and went out bareheaded. A hot shot was whistled his way. He stopped it with his hand, but the drawstring came off and struck him on the top of the head, opening a deep cut. He was taken across the square to the hospital and it was found necessary to take two stitches to close the wound.

THIS ONE WAS EASY TO FIND

New York, Oct. 27 — A NewYork jeweler has discovered a self-finding golf ball. While playing at the Bellehills Country Club, Charles A. Lawlor drove one of his fine shots into the woods. When he found the ball, he lay about two feet from a skunk, brought down by the shot. He continued to play the ball, and no matter where he drove, the scent always led him straight to the ball.

BATTERY VALUE DETERMINED BY PLATE SIZES

Plate Thickness Rather Than Numbers Counts

The old, worn out, spavin-bound plug has the same number of bones and muscles as the sleek, haughty bat teries have thirteen plates—they all have battery solution, but what a dif ference in the way they perform!

Automobiles are often confused by the claims of battery dealers as re gards the number of plates in their batteries. As a matter of fact, it is not so much the number of plates which determine its capacity as the thickness of the plates.

"We believe it is to the advantage of the user to have a battery with thick plates," says Mr. Chris Lewis of the Quinte Battery Service, Willet dealers. "Emergencies arise and the car equipped with an oversize bat tery with thick plates is better pre pared to meet them than the car with a standard battery of thin plate construction.

"This is so obvious that it is seldom questioned and the slight additional cost for the bigger plate battery is more than covered by the additional life it contains." One horse pulling a two-horse load will not last long. Two horses on the same load will grow fat on the job and always have the reserve strength to meet emergen cies. The same is true of batteries."

Consult Chris Lewis of the Quinte Battery Service, Dundas St., about your battery troubles.

THIS AUTOMATIC WINTER FRONT BEST FOR CARS

Motor Protection Against Cold Difficult Problem

For years, manufacturers of motor cars have endeavored to make their cars absolutely fool-proof in order to give the greatest service to the user. They knew that the fewer maintenance and operation requirements the driver had to remember, the greater life the car would have.

One of the problems most difficult of solution was that of protection against cold. In summer, engines start quickly and the "choke" is sparingly used. But in winter, cold engines are difficult to start. The motor spits, coughs and jerks, necessitating the use of the "choke" for several blocks.

The driver does not know it, but he is thus doing great damage to his motor. A flood of raw gasoline hits ice cold metal and washes away the oil-film of protection, leaving glass-like surfaces exposed to grinding friction. It slides down the cylinder walls into the crankcase below, diluting the oil. Corrosion follows, fouled spark plugs, extreme carbonization and rapid cylinder wear.

This damage is prevented in nine fine cars by the use of Pines Automatic Winterfront as standard equipment.

The fine cars so equipped are Hupmobile 8, Gardner 120, Pierce-Arrow, Lincoln, Chrysler 75 and 80, Dodge Senior Six Cadillac and LaSalle.

This device completely covers the radiator and the shutters remain closed until the motor is warm enough to operate without damage to vital parts. The shutters then begin to open, automatically, allowing the entrance of exactly enough cool air to maintain a scientifically correct temperature.

When the car is parked, the shutters close completely while the motor is hot. The driver cannot walk away and forget it. There is no chance for dangerous neglect.

Consult Jackson, Moira St., about Pines Automatic Winterfront for your particular type of car.

When you're buying that next set of tires remember that George Delino on Front Street next to the Queen's Hotel, is local distributor for Firestone Tires. Firestones have acquired a unique reputation for long wear and all round satisfaction and economy. You'll like them. Try a set next time you require tires.

"Judged by any standard of comparison, the new President Eight of Studebaker's new President Straight Eight Sedan, above listing at $2225, f.o.b. Walkerville, has made it within two months of its introduction one of the most popular cars ever built by the Corporation, according to reports received by The Studebaker Corporation from dealers all over the Dominion.

"Judged by any standard of comparison, the new President Eight offers more automobile than $2225. ever bought before," said Mr. W. J. Green, local Studebaker-Erskine dealer, on receiving this report from Studebaker headquarters in Walkerville.

"In mechanical respects the President Eight, at its new low price, has won much enthusiastic praise from automotive critics. It is powered with Studebaker's famous 109 horsepower straight eight motor which provides flashing 80-mile-an-hour performance. Safety is assured by amplified action mechanical four wheel brakes which stop the car in less than half the distance established under standard safety codes.

Introduced at the automobile shows in January and February, The President Eight took its place in the registration of eights in July—just six months later. August registrations showed that this lead was substantially increased.

"There are reasons for this success" said Mr. Green, local Studebaker-Erskine dealer. "The President Eight has proved its performance superiority by travelling 30,000 miles in 36,326 consecutive minutes, a record unparalled in history." Studebaker engineers have given these cars outstanding beauty in body line and color.

HERE AND THERE AROUND TOWN

One of these days when those shoes of yours begin to need the services of an expert shoe repair man, don't forget that Bert Adams at the Footbridge Shoe Repair Shop has the complete equipment to do thorough, skilled work in this line, and to give you prompt service at all times. Shoe repairing while you wait is no idle boast with this firm for they will really do it while you wait, and do the work the way you want it done.

Have you tried Tarlington's bread, cakes or pastry since this firm took the field among Belleville's cake shops in providing citizens of this city and district with the very highest grade of homemade cookies, pies, cakes, doughnuts, and a try of all kinds at a lower price than you thought would be charged for really good pastry. Tarlington's have replaced to a great extent much of the home cooking of the past and you can rely on securing the best here at the lowest prices.

Eyes bothering you these days? If they are and you have thereby reason to believe that they are not in good shape, drop in and see Edwards, Eyesight Specialists at 20 Front Street, and have him give those eyes of yours a thorough examination. It may save you a whole lot of money and trouble later.

Although to a great many people the ice season is about over, the average householder nowadays no longer regards the use of ice in the winter time as a luxury, but rather as a real necessity.

This idea of the true value of ice in protecting food has come about gradually, but one of the driving has been the introduction of ice that is absolutely pure and safe to use in any way; ice that is hard and lasting and ice that is perfectly clean, rather than that which was in the past been covered with dirty, disease-bearing sawdust. Difficult, it would seem, to have all this at once, and one would readily imagine that even if ice with all these characteristics could be secured, it would only be possible to get it at a prohibitive price. But such is not the case. Graham's Pure Ice, manufactured from pure water from day to day as it is required is just the type of ice that satisfies all the requirements of the modern housewife, and which is, at the same time, available at a price which works out actually lower than that of other ice.

A great many customers are using it throughout the whole year now; they find it cheaper in the long run, safer, and money well invested. A phone call to 374 will place on their lists for immediate and regular delivery.

OPERA COMPANY MEMBERS GUESTS GENERAL MOTORS

Witnessed Production of Motors At Oshawa Plant

Artists of the stage learned something of the drama of industry this week when more than forty members of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, now playing in Toronto, were the guests of General Motors of Canada in Oshawa.

The opera stars found themselves in a strange and unusual setting as they walked through the thirty-eight acres of humming factories, inspecting the various operations which begin with a sized frame and end with a finished automobile. Singers who regard with out perturbation the most difficult aria, watched with awe as bodies, wheels, tires and upholstery seemed to fall in almost magic fashion on the slowly-moving chassis. The factory workers as they swiftly went about their tasks, were all unwittingly playing a special performance for their fellow-artists of the theatre.

Just to make the visitors feel at home they were treated to an exhibition of the remarkable lighting and scenic effects on the stage at the General Motors auditorium, at an advanced private showing of the new Oakland Six to be announced in Toronto next week.

McLaughlin Motor Car Co., Limited Bridge St., is a factory branch of General Motors, and is displaying a complete line of Buick and Pontiac Motor Cars.

Two Belleville Men Injured When Car Is Struck By Locomotive

THREE PERISHED IN CONVENT FIRE

Nuns Entered Seething Building To Recover Their Clothing

FOUR ESCAPED

Home of Grey Nuns of The Cross Near Hull Burned To Ground

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 29—Three sisters of the grey nuns of the cross, a French order of the roman Catholic church, were burned to death this morning when a frame convent the order occupied at Gatineau Point, Que. an eastern suburb of Hull, was burned to the ground. Another nun was badly injured and has been taken to the hospital.

The three victims had escaped in their night apparel, eye-witnesses state and returned to get their clothing, evidently being trapped in the upper storey and fell to their death when the building collapsed. The dead are Sister Superior Ste Cyrille, formerly M'lle Ondeline Demers of St. Nicholas, Que., aged 64; Sister Annette, formerly Miss Annetie Gervais, of Montebello, Que., aged 34; Sister Margaret Marie, formerly Miss Juliet Lamarault, of Hull, aged 20. The fire is believed to have been caused by an overheated furnace. There were eight sisters in the Convent when the fire took place, four escaping unhurmed.

According to Fire Chief Charron, the three sisters who lost their lives were at the head of the iron fire escape screaming for help when he arrived. They did not come down the fire escape, however, presumably because they were in their night attire but re-entered the blazing building and perished. It is thought they went back for their clothes.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT JOHN STREET

Rev. Prof. A. R. Gordon of United Theological College Heard

Rev. Prof. A. R. Gordon, D. Litt., of the United Theological College, Montreal, assisted with the morning service yesterday at John St. United church and preached the sermon. He was introduced by the minister of his congregation, Rev. Dr. Hall, B.A., B.D., as an author, a special teacher of the Old Testament and a translator of Scripture in collaboration with others. As might be expected, Prof. Gordon is a fine, scholarly expositor of the Word, possessing a voice of Celtic pasion like his namesake known as Ralph Connor. His discourse was based upon the narrative of Jesus before Pilot centering upon John's gospel, 18th chap. as to truth and What is Truth. Picturesquely he contrasted the two characters, Christ's reply was that of truth. "No self-respecting man has ever charged Jesus with insincerity," claims Prof. Gordon, "and back of words is the life behind all utterance To be of any account, true, noble thought must find expression in action and service in our world of need."

John St. Choir excelled in the anthem, "I Am Alpha and Omega" by Stainer, and the quartette composed of Miss Helen Lucombe, Mrs. Harry Hill, Messrs. J. D. Bankier and Richard Arnold, rendered in exquisite style, Buck's "Rock of Ages." A large congregation participated in this fine service.

Necklace Worth Thousands Left By Owner in Ship's Barber Shop

New York, Oct. 29.—How a diamond necklace, valued at $11,000, got into the barber shop of the liner Leviathan, where it was found when the ship last docked here was a question puzzling customs men today.

When the Leviathan sailed for Southampton Wednesday night, one member of her personnel was left behind for questioning about the bit of jewellery, but it was announced that the man had been exonerated. Meanwhile the necklace is cornerless.

LOVE FOR SWEETMEATS LEADS LADS INTO PECK OF TROUBLE

Smart work by the city police in the poisson of Constable Izzard, yesterday, resulted in the recovery of seventy dollars' worth of stolen goods as well as the apprehension of three lads, 14, 15 and 16 years of age. The goods, which consisted of about twenty-five boxes of chocolates were stolen some time after three o'clock yesterday afternoon from the storeroom and garage of Fred Geddes & Geddes str'et.

Part of the loot was picked up along the Canadian National Railway tracks by various people and Constable Izzard found a box near the Rubber Plant. Proceeding into the field north of the plant, he found some ten boxes hidden in an upturned barrel. After taking these to the Police Station he again returned to the same field and farther east found several more boxes which had been hidden in a swampy marsh at the east end of the field. A few more boxes were recovered from the people who had picked them up along the railroad tracks.

Two citizens had noticed the boys in that vicinity earlier in the afternoon and when one was questioned, he confessed like whole story and implicated the other two lads. It is not known yet whether they will be charged with theft or whether they will be given their freedom, making restitu-

ALLEGED SHEEP THIEVES IN JAIL

Albert McCaw And Joseph Willet Arrested By Provincial Police

Albert McCaw, of Madoc, and Joseph Willet, of Actinolite, appeared before Magistrate Mikel this morning charged by the Provincial Police with stealing sheep on three different occasions from James Trudor, farmer of Hungerford Township. Neither man was represented by a lawyer, so the cases were adjourned until the 5th of November, when they will be heard either in Belleville or Trenton.

During October, Mr. Trudor has missed some seven sheep, and on the occasion of the last visit of the thieves thought he recognized the two men. The Provincial Police on being notified the two men, and recovered three of the sheep, one having been killed while the other two were alive. It is said that these men had sold the sheep to different farmers, and the one that had been killed having been sold to E Hall, 3rd of Thurlow, and the other two to Charles Simpson, of Cherry Corners.

Four more are still missing, but the police expect to recover them within the next few days, as they are thought to have been sold to various farmers of the vicinity. These men are reported to have various other crimes charged up against them, and their finger-printing will be sent to the Toronto night at Ottawa to check up on their records.

C. M. REID HEARD BY ROTARY CLUB

As part of the work of the special Vocational Committee, Mr. C. M. Reid today spoke to his fellow Rotarians on business efforts, briefly outlining his remarks to one phase of the question, that of the duty of the employer to his employee. Mr. Reid based his experiences culled from his forty years business life in Belleville to illustrate the point he was trying to make, that an employer is to a large extent responsible for the success or failure of those who work under his direction.

Mr. W. B. Deacon conveyed to the club the thanks of Mr. R. J. Fredericks for the kindness of members and of the Club in his illness. Mr. Fredericks is back in the office and is doing as well as can be expected.

Oster escaped injury. He accompanied his friend to the hospital. The watchman at the crossing was signalling the motor car with his red signal. Police say the crossing is not very well lighted and Oster claims they failed to see the locomotive coming; cast. It was in charge of Engineer Aten.

Both Gilroy and Oster are employed by the Baby Shoe Company which factory is located in the canning factory on Pinnacle Street.

E. WILLIAMS IS FOUND GUILTY

Fisherman Given Seven Days In Jail By Magistrate Mikel

Elezer Williams, of Big Island, was this morning found guilty by Magistrate Mikel of being intoxicated in charge of a motor car, and was sentenced to serve seven days in the common jail at the County of Hastings. During his sentence of the unfortunate man, which is that of a fisherman, the magistrate declared that he should not have to start his term until December the 3rd, which would give him ample time to get his nets and other appliances safely stowed away for the winter.

Williams was arrested by the City Police a few weeks ago on Station St., on information to the effect that he was evident when he not only wrecked his own car but did considerable damage to another car which he struck. After being arrested by the City Police he jumped out of the car and made a bolt for freedom but was caught at the Upper Bridge. Willets was the companion in the car at that time paid a fine a short time ago for being intoxicated in a public place.

Love-Crazed Youth Strangled Sweetheart and Killed Himself

Warren, Ark., Oct. 29.—A youth's unwillingness to see his sweetheart until his sweetheart finished school had its outcome today in the death of both.

The coroner's verdict today was that the youth had strangled the girl to death and then shot himself with a pistol.

After six days of search following their disappearance from the girl's home here, the bodies of Ethel Mae Baker, 15-year-old high school senior, and M. J. Powell, 20, a mechanic of Oakgrove, were found in an automobile in a thicket off the roadside near here yesterday.

A letter the girl had written to Powell was found with the bodies and said:

"Do you think I would quit school and go back with you now? When I do a big piano will hop up and play, 'Who'd a Thought It.'"

On the back was written apparently by Powell: "We could not go on like this. Bury us together."

DIRIGIBLE SLIPPED OFF IN DEAD OF NIGHT ON THE RETURN VOYAGE

Graf Zeppelin Reported As Heading For Cape Race

SHORTER ROUTE

Home Port In Germany Preparing A Gigantic Welcome

Lakehurst, N.J., Oct. 29.—The German graf zeppelin, inexplicably for days by contrary winds, heaved off its bonds early today and headed back through the moonlight skies for its home at Friedrich. Shefen, Germany. At 12.47 a.m.

With three score men and one woman aboard, the greatest airship that ever fled the skies was dragged tail first from the hangar not long after midnight and then, seeming suddenly to acquire a life of its own, it lifted proudly against the moon and strode away on its journey across the sea.

All day yesterday the departure of the zeppelin on its return flight remained in doubt. The zero hour for the great craft was first set at five o'clock in the afternoon and then advanced to midnight. But even then no one seemed really believe the ship would leave.

But midnight came and action followed with breathless swiftness. The passengers were bundled aboard, chat ted briefly and grinned nervously in something of desperation in their smiles. At one o'clock the last graf zeppelin swung around in a large circle about the air station that had been its temporary home since its arrival from Germany and then headed eastward toward the ocean. It then cross to return to its home station.

It started into the air at 1.56 and 46 two it was nothing more than a gray blot against the moon. And then it was nothing at all.

The Graf Zeppelin, came to America from across the seas, had gone back into the skies.

New Route Taken

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 29— Varying weather conditions over the Atlantic face the air liner Graf Zeppelin on her homeward journey to Friedrichshafen, while a more southerly course than usual. The great circle route would carry the ship into more favorable areas, the northern route has the advantage of a strong tail wind which would enable the Graf Zeppelin to make good time.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Oct. 29—(Via Halifax and Bermuda, Oct. 29—The Graf Zeppelin was reported 100 miles south of Halifax at 11 o'clock this morning, Bermuda time, steering directly for Cape Race, according to a message received here from the Graf made in the House of Commons by Sir Sam Hughes.

"It was many things that Sir Sam Hughes said could not be regarded as evidence in court," said Chief Justice Latchford.

VESSELS SEIZED BY PATROL MEN

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Two rum runners were captured in Lake Erie and the Niagara River over the week-end.

The customs border patrol men seized a motor boat which was abandoned Sunday morning on Grand Cemetery Island in the river after the rum runner decided he could not land on the American shore.

Another motor boat was captured Sunday morning near the head of the river. The two boats carried 100 cases of Canadian ale.

Columbia Ready For Ocean Trip

New York, Oct. 29.—The Transatlantic monoplane Columbia, in shape again for another European venture, was poised today for the overseas hop with Rome or Russia as its objective.

Roger B. Williams and Peter Bonelli, who crashed when they attempted to take off for Rome two weeks ago, will be back in the cabin on her new attempt, which will take place tomorrow or Wednesday.

SYDNEY T. MEDD, K.C., DEFENDING COUNSEL

In the report of the Autumn Assizes which was published in this paper on October 18th, it was stated that Defending Counsel for Sydney Conrad secured judgment in a civil action against Sidney T. Medd. This was an error as Mr. Medd was not the defendant in the case, but was the lawyer acting for Mr. Joseph Anglin, against whom the action was instituted.

Mr. Medd is a well-known King's College graduate and the Intelligencer regrets the error in copying the list of cases tried at the assizes.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—The start of the Graf Zeppelin on her return from the United States this morning came as a surprise to the German public who had been led to assume that Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander, had decided to postpone the voyage until Tuesday. Confidence prevails everywhere that the airship will negotiate the return trip in a markedly easier manner than the western voyage.

New York, Oct. 29.—Radio Marine Corporation was informed by the steamer Laconia that the Graf Zeppelin passed over the liner at 10:15 a.m., eastern standard time, at a point about 90 miles southwest of Cape Sable, Nova Scotia.

CHICAGO MARKETS

Chicago, October 29.—Fluctuating rapidly, wheat prices here averaged lower today in the early dealings, the chief bearish influence was the fact that the Liverpool wheat market proved relatively unresponsive to Saturday's sharp advance on this side of the Atlantic. The opening exchanged to 1 lower. Chicago wheat afterward scored moderate gains but then relaxed all around. Corn, oats and provisions showed firmness with corn starting at 1-8 to 1 advance and subsequently holding near to the initial figures.

This is the first public showing of the truly great picture which was made in Trenton, and critics from all over America will be present.

Captain Bairnsfather stated further that the rights for England have already been disposed of, and that the picture will be shown in the Motherland in the very near future. Production of three or four other pictures will be commenced shortly at Trenton he said.

Wheel was Broken

Two residents of R. R. No. 1 Foxboro figured in the second accident, which occurred at 2.15 p.m. R. L. Herbertson was going south on Front St. and attempted to turn into the garageway leading to Warren's Garage. As he turned he was struck by a car driven by Warner Woods who was coming north and Herbertson's car suffered the brunt of the force as a badly crumpled fender. Wood's car when tested was found to have very defic ient brakes.

When O. P. Cole, Coleman street, made a right turn again, the red light at the corner of Bridge and Front streets, he struck a car owned and driven by Hilton McKinnon, 60 Bridge street, who was going west across Front street. McKinnon's Hudson suffered a bent fender while the other car, an Oldsmobile, escaped without injury. Mr. McKinnon at the time, had no driver's permit with him.

About seven-thirty last night a car owned by Robert McKinley and driven by Melville Johnson, of Trenton, struck a milk truck which was standing on the Highway just west of the Graham residence, two miles from Belleville, and did considerable damage to the front of the McKinley car H. T. O. Price investigated the accident and there seems to be some argument as to whether the truck carried a rear light.

BEAUTY AND FASHION DICTATE TO MILADY

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLETON

One of the most important features of under garments, it seems to me, is that all of them fit correctly, so that each succeeding article put on is enough larger than the last to prevent "bunching."

During the Summer months just passed, I featured bouffant organdy and chiffon frocks and found that they looked far more attractive when full underskirts were worn, instead of the fashionable straightline slips. This necessitated adding petticoats and "combies" of the bouffant type to my wardrobe.

Being somewhat chubby I tried to wear some of the bouffant garments under my full dickies and got myself into the most uncomfortable and unbecoming shape in the world. Being fuller than my frocks my petticoats and combies just bunched up under my dresses, completely spoiling the trimness of the straightline silhouette. Therefore tabs bred, and wear full petticoats and undies when wearing bouffant frocks—and straight slips undies and slips when your frocks are sleek!

Another important feature of underdressing is the perfect fitting of the girdle, as a poorly fitted girdle will make a mess of the loveliest figure.

Complete freedom of the body is essential to grace and charm, so the girdle must fit every line of the figure with perfect ease and comfort. My favorite" corsaliere puts me through a regular routine of exercises twice every time I go in for a new girdle.

First she finds out what type of frock I intend to wear over the girdle (this being very important.) "You know that, now we have special brassiere and garter combinations that serve as a girdle for the dressy, lace type of gown or when real girdle support is unnecessary. Then there is the girdle for straightline frocks, others for longwaisted or normal waistline dresses and so on through the various styles of dresses that are fashionable.

The style of girdle or substitute for a girdle having been decided upon, Madame measures me and then fits on the garment most suited to the purpose. Then I have to bend as far forward as I can and as far backward and to each side as I can. If the garment does not slip up or twist to one side during the bending and if it is perfectly comfortable Madame has me sit for both in a chair, then on the very edge so that when I lean back I slump into the chair. If all is well so far I stand up down on a couch, turn over, and finally sit up again with one foot

AGRICULTURAL EXPERT JOINS ADVERTISING CO.

Hon. Duncan Marshall With Toronto Office

It is a significant and happy indication of the great progress Canada is making when an Advertising Agency seeks out a noted agriculturist, with years of experience in every phase of farm life throughout the Dominion, to direct its endeavor to better understand and to cooperate with the important and ever-growing business of farming.

Recently, the Hon. Duncan Marshall after rejecting numerous opportunities offered in the United States, joined the Advertising Service Company Limited as Director of its Agricultural Markets Advertising Department.

Commencing life on the farm in Bruce County, Ontario, Duncan Marshall later taught school for four years; graduating into journalism and stepping from that into public life. He has served agriculture with outstanding distinction; blessed with a marvellous physique and boundless energy, he has crowded into comparatively few years—perhaps the greatest individual contribution for the betterment of life on the farm.

Duncan Marshall's journalistic career commenced in Ontario and concluded in Alberta. Five years after arriving in Western Canada to take over the management of the Edmonton Bulletin, and while still a young man than many just commencing their careers, he entered public life and shortly afterwards the Government of Alberta as Minister of Agriculture, which portfolio he occupied for twelve years.

In that position he gained national wide recognition because of the help-ful farm legislation which he sponsored. The system of agricultural schools of Alberta in his regime soon became recognized as the model system on the continent, and under his direction the cream and butter production of that province took the leadership among all provinces in quality.

In 1922, as Commissioner of Agriculture for the Dominion, Mr. Marshall carried the burden of the cattle embargo discussions with the British Government. These he concluded to the satisfaction and profit of livestock breeders in Canada, by having this embargo removed. Due largely to Mr. Marshall's efforts, livestock breeders now enjoy the exclusive privilege of shipping cattle on the hoof for finishing into Britain. No one with less knowledge of the livestock industry in Canada, or with less ability, courage or determination, could have accomplished such an undertaking in the dying hours of the Lloyd George Government.

The Hon. Duncan Marshall enjoys a most enviable reputation as a public speaker and lecturer on agricultural subjects, and an address of his upon Scotland and Scottish institutions is regarded as a masterpiece. He has remarkable powers of description and can quote Burns and Scott with amazing fluency.

A big success in the advertising business is predicted for Mr. Marshall for he takes to his new work a splendid journalistic experience, an intensive knowledge of agriculture and a thorough understanding of Canadian conditions and Canadian people. Advertising Service Company Limited are to be congratulated upon securing the services of so able a man to direct their Farm Market Advertising.

DEBATING CLUB PLAN OPENING

Members Will Entertain Present Council And New Candidates

About fifteen years ago, there was organized in Belleville, a Club known as the Wharf Street Debating Club. It is composed of citizens from all parts of the city but more especially from Foster Ward. The members have a Club House at the foot of St. Paul Street, where they meet every evening and discuss, to the fullest extent, matters relating to the city at large.

It is their custom, each year, to hold an opening night which is termed the "Annual Bun Feed." The date for this year's opening has been set for the 29th of November. As is customary, candidates for the city council will be invited to attend, on this occasion. It is here these candidates announce their platform and members of the previous council are asked on to explain their actions, which, in a great many cases do not meet with the approval of the city.

The members are planning a great entertainment for them, annual opening this year and with other famous entertainers they will have Foster Ward's one-piece orchestra. There will be jigs, clogs and a real good time.

BOY DROWNED IN NAPANEE RIVER

Clifford Leary, Six Years Old, Fell From Bridge

Napanee, Oct. 29.—A sad drowning accident occurred shortly before the noon hour Friday when Master Clifford Leary, aged six years, lost his life in the Napanee River. The young lad was on his way home from the East Ward School and had to cross the bridge to go to his home which is in Clarkville. How the accident occurred no one really knows. The boy was accompanied by two chums who after seeing the fatality, ran to the Gibbard Manufacturing Co., and gave the alarm. Several of the men rushed to the scene and discovered the body near the floating bridge or about 100 yards from where he presumably fell in. The body was taken from the water and Dr. Galbraith, Mr. John Hayes, of the Hydro Electric, and others worked for some time at resuscitation. As the body had been in the water fully forty minutes, human aid was of no avail.

AUSTRALIAN WAS KEEN ART JUDGE

London. (CP)—Referring to the resignation of Frank Rinder as art adviser to the Felton Bequests Committee and the Trustees of the National Gallery of Victoria at Melbourne, Australia, a post which he had occupied since 1916, The Times says:

"Everybody interested in the formation of public art collections throughout the Empire will hear of this decision with regret. During his term of office Mr. Rinder has made a consistently fine selection of works old and new, bearing in mind the double requirement of high artistic quality and representative value. Examples of Van Dyck, Tintoretto, Cox, Raeburn, Corot, Puvis de Chavannes and Bastien Lepage are fresh in mind. Most of these works have been publicly exhibited at the National Gallery or the Tate Gallery before being sent to Australia, so that there has been every opportunity for competent critics to judge of their merits, and in several instances the work has excited envy in the directors of our own galleries. To select suitable works which will at the same time satisfy the tastes of a community at the other end of the earth, and fall in with their notions of a good bargain is an extremely difficult task, and Mr. Rinder will not easily be replaced.

PANDELI RALLI AN INTERESTING MAN

An interesting man was Mr. Pandeli Ralli, Lady Byng's uncle, who recently bequeathed her three and three-quarters millions of dollars. Lady Byng's mother is a sister of deceased, who lived to be 83. She now lives in Chester Terrace, Regent's Park, and was a great friend of the late Duchess of Albany. The late Mr. Ralli was of Greek descent, a one-time merchant and financier. He was a personal friend of Edward VII who was often entertained at the Ralli house in Belgrave Square. This enormously rich man was a romantic and fascinating figure, and counted eminent men in every walk of life among his associates. It was from his house that Lord Kitchener went to his ill-fated voyage in the cruiser Hampshire. He was blind for the last few years of his life, but the affliction did not mar his high spirits his generous nature or his conversational powers. He was a member of parliament from 1875 to 1885.

MAY REMOVE BODIES

London—Rumors that the remains of certain historical persons buried in famous St. George's chapel, Windsor Castle are being removed to ground specially consecrated for them at the Frogmore in Windsor Park the burial place of Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort, is setting Windsor agog today, says a special dispatch from that place to the Evening Star.

The greatest secrecy is being maintained, but stories are in circulation, says the correspondent, of unaccustomed activity within the castle walls last night and mysterious lights in the chapel where some unseen kings and queens of England—Lancastrian, Yorkist, Tudor and Stuart—are buried.

The Star adds that it appears to be established that ground at Frogmore has been prepared for the reception of bodies and specially consecrated recently. The stone giving access to the tube vault under the chapel shows signs that it had recently been removed.

Radio Air Cleanings By Static Bug

Exceptional reception this past week-end more especially on Saturday, was very good, and was all that could be asked for.

At least it was in the part of the town your humble editor lives in, it did.

Next Monday is going to be a good one—for those who like electrical November 4th is election day in the U. S. A. but as it falls on a Sunday guess it will be held the next day.

Criticism for all the specials in most stores last month was the kind then which is the kind we like to hear.

Radio Salesman: "Good morning madam. With this fine six-tube radio you can listen in on what all the world is doing.

Confused Prospect: No, sah, sh be. lieves in minding mah own business, sah!

Watch your lightning arrester; it can save much trouble. Another is the way by which rain or melting snow will creep inside. If you hear a click, click, click, during the height of a rain, but no such sound during dry weather, you can make up your mind the lightning arrestor is at fault. Even a sealed one can short with rain water, so watch yours.

Switches of improved design have recently been placed on the market for use in connection with A.C. operated sets. Mechanically, these switches are identical with those previously available, but their method of design has been changed to render them better suited for front panel mounting. They are of the standard 110-volt type, and may be operated with knobs of the type now in use. Radio apparatus and electrical rating is 3 amperes at 250 volts.

Horticultural fashion note in Sears Hoebuck & Co's catalogue for the coming season: "Heavy Rooted Transferners." Radio fans who are interested in decorating their living room with transformers, instead of the old-style palms and rubber plants.

Anyone who has made the slightest attempt to keep radio developments during the past year is aware of one fact and that is, trend which, in the space of considerable discussion, at the present moment; namely, the greatly increased popularity of the dynamic speaker. Less than on year ago a majority of its broadcast listeners in the United States had never heard the term electrodynamic used in connection with a piece of radio apparatus, whereas today it is on the tip of every radio fans' tongue. Earlier, election of the sudden change which has taken place in the loudspeaker field may be gained from the fact that last year at this time only three manufacturers were making dynamic instruments, whereas today they are being sold by twenty-three makers of the large manufacturers of receivers and by twenty-tone speaker manufacturers.

REGENT

Lois Moran, who proved in "Paid-Ility Madame" that she is a comedi-enne of exceptional merit, is said to have an equally fine role in Victor Herriman's latest comedy-drama, "Love Harbor," which opens at the Regent Theatre today for a 3-day run. The locale is New York in modern times. Lawrence Gray heads a strong supporting cast, including James Neill, Edythe Chapman, Marjorie Beebe and John Patrick.

BELLE THEATRE

"I only know I love you . . ." "Love Me and the World is Mine."

Thus runs the theme of "Love Me and the World Is Mine." The universal sentiment which opens and ends the engagement at the Belle Theatre today is a highly individualistic tale-ent which pronounced it one of the finest pictures on display for many a day.

It does not, however, find this the tremendous sweep and surge of drama, the great pageants of European life, the dazzling splendor of old vienna before the war which combines with the intensely human love story with the title "Love Me and the World Is Mine" one of the finest pictures in the history of the screen.

Based on the Austrian novel, "The Affairs of Hannert," by Rudolph Hans Bartsch, the picture is incomparable in atmosphere and local color. Its striking scene of the Boulevardsvienna, the gaiety and life of the Austrian army, its many brilliant court scenes, its delightful sequence in the Prater—the Coney Island of Vienna—its multitude of street shots, where one can almost feel the heat and hum of the crowds inside the two hours spent in seeing it never-to-be forgotten period.

The performance of the leading characters are uniformly excellent. Mary Philbin as the heroine and Norman Kerry as the dashing army officer are ideally matched. Betty Compson, as the Viennese demimonde is a perfect character.

MAYAN PYRAMID HAS BEEN FOUND

Beautiful Structure Is Restored To Its Former Loveliness

Washington, — A shimmering white in the tropic sun was discovered which was a holy place at Uaxactun, in Guatemala, Americans, by the great Mayan civilization was just emerging from the jungles and mountains of Central America, has been restored to the beauty it possessed about 2,000 years ago.

Its excavation this summer is one of the outstanding developments in the work at Uaxactun and Chichen Itza, Yucatan, by archaeologists of the Carnegie institution of Washington, which will be described in detail next week before the International Congress of Americanists at New York.

Unusual Picture

"The harmonious proportions, its pleasing silhouette, its dignified bearing, its dazzling silvery white finish," the scientists declare, "make it one of the most satisfying structures of the period to be found anywhere in the world."

The pyramid, 25 feet square at the base and 35 feet high, was built of smooth stone faced with white stucco and topped with a floor of hard white plaster painted a deep red, which apparently was a place of sacrifice. According to that holy region were four stairways, guarded on each side by terraces the flanks of fine stucco representing grotesque human heads human and serpent heads in relief.

It has been preserved through the centuries of tropical growth and decay by a covering of rough rubble with which it was doubled in height and probably enlarged at the end about 97 A.D. Why it was concealed within this apparently less beautiful structure has not been learned, but the archaeologists estimate that it was in use 100 years or longer before it was covered.

Exterior is Stained

The forest, which had crowded in upon the ruins of the ancient city when the excavations were begun, had almost destroyed the rubble exterior, but it was not until the close of the 1927 field season that the presence of the older structure was discovered. The rapid advance of the rainy season prevented completion of the excavation until this year. Now the shell of rubber has been removed from three-fourths of the old pyramid, and the veneer of fourth has been left in place for the information of future generations of archaeologists.

The original pyramid is designated "pre-Mayan," since it was constructed before the Mayas, who built up the great cities of Uaxactun and Chichen Itza, had developed the special style of architecture which survives as the distinguishing characteristic of their civilization, the most highly developed pre-historic culture found in the New World. It is described as "one of the most beautiful examples of ancient American architecture that has come down to us."

ALBERT COLLEGE TAKES GROUP CHAMPIONSHIP FROM COLLEGIATE

Win By Wide Margin, In Fourth Game of Year Saturday

SEVERAL INJURIES

Albert Now Plays Picton At Napanee For League Honours

By K. C. W.

By virtue of their win against the Collegiate in Saturday's rugger classic, Albert College will meet Picton at Napanee next Saturday afternoon. Albert College has romped through to a 20-3 win and the Collegiate took the over beating it has had this season. Everybody thought that the local boys would win and thus tie the series up, but the College lads proved too good, far too good, for them and there is no doubt that the better team won. It might be said that a couple of really poor plays beat the High School on Saturday. For the second time this season Tommy Bryden, star backfield man for the locals, pulled a poor one. Once again Tommy tried to run a punt out from behind the goal line, with the whole Albert team bearing down upon him; naturally, he fumbled the ball. There is only about one time in a thousand that a play like that will succeed, and Albert, Tommy tried to catch the punt, fumbled it, tried to run it out, fumbled again and lost the ball and Jenkins, of Albert, rolled onto it for Albert's first five points. Jenkins has been trying for a touch all season and Saturday his hopes were realized.

The second second-than-risky boner of the day was pulled when Mott tried an onside kick in centre field, first down and a decided strong wind against him. The ball sailed slowly through the air and was nabbed by Edwards, of Albert, who promptly tore for the High School line some twenty or twenty-five yards, being met with the entire local team after him, but he just couldn't be caught. By the way, this same Edwards covered himself with glory and undying fame by getting two touchdowns in one afternoon, a feat not too easy.

16-0 Half Time

Albert-College got two touches in the first half, making the score ten to nothing, but when they came out for more in the second half of the fray, the old game was all shot and all the High School boys seemed to be able to do was garner some two points in the third quarter when one of the Albert backfield men was downed behind his own line.

There are two or three of the boys that have praise coming to them for Saturday's game and prominent among these are Ralph Mayne, wing of Albert. Youill, by the way, got the hard knock of the game for the Old Ages boys, crashing through the High School line in one drive. But this is by the way. Both Youill and Mayne played splendid games. This Mayne and Youill, too, for that matter, were laid out, and laid out good and soundly, but managed to get up and continue the game without quitting. Youill had every ounce of breath knocked out of his body but after a short rest was able to continue. Lided among the fallen, too, we must not forget "Si" Williams, the hard-fighting lineman of the High School. "Si's" injuries were so severe that he had to be carried off the field and it is thought that one of his ribs are fractured. And "Si" is an important factor in the make up of the High School team.

Youill are: Mayne: Good

But to return to Youill and Mayne. When these two lads hit the line on Saturday, the line gave, and they were always good for a few much-needed yards. If these men hit the old Picton line next Saturday with the same vim and vigour, something is just going to have to happen. We are not forget Purchase, either. This snappy quarter-back has been the star of the entire season, the most cool-headed player on the field and a broken-field runner who has no peer. Purchase is absolutely invincible with the ball, and only takes a hint of about three inches in a game, for when he does—he seems to be able to make first down every time.

Speaking of Jenkins, Albert has a threat of the first magnitude and on Saturday proved that he was one. He, perhaps even to a greater extent than Youill or Mayhee, can start off with a mixed up ball in hand-to him and the first step he takes is going about a dizzy mile per hour, more or less. His teammate, Reid, is good, too. Sutherland, snap, was a vastly improved man. His snaps weren't as much up in the air as in the third game. Thompson and Anglin, backs, seemed to be pressed on and put up a stellar game. In fact, they were all good.

High School Out

However, the High School has its stars, too, and that's the two Jack Cousins they put up a game fight and tried their hardest to pull the battle out of the fire several times without success. No one player stood out predominately on the High School team. On Saturday, but perhaps Byrnes, with his tackling, "Si" with his plunges, and Blaker kicking did as well as any. Mott showed up a little off colour and was not up to his usual standard of play.

Mott, by the way, scored one more year at the game there will be need better in the High School. He can be beaten when it comes to pivoting and he hits the line like a veteran, but he's got a fault with the ball that makes the great player. Oh! well Mott year's champs may be next year's leaders—that time alone will tell.

The line ups:—

Albert— Sutherland, snap; Purchase, quarter; McNaughton and Pinder, halves; Mayhee and Youill, middles; Jenkins and Reid, outsides; Anglin, Thompson, halves.

High School — Faulkner, snap; Blakely, quarter; Williams and Gill, halves; Bonnycastle and Smith, middles; Bonnycastle and Smith, Blaker and Twiddy, insides; Mott, Champagne and Byrnes, backs.

There are no symptoms to help a parent regarding his child's sight?

None of any value to the parent.

For that reason many children are handicapped?

Yes, as has been said, at least one child in every four requires eye attention.

The proper time to combat those eye abnormalities is in youth?

Yes. They cannot be attended to too soon. The whole course of many a person's life has been altered for the better by receiving proper eye attention.

Parents should be glad to learn the facts?

Every parent should know whether his child is or is not fighting eye strain.

QUEEN VICTORIA WIN SCHOOL CUP

King George School team were the visitors on Pine Street grounds Friday evening. Queen Victorias had not dropped a point while King George were 2 points down and only a victory over the leaders would tie the League up. Lennan kicked off for the visitors and play went to the other end. Saunders relieved with a big kick and Pine Street took up the attack. Reid saving some hard shots. Both teams were playing hard for a win and first one team and then the other team were dangerous. Queen Victoria's forced a corner but could not register a goal. Green and Hay pulling up a stout defence. Half time came with no scoring. On resuming Morgan kicked off and Langman made a nice dribble but Garlepy shot by. Then Lennan went to the other end and Yeomans ran out to save. Hayes handled near goal and Hoys took the free kick. Morgan and Meyers took the ball back to the other end and Reid saved again. Morris looked like getting through when stripped and Rigby shot over. Langman had hard lines with a good shot. Both teams were trying hard and a little rough work crept in and a caution to one player was sufficient to quell it. The result came with out either team scoring after a hard even game. Which gives Queen Victoria possession of the Harvey Cup for another year.

Reid, Green, Hay and Payers were best for King George while Morris and Langman were the pick of Queen Victorias.

The teams were:

King George— Reid, Green, Hay, Payers, Thompson, Barber, Miller, Green, Seeman, Rosevear and Harvey.

Queen Victoria— Yeomans, Saunders, White, Churchill, Rigby, Nunn, Langman, Morris, Morgan, Morgan, Garlepy.

Queen's lived up to the expectations of her followers last Saturday when she defeated Varsity at the "T" grounds by a wide margin. This practically eliminates Varsity, unless McGill wins next Saturday and Varsity can then take the final game of the year at McGill. In that case, the three teams would be all tied up again, and they could start all over.

And Tigers certainly showed their form when they defeated Argos 16 to 2. Argos apparently can't play two good games in a row, while the Tigers seem to thrive in the rough going. At that it was no fault of Frank Turville, star backfielder of the Argonauts, that the game was lost, as he was given poor protection on almost all his efforts.

Coming closer to home, Albert College didn't do a thing to the Collegiate lads at the Old Pals' Grounds last Saturday. The final score was something like 20 to 2 and the scorer may have lost a few points in between times.

Albert played like a real team against the Collegiate this, last time, and for that matter, it was the first time they have played the rugby they are capable of in a game this year. They were on their toes to take advantage of any "break" which came their way, and in that fashion they scored their first two touchdowns.

To Tommy Byrnes seems usually the doubtful credit of being responsible for the first touchdown made against the Collegiate team. Tom is a fine steady player, but last Saturday he had hard luck when he fumbled a catch behind his own line, and one of the Albert players fell on the ball. The same thing occurred a week ago while playing the same Albert College team.

Albert will now play Picton in Napanee next Saturday afternoon. Picton had had no, have a really fast team, as they defeated the Collegiate by some 23 points to nothing. They are heavy and the series between these two schools of learning should be a good one. The good wishes of Belleville rugby fans goes with the Albert College team.

QUEEN'S ATTACK SWAMPS VARSITY

Carter of Tricolor Rose To Dizzy Heights On Saturday

Toronto, Oct. 29—Unleashing a brilliant offensive after an unimpressive showing in the first half, Queen's Uni versity annexed through Toronto here Saturday, and went into a commanding lead in the race for intercollegiate rugby honors. The victors, slow in unfurling speed itself, in a third-quarter hurricane of speed and daring over the gridiron, at Varsity Stadium and left a tattered blue and white banner in its wake.

It was a mighty struggle between two great rivals. Colorful in its setting despite leaden skies and a cold breeze, stepped in College lore of two institutions, and staged before stands packed with 18,000 persons, the game produced thrill after thrill—and an outstanding star in Howard Carter, of Queen's. It was Carter who carried the tricolor burden in the first and second quarters when Varsity played for far the better rugby and threatened to smother, with a powerful attack the invaders from the east. And it was Carter, in the third and final periods, who rose to even greater heights with the rejuvenation of his teammates and accounted for ten points—a touch, a convert, a drop kick and a punt that brought a rouge. His goal for the game was eleven, a single point being credited to him via a forced rouge in the second period. Durham accounted for the other five points for the tricolor when he sprinted 35 yards for a touch during the third quarter up Varsity.

OTTAWA ABSORB SEVERE DRUBBING

Wright Stars As Winged Wheelers Trounce Senators

Montreal, Oct. 29—Montreal Winged Wheelers are still wondering how they got so far, the opening game of the Interprovincial Union campaign at Ottawa, a defeat, which they now figure out will win championship of the six Four this season and left the honors to Hamilton for the second consecutive season.

The local squad concedes that Hamilton will be the titleholders, for, after the Montrealers beat Ottawa here Saturday, 21-0, and Hamilton downed Toronto Argos, 14-2, the only chance the Wheelers have of getting above second place is for Ottawa to beat Tigers at Hamilton in the final game of the year—and there's no hope for the Wheelers there. However, the local team, while prepared to admit that Hamilton has won the title, is far from ready to concede that the Tigers are the better combination and are pointing for a win when Tigers visit here next Saturday.

Stomach Trouble

The stomach when normal can digest any natural food materials necessary to nourish the tissues of the body and sustain life. But one must remember that the power of the stomach to digest food is limited by the amount of energy coming to it from the brain. Thus if you find your stomach does not digest your food or only certain kinds of foods properly you may be sure that your stomach is not normal and the only logical thing to do is to have the cause removed so that your stomach will function normally.

Lord Nelson at Halifax Opened

Above, the Lord Nelson viewed as from the Botanical Gardens. Inset is a very charming corner of the lounge, showing the bust of Lord Nelson in the corner. Mr. E. W. Beatty is the guest of honor on the forthcoming trip.

E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is speaking as guest of honor at the banquet which marked the official opening of the Lord Nelson Hotel at Halifax, referred to the tourist attractions of Nova Scotia as being second to none on the continent. This from as well travelled a man as the head of the World's Greatest Travel System was a decided appreciation. "In addition to the opportunities for sport which are unsurpassed and attract tourists from both the United States and Canada, you have the historic associations such as typified by the Evangeline legend which the Canadian Pacific and Dominion Atlantic Companies have' successfully preserved and featured. It seems to us only right that the railway which came into existence as a fulfilment of one of the terms of Confederation should encourage such travel to your cities and other historic places," he said. "That travel has grown apace during the last few years and it was because of this fact among others that at the solicitation of your business men we joined with them in the building of this hotel. It is for the same reason that we are building a modern hotel with other tourist facilities at Digby."

The Lord Nelson Hotel, while operated under the direction of the Canadian Pacific Railway is the result of a sincere effort on the part of the people of Halifax who have long been working for a modern hostelry which would adequately take care of the business which offered in the city. It is situated in the heart of the city and fronting on the Botanical Gardens that have helped to make this old city famous.

Within and without, the appearance of the hotel reflects great credit on the architects and builders. In building and in decoration it is Georgian in character, and throughout the hotel and particularly in the public rooms, a most successful effort has been made to recall the period recalled by the historic name associated with it. Immediately inside the front doors is a handsome and spacious lobby, which at once gives the keynote of Georgian decoration. The hotel offices are here as also are other public services such as elevator lobby, telephone room, clear shop, etc.

The mezzanine floor and ladies waiting room leads up from this, and on one side of the lobby is a short flight of steps leading up to the assembly lounge. In this room and in the adjacent assembly hall the attempt is to recapture the atmosphere of two hundred years ago has been particularly successful. The chief feature is the fine fireplace over which is an excellent copy in oils of the full length portrait of Lord Nelson which was painted shortly before his death. In one corner stands a fine copy of the well known bust of this hero, and on the center table is a splendid model of his ship "The Victory."

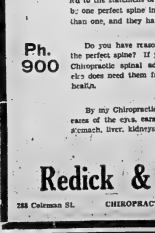

The end of this room opens into the assembly hall which is large enough to seat about 250 people comfortably. At one end is an ample stage with the usual dressing rooms and disappearing footlights.

Leading from the other side of the lobby up a short flight of marble steps is a foyer, and beyond that the main dining room. On the floor beneath the lobby are a series of fine shops opening on the street, and here also is the spacious grill, which in keeping with the nautical flavour notable elsewhere in the building, is termed "The Ward Room".

Its woodwork is of oak and its ceiling crossed by beam beams. It is lit by ships lanterns of brass and by candelabra fashioned from binnacle lights and ships steering wheels. The furniture also is of stout oak. Other features of this floor are a barber shop, beauty shop and the usual public conveniences.

The bedroom floors include a number of fine suites of which the Royal Suite is an outstanding example. Like the other the character of decoration is in keeping with the rest of the hotel. It consists of sitting room, dining room and two bedrooms, and its furnishings include some fine examples of early Georgian. The bathrooms and general plumbing and heating arrangements throughout are up to the most modern standard as also are all the facilities for public service.

ANXIETY OVER BOY'S DISAPPEARANCE

Passengers Aboard Giant German Zeppelin Enjoying Fine Weather

LATEST REPORTS INDICATE GRAF ZEPPELIN MAKING FINE PROGRESS

Officials Do Not Expect Dirigible Before Thursday Morning

FAVORABLE WINDS

Abandoned Southern And Direct Route To Continent

Friedrichshafen, Germany, Oct. 30.—Officials of the Zeppelin works, taking account of the gales which the graf Zeppelin has been fighting estimated that the ship would not arrive before Thursday morning. At the best they think the liner might reach Germany by darkness on Wednesday but would then be forced to cruise throughout the night.

London, Oct. 30.—The steamship Mauretania at 7 a.m. Eastern Standard Time reported the position of the graf Zeppelin at 51.30 north and 40.30 west. This was about the same longitude but farther south than the position reported by the Mauretania in an earlier message and indicated the airship was 520 miles northeast of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

The latest report received from the Mauretania, placed the position of the Zeppelin 500 miles east of Cape Race. This would indicate that the airship was swinging south again to take her course along the 40th parallel as was expected by the aviation experts. She is now on the last leg of the flight to Germany.

Friedrich Shafer, Germany, Oct. 30 —A radio message received from the Graf Zeppelin at 9.30 a.m. today (2.30 eastern standard time) said that at 48 a.m. the airship was 250 miles north-east of Cape Race, Newfoundland. All was well on board. They was a south-east gale. The airship was heading south-east. Despite the prevailing weather conditions among the north Atlantic steamship lane, director General Colsman of the Zeppelin works, said today that he counted on the arrival of the airship late Wednesday afternoon.

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 30—On the heels of reports of Atlantic weather today, experts here believed that Dr. Hugo Eckener steering the giant craft on the 46th parallel of north latitude today in the Graf Zeppelin. This parallel passes through the Scilly Islands, Nova Scotia, and Rockefort, France. If he followed this course Dr. Eckener would avail himself of favoring winds and yet not risk the encounter with storms.

Sieveg Tail Winds

Berlin, Oct. 30—Dodging the storm tail winds, the homeward-bound German Airship Graf Zeppelin was today staying its way over the mid-Atlantic along the northern steamship route. At 7.00 a.m. eastern standard time, it was 500 miles north-east of Cape Race according to a message received by the Marconi Company at Cape Race.

Although the ship forced to abandon the direct eastern route to Central Europe for a more northerly course, the indications were that much better time was being made than on the 111 west, which took 111 hours, 50 minutes. Part of the time she was averaging 70 miles an hour and expected stated that at times she touched 100 miles an hour.

It was during the night that Dr. Hugo Eckener changed his course from the route leading to the azores to take advantage of more favorable wind conditions to the north.

Reports from the ship, stated that there was a strong wind but that all was well on board. Weather reports today were not too favorable and there was every likelihood that a gale would pursue the giant craft during the whole voyage.

STOCKS GOING HIGHER

automobile manufacturer and market operator, who on his return to New York from Europe declared himself still a bull on stocks. Good stocks measured by prices of the best foreign securities and investments are cheap and are going higher," he affirmed.

73 YEARS HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Anderson Celebrate Anniversary

Yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Anderson, Anderson's Island, a short distance from Stirling, celebrated their seventy-third wedding anniversary. An unique feature of the anniversary is the fact that Mr. Anderson will be 103 years old in January and his wife is ten years his junior. Such a case has not been paralleled in this district in history.

The couple were married on October 30th 1855, by Rev. William Black, then pastor of the Methodist mission station at Stirling. Since that time they have pioneered and built with their own hands and efforts the home that shelters them, and, by the way, which has not been changed in seventy-three years.

Two children were the issue of this happy union, seven of whom are living. They have twenty grandchildren, thirty-two great grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

PLAN ADDITION TO NEW QUEEN'S

Building Operations Will Be Commenced Within Next Week

Belleville is to have increased hotel accommodation which is apparently needed owing to the increasing importance of this city as a trading point. Mr. Tom Powers has prepared plans for the addition of forty rooms to the New Queen's Hotel at a cost of approximately $30,000.

Building operations are to commence within the next week or so and the addition will be in the form of a four-storey building with a thirty-foot frontage on Front street on the South side of the present structure and will extend back for a distance of about 85 feet. The present beverage room of the hotel will be added to the lobby of the hotel and the ground floor of the new section will be used as a coffee shop where light refreshments will be served at all hours up to midnight. The upper storeys of the addition will contain the extra bedrooms.

Mr. Powers says that his present plans are but a forerunner of more building which he intends to do next year. He hopes to have the section which he is building now roofed in before Christmas so that the interior work can be completed during the cold weather.

The present building is not particularly for the accommodation of the summer tourist traffic, but that the present minute we are turning people away every week and the addition is urgently needed for the regular commercial trade," said Mr. Powers. "In the spring we shall probably have to do more building if we are going to continue to handle the tourist trade." The completion of the present plans will make the Queen's Hotel into practically a hundred room hotel, modern ly equipped.

BOY DISAPPEARS FROM HIS HOME

Harry Hyatt, Trenton High School Student, Runs Away

NO MOTIVE

Left For Toronto Last Sunday; Police Broadcast Description

A mother is worrying herself frantic in Trenton because her son has run away with no apparent motive, leaving no word behind him as to where he had gone or what he intended to do. Harry Hyatt, aged fifteen, at 2.35 Sunday, boarded the Canadian National Railway train and bought a one-way ticket for Toronto. From there his trail has vanished and all efforts of Toronto, Trenton and Oshawa police to locate him proved unsuccessful. Chief of Police Bain, Trenton, stated that there was, apparently, no reason for the youngster leaving his home. At the time of his disappearance he was dressed in a brownish-grey suit, fair complexion, medium build and has dark hair. He is a high school student.

The boy, in company with his mother and family, live in Trenton, but his father is employed at Oshawa, and it was thought that he might have gone to that city.

CITY DOGS MUST HAVE LICENSES

Police Advise Press They Will Round Up Stray Canines

Complaints have been received from Police Chief Ponton in the city with regards to noisy dogs and dogs running loose on the streets without licenses. The police will in the near future pick up all dogs which have no licenses found on the streets, and unless the owners report for them and pay for their license, the animals will be destroyed.

Last year this city was over-run with dogs of all description, which dug up flower beds, much to the sorrow of the housewife whose property was damaged. Complaints poured in to the police department, and it is in the hope of preventing a like occurrence that will again happen, that this action is being taken.

LADS ENTERED TRENTON HOME

Trenton this summer has experienced a series of daring break-ins and robberies but the ever-alert police force has succeeded in apprehending in every instance in laying the culprit or culprits by the heels. Such was the case the past week-end when the home of Mr. Walter Foster, Byron St. was entered and considerable damage done. Upon investigation it was found that two little lads of about five years of age had broken two cellar windows and when they had entered the house smashed several sealers of fruit and about a dozen eggs. They were stiffly reprimanded, but being hardly of age, were not sent to jail or any such durance vile.

FORMER METHOD DOING BUSINESS

C. M. Reid Weekly Speaker At Kiwanis Club

Mr. C. M. Reid was the speaker at the Weekly Kiwanis luncheon today at the Queen's and gave the Club members an interesting talk based on his forty years business experience in this city. Mr. Reid readily recalled the exchange of cattle trading in the stores within his own experience, when cash was a scarce commodity and butter and eggs were exchanged even in the larger stores for merchandise.

In connection with the introduction of trading on a cash basis, Mr. Reid told of the first advertisement of the George Ritchie Company, found in the Intelligencer files seventy years ago, and this firm made it quite clear in opening their business that it would be carried on along a strictly cash basis—something unheard of pre vious to this time.

And even forty years ago, with few telephones, no cash registers, no modern plumbing and other conveniences which facilitate modern business operations were vastly different to those today, when up-to-date advertising methods, the telephone and telegraph all help to expedite business and establish a confidence between buyer and seller, on which modern business is based.

AGENTS WORKING ON SMALL CASE

Dr. Langsner Insists He Knows Whereabouts of Body

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—The Winnipeg police service is assisting, and preparing to come from Maximilian Langsner, in which the "mystery solver" says: "In a few weeks the world will have all the facts in the Ambrose Small case." He added, that he had several agents working on the case in Toronto. They had been thus employed for some months.

It was two months ago that Langsner gave an interview in Calgary, saying he would produce the skeleton of the murdered Small in a month. In Toronto police authorities did not apparently take the man seriously, although he made several interviews with the higher police officials concerning the Small case. The Toronto police case. He claims to have spent $4,000 in the investigation.

It appeared the day he received a cheque for a million dollars for his theatrical interests.

YOUNG STUDENT SUSTAINS HURTS

Miss Margaret Harvie Confined To Belleville Hospital

Returning from her home in West Huntingdon on Sunday night, Miss Margaret Harvie, a student at Ontario Business College, is now lying in the Belleville General Hospital with a fractured shoulder and badly-cut head, the result of an automobile accident. Miss Harvie was driving into Belleville with her brother when, approaching Sidney Station, another automobile crossed their right-of-way, and in endeavouring to avoid a collision the car was upset and Miss Harvie pinned beneath it.

The driver of the other car turned out to be of the hit-and-run type and did not stop, but luckily Miss Harvie was not the only one hurt. A Sidney doctor was called and Dr. McCreary has the patient under his care here.

MASQUERADE IS DECIDED SUCCESS

Misses Dora Smith And Jessie Reader Awarded Prizes

More successful than ever, was the Chico dance held in the Moose Academy last night. Everybody expects these dances to be among the best of the year and last night the patrons were not disappointed. Failing so close to Hallowe'en the affair was a masquerade or ordinary evening dress, whichever preferred, but about fifty percent of the guests wore in costume. From its inception about nine o'clock, until three o'clock in the morning there was not one dull moment and the "Ace High" orchestra supplied snappy music.

Miss Dora Smith carried off honours for being the best-dressed lady on the floor, while Miss Jessie Reader, for the most original costume, was given first prize. Mr. John Baker was the best-dressed man.

Staff Now Arranging With Farmers For Next Year's Crop

Belleville Canners, Ltd. have just finished a most successful packing season, and if future years turn out as well as the first one this concern will be one of the most prominent canning companies in Canada. The Belleville Canners is listed as one of the largest companies in Ontario of its kind, at the present time, having employed at one time during the past three months one hundred and forty persons.

One hundred and seventy thousand cases of canned goods, including peas, corn and tomatoes were packed at this plant this summer, and of their output, eighty-five per cent. has already been sold. The shipping department will be kept busy for some two or three weeks getting the orders away. Although the contracts were taken by farmers for their next year's crop in this section the company has already a year in advance for their output and sales, and the farmer himself knows just what he will get for his crop before he even sows it. Many farmers in this vicinity have made a fine profit this year on tomatoes, a fine crop of which was produced.

OPEN SEASON TO TRAP MUSKRATS

Department After Making Investigation Favors 10 Trappers

Announcement has been made by Hon. Chas. McCrea that an open season for muskrat will be resumed. This is of interest to trappers who have made frequent representations since those at the Conservation Conference in the year prohibiting the taking of muskrat. The Department has since been told the matter thoroughly, and is advised that muskrat have not been depleted as seriously as was thought when the order was passed. Mr. McCrea and Clare recommended a complete close season, an open season from March 15 to April 21 has therefore been decided on. The former season was from March 1 to May 1.

Muskrat pelts marketed in Ontario run 50 per cent. greater in total value than any other single fur, the aggregate is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 a year. Mink comes second, and beaver third, but these are found chiefly in the far northern part of the province, whereas muskrat is found a staple item of the trapper's livelihood in many parts of older Ontario.

Y'S MEN'S CLUB HOST TO KIDDIES

A night that looms big in the minds of children is Hallowe'en, and once again the Y's Men's Club is staging a party in the Y.M.C.A. for the kiddies. Last year this celebration proved more than successful and a great number are expected to be in attendance this year. There will be candy, popcorn, ice-cream, cake and stunts, everything free, all children welcome to attend. A Chamber of Horrors will cause thrills and chills to run up and down more than one juvenile spine, and prizes will be given for some of the adults, too. In giving this party, the Y's Men's Club in conjunction with "Y" officials hope the kiddies out of mischief on this night of nights, and the expense is borne by the Club.

THE WEATHER

Light to moderate winds, fair today. Wednesday—Fresh southwest to west winds partly fair with slightly lower temperature.

Time-Honored Customs Observed By Merrymakers On Hallowe'en

Next to Christmas with its attendant Santa Claus, Hallowe'en perhaps the time of keenest delight to childhood. From time immemorial this festival has been observed in varying ways by different peoples. Originally Hallowe'en, or the visit of All Saints Day it was a day of deep superstitutal significance. On this day many ways were devised to foretell the future bridegroom, some of these customs adhere to the present day and make interesting reading. Yet the little ones in their parties. Children look forward with the greatest delight to donning of the false face and making the rounds in search of good things to eat and there are not many who will refuse the little ones what they seek. Childhood passes all too quickly and with it the ecstatic delight at small pleasures so we who can only return in memory to those happy days can at least help to see childish faces light up with pleasure and in their happiness find something of our own vanished youth. So let the little ones have their fun in valid but be ready with your small offerings and give them cheerfully.

Will Endeavour To Acquaint Readers With Canadian Authors

Canadian Book Week is to be held from the 5th to the 11th of November, in conjunction with this, a list has been compiled at the Corby Public Library of thirty-four Canadian Topics, and the material dealing with these topics is to be kept in the reference room during the week for the convenience of those who desire to take advantage of this opportunity to better acquaint themselves with native writers. This list is comprehensive and complete, compiling all the current topics of interest to this country, as well as a list of Canadian authors, artists, poets, scientists, inventors, musicians, humorists, and so on. It deals with the immigration problem, Canada and the Empire, great Canadians at home and great Canadians abroad, as well as many other timely topics.

Another service that the Library is performing is to keep in one section of the Library the Supplementary reading required by the Department of Education, for the convenience of the pupils of the schools.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

The mellow autumn came, and with it came
The promised party to enjoy its sweet.
BYRON.

COMMERCIAL RELATIONS

Sir William Joynson-Hicks, British home secretary, recently remarked that the first means of securing world peace is the "cordial interlocking of commercial relations."

As having an application to this remark, it is interesting to note a despatch which says that a large United States rubber company recently opened a large factory at Hounslow, near London, England. At first glance, one might think that this intrusion into Britain's industrial realm would hardly seem like a welcome step to the British Isles. But this factory is giving employment to 2,000 British workmen, at very respectable wages. And, in a country beset by unemployment problems as is Great Britain, this is worth a great deal.

Probably that is what Sir William meant by a "cordial interlocking of commercial relations. The closer the ties of business between two nations, the closer the friendship will be. And when two countries are making each other prosperous, there is little danger of serious trouble breaking out between them.

FUN AND MISCHIEF

(An Editorial for Young People.)

Next Wednesday is Hallowe'en, and already preparations are being made to celebrate the event. It is an evening of fun and merry-making, when young people set out to enjoy themselves in their own way, and when older folk look leniently on their action. No one would want to be a wet blanket and prevent these games and parades and comic disguises. A "good time" is necessary now and again, and so long as revelers behave themselves and respect the rights of others, there can be no objection to the jollifications. Unfortunately they do not always do this and the unpleasant truth is that when Hallowe'en comes round one reads in the papers of measures being taken to prevent annoyance and damage caused by those unthinking youths who consider it to be funny to destroy property and make a nuisance of themselves generally. It is easy to enjoy oneself without getting into mischief though mischief is often mistaken for fun. As a matter of fact mischief is seldom funny; it is usually as silly as it is wrong. Horseplay is not humor.

The fault with young people who make themselves objectionable on Hallowe'en is that they show the mind-game accorded them. The old saying: "Give him an inch and he takes a mile" illustrates the kind of mind which prompts such inconsiderate actions. It is pure selfishness. Nothing else matters, so long as one has "lark." But these larks are dangerous; they sometimes lead to very regrettable results, and they are generally hard to justify. So let this Hallowe'en be free from incidents which will spoil its memory afterwards. Let the sprees be innocent ones; they need be none the less amusing for that. Think of others, and do not mistake the good nature which prevails on Hallowe'en night for license to do what one likes, without regard to other people. It is good to have fun, but no self-respecting fun maker derives pleasure from bringing discomfort to others. Make it a merry but a sane Hallowe'en.

MESSAGE TO MARS

The British post office by agreeing to broadcast a "message for Mars" from one station, and to listen for a reply at another, lends a certain gravity to the assertions of Dr. Mansfield Robinson, pacific devotee. Apparently the British post office is willing to try anything when Yet the British post office has millions of dollars invested in a system of beam wireless whose successful day-by-day operation has been due to a condition which makes wide communicating with Mars impossible. This is the so-called "heaviside layer" or ionized upper atmosphere, which reflects radio waves as a mirror reflects light. Sending a radio message through this layer should be easy—just as easy as blowing a feather through a yard of armor plate.

Mr. Camilli Flammarion, eminent French scientist and physic researcher, was once taken in by a young woman, who, like Dr. Robinson, claimed that her "astral body" had been to Mars. She wrote a whole book in an outlandish cypher which she asserted was the Marthian- language. M. Flammarion was not a cypher expert, but when this book was deciphered it was found to be nothing but a transliteration of rather poor French. The girl had taken a roundabout way of getting into print a manuscript which originated in exactly the same way as H. G. Wells's "War of the Worlds"—that is, in the imagination of the author.

There is some incontrovertible evidence that Mars may be inhabited by intelligent beings. The idea that man may have an "etheric body" is rather shaky and no scientists have decided that there's no such thing as ether. If Dr. Robinson has a projectable electro-magnetic organism, its journey to Mars must have been as exciting as the flight of a sparrow through a hail storm, for the electrical emanations from the sun are no joke for naked soul-stuff a-questing.

The whole incident is a refreshing demonstration of the fact that bizarre offers possibilities of enjoyment second only to those offered by work.

PASSING YEARS

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. William Ketcheson, Plainfield, when his daughter, Ida, became the bride of Mr. Fred Blakely, of Marmora.

AUTUMN

There is a sadness in the air,
As if young trees were weeping,
And older trees, with silvered hair,
A fearful watch were keeping;
A few brave birds still twitter low
As if they, too, were crying;
The humblest creatures seem to know
That summer time is dying.

There is a calm upon the land,
That vague and curious stillness
Which men and women understand
Who've watched a fatal illness.
The hills and vales are damp with mist
And cold the winds are blowing,
Too bad that at her loveliest
Tis summer should be going.

And yet how oft 'tis so with men
Who've struggled for a stipend
And dreamed of ease and splendor when
Their talents should be ripened.
No sooner are the chains of care
From wrists and ankles shaken
And Success a prospect wondrous fair—
Then from the world they're taken.

Rev. F. J. Anderson, of Plainfield, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Holden, widow of D. R. Holden, and for about 33 years a resident of this city, died in Rhyl, North Wales, on the 17th inst. Mrs. Holden was much respected here and the news of her death will occasion much regret.

Stomach Signals; Read Them Right

PROBABLY that belching after eating is nothing more than the sign of excessive gastric acid. It is well to know how easily this may always be remedied. Quick and complete relief can be obtained by taking a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt. So remember this for your comfort, and test that constant gas on the stomach does not drift into gastritis!

"Pape's Diapepsin" instantly neutralizes the excess stomach acid and sodium salts and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining, thereby restoring normal, painless digestion and thus helping to prevent future trouble.

For many years millions have used and recommended "Pape's Diapepsin" for the speedy and sure relief of indigestion and allied stomach troubles. Follow their example! Get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from any druggist; no matter how severe your stomach troubles you will get relief.

That Body of Hours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HEAT FOR THE INTERIOR OF THE BODY

I often speak of the importance of heat to the body, because heat is life.

In fact surgeons, operating upon organs in the abdomen are always anxious to get the abdomen closed again so as to maintain animal heat, because the lowering of the temperature of the body by one degree affects the proper working of the different organs and cells by 10 percent.

Thus if the temperature of the liver is lowered by one degree its chemical activity is reduced 10 per-cent."

Therefore you can readily see that if the patient is exhausted anyway from some ailment, which has lowered the working power of the liver by ten percent, then if the temperature of the liver is reduced by one degree when the abdomen is open, death will be sure to follow. Dr. G. W. Crile tells us that when the abdomen is opened, even if the liver is not touched, the temperature of the liver falls from one and a half to three degrees.

To counteract this loss of heat Dr. Crile passes the diathermy (electric) current through the liver and the neighboring organs in the abdomen.

The blood in the organs gets heated, but as the fluid gets heated passing over a warm plate, and this extra heated blood, passing into the circulation, heats all thu blood in the body.

In cases where the patient is considered a poor risk for operation, but the operation must be performed anyway, he puts the electrodes in place and has the diathermy current established before the operation begins, and neither the surgeon nor the patient need be aware that such a current is passing. It has been found that the temperature of the liver is thus kept above normal throughout the entire operation.

Dr. Crile is of the opinion that this method may prove one more factor which sometimes follows operations that after exposure to cold or to extraction, heat in any form to the abdomen will help to raise the temperature of the blood in that region where so many of the large organs of the body are located. This added heat may save your life.

OLD-TIMERS TO DON RUGBY TOGS

Annual Game Will Be Staged At Fair Grounds On Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving Day, if all goes well, will see one of the best rugby tilts ever to be staged in Belleville. Last year's championship rugby team hopes to meet a squad composed of the "old-timers", young men who attended high school a few years ago, but haven't left school long enough to forget their football. Such stars as the "Gallopin' Ghosts", the star backfield of last year's champs, composed of "Nig" Ross, Jack Redfern, "Bud" Chalmers and "Cowling" Smith, last year in full uniform to uphold the challenge of the 1927 organization, that they couldn't be beaten by any team in the district. But there will be good material opposing them. "Jumbo" Hurley, Harry Redfern, "Dimp" Bain, "Polly" Polwell, "Doc" Robertson, Harry Ross, only to mention a few of the stars of a few years ago. The game, if played, will be staged in the old Fair Grounds.

NEW FACTORY OPENS AT SALMON POINT

Salmon Point, Oct. 30—It is rumored that a canning factory will be erected in this community. A field has been purchased from Mr. T.-O. Young, opposite the Public School and it is thought will be used for this purpose. No definite announcement has been made.

A canning factory would be a great boon to farmers in this district. It is some distance to the Cherry Valley factory and the Valley factory has been unable to take care of all the tomatoes the farmers could supply many new growers could be expected if a factory is erected here.

WEDDINGS

McDONALD—RIGHTMYER

Picton, Oct. 30—A wedding of wide spread interest and one of the prettiest in detail, took place on Friday evening, October 26th at 6 o'clock at the home of Arthur P. Rightmyer, Bloomfield, when their younger daughter, Marion Gilbert, became the bride of Hugh Raynor MacDonald, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mac Donald of Bloomfield.

At the appointed time the bridal party and the officiating clergyman, Rev. D. M. Stinson, took their places in the drawing room under a bower of evergreens, ferns and rose carnations to strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus played by Miss Ruth Gilbert.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a period gown of rose-peach taffeta and tulle, silver bandeau and silver slippers, and carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses and lily-of-the-valley, with showers of silver and white. There were no attendants.

During the signing of the register, Miss Helen Way sang "I Love You Truly" and Miss Gwendolyn Taylor sang "At Dawning".

HOT SALT WATER PADS BRIGHTEN DULL ORBS

Hot salt water pads are wonderful to restore tired eyes. They not only tend to relax the tight, tensed eyelids but they stimulate circulation and so erase the tired lines that form around the eyes.

Don't confuse tired lines around the eyes with the wrinkles that form from lack of sufficient nourishment in the skin. I'm speaking of the fine, small lines that frequently show up at the end of the day, and which a good night's rest will wipe away. There is a vast difference between the two.

To take the salt water treatment, add one teaspoonful of ordinary table salt to one-half glass of very warm water, stirring the mixture until all the salt has dissolved. Then saturate a large pad of cotton in the salt water, squeeze it out a little, and lay it over the closed eyes, letting the pad remain on until it begins to cool, when it should be replaced with a fresh, hot pad.

A dozen or so of these applications taken while lying down in a darkened room will rejuvenate the most tired eyes until they sparkle with health and happiness. It is a splendid treatment to take before going out in the evening if your eyes have worked especially hard during the day.

Follow the hot salt water applications with a massage in which a nourishing cream is used. Apply the cream generously around the eyes then massage it into the skin beginning at the bridge of the nose and gently drawing the finger tips outward over the upper lid and drawing them backward toward the bridge of the nose under the eyes. Do this quite a number of times—one hundred is not too many—then wipe off the cream with a good skin tonic. Don't use an astringent, as most astringents may be too strong to put so close to the eyes. A skin tonic is somewhat milder than an astringent, and is stimulating.

After removing the nourishing cream, continue with your usual make-up, but don't forget to smooth the tiniest bit of cold cream over the upper lids to give them the glossy effect so popular just now.

If you use eye shading put on the base of cold cream anyway, for the upper lid must be glossy this season whether it is shaded or not. There is another splendid reason for applying cold cream to the upper lids before Fashion. The skin over the eye lids tends to dry out as one grows older and the constant use of cream prevents this drying out, eliminating the pebbly or wrinkled appearance of the skin and its darkening—both signs of age.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I have been keeping steady company with John. He is very attractive and has what we girls call "it."

I have just entered a two-year school course, away from home, and I fear that the love he has for me will fade because of my absence.

What would you advise me to do in order to keep his love?

HAZEL-EYED CELESTE

HAZEL-EYED CELESTE: I'd advise you to do nothing! If his love cannot stand the test of absence, it's not worth having. And, too, your time away from home may change your ideas greatly. Just let things take their natural course and don't try to do anything to hold his affection. If he truly loves you, the time nor distance will mean nothing.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl in my teens and have been in love with a boy one year younger than myself for seven months. He had been coming down for a long time until I moved; then he came down once in a while, but not as often as he used to. I heard he liked another girl, and I know it was true, for I saw him with her often.

Since I moved I feel I have lost the best friend that I own. Please, tell me how I can win him back, for I know I cannot forget him.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

BROKEN-HEARTED: I think your vanity is piqued, my dear. Just put the whole thing out of your head for if the young man doesn't think enough of you to call on you in your new home, why, he isn't worth bothering about. You are probably lonesome in your new neighborhood, but that will soon fade as you meet the young people there.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I have a problem on which I need advice and which, I hope, you will give me, as it means much to me.

I am a girl in High School, I belong to what is generally known as the "faster" set.

I believe in the mottoes and ideas of the younger generation, but my mother is greatly opposed to them. My friends have all entertained my crowd at what you older folks call "petting" parties. Now when I wish to return their kindness, my mother sets her foot firmly down on that kind of a party. My friends call me a "quitter and a poor sport, and I can't make them understand how my mother feels about it. Please, tell me, Annie Laurie, what shall I do?

A FRANTIC FLAPPER.

FRANTIC FLAPPER: Really, I cannot blame our mother for not allowing you to have these parties, my dear. She is so much older and wiser than you, even though you do think she is old-fashioned and can see so plainly the results that must inevitably follow such practices, that is the reason for her refusal. Your friends are certainly not the kind of friends you should have, my dear, when they call you such names, and you'll be the wisest little girl in the world if you all listen to your mother and take her advice, rather than follow the dictates of your so-called friends. Some day you'll realize that your mother is only acting for your interest and because she loves you and wants to shield you from all harm. Make her your confidante and you'll be happier and wiser in the long run. And good luck to you.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl of mid-teens and allowed to have company. But my parents think I should come to my company leave at ten o'clock. Do you think that early or late, for a girl my age. Annie Laurie? I think it early and other young folks laugh at me when I say I must be in at ten. Annie Laurie, please advise me, as I feel ashamed.

CHERRY.

CHERRY: I don't see a thing in the world for you to be ashamed of, my dear. If your parents demand that you be home by ten o'clock, you should certainly do as they ask. You are very young and I think it mighty fine of your parents to allow you the privilege of going out in the evenings. So you should do as they ask. Others you are older they will let you stay later, but for the present, do as they say, regardless of what your friends may say.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I would appreciate it so much if you would answer these questions for me:

(1) How soon should a girl answer a friendly letter from a boy?

(2) If a boy friend should leave town for the Winter, should a girl in the town that he left in, or my company leave at ten o'clock. Do you think that early or late, for a girl my age, Annie Laurie? I think it early and other young folks laugh at me when I say I must be in at ten. Annie Laurie, please advise me, as I feel ashamed.

(3) When a boy leaves after a date should you say you enjoyed the date as well as he did?

I have always been doubtful of these questions which mean a lot to me.

SHORTY.

SHORTY: (1) A letter should be answered immediately—within twenty four hours.

(2) The young man should write first.

(3) He should tell you that he has enjoyed the evening and you may say that you did, too. Or, you may tell him it was very pleasant and you enjoyed his call and hope he will come again.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You'll never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drug store.

SLOGAN CONTEST IS FEATURED BY JEWELLERS' ASSN.

Four Valuable Prizes Offered For Trade Slogans

Many industries have found it advantageous to use slogans, and since familiar to all of us are, "save the surface and you save all," "Fifty Seven Varieties," "Say It With Flowers," and "Ohio Blue Last."

The Canadian Jewellers Association who have used the last one have never been wholly satisfied with it, as it only features one phase of the jeweller's service to the community. Both in Canada and the United States there has been a more or less definite attempt to secure an appropriate and inclusive slogan, but to date nothing has been found which will fill the need.

Feeling that it is difficult to phrase in a few words a better slogan for the industry they are now featuring a slogan contest, offering $1,800.00 in prizes for the best slogan submitted anytime up to November 30th. The first prize is a thousand dollar diamond ring, the second prize a cabinet of silverware and the third a sterling silver tea set, and the fourth a lady's or gentleman's watch, pocket or wrist style, solid gold case.

All Canadian Jewellers Association and Canadian Jewellers Publicity Association members are displaying window cards showing these articles, and any who deem they are capable of phrasing a winning slogan should add any of these jewellers for a card upon which to enter their slogan.

It is expected that there will be keen competition for these prizes, and the results will be announced through the newspapers as soon after the contest is closed as possible, and the prizes will be distributed previous to the Christmas season.

The Canadian Jewellers Association should be congratulated upon this method of providing Christmas gifts for a least four persons who are original enough to think out the best slogans.

ACT OF COURTESY EARNED A REWARD

London (CP)—A happy result of a servant girl's act of courtesy at Leeds has just come to light. Two or three years ago a Potefract girl named Elsie Pullows, was passing through one of the main streets of Leeds when she observed an old lady standing on the curb evidently embarrassed, at the prospect of crossing the road through the heavy traffic.

Offering her acsistance, Miss Pellow so relieved the old lady of her burden and escorted her across the street. Although the lady, with pencil and leaf from a note-book borrowed from a policeman, made a note of the girl's name and address, the incident was forgotten until recently, when, through a local firm of solicitors, Miss Pellows learned that the lady had died leaving her two thousand dollars.

Gay Adventurers By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 9

The Die Is Cast.

When they were one night out of Southampton, Constance, who had been almost feverishly excited all day, suddenly experienced doubt as to the wisdom of her course.

Suppose Jim going on a fool's errand!" she wailed to Sheila. "Suppose Harry didn't care any more! Or became so discouraged when he didn't hear from me that he went and engaged himself to Julia Breton! She'd take him like a shot."

What was really frightening her more than anything else was the thought that the Count de Bellefonte if he hadn't taken a fast boat, might have had the idea of leaving the ship at Southampton also. A fast boat had passed the Macedonia two days before, and Constance had a feeling that the Count was on it. It couldn't have taken him very long to guess that something was wrong, when she didn't get, in an appearance at the hotel, as she had promised. He'd suspect she had left for Europe—and he would find some means of verifying his suspicions, she felt sure.

So, although arrival at Southampton brought her nearer to Harry Edmonds, Constance couldn't quiet her fears. She gave Sheila a bad drill and was satisfied with the result.

"You'll be alright," she conceded. "And, if you are careful about answering questions, you'll get by—and so will I."

She had previously given Sheila the names of purple she knew intimately, and a few facts about each person. "Not that you'll need the dope. There is only one chance in a hundred that you'll run across any of them in the couple of days before I arrive. And even one chance in a hundred may fail, so you'd better be prepared."

"But I won't know any of those people by sight, and how will I be able to attach the right name to the person who may claim to know me?" Sheila had protested.

"Pretend not to see anybody, unless they actually grab you, and then fish around until you get the name," was Constance's careless response. She was re-reading Harry Edmond's love-letters, and her air was thoroughly absorbed. "Anyway, you'd better not go out. You can have your meals served in your room at the hotel."

Sheila reflected that this adventure, square as it seemed on the surface, was depriving her of a good day of liberty and enjoyment.

On the last night, Constance, for the first time in her life, endeavored to pack. After three false starts, she gave up in despair, Sheila came to the rescue and offered to play maid for the spoiled darling of fortune, and Constance escaped to the deck to take her last solitary walk.

But it was destined not to be as solitary as usual. She thought the deck was deserted, so she threw back the scarf that was wound about her hair and let the fresh breeze blow on her face. At her second turn, she jumped and barely suppressed a scream, for a masculine hand touched her arm. She looked up, ready to annihilate with a glance the bold creature who dared to take such a liberty.

"What are you doing this for, Constance?" asked Tommy Fitzgerald.

She recovered her breath with difficulty. "You are making a mistake," she said. "I do not know you."

"But I know you," he insisted. "That first day I wasn't sure when I met you on the upper deck, but tonight I see you clearly in the moonlight, and I guess I know Constance Kerr, even after all these years."

Constance made an impatient gesture.

"This is really very annoying. My name is Sheila Allen. I am not this —this other person you speak of."

"But Constance—"

"I don't know you." Her voice was cutting. "For dare I any desire to know you. Why do you persist in annoying me?"

"I beg your pardon." He made her a deep bow. "I didn't think I could be mistaken, but—"

He went away. She hoped he was convinced, but she wasn't sure. Above all, she must avoid encountering him when she left the ship at Southampton in the morning. He went on to Havre, well and good. If he didn't—well, she reflected, she had enough trouble, without borrowing more.

She told Sheila later what had happened. "If he goes on to Havre, you are almost certain to meet him on the pier. You must pretend that it was all a joke—that you simply wanted to have some fun with him. And, if he wants to know what Constance Kerr was doing in a tourist cabin, as of course, he will, say that you did it on a bet, and that one of the conditions was that you wouldn't give away your identity to a soul.

After that, Constance went to bed, but not to sleep, and early in the morning she was up, bathed her hair and breakfast. Sheila, opened sleepy eyes later to grasp with admiration at Constange's proficiency in the role of herself, Sheila Allen. The blue tailored suit clothed the body that was accustomed to finest Paris raiment. The blue cloche hat framed a face innocent of rouge, as Sheila's had been. It seemed to Sheila that it was herself who stood there, regarding her with a faint, ironical smile. She had the horrid sensation of being lost from her own body.

"Don't come on deck to see me off" Constance bade her briskly. "It's your turn now to be outdoors much until you see the dock at Havre."

She suddenly kissed Sheila with real affection.

"Wish me luck! I'll meet you in three days—a week, at the most—in Paris. . . . And I'll never forget what you're doing for me."

She was gone and Sheila lay in her berth, staring at the ceiling. Sheila Allen had vanished. There remained only Constance Kerr and a ticklish game to be played out.

CHILDREN'S LEGS NEED ATTENTION

Edmonton, Alta.—Could some society interested in the welfare of the human race be persuaded to start an educational campaign with a view to having the legs of small children properly clothed in cold weather, says Edna Kells in the "Journal."

"Coming along Macdonald Drive one morning recently, I met a party of four, father, mother and two small children. My first thought was that they had driven in from the country for all seemed to be well wrapped up. My second thought was bewildering. It came when I got a closer view of the children. They were woollen caps, very short coats and dresses equally short, woollen mufflers wrapped around their necks and ears, shoes and very short socks. Four small thin legs were bare from the ankle to at least six inches above the knee—bare and blue with the cold. The owners of said legs were cowering down into the folds of their mufflers as if that would help their legs, and their marched valiantly along apparently unconscious that things might be better.

"Since then I have seen several other children similarly dressed—pr undressed—while father and mother were warmly clad to withstand the chill of autumn. Short socks are no doubt all right for children in summer, but when late September or October come, and the cold winds sweep down from the north, or worse still in from the east, those who fail to cover up small legs with stockings are either very thoughtless or downright cruel."

MOIRS LIMITED HALIFAX

NO T. B. TESTING FOR PENINSULA

There will be no T. B. testing in the Niagara peninsula, not for the present anyway.

This was announced by Agricultural Representative R. Fleming, of Welland, who gave the news out on behalf of the government of Canada and the Ontario department of agriculture.

It was not the intention of the department nor the Dominion government to force anything upon the people, Mr. Fleming said, and since there seemed to be a great deal of misunderstanding and doubt regarding the benfits of a restricted area and considerable opposition against the policy, there would be no testing until such time as public sentiment demanded it.

While considerable money was spent on field work, the department felt that the people of the peninsula should have an opportunity of expressing themselves on the policy, Mr. Fleming said.

In Wentworth there was a distinct split between the dairy-and beef cattle men. Dairy men wanted the test, but the opposition organized and circulated petitions in opposition.

The plan was to make the Niagara peninsula a restricted area. The scheme was explained at numerous meetings throughout the district by representatives of the livestock branch of the department and county agricultural representatives.

Why a chorus girl prefers the huge solitaire of a butter-and-egg man for the ship channel to a poor boy and his true love's heart—is Harry Rapmaze told to the tune of a dozen laughs and chuckles at the Regent Tuesday.

A handsome young lieutenant—a middle-aged suitor. One offered his heart, the other his wealth and tender devotion. A woman's heart torn by two great forces makes gripping drama in this fascinating tale of old Vienna.

Romance! War! Realism! Humor! Tragedy! These with genius of direction and the screen's greatest all-star cast, combine to make the picture you will never forget.

The Little Colonel of "The Birth of a Man".

The famous star of "The Miracle Man."

The man who directed "Variety".

And a cast of fifteen character actors and over two thousand extras. At the Belle To-Day.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Patrons of the Capitol are offered a first class comedy bill that will be headed by the fun-loving Mack Sennett Super Special. "The Good-Bye Kiss." Ben Lyon, Phyllis Haver and Kit Guard-ner, Sally Rhers, Johnny Burke and Matty Kemp, Mack Sennett has assembled first class characters who give the audience many a laugh in this half humorous, half serious drama of war and romance. The scenes are laid mostly aboard a transport ship, and in France with the usual female characters as infantrymen in the American army. The situations while somewhat farfetched, are such the girl friend of the one along as a stowaway—and on discovery put in the Salvation Army department—the boys find themselves in the war zone of the things happen. Fun with everything turning out as it should in the end. For a good laugh, we can recommend "The Good-Bye Kiss."

On the stage, Dickinson and Thomas offer a first class skate wire and novelty act. The Collegians and a good comedy complete the bill.

RECREATION BOWLING

Miss M. Carmichael was the first girl to win the first yearly prize at the Recreation Alleys on Saturday night after a spirited competition all day. Miss Carmichael had to roll 218 on her third game to beat out Miss Badgley who was high with 509 until that time. Miss Carmichael rolled 510 to win out by 1 pin over Miss Badgley.

Mrs. Schnay was the first lady to bang up a decent score when she rolled 467 in the afternoon and although Miss Badgley put up a fight for the prize money she could not quite equal Mrs. Schnay's score. Miss Badgley did get fourteen more by Miss Carmichael with 510. Miss Carmichael, who was never in the money before, today was the girl with the highest average pins with the prize.

On Saturday night the Roundhouse played off their three games against the Laborers in a C.N.R. Shop League game with the latter team winning three points and the former one. The Roundhouse being at their best in the second game when they won with 1000 pins. Howe's 211 and Beatty's 240 were the best scores for their teams.

Reception last night was good, although fading badly.

The two principal New York stations, WJZ and WEAF, both with good programmes came in as well as the most crashed fan could desire.

The Radio Fan don't sound half so good on the record as they did over the air.

Or was it just the thrilling thought that they were singing to thousands that made the broadcast sound better?

Hum, Mich.—Hero worshipers, some 500 strong, all up in arms, shouts and yokes of boyden defeated their own purpose today by "mobbing" Babe Ruth and causing the ball game that the kids and some 4,000 paying customers were enduring on a cold October afternoon.

The king of all batters was exciting in front of boys that converged upon him from all sections of the field after the Babe's playing team, Lee-Lansing, hit one over the scoreboard for a home run. The mob was finally pushed from the field by a couple of police and every last player in a "hot-line."

'Ten minutes later, when the supply of scouts gave out, the kids again swarmed over the playing field and resisted all efforts to clear Allyn field park. In the course of the ensuing game that ended 5 to 4 in favor of getting's team, the plodding Lansing club threw down baseballs and the supply was exhausted. When the "ammo" was borne-bides the game came to a ——— halt.

Was Given Car

Every loss ball, including wild pitches, fouls and in some cases legitimate hits, was the prey of the boys who circled the field. In one instance the Kids, outfought a ball player for the ball that he was trying to catch.

Ruth gained an immediate coppers at Flint, Mich., prior to the exhibition game, in which he led one team and opposed his team-mate, Gehrig. He was managed to collect a double and Lou got his homer and a double. Before the game Ruth was presented with a Packard roadster. Harry German, 54 years old, pitcher, said his son Lloyd presented the battery for the winning team.

BRITTON OUT OF M'GILL BATTLE

Queen's Team Survived Varsity Game In Excellent Shape

Kingston, Oct. 30—With practically every man in good shape following the gruelling game with Varsity on Saturday, Queen's coaches, favorites to win the intercollegiate title this year, rested up yesterday and the stadium was deserted by players. Tomorrow afternoon the team gets down to work again in preparation for the game on Saturday with McGill, when the Tricolor will seek to annex their second successive collegiate title.

Today the team are confident of coming through on Saturday, though they frankly admit that they expect far stronger opposition from the Montrealers than they were served up by Varsity on Saturday. They point to the 4-3 score in Montreal, and feel that the game on Saturday will be a battle all the way.

Just what total the tricolor will show is unknown as yet, though it is generally felt that Captain Babe Britton will again be on the sidelines with his injured knee in the team's capable hands while it does not happen to be limping or even in running a bit, it is the main that playing has a game might cripple him permanently. And in the meantime Une Durham has been playing a sensational game at flying wing, so the team is not weakened by the absence of the game Queen's captain.

Pro. Hockey Gossip

Ottawa senators will likely get the youthful Elliott, the former Stratford flight winger who is pushing out with the Montreal Maroons at the Forum. It is understood that Manager Dave Gill is signing for the services of the lad as a relief for Frankie Finnegan, the regular right-winger of the outfit. Gill declares that until the deal is as good as completed.

Questions next forward as the week-end from the headquarters of the National Hockey League—warning holdouts that they must come to terms by today may or may not have a material effective, but a number of the holdouts have come to terms. Communications from New York Rangers yesterday afternoon indicated that Col. Hammond and Manager Lester Patrick have reached agreements with those players still on the outside. Frankie Boucher, Keeling and Thomp son.

It looked as if the hockey season was in full sway yesterday. All day long at the Forum there were two long queues formed, season ticket holders of the past year seeking a last day rush to renew their subscriptions for this winter's games. It looks like another banner campaign for local N.H.L. clubs.

Incidentally, winning the world championship last spring apparently is not going to handicap the Rangers this winter. Col. Hammond reports an unprecedented demand for season seats. Rangers open at the Garden against Montreal Maroons on Tuesday, November 20. It is a certain sell-out.

Toddy Canadiens will shake out on the ice at the Forum for the first time this season. After two weeks of preliminary loosening up exercises at the National Manager Cecil Hart is ready to start the players out with skates and sticks. The Maroons have been on the ice for a week. Starting today the boats of the two Montreal clubs will be augmented. Maroons working out from 10-30 until 11.30 and Canadiens from 1.30 until 12.30. These hours bring the players out half-an-hour earlier than in former years.

Maroons drills are peppering up, and the time of the practice games are likely being increased by Manager Gerard. In the last couple of practices the fast and scoring ability of Nels Stewart, left wing star, and Hart Robinson, local rookie, added to a relief centre, this year, have caught the eye. On present form Stewart looks headed for a good season.

PUBLISHER'S HOME IS TORN AWAY BY BOMBS

Mansfield, Ohio, Oct. 29.—The home of R. C. Hoyles, Mansfield publisher, was wrecked early today. The front porch was torn away, the front and side windows out and the interior of the house badly damaged but no one was injured. No motive for the attack was advanced.

Harm often results from the belief that the KNOWN eye defects of their children will be outgrown?

That belief is the cause of much neglect of the eyes.

What defects of vision do children suffer from?

All defects. The commonest is far sight.

And that is caused by what?

By an improperly formed (a too small) eye.

This cannot be corrected?

The eye cannot be changed but its manner of seeing can.

MONTREAL TEAM IN BAD SHAPE

Dr. Clifford Howard Will Play Against Hamilton Tigers

Montreal, Oct. 30—Gordie Perry, Red Moore and Don Stockton are on the injured list of the Montreal Big Four rugby squad. They were retired last night with the other members of the team and probably will miss the eighth drill. Moore has a wrenched shoulder, Perry a severely bruised leg and Stockton is on the sitting list. Both Perry and Moore, the catching halves of the Wheelers, will be out by tomorrow, but there is some doubt as to whether Stockton will be able to take his post at inside wing.

The appearance of the Hamilton Tigers at the M.A.A.A. grounds on Saturday promises to provide the high light of the senior rugby football season locally. It is generally conceded that Tigers cannot be beaten out of the title. There is a mathematical possibility of a tie, but it depends partly on Ottawa winning at Hamilton two weeks from now. That chance is a wee fully slim one—but one never knows what will happen should the gridiron be a sloppy bog.

Coach Hodden and the Hamilton players appreciate fully Montreal's claim to equality with the Big Four champions, they know all the reasons that have been advanced, despite having the title clinched. Benefits are coming down here to vindicate their position. Nothing much will be at stake in the game, except the keen desire of each team to establish beyond doubt its superiority over the other, aside from all relative positions in the league standings.

M'GILL ENTERS SENIOR SERIES

Will Have Two Teams In Cage League This Winter

The closing of the track season at McGill always marks the coalhouse arrival of another sport to which Coach Van Wagner is vitally interested. Basketball practices for the red and white commence Monday at the Montreal High School gym to continue three times a week throughout the winter season. There are few holidays for the coach who presides over track and basketball at McGill and again this year but one short week marks the close of activities at the stadium and the start of the court season at the high school gym.

McGill is likely to enter a team in the senior city league this year, it was made known yesterday, although as yet no definite decision has been made on the proposed move. The college will thus be represented by two senior squads for it was pointed out that the inter-collegiate rules and the representation in the city league will be two different aggregations.

McGill intermediates captured the city championship last year, losing not more than three of the players who composed the title-winning team. This year intermediate basketball again it is felt by McGill authorities that a strong enough representation in city senior company can be organized. The influx of good basketball material this year gives promise of McGill being able to place two strong senior squads on the floor besides bolstering considerably the inter collegiate squad of last year.

Captain John Young, Harry Blumenstein, of the seniors and Mills, of the intermediates, are the McGill basketballers who have not returned to college this year. A new captain will thus need be elected from the ranks of last year's squad who are back and who include the following: Fred Wedon, George "Faulkner, Al Grossman, Hayden and Munroe. Of last year's intermediates there are Calhoun, Feigenbaum, Harry Church and Wykes.

To-morrow night two more games in the City Industrial Basketball League will be played when the Algonite tackle the American Oil-cloth and the C. N. R. takes on the Stephens-Adamson outfit. While there are several more games to be played in the first half of the schedule, the supremacy of the league is at stake between the C. N. R. and the S. A. team.

Vern Weir's crew, the C. N. R. and Al Walker's "Fish" and Boil" men were the victors of last Wednesday's tilt, and it is now up to one or the other to lead the league. The cellar position after tomorrow night will be well looked after by Johnny Kerr or Albert Armstrong and their respective teams.

Quite a crowd of fans were on hand last week and there should be more tomorrow night, for the class of basketball played is high, and several new players have been making their presence felt. The

"Alley Gossip"

By SPARE-MIR

With the cool afternoons and the cooler evenings, thoughts naturally turn to indoor entertainment and the Recreation Parlors on Bridge Street, are proving a popular rendezvous these days. The alleys are almost at a premium on some evenings with the leagues in full swing.

The competition is keen both in the men's and ladies' sections and the prizes offered by the proprietors are an added stimulus to the attendance.

Mary Carmichael won the ladies' prize on Saturday for the highest three-string score rolling up a count of 313 which is unusually good, in consideration of the fact that the leaders have been at it for two weeks.

Frank Domenico is offering a prize every Saturday for the lady having the highest three-string score. Miss Carmichael, however, was chased to the wire by Miss Badgely also of the fairer sex, being but one point behind. The winner was forced to turn over 213 in the final game to carry home the bacon.

The Laborers are leading the C. N. R. Shop League with the Machine Shop and Boiler Room on the second rung.

Albert College are practising steadily for their important game with Picton El Napaleo next Saturday, when they play off for the Bay of Quinte League Championship. The winner will then go on in the Junior Interclubastic play downs. Albert are to be congratulated on their fine showing which they made in this section of the league, as they won three of their four games played.

High School Basketball should be given a great boost this year when the players start using the new gymnasium. The lights have now been installed and practices will commence almost at once. Most of last year's players are back and they should be hard for any school in this district to stop.

Tickets for the Queen's-McGill game at Kingston this Saturday are as hard to find as hen's teeth, and much more valuable. There seems to be no doubt that this is the rugby classic of the intercollegiate this year for the winner will be practically "in" for the championship this year.

What are we going to do for our hockey this winter?

No one seems to know and everyone seems to care less.

All of which shows that when hockey such as has been played in this district for the past few years and in the ice box which was the arena is coloured to go on year after year with no improvement, the public gets "fed up" and refuses to patronize it any longer.

But when a city the size of Belleville does not get behind a proposition to get a new rink, even though it was not one with artificial ice, then that city does not deserve to see good hockey.

Belleville's 1927 Agricultural out and won a Provincial Champ. Park seemed to put new life into the Nationals and they came right

pionship. Who knows but that if Belleville had a new arena where the crowds could come to watch the games in comfort that the Maroons might not repeat the feat of the ball team?

CANNED GOODS BEING SHIPPED

Thousands of Cases Taken By Freighters To Metropolitan Centres

Picton, Oct. 30.—Prince Edward is a great canning county. Ample evidence of this is revealed in a visit to the local wharf. Some of the biggest freighters of the Canadian Steamship lines are being brought here to take cars of the thousands of cases of canned goods stored in the warehouses and those that are being transported there from factories in town and county by truck or by wagon. Smaller freighters are also being used.

The "City of Toronto" arrived in Picton harbor Friday morning. Men were engaged in the task of loading her with some 12,000 cases. These will go east.

The "City of Toronto" was in Picton Harbor last year. She is of a very striking appearance; built of steel with a length of over 340 feet and a capacity of 3,000 tons; she is painted red and white, with red, white and black smoke stack. The pride sailors take in keeping their ships spic and span is testified to by the polished metal and cleanliness everywhere. A visit to the captain's quarters, the bunks, dining room and elsewhere, revealed homelike scenes. In the captain's quarters a little pup loomed around.

The "City of Toronto" was built by the Davie Steamship and Repairing Co., at Lauzon, Que., in April, 1926. Her regular route is from Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston and Montreal. Her captain is J. C. Ferguson who hails from Kingston.

Noted Boat In Today

Today the Lethbridge, another C.S.L. lake freighter, is expected in. She will take 550 barrels of tomato pulp for Canadian Canners, Ltd. It goes to Port Arthur and Fort William from there by rail west. This boat is a sister ship of the Kamloops which foundered in Lake Superior about this time a year ago. Her whole crew of 23 were lost and search was made for months before the wreckage was located.

The Susie Chipman

Just across the harbor at the Hyatt & Hart dock, the Susie Chipman was loading up with between 17,000 and 18,000 cases. This freighter is about 125 feet long and goes to Montreal and Quebec. Her present consignment was to Quebec. She left Friday night.

It Comely To Be Proud Of

Prince Edward is a county to be proud of. It is the garden county of Canada. The last estimate of the value of canned vegetables and fruits shipped from Prince Edward was well over 2,500,000.

Mr. S. J. Collier is the agent for the Canadian Steamship lines at Picton and has been thousands upon thousands of the finest canned products shipped from any place. Have Picton wharf and its ... of the persons, who, perhaps, realize just how great a part the canning industry plays in the development of Prince Edward County.

KINGSTON FLYING CLUB

Kingston, Ont.—The Kingston Flying Club has received its charter and is able to comply with all the requirements of the Federal Government with the exception of the acquisition and maintenance of a flying field. A special committee consisting of W. H. Herrington, Sheriff R. F. Vair and Major Stethem, investigated a number of available sites in the vicinity of Kingston and after narrowing the choice down to three favorable fields, it was arranged to have a representative of the Department of Civil Aviation visit Kingston to advise as to the suitability of the respective fields. Inspector Wakeman flew down to Kingston in a Moth aeroplane and was taken by Mr. Herrington on a tour of inspection of the various fields. A field available and suitable for the establishment of a land and sea harbor was recommended by Inspector Wakeman, whose recommendation was later endorsed by the Director of Civil Aviation.

The city council has been given all the available data and government reports on the selected field, and the mayor and council are understood to be favorably disposed to the purchase of a field as a municipal airport to be available for use by the flying club. The club has suspended its activities for the present as the government is unable to supply any more planes this year but the club expects to get under way and to receive its planes and commence training in the early spring of 1929.

NEW TYPE MACHINE

The daily press reports the production of a new type of machine in England in which the pilot is completely enclosed in his miniature machine. The airman will be face downwards looking toward the earth through a lower outlook window and straight forward or sideways through other windows in the machine.

This brings up a serious question. What will a knock-kneed man do about his bad stream-lining.

The aerodrome will permit of the use of machines and wheels and skis; and the field is one of the few in Canada which can be used for both land and water machines with every facility for storing, repairing and fueling machines.

W. E. Tummon Says Conservatives Must Be Prepared For Election

EDUCATING YOUTH

Local Members Paint Ontario's Future In Rosy Hues

A wonderful program of entertainment was given at the Liberal Conservative Meeting held last night at Canniffton, mostly from local talent. After the election of officers took place, the results of which are shown in another column, President Wesley Gray turned over the meeting to Geo. Stokes, Reeve of Hungerford who acted as Chairman for the evening. In his usual witty manner, Mr. Stokes delivered the evening, and kept things humming all the time.

James Hill, M.P.P., was the first speaker of the evening and gave a brief resume of the work done by the Conservatives in Ontario, and what they are trying to do all over the Dominion. He congratulated the showing of the Thurlow Township Liberal-Con servative Association, and declared that any constituency which could draw such a large crowd when there was no excitement in the air showed the effects of being well organized.

Speaking of the Provincial Department of Highways, Mr. Hill told of how the department has equipped special cars and buses, through the courtesy of the C.P.R. and the C.N.R., these cars are run all the time into isolated communities in Northern Ontario with trained teachers on board who meet the youngsters who have no schools to go to, then these teachers work to do for some back in a month or three weeks to give them another lesson.

Boys Are Educated

Mr. Hill declared that results are beginning to be felt already, as many who heretofore could neither read nor write are picking up the English language with great rapidity, and are becoming excellent scholars. This is only one phase of the work which the Provincial Government is doing for the less privileged children. Another phase is the school for boys at Bowmanville where youngsters who have made slips but who are not really incorrigibles can be sent for indefinite periods and where they are taught the same as in boarding schools. This school is not like a reformatory, as it is run on different principles, and does not harden the youngsters to their fellow man.

Each year the Department of Agriculture pays the expenses of five homecred open air baby homes to enable them to attend the Royal Winter Fair here. There boys must qualify for the trip, but if they do they are treated wonderfully well when they make the trip. Some are taken to the Thurlow last year. The lads have the opportunity to judge some of the finest cattle in the world at the Fair, and it stimulates their interest and activity in farming to a great extent. Truly this is a worthy effort.

"There is a wonderful future for Ontario," the speaker declared. "Both in the farming and mining ends. We are farming at the present time about one thirteenth of the available land in this province, and the surface has hardly been scratched as far as the minerals

MR. AND MRS. J. ANDERSON ENJOY FRUITS OF WELL-SPENT LIVES

Centenarian Has Never Stirred From Boyhood Surroundings

(By a Staff Reporter)

Seventy-three years of connubial bliss is the proud boast of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Anderson, Anderson's Island, County of Hastings who celebrated their wedding anniversary on Monday, October 29th. To Mr. Anderson goes the signal honor of being Hastings County's oldest resident and on the 21th of January, 1929, if he lives, will have attained his 102rd milestone. His helter half has seen ninety-two summers and will celebrate her next birthday on April 2nd. The story reads like a novel, and is one of the struggles and hardships of the early pioneers who, undaunted by the setbacks and innumerable troubles which beset the path of the farmer severely years ago, strove to build a home out of the unbroken forest. Both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have full possession of their faculties and on Monday were "At Home" to their family and many friends in a glorious reunion. Interviewed by the Intelligencer, Mr. Anderson gave a history of his career bordering on the rural life in the early days of the eighteenth century.

GIANT ZEPPELIN NEARS AIRPORT

Will Reach Home Port At 4 P.M. Eastern Standard Time

GREAT WELCOME

Big Liner Makes Rapid Time Aided By Tail-Winds

Speeding over the Bay of Biscay, today homeward-bound, the Graf Zeppelin was heading straight for Friedrich Shafen. The big liner made rapid progress during the night, aided by powerful tail winds, averaging 80 miles per hour at times. German experts estimated that she would probably reach Friedrich Shafen about four p.m. eastern standard time, tonight, completing the journey in about 63 hours as compared with 111 hours she took in reaching the United States.

Friedrich Shafen, Germany, Oct. 31 —Ludwig Duerr, constructor of the Graf Zeppelin was confident today that the huge airship would arrive at her hangar at 10 p.m., (4 p.m. eastern standard time).

The lighting facilities for berthing the air liner at night were inadequate he said, but he expected to press into service the strong headlights of automobiles to illuminate the landing of the dirigible possible.

Burghers arose early today preparatory to greeting the mighty air liner come on her completion of the first round trip commercial flight to America. Church services ending from all parts of Germany and so great was the interest and enthusiasm that preparations were being taken for the safety of the passengers of the dirigible who it was feared might be overwhelmed by the impetuosity of the welcome.

Before re-inforced with steel, will be used in the new building, and the new quarters should be ready welcome to the travelling public by next fall. Several "southern exposures" as well as some rooms which will face the river, will be a part of Hunter's plans. Work will be commenced almost immediately, Mr. Power hopes to have the foundation laid before the cold weather comes on.

CHIEF BROWN IS STRUCK BY CAR

Thrown From Bicycle On Front St. By Edward Green

Chief Brown, head of the Fire Department of this city, was last night knocked from his bicycle and thrown to the pavement when he was struck by a car driven by Edward Green, Dunbar St., near No. 1 Fire Hall on Front St. Although the bicycle was badly damaged, it is thought that Mr. Brown's injuries are not serious as no bones were broken and he is suffering for the most part from bruises only.

It appears that Green was coming north on Front St. and when directly in front of the Fire Hall, ran into the bicycle who had just rounded the bicycle and had crossed the road. Although the Chief is confined to his home to-day, the Intelligencer was informed that the shock had more to do with his injuries than anything else and it is expected that he will be around again in a few days. An amicable settlement was reached between the two parties.

4-YEAR-OLD BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

Roy Cook, aged four years and six months, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cook, the former a Shannonville garage man, suffered a double fracture of the skull and is lying in the Belleville General Hospital in a serious condition as a result of being struck by a car driven by Lorne Lazier today, at 11 o'clock. It appears that Mrs. Lazier had been making repairs to his car in the Cook garage and had backed out to return to his home in Tyendinaga Township when the young boy came in front of the car and was struck. Dr. Cronk ordered his immediate removal to the Belleville General Hospital where an X-ray was taken which disclosed the extent of the injuries. At press time it was still in a critical condition with an even chance of recovery. Lazier is not held responsible as the youngster ran directly in the path of the car.

NO TRACES OF MISSING YOUTH

Harry Hyatt, 15, Left His Trenton Home Last Saturday Night

Missing since Saturday night, the whereabouts of Harry Hyatt, fifteen year old Trenton boy remain shrouded in mystery despite the efforts of police and Trenton police to locate him. In the meanwhile his mother, Mrs. John Hyatt, of Trenton, has communicated with Detective Sergeant Wills in the hope of finding the boy. Speaking with an intelligence representative last night she could advance no reason for the young lad leaving his home. "He was not a roving disposition and spent most of his time around home," she said. Last Saturday night he was in congregation with a man named Aaron of Trenton. It is understood that young Hyatt expressed a desire to go to Toronto with him in a car. Mr. Aaik has never, changed his plans, went on the train and on his return from Toronto he informed the boy's mother that he had purchased a second-class ticket for the Queen City. The last seen of him was at the Canadian National depot in Toronto.

Mrs. Hyatt, while she is anxious to learn his whereabouts is not unduly alarmed and feels that he is taking for the sights of Toronto. She told a reporter that a youngster from Toronto who had been visiting with people named Pielle in Trenton in the summer months and had met him often seen in his company. It is felt that the glamour of the white lights may have been appealing to the youngster and he started out. She has not been able to learn the address of his erstwhile companion. Hyatt's father is employed in Oshawa but the boy did not stop there.

He left school a short time ago and has been engaged in picking apples for farmers near Trenton and bought a ticket for Toronto with his last draw on Saturday night. Mrs. Hyatt resides on the Picton Road on the outskirts of the town of Trenton.

KLINE CASE IS HEARD IN COURT

Witnesses Refute Evidence Submitted By Police Officers

Charles Kline appeared in Police Court today to answer a charge of being intoxicated in charge of a car some two weeks ago, and Detective Constable Gryfe, who made the arrest swore that the accused, after the car had struck a heavy indication of being drunk, and his evidence was corroborated by Chief Kidd and Sergeant Dodds. Cora Wickett swore that she had thought he was intoxicated at the time of the accident because of a manner in which he walked, but having seen him walk since, she declared that he conducted himself the same way now. E. Stevens' evidence amounted to the same thing, and when Kline had told his story, which seemed plausible enough, Magistrate Mirfield adjourned the case for judgment until one week from to-day. C. A. Payne appeared for the accused.

WESLEY GRAY IS AGAIN CHOSEN

Mrs. F. Hicks Elected President Thurlow's Women Conservatives

Election of officers for the ensuing year took place last night at an enthusiastic meeting of the Thurlow Women's Liberal-Conservative Association held at the Orange Hall in Canniffton. This organization is one of the liveliest of its kind in Ontario and they have shown by the manner in which they sweep the township that their organization has been made of short solid lines.

Immediately after the opening number "The Maple Leaf Forever," had been sung, Mr. Wesley Gray, president of the Association asked that the men adjourn to the basement of the Hall for their meeting, while the ladies conducted their elections in the main hall.

Wesley Gray was re-elected president of the Thurlow Liberal-Conservative Association for another year, due to the fine work which he has done during the past years Mr. Gray is undoubtedly well liked and highly respected by his confreres, as there was no other nominations and the office went to him by acclamation.

R. A. Clarke and Walter Wickett were elected first and second vice-presidents respectively by acclamation and then the treasurer's report was read, showing that a balance of over dollars and some cents remained on hand after all accounts were paid for the entertainment given and the election of secretary treasurer and four ballots.

Mrs. H. Fallis Says Ferguson Has Yet To Make a Mistake

SPARKLING WIT

Thurlow Conservatives In Annual Meeting Hear Prominent Speaker

Thurlow Liberal-Conservative Association held one of their most successful meetings last night in the Orange Hall at Canniffton, when well over two hundred voters assembled to hear several of the most prominent Conservatives in the district, including Mrs. Howard Fallis, of Peterboro, W. E. Tummon, M.P., and James Hill, M.P. Many other speakers gave short addresses, and coupled with an excellent program arranged by the Ladies Branch of the Thurlow Conservative Association, a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mrs. Fallis proved even to the most unbelieving listener that a woman who had taken up politics and who could appear on a platform and talk with confidence on politics could be useful in other ways. She certainly lived up to advance notices as regards her platform presence, and in her own quiet manner showed that the subject of today is ready to take her place on the same plane as man, or as she said, "just a little ahead of him".

Prefacing her remarks by telling the Conservative Association how fine liking O. Howard Ferguson outside of the fact that he stood for the Conservative party, she said, she declared that this reason was that he was a leader who was not afraid to lead. If any important step must be taken, the Premier of Ontario gathers all the facts and he can lay his hands on studies through it all, and then with the help of his cabinet decides what step should be taken. Then he takes that step and stakes his whole political life on the result, and he has not been far wrong yet.

Straddles the Fence

"On the contrary," declared Mrs. Fallis, "Premier King of the Dominion of Canada straddles the fence, tossing a biscuit to one and a sausage to the other, and in that manner, manages to keep his precarious seat. We give him credit, he is certainly an adept at keeping his balance, but that is not our idea of a leader.

"Many of the older Conservatives are wishing for the time of the James Whitney Conservatives, or some thing like that, but these men must remember that we have not the great statesman, enormous changes have come over Canada, until now we are proud of Canada has grown to such a large affair that the government of Canada is not the affair of days seems like childs play. Women now control almost fifty-five percent of the votes cast in Ontario, and they can make plenty of trouble for the governments, especially when we remember, how much trouble one woman can cause," declared the speaker, in referring to matter on which Mrs. Fallis lambled Mr. King and his government. She then told of the work around the country and telling everyone that the Liberals were "friends of the farmers", and how much their being in power would mean to the underprivileged children of Canada, and in what way they could help the Conservative or shown that they were the friends of the farmers?" asked Mrs.

Ten years ago the Dominion Government voted ten million dollars to be spent on backless school work for Canada, a million dollars a year to be given. To the understanding that,

ANNIVERSARY AT SAINT ANDREW'S

St. Andrew's Church will celebrate its 91st anniversary next Sunday, and special services are to be held in commemoration. The Rev. Stewart announced to the Intelligencer today that a noted divine from the Maritimes would conduct the services. This anniversary falls at a most significant time, in that the Reverend R. G. Stewart, beloved pastor for some time here, will leave shortly for Toronto. He will preach for the last time in the local church on Sunday, the 11th of November.

A large crowd was present and enjoyed this social evening.

SURPRISE PARTY

A most pleasant surprise birthday party was given for Miss Myrtle Andrews at her home 264 Coleman street last night by about a dozen of her friends. A lovely Kenwood blanket was a most acceptable gift. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Young People's League, of Grace Church, Trenton, held an interesting Hallowe'en party at their church on Monday evening. The guests were in costume and a prize was awarded for the best one. Many were gathering representative of the young people, age present and the evening was spent in playing games. A ball of horrors added to the entertainment.

CROWN PROSECUTOR

It has been announced that F. L. Ward, of Picton, well-known in Belleville, and popular young attorney, has been appointed Crown Prosecutor for the Pall Mall case by Leeds and Grenville, which open at Brockville next Tuesday. Mr. Ward will have but one jury case at Brockville, that a charge of criminal negligence.

DISPOSES OF HOME

Mrs. L. Cross of Belleville, formerly of Madoc, has disposed of her home in the latter village to Mr. Gordon Munroe. The home which is situated at the corner of Bridgewater and Durham Streets, is one of the most imposing in the village. Mr. Munroe is planning many improvements to the property.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Trinity United Church, Madoc, celebrated the annual anniversary services on Sunday and special services were preached. The organist for the day was Miss Ramsay of Belleville, while Mr. Cornilon of Madoc rendered violin solos. Rev. Mr. Wilson, of Napanee had charge of the morning services and the pastor, Rev. Mr. W. Hyrpe, B.A., spoke in the evening. Miss Ida Bonter, of Stirling, rendered two solos at the evening service.

LEAVING PICTON

Mr. Stanley Croft who has been associated with the staff of the Standard Bank at Picton for some years, has been notified of his removal to the bank at Sheddon, Ontario, where he will become manager. Mr. Croft will be missed in Picton, especially in the sporting fraternity as he was regarded as one of the leading amateur baseball players in the Intermediate ranks. Mr. Croft took an active interest in the work of St. Mary Magdalene Church. He was presented with a wardrobe trunk by the baseball fans as well as a club bag. The choir made a presentation of morocco-bound hymn book.

TRIO ESCAPED INJURY

A car owned by Harold Partridge and occupied by himself, Hughie James Welsh and Carl Wheeler was wrecked and caught fire near Moira Lake early yesterday morning. The trio had borrowed the car, were proceeding to Madoc and when rounding the curve in the road at the Lake the sedan plunged down a ten-foot embankment. They managed to escape from beneath the wreckage as it burst in flames and were unhurt. Their escape is considered nothing short of miraculous. The motor was a total wreck and will be taken to its joint anniversary on Sunday, and the scrap heap. It was insured.

PREPARING ARENA

The doors and other woodwork at the Manly Arena, Kingston, were being painted on Tuesday in preparation for the coming season. It is likely that the skating season will start about the end of November.

UTOPIA DANCE

Hallowe'en Night means something in the eyes of Belleville dancers, as usually there are many fine dances on this popular evening. The Utopia Dance Hall is again in their policy, are holding a dance and euchre in the Stone Auditorium tonight, which should prove even more popular than even. Reg. Brockhurst's "Ace Eight" Orchestra will supply the music, while novelties galore will make the evening bright. Costumes are optional, but prizes will be given for the most come "dressed for the occasion."

ENJOY FRUITS

stronger than water. Occasionally he chews tobacco but that is the one form in which he uses the "coca." A life in the outdoors has made a man of great physique and even in his wasting years the tread of every Peruvian bespeak of a character who has endured the hardest of manual labor. Devoted to nature he is able to speak with authority on many of the current topics of the day. The gentle kindly eyes suggest a strength of vision and the wrinkles at the corner of his eyes results from his unfailing good humor rather than from the effects of age.

His parents of United Empire Loyalist lineage, Mr. Anderson was born in the Township of Murray, County of Northumberland, a son of the late James Anderson while his wife whose maiden name was Mahala Parent was born at Carrying Place, Ontario. Out of the forest Mr. Anderson built himself a home, the one in which he lives which is situated in the "Cove" road on Anderson's Island three miles from the village of Stirling.

Slightly affected by deafness Mr. Anderson enjoys the radio although he much prefers classical music to the so called "jazz", his eyesight is unimpaired and he devours the newspapers which are received eight days old and he require the use of his spectacles and only in the rarest of cases does he wear them. He distinctly remembers the trivials which occurred ninety-five years ago and recalled the time when herds of deer frequented the flats on one of his father's homesteads.

His informed your correspondent that he delighted in the motor-rides in his son's car but within the past few months he has been troubled with lameness which prevents the daily "jaunt." "Early to bed and early to rise" has been Mr. Anderson's motto and he requires no less than ten hours rest each night. Unfortunately his spouse does not enjoy the same excellent health which has been her husband's and she is more or less confined to the little farm-house.

A Good Conservative

He has a good old English appetite and expressed a liking for meat and potatoes in any form. "Even last year I had my little patch of potatoes which I cultivated" proudly exclaimed this great centenarian. A Conservative Mr. Anderson has exercised his franchise at every opportunity and cast his first vote for Sir John and has filled positions of responsibility many times. He is an adherent of the United Church and has always taken a deep and unfailing interest in Church and Sunday School work being a member of the Carmel congregation.

Reading has been his special hobby and the few spare hours from his toil in the fields was spent with an open book, his mind is a vast library and he is acquainted with prominent Canadian authors. Hunting had no attraction to relate, were not in his line and he had never owned a gun of any kind. "I have lived a quiet life, taken good care of myself and fortunately have been fortunate in my little trouble," he said. "Never in my life have I been afflicted with any serious sickness which would affect my health."

He spoke of taking his grain to mar with a team of oxen over the old corduroy road through the forests to Belleville, a distance of twenty-five miles.

He has distinct recollections of serving on a jury in Belleville, waiting to the trip in the morning and returning via the same route in the evening. When Mr. Anderson settled on the island it was owned by the early farmers but constant application to work and toil by which he managed to acquire the several hundred acres of his portion of which is still woodland. It is seven miles in length by one and one half miles wide. His sons now cultivate the land as Mr. Anderson laid aside his tools for all time fifteen years ago. "Stirling was but a few scattered hous ec seventy years ago, Belleville was the "big city" and the Bridgewater Mills were the two chief market-places of the district. Ontario's centenarian is a man. Mr. Anderson had four brothers but all died some years ago and he is the sole remaining representative of his family. His brother James settled the farm with him.

A Great Canadian

The couple were married by the Rev. John Black who was then pastor of the Methodist Mission at Rawdon. His eyesight was the only one he never was tempted to seek his bread with. In the place of the bottle, Mr. Anderson's chief disposition Mr. Anderson is truly a great Canadian and it is to such as he that this great country owes its prosperity. Three girls and three boys of the family remain alive and these include Mrs. William Anderson, Rhine Valley, Mrs. William Reaume, Wallace burg; Mrs. Chester Roarke, Anderson's Island; and Messrs. Anderson, Hoads's and George and Fred with the parents. There are forty-second children and twenty great-grandchildren.

Such men and women as Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are the truest aristocracy that any nation can boast of, humble and true, they have learned that service is their greatness. In spite of their years both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are youthful in spirit and retain a great love for young people. It may be truthfully said that these pioneering adventurers have "grown old gracefully."

Social and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Henderson, of Madoc, were visitors in the city to-day.

Mr. W. E. Tunmon, M.P., of Tweed is visiting friends in Belleville to-day.

Miss Evadine Clarke entertained a number of her friends on Monday evening. Games and dancing provided a very enjoyable evening.

of this province are concerned."

Alderman George A. Reid of Belleville, who had next place on the program, but owing to the lateness of the hour, said very briefly that the meeting had appreciated greatly the honour bestowed on him by being invited to attend. Conservatives in Belleville had brought best wishes from Belleville, and complimented the Association on the splendid organization and on the greatest factor in the success which usually follows the Thurlow Township valiant.

Must Keep Organization

"If the Conservatives are organized in 1929, there will be no Dominion election, in my opinion, but if they are disorganized, the Liberals are likely to be brought on," declared W. R. Tunmon, M.P., when he rose to make his Right Honourable Government know "when and how to bring on an election, and it they see that the Conservatives are organized they will likely go ahead and expect to carry the country." The Liberal Opposition party keeps its organizations up, they will have little to fear for some time, Mr. Tunmon spoke of the amendments to the Naturalization Laws and some changes which would be detrimental to the Scottish Presbyterian Church were trying to work out, and then sat down, saying that as it was getting quite late he would take no more of their time.

Robert Mitchell, Reeve of Thurlow, made a few words on township subjects, while M. J. Embury also told of how he appreciated the organization in Thurlow township. Following the short speeches, a collection was taken, during which Mr. Tunmon favored with some of his well sung Irish songs, which went over in fine style.

the King Government would renew its grand again, even though they did not raise it, the Ontario government under the Premier, Mr. Ferguson, who is as well Minister of Education, went ahead with plans to help the youngsters of this province who deserved a chance for a college education and the opportunity to enter the professions.

This year, the King Government, followed to go on suspended sentence on promising to pay back the one hund red dollars which they obtained. Little by it seems that they have failed to live up to their agreement, so were hailed into court again. They had their case enlarged until the 24th of December, when they declared that they would have made full restitution.

Edgar Carlson was arrested by the O.N.R. police and charged with being a vagrant. He is from the United States, but had no visible means of support, but the court decided that if he could get out of town in a hurry and stay away from the railroads, they would give him his freedom.

Peru is the third largest country in South America with an area in excess of that of the Province of Ontario and having a population equal to that of the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec combined.

The Republic has shown substantial progress in industrial production and in the volume of its foreign trade. Mining and agriculture are the chief industries. For many years the country has exported large quantities of low-cost copper. The principal United States mining companies operating in Peru are the American Smelting and Refining Company, and the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation. The petroleum resources, consisting of great potential value, are being rapidly developed by capital from the United States and other foreign countries. The International Oil Company of New Jersey, through its subsidiaries, is active in this field. A wide range of climatic conditions result in diversified agricultural production.

It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 of foreign capital is invested in Peru, of which about $250,000,000 is capital from the United States.

PLAIN, REGULAR FOLKS MORE TO HIS LIKING

By WINIFRED BLACK

He wouldn't go to the opera—he just simply wouldn't.

He'd go fishing and he'd go hunting and he'd go playing golf.

Yes, he even played bridge—at a pinch.

He liked to give breakfasts in the woods somewhere with a campfire and the bacon sizzling in the pan. He liked to give dinners, too—nice, simple informal dinners and to these dinners he invited his friends, the people he really liked.

Not just somebody he wanted to impress, not just somebody who'd given him a dinner, not somebody who might be "useful" to him in business later on.

Just men and women he happened to like, and he didn't care who the men and women were either—if he liked them.

And once when he was giving a dinner his old nurse came to town. She was a Scotch woman, more than elderly, well educated and of good substantial family—but she'd been his nurse and there was no getting around it.

What cared he—so he asked his nurse to dinner and she came in a plain lilac-gray dress with her white hair beautifully done, and she had a broad Scotch accent and everybody thought she was delightful, she was so sweet and simple and unaffected.

But his wife went to bed sick with chagrin and humiliation.

Then came the opera and she bought a box for the season and what do you think? Husband wouldn't go. He just wouldn't and that was that.

He said he hated to see fat men slapping their chests and guffawing their voices and as for the women, if they'd only step down to the footlights and sing "My Old Kentucky Home," or "Sweet Adeline" or something he'd like it—but as it was, not for him.

If he was going to sleep after dinner, he'd rather sit in his chair by the fire in his good cozy library and sleep when he got done with it.

He wouldn't go to the tea his wife gave for the prima donna, and everybody knew what was talking about it and his wife had sued him for divorce. She says everybody is sorry for her because she's married to a boor and a lummox and a know-nothing.

Now the man's friends think he's rather a bright man and his enemies say he's more than bright, but to his wife he's just a boor, a lummox and a lummox and she's going to divorce him and she hopes he'll give her plenty of alimony so she can go to the opera whenever she feels inclined.

I suppose he will do that—he's just that kind of a man.

I wonder if he isn't just a little bit relieved at the thought of his escape.

Editor of Woman's Page:

I have been reading your column and I am glad to see this in the paper as there are such nice women's pages in other papers, and one in our home town paper is mostly more interesting. I do not know whether it is your intention to answer problems or not but perhaps you can help me out, as I am not sure what is correct. I have received a written invitation to a Hallowe'en party, and it says informal, etc. It, but is written in the third person. Like the people who are giving the party are relatives. Does this require a formal acceptance, and as it says nothing about masquerade should I go in costume or not?

Regarding your invitation, a formally worded invitation requires a formal answer regardless of the appearance of the "informal" on it. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blank request the pleasure, etc., should be answered—"Miss Mary Jones accepts with pleasure Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blank's kind invitation for—then the day and the date should be mentioned. If it does not specifically state to come in costume the latter is unnecessary.

Interesting Items For The Feminine Reader

Belleville's abundant trees have made it a spot of rerpvenal beauty. Its stately maples arch over its shaded streets during the hot spring and summer months making an ordinary highway into an avenue of romance. As the seasons progress the beautiful green of the trees merges into a blaze of crimson and gold and for other beauty of color and shading it is hard to surpass our own Canadian maples. But, like the fig tree, in the parable, now that these trees have shed their leaves we know that winter is at hand. They stand out, their bare branches stretching out pitifully toward the sky. Looking forward to the chilling frosts of winter, they still have hope within them. Cold and frost they must suffer but the life giving caress of spring will again revive them to their former life and beauty. Everywhere in nature there is a comforting hope.

Children crave and need a certain amount of sweets, but the child who nibbles candy all the time is doomed to poor health. The only legitimate time to eat sweets is after good meals when plenty of other needed foods have been eaten. Too many sweets irritate the stomach, disturb the normal digestion and satisfy the appetite before body needs are really met. The child who has eaten a piece of candy before a meal has no appetite for milk, vegetables and much-needed simpler foods.

The thoughtful mother will see that her children learn to save their candy "for dessert," and cultivate their health and their will power by refusing to eat candy many times.

For birthdays, holidays, parties and other festive occasions, provide candy substitutes. Many a merry-making is spoiled by having a candy-sick child in the home. Gelatin of different colors, hard cookies, pastes of chopped fruits, oranges, apples, figs, dates, raisin and dried apricots are all wholesome candy substitutes and satisfy the child's hunger for sweets.

Try this recipe the next time the cooky jar needs replenishing:

Wax Cookies: Cream 2 table spoons butter with 1-2 cup brown sugar, and add a well-beaten egg. Sift twice 1 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Add to first mixture with 2 tablespoons milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, stir in 3-4 cup chopped nuts (any kind.) Drop far apart by teaspoons on a buttered tin. Bake 15 minutes in moderate oven. These are delicious.

Pot Holders.

A small of something burning, a rush to its rescue, and no kettle holder to be found. Can you think of anything more aggravating? Buying is wholly unnecessary. One might just as well have plenty of holders clean and always at hand. They may be made of scraps of gingham, denim, crocusing or any firm goods. Fold them into squares of a convenient size, turn the edges in and stitch around them, then stitch across diagonally from one corner to another, perhaps circling around the centre, to hold them in shape. Drop them into the wash frequently for they will dip into the food and get messy. Keep them on or near the range where they can be seized in the moment of need.

CHAPTER 19

THE INEVITABLE ENCOUNTER

Sheila lay in her berth until the Macedonia backed away from the dock at Southampton and turned her prow again toward the open sea. No one came to disturb her, and she took that to mean that Constance Kerr had safely passed the officials as Sheila Allen.

The die was cast. There was no Constance Kerr until that impudent and arrogant young woman chose to assume her own identity. She remained in her cabin, according to instructions. Afterward, she looked over the luggage that she had packed and made Constance verify—Constance's luggage would be hers for several days.

"You know, I might take all your beautiful clothes and just vanish," she had warned Constance laughingly, but Constance had said: "Pooh! I can easily square them things....." But, anyway, I'm a pretty good judge of character. I haven't a qualm about you. And don't forget that I left all my jewels in safe deposit at the bank."

Sheila had begun to understand the character of the Kerr heiress. She possessed almost a dual personality—reckless and wary, careless and shrewd, shy and bold.

The Macedonia docked at Havre late at night. No one was allowed to land until morning. Sheila had an early breakfast in her cabin and arrayed herself in Constance Kerr's garments. She chose the blue silk frock in which Constance had come aboard, with the brown felt cloche and the brown sandals. When she had adjusted the carnelian necklace and laid the sable scarf about her slim shoulders, she no longer recognized Sheila Allen. She knew that she was beautiful, and that fact gave her the needed assurance.

When the steward came for her luggage, he told her that all tourist passengers were ordered to the first-class gallery for the inspection of passports. She mounted the ornate stairway, with its gilded Cupids holding silver baskets of ornamental crystal grapes, and passed into an impressive salon, already crowded. She would be rather a pity to wind up in a foreign prison, when one had started out on a great adventure. The only scrap of comfort she had was the fact that Constance must have passed customs successfully. But Constance had assurance and an air that wasn't quite Sheila's—yet—in spite of her melodramatic practice.

When a hand was laid on her arm, Sheila jumped.

"Well, Constance, ready to own up and tell a few things what it was all about?" asked a pleasant masculine voice.

She found herself staring up into the face of the young man who had spoken to her on the first-class deck —the one Constance had called Tommy Fitzgerald. A denial of their identity was on the tip of her tongue, but she remembered Constance's last instructions.

She laughed and offered her hand. "Hullo, Tommy!" She was surprised at her own casualness. "So you did discover me, after all?"

"How could I help it—when I've known you practically all your life? If you were trying to masquerade for some reason, why the deuce didn't you make a better job of it?"

"But I fooled you once."

"Twice," he reminded her. She had forgotten about Constance's encounter with him on the deck, the last night before Southampton. "The first time I was convinced I had made a mistake—reluctantly, but, nevertheless, convinced. The second time I wasn't so sure....But say, what is it all about? What were you doing in the tourist class?"

"The result of a bet, Tommy. I lost, and that was the forfeit I had to pay. One of the conditions was that I was not to tell any one who I was. It—it—it amused me to see if I'd be recognized. Apparently, I wasn't."

"Well, you will be," he assured her. "Going up to Paris on the train, or have you a car awaiting you?"

"The train," she answered uncasily, wondering if that was what Constance would have done. She had talked to say.

SINCLAIR'S

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl seventeen years of age. I am considered a good-looking girl and have a good reputation.

My question is this: Why can't I be like other girls and go steady with a boy?

Perhaps I will keep company with a boy for about two or three months and then I will lose all interest in him.

Please advise me.

WAITING.

WAITING: I think you are just a wee bit fickle, my dear. And perhaps it is because you haven't met THE man yet. So don't lose heart. It is only by knowing a lot of people that you are enabled to eventually make the choice that makes for your future happiness.

Princess Mary is now the delighted owner of an eighteen months old Scotch Wolfhound, Patrick, which was received as a gift from the Irish Wolfhound Association, formed recently to preserve and develop the breed, which is now almost extinct, though in days gone by, a wolfhound was part of every Irish household.

"One thing my daughter must be told"

—Says a mother of today

The possibility of offending others is dreaded by thousands of women. Now a discovery which neutralizes odor in sanitary pads frees them from this fear.

HOWEVER carefully she may guard and advise, no mother can protect her daughter from self-consciousness at certain times. If she fears that she is offending others, good times are impossible; light-heartedness flees. That is why mothers and daughters both learn with relief about the latest process perfected by Kotex scientists: Each Kotex sanitary pad is now treated to end all odor. The fears that were once inevitable now disappear.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT

A blank is no language; only a dubious flag-signal which may mean either of two contradictories.

ELIOT.

HOOVER NERVOUS

The equanimity of the Hoover forces has been somewhat disturbed by the reports sent to Britain by the correspondents of the London Times and Herald. They give Smith a fighting chance. The immense registration of new voters—14,000,000 over the vote of 1924 makes almost anything possible. There is no question of the appeal that lies in the character and the record of Governor Smith. His brilliant legislative career as Governor of New York State and the remarkable list of reforms and progressive measures for which he has been responsible cannot be set aside, and sober minded men not carried away by sentiment or prejudice naturally look to such a man for needed reforms in the federal system with more hope than to one who is tied to the system that has done nothing for two presidential terms. Elections, however, do not always turn on the most important issues at stake, and the questions of religion and prohibition, which cannot be affected by the result of this election, may prove too great a handicap for Smith to overcome.

WANTED A "THRILL"

Police in Atlanta, Georgia, have arrested George Harsh, aged 18, and James Cologly, 18, students at Oglethorpe University. A confession has been made that the two were responsible for a number of burglaries in the city, in which a clerk in a grocery store and a druggist were done to death.

The reason given by Harsh is that in the evenings he desired to get a "thrill" out of the robberies.

We suppose his parents were sending him to university in order to prepare him for his life's work; he was in a school where he would get mental and physical training, but apparently that was not enough.

It was supposed that there would not be another lesson in existence who would talk about killing in order to get a "thrill" because that phrase has been used before; it has made its way into courts and it has been weighed and found lacking.

We wonder if the grocery clerk and the druggist felt quite a "thrill" when they were shot full of holes by this remarkable student.

What's wrong with the school where these young men are attending. Is there no leadership there that inspires to worthy things? Is there no atmosphere that arouses a vision of time well invested in manly occupation? Is there no "thrill" left in any of these things that could call and challenge these young men.

ABOUT SKYSCRAPERS

Berlin business men are debating an interesting question—shall or shall not the central hive of the nation be a skyscraper city? It is interesting to note that two world cities of Europe, London and Paris, have set their faces against skyscrapers. London opposes them for practical reasons. The soil of London is mainly sandy, and it is felt that build skyscrapers would entail danger, to say nothing of immense cost. The other big reason is London's continuous winter fogs. It is believed that cannon-like streets, such as in New York, would make London more gloomy than it is now, enhanced by the fact that in its financial district, the streets are very narrow. Paris is against skyscrapers Hamilton, Ont.

because the Pretuh are no beauty in them. They claim such buildings would spoil the ensemble. Berlin, with a population of 4,000,000 people is a busy world city in a country rapidly forging ahead in a business and industrial way but it finds its business district is overcrowded. Buildings are filled to overflowing and those who want to do business in certain districts can't find room. So one finds in 1928 that some of the leading business men of Berlin are clamoring for American skyscrapers, buildings from eight to fifteen stories in height. The men who want to Americanize their no easy task, however. City fathers say skyscrapers in the business section would only add to congestion that is already there, totaling out that in the evening employees pouring out on the streets would cause greater jams. The least determined of the opposition say skyscrapers should be allowed in limited numbers, but even then, they insist, they must be so constructed that to the centre there would be enormous courts, so that every room would have ample fresh air and light. Old ideas die hard. They have different viewpoints on the yon side of the Atlantic and, maybe they're right and we, on the hither side, wrong.

BILLBOARDS

An agreement between advertisers to abolish the use of big posters on highways, boulevards and other positions where they offend the eye and detract from the surroundings has been strongly urged at a recent meeting of advertisers in Toronto.

Such a proposal shows that the matter is being seriously considered by practical men. Until recently advertisers have not been in obvious sympathy with those of the general public who take more pleasure in looking at the beauties of nature and of architecture than in being reminded of some purchasable commodity that might, or might not, seem desirable to purchase at some other time.

Evidence is piling up in Great Britain, in the United States, and in Canada too, of a wider acceptance of the truth that natural beauty is of genuine importance, held in trust by us all from generation to generation, and not to be injured by individuals for their own real or expected benefit.

An ancient proverb has it that "All things have their place, knew we but how to us them." It is often the case that a billboard which defaces a landscape or a fine building in one location would detract from nobody's enjoyment and lose no advertising value if placed in another. There is actually a good deal of pictorial skill in the outdoor picture gallery, but it cannot stand up in competition where there is no background. There are, unfortunately, enough ugly places in our cities and on our highways where billboards might be an asset rather than a subject of criticism.

PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 20 years ago)

Mr. E. O. Sills, ex-M.P.P., returned yesterday from a visit to the north country.

Mr. W. H. Pearson, jr., of the Consumers' Gas Co., Toronto, was in the city on Saturday.

IN THE MORNING

Each sunrise shows creation ever new,
Another day is made for me and you.
Yesterday will come no more,
And today will soon be o'er,
Just a wave upon time's shore,
In the morning.

In the morning life is very real to me
And its glory all about me I can see;
Oh, the beauty of the hour,
With the dewdrops on the flower,
And the sense of mystic power
Of the morning!

In the morning you can see with more than eye
There's a soul behind the beauty in the sky;
Now your vision is so clear
That the distant all seems near,
And you feel that God is here,
In the morning.

H. H. McKINNEY.

The Queen has taken a stand against divorce and divorced persons. T. P. O'Connor in his new paper "Mainly About People" says, "The Queen intimates that she is totally averse to divorce under any circumstances whatsoever. Her Majesty is willing to admit that in no institution are there more people wronged than in marriage, nevertheless her belief is that an infinitely more satisfactory state would arise were marriage made indissoluble both by church and state."

LATEST ABOUT CANCER

Perhaps you are one of the many individuals who quite naturally wonder why, with millions of dollars at their disposal, these institutes for cancer research have not as yet found a cure for cancer.

Besides, you are aware that everywhere in the civilized world research men are patiently working on the problem.

Dr. O. E. Richards of Toronto, tells us that one of these cancer institutes alone, investigated 10,000 cures for cancer in one year. This certainly shows a readiness to investigate any claims made by research men or others. It also gives an idea of the amount of work done by these institutes.

The first international conference on cancer was held in England in July last, and 300 investigators representing 23 countries were in attendance.

The amount of work and study done in cancer was so vast that those in attendance were put in six different groups, according to the angle from which they were tackling the problem.

First, the pathologist, who studies effects of cancer on the tissue; second the medical man, who watches the symptoms of cancer; third, the surgeon who sees how early removal prevents a return of the growth; fourth the X-ray and radium specialists who show that this method is perhaps the most successful of all known methods of treatment; fifth, the statistics research man who has compiled all the figures on the number of cases of cancer, the apparent causes, the results of the different methods of treatment; and so forth; sixth, the public health official who sees the effects of cancer in his community.

And what was the result of this conference?

As yet, it was admitted, the cause of cancer is unknown.

As to treatment?

By the early use of surgery many cases were cured.

The greatest progress in the treatment is that by radium. The radium is confined in special needles which, while doing away with the harmful rays, permit the rays to penetrate the growth and cause its removal.

From 50 to 75 per cent of skin cancers are now being cured by this method.

BELLE THEATRE

"Love Me"—and the world is mine with this great cast starring Phillips Holmes, Lucy Doraine, Sheldon, Betty Compson Henry B. Walthall, Al Hall, Matthew Betz, Walter Pidgeon, Robert Anderson. The dashing brilliance of Maurice Chevalier, the singing comedian, the great director—with a "Merry Go Round" cast and story. Something that will be the greatest love story ever told! At Belle last time today.

REGENT

With something like a record packed safely up his slave, "Cameo Kirby" the dashing Mississippi River gambler, as portrayed by John Gilbert, comes to the Regent tomorrow. The whole picture reminds of the Douglas Fairbanks-Harry Leon Wilson stage success with a novel twist, everything that was expected of such a romantic, picturesque story. It's a worthy successor to "Beau Geste" for Gilbert, a big colorful young screen lover who rose to fame under the banner of William Fox. Two features.

You'll cheer, too, for Buzz Barton, Fox's boy of the whole world loves and he's at his fightin' best in this latest picture of his. Write for him and join the chorus of millions that is shouting his name. Two features.

Neuritis

Neuritis is an inflammation of a nerve which may attack any one of the nerves but when inflammation is involved it is known as multiple neuritis. When a nerve becomes inflamed the extensive nerve fibre that produces causes hyperaesthesia of the black nerve, which is a very peculiar sensation of serum rubbing the nerve fibre. Then the nerve cell eventually dries up and fibre nerve destroying and as a result of the degeneration of the nerve the control of the muscle which the nerve is disciplined becomes paralyzed.

An Osteopath can restore normal transmission of heat impulses to the affected nerve by removing the cause. When this is done the inflammation subsides, the nerve is relieved of pressure in which the nerve structure is repaired.

Crippled With Rheumatism 6 Months out of 9

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Make Him Feel Fine

Mrs. Fisher's experience is one that many sufferers should read, and then, as Mrs. Fisher did, Consult a Doctor. Could anyone want a better recommendation than Mrs. Fisher's?

Fisherville, Ont., Nov. 1st, 1928.

"I am glad to say Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done me a world of good. I was crippled with rheumatism for six months out of nine, and could get no relief. I had tried many remedies, but they were all useless. Then I got a box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and they relieved me at once. I am now feeling fine and am able to do my housework. I am glad to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to anyone suffering from rheumatism, as I know they are wonderful."

Mrs. Fisher's statement is only one of many. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are sold by all dealers at 50 cents per box, or from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

SOCIAL EVENING CANADIAN CLUB AT THE LEGION DONATED BOOKS

Ald. Geo. Reid And Rev. Geen Paid Tributes To Veterans

It is doubtful if ever before, has the Canadian Legion held a more successful gathering than that of last night. There were no long speeches to cause the listeners considerable fatigue, in the usual procedure, there were only two or three short addresses, and then two or three minutes in length and the remainder of the time was occupied with entertainment.

However, Alderman George Reid had a few more than lonely remarks to make. "It is ten years since the war has ended," he said, "but the names of those who died should never grow old. If there is anything I could ever do to help the Legion," he continued, "it would be a pleasure for me to do it. We wish to feel that Canadians are a part of the British Empire. We want to boost our country, and our country to beat the best of our ability."

And it was at this point that Alderman Reid had the pleasant duty to perform of presenting to Mr. William J. "Penny" Mills a wonderful gift, a three years' membership to the Canadian Legion. "Penny"—in a few short words, thanked the members of the Legion for the honour conferred upon him.

There were one or two other speakers last night, and R. Freeman Ketcheson and the Rev. A. L. Geen were included among these. Mr. Ketcheson told of some of his experiences during the war, and Mr. Geen described the life in Western Canada, and the wonderful crops there that Canada's west had been to him. Mr. Geen described Canada as a country with a future. It is a country worth fighting for. As Mr. Reid says, we ought to boost our country.

There was varied entertainment last night, in which Mrs. Dr. Hafner, the Howard brothers, and that inimitable entertainer, William Edwards all contributed to an evening's fun.

Delightful Tea Held In Bridge Street Community Hall

Yesterday afternoon the Women's Canadian Club entertained at a delightfully arranged tea in the Community Hall of Bridge St. Methodist Church. The interior of the rooms presented a very pretty appearance with the brightly burning grate fire occupying a place of prominence. The dainty tea table was decorated with fall Autumn flowers and tall tapers which cast their radiance in silver candlesticks. Mrs. C. P. C. Anderson, President of the Club, received the guests at the door with Mrs. Ireland and Mrs. Baker presided over the tea table. Mrs. Reevy and Mrs. Webster were assisted by Miss Wills and Miss Evans. As had been arranged each guest was to bring a book as a donation and well over one hundred books were received. These books will be forwarded to the headquarters of the Canadian Navy League for distribution among the ships, sailors and seafarers. The book was a novel one and proved most successful.

QUEEN'S PARADE WAS DAMPENED

Varsity Drenched, Tri-Colour After Trying To Smash Procession

The most harrowing thing the Queen's students could do on their victory parade for the King Edward Motel after the game was to go down a one-way street the wrong way—and they were led astray by three mounted policemen. It was a tame parade. Its total could not hardly exceeded one hundred, and they held difficulty in surpassing the yelling of three Varsity men, who walked down Yonge Street.

At the outset it looked as though the night would end well resulting in a figure of eight. The parade had hardly gone many feet until it came to a stop, decided to break up and demoralize the whole parade in front of the Royal Theatre. Evidence, they had, that there was no opposition, but the police thought otherwise. However, they were overruled by Chief Grasett, who ordered them to proceed. Then they fell into a corner of the parade and proceeded to redeem themselves. Cheers, songs, and "Rah! Varsity!" as they always have known to be successful for. They then kept up expectations and proceeded to do the fireman act. They poured some fifty gallons of Lake Ontario's purest and wettest into the milling mob from above. It had the desired effect. The parade went on, but not with such exhilerance.

They wended their way through Queen's Park, down University Ave., along Queen, down York, along Bay, beside the Parkside, and home to the King Edward. Throughout the procession their cheer leader, standing in the back of an autotic model of "coffee grinder," delivered stirring sermons to them on the art of, work, force, and gave up his thanks, to Queen's and also to the many of a few, who helped make the parade a success.

HOLDOUTS WORK WITH CHAMPIONS

Springfield, Mass.—With the official opening of the National Hockey League season less than three weeks in the offing, the world's champion New York Rangers are eagerly looking forward to Monday, when they will don the skates and take to the ice for the first time since they reported here for fall training.

Although still listed as "holdouts," Frank Boucher, "Dutch" Keeling and Paul Thomson have been going through their paces with the rest of the troupe. Col. John S. Hammond, president of the champions, is expected in Springfield tomorrow for conferences with his three recalcitrant players. It is not likely that he will experience any particular difficulty, with Keeling and Thompson, who have about decided to accept the contracts offered them, but he jumped into some trouble with Boucher, whom estimates as financial value to the Rangers this season is considerably in excess of what Col. Hammond believes it to be.

Myles Lane, former Dartmouth all-round star, who has been in Hanover training Yea Team as coaching attackfield of the big Green football eleven, has notified Manager Patrick that he will report in Springfield on Monday.

RECREATION BOWLING

At a meeting held at the Recreation Alleys last night the following were the officers elected for the ensuing season: Bowling League of the Arts, Wilson of the Hardware was elected President, and Pat Drumm of the Ponies, Secretary-Treasurer. The league this year comprises six teams as follows: Hardware, C. C., Ponies, Rivers, Kiwanis and Has Beens. On paper these teams are all evenly matched and there should be some keen competition all the way through. One of the most important changes in the senior league is that the team rolling the best score every week carries off the weekly prize; this should make the league better all the way through.

The following are the results of last night's league games at the Recreation Alleys. In the Ladies' League the Turn Ups won four points from the Clees, while the Tigers did the same thing to the Alemite.

Clees—Mr. Carmichael 375; J. Badgley 361; H. Little 359; Mrs. Irwin 362; M. Pitman 394. Total 1718.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer"

As cold weather approaches, dyed in-the-wool hockey fans of Belleville are beginning to wonder just what this city will do for hockey this year even though there is no intermediate or junior hockey. This city has had a successful City Hockey League for several seasons past and even that class of hockey is better than none at all. Perhaps the suggestion made in last column several weeks ago that Belleville Juniors organize with the Trenton Junior Club may not go bad after all. They have one or two players who are good, such as Norris Johnson, and their rink, while has only natural ice is far better than any Belleville team is able to produce. With the two Canning boys, Ben Scott and Johnson on the forward line, and the defence which either team had last year, the two teams should be able to go far in the Junior O. H. A. playdowns. We do not know what the Trenton Arena Association's views of this, but even though they do not agree the rink in Belleville should do would be to enter a team in the Junior O. H. A. and arrange to play their home games on the Trenton ice. A trip of twelve miles on the highway is not long even during the winter, and no doubt many Belleville fans as well as those from Trenton would turn out to see the games.

A hockey player well known to district fans who is heading west again is Douglas Brennan of Dave Lock. He was engaged a short time ago by Lester Patrick to play in the Pacific Coast League with either the Seattle or Vancouver teams. Brennan was with Winnipeg last winter.

Bert McLeod and Wilfrid Ranger of Peterborough's former senior O. H. A. champions will again be with Kansas City in the American Association this winter. They recently received their contracts and are due to report long the pre-season training about November 1. Ranger has gone west after quiting the ranks of bachelorhood. His wife will be with him during the winter in Kansas City. Their trip will be a honeymoon journey by leisurely stages, including a stop-over in Detroit. Herbie Ranger is the second of the famous Peterboro to take the plunge into matrimony this year, Abbie Rose having preceded him by a few weeks.—Peterborough Examiner.

RICKARD READY FOR NEW LEADER

Is Willing To Have High Commissioner For Boxing

New York, Oct. 29.—Having been head man in the boxing game for nearly a decade, Tex Rickard now is prepared to stoop to conquer.

The promoter, famed for his arrogant disregard of the authority of commissioners, confessed to the United Press late last night that he would be required by the authority of a high commissioner.

Rickard proposes the establishment of a "Judge Landis" of the smallpower sport, with arbitrary powers to settle disputes, recognize champions, fix prices and purses, and do those things which the high commissioner of baseball does for the national pastime, doubling season's prosperity.

It is a sign of the times in boxing that the first advance was a suggestion. It comes as an acknowledgment from the shrewdest man in the game that nothing can be regulated from a sporting point of view, rather than from a strictly financial viewpoint.

Since 1921, when he introduced the first "bout" of the century, at Boyle's Thirty Acres, at prices never equalled before or since, Rickard became the one-man show in boxing. Commissioners, local and national, have been helpless to regulate anything what they should do, but Tex paid the piper and called the tune.

When the New York state athletic commission tried to regulate the heavyweight situation during Jack Dempsey's championship days, its efforts were ludicrous. Dempsey talked only with Rickard and Rickard talked only with gold. Tex made the matches and champions and the line for him and grew rich thereby. The most recent effort of the National Boxing association demonstrated the utter lack of feasibility in the proposal for unified control, without the co-operation of New York. The repeated failures of the New York commissioners to impose their will upon Rickard demonstrated that nothing really real feasible in boxing except finance.

All Hallow's Eve

All Hallow's Eve—the eve of All Saints' day! I wonder how it is that all the witches, hobgoblins, elfins and all such imps of wickedness should be supposed to be let loose on that particular night. Yet so it is, but they don't seem to be very desperate characters — only mischievous.

Whether such gentry do infest that night or not, I am not prepared to state—if all depends on the company I am keeping— but I do know that it is a great night for parties — especially among the young people.

Personally, I have always been accustomed to a party on that night. It happened to be my mother's birthday, and as long as she lived we kept it up, though it was not generally observed in that part of England where we lived. I have been to a couple of Hallowe'en parties since coming to Canada, and I was glad to notice that a lot of the old games—such as bobbing for apples, etc.— still held good.

There was one game I missed, though, and that was what we called "fortune telling by nuts." Seeing that hazel nuts are plentiful this year, some people might like to have it.

Two nuts are chosen — a large one to represent the man and a smaller one to represent his sweetheart.

These two nuts are placed on the hot coals and all sit round to watch. (In England the nuts are placed on the fire bars, but with stoves this is not feasible. The first to begin to burn is the one who fell in love first. The one that burns the longest is the one that is going to live the longest. Should one burst and jump away, it is a sign they are going to quarrel. I have seen a great deal of amusement got out of this simple game. Sometimes new partners were added as one died out or jumped away. It filled up quite a piece of the evening, too, for everybody had to "try their fate," and as we seldom had more than two couples on the fire at once it took some time to get round the whole company.

I always liked it to be a cold, windy night as being more in keeping with the spirit of the thing. Do not witches ride their highest on their broom when the moon is full and the wind whistles shrill, while the clouds go scurrying across the sky? It is just the sort of night, too, when cats—particularly black ones— assemble on roof-tops and rub their sleek sides against the chimney tops. We had a black cat once who always went out on the wild night — but that's another story. If you want to thoroughly enjoy Hallowe'en just let your imagination have full sway, be prepared to enjoy the few hours' mirth and merriment, "break away" like this are good for us all, especially in a fall like this when the days seem to have conspired against the harvesting of crops of all sorts.

We had a say, too, of finishing our party which I have not met here. This was with the old English dance, "Sir Roger de Coverley."

Everyone stood up for this dance from the oldest to the youngest; it being a dance that not even the most fastidious could object to.

At its conclusion, the whole company is standing in two rows facing one another, so that it is a simple matter to link hands around and conclude with the time-honored "Should auld acquaintance be forgot."

Jam, tangoes, blues, one-steps, two-steps all have their day, but, to my mind, there's nothing like the All Hallow's Eve party, especially in the country where there is every prospect
